Keith Hill: The reasons for the decision was a lack of confidence that there was effective management of costs or timetable and that the project did not represent value for money. The evidence was:

substantial overrun in the procurement timetable

four-fold increase in the funding requirement (£119 million in PFI credits in 2005 up from £30 million in 2000)

a large part of the negotiations were with a single bidder the possibility of further cost increases contract signature.

The project still has an allocation of £55 million PFI funding available.

Officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister are working with Camden on the way forward.

Matthew Green: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what estimate he has made of the costs incurred by (a) the London borough of Camden and (b) his Department in the four years of preparatory development work on the Decent Homes Standard private finance initiative in that authority. [223286]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has made no estimate of these costs. The London borough of Camden estimated that it had spent £1.6 million on preparing for the housing private finance initiative (PFI) scheme for the Chalcots Estate in its press release on 23 February this year. We do not apportion costs to individual PFI casework.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to his answer of 26 January 2005, Official Report, column 433W, on council housing, how much of the £2,687 million generated from the sale of council housing in those areas in 2003–04 with-debt local authorities (a) were required to set aside and (b) were allowed to use. [223298]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister does not hold information on the value of housing capital receipts set-aside in 2003–04 as a result of Right To Buy disposals.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Auditors

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Solicitor-General what assessment she has made of the implications for UK audit practices of European Court of Justice Case C-255/01, reference OJ C300 vol 47 of 4 December 2004, with particular reference to equivalence of professional qualifications for professional auditors dealing with European Community funds. [207105]

The Solicitor-General: The Department of Trade and Industry has taken up the issues raised by the case with the European Commission in the context of the new proposed 8th Company Law Directive on Statutory Audit of Annual Accounts and Consolidated Accounts. It hopes to resolve these issues, which could potentially affect a small number of auditors in the UK and from other EU member states, in this context.

Crown Prosecution Service

Mr. Pickthall: To ask the Solicitor-General how many complaints were received by her Department about decisions of the Crown Prosecution Service in 2004. [218708]

The Solicitor-General: The Legal Secretariat to the Law Officers established a correspondence unit on 1 November 2004 to handle the large amount of correspondence it receives.

It is not possible to ascertain with any degree of accuracy what proportion of the correspondence received relates to complaints about CPS decisions. Individual files would have to be checked for content which would incur disproportionate costs.

Mr. Pickthall: To ask the Solicitor-General what records are kept of the proportion of cases submitted by the police to the Crown Prosecution Service that are deemed not to have a realistic prospect of successful prosecution. [218709]

The Solicitor-General: Since April 2004, the Crown Prosecution Service has recorded, for each case subject to a pre-charge decision in which the final decision was not to prosecute, the reason for that decision. Table 1 shows this information for the period April-December 2004, divided into evidential reasons and public interest reasons, together with the more exact reason allocated within each of these general categories.

Similarly, the Crown Prosecution Service records the reason for its decision to drop prosecutions after a defendant has been charged. This information is shown at Table 2, which covers the period January-December 2004. As well as cases in which either evidential or public interest reasons weighed against a prosecution, Table 2 also shows the number of cases in which a prosecution could not proceed, for example because the victim retracted or refused to give evidence, and a number of other reasons.

On both tables cases deemed not to have a realistic prospect of conviction are those shown under evidential reasons.

My Office has not released information which we have judged exempt from disclosure under the Act, notably but not exclusively in relation to Sections 23 (information supplied by or related to bodies dealing with security matters), 27 (international relations), 35 (formulation or development of Government policy, including the specific exemption at Section 33(1)(c) for Law Officers' advice) and 42 (legal professional privilege).

HOME DEPARTMENT

Airguns

Jeff Ennis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) injuries and (b) deaths have been reported as a direct result of airgun incidents in each of the last eight years. [221784]

Caroline Flint: Statistics on the number of crimes recorded by the police in which an air weapon was reported to have caused injury are contained in Table 2.06 of Home Office Statistical Bulletin 02/05 'Crime in England and Wales 2003–04: Supplementary Volume 1: Homicide and Gun Crime'. Table 2b of that publication gives the available statistics on fatal injuries reported to have been caused by an air weapon. Copies of this publication are available in the Library and it is also available on the Home Office website at: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs05/hosb0205.pdf

Civil Servants

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many civil servants worked at (a) Prison Service headquarters, (b) Probation headquarters and (c) National Offender Management Service headquarters on 31 December 2004; what the estimated numbers are for 31 December 2005; and if he will make a statement. [220390]

Paul Goggins: The new National Offender Management Service (NOMS) headquarters, alongside the National Probation Directorate and the Prison Service headquarters, is being redesigned. Comparable information on staff numbers across all three headquarters on 31 December 2004 is not available; but on 22 November 2004 there were 641 full-time equivalent posts in NOMS headquarters, 2,250 in Prison Service headquarters, and 305 in the National Probation Directorate. The number of civil servants within each total is not separately identified.

A proposal, including the allocation of staff to directorates, has been put forward to staff and trade unions for their comments.

The new headquarters is being planned for April 2005, and I will write to my hon. and learned Friend once the design of the new headquarters has been agreed.

National Offender Management Service

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what functions within the National Offender Management Service were not previously carried out by either the prison or probation services; and if he will make a statement. [220473]

Paul Goggins: The National Offender Management Service (NOMS) has been established within the existing legislative framework of the Prison and Probation Services. While NOMS has no new statutory functions, a provision in the recently published Management of Offenders and Sentencing Bill will establish sentence planning and review as a core offender management function.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff working for the National Offender Management Services (NOMS) are situated at (a) NOMS headquarters, (b) Prison Service headquarters and (c) Probation Service headquarters. [220475]

Paul Goggins: The Prison Service headquarters and the National Probation Directorate both form parts of the National Offender Management Service.

The new National Offender Management Service headquarters, alongside the Prison Service and Probation Service headquarters, is being redesigned. A proposal, including the allocation of staff to Directorates, has been put forward to staff and trade unions for their comments. The new headquarters is being planned for April 2005 and I will write to the hon. Member once the design of the new headquarters has been agreed.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff have been transferred from (a) Her Majesty's Prison Service and (b) the Probation Service to the National Offender Management Service. [220478]

Paul Goggins: The new National Offender Management Service (NOMS) headquarters, alongside the Prison Service and Probation Service headquarters, is being redesigned. A proposal, including the allocation of staff to directorates, has been put forward to staff and trade unions for their comments. The new headquarters is being planned for April 2005.

It is intended to effect formal staff transfers from the Prison Service and from the National Probation Directorate into NOMS headquarters on 31 March. I will write to the hon. Member once the design of the new headquarters has been agreed.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff based at (a) Prison Service and (b) Probation Service Headquarters work for the National Offender Management Service. [220516]

Paul Goggins: The Prison Service headquarters and the National Probation Directorate both form parts of the National Offender Management Service.

The new National Offender Management Service headquarters, alongside the Prison Service and Probation Service headquarters, is being redesigned. A proposal, including the allocation of staff to Directorates, has been put forward to staff and trade unions for their comments. The new headquarters is being planned for April 2005 and I will write to my hon. Friend once the design of the new headquarters has been agreed.

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has for developing the responsibilities of regional offender managers under the National Offender Management Service; and what the timetable is for that development. [218794]

Paul Goggins: Regional Offender Managers (ROMs) will be key figures in the line of accountability running from those actually managing offenders to the National Offender Manager. They will have a crucial role to play in commissioning services needed to reduce re-offending.

ROMs are already working with local probation boards in establishing the offender management model for community sentences and overseeing the separation of offender management and interventions within probation areas. Budgets for 2006–07 for offender management in probation areas will be agreed by the ROMs; budgets for 2006–07 for public sector intervention services in probation areas will be agreed by the director of probation and the ROMs; budget allocation for prisons for 2006–07 within each NOMS region will be agreed by the director general of prisons and the ROMs. The ROMs are working with a range of stakeholders to put in place regional reducing re-offending strategies during 2005

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what administrative support there will be for regional offender managers in each regional area under the National Offender Management Service structure. [218795]

Paul Goggins: The Regional Offender Managers will initially have two staff to provide administrative support. As their role and responsibilities grow, the staffing requirements will be reviewed.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the effects of the introduction of the National Offender Management Service on (a) the level of centralised control, (b) community engagement and (c) accountability in the Probation Service. [222508]

Paul Goggins: The establishment of the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) now provides clear leadership and accountability for the performance of all the correctional services and for reducing re-offending. The effectiveness of the service will depend upon relationships between NOMS and its various partners at the local, regional and national level. This is a key feature of the feasibility work currently under way on organisational models for NOMS.

In addition, the creation of NOMS offers a unique opportunity to sustain and expand existing community sector work with offenders. A draft strategy "The Role of the Voluntary and Community Sector in the National Offender Management Service" has recently been published for consultation and is available on the Home Office website.

Mrs. Helen Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) where each regional offender manager will be based; and if he will make a statement; [221580]

(2) what work has been undertaken to identify possible office sites for each of the regional offender managers; and if he will make a statement. [221581]

Paul Goggins: It is intended that the offices for the Regional Offender Managers will provide the best possible access for their region, and deliver best value for money. They may be co-located with other parts of the National Offender Management Service, other government offices or at new locations.

Mrs. Helen Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the estimated annual cost is for the operation of the Office of the National Offender Manager; and if he will make a statement. [221583]

Paul Goggins: The budget for the Office of the National Offender Manager (not including the budgets for the Regional Offender Managers) for 2005–06 is yet to be finalised but the indicative budget for 2005–06 has been set at £0.214 million resource.

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letter dated 8 December 2004 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mrs. Ayesha Siddiqui. [212276]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 3 February 2005, Official Report, column 1008W.

Mr. Charles Clarke: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 1 February 2005, Official Report, column 823W.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letter dated 30 December 2004 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mr. Dwight Swanson. [217047]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 85W.

Criminal Cases Review Commission

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made in enabling the Criminal Cases Review Commission (a) to obtain documents and information from abroad and (b) to interview witnesses overseas. [218713]

Paul Goggins: This issue has been considered, but there is currently no statutory basis on which the Criminal Cases Review Commission can request evidence from overseas. Legislation would therefore be required.

Cycling

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 1 March 2004, Official Report, column 1098W, on cycling, if he will make it his policy to record centrally how many cyclists involved in road accidents were reported as cycling without lights. [221684]

Mr. Jamieson: I have been asked to reply.

Personal injury road accident data in Great Britain are collected by the police and reported to the Department for Transport using the STATS 19 accident report format. From the 1 January 2005 the police were asked to record contributory factors to road accidents as part of the STATS 19 form. Among the factors included are "Impairment or Distraction—Not displaying lights at night or in poor visibility" and "Impairment or Distraction—Cyclist wearing dark clothing at night". The contributory factor data will become available in the summer of 2006.

Dangerous Driving

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects to make available the resources needed to implement the Government's policy of increasing the maximum penalty for dangerous driving from two to five years' imprisonment. [222348]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The Government have a commitment arising from the Review of Road Traffic Penalties to increase the maximum penalty for dangerous driving.

It is our intention to implement this measure as part of a package of measures arising from the Consultation on the Review of Road Traffic Offences involving Bad Driving. This Consultation paper was published on 3 February and the consultation exercise will close on 6 May.

The funding for, and implementation of, this package will be agreed once the assessment of the consultation has been completed later this year.

Departmental Contracts

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many contracts in his Department have been granted to (a) EDS, (b) Fujitsu and (c) EDS and Fujitsu jointly in each of the last two years; whether they were open to competition; for what they were granted; for how much, and over what period of time; and if he will make a statement. [211620]

Fiona Mactaggart: (a) The Home Office has not awarded any contracts to EDS in the financial years 2002–03, 2003–04 or 2004-YTD.

(b) Information held by the Home Office on contracts awarded to Fujitsu in the financial years 2002–03, 2003–04 and 2004-YTD is as follows:

NCIS awarded two consultancy contracts to Fujitsu following a competitive tender exercise under the OGC S-CAT Framework Agreement. Details are as follows:

April 2002-September 2003 Project Mercury—which was a project to deliver the roll out of windows 2000 across NCIS. The total amount of expenditure over the period with Fujitsu for their delivery of services to the project was £597,375.

A feasibility study for a fire arms tracking database over 2002–03 was commissioned but this was funded via Concerted Inter-agency Drug Action (CIDA) totalling £32,630. (three month project February 2003-April 2003)

The Commercial Directorate placed two orders for various IT hardware via the G-CAT framework on behalf of the National Technical Assistance Centre (NTAC):

21 October 2002. Total value including VAT: £92,217.

01 July 2003. Total value including VAT: £6,286.

The Commercial Directorate awarded a consultancy contract for the production of Test and Validation Strategy for Mental Health Unit (MHU) Case-working Application on behalf of the Information Management and Technology Unit (IMTU). This was competed via the S-CAT framework, details are as follows:

Purchase Order: PO4390201 Award of contract: 07 September 2004 Delivery on/by 15 September 2004

Total value including VAT: £9,743.

The Commercial Directorate placed an order for various IT hardware via the Suspect Index (S.I.) Supply Agreement on behalf of the Immigration and Nationality Directorate (IND). Details are as follows:

Total value including VAT: £675,042.

The Prison Service awarded a contract for the provision of IT equipment and software for the Prison Service's Technical Architects Solution Centre in 2004–05. The total cost was £35,000 and was procured through a competition with G-Cat suppliers.

(c) The Home office did not grant any joint contracts to EDS and Fujitsu in the financial years 2002–03, 2003–04 or 2004-YTD.

Departmental Dress Code

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his Department's policy is on the wearing of the kirpan by Sikh employees. [222540]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The Criminal Justice Act 1988 makes it an offence for a person in a public place to have a bladed or sharply pointed article—other than a small folding pocket knife—without good reason. The onus is on the knife carrier to show they have a good reason for carrying it. However, the Act exempts Sikhs from criminal prosecution on the ground that the kirpan is a religious article. Article 13 of the Treaty of Amsterdam and the Human Rights Act also protect the right of individuals to follow their chosen religion.

Sikh employees are permitted to wear the kirpan.

Drug Treatment and Testing Orders

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what research he has commissioned on the variation in the rate of successful completion of drug treatment and testing orders between participants maintained on (a) methadone and (b) buprenorphine in (i) Somerset and (ii) England. [222527]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Unfortunately, this information cannot be provided as there are no records held centrally relating to this research.

However, in April 2005 The National Treatment Agency (NTA) will publish detailed information on clients in structured drug treatment during 2003–04. Although, not relating specifically to Drug Treatment and Testing Orders (DTTO) this research will give an accurate overview of the completion rates of individuals who have been engaged in different types of drug treatment and will include those on DTTOs.

Drugs Crime (Leeds)

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many drug dealers have been prosecuted in (a) Leeds and (b) Leeds West in the last 12 months; and how many of these were part of Operation Crackdown. [222238]

Caroline Flint: Data on drug offenders are collected at police force area only and are therefore not available in the format requested. The most recent Drug Offenders statistics, relating to 2003, were published on 1 March 2005 and are available on the Home Office website.

Operation Crackdown was launched on 10 January 2005 and in this limited timeframe few of the people arrested and charged as a result of the operation will have completed their passage through the criminal justice system. Information on prosecutions following Operation Crackdown is therefore not available.

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many drug dealers from (a) Leeds and (b) Leeds West have been jailed in each of the last 10 years, broken down by type of drug; and if he will make a statement. [222246]

Caroline Flint: Information on the number of offenders receiving custodial sentences for dealing offences is only available for England and Wales as a whole and not for individual constituencies. Data on trends in the number of drug dealers in England and Wales being imprisoned between 1994 and 2003 are provided in the table.

Number of persons imprisoned for specified drug dealing offences in England and Wales, 1994 to 2003

	Unlawful supply	Possession with intent to supply
1995	1,750	2,980
1996	2,460	3,730
1997	2,790	4,170
1998	2,930	4,100
1999	1,830	3,830
2000	2,780	3,530

Number of persons imprisoned for specified drug dealing offences in England and Wales, 1994 to 2003

	Unlawful supply	Possession with intent to supply
2001	2,690	3,500
2002	2,710	3,270
2003	2,890	3,480

Escaped Prisoners

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many prisoners who absconded from Kirkham open prison in 2004 remain unlawfully at large. [205628]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 20 December 2004]: 158 prisoners absconded from Kirkham open prison in 2004. Of these, 17 remain unlawfully at large.

HMP The Weare

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on the future of HMP The Weare. [219709]

Paul Goggins: The decision about the future of HMP The Weare was announced on 9 March.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the cost of carrying out the maintenance and repairs to HM Prison Weare which would ensure it received its next certificate of seaworthiness. [222535]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Work to refit and repaint HMP The Weare was in the existing maintenance programme and was scheduled to begin later this year. This work had been estimated to cost around £1.1 million and was due to be completed in time for the next inspection for the certificate of seaworthiness in May 2006. This work is now on hold as a result of the announcement to close HMP The Weare.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the maintenance costs for HM Prison Weare were in each year since 1997. [222536]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The maintenance costs for The Weare prison since 1997 are comprised of three discrete elements; the vessel-specific facilities management contract, local maintenance allocation and other major maintenance costs. The first two can be broken down as follows:

£000

	Facilities management	Local maintenance[1]
1997–98	[2]187	[2]129
1998–99	[2]187	129
1999–2000	187	129
2000–01	192	129
2001–02	198	129
2002–03	219	129
2003–04	251	129
2004–05	257	129

[1] Has been increased in certain years through allocation from Prison Service area funding.
[2] Actual figures estimated as not readily available.

There have also been other major maintenance requirements at The Weare since 1997. These include re-painting, preservation work, a link span modification and the refit for the previous sea-worthiness certificate. In total these maintenance costs were in the order of £1 million over this period.

Adolescent Rehabilitation

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what sources of Government funding other than National Offender Management Services regional funding are available for (a) the Centre for Adolescent Rehabilitation and (b) other organisations undertaking similar work in support of Government objectives. [220525]

Paul Goggins: The Centre for Adolescent Rehabilitation (C-FAR) has had central grant funding of £720,000 committed by the Home Office.

In 2001 £20,000 was provided towards the cost of evaluation. In 2002 and 2003 £150,000 was provided in grant each year and in 2004 a grant of £400,000 was agreed, with £250,000 to be paid in 2004–05 and, a further £150,000 in 2005–06. C-FAR has also received funding from Supporting People, which is a central Government fund administered through the Devon county council and from housing benefit. C-FAR has also applied for or planned to apply for funding from the Learning and Skills Council (Department for Education and Skills and Jobcentre Plus (Department for Work and Pensions), the Safer and Stronger Communities Fund (Office of the Deputy Prime Minister) and the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs has a grant programmes for organisations working in rural areas.

Other organisations undertaking similar work in support of Government objectives working on a regional basis would be eligible to apply for funding from most of the above sources. The exception would be NOMS central funding as organisations working at a regional or local level would normally be expected toapply for funding from the prison or probation service regionally or locally.

Persistent Offenders

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what action his Department is taking to target persistent offenders. [222552]

Paul Goggins: The Prolific and other Priority Offenders (PPO) Strategy is at the heart of the Government's efforts to reduce crime and disorder.

This strategy, which was launched by the Prime Minister in March last year, looks to target not only existing prolific offenders but also those young people who are on the cusp of a prolific offending lifestyle. The strategy has three strands:

prevent and deter—to stop young people becoming prolific offenders; catch and convict—tackling those who are already prolific offenders; and rehabilitate and resettle—working to increase the number of offenders who stop offending by offering a range of supportive interventions.

This multi-agency approach to offender management built on, and replaced, the previous persistent offender scheme. Since September 2004 PRO schemes have been established across all parts of England and Wales. These schemes allow local partners, like the police, prisons and probation to concentrate their joint efforts on monitoring and rehabilitating the relatively small number of people who have been identified locally as causing most harm to their communities and to themselves.

Over 9,000 existing prolific offenders have been identified by schemes across England and Wales. In addition, around 5,000 young people have been identified as suitable for support as part of the prevent and deter strand.

Prisons

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what average weekly pay was available to prisoners serving a prison sentence was in England and Wales in 2003–04; and if he will make a statement. [218206]

Paul Goggins: This information is not held centrally and can only be obtained at disproportional cost. It is for Governors to set the rates of pay for their establishment, against national criteria and minimum rates of pay, in a way that reflects their regime priorities.

These rates are set out in Prison Service Order 4460. The minimum employed rate of pay is £4 per week.

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on recent incidents of prisoners absconding from HMP Prescoed; whether any of them were sex offenders; whether each has been recaptured; and whether any committed offences while out of prison. [221876]

Paul Goggins: Since 1 October 2004 three prisoners have absconded from Frescoed prison. One prisoner, who absconded on 6 October 2004, was a sex offender and was recaptured the next day without having committed any offences. Two prisoners absconded on 25 February 2005. Neither was a sex offender, and one has been recaptured. There is no indication that the recaptured prisoner committed any further offence.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his estimate is of expenditure per person on lunches for prisoners being held in prisons in England in each year from 1991–92 to 2005–06; what proportion of the food utilised was UK produce in each year; and if he will make a statement. [222147]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The following table shows the best estimated figures for daily food costs per prisoner in public sector prisons, based on average national figures. Information relating to the daily food costs in private sector prisons is not collated.

Financial year	Average public sector prisons daily food (cost per prisoner) (£)	Estimated public sector prisons daily lunch (cost per prisoner) (pence)
1993–94	1.28	51
1994–95	1.35	54
1995–96	1.38	55
1996–97	1.41	56
1997–98	1.43	57
1998–99	1.44	58
1999–2000	1.46	58
2000–01	1.64	66
2001–02	1.74	70
2002–03	1.72	69
2003–04	1.81	72
2004–05	1.82	73
2005–06	[1]	[1]

[1] Not known.

No discrete data are held for the period in question on the proportion of food provided in prisoners' lunches that is produced in the United Kingdom. The majority of food supplied (representing a fund of £38.1 million) is purchased from centrally-arranged contracts awarded to manufacturers and distributors. It is not possible to define the proportion of UK-produced food incorporated in prisoner's lunches, as products purchased include a combination of food, raw materials and packaging.

Key product areas included in the £38.1 million fund include frozen food and meat, fresh and UHT milk, bread, fresh salad, fruit and vegetables. Of these, 100 per cent. of eggs, bread, milk and potatoes and 80 per cent. of root crops are UK-produced.

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the 2004–05 budget is for prison education; what the budgets are for each year until 2007–08; and if he will make a statement. [222671]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The Department for Education and Skills has a specified and non-transferable budget for offenders' learning and skills of £136 million in 2004–05, which rises to £152.5 million for each of the years 2005–06, 2006–07 and 2007–08. This covers learning and skills in prison as well as for offenders in the community.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what levels of drug use in prisons have been in each of the last five years. [220920]

Paul Goggins: The best measure of overall drug misuse in prisons in England and Wales is provided by the random mandatory drug testing (RMDT) programme. The following table sets out aggregate figures for prisoners who have tested positive under the programme in each of the last five financial years.

	Percentage of positive readings from randomly tested prisoners
2001–02	11.6
2002–03	11.7
2003–04	12.5

Probation

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what changes in the role of the probation service he expects there to be by 2007. [221252]

Paul Goggins: The role of the National Probation Service is clearly reflected in the Management of Offenders and Sentencing Bill currently before Parliament, which will, for the first time, provide a formal link between the role of the probation and prison services. The Bill clearly states that the aims of the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) are:

(a) The protection of the public;

(b) The reduction of re-offending;

(c) The proper punishment of offenders;

(d) Ensuring offenders' awareness of the effects of crime on victims and the public;

(e) The rehabilitation of offenders.

The prisons and probation services are developing the core offender management function, which will improve the management of offenders moving between custody and community supervision, and are preparing themselves for future introduction of contestability. These changes to the current role of the National Probation Service will serve to break down the current organisational barriers identified in the Cater Report between prisons and probation and therefore contribute to reductions in re-offending, which has been at the centre of the work of the National Probation Service since its creation in 2001.

Sentencing Guidelines Council

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Sentencing Guidelines Council has begun considering the establishment of mechanisms for the independent assessment of prevalence. [222651]

Paul Goggins: The Sentencing Guidelines Council has no plans to set up any mechanism for the independent assessment of prevalence. This issue would form part of the sentencing argument in each particular case taking into account the guideline on seriousness.

That guideline states that generally the seriousness of an individual case should be judged on its own dimensions of harm and culpability rather than as part of a collective social harm. There may be exceptional local circumstances that arise which may lead a court to decide that prevalence should influence sentencing levels. But the guideline says that it is essential that sentencers both have supporting evidence from an external source (for example the local Criminal Justice Board) to justify claims that a particular crime is prevalent in their area and are satisfied that there is a compelling need to treat the offence more seriously than elsewhere. Sentencers must sentence within the guidelines once the prevalence has been addressed.

Prison Population

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether it is the Department's policy to seek a reduction in the prison population. [213346]

Paul Goggins: The Government have not set any target for the size of the prison population. The recently published population projections indicate that we expect the prison numbers to increase over the next five years and prison places will rise to 80,000.

Sexual Assault Referral Centres

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to increase the numbers of sexual assault referral centres in England and Wales. [215574]

Paul Goggins: £4 million of additional funding has been identified to support services for the victims of sexual offences in 2004–05 and 2005–06.

A portion of this money will be used to assist with the establishment of new Sexual Assault Referral Centres (SARCs) and the development of services in existing centres; this brings the total number of SARCs to 15. The areas benefiting from the funding available in this financial year was announced on Tuesday 22 February 2005.

Stop it Now! Surrey

Mr. Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will reintroduce funding for Stop it Now! Surrey. [222167]

Paul Goggins: The national probation directorate has been the principal funder since 2001–02 for the Surrey Stop It Now! helpline. The nationally agreed pilot project funding will come to an end as planned on 31 March. Stop It Now! Surrey have been advised that they should put in place alternative funding arrangements in line with other comparable local Stop It Now! projects and the recommendations of an independent evaluation by de Montfort university that they should build local strategic partnerships to further the development and funding of area based projects.

Exceptionally, national probation directorate have advised Stop It Now! Surrey that continuation funding of more than £250,000 will continue to be available for the year 2005–06 to cover the costs of the national helpline service, but the Home Office is unable to provide further grant aid contribution to the local project once the pilot phase has ended.

Witness Prepartion

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how his Department monitors the methods used by witness preparation companies contracted to his Department; [220931]

(2) what publicly-funded pre-trial training to witnesses in court cases entails; and how his Department ensures the prevention of witness contamination; [220932]

(3) which witness preparation companies have contracts with his Department. [220933]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 8 March 2005]: The Home Department has no contracts with witness preparation companies to provide pre-trial training to witnesses in court cases. It does fund Victim Support's Witness Service through Grant-in-aid, but this is to provide practical and emotional support to witnesses; the Witness Service does not discuss a witness's evidence.

Witness Statements

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make it his policy (a) to allow a witness to submit the text of a witness statement to the police by e-mail and (b) to make amendments to it by e-mail prior to the witness attending a police station to sign the final document. [208275]

Paul Goggins: Section 9 of the Criminal Justice Act 1967 sets out the requirements that a witness statement must fulfil in order to be admissible in court. These include that it must be signed by the maker and contain a declaration by the maker that it is true to the best of his knowledge and belief. There is no provision in the Act governing the method or means by which that written statement is arrived at. As a matter of law, therefore, there is nothing to constrain police forces from adopting a policy whereby the text of a statement could be submitted or amended by e-mail.

Such an approach would however usually be inadvisable and inappropriate where a statement was likely to be challenged in court, which is the majority of cases. For example, a police officer may need to interview a witness in person to find out whether an offence has actually been committed and the legal elements. The process of interview also enables the officer to assess the quality of the evidence which a witness would be likely to give in court and inform the prosecutor as may be necessary. Finally, it could be difficult for the police to assess whether statements given by e-mail were influenced by pressure or intimidation exerted on a witness by the alleged offender or their associates.

Young Offenders

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the contribution of the Centre for Adolescent Rehabilitation to meeting Government targets for the reduction of reoffending rates among young adult offenders. [220527]

Paul Goggins: C-FAR offer a residential training programme for young adult male offenders. It received £520,000 in funding from the Home Office between 2002 and 2004, of which £20,000 was towards evaluation. A further £150,000 was committed to support places on the programme in 2005–06. 262 trainees have entered C-FAR's Life Change programme since June 2000. C-FAR estimates that about 50 per cent. have not re-offended within a two years of conviction. However, C-FAR's figures have not been substantiated by independent research.

There have been two independent evaluations of C-FAR. The first concluded that due to low numbers of trainees it was not possible to confirm C-FAR's claim. The second was an ethnographic evaluation and the researchers did not look at rates of re-offending among the group studied.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Crosshill Quarry

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on what date the railway carriages were relocated within Crosshill Quarry in Crumlin, County Antrim. [221616]

Angela Smith: The Department of the Environment does not have specific dates when the 18 railway carriages were relocated within Crossbill Quarry. The contractors intended to complete this work during November and December 2003. However, I understand that, once work had commenced it was found that the weight of the waterlogged carriages required them to be cut into three sections to facilitate their movement and relocation. As a result, the work took longer than originally anticipated. Departmental staff visited the site on 13 February 2004 and recorded that the work was complete.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether any release of asbestos at Crosshill Quarry was notified by the site operator to (a) the Health and Safety Executive, (b) the Environment and Heritage Service and (c) Antrim borough council. [221618]

Angela Smith: The Health and Safety Executive, the Environment and Heritage Service and Antrim borough council have not been notified by the site operator of any release of asbestos at Crosshill Quarry.

Employment Support Programme

Mr. Donaldson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when future funding will be available for the Employment Support Programme for people with disabilities in Northern Ireland to access supported employment. [222870]

Mr. Gardiner: The Employment Support Scheme was closed to new applicants from September to December 2004. Existing participants were not affected. The Scheme re-opened to new applicants from January 2005.

Further Education Colleges

Mr. Donaldson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to consult on the review of area based further education colleges in Northern Ireland. [222871]

Mr. Gardiner: The position remains the same as advised in my earlier response of 17 January 2005—the Department for Employment and Learning published its proposals for the future of further education in Northern Ireland in March 2004. Consultation on those proposals was completed in June 2004 and found firm support for the creation of a smaller number of area based colleges, linking the existing campuses. In taking forward these proposals the Department has commissioned further work on those aspects of the proposals that relate to the future size and structure of the FE sector. The outcome of this further work will be presented to a steering group comprised of representatives of further education colleges. In the light of the above I will be considering how best to engage with the local representatives on how the proposed changes may be best implemented.

Grammar Schools

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will introduce measures similar to those adopted in England to allow parents of pupils attending primary schools which are feeder schools of a local grammar school to vote on whether they wish the principle of academic selection for admission to the grammar school to be retained. [223271]

Mr. Gardiner: There are no plans to introduce similar measures.

After 2008–09, the current system of academic selection at age 11 will be replaced by a system of informed parental and pupil choice. Grammar schools will continue to exist and to offer an academic curricular emphasis.

National Assets

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 2 February 2005, Official Report, columns 1000–02W, on national assets, what his estimate is of the net receipts that each department will gain from the disposal of assets in each of the next three financial years. [217056]

Mr. Pearson: The following table provides a current estimate of the net receipts that the Northern Ireland Office and the 11 Northern Ireland Departments will gain from the disposal of assets in each of the next three financial years.

	Financial year
Department	2005–06	2006–07	2007–08
NIO		3,600
DARD	1,223	70	—
DCAL	13	—	—
DE		8
DEL	—	—	1,000
DETI	—	—	—
DFP	220	1,901	—
DHSSPS	3,015	6,820	430
DOE	—	—	—
DRD	—	—	—
DSD
OFMDFM	[1]—	—	—

[1] It is proposed that the former Royal Irish Regiment base in Magherafelt will be disposed of within the public sector hence no receipts will be generated.

I regret that in my previous answer, the number of vehicles recorded for the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development was incorrect. The Department intends to dispose of four vehicles in total (one Landrover and three Renault vans) and not eight as previously shown.

Primary/Secondary Education

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what estimate he has made of the number of post-primary schools in Northern Ireland which are capable of meeting the proposed Entitlement Framework set out in the Costello Report. [223224]

Mr. Gardiner: It is not the intention that individual schools should offer access to the full Entitlement Framework entirely on their own, though a few may be capable of doing so. Rather, schools will need to develop arrangements to collaborate with other schools and with the Further Education sector so as to provide enhanced choice. The Entitlement Framework will be introduced on a phased basis to allow schools time to develop the necessary collaboration.

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the total cost was of producing the Costello Report on post-primary education in Northern Ireland. [223229]

Mr. Gardiner: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the reply I gave the hon. Member for Strangford (Mrs. Robinson) on 22 February 2005, Official Report, column 577W.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland why primary school profiles currently being tested in the Province exclude academic ability and potential. [221769]

Mr. Gardiner: A Pupil Profile will be completed each year for each child throughout their primary and post-primary education, replacing the current Annual Pupil Report. It will provide clear and objective information about a pupil's progress and achievements across a range of curricular areas, including Literacy, Numeracy and ICT, an assessment of their attitude to learning, their aptitude for learning and their particular interests, and indicate areas for development and future learning. The information in the Pupil Profile will be based on ongoing teacher assessment, which will be moderated within and across schools.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will reintroduce performance league tables for the secondary school sector in the Province. [221771]

Mr. Gardiner: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the reply I gave on 7 February 2005, Official Report, column 1300W.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what name will be used to describe grammar schools after the end of academic selection between the primary and secondary sector in the Province. [221772]

Mr. Gardiner: There are no plans to change the terminology applied to grammar schools after academic selection ends in Northern Ireland.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost is to date of the (a) Burns Report and (b) Costello Report and what the cost is of accompanying consultation exercises linked to each report. [221774]

Mr. Gardiner: The Post-primary Review was completed on 26 January 2004 when the Government announced it had accepted and was implementing the recommendations of the Post-primary Review Working Group (the Costello Report). Arising from that Report, a public consultation on new admissions arrangements and criteria is under way.

The costs to date are as follows:

(a) £830,000 on research, the Post-Primary Review Body costs and the publication of the Burns Report;

(b) £419,000 on consultation about the recommendations of the Burns Report; and

(c) £215,000 on the Post-primary Review Working Group and the publication and distribution of the Costello Report.

(d) £25,000 (to date) on consultation about new admissions arrangements and criteria arising from the recommendations of the Costello Report.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland for what reasons the present consultation process on admissions criteria between primary and secondary schools is restricted to parents who have access to a computer. [221775]

Mr. Gardiner: This is not the case. A paper copy of the Consultation Document on New Admissions Arrangements and the Response Booklet is available by contacting the Department by telephone, in writing, by fax and by e-mail. The document can also be viewed and downloaded from the Department of Education website, and responses to the consultation can be made on-line. Over 17,000 copies of the Consultation Document have been issued to the main education interests including schools, churches, political parties, community and voluntary groups and, on request, parents.

All schools were sent leaflets to pass to parents of school-age children to provide details of the consultation and how they can respond. Advertisements were placed in the three main newspapers (Belfast Telegraph, News Letter, Irish News) giving details of the consultation and the different ways in which people can obtain a copy.

The Department is encouraging everyone to consider carefully the issues raised in the Consultation Document and to respond to this important issue.

Smoking

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the merits of extending beyond 25 March the consultation period on proposals to ban smoking in enclosed public places. [223274]

Angela Smith: Three months is the standard period for a public consultation. There are no plans to extend the period beyond 25 March 2005.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland for what reasons the consultation period on proposals to ban smoking in enclosed public places was limited to three months. [223275]

Angela Smith: The three month consultation on the proposals to ban smoking in enclosed public places is the standard period for a consultation as set out in the 'Guide to Consultation Methods for Northern Ireland Public Authorities.'

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220941]

Mr. Paul Murphy: There were no items of surplus stock, belonging to the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs), sold on the eBay auction website in each year since 2000–01.

University Admissions

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what proportion of school leavers in Northern Ireland entered higher education in (a) 1997 and (b) 2004, broken down by parliamentary constituency. [222856]

Mr. Gardiner: Figures for 2003/04 are not yet available. The most recent available figures are for 2001/02 school leavers.

Parliamentary constituency	Proportion of school leavers entering institutions of higher education
	1997	2002
Belfast East	28.7	35.1
Belfast North	18.3	23.6
Belfast South	37.6	44.1
Belfast West	15.5	22.0
East Antrim	27.4	34.7

West Tyrne	29.1	40.6

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Avient

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry with regard to the recent statement by the National Contact Point for the OECD Guidelines on Avient, what assessment she has made of what is covered by the term military company. [200494]

Mr. Alexander: The core business of Avient is cargo transport and logistics, in the context of the UN report, predominantly mining equipment. The NCP has seen no evidence that Avient supplied arms of any description.

Baku-Tblisi-Ceyhan Pipeline

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many breaches of World Bank guidelines by the monitoring consultants for the Baku-Tblisi-Ceyhan pipeline during implementation have been identified and reported to her Department. [218274]

Mr. Alexander: The independent environmental consultant to the lender group (D'Appolonia) has identified four significant breaches of project standards. These were all rectified by BTC Co. within a reasonable period as required and defined by the project's Social Action Plan and the Export Credits Guarantee Department loan agreement.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) how many incidents of land being used outside the 28-metre Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline corridor have been reported to her; [218280]

(2) whether the use of unexpropriated land outside the 28-metre corridor in relation to the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project constitutes a breach of loan agreements. [218281]

Mr. Alexander: The use of unexpropriated land outside the 28-metre pipeline corridor would represent a breach of the Export Credits Guarantee Department (ECGD) loan agreement for the project, if it were considered to have a material effect on the project. Breaches not rectified within a reasonable period, in accordance with the project's Environment and Social Action Plan and the ECGD loan agreement, would constitute an incident for which an event of default could be called.

In its second site visit report (June-July 2004) the lender group's independent environmental consultant, D'Appolonia, reported that there had been unplanned use of land outside of the 28 metre pipeline corridor in Turkey on an unspecified number of occasions. However, these breaches of ECGD's loan agreement were rectified within the required period.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what requirements she places on project sponsors to provide her with relevant reports on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project. [218295]

Mr. Alexander: BTC Co. is required, in line with project documentation, to provide the lending group with the following reports:

monthly construction and operating reports;

financial statements;

shareholder communications;

budgets; and cash flows.

The lender group's independent consultants also provide reports on the technical aspects of the project.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what reports she has received regarding compliance by (a) BOTAS and (b) its subcontractors with appropriate standards on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [218553]

Mr. Alexander: The lenders to the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project, including the Export Credits Guarantee Department, received reports from WorleyParsons, (the lender group's independent engineering consultant), and D'Appolonia (the independent environmental consultant) during the construction of the pipeline. These reports highlight any concerns regarding compliance by any of the BTC contractors and subcontractors with the appropriate standards.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether BP has informed her of the concerns raised by its operations department with regard to certifying the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline as fit for purpose. [218555]

Mr. Alexander: The Export Credits Guarantee Department (ECGD) has not been informed by BP or BTC Co. of any concerns raised by BP's operations department. The lender group's independent technical consultant (WorleyParsons) has also advised that it has not seen any information to suggest that BP's operations department has such concerns.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she was first informed that the cathodic protection system used on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline was vulnerable to being rendered inoperative by coating corrosion. [218556]

Mr. Alexander: It is the Export Credits Guarantee Department's understanding that the pipeline coating protects the underlying metal pipe from the surrounding corrosive environment and it will not itself corrode.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) whether she has monitored the expropriation of land for the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan project in Turkey using emergency powers under Article 27 of the Turkish Expropriation Law; [218560]

(2) what monitoring she has undertaken of compliance by BTC with the agreed resettlement action plan for the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project. [218561]

Mr. Alexander: A Social and Resettlement Action Plan (SRAP) Monitoring Panel, made up of international resettlement and social development experts, has been monitoring the implementation of the Resettlement Action Plan including the expropriation of land for the project. The SRAP panel's reports are sent to the lender group and are also published on the project website at: www.caspiandevelopmentandexport.com

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she was first informed by the Export Credits Guarantee Department that SPC 2888, proposed to be used on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline, had not previously been used on a pipeline with polyethylene coating. [218562]

Mr. Alexander: ECGD informed the then Minister for Trade's office on 8 July 2004 that SPC 2888 had not previously been used on a pipeline with polyethylene coating.

BNFL (Prosecutions)

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many prosecutions of BNFL have occurred since 1 May 1997 excluding ongoing cases; on what date; and for what offence. [221676]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: BNFL has been subject to the following prosecutions since 1 May 1997.

Date of hearing	Offences
26 September 1997	Discharge of Caustic Soda into River Calder at Sellafield Water Resources Act 1991 sections 85 (i) and 85 (vi) Environmental Protection Act 1990 sections 6 (i), 23 (i) and 23 (ii) Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975 section 4 (i) Authorisation Number AS5601 Conditions 1.1 and 1.4

27 May 2004	Calder Hall—unsuitable floor Regulation 12(1) of the Workplace (Health, Safety and Welfare) Regulations 1992 Section 33(1)(c) of the Health and Safety at Work etc. Act 1974

Business Closures (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses have ceased trading in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223181]

Nigel Griffiths: DTI figures based solely on VAT de-registrations for Shrewsbury and Atcham local authority are shown as follows for 1997 to 2003.

VAT de-registrations

	Shrewsbury and Atcham
1997	230
1998	225
1999	220
2000	245
2001	205
2002	220
2003	240

Construction Industry

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what recent studies her Department has made of the use of agency labour within the construction industry. [219954]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department has undertaken no recent studies of the use of agency labour within the construction industry. However, employment agencies and employment businesses that supply labour to the construction industry are covered by the provisions of the Employment Agencies Act 1973 and associated legislation. The DTI's Employment Agency Standards Inspectorate is responsible for enforcing the legislation and in the course of normal business inspects a wide variety of employment agencies and businesses, including a number that supply workers to the construction industry.

Data Protection

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what guidance her Department is offering to (a) banks and (b) the Post Office to encourage greater scrutiny of applications for bank accounts and post office box numbers to prevent their use by bogus data production agencies. [220080]

Mr. Leslie: I have been asked to reply.

My Department does not publish any guidance to this end. The number of operational bogus data protection agencies has diminished very considerably following the actions of the Information Commissioner with the Police, the Office of Fair Trading, and Trading Standards Departments throughout the country, and most have been closed down. Banks and Post Offices can access the information on bogus data protection agencies posted on the Information Commissioner's website, should they receive an application for a bank account or box number from a company offering data protection notification services as their business activity.

Energy Act

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether lawyers (a) from and (b) contracted to work for her Department have made an assessment of the compatibility of the Energy Act 2004 with European Directive 2001/77/EC article 7. [222942]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 21 March 2005]: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State is content that the Energy Act 2004 is compatible with article 7 of European Directive 2001/77/EC.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch Presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee on opening up public contracts met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [214295]

Mr. Alexander: The Advisory Committee on opening up public contracts met as follows:

(a) under the Italian presidency on 9 October and 16 December 2003;

(b) under the Irish presidency on 3 March 2004; and

(c) under the Dutch presidency on 6 July and 28 October 2004.

In each case the meetings were held in Brussels and were attended by UK Government officials.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee for the development of the internal market in postal services and the improvement of the quality service met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [214297]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The EU Postal Directive Committee meets twice a year in Brussels: and had its sixth meeting on 8 December 2004. A representative from the DTI or the Postal Services Commission (Postcomm) attends the meetings. In addition, the Consumer Council for Postal Services (Postwatch) made a presentation to the Committee on 1 July 2004 on the treatment of complaints concerning cross-border mail services.

EU Markets (Third World Access)

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what recent discussions she has had with European Union counterparts on improving (a) trade with and (b) access to EU markets for Third World countries; and if she will make a statement; [200720]

(2) what recent discussions she has had with the Governments of Third World countries about improving access to EU markets; and if she will make a statement. [200721]

Mr. Alexander: The Government are committed to securing an ambitious outcome to the Doha Development Agenda, including increasing market access for developing country exports/Ministers and officials regularly discuss the ongoing negotiations with their opposite numbers around the world.

In addition, the European Union is currently developing its Generalised System of Preferences (GSP), which gives preferential access for developing countries to the EU market, for the period 2006–08. The UK has discussed the Commission's proposals for the new scheme with other member states on a regular basis, and with a number of developing country interlocutors.

Export Credits Guarantee Department

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry on how many occasions since 5 November 2004 (a) the Export Credits Guarantee Department has accepted an applicant's request not to provide the name and address of an agent when proceeding with an application and (b) applicants have asked the ECGD to proceed with an application without providing the name and address of an agent or intermediary. [220896]

Mr. Alexander: The information is as follows:

(a) None.

(b) None.

House Purchases

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what representations she has received about applying the Sale of Goods Act 1979 to new house purchases; and if she will make a statement. [222718]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Sale of Goods Act 1979 does not apply to new house purchases. I have received no representations about applying the Sale of Goods Act to new house purchases.

Israel

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what plans she has to develop the trade relationship between the UK and Israel; [222884]

(2) if she will make a statement on bi-lateral trade between the UK and Israel. [222885]

Mr. Alexander: UK Trade and Investment has developed a programme of trade development and inward investment activities with Israel in sectors which present real and specific opportunities for UK industry. UKTI has identified opportunities particularly in the high tech and financial services industries, as well as seeking to attract significant Israeli investment into the UK. 2004 trade figures for UK exports to Israel are £1.394 billion (£1.377 billion in 2003) and £943 million for Israeli imports to the UK (£882 million in 2003).

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of bilateral trade relations between the UK and Israel (a) from 1997 to 2001 and (b) since June 2001. [223020]

Mr. Alexander: The bilateral trade relationship between the UK and Israel has been fruitful for both sides for many years and continues to thrive.

Statistically this can be measured in four-year blocks; in 1997–2000 (inclusive) £5.085 billion of goods was exported from the UK to Israel, and in 2001–04 (inclusive) this had risen by 10 per cent. to £5.576 billion. Imports from Israel in the same periods fell slightly from £3.802 to £3.711.

Lyons Review

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what decisions have been made to relocate to north-east Scotland jobs in the Department in the oil and gas sector as set out in the recommendations of the Lyons Review. [207635]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 10 January 2005]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to his question number 207634, on 12 January 2005, Official Report, column 579W.

Maternity Leave

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many and what percentage of women in Bolton, North-East have taken 26 weeks maternity leave since 1997. [203369]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Labour Force Survey provides statistics on the number of women who are on maternity leave at a single point in time (spring) every year. However it does not record the total number of women on maternity leave each year or the duration of leave taken. Due to concerns about data confidentiality, the Office for National Statistics does not release figures at constituency level. The smallest area for which data are available is Greater Manchester.

Over the eight years between 1997 and 2004, there were on average 6,000 women on maternity leave around spring in Greater Manchester. This represents approximately 1.2 per cent. of women in employment, and 0.5 per cent. of all women, in the Greater Manchester area.

MG Rover

Mr. Liddell-Grainger: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has had with representatives from China on a bid to rescue MG Rover. [217354]

Jacqui Smith: The Government supports the proposed joint venture between MG Rover and Shanghai Automotive Industry Corporation (SAIC) as the best route to achieving a sustainable future for manufacturing at Longbridge. A number of Ministers, including my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, have expressed this support both in writing and in face-to-face meetings with representatives of SAIC and the Chinese Government.

Miners Compensation (Midlothian)

David Hamilton: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people in Midlothian were paid compensation under the Coal Industry Pneumoconiosis Compensation Scheme in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004. [220072]

Nigel Griffiths: In 2003, 10 people in Midlothian were paid compensation under the Coal Industry Pneumoconiosis Scheme and in 2004, three people in Midlothian were paid compensation under the scheme and 3,292 individual payments worth £20.5 million were made in Midlothian under the Chronic Obstruction Pulmonary Disease scheme.

Newspaper Distribution Regulations

Mr. David Stewart: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what recent discussions she has had with the Office of Fair Trading about the review of newspaper distribution regulations; and if she will make a statement. [216652]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 21 February 2005]: In response to a request from certain parties in the newspaper and magazine supply chain, the Office of Fair Trading (OFT) has been undertaking an informal consideration of the arrangements for distribution of newspapers and magazines. This is a matter for the OFT. OFT has, however, sought to keep DTI officials informed about the process. I understand the OFT will announce its findings shortly.

Paternity Rights

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she will take to enhance the paternity rights enjoyed by fathers to bring them into line with the maternity rights enjoyed by mothers. [222355]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 17 March 2005]: In 2003, we introduced a new right for fathers to take two weeks' paternity leave with statutory paternity pay, paid at the same standard rate as statutory maternity pay.

In addition to this, fathers benefit from other provisions provided for working parents in the same way as mothers. The right to request flexible working, the right to parental leave and the right to time off for dependants all apply to fathers as well as mothers.

Our recent consultation document, "Work and Families: Choice and Flexibility", seeks views on options for a new scheme which would enable a father to take a proportion of the statutory maternity leave and pay which is currently available to the mother.

Copies of the consultation document have been placed in the Libraries of the House. It is also available to download at www.dti.gov.uk/workandfamilies or to order from DTI Publications orderline on 0845 015 0010.

Pensions (Coal Industry)

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many miners have been adversely affected by the changes of spring 1987 to the pension scheme relating to canteen workers in the coal industry and the continued payments of pensions to the husbands and deceased pensioners. [222727]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The issue raised is a matter for the Trustees of the Mineworkers' Pension Scheme. DTO does not hold any personal information on MPS members and I have asked the Trustees to respond to the hon. Member.

Regional Development Agencies

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how regional development agencies (RDAs) choose which company to support when multiple companies across multiple RDAs are competing for the same export business. [203951]

Mr. Alexander: Support for exporters in England is the responsibility of UK Trade & Investment, which has agreed with the RDAs to operate as their international trade arm. UK Trade & Investment seeks to support all companies which approach them for help with exporting in accordance with each company's needs. It is for individual companies to decide as to which export business they might pursue.

Regional Selective Assistance (Newcastle-under-Lyme)

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much regional selective assistance has been invested in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223240]

Mr. Alexander: I have asked the Chief Executive of Advantage West Midlands to write to the hon. Member: a copy of that letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Renewable Energy

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on the potential for promoting renewable energy in urban areas; and on what funding support is available to promote such schemes. [222217]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The DTI's "It's only Natural Campaign" is a national campaign to promote renewable technologies across all regions.

The objectives of the campaign are to:

Raise awareness of renewable energy and its benefits among planners, councillors, investors and wider public audience.

Inform and educate key audiences to enable them to make informed decisions.

The DTI also has two grant support mechanisms to encourage the installation of small-scale renewables; Clear Skies, which as a £12.5 million budget, and the PV Demonstration Programme, which has a budget of £31 million. Both Programmes promote renewable technologies as well as providing grants.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment her Department has made of European Parliament Directive 2001/77/EC article 7, on transmission and distribution fees and electricity from renewable energy sources; and what assessment she has made of whether the new transmission charging regime under British Electricity Trading and Transmission Arrangements contravenes the Directive. [222941]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 21 March 2005]: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State exercised her powers under the Energy Act 2004 to designate licence conditions requiring the system operator to devise a GB transmission charging methodology under BETTA. Approval of that methodology is a matter for the independent industry regulator, Ofgem. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State also took a power in the Energy Act to enable her to adjust transmission charges for renewable generators in a specified area, if those charges would otherwise deter renewable generation in that area. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State is content that, in taking these powers, and exercising her power to designate licence conditions, she has acted in a way that is compatible with Article 7 of the Directive.

Sellafield

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many drums of plutonium-contaminated processing waste are held at Sellafield; and what the (a) maximum and (b) average plutonium content of each drum is. [221567]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 14 March 2005]: I am advised by BNFL that there are over 35,000 drums of plutonium contaminated waste held in storage at Sellafield. For drums of plutonium contaminated waste arising from the last 40 years of operations at the site the best estimate maximum plutonium content is around 170 g with an average plutonium content of a few grams.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry on which dates since 1 May 1997, Euratom Safeguard and accountancy treaties have been breached on the Sellafield site; and in what ways the treaties were breached in each case. [221675]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The European Commission announced on 30 March 2004 its decision to launch infraction proceedings regarding aspects of Euratom safeguards implementation at the Sellafield B30 plant. There have been no other Euratom safeguards infraction proceedings in respect of the Sellafield site.

Solar Photovoltaics

Mrs. Helen Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she will take to support UK solar PV manufacturing and design once funding under the 2002 to 2012 demonstration programme ends later this year. [220378]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The major PV demonstration programme is due to end in March 2006. Grants are expected to be paid up to March 2007.

The Department will continue its support for PV through a "low carbon buildings" programme. The low carbon buildings programme is currently under development and there will be formal consultation on this later this year. The programme is expected to begin operating in 2006–07.

South West Regional Development Agency

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many members of staff there are in the south west regional Development Agency; and how many have been in post for (a) less than one year, (b) between one and two years and (c) more than two years. [223054]

Jacqui Smith [holding answer 21 March 2005]: As at 17 March 2005 there were 251 staff employed in establishment posts in the agency.

Of these, 32 have less than one years service, 42 have between one and two years service and 177 have more than two years service.

Telecom Services

John Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if her Department will publish figures for the mis-selling of fixed line telecom services, indicating the companies involved; and what discussions she has had with Ofcom on this matter. [222170]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The matter raised is the responsibility of the Regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom). Accordingly, my officials have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to reply directly to the hon. Member. Copies of the Chief Executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of Houses.

UK Trade and Investment

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many staff are employed in the London office of UK Trade & Investment; and what plans she has for reducing London-based staff at UK Trade & Investment over the next 12 months. [203908]

Mr. Alexander: UK Trade & Investment currently has some 600 civil service staff in London and 70 staff in Glasgow. The total work force also includes temporary and agency staff who cover vacant civil service posts and provide certain specialist skills.

In line with reductions in resource envisaged in its SR 2004 settlement, UK Trade & Investment is reducing the number of posts in its London and Glasgow offices. It expects, by April 2008, to have achieved a reduction of 200 in the total number of established posts.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Apprentices (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many Government-funded apprentices there were in City of York in each year since 1996–97. [222228]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The available local information on Government-funded apprentices is at Local Learning and Skills Council (LLSC) area, and prior to the creation of the LSC, Training and Enterprise Council (TEC) area. The following table shows the number of learners on apprenticeships in the north Yorkshire TEC area in October of each year from 1996 to 2000, as well as the number of learners on apprenticeships in north Yorkshire LLSC in October of each year since 2001.

Learners on apprenticeships in north Yorkshire TEC/LSC by programme and month

Month	Advanced apprenticeships	Apprenticeships at level 2
North Yorkshire TEC
October 1996	700	—
October 1997	1,400	—
October 1998	1,700	600
October 1999	1,800	1,800
October 2000	1,900	3,000
North Yorkshire LLSC
October 2001	1,500	3,000
October 2002	1,200	3,000
October 2003	1,300	3,400
October 2004	1,200	2,600

Notes:
1. The definition of in-learning changed in 2003/04. The old method only counted those in learning on the last working day of the month. The new method counts those in learning at any point during the month.
2. The reduction in 2004 is due to the transfer of significant contracts from north Yorkshire LLSC to the LSC National Contracting Service.

Catering Costs

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much has been spent on (a) entertainment lunches involving civil servants and guests and (b) working lunches, in each year since 1997. [215039]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the answer provided on 17 January 2005, Official Report, column 816W. The Department's accounting system does not differentiate between entertainment lunches and working lunches. All expenditure on official entertainment is made in accordance with published departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, based on the principles set out in Government Accounting.

Child Care

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the role of the provision of culturally sensitive child care in facilitating Muslim women's ability to work outside the home. [220804]

Margaret Hodge: The Government are fully committed to ensuring that regular reviews of provision are undertaken locally and nationally to ensure services are inclusive and sensitive to the needs of all communities, including the Muslim community.

We have taken a proactive stance to identify the issues, consider their underlying causes, explore potential solutions and establish successful approaches to all communities where they are needed.

Available information seems to show that Bangladeshi and Pakistani families are the least likely to be using childcare and the most likely to have very low levels of maternal employment.

We have commissioned a secondary analysis of the Parents Demand for Childcare Survey datasets to explore further ethnic minority group parents' use of, demand for and views on childcare over the period 1999–2001 by examining combined data from the baseline and repeat surveys. This research report is due to be published by the Department on Thursday 31 March.

As the data are not collected by faith groups, we will need to use the ethnic definitions of Bangladeshi and Pakistani groupings. Although the analysed data were collected in 1999 and 2001, we will be examining the findings closely to help us better understand why Muslim families seem to be less engaged with local formal childcare services.

Various studies as well as practice feedback that we have had from the experience of many Sure Start local programmes and other local childcare services show that when childcare provision is culturally sensitive Muslim families are much more likely to access services.

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps the Government are taking to ensure that additional child care places will expand the provision of child care within and for Muslim communities in a culturally sensitive way. [220805]

Margaret Hodge: The Government are committed to ensuring that all its policies, practices and services are totally inclusive, and do not discriminate against any individual. This principle underpins our strategic guidance to local authorities. Local authorities are also required to adhere to and implement equality and inclusion policies, procedures and practices when developing early years education and childcare services. The Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000 sets out the requirements with which all listed public authorities must comply.

My Department funded four projects in local authorities during 2003–04 to improve understanding of the practical steps Local authorities and childcare settings can take to ensure childcare provision is responsive to the needs of local black and minority ethnic families and is used by them. A report of findings was produced and distributed to all local authorities. Training has been made available to Children's Information Services and to early years staff to improve their practice. A very wide range of information and resources on topics such as purchasing and using culturally sensitive toys and books and resources for staff about the Muslim culture is available via links on our website to those of other organisations.

The information from these projects is already informing the design and implementation of our current and future childcare initiatives. The Sure Start Unit's own work on childcare is part of the wider DfES plans to ensure that all education services engage with Muslim communities.

In particular, we will ensure that, through the significant expansion of provision in the Government's 10-year strategy on child care, we and our local authority partners work hard to further improve access to culturally sensitive childcare for Muslim families. Finally, our support and inspection arrangements for local authority childcare activities will assess that local authorities ensure local services respond sensitively to the Muslim communities in their area.

It is vital that the Muslim community and Muslim organisations help to shape policies and programmes to tackle the issues particular to their communities, both at a national and local level. In developing childcare, therefore, we will continue to ensure there is consultation and involvement of the community at local and national level.

Departmental Expenditure Breakdown

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will list miscellaneous programmes under the headings (a) schools, (b) support for children, young people and families, (c) higher education, (d) further education, adult learning and skills and lifelong learning and (e) activities to support all functions in her Department's expenditure plans for 2004. [221223]

Derek Twigg: A list showing all the programmes included as miscellaneous entries in the Departmental Annual Report is as follows.

Dudley College

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the financial implications for Dudley college of the funding gap with school sixth forms; and if she will make a statement on when she expects the funding gap to be narrowed. [222731]

Dr. Howells: The Department allocates funds for education and training in the post-16 learning and skills sector to the Learning and Skills Council. The Department does not collect or hold information at the level requested.

Government recognise that there are differences in the funding allocated to school sixth forms and further education colleges and have taken action to address this. We have brought up funding levels for further education colleges as we said we would without penalising schools. Our policy has been to continue to bring up the level of funding for colleges, as and when we are able to secure the resources to do so.

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) whether her Department will fully fund courses for adults at Level 3 at Dudley College in 2005/06; [222732]

(2) whether she expects fees for courses above Level 2 for adults to rise at Dudley College in 2005/06. [222734]

Dr. Howells: It is our policy to ensure that those groups of people benefiting from fully funded further education provision will continue to do so. There will be no change in the fee concessions arrangements that help unemployed people, those on income based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access further education. We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all which covers the largest part of the cost of courses but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at level 2, or not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005/06 unless they qualify for fee concessions.

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will take steps to ensure that fee concessions remain in place for those aged 60 years who wish to attend Dudley College. [222733]

Dr. Howells: Older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. Learners of any age will also continue to have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges such as Dudley will continue to have considerable discretion in setting fees, and although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Education Funding

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) what discussions she has had with the Learning and Skills Council on its recent decision on changing the way in which GNVQs are funded; [222159]

(2) if she will ask the Learning and Skills Council to fund GNVQs at the same rate in schools and colleges in 2005/06; and if she will make a statement. [222160]

Dr. Howells: My Department has not discussed with the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) its decision to change GNVQ funding rates for further education providers for 2005/06. I have no plans to ask the LSC to change the way it funds GNVQs. Decisions about funding rates in schools and colleges are a matter for the LSC. I understand that changes similar to those made for colleges will apply to school sixth-forms in 2006/07.

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment her Department has made of the funding gap between school sixth forms and further education colleges in Leeds; what the timetable is for taking steps to close the gap; and if she will make a statement. [222881]

Dr. Howells: The Department allocates funds for education and training in the post-16 learning and skills sector to the Learning and Skills Council. The Department does not collect or hold information at the level requested.

Government recognise that there are differences in the funding allocated to school sixth forms and further education colleges and has taken action to address this. We have brought up funding levels for further education colleges as we said we would without penalising schools. Our policy has been to continue to bring up the level of funding for colleges, as and when we are able to secure the resources to do so.

Education Maintenance Allowance

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many people in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) England have received education maintenance allowance. [222779]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: By the end of February 2005 1,605 young people resident in the South Tyneside local authority area had received one or more EMA payments. 18,803 young people in the North East of England and 284,002 young people across the whole of England had received one or more EMA payments. We do not analyse data at constituency level.

English Examinations (Key Stage 3)

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many and what percentage of the total number of scripts for Key Stage 3 examinations in English for 2004 were sent abroad to be marked. [223198]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 21 March 2005]: No Key Stage 3 English tests were sent abroad to be marked in 2004.

Further Education (Blyth Valley)

Mr. Ronnie Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) whether she expects fees for courses above level 2 for adults to rise in Blyth Valley in 2005/06; [223123]

(2) if her Department will fully fund courses for adults at level 3 in Blyth Valley in 2005/06. [223124]

Dr. Howells: It is our policy to ensure that those groups of people benefiting from fully funded further education provision will continue to do so. There will be no change in the fee concessions arrangements that help unemployed people, those on income based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access further education. We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all which covers the largest part of the cost of courses but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at level 2, or not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005/06 unless they qualify for fee concessions.

Mr. Ronnie Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she will take to ensure that fee concessions remain in place for those aged over 60 years who wish to study in further education colleges in Blyth Valley. [223125]

Dr. Howells: Older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. Learners of any age will also continue to have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges such as those in the Blyth Valley will continue to have considerable discretion in setting fees, and although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Geography Teaching

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what response she has made to the Ofsted report on geography teaching. [223415]

Derek Twigg: In April 2004 Ministers set up a Development Fund to support the teaching and learning of geography in schools. A joint contract has been awarded to the Royal Geographical Society and the Geographical Association to develop resources and support for schools and teachers. We have also set up a high-level focus group with schools, further and higher education, professions, media, heritage, international and business interests represented. The group aims to identify pragmatic and realistic ways to support the subject and raise its profile.

Higher Education Funding

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the change in funding for universities in England will be in 2005–06. [222984]

Dr. Howells: The Government provide funding for higher education through the Higher Education and Funding Council for England (HEFCE). £6,332 million in recurrent funding has been allocated for universities and colleges in England for 2005–06. The total grant, which represents an overall increase of 5.6 per cent. compared with 2004–05, provides an above inflation increase for teaching, £120 million more for research and an extra 26,000 student places.

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what research the Department evaluated prior to selecting the minimum standard bursary and other bursary schemes as mechanisms by which to minimise the deterrent effects of tuition fees. [222992]

Dr. Howells: In framing the variable fees policy, including the bursaries policy, we looked at overseas experience, especially in Australia and Ontario. We also looked at the results of offering Opportunity Bursaries to potential university students from poor backgrounds in selected parts of England.

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the percentage of total fee income which the payment of minimum standard bursaries will represent for (a) Russell Group universities and (b) mainstream universities. [222993]

Dr. Howells: Exactly how much the minimum standard bursaries cost any university each year will depend on what fees they decide to charge, and on the make-up of their student body in that year. We have said in the letter of guidance from the Secretary of State to the Director for Fair Access that the minimum requirement should not cost any institution more than around 10 per cent. of their extra fee income.

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what guidance she has issued on the role of the Office of Fair Access in advising higher education institutions on levels of expenditure in relation to attracting under-represented students. [222994]

Dr. Howells: The letter of guidance from the Secretary of State to the Director for Fair Access was published in October 2004, and is available on the DfES website. It suggests (section 6.1) that the director should expect the most, in terms of bursaries and financial support, from institutions whose records suggest that they have the farthest to go in terms of securing a broadly based intake of students. However, it also makes clear that it is for institutions to make proposals, and for the director to decide whether to approve them.

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills at what point in the academic year 2006–07 she expects (a) universities will be in receipt of additional fee income and (b) students will be in receipt of minimum standard bursaries. [223010]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The arrangements for the payment of fee income from 2006–07, where students decide to defer payment of their fees by taking out a fee loan, are still being finalised. The SLC currently pays fee income from the fee remission grant to institutions in February. From 2006–07, fee income may be paid in more than one instalment. How and when universities and colleges choose to pay bursaries to students is their decision.

Peter Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what level of (a) tuition fees and (b) bursaries and grants for students are proposed by each higher education institution in England from 2006. [223409]

Dr. Howells: The information requested has been placed in the Library.

Learndirect

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills pursuant to the answer of 24 February 2005, Official Report, column 755W, on learndirect, how many learners ceased to participate in learndirect without completing the course. [222974]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: On the basis of information provided by Ufi, 1.55 million learners have enrolled on learndirect courses since April 2000. 624,000 of these learners did not complete their course. The learndirect Winter Barometer Report 2005 identified lack of time (23 per cent.), work commitments (16 per cent.), problems accessing course (15 per cent.) and family/personal circumstances (15 per cent.) as the key reasons for non-completion. Current learner satisfaction is at an all time high of 90 per cent.

Local Network Fund

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) what plans she has to move the management of the Local Network Fund from the voluntary to the statutory sector; [223003]

(2) what steps she will take to ensure that voluntary and community groups in Devon have equality of access to the Local Network Fund after 1 April 2006; [223004]

(3) what safeguards are in place to ensure that children's trust funds previously earmarked for the Local Network Fund are not reallocated to other programmes from April 2006; [223005]

(4) what steps she will take to ensure there is consistency in the delivery of the Local Network Fund during the 2006 to 2008 transition period. [223006]

Margaret Hodge: A decision to extend the Local Network Fund for Children and Young People to cover the period 2006–08 was taken last year. The programme will continue to be available, solely for voluntary and community groups working with vulnerable 0 to 19-year-olds.

The Local Network Fund is an important part of the Change for Children programme which involves the creation of local children's trusts to plan and commission services for young people. We are currently finalising our advice and planning guidance to local authorities and other partners on the establishment and development of children's trusts. This will include transitional arrangements for programmes such as the Local Network Fund. We will take account of the success of the current management and delivery arrangements for the Local Network Fund in finalising the transitional arrangements.

Mature Students

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many mature students were resident in each London borough in each year since 2001. [221241]

Dr. Howells: Information on the term time address of students is not held centrally. The closest available information shows the number of students from each local education authority in London, based on their address prior to entering HE study, and this is given in the table.

Medical Schools

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will list the university medical schools which have admitted students for training which will lead to qualifications as a doctor with less than the equivalent of three Cs at A level; how many such students have been admitted in each year since 1997; and which university medical schools plan to admit such students in the future under the auspices of the widening participation scheme. [222596]

Dr. Howells: The following table provides information on the numbers of undergraduate entrants to pre-clinical medicine courses within the UK, with less than the equivalent of three Cs at 'A' level.

The admission and selection of students is a matter for individual institutions. Therefore the decision on whether or not to recruit such students rests with the universities, and they would take such decisions according to the merit and potential of the individual applicants. Although there are currently no Government programmes for widening participation aimed specifically at medicine, Aimhigher, a national outreach programme operating most intensively in disadvantaged areas, enables local partnerships to design and deliver a range of activities to raise the aspiration and attainment levels of young people.

Alongside this, Aimhigher runs nine pilot schemes aimed at the health and social care professions to encourage wider participation from a broad range of social and ethnic backgrounds.

Mobile Phones

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the cost of staff mobile phone bills was in each year since 1997. [214885]

Derek Twigg: The answer is given in the following table.

	Total cost £
1997/98	170,045.78
1998/99	168,298.72
1999/00	218,889.09

Non-school Playgrounds

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what support the Government provided for non-school playgrounds in (a) 2001–02, (b) 2002–03 and (c) 2003–04; and what future funding allocations have been made. [221351]

Mr. Caborn: I have been asked to reply.

ODPM and DfES have provided funding for non-school playgrounds/playing fields as follows:

ODPM

ODPM through its New Deal for Communities partnerships has spent £4,775 (2001–02); £1,711,010 (2002–03) and £857,548 (2003–04). Future funding allocations have not yet been finalised.

ODPM also provides funding for non-school playgrounds through sponsorship of Groundwork, who deliver projects led by or for children and young people and through the Living Spaces scheme which is funding improvements to spaces, including play areas, parks, kick-about areas and skate parks. However, it is not possible to aggregate out support for these play areas from the general project funding that is provided.

DfES

Outdoor playground facilities have been funded from the Local Network Fund. Records show that grants totalling £250,000 have been awarded to 31 voluntary groups for external play grounds. These grants are broken down as follows:

2003/04	100,000

The Local Network Fund runs until 2008 with a yearly allocation of £40 million. It is not possible to predict at this stage how much of that future funding will go to non- school playgrounds.

Outdoor Learning

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she expects to publish guidance on outdoor learning trips, to which Press Notice 0021 of 15 February refers. [221271]

Derek Twigg: We aim to publish the guidance outlined in the Department's Press Notice of 15 February in the summer.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Forth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she will reply to question 215722, tabled on 7 February to the right hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst. [223341]

Derek Twigg: A reply was sent to the hon. Member on 21 March.

Pelham Infant School

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) what representations she has received relating to the potential use of the former Pelham Infant School, Immingham, North East Lincolnshire as a children's centre; [223480]

(2) if she will make a statement on the sale of the former Pelham Infant School, Immingham, North East Lincolnshire. [223481]

Margaret Hodge: In September 2004 St. Andrew's Junior School and Pelham Infants School, which were both located on the same campus site, amalgamated to form the Canon Peter Hall School. A part of the former Pelham Infant School site now forms part of the new amalgamated primary school but the remainder of the Pelham Infant School site is currently not in use.

Section 77 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 requires any council wishing to sell any land that falls within the definition of school playing fields to first seek the consent of the Secretary of State for Education and Skills. North East Lincolnshire council has submitted an application to sell part of the former Pelham Infant School site and this application is currently under consideration. The Department has also received a representation from the Canon Peter Hall School, which outlines that school's desire to establish an outdoor play area on a part of the site to be sold. This representation will be taken into account when considering the local authority's application.

The Department for Education and Skills has not received any representations from any party relating to the potential use of the Pelham Infant School, Immingham, North East Lincolnshire as a children's centre. However, officials are aware of the local community's desire for a children's centre and that the site is within an area that is defined by the local authority as a pocket of deprivation. In accordance with the Government's strategy for the delivery of children's centres it should therefore be one of the first areas where children's centres are developed. However, it is for local authorities to decide where to locate children's centres in order to best serve their communities.

Staff Surveys

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much was paid to consultants carrying out staff surveys in the Department and its predecessors in each year since 1997. [213658]

Derek Twigg: My Department completes a staff survey approximately every eighteen months. The surveys are administered and evaluated by an external partner who provides analysis and technical support.

1999	67,563
2000	53,043

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the cost of staff surveys in the Department and its predecessors was in each year since 1997. [213678]

Derek Twigg: My Department completes a staff survey every eighteen months. The survey is a powerful tool which highlights trends in staff views, areas of good practice and areas of development. The survey enables the Department to compare opinion in the Department over time and to benchmark ourselves against other UK organisations in both the public and private sector.

From 1999 the Department's staff surveys have been administered and evaluated by an external partner. Previous surveys were completed in-house.

2000	53,043

Student Encouragement

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much the Government spent in 2004 on (a) schemes and (b) advertising to encourage (i) prospective undergraduates and (ii) prospective graduates to participate in further education. [221242]

Dr. Howells: The Government is keen to ensure that all those with the potential to benefit from higher education (HE) are able and willing to do so. By 2010, we want to increase participation in HE towards 50 per cent. of those aged 18 to 30. Within that we want to see a broader cross-section of people being able and willing to go into HE. To that effect we support the Aimhigher Programme which seeks to raise attainment, aspiration and application levels of people from backgrounds currently under-represented in HE. The total budget for Aimhigher for the 2004/05 academic year is £128 million. This funding enables partnerships of schools, colleges and universities to design and deliver a range of activities in support of the Programme's aims. This budget does not include any amounts for national advertising.

In addition to the Aimhigher Programme the Department for Education and Skills is running two advertising campaigns during 2004/05.

The Foundation Degrees campaign is aimed at 18 to 30-year-olds and employers in order to raise awareness of Foundation Degrees as a higher education qualification. The cost of this advertising in 2004/05 is £542,000.

The Student Finance campaign is aimed at potential higher education students and their parents to inform them of the student support package available to them in HE and how to apply for it. The cost of this advertising in 2004/05 is £1.05million.

There are no national schemes or advertising aimed at encouraging or enabling prospective undergraduates to stay in education at post-graduate level.

All costs exclude VAT.

Students

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the total sum which higher education institutions are proposing to spend to support students from under-represented groups. [222694]

Dr. Howells: Full details about university access agreements approved by the Office for Fair Access (OFFA), including details of bursaries, scholarships and other financial support largely for students from poorer backgrounds, are available on the OFFA website, www.offa.org.uk. The Government and their partners also contribute significantly to the widening participation agenda through the Aimhigher programme, which has a budget this year of £128 million.

Sure Start

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many child care places have been created by the Sure Start Neighbourhood Nurseries Initiative in each year that the scheme has been in operation. [221199]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 10 March 2005]: The Neighbourhood Nurseries Initiative was launched in 2001. It had a target of creating 45,000 new child care and early education places in 1,000 nurseries for children aged 0 to 5 in the 20 per cent. most disadvantaged areas in England by March 2004. £100 million of capital funding from the New Opportunities Fund (now the Big Lottery Fund), £28 million Sure Start capital and £243 million of revenue funding from the Sure Start Unit was made available to 142 local authorities to support the development and delivery of these places. Places have been developed through a diverse range of local and national providers and are intended to be responsive to local needs and preferences. By March 2004, 1,000 neighbourhood nurseries had been created providing approximately 36,000 new child care places. By August 2004, 1,279 neighbourhood nurseries had been opened providing 45,000 places.

The Sure Start Unit's on-going monitoring of progress towards the 45,000 places target shows that the number of places created by 31 March in each year was as follows:

Financial year	Number of places created
2001–02	516
2002–03	4,004
2003–04	31,728

Mr. Pickthall: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the number of midwives required for the Sure Start programme in the North West. [221412]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 16 March 2005]: No estimate has been made of the number of midwives required for the Sure Start programme in the North West region. This would be for local discussion and agreement. Ante-natal and post-natal services, undertaken by midwives and health visitors, are a key element within the core health service activities undertaken by Sure Start local programmes and they will be part of the core services that will be offered in children's centres serving the most disadvantaged communities. These services are provided in different ways—through the direct employment of midwives to work with families living within the catchment area of a local programme, through secondment opportunities, and in partnership with primary care trusts.

Mr. Keith Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she will announce the funding allocations to local authorities for Sure Start for 2006–07 and 2007–08. [222674]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Spending on Sure Start will reach £1.8 billion in 2007–08, more than double the figure for 2004–05. This represents an annual average increase of 24 per cent. in real terms.

£1,660 million of this total is available for allocation to local authorities in 2006–07, and £1,780 million in 2007–08.

We will very shortly be allocating money to local authorities for the second wave of children's centres and for extended schools. Both will be for the period 2006–08. A further allocation, covering the remaining elements of General Sure Start Grant for 2006–08, will be made in the autumn. This gives us the opportunity to consult with local authorities on how best to allocate money for sustainable child care places, and the new Transformation Fund.

I am pleased to say that the Chancellor announced in his Budget speech on 16 March that local authorities will now be able to recover VAT on investment in children's centres and child care. This removes what has become a significant barrier to some authorities moving forward with the Government's 10-year strategy for child care.

University Admissions

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what guidance she has issued to the Office for Fair Access ensuring that universities do not discriminate against female candidates in the allocation of places. [223231]

Dr. Howells: The Director for Fair Access has no remit over any admissions decision by a university. In our guidance to the Director, we have suggested that he discuss questions of under-representation in higher education with the Equal Opportunities Commission and other similar bodies, and work with them to help institutions understand best practice.

Work-based Learning Report

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what response the Government have made to the Adult Learning Inspectorate's recent report on work-based learning. [223422]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: We welcome the annual report from the Chief Inspector of the Adult Learning Inspectorate, published on 24 November 2004. The reported improvements in the work-based learning sector are particularly welcome. The report also makes clear, though, that there is still more to do. We will continue to work closely with a range of partners to drive up standards in all parts of the sector and for all learners.

CABINET

"Every Child Matters"

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will make a statement on the steps he has taken to co-ordinate Government policy in relation to "Every Child Matters" and family court proceedings; what his objectives were in so doing; and what the outcome of his actions was. [222258]

Mr. Milburn: None.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Office are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222620]

Mr. Milburn: The Duchy of Lancaster Office, as required by the Health and Safety Legislation, maintains an accident record book within the office and would report any accidents under the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations 1995 Regulations (RIDDOR), as required.

Asylum and Immigration

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will make a statement on the steps he has taken to co-ordinate Government policy in relation to preparing asylum seekers' children to be taught in English; what his objectives were in so doing; and what the outcome was of his actions. [222257]

Mr. Milburn: None.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will make a statement on the steps he has taken to co-ordinate Government policy in relation to teaching of English to adult asylum seekers in the UK; what his objectives were in so doing; and what the outcome of his actions was. [222263]

Mr. Milburn: None.

Clerk of Council

Pete Wishart: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what role the Clerk of Council has in relation to the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster; and if he will make a statement. [222926]

Mr. Milburn: The Clerk of the Council is the Chief Executive Officer of the Duchy of Lancaster and is answerable to me as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. He is the executive member of Council to which I have granted a revocable delegation of authority.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what role the Duchy Council plays in relation to the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and the Clerk of Council; and if he will make a statement. [222927]

Mr. Milburn: The Council of the Duchy of Lancaster is a board of seven people to which I have revokably delegated authority to undertake the general running of the Duchy in relation, in particular, to the financial assets and performance of the Duchy. The Clerk of the Council is the executive member of Council.

Consultants (Expenditure)

Pete Wishart: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much the Duchy has spent on (a) press advisers and (b) other consultants since January 2005; and if he will make a statement. [222929]

Mr. Milburn: The Duchy of Lancaster is not a Government Department and as such not supported by public funds. Since January 2005, the Duchy of Lancaster office has spent £1,920 on a press adviser. The Duchy of Lancaster has not employed any other consultants during this period.

Divorce

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will make a statement on the steps he has taken to co-ordinate Government policy in relation to the impact of divorce law and family breakdown on children's educational attainment; what his objectives were in so doing; and what the outcome was of his actions. [222256]

Mr. Milburn: None.

Night-time Economy

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will make a statement on the steps he has taken to co-ordinate Government policy in relation to the impact of licensing legislation on policing the night-time economy; what his objectives were in so doing; and what the outcome was of his actions. [222264]

Mr. Milburn: None.

Press Releases

Pete Wishart: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many press releases have been issued by the Duchy in each month since January 2005; and if he will make a statement. [222928]

Mr. Milburn: The Duchy of Lancaster office issued two press releases in 2005 both in January; the first in relation to the appointment of two new Council members and the second in respect of Tutbury Castle.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office whether his Office sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220945]

Mr. Miliband: No.

TREASURY

Age Exemption Forms

Sir John Butterfill: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what arrangements he is making for the provision of age exemption forms for people in Bournemouth who continue working after their pension age and no longer have to pay national insurance contributions; and if he will make a statement. [223056]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 21 March 2005]: When a person makes a claim for state retirement pension and intends to continue working, they can ask for a Certificate of Age Exception by ticking the box on the claim form. Otherwise certificates can be obtained by contacting the Inland Revenue National Insurance Contributions Office, in Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Benefits Claimants

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many economically inactive claimants of benefits were of working age in each year since 1979. [222606]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl to Mr. Frank Field, dated 22 March 2005:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the number of economically inactive people receiving benefits. I am replying in his absence. (222606)

Data on the numbers of people who receive working age benefits has been provided by the Department for Work and Pensions. The attached table shows the number of people of working age claiming out-of-work benefits. Those benefits which are in the great majority of cases claimed by economically inactive people, have been distinguished in the table from Jobseeker's Allowance benefit claimants, who are required to be actively seeking work as a condition of their entitlement. The figures, which relate to the May quarter in each year from 1995 to 2004, are taken from a five per cent. sample of benefit records and are therefore subject to sampling variability. No data are available prior to 1995.

Burmese Imports

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total value of imports from Burma was in 2004; and what the value was of each category of import. [223426]

John Healey: The total value of imports from Burma in 2004 was £74 million. The value broken down by category is available from HM Customs and Excise's website www.uktradeinfo.com and is shown in the following table:

Buses

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what definition of local he uses in his proposals for providing free local bus travel for pensioners; whether he has costed the extension of this provision to ferries plying between points within the United Kingdom; and whether his proposals will apply to nations for which local transport is a devolved matter. [223306]

Mr. Timms: The definition of local is set out in the Transport Act 2000. We have not costed extending this provision to ferries. It is for the devolved Administrations and Northern Ireland Ministers to determine policies in this area.

Child Trust Fund

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on his Department's projections of the cost of the Child Trust Fund in each year from 2005–06 to 2010–11. [223032]

Mr. Timms: The AME accruals cost to the Exchequer of the Child Trust Fund is forecast at £240 million in each of the fiscal years 2005–06 to 2010–11.

Correspondence

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will instruct the Tax Credit Office to reply to the letter of 28 January from the hon. Member for Banff and Buchan regarding his constituent, Mr. A. Palla of Peterhead, passed to it by Inland Revenue Scotland. [221621]

Dawn Primarolo: The Tax Credit Office (TCO) replied to the hon. Member's constituency office address on 22 February 2005. I have asked the TCO to send him a copy of their reply.

Hon. Members can call the TCO's MP Hotline, details of which are available on the parliamentary website, if they wish to discuss an individual constituent's tax credits claim.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will instruct the Tax Credit Office to reply to the letter of 7 December 2004 from the hon. Member for Banff and Buchan regarding his constituent, Mr. E. Mustoe of Fraserburgh. [221622]

Dawn Primarolo: The Tax Credit Office (TCO) replied to the hon. Members office address on 12 January 2005. I have asked the TCO to send him a copy of their reply.

Hon. Members can call the TCO's MP Hotline, details of which are available on the Parliamentary website, if they wish to discuss an individual constituent's tax credits claim.

Mr. Bill O'Brien: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will ask Mr. Rushton, Assistant Director of the Tax Credits Office, to respond to the correspondence from the hon. Member for Normanton sent on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. C. of Kirkhamgate, Wakefield and their claim for tax credits outstanding from September 2004. [221882]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 15 March 2005]: The Inland Revenue replied to my hon. Friend on 14 March 2005. Hon. Members can call the Tax Credit Office MP Hotline, details of which are available on the parliamentary website, if they wish to discuss an individual constituent's tax credits claim.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on which dates the Inland Revenue sent a substantive reply to each communication received from (a) the hon. Member for the Isle of Wight and (b) his constituents in relation to case no. 2004/08001519; whether the targets set for replying to letters were met in each case; what arrangements are in place to compensate constituents for financial loss and distress arising from delayed or erroneous handling of claims; and if he will make a statement. [222935]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The Inland Revenue aims to reply to 80 per cent. of letters within 15 working days and 95 per cent. within 40 working days.

The Inland Revenue replied to the hon. Member regarding case no. 2004/08001519 on the following dates:

9 September 2004—within the 15 day target

4 March 2005—outside the above targets

They also wrote to his constituent on the following dates as a result of telephone contact with her:

26 August 2004—within 15 day target

10 February 2005—within 15 day target

The Department aims to reply to the hon. Member's most recent letter within target.

The Revenue's approach to paying compensation is outlined in their Code of Practice 1, 'Putting things right', which is available on the Department's website at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk and a copy of which has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Defence

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the additional £400 million defence spending announced in his Budget statement of 16 March (a) a provision for the cost of operations and (b) an addition to the Ministry of Defence's Request for Resources 1. [223404]

Mr. Boateng: The £400 million has been added to the special reserve for the costs of military conflict in Iraq and other international obligations, as set out in paragraph 6.10 of Budget 2005 (HC 372).

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer what the Ministry of Defence's departmental expenditure limit is for 2005–06. [223405]

Mr. Boateng: The latest departmental expenditure limit figures for the Ministry of Defence for 2005–06 are in Table C13 of the Financial Statement and Budget Report 2005 (HC 372).

These figures do not include the cost of current major operations.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the Ministry of Defence's near cash departmental expenditure limit is for 2005–06. [223406]

Mr. Boateng: Table 13.1 of the 2004 Spending review (Cm 6237) sets out the "cash equivalent" of the Ministry of Defence's DEL.

The figures in the table do not include the cost of current major operations.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the reasons are for the difference between the figures given for the special reserve provision in paragraph A137, page 202 and in table C13, page 261 of the Budget 2005 (HC 372). [223407]

Mr. Boateng: Paragraph A137 sets out the additional provision that was allocated to the Special Reserve in Budget 2005. The line entitled "Unallocated special reserve" in Table C13 shows what remains in the special reserve after allocations to Departments.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the reasons are for the difference between the figures given for the Ministry of Defence's reserve budget in Spending Review 2004 (Cm 6237) and the Budget 2005 (HC 372). [223408]

Mr. Boateng: There is no reserve budget specifically for the Ministry of Defence. However, since Spending Review 2004, the Government has added additional resources to its special reserve to make prudent provision for the costs of the military conflict in Iraq and its other international obligations.

These additions are explained in paragraph 6.7 of Cm 6408 (Pre-Budget Report 2004) and paragraph 6.10 of HC372 (Budget 2005).

eBay

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220953]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 9 March 2005]: It has never been the practice of the Chancellor's Departments to dispose of surplus stock on the eBay website.

Employment

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people resident in each parliamentary constituency (a) in June 1997 and (b) on the latest date for which information is available were in employment. [222844]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl to Mr. Brian Wilson, dated 22 March 2005:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about employment in each Parliamentary Constituency in the UK. I am replying in his absence. (222844)

The attached three tables show the estimates of the numbers of people in employment, in each Parliamentary Constituency, respectively in England, Wales and Scotland in 1997 and 2004, the latest date for which information is available. These estimates from the Labour Force Survey are, as with any sample survey, subject to sampling variability.

Since the information in these tables is so extensive, copies have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Similar information for Parliamentary Constituencies in Northern Ireland is not available.

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on the levels of long-term (a) adult and (b) youth employment in Edinburgh, North and Leith in the last seven years. [222904]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Mark Lazarowicz, dated 22 March 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about long term unemployment in Edinburgh North and Leith. (222904)

Information on the number of people who are unemployed is calculated from the Labour Force Survey (LFS). However, the LFS sample size for the Edinburgh North and Leith Parliamentary Constituency is too small to provide estimates on long-term unemployment.

The Office for National Statistics also compiles statistics of those claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA) for local areas including Parliamentary Constituencies. The table overleaf gives the annual average number of young people aged 18 to 24 years old and adults (aged 25 and over) resident in the Edinburgh North and Leith Parliamentary Constituency claiming JSA benefits for over 12 months in each year from 1998 to 2004.

JSA claimants resident in the Edinburgh North and Leigh constituency claiming for 12 months or more

2000	5	405

European Anti-Fraud Office

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions representatives of the European Anti-Fraud Office have visited the UK in the last two years. [222986]

Mr. Timms: The European Anti-Fraud Office makes visits to a number of Government Departments in the UK, but no record of these visits is held centrally.

Pilots (Flat Rate Expenses)

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate his Department has made of the cost of the flat rate expenses allowance for pilots which was proposed to his Department in 2004; and if he will make it his policy to instruct the Inland Revenue to implement the proposed allowance. [223336]

Dawn Primarolo: The hon. Member's question concerns a particular case. It is subject to the normal rules of confidentiality that apply where taxpayers' affairs are concerned. Flat rate expense allowances are agreed with individual employers to reflect individual circumstances. The Inland Revenue is in discussion with the airline concerned to agree a flat rate expense allowance that reflects the appropriate level of expenses in line with the qualifying conditions set by tax law.

Income Tax

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the increase in revenue to the Exchequer of the introduction of a 49 per cent. rate of income tax on all incomes in excess of £100,000 for (a) 2005–06, (b) 2006–07, (c) 2007–08, (d) 2008–09 and (e) 2009–10. [223263]

Dawn Primarolo: Comprehensive information on income tax has been placed in the Library of the House, in the tables 'Additional full-year yield from the introduction of additional higher rates of tax on TAXABLE incomes over a specific amount in 2005–06' and 'Additional full-year yield from the introduction of additional higher rates of tax on GROSS incomes over a specific amount in 2005–06'.

The income tax information is based upon the 2002–03 Survey of Personal Incomes and December 2004 pre-Budget assumptions and excludes any estimate of behavioural response to the tax change.

Information for future years is currently unavailable but figures for 2006–07 will be available at the House of Commons Library by the end of April.

Motorcycles

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to apply the 1 per cent. discount for environmentally friendly company cars to environmentally friendly motorcycles; and if he will make a statement. [223352]

John Healey: The additional 1 per cent. discount will apply to the emissions-based company car tax system. This system does not apply to employer-provided motorcycles.

MRSA

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many deaths from MRSA there have been in Coventry in each of the last five years. [222947]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Jim Cunningham, dated 22 March 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths from MRSA there have been in Coventry in each of the last five years. (222947)

The latest year for which figures are available is 2003. Numbers of deaths where MRSA was a contributory factor are given in the table below.

Northern Ireland

Lady Hermon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on the aspects of his Budget which extend to Northern Ireland. [223268]

Mr. Boateng: The Northern Ireland economy is continuing to prosper through the Government's sound management of the economy with steady growth, low inflation and low unemployment. The Chancellor announced on 16 March a series of measures that further promote stability, higher productivity, employment, fairness and improved public services in Northern Ireland, including raising the threshold for stamp duty land tax from £60,000 to £120,000, and an increase in the child element of the child tax credit. The Chancellor also provided an additional £88 million for Northern Ireland departments as a consequence of English spending increases. It will be for Northern Ireland Ministers to decide how to allocate these sums. In addition £24 million was provided including to finance a £200 payment to over 65 pensioner ratepayer households equivalent to that in Great Britain. Further details of the Budget can be found in the Budget 2005 Report (HC 372).

Private Equity Industry

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how he intends to differentiate between private equity houses working in collaboration, and non-collaborating private investors as part of the recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules. [222090]

Dawn Primarolo: Whether persons act together or independently is a matter of fact to be considered in the circumstances of any particular case.

Red Diesel

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will publish the responses to the recent consultation on red diesel use for excepted vehicles. [222977]

John Healey: This consultation has only recently closed and responses are currently being analysed. A summary of responses to the consultation will be published in due course.

Stamp Duty

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the reduction in stamp duty yield from residential property which would result from raising the threshold at which one per cent. stamp duty starts from £120,000 to £150,000. [223264]

Mr. Timms: The estimated revenue cost in 2005–06 of restructuring stamp duty on residential property sales by raising the threshold from £120,000 to £150,000 is £210 million. This does not include any allowance for behavioural changes.

Mr. Flight: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what projections he has made of revenue from stamp duty on (a) property and (b) share transactions in each of the next three financial years. [223514]

Mr. Timms: Estimated and projected revenues for total stamp taxes in 2004–05 and 2005–06 are published in table C8 of the Budget 2005 report. The breakdown between duty on land and property (stamp duty land tax) and share transactions is given in the following table:

Stamp duty land tax	6.3	6.7
Stamp taxes on shares	2.6	3.0

Stamp Duty/Air Passenger Duty

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much revenue was raised by (a) stamp duty on the purchase of residential properties and (b) air passenger duty on commercial flights departing from a UK airport in each tax year from 1994–95 to 2003–04. [223035]

Mr. Timms: Stamp duty receipts from residential property transactions are given in Table 15.2 of Inland Revenue Statistics: http://www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/stamp_duty/table15_2_october04.pdf. Historic Air Passenger Duty revenue figures can be found in table 2.1D of Financial Statistics published by the Office for National Statistics, a copy of which is available in the Library of the House.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the expected revenue from (a) stamp duty on the purchase of residential properties and (b) air passenger duty is in 2004–05. [223036]

Mr. Timms: Stamp duties are forecast to raise £8.9 billion in 2004–05.

Stamp duty Land Tax receipts from residential property for 2004–05 will be published later this year.

Air passenger duty is forecast to raise £0.9 billion in 2004–05.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many purchases of residential properties stamp duty has been charged in each tax year from 1994–95 to 2003–04. [223037]

Mr. Timms: The number of residential property purchases that were charged stamp duty in England and Wales from 1994–95 to 2003–04 is estimated in the following table.

Estimated number of residential property transactions charged stamp duty

	Thousand
1995–06	374
1996–97	482
1997–98	570
1998–99	589
1999–2000	773
2000–01	748
2001–02	866

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many passengers were exempt from paying air passenger duty on commercial flights departing from a UK airport in each tax year from 1994–95 to 2003–04; [223038]

(2) how many passengers were charged air passenger duty on flights departing from a UK airport in each tax year from 1994–95 to 2003–04; [223039]

(3) what estimate he has made of revenue lost to the Treasury in each year from 1994–95 to 2003–04 due to the exemption from air passenger duty of transit and transfer passengers on flights departing from a UK airport. [223040]

John Healey: HM Customs and Excise does not collect figures on the number of passengers departing from UK airports who are exempt from paying the air passenger duty. It is therefore not possible to estimate the revenue loss from exempting from the air passenger duty transit and transfer passengers on flights departing from UK airports.

Historic figures on the numbers of passengers travelling in each air passenger duty category are published in the air passenger duty bulletin, a copy of which can be found on the UK trade information website www.uktradeinfo.com.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220962]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is as follows.

Tax (Administration Costs)

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the administration costs associated with each tax and duty were in the last year for which figures are available; and what percentage of revenues raised by each tax and duty was accounted for by administration costs. [222909]

Dawn Primarolo: The Inland Revenue's estimated gross administration costs by tax and duty in 2003–04 were as follows.

	£ million
Income tax	1,671.4
Corporation tax	348.5
National insurance contributions	315.3
Petroleum revenue tax	2.1
Capital gains tax	47.4
Inheritance tax	31.4
Stamp taxes	32.6

These taxes are all collected by the Inland Revenue and incur administration costs.

The cost of collection of these taxes in 2003–04, expressed as pence per pound collected, is available from Table 1, Appendix 1 of the Inland Revenue Annual Report and Accounts for the year ended 31 March 2004.

HM Customs and Excise does not routinely collect information on the costs of its activities by each tax and duty stream and I am not able therefore to provide the detailed cost information you request. Information on aggregate resource usage against each of the Department's high-level objectives and on the costs of the operations of HM Customs and Excise is available in the published Annual Report and Accounts.

Tax Credits

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many tax credits payments have been calculated and paid manually in each month in the current tax year. [221127]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 14 March 2005]: Around 334,000 such payments were made from April 2004 to February 2005 broken down:

Month	No of Payments (£000)
April 2004	35
May 2004	20
June 2004	20
July 2004	30
August 2004	30
September 2004	30
October 2004	35
November2004	40
December2004	40
January 2005	30
February 2005	35

The allocation of payments to precise payment dates requires a degree of estimation and are therefore rounded to the nearest 5,000.

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will list the statistics relating to tax credits, which, since 1997 (a) are no longer collected by his Department and (b) have had the way in which the figures are compiled changed. [221795]

Dawn Primarolo: Tax credits were first introduced in 1999. Therefore prior to this the Inland Revenue did not collect or compile any statistics relating to tax credits. In April 2003, working families tax credit (WFTC) and disabled persons tax credit (DPTC) were replaced by child and working tax credits. Statistics on WFTC and DPTC (for the period 1999–2003) and child and working tax credits (from 2003 onwards) are published on the Inland Revenue website at www.ir.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/menu.htm.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer in how many cases where compensation has been awarded to a tax credit claimant for overpayment the compensation was worth (a) zero to 5 per cent., (b) 5 to 10 per cent., (c) 10 to 15 per cent., (d) 15 to 20 per cent., (e) 20 to 25 per cent., (f) 25 to 30 per cent., (g) 30 to 35 per cent., (h) 35 to 40 per cent., (i) 45 to 50 per cent. and (j) over 50 per cent. of the total overpayment. [222608]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The information is not available.

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what criteria are used for charging interest where an individual has been overpaid tax credits. [222713]

Dawn Primarolo: Interest is charged only where an overpayment of tax credits has arisen due to fraud or neglect on the part of the person or persons making the claim.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many households experienced changes in circumstances resulting in a mid-year adjustment to a tax credits award in 2003–04; and what estimate the Inland Revenue has made of the number of households which are likely to have experienced a change in circumstances in the 2004–05 tax year. [222783]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 21 March 2005]: This information is not available.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what research has been undertaken by the Inland Revenue into the likelihood of claimants reporting changes in circumstances affecting a tax credit award. [222784]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 21 March 2005]: I refer my right hon. Friend to the HM Treasury Document "The Child and Working Tax Credits", "The Modernisation of Britain's Tax and Benefit System, Number Ten", April 2002, Chapter 4.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 85W, on tax credits, how many TC 846 forms for the (a) 2003–04 and (b) 2004–05 tax year have been returned. [222789]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The information requested is not available.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much has been paid out to date for each tax credit in (a) the UK, (b) Scotland, (c) England and (d) Wales; how many households are in receipt of each tax credit in each case; and what the administration costs associated with each tax credit to date are (i) in total and (ii) as a percentage of the expenditure on that tax credit. [222915]

Dawn Primarolo: Total UK payments for working tax credit and child tax credit appear in the Inland Revenue Annual and Accounts for the year ending 31 March 2004. Exact figures for each country are not readily available.

Estimates of the numbers of in-work families in each country receiving working tax credit and child tax credit appear in "Child and Working Tax Credits. December 2004". This can be found on the Inland Revenue website at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/menu.htm

The costs of managing and paying tax credits for 2003–04 are given in the Inland Revenue Annual and Accounts for the year ending 31 March 2004.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people with income greater than (a) £15,000, (b) £20,000, (c) £25,000 and (d) £30,000 are in receipt of tax credits; what percentage of total expenditure on tax credits has gone to people in each category to date; and if he will make a statement. [222916]

Dawn Primarolo: "Child and Working Tax Credits: December 2004" contains analyses of families receiving tax credits at December 2004. It can be found on the Inland Revenue website at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/menu.htm. Table 6.1 shows an analysis of in-work recipient families by band of income used to taper the awards. Estimates are based on a sample of cases and are subject to sampling uncertainty.

The figures for the bands requested, on the same basis and excluding those with awards tapered to zero at that date, are:

Thousands

	Numbers in receipt of tax credit
(a) greater than £15,000	3,112.1
(b) greater than £20,000	2,597.3
(c) greater than £25,000	2,011.4
(d) greater than £30,000	1,388.8

Analyses of the value of awards will be published on 31 May 2005.

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Inland Revenue expects to correct the payments of working tax credit to Vanessa Bates; and when he expects to reply to the correspondence from the hon. Member for Bassetlaw relating to her case. [222728]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The Inland Revenue replied to the hon. Member on 11 January 2005. They will send him a copy of their letter.

On 8 March 2005, the Department wrote to the hon. Member's constituent about her Working Tax Credit (WTC) and has since corrected her payments.

Terrorist Assets

Dr. Vis: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much money suspected of being linked to terrorist assets (a) worldwide and (b) in the United Kingdom has been frozen since 11 September 2001. [223023]

Mr. Timms: Since 11 September 2001, 44 accounts totalling some £347,000 have been frozen in the UK. In total, 45 accounts, totalling some £378,000, are currently frozen by UK financial institutions. There is no global figure of the total assets frozen—monitoring frozen funds is a matter for individual jurisdictions.

All organisations and individuals whose assets have been frozen in accordance with the UN Security Council Resolutions, associated EC Regulations and domestic legislation are listed, by HM Treasury instruction, on the Bank of England's Financial Sanctions website. Asset freezing is an essential measure in countering the financing of terrorism by denying terrorists and their financiers access to funds across the world. Taking action not only freezes any funds in the UK but creates a hostile environment to deter terrorists from using the UK's financial system in future.

Transfer Pricing/Loan Relationship Rules

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules. [222095]

Dawn Primarolo: I made a written statement to the House on 4 March 2005, Official Report, column 97WS.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what discussions took place with the private equity industry prior to the recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules; [222096]

(2) what discussions he has had with representatives of the private equity industry regarding recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules. [222121]

Dawn Primarolo: Following representations made by the British Venture Capital Association concerning the application of transfer pricing rules, officials from HM Treasury and Inland Revenue met representatives of the association on a number of occasions. Further meetings are being arranged.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the changes in tax revenue which will result from recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules. [222125]

Dawn Primarolo: The changes prevent tax avoidance that could otherwise have reduced current and future tax revenues of about £300 million a year.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the impact of recent changes to (a) transfer pricing rules and (b) loan relationship rules on (i) the private equity industry and (ii) the City of London. [222127]

Dawn Primarolo: The changes ensure that the tax rules provide a level playing field for different investors. The UK will continue to be an alternative location for private equity investment and the private equity industry. The new rules are in line with those of our major competitors such as the USA and Germany.

VAT (Universities)

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many universities do not comply with Customs and Excise's preferred partial exemption method for VAT. [219536]

Dawn Primarolo: Customs and Excise do not have a preferred partial exemption method for universities or for any other organisation. Partly exempt organisations can either operate the standard method of partial exemption or, if they feel this is not suitable for them, they can seek approval for a special method that is individually tailo[redacted]rcumstances. Most universities prefer t[redacted]l method. Customs will approve an[redacted] that is fair and reasonable.

There is no [redacted] the number of universities that [redacted]ption methods acceptable to Custom[redacted] each university's VAT affairs are specif[redacted]change continually.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Burmese Teak

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment she has made of whether national lottery grants have been awarded to projects using Burmese teak. [223424]

Estelle Morris: The Department's lottery awards database does not hold information about the materials used in lottery-supported construction projects.

Lottery distributors are obliged to take into account policy directions from the Secretary of State. These directions set out the framework for the wider aims of lottery funding, and include the need for the distributing bodies to further the objectives of sustainable development when awarding lottery grants. The lottery distributing bodies are strongly committed to sustainable development, including the procurement of timber from legal and sustainable sources.

Food Advertising

Mr. Chris Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what research she has commissioned on changes in the trends in food advertising on television and radio that have occurred since the publication of the White Paper on public health. [222178]

Estelle Morris: None. Ofcom's work on options for tightening the rules on broadcast food promotion to children will include original research on the volume, frequency and nature of food and drink advertising and the Department of Health and Food Standards Agency will look to establish success criteria for monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of action to restrict further the promotion to children of foods high in fat, salt and sugar across media, consulting my Department and Ofcom as necessary.

Licensing

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment she has made of the impact of the recent changes to licensing legislation on small licensed hotels and guest houses, with particular reference to costs. [223477]

Mr. Caborn: There were full public consultations with regard to the Licensing Bill, the draft fees and draft regulations. A full Regulatory Impact Assessment was provided to Parliament with the Bill and it is available in the Library of the House. I am satisfied that the fee regulations and order are proportionate and fair and that the 2003 Act will not place an undue burden on small businesses, such as small licensed hotels and guest houses. Indeed, I expect the combined effects of reduced bureaucracy in the new system—through integrating six existing licensing regimes into one—and the encouragement of a more diverse offer to tourists will greatly benefit this important sector.

Scanners

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) MRI scanners, (b) CT scanners and (c) other scanners have been purchased for the NHS from monies provided by the New Opportunities Fund; which hospitals have received them; and in which year they were acquired. [222610]

Estelle Morris [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The New Opportunities Fund has awarded funding to the following hospitals for MRI/CT and other scanners, in the years 1999, 2001, 2002 and 2004. The dates of purchase are not known centrally. No awards were made in 2000 or 2003.

In addition to the awards made, funding from the New Opportunities Fund totalling £4,986,197 has been allocated under the Coronary Heart Disease, Stroke and Cancer Programme Wales for the purchase of Angiography equipment for six NHS trusts in Wales. To date, only one trust, Bro Morgannwg NHS Trust, has purchased equipment, as most of the trusts have had to do a capital build to house equipment.

Notes:
1. All wards based on census wards—those current as at April 2003.
2. Income support (IS) and jobseekers allowance (JSA) data is based on the latest published data relating to August 2003.
3. JSA includes children within families claiming income based JSA only. IS includes children in all claims including those for minimum income guarantee.
4. All benefit counts at ward level are rounded to a multiple of 5 to protect the confidentiality of individual claimants and their families.
5. The total children aged 0 to 15 at ward level are based on the relevant 2001 census.
6. The anomaly in the data for Westminster, Church Street is caused by either population changes between 2001 (census data) and 2003 (benefit data) or undercounting in the census.

Council Tax Assistance

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Morecambe and Lunesdale he expects will benefit from the £200 council tax assistance. [223478]

Malcolm Wicks: We estimate that about 13,000 pensioners in the Morecambe and Lunesdale constituency will benefit from the £200 council tax assistance.

Note:
Parliamentary constituencies are assigned by matching postcodes against the ONS postcode directory.

Judicial Appointments

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time judicial appointments have been made to the Appeal Service and its predecessors in each year since 1975, broken down by gender. [223067]

Mr. Leslie: I have been asked to reply.

The gender split for full-time and part-time appointments to the appeals service for each year between 1999–2004 is set out in the following table. These figures are obtained from the Judicial Appointments Annual Report to Parliament for each of the financial years covering this period. The figures originate from the judicial database and reflect the information held on the database at the time of obtaining the statistical report.

Only partial figures between 1975 and 1998 are available, and those can be determined only at disproportionate cost.

Appointments to the appeals service—fee-paid judicial officers

2003–04	32	11	43

[1] Figures include the appointment of in-post Independent Tribunal Service officers as judicial officers for the Appeal Service.

Low-income Households

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) pensioners have and (b) children are in families with an income of less than (i) 40 per cent., (ii) 50 per cent. and (iii) 60 per cent. of average earnings in (A) the UK, (B) Scotland, (C) England and (D) Wales. [222914]

Mr. Pond: Robust estimates of the number of individuals in low income, within all countries of Great Britain, are not available. We have therefore presented all estimates as proportions.

The following table shows the proportion of pensioners living in households with income below thresholds of national mean income in Great Britain in 2002–03.

The proportion of pensioners with income below thresholds of GB mean income, for selected countries, 2002–03

	Thresholds Below 40 per cent. mean	Below 50 per cent. mean	Below 60 per cent. mean
Before housing costs
UK	10	23	38
England	10	23	38
Scotland	8	22	40
Wales	8	20	37
After housing costs
UK	9	23	40
England	10	24	40
Scotland	8	23	39
Wales	7	18	36

The following table shows the proportion of children living in households with income below thresholds of national mean income in Great Britain in 2002–03.

The proportion of children with income below thresholds of GB mean income, for selected countries, 2002–03

	Thresholds Below 40 per cent. mean	Below 50 per cent. mean	Below 60 per cent. mean
Before housing costs
UK	10	22	36
England	10	22	35
Scotland	10	24	38
Wales	10	27	43
After housing costs
UK	18	30	40
England	18	30	40
Scotland	16	27	40
Wales	19	34	45

Notes:
1. Figures in the 'below 40 per cent. mean' column should be treated with caution and are considered less robust than results using higher thresholds.
2. The estimates are based on sample counts, which have been adjusted for non-response using multipurpose grossing factors that control for tenure, council tax band and a number of other variables. Estimates are subject to both sampling error, and to remaining variability in non-response which is not corrected by the grossing regime.

Further information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in 'Households Below Average Income 1994–95 to 2002–03', a copy of which is held in the Library.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in (a) the UK, (b) Scotland, (c) England and (d) Wales live in households with income less than (i) £8,000, (ii) £10,000, (iii) £12,000, (iv) £14,000 and (v) £16,000. [222913]

Mr. Pond: The information available is in the tables.

Notes:
1. All figures are estimates and are taken from the Family Resources Survey (FRS). Due to regional volatility, regional estimates are based on a three year average from 2000–01 to 2002–03. The UK estimate is for 2002–03 only, as the FRS did not cover Northern Ireland until 2002–03.
2. Results are presented as percentages as these can be estimated more reliably.
3. Figures are based on a total income at 2002–03 prices.
4. The FRS is not designed to collect information on annual income. Earnings figures are based on last usual pay. Annual income is estimated by assuming that the income for the relevant period applied for the whole year.
5. The figures relate to the percentage of individuals, including both adults and children, in households whose household income was in the band shown.
6. The estimates are based on sample counts that have been adjusted for non-response using multi-purpose grossing factors. Estimates are subject to sampling error and remaining response bias.
7. Total weekly household income consists of total income from all sources before deduction of income tax and national insurance. This includes all tax credits.
8. Total income has not been adjusted for family size.

Unemployment Programme

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Perth (Annabelle Ewing) of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 2021W, on Unemployment Programme, if he will provide the figures for the (a) new deal for lone parents, (b) new deal for 25 plus or long-term unemployed, (c) new deal for partners and (d) new deal for disabled people for each year since 1997. [223066]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is in table 7 on page 171 of the 2004 DWP departmental report, which is available in the Library.

Unemployment

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what he estimates the cost of benefits paid to people who were unemployed and seeking work in the City of York was in (a) 1996–97 and (b) 2004–05, at 2004–05 prices. [222310]

Mr. Pond: The information is not available in the format requested. The information for housing benefit and council tax benefit is not available at this level. The available information is in the table.

Jobseeker's allowance expenditure in City of York council area
£ million, real terms, 2004–05 prices

	1996–97	2004–05
Jobseeker's allowance
Contribution based	2.9	1.2
Income based	4.2	2.7
Total jobseekers allowance benefits	7.1	3.9

Notes:
1. All figures have been rounded to the nearest £100,000.
2. The information relates to the City of York local authority area.
3. Figures are consistent with the pre-Budget report 2004 and with expenditure information published on the internet at http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp (table 1)

Expenditure has been taken from departmental accounting systems and has been apportioned using 5 per cent. sample data for the relevant benefits.

Winter Fuel Allowance

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Morecambe and Lunesdale received the winter fuel allowance in winter 2004–05. [223476]

Malcolm Wicks: Information on the number of pensioners in Morecambe and Lunesdale who receive the winter fuel payment is in the Library.

HEALTH

MRI Scanners

14. Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the co-ordination of national contracts for MRI scanners with individual NHS hospital trust MRI scanner provision. [223091]

Mr. Hutton: It is for strategic health authorities and primary care trusts to ensure that the additional capacity procured through this exercise fits with what is required locally, together with future investment in diagnostic services delivered by the national health service.

The independent sector procurement programme is already helping to deliver faster access to high quality diagnostic tests, including magnetic resonance imaging scans. This is excellent news for patients.

Neurological Intensive Care Beds

15. Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many neurological intensive care beds there are in England. [223093]

Dr. Ladyman: As at 13 January 2005, there were 80 neurological intensive care beds in England.

The National Service Framework for Long Term Conditions, published on 10 March, sets out our vision for further improving access to health and social care for people with neurological conditions.

Dementia

16. Mr. Greenway: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the availability of drugs to treat dementia. [223095]

Dr. John Reid: The National Institute for Clinical Excellence has recently produced draft guidance on the use of drugs for Alzheimer's disease. This guidance is currently out for consultation. We will be responding shortly, and will seek to highlight the issues that we believe to be important.

Bluebell Surgery, Colchester

17. Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make an official visit to the Bluebell surgery at Highwoods, Colchester to discuss the standard of accommodation. [223096]

Dr. Ladyman: I have no immediate plans to visit the Bluebell surgery in Colchester. However, I am advised that Colchester primary care trust has recently confirmed its commitment to building a new community facility that will also provide accommodation for staff and patients of the Bluebell surgery.

NHS Staff

18. Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of (a) doctors, (b) nurses and (c) other professionals in the NHS are foreign nationals or were trained abroad. [223097]

Mr. Hutton: Data of the nationality of doctors, nurse and other professionals working in the national health service are not held centrally.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) doctors, (b) nurses and (c) clinical staff were employed in (i) north and east Yorkshire and Northern Lincolnshire strategic health authority, (ii) Selby and York primary care trust and (iii) York hospitals NHS trust in (A) 1997 and (B) 2004. [222293]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is shown in the table. Figures are not yet available for 2004.

National health service hospital and community health services: Non-medical staff by main staff group in the specified organisations as at 30 September each year

Primary Care

19. Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the promotion of primary care to erode income-related health differentials. [223098]

Mr. Hutton: Last year, the Department announced 88 Spearhead primary care trusts, which are the 88 areas with the worst health and deprivation indicators. In the recent allocations round, Spearhead PCTs received above average growth. By 2007–08, Spearhead PCTs will be allocated £1552 per person, compared with an average for all PCTs of £1338 per person.

East Sussex Hospitals Trust

20. Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to reduce the number of cancelled operations in East Sussex hospitals trust. [223099]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I am aware that there are concerns about the recent number of cancelled operations at East Sussex hospitals NHS trust.

It is the responsibility of primary care trusts, working with their strategic health authorities, councils and other stakeholders to plan, improve and sustain services for local people.

Leaders of the local health and social care organisations met early in March to discuss the operational problems faced by the hospital, and have agreed measures designed to help address these problems.

Solvent Abuse

21. Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on levels of solvent abuse among young people. [223100]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The statistics on drug use, smoking and drinking among young people in England 2003 indicate that 8 per cent. of young people aged 11–15 abused solvent in 2003 compared with 6 per cent. in 2002.

While deaths from solvent abuse have continued to decline over the past 10 years, the Government are keen to see these fall further. We have therefore been working with a wide range of stakeholders and other Government Departments to develop a framework for volatile substance abuse which will be published shortly.

Chiropody

22. Mr. McLoughlin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS patients received chiropody treatment in 2003–04. [223101

Dr. Ladyman: The number of different persons seen in the year by national health service chiropody services in 2003–04 was 2.1 million.

Speech Therapists

23. Chris Bryant: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many speech therapists were practising in England in each year from 2000 to 2004. [223102]

Dr. Ladyman: The Health Professions Council holds information on the number of speech and language therapists registered to practice in the UK.

As at September 2004, there were 6,556 speech and language therapists employed in the NHS. This is an increase of 21 per cent. from 5,430 on September 2000.

Abortion

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many private abortion clinics have been closed down following inspection since 1991; [221742]

(2) what action is taken when private abortion clinics do not meet national standards. [221743]

(3) when the British Pregnancy Advisory Service Clinic in Leamington Spa was most recently inspected; [221744]

(4) how frequently private abortion clinics are inspected. [221745]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Private abortion clinics are inspected annually by the Healthcare Commission.

The British Pregnancy Advisory Service clinic in Leamington Spa was last inspected on 28 April 2004.

Action taken by the Healthcare Commission when clinics do not meet the national standards is proportionate to the level of concern. However, this includes the authority to cancel a clinic's registration, which may also lead to a withdrawal of approval under the Abortion Act.

Since 1991, one clinic has had its registration, and its approval under the Abortion Act 1967, withdrawn and one clinic chose to close voluntarily in order to give the provider time to comply with the requirements set.

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons the national abortion statistics for 2003 contain less detailed information than in the previous five years. [221747]

Miss Melanie Johnson: As stated in the statistical bulletin summary, "Abortion Statistics, England and Wales: 2003", the format of tables changed to reflect concerns over issues of privacy and confidentiality. These issues are now being considered in more detail and we have asked the National Statistician to provide the Department and the new Health and Social Care Information Centre with guidelines for interpreting the national statistics code of practice and associated protocols in the handling of health statistics that balance data confidentiality risks with the public interest in the use of the figures. We expect to receive these in the summer.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research the Government have conducted on the likely effects on young women of reducing the time limit for legal abortion. [222983]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department is not aware of any Government commissioned research on the effects on young women of reducing the time limit for legal abortion.

Advisory Committee on Cancer Prevention

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch Presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee on cancer prevention met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [216222]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1731W.

Alcohol

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children aged between 11 and 15 years were admitted to hospital in each strategic health authority owing to alcohol-related problems in each year since 2002–03. [221890]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 16 March 2005]: Episodes of children aged between 11 and 15 years admitted to hospital in each strategic health authority owing to alcohol-related problems in each year since 2001–02 are shown in the table.

Notes:

Alcohol-related diseases: These are defined by a primary diagnosis of mental and behavioural disorders due to alcohol (ICD10 code F10), alcoholic liver disease (K70) or toxic effect of alcohol (T51) or a cause code of accidental poisoning by and exposure to alcohol (X45).

Finished in-year admissions: A finished in-year admission is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider, excluding admissions beginning before 1 April at the start of the data-year. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

Diagnosis (primary diagnosis): The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002–03) diagnosis fields in the hospital episode statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.

Cause code: The cause code is a supplementary code that indicates the nature of any external cause of injury, poisoning or other adverse effects.

Grossing: Figures are grossed for both coverage and missing or invalid clinical data, except for 2002–03 and 2003–04, which are not yet adjusted for shortfalls.

Antibiotics (Farms)

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact on health of the use of antibiotics on farms; and if he will make a statement. [221687]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I am advised by the Food Standards Agency (FSA) that the use of antibiotics in human rather than veterinary medicines is thought to be the main source of resistant micro-organisms in the human population, but we recognise that transfer of resistant bacteria can also occur through the food chain. Action has been taken to phase out the use of antibiotic growth promoters in animals and to make sure that antibiotics are used responsibly in the treatment of sick animals. Measures to prevent food-borne disease, such as cooking, will also prevent the transmission of resistant bacteria.

Antibiotic residues in food, resulting from on-farm use and their implications for consumer health, are monitored by the veterinary residues committee and the FSA. The residue levels currently reported do not raise any concerns about risks to consumer health.

Cancer

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether he intends to make estimates of the number of people expected to be diagnosed with cancer over the medium-to long-term to inform the NHS Cancer Plan, as recommended in paragraph 2.10, page 22 of the National Audit Office Report, The NHS Cancer Plan: A Progress Report; [222819]

(2) what steps he is taking to define the roles and responsibilities of the constituent organisations of cancer networks; [222822]

(3) what steps he is taking to ensure that cancer networks (a) are fully staffed and (b) have adequate representation from NHS trusts and primary care trusts. [222823]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department welcomes the National Audit Office report, "The NHS Cancer Plan: A Progress Report", and will take account of the issues raised and the recommendations made as we further develop and improve cancer services. The report will be discussed in detail at a Committee of Public Accounts hearing scheduled for 23 March 2005. Sir Nigel Crisp, chief executive of the national health service and Professor Mike Richards, national cancer director, will give evidence at the hearing. The Government will respond to the Committee's subsequent report in the form of a Treasury Minute.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he intends to establish a pilot programme for raising public awareness of the symptoms of cancer. [222820]

Miss Melanie Johnson: A pilot programme of raising public awareness of the symptoms of cancer will be set up this year.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to complete the investment tracking exercise on funding for cancer services, as described in paragraph 1.10, page 10, of the National Audit Office Report, The NHS Cancer Plan: A Progress Report. [222821]

Miss Melanie Johnson: As stated in the National Audit Office Report, preliminary results from the second investment tracking exercise show that the £570 million target should be met. Final validation of the data received is currently being undertaken, and it is expected that the results of the exercise will be available in spring 2005.

Cardiac Arrhythmia

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which NHS trusts are equipped to use electro physiological interventions in the treatment of cardiac arrhythmia. [223215]

Miss Melanie Johnson: All of the 29 tertiary cardiac centres in England are equipped for and capable of administering electrophysiological interventions in the treatment of cardiac arrhythmia. They are located within the following national health service trusts.

Papworth Hospital NHS Trust
Hammersmith Hospitals NHS Trust
Royal Brompton and Harefield NHS Trust
St. Mary's NHS Trust
University College London Hospitals NHS Trust
Barts and the London NHS Trust
Guy's and St. Thomas' Hospital NHS Trust
King's College Hospital NHS Trust
St. George's Healthcare NHS Trust
The Newcastle Upon Tyne Hospitals NHS Trust
South Tees Hospitals NHS Trust
Hull and East Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust

University Hospital of Coventry and Warwickshire NHS Trust

Cardiac Health

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what action the Government are taking to reduce cardiac health risks among young people. [222175]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I published the "Choosing Health" delivery plan together with "Choosing a Better Diet"—a food and health action plan and "Choosing Activity"—a physical activity action plan, on 9 March, which set out how the Government will deliver on a range of public health interventions to reduce the risks to the whole population and to key sectors, including young people. These plans set out in detail specific measures to reduce tobacco consumption, increase healthy diets and physical activity all of which are key behaviours for reducing the incidence of cardiovascular disease.

Care Homes/Social Care

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) independent and (b) local authority care (i) homes and (ii) places there were in each local authority area in England providing (A) nursing care and (B) residential care in the most recent period for which figures are available. [219390]

Dr. Ladyman: The following information has been placed in the Library.

The number of residential care homes in England by Council with Social Service Responsibilities (CSSR) and nursing homes by health authority (HA) for people aged 18 and over as at 31 March 2001.

The number of residential home places in England by CSSR and nursing home places by HA for people aged 18 and over as at 31 March 2001.

I understand from the chair of the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that figures for later years were collected by the National Care Standards Commission, and now CSCI, but comparable details are not available.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, columns 135–36W, on care homes, how many (a) privately-owned and (b) local authority owned care homes there are in the Vale of York according to regionalised data provided by the Commission for Social Care Inspection. [221441]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I understand from the chair of the Commission for Social Care Inspection that information on the number of registered care homes by sector and local authority area is not yet available.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the orders to increase the regulatory fees in 2005–06 for care homes and social care providers are expected to be laid before Parliament; and if he will make a statement. [223249]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The Commission for Social Care Inspection (Fees and Frequency of Inspections) (Amendment) Regulations 2005 were laid before Parliament on 10 March 2005 and come into force on 1 April 2005. I refer the hon. Member to the written statement I made on 8 February 2005, Official Report, column 77WS.

Carers

Virginia Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Parliamentary Under-Secretary will reply to the letter of 7 February from the right hon. Member for South West Surrey on action for carers. [222495]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department has no record of having received a letter dated 7 February from the right hon. Member for South West Surrey on action for carers. A letter on this subject, dated 9 March, was received by the Department on 15 March and a response will be provided before the easter recess.

Chorley South Ribble Primary Care Trust

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the process is for appointing a new chair for the Chorley South Ribble Primary Care Trust; and what the time scale is for the appointment. [222283]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Secretary of State has delegated his functions relating to the appointments to primary care trusts to the National Health Service Appointments Commission. I have asked the chair, Sir William Wells, to write directly to my hon. Friend with the information he has requested.

Contaminated Blood Products

Mr. O'Hara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons financial support is not provided to women widowed through the infection of their husbands with hepatitis C from contaminated blood products prescribed for them by the NHS. [223180]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Unlike the Macfarlane and Eileen Trusts, which administer schemes for those infected with HIV, the ex gratia payment scheme for those infected with hepatitis C as a result of national health service treatment with blood or blood products, known as the Skipton Fund, is not a charitable trust.

The Skipton Fund has been designed to make lump sum, ex gratia payments to those living with the hepatitis C virus and has not been designed to compensate for bereavement. For these reasons it is distinct from the HIV payment schemes.

Deep Vein Thrombosis

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the level of deaths from deep vein thrombosis among NHS patients. [222205]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Virtually all deaths from deep vein thrombosis occur as a result of a pulmonary embolism and most pulmonary embolisms arise from deep vein thrombosis in the leg. However, the precise description of this sequence of events leading to death, as provided on the death certificate, affects whether the death is coded as pulmonary embolism or thrombosis. Therefore, a figure combining the two causes is shown in the table.

Number of deaths from pulmonary embolism and deep vein thrombosis[1], persons, England and Wales, 1998–2003[2]

1999	6,877
2000	7,233
2001	7,207
2003	7,361

[1] The cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Ninth Revision (ICD-9) codes 415.1, 451.1, 451.2, 451.9 and 453.9 for the years 1998 to 2000 and, for the years 2001 to 2003, the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes I26, I80.1, I80.2, I80.3, I80.9 and I82.9.
[2] Figures are for deaths occurring in each calendar year.

The Government have noted the recent report published by the Health Committee into the prevention of venous thromboembolism in hospitalised patients and will provide a full response in due course.

Digital Hearing Aids

Mrs. Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made in the reduction of waiting times for digital hearing aids. [223354]

Dr. Ladyman: The figures on waiting times for digital hearing aids are not collected centrally. It is for primary care trusts to ensure their local population benefits from modernised hearing aid services.

Disability Equipment

Mr. Osten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with internet providers on rules governing the re-sale of disability equipment. [222961]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 18 March 2005]: We have not had any discussions with internet providers on rules governing the re-sale of disability equipment.

We would expect anyone who is re-selling disability equipment whether on the internet or not, to take their liabilities into account and their duty to the public to ensure that the re-sold equipment is fit for purpose, decontaminated and ideally has a full service history.

Drug Addicts

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many registered drug addicts per head of population there are in (a) Birmingham, (b) Bristol, (c) Leeds, (d) Liverpool, (e) Manchester, (f) Newcastle, (g) Nottingham and (h) Sheffield. [214038]

Miss Melanie Johnson: There is no requirement on drug misusers to register their addiction. The number per thousand population in contact with structured treatment during 2003–04, the most recent year for which figures are available, was:

	Number
Birmingham	4.2
Bristol	7.6
Leeds	3.4
Liverpool	6.4
Manchester	6.9
Newcastle-upon-Tyne	3.1
Nottingham	5.7
Sheffield	3.5

Drug Rehabilitation

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 4 March, Official Report, column 1467W, on drug rehabilitation, what measures he is taking to encourage community drug services' treatment protocols to reflect the advice on alternatives to methadone substitution therapy. [222519]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 17 March 2005]: A range of guidance has been produced by the Department and the National Treatment Agency (NTA) including:

Department of Health Clinical Guidelines (1999);

Models of Care for the Treatment of Drug Misusers (December 2002), and NTA guidance on components of prescribing services (2003)—Research into practice briefing 2.

These all promote a range of appropriate treatment options including alternatives to methadone substitution therapy.

These documents promote the use of medication in the context of a package of care and advise on detoxification and availability of a range of psychological interventions and pathways to rehabilitation and recovery.

The Department continues to fund the Royal College of General Practitioners, which provides training to doctors, nurses and pharmacists on the range of drug treatment options including substitution medication and psychological interventions.

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the 2004–05 budget is for drug rehabilitation; what the budgets are for each year until 2007–08; and if he will make a statement. [222672]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The pooled drug treatment budget for 2004–05, and the allocated funding up until 2007–08 is shown in the table.

	£ million
2004–05	253.4
2005–06	299.4
2006–07	423.8
2007–08	478.4

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on provision of drug treatment in Lancashire. [213906]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Within the Lancashire Drug Action Team (DAT) area, there are a number of substance misuse services providing treatment in line with National Treatment Agency models of care and the drug interventions programme, the levels of intervention continue to evolve to meet the needs of the individual.

The Lancashire DAT plans to provide treatment for 4,113 problem drug users in the area in the current financial year, rising to 5,307 in 2007–08.

Average national waiting times for drug treatment in England have fallen, from an average of 9.1 weeks in December 2001, to 2.5 weeks in June 2004. Lancashire DAT reported an average waiting time of 3.75 weeks in December 2004.

Lancashire's allocation from the pooled drug treatment budget in 2004–05 is £4.3 million in the current year. This will increase by 21.2 per cent. in 2005–06 to £5.2 million.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding was made available for drug action and rehabilitation teams in each year since 2001. [221165]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department and the Home Office have combined the funding provided for drug treatment. Known as the 'pooled treatment budget', this money is allocated to the 149 drug action teams across the country. This budget will increase from £142 million in 2001–02 to £478 million in 2007–08.

The pooled treatment budget allocation since 2001 is shown in the table.

	Amount (£ million)
2001–02	142
2002–03	191

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much funding was provided for each drug action and rehabilitation team in the latest year for which funding is available (a) per team member and (b) per user. [221166]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department and the Home Office have combined the funding provided for drug treatment. Known as the 'pooled treatment budget' this money is allocated to the 149 drug action teams (DATs) across the country. This budget is increasing from £142 million in 2001–02, to £478 million in 2007–08. The pooled treatment budget allocation for 2004–05 is £253 million.

DATs make their own decisions on staffing and commissioning of services. We do not hold information centrally on these costs.

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have received (a) treatment and (b) assistance from West Leeds community drug service since it was set up; and if he will estimate how many lives the service has saved. [222245]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested.

The number of people seen by the West Leeds community drug services from April 2004 to December 2004 was 410. There are no figures for 2003–04.

Treatment data from national drug treatment monitoring system are presented for each drug action team (DAT) area. The total number of individuals in contact with structured drug treatment services in the whole Leeds DAT partnership area for 2003–04 was 24,530.

Food Hygiene Regulations

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what representation he has received on his proposals for a remedial action notice within new food hygiene regulations; in what circumstances he would expect it to be used instead of the Emergency Prohibition Notice; and if he will make a statement. [221873]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I am advised by the Food Standards Agency (FSA) that concerns have been raised, largely by some meat industry stakeholders, about the use of the Remedial Action Notice in response to the FSA's consultation on new food hygiene legislation.

The proposed Remedial Action Notice would directly replace the existing Regulation 10 notice in current meat hygiene legislation. These notices are expected to be served in situations where requests for corrective measures to reduce the risk of contamination and consequent risk to public health have been ignored by the operator. Examples of where they might be used in slaughterhouses are:

> to promptly and effectively prohibit the use of a piece of equipment; impose conditions on, or the carrying out of a process; require the rate of production to be reduced or even stopped; or require the detention of any animal or food of animal origin for the purposes of examination.

Emergency Prohibition Notices and Orders are currently issued under the Food Safety Act 1990, and provision for Hygiene Emergency Prohibition Notices and Orders has been made in the draft Food Hygiene (England) Regulations. The current notices and orders are used where there is a real and imminent risk to health and the new provisions will replicate that requirement.

The FSA is considering the issues raised in the consultation to determine if the proposed legislation needs to be revised.

Food Poisoning

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were diagnosed as suffering from food poisoning in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [221685]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The number of notified cases of food poisoning in England and Wales reported to the Health Protection Agency (HPA) each year since 2001 is shown in the table. These numbers have shown a decrease each year since 2001.

	Notified cases of food poisoning in England and Wales

Notified cases of food poisoning are not considered to be a reliable indicator of food-borne disease due to considerable under-reporting of all notifiable diseases. Very few notified cases will be based on evidence supporting the suspected association with food.

Based on laboratory reports and multiplication factors derived from a large study of infectious intestinal disease[1], the HPA estimated that, in 2000, there may have been as many as 1.3 million cases of food-borne illness acquired in England and Wales, of which around 370,000 consulted a doctor[2]. In that year, only 86,528 cases of food poisoning were notified. The HPA has not carried out a similar estimate for subsequent years.

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the principal cause of food poisoning in England was in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [221686]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Notified cases of food poisoning are based on clinical diagnoses; therefore, it is not always possible to confirm the cause of the illness. However, estimates made by the Health Protection Agency (HPA)[1] have indicated that the main microbiological cause of food poisoning is "Campylobacter".

Data for 2001–03 on the number of laboratory-confirmed cases of illness in England and Wales caused by the five major food-borne bacteria also indicate that "Campylobacter" caused the greatest number of cases in each year.

Final figures for 2003 provided by the HPA are shown in the following table and suggest that the number of laboratory-confirmed cases of "Campylobacter" in England and Wales in 2003 decreased by 22 per cent. compared with the figures for 2001. Reliable data for 2004 are not yet available.

Foreign Patients

Mr. Forth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how much has been charged by the NHS in each of the last five years to non-UK and non-EU (a) nationals and (b) embassies; [223454]

(2) what percentage of NHS patients treated in the last year for which figures are available were (a) UK nationals, (b) EU nationals and (c) non-EU nationals. [223455]

Mr. Hutton: Successive Governments have not required the national health service to provide statistics on the number or nationality of overseas visitors treated under the provisions of the NHS (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Regulations 1989, as amended, or on the costs of treatment. It is therefore not possible to provide the information requested.

Great Ormond Street Hospital

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what deficit is projected for the Great Ormond Street hospital in the 2004–05 financial year. [222011]

Dr. Ladyman: The North Central London strategic health authority reports that the Great Ormond Street Hospital National Health Service Trust is forecasting they will achieve financial balance for the current financial year.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of MRSA infection have been recorded at the Great Ormond Street hospital in each of the last 10 years. [222013]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Data on Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections are only available by national health service trust since April 2001.

The table shows the published data for the last three and half years for Great Ormond Street Hospital for Children NHS Trust.

Health Funding (Leeds)

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the level of funding per head of population in each primary care trust in Leeds was in the last year for which figures are available; and what assessment his Department has made of inequality of healthcare provision in the city. [222879]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The table shows the allocations per weighted head of population in each primary care trust (PCT) in Leeds for 2004–05.

PCT	2004–05 allocation per weighted head of population
East Leeds	1,077.31

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients were treated at York NHS walk-in centre in 2004. [222270]

Miss Melanie Johnson: In 2004, York national health service walk-in centre treated 37,566 patients.

Healthcare-acquired Infections

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) guidance and (b) circulars were issued (i) between 1987 and 1997 and (ii) 1997 and 2005 on the control of healthcare-acquired infections; and what (A) ministerial statements and (B) press notices on the subject were issued between 1997 and 2005. 1997	Tessa Jowell responds to PHLS study into hospital acquired infection
1991	Stephen Dorrell stresses government's commitment to a Cleaner, Greener NHS
1990	NHS hospital receives national clean kitchen award: The Victoria Hospital in Blackpool won the major award

Between 1987 and 1997, cleanliness conditions in individual hospitals were the responsibility of the national health service trust to which the hospital belonged, and needed to comply with the Patient's Charter.

Healthy Eating

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions (a) he and (b) the Food Standards Agency have had with the food and drinks industry in response to the recommendations in the Health Select Committee report on obesity. [220800]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The commitments in the Choosing Health White Paper include many of the Health Select Committee's recommendations and positive discussions have taken place between the Department, the Food Standards Agency and the food and drinks industry on these, including approaches to reducing salt, fat and sugar in the diet.

Hepatitis B Vaccine

Derek Conway: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research his Department has (a) conducted and (b) evaluated concerning a possible link between hepatitis B vaccine and the development of autoimmune rheumatoid diseases; and if he will make a statement. [221609]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The safety of all medicines and vaccines, including hepatitis B vaccine, is continuously monitored by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), with expert advice from the Committee on Safety of Medicines (CSM). The MHRA uses a variety of data sources for this purpose including reports of suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) which are reported through the yellow card scheme, clinical trials, published literature, epidemiological studies and periodic safety update reports from marketing authorisation holders.

The known side effects of medicines and vaccines are described in their product information. Arthralgia and arthritis (joint pain and inflammation) have been reported very rarely in relation to hepatitis B vaccines and these possible side effects are included in product information. There have been reports of suspected adverse drug reactions suggesting an association between hepatitis B vaccine with rheumatoid arthritis.

In light of concerns raised by reports of suspected ADRs, in 2003, the MHRA and the vaccine working group of the CSM reviewed all the available evidence relating to the possible links between hepatitis B vaccine and rheumatoid arthritis. This review examined published literature and studies and reports of suspected adverse drug reactions. The working group advised that there is no confirmed scientific evidence linking the vaccine with an increased risk of rheumatoid arthritis. The MHRA will continue to monitor the safety of hepatitis B vaccine.

Herbal Medicinal Products

Mr. Tredinnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of differences in the (a) regulation and (b) supply of herbal products in each EU member state; and what steps he intends to take through the Herbal Medicinal Products Working Group to ensure that the requirements in respect of (i) quality standards and (ii) other matters for the registration of dossiers under the Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products Directive are set at a level appropriate to traditional herbal medicinal products; [222528]

(2) whether he intends to make it his policy in implementing the Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products Directive fully to use all the options afforded for national flexibility; and what account he will take of the potential regulatory burden on small and medium sized enterprises; [222529]

(3) when the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency expects to issue a comprehensive assessment of the costs of implementation of the Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products Directive; [222530]

(4) when he expects the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency to consult on the fees for processing registrations under the Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products Directive; whether that consultation will assess the impact of the proposed fee levels upon small and medium sized enterprises; and whether in setting the date for that consultation he expects the Agency to take account of the need of such enterprises to assess the impact of those costs before deciding whether to submit registrations under the provisions of the legislation prior to the deadline of October. [222531]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Before the European Commission brought forward proposals for the Directive on Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products (Directive 2004/24/EC) a study was carried out for the Commission on the then arrangements for regulation of herbal medicines across the European Union (EU). This demonstrated that there were significant differences between member states. The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) understands from discussion with industry and regulatory authorities in other EU member states that this assessment has been widely supported, and we do not see any need to replicate the work.

There are many thousands of herbal products on the market of one or more EU member state and variously falling within different categories, such as medicines, foods, food supplements, cosmetics or general consumer products. We do not see a case for commissioning a comparative assessment of the position in each member state and doubt its practicality.

The main requirements on quality and on the information and data to be included in dossiers flow directly from the terms of the Directive. There are existing European guidelines on the quality and manufacturing standards for medicines, including herbal medicines. We understand that the Herbal Medicinal Products Committee, based at the European Medicines Agency, may review whether any additions or modifications to existing guidelines are desirable or whether further guidelines are required on other issues relating to the Directive. However, there is no fundamental reason why quality standards, for example as to the identity and quality of ingredients, freedom from unacceptable levels of contamination, and the claimed shelf life of the product, should be lowered for traditional herbal medicines as compared with the requirements for other medicines with a marketing authorisation. The absence of such standards in the existing United Kingdom regime for unlicensed herbal medicines has been associated with evidence of risk to public health from low quality products. The UK appointed member of the Committee has extensive scientific and practical regulatory knowledge of herbal medicines and has regular discussions with industry and other interested parties. There is a range of opportunities for industry to make its views known to the Committee and the MHRA has encouraged the UK industry to contribute actively in this area.

Subject to the outcome of a further consultation on legislation to transpose the Directive into UK legislation, we intend to take advantage of the flexibility under the Directive to permit a transitional period to run until 2011 before products legally on the UK market at April 2004 are required to comply with the Directive. We also intend to permit product information to state the nature of the herbal tradition, which we believe will be helpful to consumers and to industry.

The MHRA has an extensive programme of work in hand to help industry, and in particular small and medium-sized enterprises, prepare for the Directive. Measures have included: a programme of workshops for industry; around 30 meetings with individual companies to advise them on the possibility of registering their products under the Directive; extensive website guidance on the Directive; and regular discussions with the industry's Herbal Forum to identify and respond to issues of concern. The Agency has received considerable positive feedback on the help provided to industry.

The MHRA gave indicative information on fee levels in the partial regulatory impact assessment published in 2003. In the light of detailed work that has taken place in the interim, updated specific proposals will be published for consultation by the early summer of 2005 along with an updated regulatory impact assessment. October 2005 is the date by which a registration scheme under the Directive must be introduced. It does not represent a deadline by which companies must apply to register products.

Home Care

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have received publicly funded home care in each year since 1991; and how many hours of publicly funded home care have been provided in each year since 1991. [219389]

Dr. Ladyman: The number of clients and households receiving publicly funded home care and the number of contact hours provided during a sample week in September for the years 1992 to 2003 is shown in the table. Data prior to 1992 are not available centrally. Double counting refers to where a household receives home care from both the council and the independent sector and is counted as two households. Additional information removing double counting has been collected since 2000. The figures for 1992, when the data collection was introduced, are less precise than figures for subsequent years.

In order to help older people stay at home, there has been a rise in more intensive home care packages. This has resulted in more contact hours being provided to slightly fewer households.

Hospital Parking Charges

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will abolish parking charges for hospital visitors; [222776]

(2) what the car parking charge is (a) per day, (b) per week, (c) per month and (d) for a short-term stay at each hospital in England. [222780]

Mr. Hutton: It is a matter for individual national health service hospitals to decide whether or not to charge for car parking and the level of charges in the light of local circumstances. Information on this activity is therefore not routinely collected centrally.

Many car parking charges are set to cover the cost of maintenance and security of the car park such as adequate lighting, car park attendants and security officers. If charges were not made to offset these costs the money would have to be found at the risk of cutting patient services elsewhere. There are therefore no plans to instruct hospitals to abolish car parking charges for visitors.

Hospital Readmissions

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the rates of readmission to hospitals have been in (a) England and (b) Lancashire in each year since 1997. [222098]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 15 March 2005]: Information on emergency readmissions for all ages, within 28 days of discharge, has been collected since 2002–03. Prior to that date, the quarterly information related to the over 75 age group only.

Table 1 shows the all ages emergency readmission rates for England for each quarter since quarter one (April to June) 2002.

Data for quarter 2 2002–03 are not available as not all organisations in the strategic health authority submitted a return. Traditionally, no estimates are made for in such instances. However, an overall England figure is estimated in such instances, as the margin of error is smaller.

Influenza Pandemic Plan

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what action he is taking to publicise the steps that the public should take to minimise the risk of transmission and infection in the event of an outbreak of an influenza pandemic. [220979]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Information is already available in the UK Pandemic Influenza Contingency Plan, and is available on the Department's website at: www.dh.gov.uk/pandemicflu.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to hasten the development of a vaccine in the event of an outbreak of an influenza pandemic. [220980]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The United Kingdom, in collaboration with the World Health Organization and international colleagues, is supporting research, developing seedstock for pandemic strains and continuing discussions with manufacturers about the development of a vaccine in the event of an influenza pandemic.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the phases in the UK Influenza Pandemic Plan published in March 1997 became inconsistent with the phases which trigger public health action as defined by the World Health Organisation; and when he expects the next change in these phases by the World Health Organisation. [220981]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The phases used in the 1997 UK Influenza Pandemic plan are geared to United Kingdom action.

The World Health Organization is currently considering modifications to the phases used to the international spread of an influenza pandemic. We understand these are to be published shortly. Any necessary amendments will be made to the UK plan.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on what basis an incubation period of one to three days, as described on page 25 of the UK Influenza Pandemic Plan, was assumed for planning purposes in the event of an outbreak of an influenza pandemic; and whether he plans to model the outbreak of an influenza pandemic with an incubation period of different length. [220982]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The incubation period of influenza ranges from one to seven days, but is commonly two to three days and this range was therefore used for planning purposes. There are no plans to extend this aspect of modelling.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to develop a strategy for the optimal use of antivirals in tackling an influenza pandemic; if he will publish this strategy; and what part the National Institute for Clinical Excellence will play in developing it. [220986]

Miss Melanie Johnson: We will consult the National Institute for Clinical Excellence for its views on the use of antivirals when developing the strategy, which will take into account comments received on the plan and be published in due course.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he will publish guidance for NHS organisations for use alongside the UK Influenza Pandemic Plan, as mentioned on page 7 of the plan; and for which organisations he expects to produce a checklist to follow, as mentioned on page 7 of the plan. [220990]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The guidance will be published shortly.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects the draft clinical treatment protocols described on page 46 of the UK Influenza Pandemic Plan to be published. [220991]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Draft treatment protocols will be published on the Health Protection Agency's website when they are agreed.

Isotretinoin

Mr. Bruce George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what action he is taking to monitor prescribing of isotretinoin to women of child bearing age with particular reference to EU regulations on pregnancy prevention. [220529]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Isotretinoin (Roaccutane) is a prescription-only medicine indicated for the treatment of severe acne, such as nodular or conglobate acne or acne at risk of permanent scarring. Its use is limited to specialists in dermatology with expertise in the use of systematic retinoids for the treatment of severe acne and a full understanding of the risks of isotretinoin therapy and monitoring requirements.

The safety of isotretinoin has been closely monitored by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), with expert advice from the Committee on Safety of Medicines, since it was approved in 1983.

Isotretinoin is known to harm the foetus if used during pregnancy and the product information has always carried stringent warnings to guard against its use during pregnancy. The product information for isotretinoin products was recently reviewed at a European level by the Committee for Human Medicinal Products. This has resulted in consistent updated advice to prescribers and patients throughout Europe, including the introduction of a pregnancy prevention programme. The pregnancy prevention programme consists of three parts; an education programme, therapy managements and distribution controls, which work together to raise awareness of the serious consequences for pregnancies exposed to isotretinoin.

All female patients will receive information about isotretinoin, the risks associated with exposure during pregnancy as well as information on contraception. If clinical judgment is that a woman is not at risk of becoming pregnant she may not need to be subject to all of the requirements of the scheme in order to receive treatment with isotretinoin.

The effectiveness of the pregnancy prevention programme is being closely monitored by the MHRA and other European member states. The marketing authorisation holders are required to submit regular reports six monthly for the first two years and annually thereafter on the effectiveness and implementation of the scheme across Europe. The pregnancy prevention programme has not yet been launched in all member states, but, in the first six months of launch in the first five member states, there were no new cases of pregnancy exposed to isotretinoin in those countries.

Long-term Care

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost of implementing the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Long Term Care in each year from 2005–06 to 2010–11; and if he will make a statement. [223059]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 21 March 2005]: In England, the Government has accepted each of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Long Term Care except the recommendation to provide free personal care in all settings. Making personal care free for everyone carries a very substantial cost but would not raise the standard or range of services available; the estimated cost for 2003–04 is £1.5 billion.

Free personal care would not help the poorest in society, who receive means tested support nor would it help the sickest, whose bills are paid by national health service continuing care arrangements. Free personal care does not cover all residential care costs and people in residential care would still be expected to contribute to board and lodging costs if personal care was made free.

The estimated costs for future years are shown in the table. They take account of demographic change, in terms of numbers of older people by age, gender, household type and housing tenure. They assume that cost of care will rise by 2 per cent. per year in real terms, in line with average earnings. As with any projections, the figures should only be taken as broad estimates of the cost because of the uncertainty of projecting over such a long time scale.

2006–07	1.9
2007–08	2.05
2008–09	2.25
2009–10	2.45
2010–11	2.65

Mental Health Care

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the funding per capita for mental health services in Leeds, North-West for (a) over-65s and (b) under 65s is for 2004–05. [223217]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what targets his Department has for expanding the availability of cognitive behavioural therapies for patients with mental illness. [222040]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We have no specific targets for cognitive behaviour therapies. However, the national service framework (NSF) for mental health, published in 1999, sets out the national standards for mental health; what they aim to achieve, how they should be developed and delivered and how to measure performance in every part of the country. Following this, the NHS Plan, published in 2000, set plans and targets for investment and reforms in the National Health Service in England. In addition, the Department's guidance, published in July 2004, entitled "Organising and Delivering psychological therapies", addresses issues for local services wanting to deliver a better quality or more readily accessible effective psychological therapies including cognitive behaviour therapies.

Copies of these publications are available from the Library or from the Department's website at http://www.dh.gov.uk/PublicationsAndStatistics/fs/en

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many trained medical doctors have been employed in mental health facilities in Lancashire in each year since 1997. [222084]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested.

Midwifery

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with (a) NHS organisations and (b) other interested bodies on adopting the Independent Midwives' Association's Community Midwifery Model; if he will adopt the Model across the NHS; and if he will make a statement. [222643]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 18 March 2005]: I met the Independent Midwives' Association (IMA) last year. Following that meeting, officials have been working with the IMA to investigate the feasibility of using the model in the national health service. That process is continuing.

MRSA

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons his Department decided that data collected for MRSA rates under the mandatory surveillance system should be published every six months; on what date this decision was made; what representations he received from (a) NHS organisations and (b) other interested bodies in support of publishing data under the mandatory surveillance system at six monthly intervals; if he will publish all data collected under the mandatory surveillance system since April 2001 for intervals of six months; and what plans he has to publish data under the mandatory surveillance system at intervals of three months. [221348]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The Department decided to publish data from the mandatory methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) surveillance system on a six-monthly basis so that the public could be informed more frequently about the record of their local national health service trusts. The decision was taken in February this year, after consulting the Health Protection Agency, to ensure this would not over-burden specialist NHS resources and that data published at this frequency would be meaningful

The tables published on 7 March 2005 include all the data collected through the mandatory MRSA bloodstream infection surveillance system since 2001, set out in six-monthly intervals. The Department has received no other representations on this issue and there are no current plans to publish this data on a quarterly basis.

The tables are available on the Department's website at www.dh.gov.uk/assetRoot/04/10/55/18/04105518.pdf and have been placed in the Library.

Nevirapine

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his answer of 23 February 2005, Official Report, column 693W, on nevirapine, when he expects the British HIV Association will issue new guidance on the use of nevirapine to prevent mother-to-baby transmission of HIV/AIDS. [222588]

Miss Melanie Johnson: We understand that the British HIV Association will publish new guidelines on the management of HIV infection in pregnant women and the prevention of mother-to-child transmission in July 2005.

NHS Estates

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to restructure NHS estates. [222958]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The decision to abolish NHS Estates was announced in a Press Release issued by the Department on 22 July 2004. The final closure date will be 30 September 2005.

A number of the agency's policy functions will be transferred to the Department, including NHS ProCure 21 and decontamination. Responsibility for national health service advisory services will transfer to strategic health authorities. The National Patient Safety Agency will take on the implementation of programmes concerning food and cleaning, and certain design related projects.

Inventures trading services are likely to be disposed of through a managed closure.

NHS Expenditure

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what he estimates the NHS expenditure per weighted head of population will be in north and east Yorkshire and Northern Lincolnshire strategic health authority in 2004–05. [222271]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is not yet available. Data for 2004–05 will be available in the autumn.

NHS Research

Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what role the University of Warwick has played in determining the formula for calculating future receipts of the Blackpool, Wyre and Fylde Hospital Trust. [223092]

Mr. Hutton: The University of Warwick was commissioned to advise on the geographic variation in staff costs. This work has contributed to the new system of financial flows, called Payment by Results, national health service trusts are paid according to a national tariff.

Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he has taken to prevent the development of a two tier employment situation in the areas of cleaning, catering and associated services at the Norfolk and Norwich university hospital. [217716]

Mr. Hutton: The Government has announced a major extension of the Local Government Two Tier Code on Workforce matters to the wider public sector, including the national health service. With some limited exemptions, the Code will apply to all new and re-tendered service contracts which involve transferred staff, and aims to ensure that employees are treated fairly, regardless of whether they are employed directly by the NHS or a service provider.

Nurses' Uniforms

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 175W, on nurses uniforms, (1) on what research his Department bases the assertion that dilution in domestic washing machines will effectively disinfect nurses uniforms; [220200]

(2) when Health Service Guidance 95 (18) was last updated; [220201]

(3) what research has been carried out since 1997 to establish (a) mechanical efficiency and (b) hygienic effectiveness of the washing of nurses uniforms at home; and if he will make a statement. [220202]

Mr. Hutton: Health Service Guidance 95 (18), published in 1995, has not been revised as it still adequately covers the issue of temperature and disinfection.

The Department is not aware of any research concerning the washing of nurses' uniforms at home. Expert opinion is that a combination of heat, detergent and water will remove soil and reduce the bioburden sufficiently.

Single use aprons and other equipment should be used if contamination is likely.

Opticians

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many whole-time equivalent (a) optometrists, (b) dispensing opticians and (c) ophthalmic opticians there have been in England in each year since 1997.[221809]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The table shows the estimated number of whole-time equivalent optometrists since 1997. Information is not available for numbers of whole- time equivalents (WTEs) for dispensing opticians and ophthalmic medical practitioners.

	Estimated number of practising optometrists (WTE) in England
1997–98	4,700
1998–99	4,700
1999–2000	5,000
2000–01	5,300
2001–02	5,600
2002–03	5,800
2003–04	6,100

Paluvizumab

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what instructions he has issued to primary care trusts and hospital trusts to ensure that they comply with the recommendations of the Joint Committee on Vaccinations and Immunisations on the use of paluvizumab to immunise premature babies against respiratory syncytial virus. [221962]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The recommendations from Joint Committee on Vaccinations and Immunisations are published on the Department's website at: www.advisorybodies.doh.gov.uk/jcvi/mins 01nov02.htm

It is a matter for clinical governance on how these recommendations are implemented.

Personal Care

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will revise his estimate of the cost of providing free personal care to take account of (a) the current review of eligibility for NHS continuing care and (b) changes to the amount of funding for free nursing care since January 2004. [222374]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 17 March 2005]: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave on 11 October 2004, Official Report, column 137W.

Radiologists

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he will take to increase the number of specialists in interventional radiology. [223216]

Mr. Hutton: A range of initiatives are in place to help expand the national health service work force, including the number of clinical radiologists who undertake interventional radiological procedures. These initiatives include improving pay and conditions, encouraging the NHS to become a better, more flexible and diverse employer, help with accessing child care, increasing training, attracting back returners and running national and international recruitment campaigns. In addition, we are aiming to further boost consultant numbers by centrally funding up to 226 additional specialist registrar places in clinical radiology between 2002–03 and 2005–06. Up to 60 of these additional posts are for the new clinical radiology academies set to modernise training in clinical radiology in 2005–06.

Respiratory Syncytial Virus

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many primary care trusts and hospital trusts have put in place a respiratory syncytial virus preventive treatment programme in compliance with the recommendations of the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisations. [222149]

Miss Melanie Johnson: We do not routinely collect this information.

Sexual Health Services

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what use Kingston hospital trust in Surrey has made of the access money provided for sexual health services; [221438]

(2) what plans he has for increased provision of sexual health services. [221822]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department has invested £26 million since 2002–03 to pump-prime improvements to sexual health services. It is for the national health service locally to decide how this money can best be spent in order to meet local needs, and no information is held centrally on how the allocations are used by individual trusts.

A further £15 million capital funding was also made available in 2004–05 to improve genito-urinary medicine (GUM) premises and the Department invited bids for this funding. The Wolverton Centre at Kingston hospital trust was allocated £800,000 of this money.

The Government have announced investment of £300 million over the next three years through the Public Health White Paper to improve sexual health. This includes £130 million to modernise services, £80 million to accelerate the roll-out of the national chlamydia screening programme by March 2007; £40 million to improve the provision of contraception services and; £50 million to undertake a national media campaign. A new goal of 48-hour maximum waiting times for GUM appointments by 2008 has also been introduced and a national review of GUM services and national audit of contraception services is taking place to disseminate best practice and inform future investment. Sexual health, for the first time, features in the local delivery plans of primary care trusts to strengthen the delivery of service improvements at local level.

Social Care

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people in England who have social care needs but do not receive social care. [222609]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 18 March 2005]: This information is not held centrally.

Springfield Mental Hospital

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients subject to sectioning at Springfield mental hospital, Tooting have committed acts of violence outside the hospital in each of the last 10 years while subject to those sections. [222002]

Dr. Ladyman: This information is not collected centrally.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to increase the participation of problem drug users in drug treatment programmes by 100 per cent. by 2008 will be met. [219240]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Figures published on 30 September 2004 by the National Treatment Agency (NTA) for substance misuse show that 54 per cent. more drug users were in contact with drug treatment services in 2003–04 by comparison to the 1998–99 baseline. We are on track to achieve the drug treatment target of doubling the number of drug users in contact with treatment by 2008.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce the inequality in mortality rates from cancer between the fifth of areas with the worst health and deprivation indicators and the population as a whole by at least 6 per cent. by 2010 will be met. [219246]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Early indications from monitoring of the gap between the fifth of areas with the worst health and deprivation indicators and the population as a whole has suggested that we are on course to deliver a reduction of 6 per cent. by 2010.

Telecommunications Masts

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent research he has examined concerning the effect of 3G phone masts on people's health. [222704]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The National Radiological Protection Board provides statutory advice on risks from exposure to radiation and electromagnetic fields. Their recent publication "Mobile Phones and Health 2004" (Documents of the NRPB, Vol 15, No 5, 2004) reviewed the possible health implications of mobile phones and base stations including the newer technologies such as third generation (3G). The NRPB reiterated the Stewart Report (2000) concludes that:

> "the balance of evidence indicates that there is no general risk to the health of people living near to base stations on the basis that exposures are expected to be small fractions of guidelines".

Measurements around 3G base stations undertaken by both NRPB (www.nrpb.org) and by Ofcom (www.ofcom.org.uk) have consistently shown that exposures to the radio signals from base stations are lower than the guidelines published by the International Commission on Non-ionising Radiation Protection.

Following an unexplained result on 3G base station exposures, undertaken in the Netherlands in 2003, the Mobile Telecommunications and Health Research Programme in this country is now supporting a research study at the University of Essex into the symptoms experienced by 3G signals on volunteers.

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he has received reports concerning the health effects of mobile phone masts which he has not made public. [222705]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Reports received by the Department on health effects associated with mobile phone technology have usually appeared in scientific journals or on the internet. The Department sometimes receives unpublished accounts, reports or letters, which it passes on to the National Radiological Protection Board (NRPB) for a considered view. The NRPB, or its independent Advisory Group on Non-ionising Radiation (AGNIR), have published reviews of the scientific knowledge based on the totality of work to date.

AGNIR provided a comprehensive review of the science "Health Effects from Radiofrequency Electromagnetic Fields", (Documents of the NRPB, Vol 14, No2, 2003). More recently, the NRPB reviewed the progress on implementing the recommendations in the 2000 Stewart Report in "Mobile Phones and Health 2004" (Documents of the NRPB, Vol 15, No 5, 2004). These reports are available on the NRPB website (www.nrpb.org)

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effects on people with heart problems of the radiation emitted from mobile phone masts, with particular reference to those with pacemakers. [222706]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) and its predecessor the Medical Devices Agency (MDA) has monitored research activities undertaken by pacemaker manufacturers to assess potential pacemaker interference from mobile phones, by participating in European and International pacemaker safety standards committees.

For implanted pacemakers the power level and severity of interference signals from phone masts is much less than for mobile phones in proximity to the patients. MHRA issued guidance to clinicians about possible interference effects to pacemakers from mobile telephones in February 1996, via Pacemaker Technical Note PTN 61, which advised a minimum phone to pacemaker separation distance of 15 centimetres.

Toxic Waste

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the potential health effects on infant children exposed to toxic waste from former steelworks; and if he will make a statement. [221877]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department has not undertaken any such assessment.

Visual Impairment

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the proportion of the population which is visually impaired in (a) one eye and (b) both eyes; and what assessment he has made of likely future changes in these proportions. [221810]

Dr. Ladyman: At March 2003, 157,000 people were on the register of blind people in England and 155,000 people were on the register of partially sighted people.

Registration of blindness is voluntary so the register does not necessarily include all people who are blind.

No further information is held by the Department.

West Suffolk Hospital

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the staff complement at the West Suffolk hospital was in each of the last nine years; and what percentage of that total was made up of (a) doctors, (b) nurses, (c) ancillary staff and (d) administrative, managerial and clerical staff in each year. [222864]

Dr. Ladyman: The staff complement at the West Suffolk hospital national health service trust for each year for the last nine years, and the percentage of the total as made up of doctors, nurses, ancillary staff and administrative, managerial and clerical staff for each year is shown in the following table.

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the outturn against planned expenditure of the West Suffolk Hospitals NHS Trust was in each of the last nine years. [222866]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department has taken outturn against planned expenditure to mean the retained surplus/(deficit) position for the financial year, as reported in the final accounts of national health service trusts.

The table shows the retained surplus/(deficit) figures reported by the West Suffolk Hospitals NHS Trust from 1996–97 to 2003–04, which is the latest year for which figures are available. Data relating to the accounts of individual NHS bodies are not held prior to 1996–97.

Wirral, South

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what per capita spending on health was in Wirral, South in (a) 1997, (b) 2001 and (c) the last year for which figures are available. [222681]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Expenditure based on individual constituencies is not available. The expenditure per capita on health in Wirral Health Authority area and Cheshire and Merseyside Strategic Health Authority area is shown in the table.

£ per head

	Wirral Health Authority area	Cheshire and Merseyside Strategic Health Authority area
1997–98	557.21	n/a
2001–02	872.21	n/a
2003–04	n/a	1,063.39

Notes:
1. Expenditure is taken from audited health authority summarisation forms and primary care trust summarisation schedules which are prepared on a resource basis and therefore differ from cash allocations in the year. Figures are given in cash terms.
2. Allocations per weighted head of population provide a much more reliable measure to identify differences between funding of health authorities and primary care trusts.
3. Figures for 1997–98 and 2001–02 have been prepared using gross expenditure figures. Figures for 2003–04 have been adjusted to eliminate expenditure which would be double counted where an authority acts as a lead in commissioning healthcare or other services.

Sources:
1. Wirral Health Authority audited accounts 1997–98.
2. Wirral Health Authority audited summarisation forms 2001–02.
3. Cheshire and Merseyside Strategic Health Authority audited summarisation forms 2003–04.
4. Primary care trust audited summarisation schedules 2001–02 and 2003–04 for bodies within the above health authority areas.
5. Weighted population figures.

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average wait for operations on the NHS in Wirral, South was in (a) 1997, (b) 2001 and (c) the last year for which figures are available. [222682]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested. However, information relating to the Wirral Hospitals National Health Service Trust is shown in the table.

Method of admission: elective (waiting list and booked cases). Mean and median time waited (days) for all operations. Wirral Hospitals NHS Trust 1997–98, 2001–02, 2003–04

	Average waiting time	Days Median waiting time
1997–98	69	41
2001–02	81	45
2003–04	90	48

Notes:
1. The main operation is the first recorded operation in the hospital episode statistics (HES) data set and is usually the most resource intensive procedure performed during the episode. It is appropriate to use main operation when looking at admission details eg time waited but the figures for "all operations count of episodes" give a more complete count of episodes with an operation.
2. A finished in-year admission is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider, excluding admissions beginning before 1 April at the start of the data year. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
3. Time waited statistics from HES are not the same as the published waiting list statistics. HES provides count and time waited for all patients admitted to hospital within a given period whereas the published waiting list statistics count those waiting for treatment on a specific date and how long they have been on the waiting list. Also HES, calculates the time waited as the difference between the admission and decision to admit dates. Unlike published waiting list statistics, this is not adjusted for self-deferrals or periods of medical/social suspension.
4. Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (ie the data are ungrossed).

DEFENCE

Afghanistan

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department has (a) recruited workers previously employed in the poppy industry and (b) used funds to purchase poppy crops in Afghanistan since 1997. [222542]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The Ministry of Defence employs a number of Afghan civilians. While we do not retain records on these individuals' involvement, if any, in poppy cultivation, their employment is a positive contribution to the legitimate labour market in Afghanistan.

United Kingdom Armed Forces have not used funds to purchase poppy crops, including in the period since 1997.

Armed Forces Discipline

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many armed forces personnel have spent time in military prison since 1997 on charges of (a) assault, (b) sexual offences and (c) absence without leave. [222900]

Mr. Caplin: The number of armed forces personnel who have served a period of detention since April 1997 to date at the Military Corrective Training Centre, following a conviction for assault, sexual offences or absence without leave (AWOL) is as follows:

	Number
Assault	1,573
Sexual Offences	167
AWOL	5,636

Army Medal Office

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the performance against target in the most recent period for which figures are available was for the issuing of each medal issued by the Army Medal Office; and what his most recent assessment of the total number of applications for each medal awaiting processing is. [221284]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The Army Medal Office started recording medal statistics on a weekly basis beginning week-ending 23 April 2004, and the records from this date to the week ending 25 February 2005 are as follows:

	Cases outstanding
Medal group	23 April 2004	28 February 2005
GSM Canal Zone	22,450	13,496
Historic	3,672	5,726
Conduct	568	660
Reserve and Cadets	595	480
Current	1,573	1,050
Replacements and Next of Kin	1,343	1,937
Iraq	Not Applicable	18,543
Total Outstanding	30,201	41,892

Since April 2004, an average of 1,518 applications were cleared each week against a target of 1,500.

During this period 73,788 new applications have been received, and of these 48,898 were for the Iraq medal and 9,077 for the Canal Zone.

Army Recruitment

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 January 2005, Official Report, column 732W, on army recruitment, whether the future establishment for (a) signals, (b) intelligence, (c) logistics and (d) engineers has been finalised. [221487]

Mr. Ingram: The adjustments to the size and shape of the Army envisaged as part of the process of moving to the Future Army Structure will take some years to implement. When they are complete, we anticipate that the revised establishments of the Royal Engineers, Royal Signals, Royal Logistics Corps and Intelligence Corps will be as shown in the following table. It should be noted that these figures will be subject to further refinement as the Army continues to work through the changes associated with the Future Army Structure programme.

Arm/Service	Future establishment
Royal Engineers	10,020
Royal Signals	8,550
Royal Logistic Corps	16,390
Intelligence Corps	1,840

Note:
All figures are as at 1 January 2005 and are rounded to the nearest 5.

Chinook Crash

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1141W, on Chinook Crash, how many days passed between the day on which Flight Lieutenant Jonathan Tapper had a change made to his self-authorisation status to fly Chinook helicopters and (a) the day on which he requested that he be allowed to retain an HC1 Chinook helicopter at Aldergrove and (b) the crash of the HC2 Chinook he captained. [222591]

Mr. Ingram: A Sub RAF Form 1575 approving self-authorisation was signed on 23 May 1994. Flight Lieutenant Tapper requested the retention of a Chinook HC1 on 27 May 1994 and Chinook ZD576 crashed on 2 June 1994.

Approval for self-authorisation is reviewed whenever a pilot transfers from one Station or Squadron to another and/or when the Station or Squadron Commander changes. Additionally, Station and Squadron Commanders may review self-authorisation status as the need arises.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1141W, on Chinook Crash, whether members of the Chinook squadron other than Flight Lieutenants Jonathan Tapper and Rick Cook, based at RAF Odiham or RAF Aldergrove had their status altered between 23 May and 2 June 1994 to allow them to self-authorise on VIP flights. [222592]

Mr. Ingram: We are unable to ascertain from extant documentation whether or not any other members of the Chinook Squadrons had their self-authorising status changed in respect of VIP flights between the dates in question.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1141W, on Chinook Crash, who authorised the change in self-authorisation status made on 23 May 1994 to Flight Lieutenants Jonathan Tapper and Rick Cook; and what types of flights they were authorised to fly prior to 23 May 1994. [222593]

Mr. Ingram: Self-authorisation status was approved on 23 May 1994 by the Station Commander, RAF Aldergrove. On 5 April 1994, in an approval signed by the Station Commander, RAF Odiham, both Flight Lieutenants (Flt Lts) Tapper and Cook are shown as able to authorise Squadron routine training and standard operating check flights, Squadron task flying, low flying, qualified helicopter instructional flying, fighter affiliation and associated specialist training on Chinook. Additionally, Flt Lt Cook could authorise Squadron routine training and standard operating check flights, Squadron task flying, low flying, air test, qualified helicopter instructional flying and associated specialist training on Gazelle helicopters.

Christmas Cards

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many official Christmas cards were sent out by his Department in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; [205131]

(2) what the cost was of purchasing official departmental Christmas cards in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; [205130]

(3) what the cost of postage was for official departmental Christmas cards in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; [205129]

(4) what percentage of official departmental Christmas cards included a contribution to charity in their cost; and which charities benefited from such a contribution; [205128]

(5) how many departmental staff have responsibility for preparing Christmas cards; [205127]

(6) how many hours of staff time were taken up in preparation of Christmas cards in 2004. [205126]

Mr. Caplin: Expenditure on the purchase and postage of official Christmas cards is governed by departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, based on principles set out in Government Accounting. This allows for Ministers, members of the Defence Council, Head of Defence Export Services and the Director General of Media and Communications to send Christmas cards at public expense. Additionally, resulting from representational responsibilities at management levels below the Defence Council, individual Top Level Budget Holders may personally send a modest amount of Christmas cards at public expense. The regulations also allow for some TLB business areas to send official Christmas cards (on an exceptional basis) where this would facilitate the achievement of specific business objectives.

The information we have for 2003 and 2004 is as follows:

Number of cards[1]	1,972	2,183
Cost (£)	1,743	1,664
Charity (percentage)	n/k	[2]9
Postage	[3]—	[3]—
Staff	[4]—	[4]—
Staff time	[4]—	[4]—

[1] Purchased with public funds.
[2] Nine per cent. were notified as bought from charitable organisations. The charities benefiting from this were the Army Benevolent Fund and the RAF Benevolent Fund.
[3] Accurate information on the cost of postage of official department Christmas cards is not held centrally.
[4] Information on the number of staff involved in the preparation of Christmas cards and the staff time taken is not held centrally.

Civilian/Service Jobs (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many of his Department's (a) civilian and (b) service jobs there were at each (i) Royal Navy, (ii) Army, (iii) Royal Air Force and (iv) Reserves defence installation in Scotland for the year ended (A) 1 April 2004, (B) 1 April 2001 and (C) 1 April 1997; what the most recent available figures are; and if he will make a statement. [222869]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 21 March 2005]: Figures for the number of civilian jobs by defence installation are not held centrally. Defence Analytical Services Agency does however publish figures for the number of personnel employed in Scotland. These can be found in the annual UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is placed in the Library of the House and can also be accessed via the DASA website: www.dasa.mod.uk.

Figures for the number of Service jobs by defence installation are not held centrally. Tri Service Publication (TSP) 10, shows the distribution of UK Regular forces across UK by Government Office Region and local authority. Copies of TSP 10 can be found in the Library of the House.

Defence Information Infrastructure

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the financing for the Defence Information Infrastructure will divert funds from other military programmes. [214806]

Mr. Caplin: There are no plans to divert additional funds to finance the Defence Information Infrastructure. Funding for Defence Information Infrastructure is provided as part of the current Defence-wide programme which seeks to ensure the optimum balance of capabilities to deliver Government objectives within available resources.

Departmental Efficiency Programme

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what the planned headcount changes attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Pay and Personnel Agency, (b) Queen Victoria School, (c) RAF Training Group Defence Agency, (d) Service Children's Education, (e) Veterans Agency and (f) Warship Support Agency for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209333]

(2) what the planned headcount changes attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Commander-in-Chief Fleet, (b) General Officer Commanding (Northern Ireland), (c) Commander-in-Chief Land Command, (d) Commander-in-Chief Strike Command, (e) Chief of Joint Operations and (f) Chief of Defence Logistics for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209334]

(3) what the planned headcount changes attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Second Sea Lord/Commander-in-Chief Naval Home Command, (b) Adjutant General, (c) Commander-in-Chief Personnel and Training Command, (d) Central, (e) Defence Procurement Agency and (f) Corporate Science and Technology for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209335]

(4) what the planned headcount changes, attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Armed Forces Personnel Administration Agency, (b) Army Training and Recruiting Agency, (c) British Forces Post Office, (d) Defence Analytical Services Agency and (e) Defence Bills Agency for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209382]

(5) what the planned headcount changes, attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Defence Communication Services Agency, (b) Defence Dental Agency, (c) Defence Estates, (d) Defence Geographic and Imagery Intelligence Agency and (e) Defence Intelligence and Security Centre for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209383]

(6) what the planned headcount changes, attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Defence Medical Training Agency, (b) Defence Procurement Agency, (c) Defence Storage and Distribution Agency, (d) Defence Transport and Movements Agency and (e) Defence Vetting Agency for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08; [209384]

(7) what the planned headcount changes, attributable to his Department's efficiency programme are for the (a) Disposal Services Agency, (b) Duke of York's Royal Military School, (c) Medical Supply Agency, (d) Ministry of Defence and Guarding Agency and (e) Naval Recruiting and Training Agency for financial years (i) 2005–06, (ii) 2006–07 and (iii) 2007–08. [209385]

Mr. Caplin: The Spending Review announcement in July 2004 committed the MOD to reductions of some 10,000 UK-based civilian posts plus 1,000 locally engaged civilian posts overseas by April 2008.

Agreements have been reached between Top Level Budget Holders (TLBs) and the Defence Resource and Planning Division (Def RP) on the number of civilian posts to be reduced during the next three financial years (i.e. in the period to 31 March 2008). A table showing a breakdown by TLB follows. This table represents our current assessment of how the reductions will be achieved (in some cases final decisions have yet to be taken) and it is not yet clear how the reductions will affect individual establishments.

[1] Excludes Royal Fleet Auxiliary (RFA) personnel but includes HR and Finance Function Reductions.

Notes:

1. Totals shown are cumulative. Numbers are set out to the nearest 10, and represent our current assessment of how these reductions will be achieved (in some cases final decisions have yet to be taken). Numbers are based on full-time equivalent mid-year averages and include locally employed civilians (LEC). These figures do not include civilians employed in trading funds.

2. "Reductions Programmed in STP"—These are posts which have been assumed will not continue from previous years' planning rounds. These posts fall mainly within the DLO, although some smaller reductions also fall within other TLBs and are due mainly to reorganisation measures which were ongoing prior to the efficiency programme.

3. "DCP Headcount Reduction"—These are posts which are being reduced as a result of the Department's major change initiative—the defence change programme (DCP).

4. "LEC Measure Headcount Reduction"—In addition to the reduction in numbers of UK-based civil servant, the number of locally employed civilians (LECs) employed supporting permanently based forces is planned to reduce by up to 1,000 in the same time frame. Numbers of LECs employed in operational theatres have not been included in the planning.

5. "Other Rationalisation and Efficiencies"—These are posts which are being reduced as a result of non-defence change programme efficiency initiatives. The majority of these posts will come from reduced requirements for staff in, for example, the Head Office in Whitehall and in other Headquarters.

6. "Force Structure Reductions"—Posts which will be reduced as a result of changes to the force structure.

7. "Other Headcount Reductions"—Posts which are being reduced for reasons not included in the categories above.

Departmental Records Office (Hayes)

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 7 March 2004, Official Report, column 1542W, on Departmental Records Office (Hayes), what action he plans to take in response to agency staff employed by TNT being found in possession of drugs. [222426]

Mr. Caplin: TNT have a strict policy of zero tolerance of drug and alcohol abuse. The same policy applies at all TNT sites, and will continue in force at the Hayes site until its eventual closure. In accordance with this policy, the agency staff at Hayes found to be in possession of drugs have been dismissed. No further action is required.

Depleted Uranium

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the effect of depleted uranium shells on (a) current and (b) former (i) personnel of his Department and (ii) soldiers; and if he will make a statement. [222022]

Mr. Caplin: The Depleted Uranium Oversight Board (DUOB), an independent committee established by the Ministry of Defence (MOD) is measuring uranium in the urine of personnel who served in the first Gulf Conflict 1990–91 and in the Balkans Operations. This work includes personnel who have been discharged from service as well as those who are still serving. Similarly, under MOD's biological monitoring policy, the Defence Radiological Protection Service (DRPS) is assessing uranium in urine of both military personnel and MOD civilians on operations—including Operation Telic in Iraq—where there is potential for exposure. Depleted Uranium in urine is also being measured in a sample of personnel from across the battlefield as part of a wider study into the physical and psychological health of Operation Telic participants by King's College, London.

Edinburgh Military Tattoo

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has held with Edinburgh Military Tattoo Ltd. on the impact of the planned restructuring of the Scottish regiments on the Edinburgh Military Tattoo. [221826]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 15 March 2005]: The planned restructuring of the Scottish regiments will not have any impact on the Edinburgh Military Tattoo and there have been no discussions on this subject between the Ministry of Defence and Edinburgh Military Tattoo Ltd.

EU Intelligence Sharing and Co-ordination Service

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 January 2005, Official Report, column 13W, on EU Intelligence Sharing and Co-ordination Service, if he will list those documents, with security grading and caveat, that have been supplied to the EU Intelligence Sharing and Co-ordination Service by his Department; and if he will make a statement on his Department's policy on the nature of departmental material that may be supplied. [216509]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 355W, by my hon. Friend the Minister for Europe.

Flight Plans

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence in what circumstances ranks higher than Flight Lieutenant in the RAF would have been required to approve flight plans prior to June 1994. [222599]

Mr. Ingram: Navigation, training or transit sorties (including low level) have not, in the last 30 years, required specific approval by an officer above Flight Lieutenant rank. However, plans for sorties involving multi-aircraft formations conducting air combat manoeuvring or low level evasion training typically require authorisation by an officer of Squadron Leader rank or higher; this requirement has been in place for many years and remains unchanged to date.

Historical Records

Mr. Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what discussions he has had with (a) the national record office at Kew and (b) Army archives about the First World War records at Hayes; [222708]

(2) what steps he is taking to preserve the First World War records at Hayes. [222707]

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will take steps to preserve the medal index cards from the First World War for posterity. [222699]

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will take steps to safeguard the card records of medals issued to First World War personnel pending discussions with the Imperial War Museum, the Veterans' Association and others on a possible future home for their storage; and if he will make a statement. [223245]

Mr. Caplin: The only collection of records relating solely to the First World War still held by the Ministry of Defence is the Army medal cards. More than 80 years after the end of the conflict, there is no administrative reason for the Ministry of Defence to hold the cards.

The National Archives has microfilmed the front of these cards, which in most cases contains all the information they hold, and they are now available to researchers (in Class WO 372) in microfilmed format at Kew and through the National Archives website online.

Ministry of Defence staff routinely discuss questions relating to records which may be worthy of permanent preservation with the National Archives staff, and both recognise the historical interest in the medal cards. With the agreement of the National Archives, the Ministry of Defence has been approaching institutions in the hope of finding one to which the cards could be presented. So far this exercise has been without success, but discussions continue.

Infantry Future Army Structure

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2005, Official Report, column 50W, on Infantry Future Army Structure, whether recruitment will operate at (a) regimental and (b) battalion level for the (i) Mercian Regiment, (ii) Yorkshire Regiment and (iii) Royal Regiment of Scotland. [211795]

Mr. Caplin: Under the Infantry Future Army Structure arrangements, it is intended that recruitment to the Mercian Regiment, Yorkshire Regiment and the Royal Regiment of Scotland will be by Regiment, rather than individual battalion.

Low-flying Training

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence in which areas of the UK military low-flying training is carried out. [222613]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The whole of the United Kingdom, in principle, is open to low-flying training by military aircraft, although there are areas that are specifically excluded. These include the restricted airspace around civil aerodromes, glider sites, certain industrial sites, the major conurbations and other large centres of population (those towns with over 10,000 inhabitants). Coventry falls within the avoidance area afforded to the West Midlands Conurbation, which also includes Birmingham International Airport. For further details my hon. Friend may wish to consult the report "The Pattern of Military Low Flying across the United Kingdom" which is placed in the Library of the House on an annual basis.

Medium Sector

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which battalions in each division will be earmarked to the medium sector in the Future Infantry Structure; and when he expects them to commence progress towards the medium sector. [221489]

Mr. Ingram: The Future Infantry Structure was announced by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State on 16 December 2004. Work is continuing to define the roles and locations of individual battalions.

The Future Army Structure highlighted the requirement for a Medium Weight Capability. Achievement of this capability is being scoped and will identify the force elements that will deliver it, both in the interim and in the long term. Until this work is complete the identity of the battalions to whom this role will be assigned will not be confirmed.

Military Aircraft Crashes

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 24 February 2005, Official Report, column 804W, on military aircraft crashes, how many of the military accidents listed involved fatalities in each year. [222594]

Mr. Ingram: The following table repeats the information given in my answer of 24 February 2005, Official Report, column 804W, with an additional column showing the number of those accidents that resulted in fatalities.

	Number of air accidents	Number of air accidents involving fatalities

Military Bodies (Funding)

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the grant-in-aid for the (a) Commonwealth War Graves Commission, (b) Ghurkha Welfare Scheme, (c) Welfare Council, (d) Victoria/George Cross, (e) Royal British Legion—Polish Ex-Servicemen and (f) Royal British Legion—War Graves was for financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04. [221976]

Mr. Caplin: The Grant-in-Aid payments for financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04 were:

	1997–98	1998–99	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04

Royal British Legion—War Graves[5]	147	147	125	100	127	127	127

[1] The United Kingdom Government provides the Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) with a grant-in-aid for the maintenance of World War graves. Payment is made by each Commonwealth country in proportion to the number of war graves. The UK's share is 78.431 per cent.

[2] The Gurkha Welfare Scheme is the field operating arm of the Gurkha Welfare Trust.

[3] The Victoria Cross (VC) and George Cross (GC) Association receives a biennial grant-in-aid to assist recipients (plus two accompanying relatives) to travel to their biennial reunion in London.

[4,5] The Polish Ex-Service Personnel Welfare Fund provides a regular allowance to members of the Polish forces who served under British command during the Second World War and subsequently settled in the UK. The War Widow/ers Pilgrimage Scheme enables widows and widowers who lost their husband or wife overseas between 1914 and 1967 to make one visit to their grave. Both schemes are administered on behalf of the Ministry of Defence by the Royal British Legion.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the grant-in-aid for the (a) Scott Polar Research Institute, (b) Air Training Corps, (c) Atlantic Council, (d) Skill Force and (e) Millennium String-Pearls was for financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04. [221977]

Mr. Caplin: The grants-in-aid were as follows:

	1997–98	1998–99	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Scott Polar Research Institute	35	35	35	35	35	35	35

Military Deployment

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many troops are serving in (a) Sierra Leone, (b) Afghanistan, (c) East Timor and (d) the Falkland Islands, broken down by (i) rank and (ii) regiment. [221641]

Mr. Ingram: The information requested is set out in the following table:

Theatre	Officers	Senior NCOs	Other Ranks
Sierra Leone 9 March 2005	58	41	5
Afghanistan 6 March 2005	161	158	590
East Timor 11 March 2005	0	0	0
Falkland Islands 31 January 2005	165	305	991

The Afghan Roulemont Infantry Battalion (ARIB) is currently 1st Battalion the Worcestershire and Sherwood Forester Regiment and in the Falkland Islands, the Resident Infantry Coy (RIC) is provided from the Queens Lancashire Regiment. Troops serving in the other theatres are not from formed units.

Ministerial Travel

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which Ministers who have served in the current Government since 1997 have used aircraft in the Queen's Flight for visits which have been wholly or partially of a personal nature; on what dates such visits took place; and which Ministers have made payments to the taxpayer to cover the cost of that usage. [208261]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence is not routinely made aware whether ministerial usage of No.32 (The Royal) Squadron is wholly or partially of a personal nature.

"Travel by Ministers" makes clear that special flights may be authorised when a scheduled service is not available, or when it is essential to travel by air, but the requirements of official or parliamentary business or security considerations or urgency preclude the journey being made by a scheduled service. In respect of overseas travel by Ministers, since 1999 the Government have published an annual list of all visits overseas undertaken by Cabinet Ministers costing £500 or more during each financial year. The list published in 1999 covers the period 2 May 1997 to 31 March 1999. Where RAF/Private Charter aircraft are used this is shown in the list. Where there is an element of personal business, this is also shown. The Government have also published on an annual basis the cost of all Ministers' visits overseas. Copies of these are available in the Library of the House. Information for 2004–05 will be published in due course.

All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the rules set out in the Ministerial Code and Travel by Ministers, copies of which are available in the Library of the House.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will answer the question from the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South, ref 199990. [216499]

Mr. Ingram: I replied to the hon. Member on 28 February 2005.

Project Allenby/Connaught

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects to sign a contract with the Aspire consortium in connection with Project Allenby/Connaught; and if he will make a statement. [221025]

Mr. Caplin: Subject to the successful outcome of ongoing commercial negotiations it is hoped to sign the contract in the summer of 2005.

RAF Recruitment

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on recruitment to the RAF. [221587]

Mr. Caplin: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 9 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1827–28W to the hon. Member for Romford (Mr. Rosindell).

Regiments

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence who will decide on regimental (a) accoutrements and (b) dress for the proposed King's Lancashire and Border Regiment; and when he expects decisions to be made. [219066]

Mr. Ingram: A committee of representatives from the King's Own Royal Border Regiment, the King's Regiment and the Queen's Lancashire Regiment will be formed to consider how each of the antecedent regiments will be represented in the regimental dress and accoutrements of the proposed King's, Lancashire and Border Regiment.

It is anticipated that the committee's decisions will be taken during the second half of 2005. Executive approval from the Army Dress Committee will be required before any announcement is finalised.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which (a) non-departmental public bodies and (b) Executive agencies within the remit of his Department have regional offices based on the Government offices for the regions' regional structure; and when the regional offices were established in each case. [219888]

Mr. Caplin: The only non-departmental public body within the Ministry of Defence's remit that follows the regional structure of the Government offices for the regions is the advisory body comprising the War Pensions Committees. The War Pensions Committees were set up in 1921 and reconstituted on a regional basis on 1 January 2001.

The Ministry of Defence has no Executive agencies based on the regional structure of the Government offices for the regions.

Scottish Regiments

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 21 February, Official Report, columns 254–55W, on Scottish regiments, who is likely to carry out the study on the future of the Scottish Regimental museums; and when he expects the studies to be completed. [218594]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 28 February 2005]: A study into the future of the Army's Corps and Regimental Headquarters, which might also cover issues such as the locations of the Regimental Headquarters in the light of the restructuring of the Army and the Infantry, is under consideration but no decision has yet been taken.

It will ultimately fall to the MoD and the trustees of the museums to consider their future. The Scottish Division is also looking at a range of regimental issues arising from the formation of the Royal Regiment of Scotland, including the implications for museums.

Sikh Employees

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's policy is on the wearing of the Kirpan by Sikh employees. [221668]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence and armed forces are committed to promoting equality and diversity and recognise and respect different religious beliefs. Sikh personnel in the armed forces and MOD Civil Service are therefore allowed to wear the Kirpan.

Trident

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 189W, on Trident, if he will estimate the number of potential casualties which would arise from a malfunction of a Trident nuclear warhead at the base on the Clyde. [223301]

Mr. Hoon: It is highly unlikely that a malfunction of a nuclear warhead resulting in a nuclear explosion would occur at the Naval Base on the Clyde. There are no plans to make assessments of potential casualties.

Uniforms

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether any samples for the battledress being produced for the Cut and Sew contract which have been tested have been manufactured in Belgium. [222280]

Mr. Ingram: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave on 22 February 2005, Official Report, column 599W. The fabric samples tested for the combat clothing being produced under the Cut and Sew contract were manufactured in China.

Wind Turbines

Janet Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the objections of Defence Estates to the proposal to erect two 100 metre high wind turbines at Uglow Farm, Edgworth; and what the evidential basis is for the claim that these turbines may affect the efficiency of BAE Systems radars at Warton Aerodrome. [222420]

Mr. Caplin: An initial assessment of the proposed development at Uglow Farm, Edgworth was carried out last year at the pre-planning stage. This was unfortunately based on a misinterpretation of incomplete co-ordinates provided to the Department. Now that this error has been recognised, the developer has been informed and technical advisers are carrying out an urgent review of the proposal using the correct data. The true location of the proposed wind farm is some distance from that originally assumed, but it would be premature to say whether the radar at Warton will be affected.

I will write to my hon. Friend as soon as the results of the review are known, and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Working Time Regulations

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many officials working in ministerial private offices in the Department have worked more than a 48 hour week at any time in the last 12 months for which figures are available; how many of those had signed a waiver under working time regulations; and what percentage these figures represented of the total in each case. [204146]

Mr. Caplin: All officials working in the Ministry of Defence ministerial private offices have worked more than one 48 hour week in the last 12 months. Of the individuals involved, just over 10 per cent. had signed a waiver.

The Working Time Regulations provide workers with the protection of a limit of an average of 48 hours a week working time. This is not an absolute cap of 48 hours in any one week. This average is normally calculated over a 17-week reference period, although this can be longer in certain situations (26 weeks) and can be extended by agreement (up to 52 weeks). Workers may choose to work more than 48 hours per week over the reference period by signing an opt-out agreement, but employers cannot force a worker to sign an opt-out, and workers cannot be subject to detriment for refusing to sign an opt-out.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Consultants

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs with which external consultancy companies contracts are held by his Department. [222944]

Mr. Lammy: My Department collects information on the use of external consultancies on an annual basis at the end of the financial year.

Information relating to current consultancy contracts is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The companies that provided us with consultancy services during 2003–04 are listed as follows:

Immigration and Asylum

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what the cost of providing legal aid for immigration and asylum cases was in 2004 in Coventry. [222945]

Mr. Lammy: The Legal Services Commission contracts with suppliers in Coventry and elsewhere to provide a range of services throughout England and Wales. It is therefore not possible to identify precisely the amount paid for services provided exclusively in Coventry. However, the Legal Services Commission estimates £1.6 million was spent on immigration and asylum cases to suppliers in the Coventry area during 2003–04.

Ineffective Trials

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what the rate of ineffective trials for (a) Crown and (b) magistrates courts was in each local Criminal Justice Board area in (i) 2001 and (ii) 2005. [222903]

Mr. Leslie: We are unable to provide the information for individual magistrates courts without incurring disproportionate cost, but we are able to provide on an LCJB area basis for the Crown and magistrates and on an individual court basis for the Crown.

LCJB area data collection began in rolling quarter ending June 2001 for the Crown and June 2002 for the magistrates.

Table A shows Crown and magistrates court LCJB area ineffective trial rates for the earliest point available and for the most recent rolling quarter (ending January 2005).

Table B shows Crown court ineffective trial rates for rolling quarter ending June 2001 and the most recent rolling quarter, January 2005.

Planning

Andy Burnham: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs in how many cases legal aid has been awarded to challenge a planning decision made by a Secretary of State in each year since 2000. [223416]

Mr. Lammy: Challenges against planning decisions made by a Secretary of State are made in the High Court. Civil legal aid is available in such cases subject to the statutory tests of the applicant's means and the merits of the case. The only figures that the Legal Services Commission (LSC) can identify are for appeals against a decision of the Secretary of State under the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 and/or the Planning Compensation Act 1991. The number of funded cases are as follows:

2001–02	2
2002–03	1
2004–05	1

The figures given do not cover any challenges of planning decisions made by a Secretary of State by way of Judicial Review. The LSC does not record figures for Judicial Review by way of type of application.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs (1) what recent progress has been made towards the public service agreement target to improve the delivery of justice in all criminal justice system areas, with a greater increase in the worst performing areas; [219139]

(2) what recent progress has been made towards the public service agreement target to increase the level of confidence in the criminal justice system within ethnic communities; [219142]

(3) what recent progress has been made towards the Public Service Agreement target to increase the satisfaction of victims and witnesses with the criminal justice system. [219143]

Mr. Leslie: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Minister for Crime Reduction, Policing and Community Safety on 16 March 2005, Official Report, column 336W.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what recent progress has been made towards the public service agreement target to improve the level of public confidence in the criminal justice system. [219141]

Mr. Leslie: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Minister for the Home Office on 7 March 2005, Official Report, column 1621w.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

British Virgin Islands

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what mechanisms are in place to ensure that Ministers and officials from the British Virgin Islands are advised of legislative initiatives from the European Commission or Parliament which may impact on the British Virgin Islands. [223346]

Mr. MacShane: When legislative initiatives that might impact on the British Virgin Islands and other Overseas Territories come to the attention of UK officials, information on them is fed to the Overseas Territories Department in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. This information is then passed on to the territories.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on progress his Department has made on the negotiated compensation package between the UK Government and the British Virgin Islands Government. [223347]

Mr. MacShane: The compensation package agreed with the British Virgin Islands (BVI) Government as part of the discussions on the implementation of the EU Savings Directive is reviewed regularly between Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials and representatives of the BVI Government. Progress has been made on most of the agreed measures with conclusions already reached on some of them.

EU Regulations

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many EU regulations, directives and decisions have been enacted in each year since UK accession; and how many have been (a) deleted and (b) are no longer in force. [221232]

Mr. MacShane: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not hold this information. The House of Commons Library estimates that around 9 per cent. of UK legislation emanates from the EU. The details in the tables are taken from the annual Commission "Report on the activities of the EU", which has in turn been collated by the House of Commons. The figures for EU regulations, directives and decisions enacted are only available for the years 1980–2003 inclusive. The figures for legislation repealed or expired are only available for the years 1997–2003 inclusive.

EU-ASEAN Meetings

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) whether the Government will be represented at the EU-ASEAN meetings during Burma's chairing of the Association of South-East Asian Nations in 2006–07; [222874]

(2) what his policy is on the use of the conditions agreed at Tullamore in April 2004 by the EU as the criteria for whether the EU should attend EU-ASEAN meetings chaired by Burma in 2006; [222875]

(3) what position the Government will take within the EU on the issue of Burma's military rulers chairing EU-ASEAN meetings in 2006–07. [222876]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 21 March 2005]: We are concerned about Burma's forthcoming chairmanship of the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) in 2006. We know too that some other ASEAN members are concerned.

The UK attends EU-ASEAN meetings as a member of the EU. Decisions on attendance are taken by consensus with the EU. It is too early for the EU to take a decision on the approach it will take in July 2006. This will depend on developments in Burma before then. We have made clear that we wish to see real progress towards genuine democratisation in Burma including the release of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and other political prisoners.

We are also using our regular bilateral and multilateral contacts with all ASEAN members, who are key to progress on this issue, to encourage them to press the military regime in Burma to enter into a meaningful dialogue with the democratic opposition and ethnic groups as soon as possible. There is a clear understanding that the prospect of Burmese chairmanship of ASEAN makes the need for change all the more pressing.

European Constitution

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with his EU counterparts on consistency in the wording of the question in each country's referendum on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe. [222991]

Mr. MacShane: None.

Interpretation/Translation Services

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many companies have been invited to tender for (a) interpretation and translation services and (b) interpretation equipment provision for EU presidency meetings hosted by the UK; and what the value of each tender is. [223063]

Mr. MacShane; I refer my hon. Friend to the reply given to him by my hon. Friend the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on 31 January 2005, Official Report, column 716W. Since then, we have issued no further invitations to tender for interpretation services, translation services or equipment provision for FCO-run UK EU presidency events. Other Government Departments are responsible for arranging these services for their own presidency events.

Iraq

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the UK lawyer based in the Coalition Provisional Authority in Iraq first became aware of allegations of abuse at Abu Ghraib and other US detention facilities. [212312]

Mr. MacShane: The UK lawyers based in the Coalition Provisional Authority building in Baghdad first became aware of allegations of mistreatment of detainees at Abu Ghraib and other US detention facilities in February 2004, by which time the US authorities had already begun detailed investigations.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the total cost of his Department's operations in Iraq have been since September 2002. [221424]

Mr. MacShane: The direct local resource cost of Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) operations in Iraq for financial years 2002–03 and 2003–04 was £0.349 million and £5.465 million respectively. Direct local resource costs for financial year 2004–05 are estimated to be around £13 million.

Estimated FCO capital investment expenditure in financial year 04–05, relating to setting up posts in Baghdad, Basra and Kirkuk, is some £10 million.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he included the text of the full advice from the Attorney-General on the war in Iraq with the correspondence he sent to his ministerial colleagues in advance of the debate on 18 March 2003. [221821]

Mr. MacShane: No. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary wrote to ministerial colleagues and Members of Parliament on 17 March 2003 enclosing, among other things, a copy of his letter to the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the same date setting out the legal basis for the use of force. This included the Attorney General's Parliamentary Answer and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office paper entitled "Iraq: Legal Basis for the Use of Force."

Lebanon

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department is taking to encourage democracy in Lebanon. [221802]

Mr. MacShane [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The international community has been united in calling for Syria to withdraw its troops and intelligence personnel from Lebanon in compliance with United Nations Security Council Resolution 1559. My noble Friend the Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, visited Lebanon on 24–25 February. In her discussions with Lebanese Foreign Minister Hammoud, she made it clear that we expect Syrian withdrawal to be complete and rapid, so that Lebanon can hold free and fair elections to its National Assembly without foreign influence or interference. My noble Friend also emphasised the importance of a full and transparent investigation into Mr. Rafic Hariri's assassination in Beirut on 14 February. The UK stands ready to assist the Lebanese Government in preparing for fully democratic elections.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment his Department has made of the security situation in Lebanon since the start of the withdrawal of Syrian military forces. [222889]

Mr. MacShane: The withdrawal of Syrian troops to the Beka'a Valley in Lebanon and back to Syria is a first step in the implementation on United Nations Security Council Resolution 1559. Since the start of the withdrawal, the security situation has remained calm, as can be seen by the large-scale peaceful rallies that have been taking place in Beirut. So far, the Lebanese security forces have shown themselves to be capable of filling the security role left by the departing Syrian troops.

Palestinian Authority

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of progress made by the Palestinian Authority in reform of its security apparatus. [222883]

Mr. MacShane: We have worked closely with the Palestinian Authority (PA) on reform of their security apparatus. The London Meeting on 1 March 2005 was aimed at supporting the PA in its plans to build the institutions needed to underpin a future viable Palestinian state. At the meeting, PA President Abu Mazen promised "100 per cent. effort" on security, and set out detailed plans in this area, along with plans for governance reform and economic development. On security specifically, the early signs have been good and on 16 March 2005 Israel handed Jericho over to PA security control. It is imperative that the PA's efforts continue. We will continue to work with the parties and the international community to support the Palestinian Authority.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will encourage the Palestinian Authority to take steps to ensure that Christian Arabs are not driven out of the territories by the activities of extremists. [222971]

Mr. MacShane: We are not aware of Christian Arabs being driven out of the territories by the activities of Palestinian extremists. However, we do call upon the Palestinian Authority to continue with reforms, especially security reform, so that it can ensure Palestinian law and order and take effective action against rejectionist and extremist violence.

Rwanda

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will publish the instructions he gave to the UK ambassador to the UN in relation to UK policy on Rwanda in the months prior to the beginning of the Rwandan genocide. [222989]

Mr. Mullin: It is an established convention that Ministers of one administration cannot see the documents of a previous administration. I am therefore unable to provide the information requested.

Sikh Employees

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's policy is on the wearing of the kirpan by Sikh employees. [221672]

Mr. Alexander: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) commitment not to discriminate unfairly on the grounds of religion or belief is set out clearly in our equal opportunities policy. This states:

> "All FCO staff are entitled to be treated with respect. No staff should be exposed to unfair discrimination, including harassment, bullying or victimisation on any grounds, particularly gender, family status, race, disability, religion, faith or sexual orientation."

The FCO does not have a specific policy on the wearing of clothing or items associated with particular religions. This includes the kirpan. However, in line with our equal opportunities policy, all employees are free to practice their religion.

The FCO has taken a number of steps to address discrimination on the grounds of religion or belief. These include: diversity training for all staff, diversity objectives for all staff, provision of prayer rooms, and flexible working which enables staff to pray during religious festivals.

Sudan

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Government of Sudan concerning its use of arrest of civilians in Darfur on the basis that they are helping the Sudan Liberation Army. [222392]

Mr. MacShane: We make frequent representations to the Government of Sudan on the need for it to abide by international humanitarian and human rights law. We have stressed the need to stop arbitrary arrests as part of this commitment.

We continue to make clear to the Government of Sudan and the rebel factions that they must respect the ceasefire in Darfur, and fulfil their commitments under the Abuja Humanitarian and Security Protocols. They must take all steps to prevent attacks, threats, intimidation and any other form of violence, including arbitrary arrests, against civilians by any party or group.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Government of Sudan on the use of torture. [222393]

Mr. MacShane: We have frequent discussions, both bilaterally and as part of the EU-Sudan dialogue, with the Government of Sudan on the need for it to abide by international humanitarian and human rights law, including by ratifying and implementing the UN Convention Against Torture. Most recently, we raised our concerns about human rights violations in Sudan, including torture, as part of the EU-Sudan human rights dialogue on 24 February and during the EU-Sudan political dialogue on 3 March.

We are providing £180,000 over three years to support the work of the Sudanese Organisation Against Torture which works to support victims of torture, challenge legal impunity and raise human rights awareness.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the UN's recent estimate of the number of deaths in Darfur; and how many of those he estimates were killed by (a) ethnic violence, (b) malnutrition and (c) disease. [222996]

Mr. MacShane [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The UN Under-Secretary General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Co-ordinator, Jan Egeland, has said that he estimates that 180,000 people have died in Darfur from disease and malnutrition over the last 18 months. We share his grave concerns about the situation in Darfur and elsewhere in Sudan. Insecurity prevents regular access to the worst affected areas, inhibiting accurate assessment, and there are, therefore, no reliable mortality figures at this time.

We recognise the need for more accurate data so the UK is funding a second survey by the World Health Organisation in conjunction with the Sudanese Ministry of Health. This will commence at the end of April.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of whether the situation in Darfur constitutes genocide. [222997]

Mr. MacShane [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The UK pressed for the establishment of an expert International Commission of Inquiry (ICI) by the UN to investigate the atrocities in Darfur, and determine whether genocide had been committed. The ICI's report, issued to the UN Security Council on 31 January, concluded that, while the Government of Sudan had not pursued a policy of genocide in Darfur, a competent court would need to decide whether certain individuals had done so, and that the Government of Sudan, the Arab militias and the rebels are all guilty of serious violations of human rights and humanitarian law, which may amount to crimes against humanity and/or war crimes.

We have consistently made clear that the perpetrators of these terrible crimes must be brought to justice. The UN Security Council is united in its determination that there can be no impunity for these crimes. We continue to discuss the way forward with our partners in the Security Council.

Sustainable Development

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the (a) G8 and (b) EU are taking to promote sustainable development, with particular reference to (i) climate change and (ii) Africa. [222969]

Mr. MacShane: 2005 is an important year for the global community to take action on climate change and on Africa in the context of sustainable development. My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister is committed to using the opportunity offered by our twin presidencies of the EU and G8 to make real progress.

The review of the EU's sustainable development strategy provides the EU with the opportunity to reaffirm its commitment to promoting sustainable development and tackling climate change in the context of the re-launched Lisbon strategy. But this is just one element of the EU's climate change strategy: implementation of the EU emissions trading scheme is helping the EU to meet its Kyoto targets; on future action, the EU will be seeking to reinvigorate international dialogue under the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change. Engaging countries beyond the EU will be a vital part of this. The G8 too is firmly focused on climate change. The UK presidency of the G8 aims to build on past G8 initiatives, including on technology development, by promoting a broader understanding of the challenges of addressing climate change.

On Africa, the EU is the world's largest provider of aid to the region and an important trade partner. It is working to provide a sustainable response to the recommendations of the Commission for Africa, and to ensure that the millennium development summit gives new impetus to action on sustainable development and climate change in order to tackle global poverty and achieve the millennium development goals. The G8 is working to agree a comprehensive plan of specific actions to address the complex and inter-linked problems of Africa. This plan will build on the work of the Kananaskis G8 Africa Action Plan, the Commission for Africa, the African Union and the New Partnership for Africa's Development.

Uganda

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many treason suspects are on remand in Uganda; what the nature is of the charges; whether the suspects are linked to political parties; and if he will make a statement. [222500]

Mr. Mullin: We have asked the Uganda Human Rights Commission for an estimate of numbers, grounds and political affiliation of those being detained on treason charges. I will write to my hon. Friend as soon as we get this information.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the strength of the (a) Uganda People's Defence Forces and (b) Ugandan Presidential Protection Brigade; how many different security organisations are operating in Uganda; what technical assistance the UK gives to each organisation; and if he will make a statement. [222501]

Mr. MacShane: All military organisations, including the Uganda Army, Air Force, National Police Air Wing, and Marines, are considered as part of the Uganda Peoples' Defence Force (UPDF). The UPDF assessed strength is around 50,000.

There are four main security organisations; the Internal Security Organisation, External Security Organisation, the Chieftaincy of Military Intelligence and Special Branch. We have urged the Ugandan Government to put these organisations onto a firm statutory basis so as to allow proper public and Parliamentary scrutiny of their activities. We are providing no technical assistance to any of them.

The Department for International Development has provided approximately £0.2 million to support the Uganda Defence Review process and approximately £2.5 million in non-military assistance for conflict resolution efforts in northern and eastern Uganda.

I also refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock) on 16 March 2005 Official Report, column 346W.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his estimate is of the proportion of Uganda's national budget that is spent on (a) health, (b) education, (c) agriculture and (d) defence; and if he will make a statement. [222502]

Mr. MacShane: Figures from the 2003–04 approved budget (including donor funded projects) are:

Health—12.3%

Education—18.8%

Agriculture—3.2%

Security (defence)—10.6%.

Uganda has a well-developed and consultative budgetary process. Donors are involved throughout, and have an opportunity to endorse the budget at the annual Public Expenditure Review. This level of consultation allows partners, including the UK, to ensure government meets its commitment to prioritise poverty reduction. Budget execution is generally good and closely monitored by government and donors, including the International Financial Institutions. Our Poverty Reduction Budget Support, and that of other partners such as the World Bank, is conditional on our endorsement of the budget and its subsequent execution.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Paramilitary Activity

8. Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what recent assessment he has made of the level of crimes being carried out by each of the main paramilitary groups in Northern Ireland. [222764]

Mr. Pearson: All of the main paramilitary groups in Northern Ireland are engaged in organised criminality to varying degrees. Of the top 25 organised criminal gangs who operate in Northern Ireland, two thirds have links to paramilitary gangs with both loyalist and republican gangs engaging in a range of illicit activity including drugs, smuggling, extortion, armed robbery and intellectual property crime.

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on terrorist group related crime in Northern Ireland. [222759]

Mr. Pearson: Both loyalist and republican paramilitary groups are heavily involved in organised crime in Northern Ireland. The Organised Crime Task Force Threat Assessment published in May 2004 clearly indicated paramilitary involvement in organised crime. The Independent Monitoring Commission's report of 4 November also provided a clear assessment of the criminal activities of paramilitary groups.

Single-sex Schools

9. Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what percentage of secondary school children in Northern Ireland are in single sex schools; and what the percentage was (a) five and (b) 10 years ago. [222765]

Mr. Gardiner: 31 per cent. of post-primary pupils in Northern Ireland currently attend single sex schools. This compares to 34 per cent. five years ago and 37 per cent. 10 years ago.

Unemployment

10. Mr. Joyce: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what percentage of the working age population of Northern Ireland is unemployed. [222766]

Mr. Gardiner: Seasonally adjusted figures from the Labour Force Survey for the period November 2004-January 2005 estimate that 3.4 per cent. of the working age population in Northern Ireland are unemployed.

Peace Process

11. Dr. Palmer: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the peace process. [222767]

13. Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the peace process. [222769]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer my hon. Friend and the hon. Member for Orkney and Shetland to the answer I gave earlier today to the hon. Members for Basingstoke (Mr. Hunter) and Tewkesbury (Mr. Robertson), Official Report, column 868.

Assets Recovery Agency

12. John Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the work of the Assets Recovery Agency in Northern Ireland. [222768]

Mr. Pearson: The Assets Recovery Agency has set an objective that 80 per cent. of the cases pursued in Northern Ireland will focus on property obtained by, or in the hands of, paramilitaries and organised criminals. The agency met its operational targets in Northern Ireland last year and is set to meet or exceed its targets for this year.

To date the agency has received 73 referrals. Action has been completed in six cases at a value of £1,720,000 and action is under way in 12 cases, with a value of £4,176,507. A further 13 cases are under investigation and 23 are under assessment. The remaining 19 have been returned to law enforcement agencies.

Value System Education

14. Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps he plans to take to broaden the religious and other value system education in schools in Northern Ireland. [222770]

Mr. Gardiner: The Religious Education Core Syllabus is intended to comprise about half of the teaching time for RE, allowing schools scope to include other religions and value systems if they wish. The revised core syllabus that has been drawn up by the four main churches in Northern Ireland addresses the study of other world religions. In addition, Citizenship education, which will cover issues such as religious diversity, is currently being rolled out to all post-primary schools and will become compulsory from September 2006.

Belfast Agreement

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) when the Code of Practice on access to information held by implementation bodies set up under the Belfast Agreement was (a) agreed and (b) published; [223145]

(2) how many of the implementation bodies set up under the Belfast Agreement have a Code of Practice on access to information held by them. [223146]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The North South Implementation Bodies Agreement 1999 provides that a code of practice on access to information will be drawn up by the Irish and Northern Ireland Ministers with responsibility for freedom of information for approval by the North/South Ministerial Council. That code is at an advanced stage of preparation and will be published for public consultation shortly.

Farming

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his estimate of the profitability of the (a) dairy, (b) beef, (c) pig and (d) poultry sectors of farming in the Province was in the last year for which figures are available. [223164]

Mr. Pearson: The level of profitability of the main agricultural sectors is not calculated by the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (DARD). However, annual estimates are available of the contribution made by each sector towards the overheads and profitability of the agricultural industry, as measured by their aggregate sector gross margins.

The 2004 provisional sector gross margins are:

(a) £281 million for dairy cows and followers;

(b) £244 million for beef cattle, rearing and fattening;

(c) £23 million for pigs; and

(d) £23 million for poultry.

Detailed information on the value of outputs and costs included in the determination of the sector gross margins is given in the Statistical Review of Northern Ireland Agriculture 2004, which is available on the DARD website at www.dardni.gov.uk

Fishing Vessels

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what sources of assistance are available to the owners of fishing vessels under 10 metres in length; and what plans he has to extend this assistance to vessels under 10 metres. [223370]

Mr. Pearson: The under 10 metre fleet are mostly small scale in shore vessels using static gear and not directly affected by the cod closure, therefore, there are no plans to extend assistance. Currently, grant aid is available to this sector under the Building Sustainable Prosperity, Small Scale and Coastal sub-measure which provides assistance for co-ordination, distribution and marketing.

Illegal Immigrants

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will use the British-Irish Intergovernmental Conference to discuss with the Republic of Ireland the extent to which illegal immigrants are using the Republic of Ireland as a point of entry into the United Kingdom. [221338]

Mr. Browne: I have been asked to reply.

The British Government have no plans to raise this matter at a future meeting of the British-Irish Intergovernmental Conference. We discuss this issue with Ireland in other bilateral forums.

National Sports Foundation

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions he has had with the Chancellor of the Exchequer in relation to the extension to Northern Ireland of the new National Sports Foundation. [223269]

Angela Smith: I have had no discussions with the Chancellor of the Exchequer in relation to the extension to Northern Ireland of the new National Sports Foundation as detailed arrangements are still to be decided by the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport. I will, however, be consulting with the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport on the matter in due course.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220958]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The value of sales of surplus assets from my Department (including its agencies but excluding NDPBs) is as follows:

2001–02	0
2002–03	648,000
2003–04	207,000

This information is included in the departmental resource accounts, copies of which are available in the Library.

Traffic Congestion

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to improve traffic congestion at Sandyknowes roundabout on the M2 motorway in Northern Ireland. [223168]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Roads Service (Dr. Malcolm McKibbin) has been asked to write to the hon. Gentleman in response to this question.

Letter from Dr. Malcolm McKibbin to Mr. David Burnside, dated 22 March 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question about what plans he has to improve traffic congestion at Sandyknowes roundabout on the M2 motorway in Northern Ireland. I have been asked to reply as these issues fall within my responsibility as Chief Executive of Roads Service.

The recently published Belfast Metropolitan Transport Plan (BMTP) proposes modifications to the Sandyknowes roundabout incorporating full signalisation coupled with layout improvements to minimise conflicts between different traffic movements and afford greater priority to the strategic M2 and A8 movements. Roads Service is currently investigating various options to implement these proposals.

The M2 southbound from Sandyknowes junction through the Greencastle interchange to join the M5 is due to be widened to three lanes as part of Package 1 of Roads Service's DBFO Programme.

In addition, the Transport Assessment associated with a planning application for the Global Point Development at Ballyhenry, has identified a traffic impact on the Sandyknowes junction. Roads Service is working closely with the developer to reach agreement on the nature and extent of any mitigating measures required for the development.

I hope this information is helpful.

Transport Links

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his plans are for improving road and rail links between the airport at Aldergrove and Belfast, with particular reference to the Dunsilly roundabout M2 link through Antrim town to the airport. [223171]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Roads Service (Dr. Malcolm McKibbin) has been asked to write to the hon. Gentleman in response to this question.

Letter from Dr. Malcolm McKibbin to Mr. Burnside, dated 22 March 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question, about what his plans are for improving road and rail links between the airport at Aldergrove and Belfast, with particular reference to the Dunsilly roundabout M2 link through Antrim town to the airport. (223171). I have been asked to reply as this issue falls within my responsibility as Chief Executive of Roads Service.

You may recall that John Spellar, MP, in his letter dated 22 October 2004, assured you that the importance of Belfast International Airport as a transport hub was recognised by the Regional Development Strategy and the Regional Transportation Strategy. During preparation of the Regional Strategic Transport Network Transport Plan (RSTN TP), the transport links to Belfast International Airport were examined. However, it was considered that the three roads radiating out from the Killead roundabout provided good links to the strategic road network, servicing the Province and beyond. No additional road infrastructure was considered necessary during the life of the Plan.

The Antrim Road/Dublin Road between Belfast International Airport and Antrim does not offer a direct link to the Key Strategic Road Network and is not therefore, considered to be either a Key Strategic Corridor or Link Corridor, as defined in the Regional Development Strategy. However, the RSTN TP appraisal process included the examination of a new link road connecting the M2 Motorway/Rathmore roundabout to Belfast International Airport, and it is hoped that this proposal will be included, not only in Roads Service's Long Term Forward Planning Schedule, but also as a potential Transport Scheme in the forthcoming Antrim/Ballymena/Larne Development Plan, currently being prepared by the Department of the Environment's Planning Service. The inclusion of this scheme would afford protection of the route from any development that would be likely to prejudice future implementation of a scheme.

With regard to the Antrim Road/Dublin Road, which forms part of the route from the Dunsilly Roundabout to the airport, I can advise that Roads Service has identified a number of possible road improvements. The first of these, involving the realignment and widening of approximately 500m of carriageway, together with a right turn lane and improved visibility splays at the Dungonnell Road junction to Crumlin, is scheduled to start during the 2005/06 financial year.

The proposed improvements to the M2 motorway, which will be undertaken as part of Package 1 of Roads Service's DBFO Programme, will widen the existing carriageway to provide three lanes in the Belfast bound direction from Sandyknowes junction through the Greencastle interchange to join the M5. An additional lane will also be provided to carry 3 lanes through the Greencastle interchange in the northbound direction. The works will include the replacement of three of the bridges over the M2 motorway on this section of the route, i.e. Hightown Bridge, Collin Bridge, and Longlands Bridge.

With regard to improving rail links to the airport, I understand in the context of a new park and ride site near Templepatrick, that Translink would consider diverting the current bus service between Aldergrove and the Europa Bus Centre to enable a rail connection to be made there.

I hope this information is helpful.

TRANSPORT

Aircraft Pollution

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans he has to reduce the contribution that aircraft make to greenhouse gas emissions; and if he will make a statement. [221749]

Charlotte Atkins: The Government's proposals to tackle the climate change impacts of aviation are set out in the Future of Air Transport White Paper (paragraphs 3.35–3.43).

Buses

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the A65 quality bus scheme submitted by Leeds city council and West Yorkshire Passenger Transport Executive; and when he expects to make a decision on funding for the scheme. [223526]

Charlotte Atkins: Ministers decided to ask regional bodies for a view on its priority. It is now for Leeds city council to determine which of the schemes they would want considered, and the justification for that decision.

Full consideration of regional views is currently expected to commence in time for the 2006 settlement. Local authorities would need to provide a strong case for the Department to reconsider schemes remitted to the region before those arrangements are in place.

Carriage of Dangerous Goods

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether (a) his Department and (b) other Government Departments have responsibility within Wales for the Carriage of Dangerous Goods and Use of Transportable Pressure Equipment Regulations 2004 (S.I., 2004, No.568). [223103]

Mr. Jamieson: The Carriage of Dangerous Goods and Use of Transportable Pressure Equipment Regulations 2004 apply to the whole of Great Britain.

These regulations are the policy responsibility of the Department for Transport. Competent authority functions are primarily shared between DfT and the Health and Safety Executive (HSE). The lead agency for enforcement of the regulations in Wales is the HSE. The Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) and the Welsh police forces also have enforcement responsibilities under the terms of a Memorandum of Understanding with the HSE.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make a statement on the drafting process that was followed for the Carriage of Dangerous Goods and use of Transportable Pressure Equipment

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

Regulations 2004 (S.I., 2004, No.568); and whether individuals from outside his Department were involved in the drafting. [223132]

Mr. Jamieson [holding answer 21 March 2005]: Transport Ministers and the Chair of the Health and Safety Commission (HSC) exchanged correspondence in 2000 and the HSC were invited to prepare the draft regulations. HSC instructed the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) to undertake that task. HSE's policy and legal advisors prepared the regulations (including a regulatory impact assessment and full consultation exercise) and these were submitted to the DfT who agreed and made them on 1 April 2004.

Concessionary Travel Schemes

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what change in the local Government Finance Settlement would be necessary to reimburse local government in full for the costs of replacing the national minimum standards for concessionary travel schemes for people over the age of 60 with a 100 per cent. discount on bus fares; [223247]

(2) how much additional government expenditure would be required to introduce concessionary travel schemes for people over the age of 60 with a 100 per cent. discount on bus fares. [223248]

Charlotte Atkins: From April 2006, the Government are extending the existing statutory minimum requirement so that older and disabled people in England will be guaranteed free off-peak travel on their local bus services, with no charge for the pass. The Government will be providing an extra £350 million in 2006–07 for the local Government Finance Settlement for local authorities in England, to implement this measure. Total additional government expenditure will be £420 million, also including consequential payments to Wales and Scotland under the Barnett formula.

Cycling

Mr. Yeo: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the average distance cycled per person in each year since 1980. [223591]

Mr. Darling: The National Travel Survey (NTS) shows the data requested in the following table.

Average distance cycled per person per year: 1985–86 to 2002–03

	Miles
1985–86	44
1989–91	41
1990–92	41
1991–93	39
1992–94	38
1993–95	37
1994–96	38
1995–97	39
1996–98	38
1997–99	40
1998–2000	39
1999–2001	39
2002–03	34

Source:
National Travel Survey, DfT.

Averages are taken over all the population living in households, not just cyclists. Equivalent information is not available for 1980–84 and 1987–88. Data are shown for three-year aggregates between 1999 and 2001 because of the smaller sample sizes during that period.

The NTS only collects data on travel by bicycle on the public highway and paved pathways with unrestricted access, and travel by bicycle off these routes will not be recorded. Trips by children's bicycles/tricycles intended as toys are not included.

Departmental Property (Trespass)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many incidents of trespassing on his Department's property have been reported in (a) Leicester and (b) England since 1997. [222890]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department for Transport was formed in May 2002 and as a result the information provided only relates to the years 2002–03 onwards.

Comprehensive records on trespass are not kept by the Department and its six agencies. Where records are kept and are accessible without disproportionate cost the information shows that since 1 April 2002 there were 33 incidents of trespass in England but none in Leicester.

De-trunking Programme

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make a statement on (a) his de-trunking programme and (b) the level of resources transferred from his Department to local highway authorities for this purpose. [222482]

Mr. Jamieson: The information requested is as follows:

(a) The policy of transferring non-core trunk roads (de-trunking) to local highway authorities was first set out in the White Paper A New Deal for Transport published in July 1998. De-trunking allows the Highways Agency to concentrate on the operation of the strategic (core) trunk road network, whilst enabling local authorities to consider their own priorities for the improvement of non-core routes. The aim has been to transfer some 3,200 kms (30 per cent.) of the trunk road network (as it was in April 1999) to local authorities in a phased programme. To date more than three-quarters (around 2,500 kms) of the programme has been completed since April 2001.

(b) Prior to the de-trunking of a road, the Highways Agency and local authority agree an appropriate level of funding for annual routine maintenance and in some cases' outstanding capital maintenance projects. The methodology for calculating the funding has been approved by the Local Government Association to ensure a fair transfer of resources. In the years following de-trunking, the authority can also make supplementary bids for additional funds for capital maintenance projects (bridge replacement, resurfacing etc.) on de-trunked roads as part of the LTP process. In 2004–05 around £33.1 million of routine maintenance funds, and £31.6 million of capital maintenance funds were transferred from the Highways Agency to local authorities for all de-trunked roads.

Driving Licences

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many fraudulent applications for driving licences there have been in each year since 1997. [223191]

Mr. Jamieson: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) has been refining enforcement processes in this area over the last few years and reliable figures are only available from 2003. Over this period, DVLA referred on average about 40 suspected fraudulent driving licence applications every week to the prosecution authorities.

General Lighthouse Fund

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much was contributed by the General Lighthouse Fund to navigational aids in the territorial waters of the Republic of Ireland in each of the last 10 years; and what his estimate is of contributions over the next three years. [222411]

Mr. Jamieson: I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 19 April 2004, Official Report, column 311W. The figures for the 2004–05 financial year are not yet available.

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how much was contributed by the central fund to the Northern Lighthouse Board in each of the last 10 years; [222412]

(2) what the annual budget of (a) the Trinity House Lighthouse Authority, (b) the Commissioners of the Irish Lights and (c) the Northern Lighthouse Board was in each of the last 10 years. [222415]

Mr. Jamieson: The expenditure requirements of the three General Lighthouse Authorities are met from the General Lighthouse Fund. The annual expenditure figures available are set out in the following table. Expenditure figures for Trinity House Lighthouse Service prior to 1998 can be supplied only at disproportionate cost.

£000

	Trinity House Lighthouse	Northern Lighthouse Board	Commissioners of Irish Lights
1996–97	—	21,772	16,195
1997–98	—	23,329	15,217
1998–99	29,362	22,057	13,401
1999–2000	28,587	28,185	13,701

[1] Approved budget

Sanctioned expenditure for Trinity House post 2004 includes the forecast cost of the redevelopment of Harwich buoy yard and offices and redundancy costs.

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what progress has been made with negotiations with the Irish Government on the cessation of payments from the UK General Lighthouse Fund for the provision of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters. [222413]

Mr. Jamieson: The Irish Government's Department of Communication, Marine and Natural Resources have now stated that they have no objection in principle to participating in a review of the 1985 agreement. We are now developing proposals for their consideration as a matter of priority.

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much revenue from light dues has been collected from ships calling at ports in (a) Scotland, (b) the Isle of Man, (c) England and Wales, (d) Northern Ireland and (e) the Republic of Ireland in each of the last 10 financial years. [222414]

Mr. Jamieson: The information requested is set out as follows for the years 1997 to 2004. We do not have the data broken down in this way prior to 1997.

Heathrow Airport

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many transit and transfer passengers have used Heathrow airport in each of the last five years. [223041]

Charlotte Atkins: The following table shows the number of transit and transfer passengers who used Heathrow airport in each of the last five years.

	Transit (thousand)	Transfers (interliners) (million)
2000	341	19.0
2001	311	18.6
2002	327	22.3
2003	287	22.9
2004 (provisional)	234	22.7

Correspondence

Miss Widdecombe: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he will reply to the letters of 24 February and 14 March from the hon. Member for Maidstone and the Weald regarding a meeting to discuss the Strategic Rail Authority's proposals for the Integrated Kent Franchise. [223734]

Mr. McNulty: I replied to the right hon. Member's letters on 22 March.

Kerrier Home Zone Project

Ms Atherton: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he expects the North Kerrier Home Zone project to be completed. [222657]

Charlotte Atkins: The council expects phase 1 of the works to be substantially complete by the end of April 2005. Further phases of the project are planned as funds become available. Cornwall county council is responsible for the development and implementation of the North Close Home Zone scheme and has received a grant of £460,000 from the Challenge fund.

In submitting their bid for the scheme, Cornwall county council underestimated the scale of the project. It has therefore only been possible to implement the first phase of the project from the grant funding available. The county council are planning to implement further phases from other funding streams in future years.

Unadopted Roads

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent representations he has received about unadopted roads on new estates. [222716]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department has received a small number of representations from people living on unadopted roads on new housing estates. In addition, I met with my hon. Friend the Member for North Durham (Mr. Jones) last December to discuss unadopted roads in other areas.

Nottingham East Midlands Airport

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what representations he has received from Nottingham East Midlands Airport concerning its proposals for implementing noise controls. [222891]

Charlotte Atkins: Nottingham East Midlands Airport (NEMA) has indicated that it will address possible enhancements to its existing environmental mitigation measures in preparing its master plan. I understand that NEMA will go out to consultation on its draft master plan in the summer, with a view to publishing the final document around the end of the year.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what his Department's plans are for (a) expansion and (b) night flight capacity at Nottingham East Midlands Airport. [222893]

Charlotte Atkins: This is a matter for the airport operator. We expect the airport operator to outline its proposals in its draft master plan, which is expected to be published for consultation in the summer.

Parking Enforcement

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment his Department has made of the effects of decriminalised parking enforcement on the numbers of (a) traffic wardens and (b) parking enforcement officers in England. [223373]

Charlotte Atkins: The Government have encouraged local authorities to take over responsibility for parking enforcement from the police and police traffic wardens. This allows authorities to provide more effective enforcement and to match that enforcement to their local transport objectives. Over 150 local authorities are now responsible for decriminalised parking enforcement, with parking attendants carrying out the enforcement on the street. This policy of transferring responsibility to local authorities is reflected in Home Office figures for the number of traffic wardens in England and Wales for the years 1999–2000 to 2003–04 (the most recent year for which figures are available), which are as follows:

	Number
1999–2000	2,801
2000–01	2,538
2001–02	2,280
2002–03	2,108
2003–04	1,688

Comparable figures for parking attendants employed by local authorities are not collected centrally.

Regional Funding Allocations

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the proposed introduction of regional transport funding allocations; how many miles of (a) motorway and (b) trunk roads will be reduced from national to regional importance; what representations he has received on this proposal; and what discussions he has had with the (i) Chancellor of the Exchequer, (ii) Deputy Prime Minister and (iii) Secretary of State for Trade and Industry on these proposals. [222483]

Charlotte Atkins: In December 2004, the Government launched a consultation on proposals to establish regional funding allocations for transport, housing and economic development. As part of that consultation a number of routes have been classified as being of regional rather than of major national and international importance. This amounts to 520 miles of motorway and 2,185 miles of all-purpose trunk roads. The categorisation is being used to assist the identification of regional priorities for transport investment and does not represent a reduction in the status of these routes. Representations about the classification of routes have been received so far from some local authorities as well as the RAC Foundation, the Freight Transport Association and the Road Haulage Association.

The deadline for responses to the consultation was 10 March 2005. The Government are currently considering the responses received and will set out how it intends to proceed in due course. HM Treasury, the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, the Department of Trade and Industry and the Department for Transport have been working closely together at both ministerial and official level on the development of these proposals.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220938]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department has not used eBay to dispose of any surplus stock.

Train Services (Disruption)

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what action he is taking to prevent disruption to train services by adverse weather. [221721]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 15 March 2005]: Network Rail advise that all its regions have plans and preparations in place for adverse weather and ensures that best practice is shared.

Network Rail is taking a range of actions to prevent disruption to train services in cold weather. Network Rail holds a winter preparation conference every summer to review performance during the previous winter and to start planning for the winter ahead.

Through these and other efforts, Network Rail has reduced the delays it causes to the network by 16 per cent. over the year ending 31 December 2004, compared to the preceding year. Delays in the autumn period (the 10 weeks from beginning of October to early December 2004) were reduced by 42 per cent. compared to the same period in 2003.

Working Time Regulations

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make a statement on guidance given to companies on the application of working time regulations to the transport sector. [223456]

Mr. Jamieson: We have produced detailed guidance on the working time arrangements provided for in the Road Transport (Working Time) Regulations 2005 (which implement EU Directive 2002/15/EC). We consulted on a draft version of the guidance last October and the finalised version is now posted on our website at www.dft.gov.uk/freight/rtd.

PRIME MINISTER

GP Service

Brian Cotter: To ask the Prime Minister what steps the Government is taking to ensure the effective operation of the new out-of-hours GP service. [223399]

The Deputy Prime Minister: I have been asked to reply.

In January this year, the Government's national quality requirements came into force, ensuring that all patients have fast and convenient access to care, delivered by the most appropriate professional in the most appropriate place. This is supported by funding of £316 million, in this financial year, towards out-of-hours services. All patients can now access out-of-hours services with a single call to NHS Direct. Patients are guaranteed a home visit from a GP, if that is what they need.

Dartmoor

Mr. Steen: To ask the Prime Minister if he will make an official visit to Dartmoor. [223401]

The Deputy Prime Minister: I have been asked to reply.

My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister has no current plans to do so.

Northern Ireland

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Prime Minister on how many occasions since 20 December 2004 (a) officials and (b) special advisers in his office have met representatives of (i) Provisional Sinn Fein and (ii) the Provisional IRA; and if he will make a statement. [223534]

The Prime Minister: My officials and I have had frequent meetings with political parties in Northern Ireland.

Terrorism

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Prime Minister what discussions he has had with (a) Sir Ian Blair and (b) the UK security services regarding Sir Ian Blair's comments that terrorists may use the UK election day as a target date to attack the UK; and if he will make a statement. [223069]

The Prime Minister: It has been the practice of successive governments not to comment on specific security matters. Terrorist threats are kept under constant review and advice would be issued immediately if members of the public needed to take specific action.

UK Waters (Security)

David Davis: To ask the Prime Minister which Government Department is responsible for patrolling UK waters for the detection of (a) narcotics, (b) illegal immigrants and (c) illegal importation of weapons. [223587]

The Prime Minister: The Government are committed to tackling drug trafficking, illegal immigration and illegal imports of weaponry. HM Customs and Excise are responsible for patrolling UK waters for the detection of narcotics and other assigned matters, including the illegal importation of weapons. They also assist the Immigration Service by patrolling against illegal immigration, assisted by the police, Royal Navy and HM Coastguard.

The Serious Organised Crime and Police Bill provides for the creation of a new Serious Organised Crime Agency which will lead the national fight against drug trafficking, people smuggling and the importation of illegal firearms.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Data Protection

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment her Department has made of the operations of companies charging for services to assist compliance with data protection legislation. [220079]

Mr. Leslie: I have been asked to reply.

My Department does not have a statutory duty to provide protection to consumers who purchase services directed at helping them to comply with data protection legislation, and so no such assessment has been made. However, the Information Commissioner promotes the following of good practice by data controllers. For example, advice is offered as to what is necessary in order to notify with the Commissioner correctly, which can include taking professional advice. Information has been published on the activities of bogus notification agencies. More generally, the Information Commissioner also supports standards and guidance offered to the data protection user community, for example, by the British Computer Society, The National Computing Centre and the British Standards Institution.

Departmental Policies

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Coventry, South constituency, the effects on the constituency of changes to her Department's policy since 1997. [219535]

Jacqui Smith [holding answer 7 March 2004]: This information would only be available at disproportionate cost; therefore, I am unable to provide an answer to my hon. Friend's question: however, I can offer the following information about the Department's activities in Coventry and Warwickshire.

Coventry has benefited from capital investment in its industry from the Selective Finance for Industry in England (SFIE) programme (formerly Regional Selective Assistance—RSA). In the last five years, 22 companies have received a total of £12.4 million in SFIE offers which will enable these companies to make capital investments totalling £119.6 million. This investment will allow these companies to create 2,407 new jobs and safeguard a further 832 existing jobs.

Since January 2003 the Small Business Service in the West Midlands made 17 offers of grant to SME's in Coventry. The total value of the grants offered was £945,051 to support Grant for Research and Development (GRD) its predecessor SMART and for Enterprise Grant projects. In the last year, the Small Business Service has assisted a total of 1,695 companies and potential start-ups in the Coventry, South constituency.

122 companies in Coventry have benefited so far from the subsidised advice available from the West Midlands Manufacturing Advisory Service. Companies also benefit from investment by Advantage West Midlands (AWM) through the Coventry, Solihull and Warwickshire Triangle High Technology Corridor; AWM's Cluster programme and funding through the Coventry and Nuneaton Regeneration Zone. This year alone, AWM has spent £34 million on projects across Coventry and Warwickshire which has achieved the following:

Coventry and Warwickshire

Projects
Jobs created or safeguarded (Number)	2,652
New Businesses Created (Number)	89
Businesses Assisted (Number)	2,347
Learning Opportunities Created (Number)	3,889
Brownfield Land Reclaimed (hectares)	11
Private Sector Leverage (£ million)	16
Community Enterprise Initiatives (Number)	382

Tribunal Cases

Mr. Tynan: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many tribunal cases have been brought under the (a) Employment Equality (Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2003 and (b) the Employment Equality (Religion or Belief) Regulations 2003 since they came into force. [213524]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 4 February 2005]: The Employment Equality (Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2003 and the Employment Equality (Religion or Belief) Regulations 2003 came into force on 1 and 2 December 2003 respectively.

In the period December 2003 to 31 March 2004 in total 61 Employment Tribunal claims were registered by the Employment Tribunals Service relating to sexual orientation and 70 claims relating to religion or belief.

For the period 1 April 2004 to 28 February 2005 according to the data held in the Employment Tribunals Service's statistical database, 315 claims have been registered relating to sexual orientation and 265 claims relating to religion or belief. These figures will be included with others in the Employment Tribunals Service's Annual Report, which is due to be published and laid before the House in mid-July 2005.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Consumer Committee met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [214298]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The EU Consumer Committee was in 2003 renamed the European Consumer Consultative Group (ECCG). Its meetings are attended by non-governmental consumer organisations. The UK is currently represented by Nick Stace of Which, and Susan Knox of Food Aware is the alternate member.

Details of ECCG meetings held during the Italian, Irish and Dutch presidency of the EU and who represented the UK are given as follows.

Presidency	Date	ECCG Meeting	UK Representative	Location
Italian	July to December 2003	9 July 2003	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels
	July to December 2003	2 October 2003	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels
	July to December 2003	10 December 2003	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels
Irish	January to June 2004	18 March 2004	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels
	January to June 2004	15 June 2004	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels
Dutch	July to December 2004	22 September 2004	Nick Stace (Consumer Association)	Brussels
	July to December 2004	10 December 2004	Susan Knox (Food Aware)	Brussels

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee of experts on the transit of electricity through grids met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [215902]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: No such meetings took place. The relevant Directive—90/547/EEC—was repealed with effect from 1 July 2004.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Contact Committee European Economic Interest Grouping met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217893]

Jacqui Smith: There were no such meetings.

Kidney Disease

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what funding the Medical Research Council has made available for research into kidney disease in each year since 1997. [222829]

Ms Hewitt: The figures for MRC expenditure on research into kidney disease for the financial years requested are as follows:

	£ million
1997–98	2.1
1998–99	1.8
1999–2000	2.1
2000–01	2.5
2002–03	3.3

The figures for the first three financial years are estimates, while those for the latter three financial years are actual expenditure.

Maternity Pay

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list the statistics relating to maternity pay, which, since 1997 (a) are no longer collected by her Department and (b) have had the way in which the figures are compiled changed. [221798]

Ms Hewitt: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer given on 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 423W by the Under-Secretary of State with responsibility for disabled people, my hon. Friend the Member for Liverpool, Garston (Maria Eagle).

Music Industry

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps her Department takes to support the UK music industry; and what action her Department takes to protect the intellectual property rights in the industry. [222472]

Ms Hewitt: In addition to a range of business support solutions that apply to business generally, my Department has recently announced £0.5 million to promote the music industry in key markets like the US and China and, in response to advice from the music industry, UK Trade and Investment will be refocusing its resources and developing new strategies to help UK artists and companies enter the US market which is an export priority for the industry.

We have delivered legislative changes to strengthen the protection of intellectual property rights, including enhanced protection in the information society by UK implementation of the EC Copyright Directive (2001/29/EC). My noble Friend the Minister for Science and Innovation with responsibility for intellectual property, and my right hon. Friend the Minister with responsibility for sponsorship of the music industry in the Department for Culture, Media and Sport, jointly chair the Creative Industries Forum on Intellectual Property, which includes representatives of the music industry and which is exploring new opportunities for exploiting IP in the digital environment as well as concerns about protection for rights threatened by IP crime and online infringement. This builds on the IP Crime Strategy which was launched by my Department in August last year and our work to raise awareness about IP.

Newcastle-under-Lyme

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many workers in Newcastle-under-Lyme she estimates have benefited from the minimum wage. [223262]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Newcastle-under-Lyme due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 80,000 people in the North East have benefited from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. It is estimated that the October 2005 uprating will provide a guaranteed pay rise for around 80,000 workers in the North East. The DTI has based these estimates on the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings April 2004.

Phoenix Companies

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what measures are in place to protect consumers from phoenix companies. [216868]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested is as follows:

Measures in place to protect consumers:

Disqualification:

Courts can disqualify directors from between two to 15 years if they are unfit. "Phoenix" companies are particularly targeted and the courts take such cases very seriously. But hard evidence is needed in all cases.

Over 1,000 directors were disqualified in the period April 2004 to February 2005. Over 850 of these disqualifications involved directors offering an undertaking not to act as a director under the recently introduced (2001) new fast track process. It avoids the need for a court hearing where the director consents to a period of disqualification.

The Enforcement "Hotline" was established in January 1998 to enable the public to report possible criminal activities by those who manage companies while disqualified. In the period April 2004 to February 2005, 152 calls were received by the Hotline, 82 of which were referred for investigation.

Prosecution:

Directors can be and are prosecuted for offences relating to "phoenix" operations and on conviction they can, additionally, be disqualified from being directors.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry which (a) non-departmental public bodies and (b) Executive agencies within the remit of her Department have regional offices based on the Government offices for the regions' regional structure; and when the regional offices were established in each case. [219874]

Jacqui Smith: The Department is lead sponsor for the eight Regional development agencies, the boundaries of which reflect the Government offices for regions' regional structure. The regional development agencies were established under the Regional Development Agencies Act 1998. The London Development Agency is based in London and was established by the Greater London Act 1999. None of the Department's other agencies and NDPBs has regional offices based on the Government offices for the regions' regional structure.

Printer Cartridges

Mr. David Marshall: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether she plans to refer the pricing of printer cartridges to the Office of Fair Trading; and if she will make a statement. [215355]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Office of Fair Trading (OFT) is the independent competition regulator. It is responsible for deciding what action to take to promote effective competition and address anti-competitive behaviour. Anyone with evidence of anti-competitive conduct should pass that information to the OFT.

TREASURY

Child Benefit

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people have benefited from child benefit in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the north-east and (d) the UK in each year since 1997. [223377]

Dawn Primarolo: Details of (a), (b), (c) and (d) for November 2003 appear in "Child Benefit Statistics. Geographical Analyses. November 2003". The latest figures available for (d) also appear in "Child Benefit Quarterly Statistics. November 2004". These publications are available on the Inland Revenue website at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/child_benefit/menu.htm. Geographical analyses for 2004 are not yet available.

I understand from the Department of Work and Pensions that the numbers of families claiming child benefit between 1999 and 2002 (and the numbers of children in these families) were as follows:

	August
	1999	2000	2001	2002
(a) Jarrow parliamentary constituency
Families	10,720	10,655	10,495	10,495
Children	18,460	18,290	17,895	17,760
(b) South Tyneside local authority
Families	19,810	19,800	19,580	19,530
Children	34,455	34,345	33,685	33,380
(c) North-east Government office region
Families	326,170	325,460	321,620	319,790
Children	570,975	568,160	559,230	553,845
Great Britain[1]
Families	7,014,225	7,020,270	7,004,140	6,987,525
Children	12,745,925	12,728,005	12,657,620	12,582,040

[1] Figures for Northern Ireland are not available on exactly the same basis, and hence the UK figure is unavailable.

Notes:
1. Figures are taken from a 100 per cent. sample of the child benefit centre.
2. In order to maintain anonymity of claimants, all 100 per cent. figures have been rounded to the nearest 5.
3. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
4. Produced by Information Directorate, DWP.

Figures for previous years are not available on the same basis.

Civil Service

Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer in which departments and agencies he expects to be able to make further reductions in civil service posts. [223772]

Mr. Boateng: The planned levels of reductions in total and in detail were set out in the Spending Review 2004 White Paper, and are summarised in Chapter 2, Table 2.2.

Inland Revenue

Mr. Gray: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 8 February 2005, Official Report, column 1406W, on Inland Revenue, on what date Inland Revenue commenced a review of its existing informers, and its practices relating to them, to ensure that it would be compliant with the provisions of the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000. [223192]

Dawn Primarolo: The Inland Revenue responded to an approach by the Home Office in 1999 prior to the passage of the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act, and informed them of the Department's continuing need to use information provider by informants and, in particular, that type of informant later classified as a Covert Human Intelligence Source by the Provisions of RIPA. The Inland Revenue asked staff in its Special Compliance Office to consider whether any of the informers then in use fell within the definition of a Covert Human Intelligence Source on 9 August 2001.

Tax Evasion

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what methods his Department uses to tackle tax evasion. [223071]

Dawn Primarolo: The Inland Revenue employs a twin-track approach to ensuring tax compliance by helping taxpayers to meet their obligations and dealing effectively with deliberate non-compliance. Central to that approach, the Revenue has a continuous and sophisticated programme of risk assessment directed at tackling tax evasion.

New Homes (VAT)

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to review the zero rate of VAT on new homes. [223355]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government keep all taxes under constant review.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent representations he has received from the European Commission regarding the zero rate of VAT on new homes in the United Kingdom. [223356]

Dawn Primarolo: I am not aware that any Treasury Minister has received any recent representations from the European Commission concerning the zero rate of VAT for new housing.

Office of Government Commerce

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many suppliers are included on the list of pre-qualified suppliers maintained by the Office of Government Commerce's buying solutions; and how many are located in Wales. [223333]

Mr. Boateng: OGC buying.solutions does not maintain a listing of 'pre-qualified suppliers.' Delivery of the products and services is via Framework Agreements and Managed Services contracts. The OGC buying.solutions supply base is 570, of which eight have registered offices in Wales.

In order to provide the appropriate service coverage to central Government and the wider public sector within Wales, the supply base may utilise regional offices or sub-contractors based within Wales. The Management Information submitted by each supplier does not include details of which office or sub-contractor is responsible for carrying out work in each region.

PFI Contracts

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total value to date is of secondary market equity sales in private finance initiative contracts. [222886]

Mr. Boateng: The Government do not hold information on sales of equity stakes in PFI deals as these are transactions between two private sector entities. PFI contracts require that the identity of any new owner arising from such a transaction must be notified to the procuring authority of the PFI project. The Government undertake PFI for reasons of value for money, and the value of secondary private sector equity sales does not change the value for money case or the unitary charge paid for an individual project.

Socio-economic Classifications

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of each National Statistics Socio-Economic Classification was unmarried but lived with a partner in the last period for which figures are available; and what proportion of these couples had a child. [223122]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl to Mr. Andrew Tyrie, dated 23 March 2005:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking for the proportion of cohabiting couple families in each National Statistics Socio-Economic Classification (NS-SEC), and the proportion of these families that had a child. I am replying in his absence. (223122)

The most recent estimates of the number of cohabiting couples indicated that there were 2 million cohabiting couples in England and Wales in 2003. The proportion of these couples who have children is not available. No estimates are made for Scotland and Northern Ireland.

The NS-SEC of families is not routinely published, but the Labour Force Survey can be used to provide estimated proportions of family types by NS-SEC. A table based on data from the first quarter of 2004 for the United Kingdom is attached. This table also shows the proportion of cohabiting couples who have children living with them. The data should be interpreted with some caution as the results are not standardised for age. The number of children an NS SEC category of cohabitants have will, in part, be determined by the age distribution of cohabitants in that category.

[1] A cohabiting couple family is a cohabiting couple on their own, or with their never-married children who have no children of their own. A small number of those cohabiting will actually be legally married but separated from their marriage partner.
[2] NS-SEC is an occupationally based classification but has rules to provide coverage of the whole adult population. The family reference person has been used to assign the NS-SEC of the family. It does not follow that everyone in the family will be of the same NS-SEC as the family reference person.
[3] A family with children can contain dependent or non-dependent children. Dependent children are defined as children under 16 years of age, or those aged 16 to 18 who are never-married and in full-time education.
Note:
Due to rounding, percentages may not total to exactly 100.

Tax Credits

Mr. Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 76W, on tax credits, how many complaints were received by the MP tax credits complaints team (a) by post and (b) by telephone in (i) January and (ii) February. [223595]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is not available.

Total Managed Expenditure

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the projected total managed expenditure for (a) 2007–08 and (b) 2011–12 is; [223362]

(2) what the projected annually managed expenditure for (a) 2007–08 and (b) 2011–12 is; [223363]

(3) what the projected total departmental expenditure limits for (a) 2007–08 and (b) 2011–12 are. [223364]

Mr. Boateng: Plans for Total Managed Expenditure (TME), including Departmental Expenditure Limits (DEL) and Annually Managed Expenditure (AME), up to 2007–08 are set out in Chapter C of Budget 2005.

Illustrative long-term fiscal projections for 2010–11 and beyond were set out in the 2004 "Long-term Public Finances Report" and were updated in Annex A of Budget 2005.

Tax Credits

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many people in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK received working families tax credit; [223658]

(2) how many people in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK have received child tax credit since its inception. [223660]

Dawn Primarolo: The numbers of families receiving working families tax credit in the areas requested appear in "Working Families' Tax Credit and Disabled Person's Tax Credit Statistics. Geographical analyses".

Estimates of the numbers of in-work families in these areas receiving child tax credit at various dates since July 2003 appear in "Child and Working Tax Credit Statistics. Geographical analyses". However, these estimates are based on a sample of families and are subject to sampling uncertainty. These publications can be found on the Inland Revenue website at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/menu.htm.

Unemployment

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the level of (a) unemployment and (b) long-term unemployment has been in (i) Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside, (iii) the North East and (iv) the UK in each year since 1997; [223048]

(2) what the level of youth unemployment in the North East was in each year since 1997. [223105]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl to Mr. Stephen Hepburn, dated 23 March 2005:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Questions about unemployment. I am replying in his absence. (223048, 223105)

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) compiles statistics of unemployment from the Labour Force Survey following International Labour Organisation definitions. Tables 1 and 2 provide the available information. In table 2, long-term unemployment figures are available for the years 1999 to 2004 but not for earlier years.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to sampling variability.

ONS also compiles statistics of those claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA). Table 3 gives the annual average numbers of young people aged 18 to 24 years old resident in the North East region claiming JSA. Table 4 shows the annual average numbers of all JSA claimants resident and those claiming for over 12 months in the Jarrow Parliamentary Constituency, South Tyneside Local Authority, the North East region and the United Kingdom. The figures for both tables 3 and 4 are for the years 1997 to 2004.

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many young unemployed people there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 2001; [223154]

(2) how many people were unemployed in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 2001; [223155]

(3) how many long-term unemployed people there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 2001. [223183]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Paul Marsden, dated 23 March 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Questions about unemployment in Shrewsbury and Atcham Parliamentary Constituency. (223183, 223154, 223155)

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) compiles statistics of unemployment from the Labour Force Survey following International Labour Organisation definitions. Table 1 provides the requested information for the twelve-month periods ending in February each year from 2001 to 2004.

These estimates from the Labour Force Survey are, as with any sample survey, subject to sampling variability.

ONS also compiles statistics of those claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (ISA) for local areas including Parliamentary Constituencies. Table 2 gives the annual average number of JSA claimants, the total claiming for over 12 months and those aged 18 to 24 years claiming Jobseeker's Allowance benefits resident in the Shrewsbury and Atcham Parliamentary Constituency for each year since 2001.

DEFENCE

Defence Service Agencies (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people work for the Defence Communications Services Agency; how many are employed in Scotland; what the personnel costs of the agency are; and what the figures were in 2003–04.[215431]

Mr. Ingram: The number of personnel in the Defence Communication Services Agency as of 3 February is 4,820, of whom 140 are based in Scotland. For 2003–04, the overall number of personnel was 4,680, of whom 120 personnel were based in Scotland. The total costs for personnel for 2003–04 was £161.520 million.

Both civilian and Service personnel data by Agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk

The number of Service personnel employed by Agency and location is not collated centrally. However, locally held records were available and have been included.

A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MOD Agency, for the Agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, has also been published on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House.

Personnel numbers are rounded to the nearest 10.

Departmental Finances

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of his Department's SR 2004 Departmental Submission.[217843]

Mr. Ingram: No, as to do so could harm the frankness and candour of internal discussion.

Information relevant to the outcome of Spending Review negotiations can, however, be found in the Ministry of Defence's SR 2004 settlement as set out in Chapter 13 of the 2004 Spending Review document (Cm 6237), with further detail on forward defence plans in "Delivering Security in a Changing World—Future Capabilities" (Cm 6269).

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value was of receipts from asset sales that were (a) appropriated in aid of his Department and (b) surrendered to the Consolidated Fund in each financial year since 1997–98. [217990]

Mr. Ingram: The amounts included in Appropriations-in-Aid and those surrendered to the Consolidated Fund in respect of fixed asset disposals for the years commencing 1999–2000 are shown in the table. The figures are based on the published Resource Accounts of the Department, the first set of which was published for the year 1999–2000. Information in respect of years 1997–98 and 1998–99 is included in the Appropriation Accounts of the respective years; these are available in the Library of the House.

Disposal of fixed assets

	Appropriations-in-Aid	Surrendered to Consolidated Fund
1999–2000	234,862	[1]—
2000–01	317,987	[1]—
2001–02	299,589	22,557
2002–03	360,555	44,300
2003–04	481,298	125,927

[1] This information was not recorded in the Resource Accounts for these years. Any amounts surrendered to the Consolidated Fund would have been included in the Appropriation Accounts, copies of which have been placed in the Library of the House.

The amounts shown for Appropriations-in-Aid for the year 2003–04 represent receipts on sale of fixed assets; in prior years asset disposals were required to be stated in the Departmental Resource Accounts at their net book value in accordance with HM Treasury Resource Accounting Manual.

The above figures do not include the disposal in respect of sale of shares in QinetiQ, a public corporation. This resulted in a receipt of £39,427,000 which was surrendered to the Consolidated Fund.

Fighter Aircraft

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects the next generation of the strategic fighter aircraft to be operational; and where it will be based. [222386]

Mr. Ingram: The Joint Combat Aircraft (JCA) is expected to enter service towards the middle of the next decade. As I announced on 10 March 2005, there are five RAF Stations currently being considered as its potential bases: RAF Cottesmore, RAF Marham, RAF Lossiemouth, RAF St. Mawgan and RAF Leeming.

IT Contracts

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the contracts awarded by his Department to (a) Computer Sciences Corporation and (b) EDS in each of the last seven years. [220258]

Mr. Ingram: I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of the letter in the Library of the House.

Mutual Defence Agreement

Alan Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the running costs of the Atomic Co-ordinating Offices in London and Washington established under the 1958 Mutual Defence Agreement were in the last year for which figures are available; and how many staff are employed in the offices. [216673]

Mr. Ingram: The annual running costs of the Atomic Control Office, London and the Atomic Co-ordinating Office, Washington are some £72,000 and some £400,000 respectively. The numbers of staff employed in each office are three and five respectively.

Northern Ireland (Royal Navy)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) shore-based Royal Navy personnel are stationed in Northern Ireland and (b) ship-based personnel are assigned to duty in Northern Ireland, broken down by rank. [223293]

Mr. Ingram: The total strength of shore-based Royal Navy personnel stationed in Northern Ireland as at 21 March 2005 is 31 (5 Officers, 26 Ratings), 10 of whom are full-time RN staff administering HMS Caroline, a Royal Naval Reserve Establishment.

The total number of ship-based Royal Navy personnel currently assigned to duty in Northern Ireland is 107 (19 Officers, 88 Ratings).

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. McFall: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will reply to the question tabled by the right hon. Member for Dumbarton on 10 December 2004, reference 204981, on cash machines. [211369]

Mr. Ingram: I replied to my right hon. Friend on 26 January 2005, Official Report, column 332W.

Regiments

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on progress the future (a) Mercia, (b) Yorkshire, (c) Scottish and (d) Welsh regiments are making on decisions on (i) cap badges, (ii) rank slides, (iii) belt buckles and (iv) mess dress. [221488]

Mr. Ingram: A joint formation committee will be set up for each of the new regiments being created under the future infantry structure. Each committee will be made up of representatives from the respective antecedent regiments. They will consider regimental dress and accoutrement regulations and how each of the antecedent regiments will be represented.

It is anticipated that these committees will report during the second half of 2005. Recommendations on dress will need executive approval from the Army Dress Committee before any announcement is finalised.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions have taken place on regimental (a) funds and (b) silverware for each of the three regiments due for merger into the King's, Lancashire and Border Regiment. [219043]

Mr. Ingram: A committee of representatives from The King's Own Royal Border Regiment, The King's Regiment and The Queen's Lancashire Regiment will be formed to consider how each of the antecedent regiments can be best represented following their amalgamation into the King's, Lancashire and Border Regiment. As part of its remit, this committee will consider future plans for regimental funds and silverware.

It is anticipated that the committee's recommendations will be presented to the colonels of regiments during the second half of 2005 for executive approval. As the majority of regimental assets are held in charitable trusts, the management of which are controlled by trustees in accordance with their charter, any proposals will be subject to Charity Commission approval.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what name for the new regiment in the North West was put to the Army Board by the Queen's Lancashire Regiment. [222276]

Mr. Ingram: Responsibility for putting advice to the Executive Committee of the Army Board rested, as with all Divisions of Infantry, with the Colonel Commandant of the King's Division, rather than with any individual regiment within the Division. A number of options were considered within the Division during the consultation process, and a flavour of the debate was exposed to ECAB. In the event, 'The King's, Lancashire and Border Regiment' was endorsed by ECAB as the name for the new regiment and recommended to my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence, which he accepted.

Short-term Plans

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library his Department's short-term plans since financial year 1997–98. [213587]

Mr. Ingram: There is no single formal document that constitutes the Department's short-term plan. The output of the short-term planning round is a set of detailed planning assumptions and financial data which forms part of internal advice to senior management and Ministers on the overall affordability of the defence programme. It is not in a readily publishable form.

A summary of the outcome of the planning process is, however, set out in the Government's expenditure plans for the Ministry of Defence. A table of the Department's plans produced since 1997–98 is provided as follows.

	CM
1997–98 to 1999–2000	3602
1998–99	3902
1999–2000 to 2001–02	4208
2000–01 to 2001–02	4608
2001–02 to 2003–04	5109
2002–03 to 2003–04	5412

Additionally, documents produced since 1999–2000 are available at http://www.mod.uk/publications/mod_reports.htm.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Animal By-Products Regulation

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance she has issued to officials on carrying out risk assessments before applying the Animal By-Products Regulation (EC) No 1774/2002 to Intermediary Plants. [221870]

Mr. Bradshaw: There is extensive guidance available to State Veterinary Service (SVS) officials on the inspection and approval of Intermediate Plants. This guidance was produced in consultation with experienced Veterinary Officers from the SVS. In addition, officials have access to the same guidance we have produced for Intermediate Plant operators, and guidance on the loading and unloading of animal by-products. However, while there is a need to assess any risks to public or animal health, the main purpose of the inspections is to ensure that the Intermediate Plant complies with the requirements of the Animal By-Products Regulation. The instructions to vets therefore focus the legal requirements in order to ensure that the regulation is applied consistently across the country.

Avian Influenza

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what advice her Department is giving to poultry farmers on Avian Influenza. [221693]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department undertook a publicity campaign about the potential threat from Avian Influenza to the poultry industry in October 2003 explaining the possible threat and highlighting the clinical signs that owners should look out for. This advice is on the Defra website together with advice on biosecurity and human health and safety issues.

Officials are meeting with sections of the industry this month and will ensure that they are kept up to date on relevant aspects of avian flu.

Farm Animal Welfare Council

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on her Department's response to the Farm Animal Welfare Council report, with particular reference to the report's recommendations on Schechita. [223018]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Government issued their final response to the Farm Animal Welfare Council (FAWC) report on the Welfare of Farmed Animals at Slaughter or Killing on the 8 March 2005. In the response, the Government accepts 53 of the 94 recommendations made by FAWC, partially accepts 25, and rejects 16: the recommendations accepted by Government will lead to significant improvements in animal welfare.

The Government did not accept FAWC's recommendation that slaughter without prior stunning should be banned, as we respect the rights of communities in Britain to slaughter animals in accordance with the requirements of their religion.

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions she has had with Schechita UK following publication of her Department's response to recommendations by the Farm Animal Welfare Council. [223019]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Government published their final response to the Farm Animal Welfare Council (FAWC) report on the Welfare of Farmed Animals at Slaughter or Killing on the 8 March 2005. Defra has not had any discussions with Shechita UK following publication.

Foot and Mouth

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on how many premises during the 2001 foot and mouth outbreak culling took place of (a) cattle, (b) sheep, (c) pigs and (d) other animals under the (i) infected premises, (ii) dangerous contact, (iii) slaughter on suspicion and (iv) contiguous cull schemes then operating, broken down by (A) county and (B) region; how many samples were taken; and how many positive tests were found at each premises. [220084]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 March 2005]: The information requested has been placed in the Library of the House.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many instances of (a) inaccurate valuations, (b) deliberate spreading of infection and (c) claims for work not undertaken in all completed prosecutions instituted against individuals and companies for fraudulent claims arising from the 2001 foot and mouth epidemic. [221407]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The information requested is as follows.

Inaccurate valuations:

It is not clear what is meant by 'inaccurate valuations'. We did carry out a full reconciliation of all compensation payments following the outbreak. Any amendments or recalculations were done and additional payments made or overpayments recovered as appropriate. We do not have a record of each claim that was affected in this way.

The value of an animal is a subjective decision made by professionally qualified valuers, who have sight of the animal and a full knowledge of the herd/flock history as well as experience of the livestock industry. Once the valuation is agreed by the valuer, the farmer and the supervising Ministry official we are legally obliged to pay the agreed amount. There have been observations made that our control over the valuation process was poor and that this contributed to higher than necessary compensation payments. We have accepted this and improved our approach to valuations for a future outbreak.

Deliberate spreading of infection:

No formal assessment of whether farmers or anyone else deliberately sought to introduce foot and mouth disease (FMD) in order to claim compensation took place. There were many media reports at the time of allegations that such mischief was taking place. Three files where allegations were investigated in 2001 have been traced and the allegation and outcomes are summarised as follows:

File A—on investigation this allegation of deliberate infection amounted solely to repetition by an unidentified man to a part-time journalist and recorded by the part-time journalist on tape of rumours that were then prevalent about deliberate infection. The unidentified man said

"tails from infected animals are placed in uninfected areas to spread the disease".

The part-time journalist refused to reveal the identity of his source so the investigation could not be taken any further.

File B—an anonymous voice-message in an Irish accent left on a mobile phone asked the recipient to supply turned out to be a prank from the caller. This was admitted by the prankster when he was traced by an Investigation Officer. The prankster also admitted he had dialled the wrong number and the prank was intended for a friend rather than the recipient of the call.

"animals infected with BSE and FMD"

File C—Farmer A's cattle were slaughtered as they had been in contact with FMD. He was compensated. He bought some more cattle from Farmer B but left them on Farmer B's land for the time being. Farmer A's replacement cattle and Farmer B's own cattle contracted FMD. Both were compensated. The matter was investigated as it seemed very suspicious. There was no evidence of any deliberate misconduct but poor bio-security by Farmer A, who visited the cattle on three occasions, was identified as a possible cause of the transmission of FMD.

Completed prosecutions for fraud arising out of fraudulent claims for compensation:

Six people were prosecuted by Defra for fraud offences in connection with the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in 2001:

Three members of staff were prosecuted and pleaded guilty to making false subsistence claims and were ordered to complete Community punishment orders and to pay compensation to Defra totalling £5,883. All three were dismissed.

Three farmers were prosecuted for making false compensation claims; one farmer pleaded guilty to falsely stating the cost of feed and was fined £3,500, two other farmers were acquitted—it was alleged that both had falsely overclaimed for equipment destroyed or premises damaged during the FMD outbreak.

Fox Control

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate she has made of the number of urban foxes which were (a) trapped, (b) poisoned and (c) otherwise destroyed by local authorities in England as part of their pest control or public health functions in the last year for which figures are available. [223141]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has not made any assessment of the number of urban foxes which were (a) trapped, (b) poisoned and (c) otherwise destroyed by local authorities in England.

However, there are no pesticides approved for poisoning foxes so to do so would be unlawful. Any foxes suspected of being poisoned should be reported to Defra's Wildlife Incident Investigation Scheme on freephone 0800 321 600.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what methods local authorities in England are permitted to use to dispose of (a) dead foxes that have been poisoned or otherwise destroyed and (b) live foxes which have been trapped as part of pest control or public health procedures. [223142]

Mr. Bradshaw: There are no specific controls on the disposal of either (a) dead or (b) live foxes.

However, dead foxes could be considered 'waste' within the Waste Framework Directive. As such they should be disposed of in ways which protect the environment and human health.

Any wild foxes that are suspected of being infected with diseases communicable to humans or animals must be disposed of in accordance with the Animal By-Products Regulation (EC) No 1774/2002.

Defra does not condone the live capture of foxes and their release elsewhere, although the practice is not unlawful. There are no controls on specific methods regarding the translocation of live foxes but the methods used must not contravene animal legislation such as the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981, Protection of Animals Act 1911 or Abandonment of Animals Act 1960.

There are no pesticides approved for poisoning foxes therefore to do so would be unlawful. Any foxes suspected of being poisoned should be reported to Defra's Wildlife Incident Investigation Scheme on freephone 0800 321 600.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will list the local authorities in England which manage or control urban fox populations as part of their pest control or public health functions. [223143]

Mr. Bradshaw: There is no obligation on local authorities in England to control urban fox populations or to report any such control to Defra. Therefore the Department has no such list.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate the Department has made of the population of urban foxes in England. [223144]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has not made any estimate of the population of urban foxes in England.

Greenways

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many kilometres of greenways there are in England; how many greenways and similar projects are planned; and if she will make a statement. [222058]

Alun Michael: The Countryside Agency set up six 'pilot greenway projects' in England between 1999 and 2002, which together totalled a distance of approximately 60 km (37 miles). The Countryside Agency defined "Greenways" as a "network of largely car-free, off-road routes connecting people to facilities and open spaces in and around towns and counties and to the countryside. For shared use by people of all abilities on foot, bike or horseback, for commuting play or leisure".

The Agency's aim was to build on existing facilities and routes and was aimed at providing:

Improved access to employment, shops, schools, leisure centres and places of interest.

Inter-connecting links between communities.

Continuity of routes.

Encouragement to increase cycling, walking and horse riding.

An improved environment—less traffic congestion and pollution.

Attractive routes for leisure and recreational purposes.

The Agency wished to link "Greenways" to other networks for non-motorised users such as the National Cycle Network, towpaths beside inland waterways, and National Trials. They include stretches of 'quiet' minor roads designed to be more attractive for people on bikes, horseback or walking.

The Countryside Agency has suggested to local authorities that through the introduction of their 'Rights of Way Improvement Plans', they could identify further routes and develop further integration with public transport, as part of the effort to reverse the trend for increasing reliance on the private car for the journey to work.

Middle East (Imports)

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment her Department has made of the (a) viability, (b) social impact and (c) economic impact of quality requirements for Middle Eastern produce imports; when this assessment was last reviewed; and if she will make a statement. [213234]

Mr. Bradshaw: Defra has not carried out any such assessment.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Housing

Matthew Green: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many of the 15,000 homes to be built under the First Time Buyers Initiative he expects to be completed by 31 March 2008. [223278]

Keith Hill: Current estimates suggest that there could be up to 4,000 completions under the First Time Buyers Initiative by the end of 2008.

English Partnerships are continuing to develop the business model that will underpin the delivery of homes under the scheme, and this estimate is subject to revision.

However, the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, in conjunction with English Partnerships, is committed to delivering 15,000 starts on site under the First Time Buyers Initiative by 2010.

Matthew Green: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister when he plans to publish the consultation paper on the Social Homebuy scheme. [223283]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister plans to publish a consultation paper on low cost home ownership, including proposals for an expanded Homebuy scheme, shortly.

Mr. Love: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what estimates have been made of the (a) expenditure on and (b) number of homes to be built under the Department's housing programmes in (i) the London borough of Enfield, (ii) Greater London and (iii) England in each year from 2005–06 to 2009–10; and if he will make a statement. [223495]

Keith Hill: For 2005–06 the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister currently estimates that around 45,000 homes will be provided for rent or low cost home ownership in England. The principal source of funding is the Housing Corporation's Approved Development Programme which will spend around £1.65 billion.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister expects to provide around £782 million for new rent and low cost home ownership homes for London in 2005–06 this will assist in providing around 8,000 homes. Estimates for Enfield are not available.

The regional allocations of the £5.5 billion for Regional Housing Pot for spending in 2006–07 and 2007–08 were announced yesterday. Nearly £2.3 billion has been allocated to London. Decisions on the amount of these resources to be used for affordable housing will be taken in the summer in the light of advice from Regional Housing Boards. Allocations for individual authorities will be agreed in early 2006 following the ADP bidding round.

Future funding and delivery of outputs from 2008–09 will be dependent upon the outcome of the next Spending Review in 2006.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much of the capital receipts generated from the Right to Buy in with-debt local authorities in 2003–04 and available to spend on capital investment was (a) spent on refurbishing existing housing and (b) loaned to a registered social landlord to build new social housing under the Local Authority Social Housing Grant mechanism. [223287]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister does not hold information on the way in which with-debt local authorities used the proportion of the capital receipt arising from a Right to Buy disposal which they retained.

Matthew Green: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to his answer of 25 February 2005, Official Report, columns 90–92W, how many of the homes to be provided for rent in 2005–06 will be funded through (a) the Approved Development Programme, (b) the Approved Development Programme Challenge Fund, (c) Transitional Local Authority Social Housing Grant, (d) the expanded Private Finance Initiative, (e) planning gain without public subsidy and (f) other funding streams. [223297]

Keith Hill: The following table shows current estimates of the number of homes to be provided for rent in 2005–06 by the various categories requested.

		Number
(a)	Approved Development Programme	20,000
(b)	Approved Development Programme Challenge Fund	700
(c)	Transitional Local Authority Social Housing Grant	2,200
(d)	Private Finance Initiative	500
(e)	Planning gain without public subsidy	1,300
(f)	Other funding streams	800

Estimates for sections (a) -(c) are based on Housing Corporation data as at 18 March. The reduction in the total estimate is due solely to a lower estimate in Transitional Local Authority Social Housing Grant completions for 2005–06 and reflects detailed timing of outputs.

Local Compacts

Mr. Drew: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on the role the Local Compacts with the voluntary and community sector will play in delivering his Department's five-year programme, 'Sustainable Communities: People, places and prosperity'. [222953]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister supports the Compact Action Plan target for all areas to develop a local compact as a framework within which the voluntary and community sector can work in partnership with other local stakeholders for the benefit of local people. The detail of how each local compact can assist in delivering the various policies and programmes outlined in 'Sustainable Communities: People, places and prosperity' is for local stakeholders to agree.

Renewable Energy

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what his Department's assessment is of the contribution that solar photovoltaics can make to reducing carbon emissions in new build housing built to latest Part L Building Regulations. [220705]

Phil Hope: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has determined that solar photovoltaic generating systems are not yet cost-effective. They were not, therefore, specifically mentioned in the Part L consultation document last year as being appropriate to the achievement of reasonable provision in compliance with the Building Regulations.

The Part L proposals include setting minimum overall building performance standards at levels much higher than at present and providing new technical guidance on low and zero carbon systems. PV is not ruled out and remains one of the technologies that builders can choose to adopt to comply with the regulations.

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will extend permitted development status to the installation of small scale renewables by householders, subject to adequate controls to ensure no or minimal visual intrusion; if he will make representations to the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry to include this measure in the draft microgeneration strategy due to be published shortly, pursuant to section 82 of the Energy Act 2004; and if he will make a statement. [221638]

Keith Hill: In January, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister launched a review of the legislation that governs minor development by householders. Meanwhile, it is already the case that, as a general rule, those in dwellinghouses can install solar panels and photovoltaic cells without needing to make a planning application, provided the panels do not project significantly above the plane of the roof.

Where a planning application is required, Planning Policy Statement 22, Renewable Energy, urges local planning authorities and developers to consider renewable energy projects in all new developments. There are opportunities for installing solar panels, photovoltaic cells, biomass heating, small wind turbines, and combined heat and power schemes in a great many new—and some existing—buildings. Authorities should encourage such technologies through policies in local development documents.

Supporting People Programme

Tim Loughton: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what his plans are for funding the Supporting People Programme over the next five years. [222047]

Yvette Cooper: Funding for the Supporting Programme is £1.72 billion in 2005–06, £1.7 billion in 2006–07 and £1.7 billion in 2007–08.

From the inception of the Supporting People programme it has been the intention to move away from the inherited distribution of funding, to ensure that funding better reflects relative need. It was recognised at the outset that services had grown up in an ad hoc way and whiles many quality services were in existence there was a need to develop a programme that would allow for a more structured approach to be adopted across the country.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is developing a needs based formula for the distribution of Supporting People funding in the longer term. We are working with local authority representative bodies and will consult widely on a revised version later this year. The extent of the increases or reductions in grant to Authorities and the rate at which they are introduced will form part of the contribution.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister will monitor the impact on Administering Authorities of introducing any new needs based distribution formula.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of the impact of changes to the way funds are allocated to Supporting People from a historically based allocation formula to a needs based one on the level of support housing units provided in West Sussex. [222048]

Yvette Cooper: The Government commissioned an Independent Review into the Supporting People programme following significant late growth in estimated costs from £1.4 billion in December 2002 to £1.8 billion by March 2003. The Review reported that there are wide variations in unit costs between authorities and that £1.8 billion was too much to pay for the services provided.

Service packages work and Audit Commission inspections demonstrate that there is significant potential for making efficiency savings in the current pattern of service provision while safeguarding valuable services. Where authorities face reductions in grant as a result of moving to a pattern which better reflects needs we expect them to use the service review process to achieve these savings.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is working closely with local authority representatives on the development of a needs based formula for the distribution of Supporting People funding in the longer term. We will consult widely on a revised version later this year, including on the extent of increases or reductions in grants to authorities and the rate at which they are introduced. West Sussex will be invited to contribute to that consultation.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many people currently benefit from Supporting People in West Sussex. [222049]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister estimates that the Supporting People programme in West Sussex currently funds housing related support services to approximately 12,000 individuals and households.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

European Union (International Sport)

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions she has had with EU counterparts regarding the establishment of an EU identity in international sport. [223014]

Mr. Caborn: Neither I, nor my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State have had any discussions with our EU counterparts regarding the establishment of an EU identity in international sport.

Regional Sports Boards

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment she has made of the effectiveness of Regional Sports Boards. [223453]

Mr. Caborn: As part of the overall restructuring of both Sport England and the delivery of sport in England, the nine Regional Sports Boards (RSBs) were reconstituted to determine for each region the targets that will deliver the national objective to increase participation in sport and physical activity. Since their reconstitution, each RSB has fulfilled this role by publishing its regional plan for sport and setting out its investment priorities. On the basis of these priorities, RSBs have budgeted in 2004–05 to make awards from Sport England's Community Investment Fund worth some £120 million.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the total public expenditure on Regional Sports Boards has been in each year since their creation. [223469]

Mr. Caborn: Regional Sports Boards were reconstituted in their current form as part of Sport England's modernisation process and took responsibility for the distribution of Sport England's Community Investment Fund in April 2004. Details of their planned public expenditure (Exchequer and Lottery) in 2004–05 are provided in the table.

£000

Region	Awards distributed	Direct delivery costs	Other running costs	Total
East	9,128	39	989	10,156
East Midlands	14,868	44	1,041	15,953
London	12,802	60	1,066	13,927
North East	11,915	46	930	12,891

West Midlands	13,183	46	1,061	14,290
Yorkshire	9,054	34	1,022	10,120

Sports Institutes

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the total cost was, including match funding, of the capital facilities that form the UK's network of sports institutes. [222557]

Mr. Caborn: Sport England has provided just over £132 million of Lottery funding towards the English Institute of Sport's capital facilities. Sport England estimates that their funding represents approximately 87.5 per cent. of the total cost of the capital facilities with a further 12.5 per cent. (some £19 million) of the cost met by matched funding. Funding for the Scottish Institute of Sport, Sports Institute Northern

Abolition of Slavery (Commemoration)

Mr. Tynan: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the abolition of the slave trade in the British Empire. [223497]

Derek Twigg: The 200th anniversary commemoration provides a useful focus for schools to enrich curriculum work on slavery through opportunities in History and Citizenship education. The DfES and DCMS are jointly funding the "Slavery, Society and Port Cities" project aimed at engaging schoolchildren and teachers to utilise the unique contribution that slavery-related cultural resources bring to the debate on cultural identity and diversity.

Adult Education

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the expected average change in adult education course fees over the next two years is. [223255]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Further education colleges and local authorities will retain considerable discretion in the setting of fees for adults in 2005/06. There will be no change in the fee concessions arrangements in further education that help unemployed people, those on income based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access learning. Learners will also continue to have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. We will continue to make a very significant contribution to further and adult education although our assumption will remain that adults should continue to contribute to the costs of their learning unless otherwise eligible for fee concessions. Changes to the Learning and Skills Council's further education funding methodology fee assumption in 2005/06 mean that the learner contribution to the cost of their learning will increase from 25 per cent. to 27.5 per cent. of the basic course cost. Decisions about funding arrangements for 2006/07 have yet to be made.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what safeguards are planned to protect adult education classes that do not teach basic skills. [223256]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Government are committed to safeguarding learning for personal fulfilment which does not necessarily lead to qualifications. The Learning and Skills Council's budget for such learning, delivered though local education authorities, increased from £206 million in 2003–04 to £207.4 million in 2004–05 compared with £145 million in 2000–01. My Department will shortly be receiving proposals from the Learning and Skills Council on how to meet this safeguard in the long term while ensuring a fair distribution of public funding between geographical areas.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what changes she is proposing to make to adult education classes. [223257]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: My Department will shortly receive initial proposals from the Learning and Skills Council on the reform of the Funding and. Planning arrangements for First Steps and Personal and Community Development Learning for Adults. This follows a full public consultation last year to which the Learning and Skills Council received nearly 300 replies including from individuals, local education authorities and further education colleges. The objectives are: to maintain the safeguard for the continued availability of courses for Personal and Community Development; to ensure an equitable distribution of public funding between geographical areas; and a proper balance between public funding, and financial contributions by individuals to the cost of their own learning.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what measures she is taking to improve provision of adult education. [223414]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: On March 22 we published our White Paper setting out our policies and progress in improving adult education and skills—entitled "Skills : Getting on in business, getting on at work". It set out the key measures we have taken in this area, including creation of the new network of Sector Skills Councils and the successful Employer Training Pilots, both of which create a powerful new employer-led direction to skills provision. It also announced our plans for further improving adult provision, including the roll out of the National Employer Training Programme, the creation of new Skills Academies to deliver training in each sector, the national roll-out of the entitlement to free tuition to NVQ Level 2, and an improved and extended service to deliver advice and guidance on careers, training and support.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the average cost per student was at current prices of providing Level 3 courses for adults at further education colleges in each year since 1997–98; what the Government's contribution was per student; and what her estimate is for (a) 2004–05 and (b) each of the next two years. [223496]

Dr. Howells: The Department allocates funds for education and training in the post-16 learning and skills sector to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). The costs of providing Level 3 courses for adults at further education colleges are set by the LSC and as such the Department does not collect or hold the information requested.

Mark Haysom, the Learning and Skills Council's Chief Executive will write to my hon. Friend with details of what the average cost per student was at current prices of providing Level 3 courses for adults at further education colleges in each year since 1997–98; what the Government's contribution was per student; and what his estimate is for (a) 2004–05 and (b) each of the next two years. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Library.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) whether her Department will fully fund courses for adults at Level 3 in further education colleges in 2005–06; [223498]

(2) whether she expects fees for adults for courses above Level 2 in further education colleges to rise in 2005–06; and if she will make a statement. [223511]

Dr. Howells: It is our policy to ensure that those groups of people benefiting from fully funded further education provision will continue to do so. We will continue to provide fee concessions arrangements that help unemployed people, those on income-based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access further education. We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all which covers the largest part of the cost of courses but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at Level 2, or not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005–06 unless they qualify for fee concessions.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what her plans are for future fee levels for adults studying at Level 2 and Level 3 at further education colleges in Cornwall in the next three years. [223501]

Dr. Howells: We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all learners which covers the largest part of the cost of courses but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at Level 2, or who are not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005–06 unless they qualify for fee concessions. Colleges will retain considerable discretion to set fees and offer additional concessions. Decisions about funding arrangements for 2006–07 have yet to be made.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to introduce concessionary fees for those aged over 60 years who wish to study in a further education college in Cornwall. [223503]

Dr. Howells: In addition to the significant publicly funded provision available to all learners, older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. Learners of any age will also have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges in Cornwall will retain considerable discretion in setting fees, and although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what funding she has in place for adults studying at Level 3 at further education colleges in each local education authority area. [223504]

Dr. Howells: The Department funds provision at Level 3 through the Learning and Skills Council's learning participation budget which is £6.7 billion for 2005–06. In 2003–04, the Learning and Skills Council funded 465,000 adult learners at Level 3, at a cost of some £417 million. A further £367 million was spent on over 100,000 young people on Level 3 advanced apprenticeships. Our new Skills White Paper outlines our commitment to increasing support at this level. Information about adult budgets by local education authority area is not held centrally.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to ensure that fee concessions remain in place for those aged over 60 years who study in further education colleges. [223509]

Dr. Howells: Older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income-based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. Learners of any age will also have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges will continue to have considerable discretion in setting fees, and although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Child Poverty

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps her Department is taking to achieve the Government's targets of (a) ending child poverty by 2020 and (b) halving it by 2010; and if she will make a statement. [219344]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 2 March 2005]: The Government set out the steps that departments across Government are taking to achieve the targets of ending child poverty by 2020 and halving it by 2010 in the Child Poverty Review, published alongside the 2004 Spending Review and available at http://www.hmtreasury.gov.uk/spending_review/spend_sr04/associated_documents/spending_sr04_childpoverty.cfm.

Departmental Accounts

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether Ministers in her Department have issued written instructions to override her Department's accounting officer's objections since 1997. [221108]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Financial Secretary on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 80W.

Departmental Dress Code

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what her Department's policy is on the wearing of the Kirpan by Sikh employees. [222539]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 18 March 2005]: My Department's commitment not to discriminate unfairly on the grounds of religion or belief is set out clearly in its equal opportunities policy. Accordingly, the Department's policies do permit the wearing of the Kirpan by its Sikh employees.

Engineering (Women Students)

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she is taking to increase the number of women students undertaking (a) further education and (b) higher education in engineering. [223227]

Dr. Howells: The details of our plans to increase women's participation in science and engineering across the education sector are set out in the Government's 'Science and Innovation Investment Framework 2004–2014', published jointly last July by my Department, DTI and HM Treasury.

The Government's overall ambitions are to achieve a step change in: the quality of science teachers and lecturers in every school, college and university; the results for students studying science at GCSE level; the numbers choosing SET subjects in post-16 education and in higher education; and the proportion of better qualified students pursuing R and D careers.

English Examinations (Key Stage 3)

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she has taken to ensure the timely validation of Key Stage 3 examinations in English in 2005. [223199]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The Qualifications and Curriculum Authority's National Assessment Agency (NAA), which is responsible for test administration, has awarded the 2005 contract for test marking and data collection to Pearson Assessment and Testing. NAA is working closely with Pearson to ensure that all lessons learnt from 2004 will be fed into improving test delivery in 2005.

However the review of 2004 test delivery conducted by the QCA led them to conclude that extra time is needed to mark Key Stage 3 English tests and validate results. This means that the 2005 Key Stage 3 Achievement and Attainment tables are unlikely to be published before March 2006.

Examination Results

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the examination results were in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004 of the three non-selective state secondary schools nearest to each of the academies opened in (i) September 2002 and (ii) September 2003. [221289]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested can be found in the following table.

Family Resolutions Pilot

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many parents have taken part in the Family Resolutions Pilot Project to date; and how many have accepted mediation services as part of the project. [221881]

Margaret Hodge: As at 15 March 25 cases, comprising 50 parents, have been referred to the Family Resolutions Pilot Project and six cases, comprising 12 parents, have attended the (CAFCASS-conducted) parent planning stage of the project.

FE Funding

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the funding gap between sixth-form colleges and school sixth-forms in each of the last three financial years. [223784]

Dr. Howells: The Department's main measure for what the funding gap between school sixth-forms and further education colleges is the difference in funding rates for an AS/A2 qualification. In 2002/03 the difference was 10.5 per cent.

For the academic year 2003/04, base funding rates per qualification increased by 3 per cent. for school sixth-forms and by 4.5 per cent. for further education colleges on a broadly comparable basis. In 2004/05, funding rates for colleges meeting their targets increased by 5 per cent., while those for school sixth forms rose by 4 per cent. We expect to see this trend continue in the 2005/06 academic year.

However, there is more to overall levels of funding than differences in funding rates and I acknowledge that there are other important differences between school and FE funding.

Mrs. Anne Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) if she will make a statement on reducing the funding gap between school sixth forms and further education colleges in Cambridge; [223357]

(2) what the reasons are for the funding gap between school sixth forms and further education colleges in Cambridge; and if she will make a statement. [223358]

Dr. Howells: The Department does not have information on what the funding gap is between school sixth forms and further education colleges in Cambridge specifically.

However, we have brought up funding levels for further education (FE) as we said we would, without penalising schools. The Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) funding rates per course in FE have been rising faster than school sixth forms and the gap has narrowed.

Our policy has been to raise the level of funding for colleges, as and when we are able to secure the resources to do so.

The current funding gap between school sixth forms and further education colleges is a direct consequence of the 1992 Further and Higher Education Act and the removal of the incorporated FE sector funding systems from local authority control. This resulted in a divergence from local authority systems which has resulted in funding level differences. These differences were made more apparent when all post-16 funding became the responsibility of the LSC in 2001.

Mrs. Anne Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) whether she expects fees for courses above Level 2 for adults to rise in Cambridge in 2005–06; [223359]

(2) whether her Department will fully fund courses for adults at Level 3 in Cambridge in 2005–06. [223361]

Dr. Howells: It is our policy to ensure that those groups of people benefiting from fully funded further education provision will continue to do so. We will continue to provide fee concessions arrangements that help unemployed people, those on income based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access further education. We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all which covers the largest part of the cost of courses, but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at Level 2, or not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005–06 unless they qualify for fee concessions.

Mrs. Anne Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to ensure that fee concessions remain in place for those aged over 60 years who wish to study at a further education college in Cambridge. [223360]

Dr. Howells: Older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. Learners of any age will also have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges in Cambridge will continue to have considerable discretion in setting fees and, although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the impact in Leeds of moving Learning and Skills Council funding to (a) Basic Skills and (b) the National Employer Training Programme on (i) the funding of courses for adults at Level 3, (ii) fee concessions for students aged over 60 years wishing to study at further education colleges and (iii) the level of fees for courses above Level 2. [223527]

Dr. Howells: The Government's Skills Strategy, reaffirmed in the White Paper published on 22 March, sets clear priorities for public funding to support the drive to ensure that employers have the skills they need to be successful, and individuals have the skills they need to be employable and personally fulfilled. These priorities include tackling the nation's legacy of low skills, with a drive to ensure that adults have the basic skills of literacy, numeracy and English language; and focussing the investment of public funds on helping individuals reach their first full Level 2 qualification. But the White Paper also recognises the importance of higher level skills, and sets out measures to strengthen support for provision at Level 3 and above. However, given that higher levels of qualifications have higher rates of return for employers and individuals, it is also important that this should be reflected in the relative contributions employers and individuals make to the costs of such training. The Learning and Skills Council has announced that its fee assumption will rise from 25 per cent. to 27.5 per cent. in 2005/06 with public funds continuing to meet at least 72.5 per cent. of learning costs. Young people, those studying basic skills or for a first Level 2 qualification will receive free tuition as will those people on income based benefits. We shall continue to offer fee concessions to older learners on income based benefits or who receive the pension (guarantee) credit.

Fischer Family Trust

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much funding her Department has provided to the Fischer Family Trust in each of the last five years. [221224]

Derek Twigg: The Department does not fund the Fischer Family Trust, but does contract with them for specific pieces of work. Financial records in the Department show that the following amounts have been paid to the Trust over the last five years:

2001–02	0
2002–03	159,800
2003–04	156,529.48
2004–05	351,571.06

Former Independent Schools

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills which formerly independent schools have joined the state sector in each of the last five years, broken down by (a) local education authority and (b) school type. [221361]

Derek Twigg: The following schools were previously independent schools and joined the maintained sector in the years shown:

	LEA	School name	Category
2000	Brent	Avigdor Hirsch Torah Temimah Primary	Voluntary aided
2001	Birmingham	Al-Hijrah Secondary	Voluntary aided
2001	Bradford	Feversham College	Voluntary aided
2004	Hackney	Ruth Lunzer Lubavitch Jewish Girls Primary	Voluntary aided
2004	Bury	Manchester Mesivta Secondary	Voluntary aided
2004	Wandsworth	Gatton VA Primary	Voluntary aided
2005 to date	Salford	Beis Yaakov Jewish High	Voluntary aided

No independent schools joined the maintained sector in 2002 or 2003.

Key Stage 3

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she expects the Key Stage 3 national results for 2004 to be validated. [223167]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The 2004 Key Stage 3 test results were published on Thursday 17 March 2005 with the release of the Key Stage 3 Achievement and Attainment tables.

The results published in the tables are based on data provided by the QCA's National Assessment Agency to the Department. Schools had the opportunity to check the accuracy of the data and, where reviews of marking have taken place, amend them as part of the tables checking exercise.

Looked After Children

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what work has been undertaken by the Commission for Social Care Inspectorate to improve the care of looked after children placed in private children's homes out of the area of the responsible authority. [222067]

Margaret Hodge: I understand from the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that the Commission is proposing to address this issue by strengthening the scrutiny of local authority commissioning processes. This could include a specific focus on:

the quality of placements for individual children purchased by local authorities from children's homes; local authority benchmarking of children's homes in order to demonstrate value for money; and the geographical distribution of the children's homes commissioned by local authorities.

In relation to out of authority placements, CSCI is also considering what further work is required to address the impact of high concentrations of children's homes on their local communities and the impact on children placed in those homes who may be poorly served by their placing authorities.

Medical Schools

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many places there were at medical schools in each year since 1997; and how many applications there were in each of those years. [221627]

Dr. Howells: The latest information for England is shown in the table. Information for Scottish, Welsh and Northern Irish medical schools is the responsibility of the devolved Administrations.

Intake targets and applicants: Medical schools in England

Nursery Education

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many free part-time nursery education places were available in (a) 1998–99 and (b) 2004–05. [221590]

Margaret Hodge: All four-year-olds in England have been entitled to a free part-time early education place since September 1998. All three-year-olds in England have been entitled to a free part-time early education place since April 2004.

The available information on the numbers of free part-time early education places taken up by three and four-year-olds in England is shown in the following table.

The latest figures on early education places for three and four-year-olds in England were published in Statistical First Release 39/2004 "Provision for children under five years of age in England—January 2004 (final)", which is available on the Department's website www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/.

Provisional figures for 2005 are scheduled for release in April 2005.

n/a = Not available.

[1] Figures are rounded to the nearest 10 or 100 as appropriate.

[2] Headcount of children aged three at 31 December in the previous calendar year from the Annual Schools' Census.

[5] Part-time equivalent number of children aged three at 31 December in the previous calendar year from the Early Years Census and the Annual Schools' Census.

[6] Part-time equivalent number of children aged four at 31 December in the previous calendar year from the Early Years Census and the Annual Schools' Census.

Between 1999 and 2004, the number of free nursery education places taken up by four-year-olds decreased by 4 per cent. The number of four-year-olds in the population decreased by 7 per cent.

Office of Fair Access

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what measures will be used to monitor the performance of the Office of Fair Access in meetings its statutory objectives. [223417]

Dr. Howells: The Director for Fair Access has statutory functions and duties under the Higher Education Act 2004, but no statutory objectives. In considering how successfully the Director fulfils his functions and duties we will look at his annual report; at any feedback, especially from higher education institutions and students; and in due course at the findings of the independent commission which will be set up to examine the first three years of operation of the variable fees arrangements in higher education.

School Buildings (South Derbyshire)

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many new classrooms have been built in South Derbyshire constituency since May 1997. [223220]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: This information is not held centrally.

School Staff (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many (a) full-time teachers, (b) part-time teachers and (c) teaching assistants there were in schools in Shrewsbury and Atcham on (i) 1 May 2001, (ii) 7 June 2001 and (iii) the latest date for which figures are available. [223156]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Information on the number of teachers and teaching assistants in service is collected in January of each year. The following table shows the number of teachers and teaching assistants in maintained schools in Shrewsbury and Atcham constituency in January 2001 and 2004, the latest information available.

Headcount and full time equivalent number of teachers and teaching assistants

Schools (Data)

Mr. Forth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the possible effects on school pupils' health and safety of inaccuracies and unreliability of school attendance data. [223344]

Derek Twigg: The health and safety of children is of course, paramount.

The primary purpose of maintaining school attendance data is to record when pupils of compulsory school age attend education. As schools are required to conduct an assessment of potential risks to pupils' health and safety, they are likely to use school attendance data, along with other sources of information, to minimise any identified risks. The Department is not aware of any significant problems experienced by schools in meeting this requirement.

The Department would want to know of any specific instances where inaccurate or unreliable attendance data contributed to the endangerment of pupils' well being.

Schools Funding (Lincolnshire)

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much funding her Department has provided to (a) North East Lincolnshire local education authority and (b) North Lincolnshire local education authority in each year since 1997. [223467]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Total funding includes funding via education formula spending/standard spending assessment and revenue grants allocated at an LEA level. It excludes the pensions transfer to EPS and the Learning and Skills Council, and is in real terms.

Education formula spending is part of the wider local government finance system and is supported by council tax as well as central Government grant.

Total funding (real terms), pupils aged 3–19 (£ million), North East Lincolnshire and North Lincolnshire

	Real terms, excluding pensions transfer to EFS and LSC in 2003–04 and 2004–05
	North East Lincolnshire	North Lincolnshire
1997–98	77.8	68.3
1998–99	80.7	71.7
1999–2000	84.6	75.2
2000–01	93.0	82.1
2001–02	97.0	85.0
2002–03	98.0	86.4
2004–05	102.8	93.8

Notes:

1. Price base: Real terms at 2003–04 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 30 September 2004
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education SSA/EFS settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EPS and LSC.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged 3–15 and exclude EMAs and grants not allocated at LEA level.
4. The pupil numbers used to convert £ million figures to per pupil are those underlying the SSA/EFS settlement calculations plus PLASC 3-year-old maintained pupils and estimated 3 to 4-year-olds funded through state support in maintained and other educational institutions where these are not included in the SSA pupil numbers.
5. Where responsibility for funding a school has transferred from an LEA, related funding no longer appears in the series.
6. Rounding: Figures are rounded to the nearest £10.
7. Status: 2003–04 and 2004–05 figures are provisional as some grants have not yet been finalised/audited.

Selective Education

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many children have (a) taken and (b) failed the 11-plus examination in each local education authority with a wholly selective secondary admissions system in each of the last eight years. [221362]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The 11-plus examinations are a matter for the LEA and the Department does not collect this data centrally.

Sure Start

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) what activities Sure Start programmes in Sefton are engaging in to increase (a) literacy, (b) speech and (c) language developments; and what results these activities have had; [218804]

(2) what services Sure Start programmes in Sefton are engaging in to care for new mothers, with particular reference to (a) post-natal depression clinics and (b) breast feeding groups and what results these services have produced. [218865]

Margaret Hodge: There are four Sure Start local programmes in Sefton; Sure Start Litherland, Bootle, Dell and Orvell was approved in 2000; Sure Start Seaforth and Bootle in 2001; Sure Start Southport in 2002 and Sure Start Netherton in 2003. Between them the four programmes provide services to 2,800 children under four and their families living within their catchment areas. The programmes deliver a wide range of services including: training in parenting skills; health services and outreach support to children and families in their own homes.

Three of the four programmes have evaluated their activities as follows:

Sure Start Litherland, Bootle and Orrell have a 'Start Right' group who encourage learning and education through play and group settings. This involves reading, writing, dialogic play and imaginative play. Parents with no concerns about their child's language development increased from 80 per cent. in 2001–02 to 88 per cent. in 2003–04.

The community midwife provides breast feeding support sessions at birth, six weeks and 17 weeks. The take up of these sessions has gone up from 20 per cent. in 2002–03 to 23 per cent. in 2003–04 at birth; 4 per cent. to 10 per cent. at six weeks and 2 per cent. to 7 per cent. at 17 weeks.

The number of women supported by the post-natal depression group rose from 12 in 2002–03 to 29 in 2003–04.

Sure Start Seaforth and Bootle has established a mobile toy library and the early years workers provide practical support around early learning and play. Parents with no concern in relation to language development increased from 77 per cent. in 2001–02 to 79 per cent. in 2003–04.

The community midwife provides breast feeding support sessions at birth, six weeks and 17 weeks. The take up of these sessions has gone up from 34.4 per cent. in 2002–03 to 37.9 per cent. in 2003–04 at birth; 8 per cent. to 13.9 per cent. at six weeks and 4 per cent. to 8.6 per cent. at 17 weeks.

The number of women supported by post-natal depression group increased from 13 in 2002–03 to 30 women in 2003–04.

Sure Start Southport appointed a children's library worker in April 2003 and between June and December 2003, 92 new members joined from the catchment area. Breast feeding and post-natal depression data is not available for this programme.

Sure Start Netherton will provide their first report in September 2005.

The programmes' funding for the current and future years is as follows:

Programme name	Capital Approved	Revenue 2004–05	Revenue 2005–06	Revenue 2006–07
Litherland, Bootle and Orrell	1,000,000	675,407	692,293	692,293

Southport	36,500	643,982	660,039	660,039
Netherton	6,000	669,999	682,033	682,033

All four programmes are developing into children's centres and will contribute towards achieving our goal of a children's centre for every community by 2010.

There are eight neighbourhood nurseries in the most disadvantaged areas in Sefton providing 291 affordable childcare places to families living there.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent assessment she has made of whether the public service agreement target to narrow substantially the gap between education attainment and participation of children in care and that of their peers by 2006 will be met. [219264]

Margaret Hodge: The Department publishes progress against all its outstanding PSA targets in its annual departmental report and autumn performance report. Progress against our 2002 spending review targets, including the one referred to in this question, was reported most recently in the 2004 autumn report, published last November, together with commentary where appropriate.

The 2004 spending review set a new target to narrow the gap in educational achievement between looked after children and their peers and to improve their educational support and the stability of their lives. By 2008, 80 per cent. of children under 16 who have been looked after for 2.5 or more years will have been living in the same placement for at least two years, or placed for adoption. This emphasises the importance of stability as a prerequisite for raising educational achievement and is underpinned by educational performance indicators which mirror the three elements of the 2002 spending review target.

A copy of the Department's 2004 autumn performance report has been placed in the Library.

Teachers (Pay)

Mr. Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the pay of the (a) highest and (b) lowest paid (i) primary and (ii) secondary school teachers were in real terms (A) in 1997 and (B) in the last year for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement. [222510]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: In March 1997 the highest salary paid to a qualified teacher in a maintained primary school adjusted to 2002–03 real terms was £67,900. The highest in a secondary school was £87,100. By March 2003, the latest available, the figures were £84,900 and £108,600 respectively.

The minimum salary paid to qualified teachers in both maintained primary and secondary schools in March 1997, adjusted to 2002–03 real terms, was £14,400. In March 2003 the figure was £17,600.

University Admissions

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many children have entered higher education from school in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) England in each year since 1997. [222775]

Dr. Howells: The most recent information, showing the proportion of 18-year-olds who obtained places on full-time undergraduate courses via the Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS), is shown in the table. Participation rates for each parliamentary constituency are not calculated by the Department.

Proportion of 18-year-olds obtaining places on full-time undergraduate courses Academic year 2003/04

Year of entry	South Tyneside	North East	England
1997	15.7	17.5	20.5
1998	14.8	17.9	20.0
1999	15.2	18.2	20.0
2000	16.7	18.4	20.6
2001	17.2	19.2	21.5
2003	16.6	19.0	21.4

In addition, HEFCE have recently published 'Young participation in Higher Education', (available from http://www.hefce.ac.uk/pubs/hefce/2005/05_037) which shows the proportion of young people who enter higher education at age 18 or 19, although this only covers the years up to 2000. Participation rates for constituencies based on this work are given on the supporting POLAR website (www.hefce.ac.uk/polar). The figures indicate that the proportion of young people from Jarrow who entered higher education at age 18 or 19 was 23 per cent. in 1997 and 24 per cent. in 2000.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Accredited Offending Behaviour Programmes

Valerie Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many accredited offending behaviour programmes are due to be completed in 2004–05; and how many are expected to be completed in 2005–06. [223335]

Paul Goggins: Accredited offending behaviour programmes are delivered to offenders supervised by the National Probation Service and to offenders serving sentences of imprisonment. The targets for both groups of offenders have been rolled forward from 2004–05 to 2005–06: 15,000 for offenders supervised by probation and 7,000 for prisoners.

The latter target is divided between public and contracted prisons and includes a specified number of sex offender treatment programmes. The target details for the financial years 2004–05 and 2005–06 are set out in the table. The figure for 2005–06 corrects an inaccuracy in the wording of the written ministerial statement on 25 February setting out the National Offender Management Service's targets for that year—25 February 2005, Official Report, column 65WS.

	Target details
2004–05	7,000 offending behaviour programmes completed by prisoners, including: 5,490 living skills programmes and 1,100 sex offender treatment programmes in public prisons 330 living skills programmes and 80 sex offender treatment programmes in contracted prisons
2005–06	7,000 offending behaviour programmes completed by prisoners, comprising: 6,590 programmes in public prisons (including 1,160 sex offender treatment programmes) 410 programmes in contracted prisons (including 80 sex offender treatment programmes)

Antisocial Behaviour (North Yorkshire)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will respond to the petition he received on his recent visit to Thirsk; and what action he proposes to take against antisocial behaviour in the Vale of York. [221146]

Ms Blears: My right hon. Friend the Home Secretary has seen the petition and has responded to Mr. Dadd personally. I would like to refer the hon. Member to my reply of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1597W, regarding the action which is being taken to reduce antisocial behaviour in the Vale of York.

Asylum Seekers

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make provision for failed asylum seekers to be given temporary permission to work until they can be returned to their country of origin. [222878]

Mr. Browne: We believe that those whose asylum application has been unsuccessful should leave. The fact that they may not wish to do so cannot mean that we should routinely continue to provide support or permit them to take employment. To do either of these things would remove any incentive they may have to go voluntarily. Failed asylum seekers unable to leave immediately due to circumstances entirely beyond their control may be provided with support under section 4 of the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999. This support is intended only as a temporary arrangement until such a time as they can return.

Civil Servants

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost of the enhanced early retirement scheme for civil servants in his Department and its agencies was in each year from 1997–98 to 2003–04 and what the estimated cost will be in each year from 2004–05 to 2007–08; and if he will make a statement. [211658]

Fiona Mactaggart: The cost of enhanced exits in the Home Office and its agencies for financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04 are shown in the following table.

Financial year	Core Home Office	Prison Service	UKPS	CRB	Total cost

Correspondence

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects to respond fully to the letter from the right hon. Member for Birkenhead of 21 December 2004 about his constituent Mr. Calvin Zola Makongo; and if he will meet the family and Mr. Makongo's employers. [223252]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 22 March 2005]: I responded in full to my right hon. Friend on 31 January and also replied to his subsequent letter of 16 February on 23 March.

Mr. Makongo's legal advisers have lodged an appeal on his behalf. That appeal will be heard by the IAA. Accordingly it would not be appropriate to meet Mr. Makongo's family or his employers.

Design

Alan Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department who the ministerial design champion for his Department is. [215650]

Fiona Mactaggart: I am the ministerial design champion for the Home Office.

Ministerial Visits

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what ministerial visits are planned for each Minister in his Department in the next six months; and if he will make a statement. [214020]

Mr. Charles Clarke: For reasons of security, it would not be appropriate to disclose the information requested.

Under-age Alcohol Sales

Mr. Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) prosecutions and (b) convictions for the sale of alcohol to under 18-year-olds there have been in each year since 2000, broken down by local authority; and what guidance he gives to local authorities on the conduct of investigations into, and prosecutions for, such offences. [221707]

Ms Blears: Details of the numbers of persons proceeded against and those found guilty of selling alcohol to persons aged under 18 in England and Wales for the years 2000 to 2003 are shown in the table. The statistics collected centrally do not allow local authorities to be identified, but a breakdown by police force area is provided. Statistics for 2004 will be published in the autumn.

The penalty notice for disorder scheme provides for persons who commit specified penalty offences to be issued with a fixed penalty notice instead of being prosecuted. The table therefore also contains details of the provisional number of penalty notices issued for this offence in 2004.

The Government have not issued any guidance to local authorities on the conduct of investigations into, and prosecutions for, such offences. Such matters are dealt with by Trading Standards and by the police. Guidance pertaining to the test purchasing of alcohol by minors has been issued by LACORS and the Trading Standards Institute, and can be viewed at www.lacors.gov.uk.

Workers Registration Scheme

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much revenue his Department has received under the Workers Registration Scheme since it was introduced. [222338]

Mr. Browne: Since the Worker Registration Scheme commenced on 1 May 2004, the total fees received up to and including 28 February were £7,483,537.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement; [222577]

(2) how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222567]

Mr. Gareth Thomas: The incidence of reported accidents in DFID's UK buildings involving our staff (including contractors working on the premises) over each of the last five years is as follows:

	Number of accidents
2000–01	32
2001–02	42
2002–03	44
2003–04	58
2004–05	51

There have been no reported accidents for any members of the public.

Accidents are monitored centrally so that appropriate action can be taken to reduce the occurrence of similar incidents in the future. Statistics on numbers of accidents are monitored by our internal Health and Safety Committee.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222632]

Mr. Gareth Thomas: DFID's Health and Safety Policy specifically states that any member of staff having an accident on official premises must report the circumstances to our Human Resources Division. The circumstances will then be investigated and where appropriate a risk assessment carried out. If necessary these would be reported under the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations (RIDDOR) 1995 legislation.

Health and safety information is provided for all new members of staff, and the Department has a programme of regular health and safety inspections, risk assessments and workstation assessments, with additional training provided where necessary for key staff such as Fire Wardens and those whose work involves manual handling. DFID is committed to ensuring that it provides a safe and healthy working environment for all its staff.

Departmental Travel

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will list the travel criteria used by his Department to determine when officials travel by (a) first class, (b) club class, (c) premium economy class and (d) economy class. [223159]

Mr. Gareth Thomas: Within the constraints that all staff are required to use the most efficient and economical means of travel commensurate with meeting business needs, staff are entitled to the class of air travel as set in the following table that appears in DFID's Staff Handbook. While premium economy is not widely available at present and does not currently feature in the table, we are considering its adoption as part of a review of our Flexible Travel Scheme for staff on overseas assignments.

[2] Staff who are not members of the SASC Group can fly business class between Glasgow and London, and vice versa. This makes use of a special airline deal under which a business class fare is obtainable more cheaply than the standard economy fare.

CABINET OFFICE

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many accidents occurred at his Office's premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Office's staff and (b) members of the public. [222562]

Mr. Milburn: Over the past five years 11 minor accidents to staff have been noted in the accident report book at the Duchy of Lancaster office, none of which were reportable under the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous occurrences Regulations (RIDDOR) 1995.

There have been no accidents involving members of the public.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether the Duchy sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220939]

Mr. Milburn: The Duchy of Lancaster has not used the eBay auction website for the disposal of surplus stock.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the value of sales of surplus assets from the Duchy was in each year since 2000–01. [220968]

Mr. Milburn: The values of sales of surplus assets from the Duchy for each year since 2000–01 are shown in the table.

Year	Amount
2000–2001	6,244
2001–2002	7,207
2002–2003	47,792
2003–2004	10,344
2004–2005	19,128

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Energy Use

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the answer of 15 December 2004, Official Report, column 1141W, on energy use, what plans there are to increase the target set for the sourcing of electricity from renewable energy sources. [222331]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: We plan to keep our target in step with the target set by Government for its own buildings, which at present is 10 per cent. of electricity from renewable sources.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how much energy in kWh per square metre has been used on the parliamentary estate for each year since 1997. [222332]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The information is in the table.

	kWh per square metre
1997–98	328
1998–99	337
1999–2000	328
2000–01	326
2001–02	331
2003–04	357

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to his answer of 20 October 2004, Official Report, column 803W, on parliamentary estates (heating), what additional information sub-metering has provided on where heat is lost on the parliamentary estate; and if he will list the areas where most heat is lost. [222253]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Our energy saving strategy includes investing in sub-metering. Engineering studies of how this may best be done are planned for the financial year 2005–06. Most heat is lost from the Palace of Westminster via the roof and the historic ventilation system.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission whether it is the policy of the House to ensure that heating systems are turned off during public holidays. [222334]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: I can confirm that it is the policy to turn off heating or reduce temperature settings during public holidays.

Environmental Performance Measures

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what steps he has taken to co-ordinate environmental performance measures between the House of Commons and the House of Lords. [222267]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Environmental performance measures for the two Houses together are managed as a shared service by the Parliamentary Estates Directorate.

Publications

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission if the Commission will make it its policy that daily issues of the Questions Book and Hansard are not issued to individual members unless specifically requested by their office. [222335]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: It is already the longstanding custom and practice of the House that papers are only provided to hon. Members when they specifically request them, either on demand, or in the case of business papers and Hansard by completion of a demand form at the beginning of a new Parliament.

Recycling Points

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission (1) if he will list the locations on the parliamentary estate of (a) glass and (b) metal can recycling points provided for the use of (i) hon. Members and staff and (ii) house authorities; and what volume of each material was collected from these points in the last year for which figures are available; [222265]

(2) what progress has been made on installing more glass and metal can recycling points in the parliamentary estate. [222266]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Glass is collected at the waste centres in Peers Court, 1 Canon Row Courtyard and 7 Millbank. Metals are extracted from our general waste by our recycling contractor at their works, so specific metal recycling points are not needed on the parliamentary estate.

In 2003–04 we recycled 173 tonnes of glass and 50 tonnes of metal.

The waste recycling contract is currently being re-tendered. The new contract will enable us to extend our recycling.

Refreshment Department

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission if he will estimate (a) the quantity and (b) the percentage of all food products sourced by the Refreshment Department from suppliers outside the UK, broken down by (i) fruit, (ii) vegetables, (iii) bottled water, (iv) food products and (v) alcoholic drinks. [222302]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: All suppliers of foods and beverages used by the Refreshment Department are based in the UK, but the produce used by the Department originates from many countries. No record is kept of the country of origin of supplies.

The availability of UK produced fresh fruit and vegetables is generally highly seasonal, and so use of imported produce varies throughout the year. Purchases of fruit and vegetables are recorded in many different weights and measures which cannot be converted into one standard format for reporting purposes. It is therefore not possible to estimate the percentage or quantity of fruit and vegetables originating from outside the UK.

In the 11 months to the end of February 2005, the Refreshment Department purchased over 140,100 litres of bottled water, none of which was imported.

The Refreshment Department uses over 3,000 different food products in its catering operations, but not all are in stock at any given time; it has therefore not been possible to estimate the total proportion of food products that originate from outside the UK. However, the Department estimates that less than 5 per cent. of its fresh meat and poultry purchases originate from outside the UK. Most dairy products, including cheeses, and all fresh egg supplies are of UK origin.

The Refreshment Department purchases alcoholic drinks for sale in the House of Commons catering outlets, and also for the House of Commons souvenir shops to sell to visitors to Parliament. Over the past 11 months, the Refreshment Department purchased 38,051 litres of beers and ciders, of which 10,992 litres (29 per cent.) were imported, and a total of 4,519 litres of aperitifs, fortified wines and spirits, of which 358 litres (8 per cent.) were imported. Of the total wine purchases of almost 57,000 litres during the past 11 months, over 54,000 litres (95.3 per cent.) were produced outside the UK.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what quantity of alcoholic drinks, in litres, has been purchased for sale (a) in parliamentary bars and (b) by the Refreshment Department at catering functions on the parliamentary estate in each year since 1975. [222303]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The Refreshment Department does not purchase drinks for specific trading areas, but issues goods as required from its central store. The quantity of alcoholic drinks consumed in the parliamentary bars was 50,474 litres in 2003–04 and 40,900 litres in the 11 months to February 2005. Consumption at functions catered or supplied by the Refreshment Department was 31,563 litres in 2003–04 and 28,169 litres in the 11 months to February 2005. No figures are available for previous years.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what the Commission's policy is on the sourcing of beer for sale (a) in parliamentary bars and (b) by the Refreshment Department at catering functions on the parliamentary estate, with particular reference to sourcing from small independent UK brewers. [222304]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The Refreshment Department regularly seeks the advice of the Catering Committee on the sourcing of beers for sale through its catering outlets. In the House of Commons bars, the Department offers for sale one draught ale, generally changed weekly, that is specifically sourced from a member of the Society of Independent Brewers and supplied by their distributor, East West Ales. The Department also sells beers from Young's and Co. (Wandsworth) in certain bars. Other beers sold throughout the House of Commons bars and at functions catered by the Refreshment Department are supplied by the Department's principal nominated beer supplier. This contract, which is currently in the process of being competitively tendered in accordance with the EU Procurement Regulations, and has been advertised in appropriate trade publications, includes a requirement for the supply of a regularly changed British regional ale, to be expressly purchased by the Department's nominated beer supplier for supply to the House of Commons.

The Refreshment Department is also in the process of tendering a contract for the supply of a House of Commons gift ale pack for sale through its souvenir and gift shops. The Society of Independent Brewers have provided a list of all their members who produce bottled beers and these producers have been invited with others to attend a meeting with the Refreshment Department's Purchasing Manager.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what progress has been made by the Director of Catering Services in investigating the feasibility of implementing a strategy to minimise food miles as part of the Refreshment Department's food procurement objectives. [222305]

Mr. Dennis Turner: I have been asked to reply.

I recognise that many customers of the Refreshment Department are supportive of sustainable food initiatives. The Refreshment Department's business plan for 2005–06 acknowledges the need to develop a formal policy on this matter. Subsequent to my answer of 26 October 2004, Official Report, column 1095W, the Refreshment Department Purchasing Manager had a constructive initial discussion with Sustain, an organisation formed in 1999 by merging the National Food Alliance and the Sustainable Agriculture Food and Environment Alliance. Sustain are keen to assist the Department in the development of a responsible purchasing policy that supports sustainable food supplies, including the consideration of food miles. Further progress has been delayed pending completion of organisational changes within Sustain, but the Refreshment Department hopes to be able to pursue this matter over the next few months.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission if he will estimate how many of the plastic bags issued by the Refreshment Department for customer use are (a) reused and (b) put into the general waste either within or outside the parliamentary estate each day. [222306]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: It is not possible to make an estimate.

Security Passes

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how many House passes have been held in each year since 1975, broken down by House department. [222075]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Data are not kept on the issue of passes by year and cannot be broken down by department of the House.

Transport

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what steps have been taken to encourage (a) hon. Members and (b) staff of the House to travel to the parliamentary estate other than by private motor vehicle. [222092]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The House of Commons Commission recognises the benefits to all those who come to the House using means other than private cars where convenient for them to do so. There are at present some 100 cycle parking spaces on the parliamentary estate and public cycle parking nearby on Millbank. In addition there are plans to reorganise parking arrangements in Star Chamber Court which will create some 15 additional cycle parking spaces. Interest free loans for annual public transport season tickets are also available for staff of the House as are bicycle loans.

Waste

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission (1) if he will estimate the total volume of waste that has been produced each year since 1975; and how much was (a) food and other organic waste, (b) paper products, (c) printer products and (d) plastic packaging; [222254]

(2) what the total volume of waste produced on the parliamentary estate was in each year since 1975, broken down by (a) amount produced and (b) amount recycled. [222328]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Data are available since 2002–03 for the total weight of waste, the weight of waste paper products recycled and the weight of other products recycled. Separate figures are not available for food, printer products or plastic packaging.

Tonnes

	Total weight of waste	Weight of paper products recycled	Weight of other products recycled
2002–03	1,478	263	311
2004–05 to January	1,517	273	138

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how many tonnes of waste produced from the parliamentary estate were incinerated in each of the last five years; and if he will estimate how many tonnes of (a) carbon dioxide and (b) other pollutants are produced as a result. [222326]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Approximately 1,700 tonnes of waste from the parliamentary estate were incinerated to generate electricity in 2003–04. The data is not available to calculate the tonnes of carbon dioxide or other pollutants produced as a result.

Water Usage

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to his answer of 15 December 2004, Official Report, column 1142W, on water usage, (1) what volume of water he estimates has been saved from the water conservation measures implemented by the House authorities in each year since such measures were implemented; [222076]

(2) what improvements have been made in Portcullis House to reduce the amount of water drawn from the boreholes; and if he will estimate what volume of water has been conserved as a result of these improvements in each year since the building was first occupied; [222251]

(3) what targets have been set to reduce water consumption on the parliamentary estate; and what progress has been made in meeting them. [222329]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Our target is to reduce water use. At Portcullis House, borehole water use has been reduced from an average of 710,000 cubic metres for each of the two years 2002 and 2003 to 350,000 cubic metres in 2004. This reduction was achieved by reducing the rate of pumping, following changing the original control settings.

For the estate generally between 1997–98 and 2003–04 water consumption increased by some 70,000 cubic metres per annum. It is not possible to separate the estimated effect of conservation measures on one hand from the effect of increased numbers of people working on the estate on the other hand.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to his answer of 15 December 2004, Official Report, column 1142W, on water usage, what volume of water has been saved on the parliamentary estate as a result of (a) the fitting of detectors to urinal cisterns to prevent unnecessary automatic flushing and (b) the fitting of flush volume reduction devices or dual flush equipment to other cisterns and lavatories. [222252]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: It is not practicable to make such an estimate.

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what use is made of grey water on the parliamentary estate; and what future plans have been made for its use. [222330]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Grey water is used in Portcullis House for flushing lavatories. There are no plans for other use of grey water on the estate.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Benefit Processing

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how long the average processing time was for an application for payment of (a) carers' allowance, (b) disability living allowance and (c) jobseeker's allowance in the last year for which figures are available; and what his Department's target is for processing each of these benefits. [223489]

Maria Eagle: The administration of carer's allowance and disability living allowance is a matter for the Chief Executive of the Disability Carers Service, Mr. Terry Moran and the administration of jobseeker's allowance is a matter for the Chief Executive of Job Centre Plus.

Mr. Moran will provide a co-ordinated response and write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Terry Moran to Mr. Parmjit Singh Gill, dated 23 March 2005:

I am replying to your recent Parliamentary question about the Disability and Carers Service and Jobcentre Plus.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how long the average processing time was for an application for payment of a) carer's allowance, b) disability living allowance and c) jobseeker's allowance in the last year for which figures are available; and what his Departments target is for processing each of these benefits.

The year to date, as at December 2004, actual average clearance time for claims for carer's allowance was 16.8 days with an actual average clearance target of 24 days.

The year to date, as at December 2004, actual average clearance time for claims for disability living allowance was 36.7 days with an actual average clearance target of 39 days.

The year to date, as at December 2004, actual average clearance time for claims to disability living allowance using the special rules criteria was 5.8 days with an actual average clearance target of 8 days.

The year to date, as at December 2004, actual average clearance time for claims to jobseeker's allowance was 12 days with an actual average clearance target of 12 days.

I hope this is helpful.

Child Support Scheme/Agency

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he expects statistics on the new child support scheme to become available; whether the statistics on the new child support scheme produced within the Child Support Agency progress report of 28 October 2004 were quality assured; and if he will make a statement on the status of previous statistics produced on the new child support system. [223485]

Malcolm Wicks: Statistics on the 'new scheme' are already available and are regularly reported and published in my right hon. Friend's progress report; last presented on 28 October 2004.

The published information provided the most current available data. The Child Support Agency has since, as a result of in-depth investigations, identified some anomalies in this information.

The next progress report is due to be published on 24 March 2005 and identifies revisions in the information as a consequence of the agency's findings. A copy of the progress report will also accompany the Government response to the Work and Pensions Select Committee.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many Bassetlaw residents have claimed Child Support Agency maintenance payments, but have yet to receive them. [222726]

Mr. Pond: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive of the Child Support Agency, Mr. Doug Smith. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from Doug Smith to Mr. John Mann, dated 23 March 2005:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many Bassetlaw residents have claimed Child Support Agency maintenance payments but have yet to receive them.

The information requested is not available, as data on Child Support Agency claims for maintenance payments is not recorded at constituency level.

Company Pension Schemes

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions in what circumstances he would seek to intervene in the wind-up of a company pension scheme. [220206]

Malcolm Wicks: Ministers do not intervene in the wind-up of company pension schemes. However, Ministers do regularly meet members of schemes that are winding-up along with their trades union representatives and constituency MPs, to listen to their concerns.

The Occupational Pensions Regulatory Authority (Opra) has a statutory role in monitoring scheme wind-ups. This will be carried forward to The Pensions Regulator when it assumes responsibility for the regulation of occupational pension schemes from Opra in April 2005.

The Regulator will have a range of powers to intervene if it considers that members' benefits are at risk, including the ability to remove and replace the trustees. It will also have a statutory duty to maintain a register of approved independent trustees, which will enable it to keep a check on fees charged by an independent trustee appointed to a scheme following employer insolvency.

Council Tax Relief

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what account is taken of equity release for pensioners in determining income in order to calculate council tax relief. [223016]

Mr. Pond: Payments made under an equity release scheme are taken into account as income for the purposes of council tax benefit.

Crown Immunity

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what action he takes to collate reports made to Ministers by Government Departments of incidents of deaths or serious injury from those activities of those Departments which are subject to Crown immunity; and how many such reports have been made in each of the past 10 years. [221559]

Jane Kennedy: DWP Ministers are not routinely informed of accidents and ill health within Departments that have Crown immunity.

Ministers and senior managers may be informed of accidents and ill health within the Departments for which they have responsibility. However, such arrangements are a matter for individual Departments.

HSE should receive all reports of deaths and injuries in Government Departments—with certain exemptions for MOD personnel. These reports inform discussions between HSE and Departments about their health and safety performance. Additionally, all Departments' performance on health and safety is now under scrutiny as part of the work of a ministerial task force, which I chair.

Information about reports which result in a Crown Censure or Notice is publicly available on HSE's website. Other data is available only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much of his Department's administrative expenditure was related to (a) pensioners, (b) sick and disabled people, (c) unemployed people, (d) lone parents and (e) other types of claimants in (i) 1997 and (ii) the latest year for which figures are available. [222607]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The Department accounts for its administrative expenditure by strategic objective as set out in it's public service agreements (PSA) and by individual requests for resources (RfRs) as set out in the Departmental Estimates and Accounts, and not by claimant type. Information on administrative expenditure by strategic objective is available in the annually published Departmental Report. The Department was created from the former Department for Social Security (DSS) and Employment Services (ES) and consequently information is not currently available for the years 1997 onwards.

Jobcentre Plus

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many staff were employed by Jobcentre Plus, in the most recent year for which figures are available, broken down by (a) region, (b) parliamentary constituency and (c) local authority. [223487]

Jane Kennedy: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mr. Steve Webb, dated 23 March 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question concerning how many staff were employed by Jobcentre Plus, in the most recent year for which figures are available, broken down by region, Parliamentary Constituency and Local Authority. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Using 31 January 2005 data, the most recent figures which are available, the total number of full time equivalent staff employed by Jobcentre Plus was 75,691. The table below shows the data broken down by region.

Full-time equivalent staff employed by Jobcentre Plus 31 January 2005

Region	Staff
East Midlands	4,516
East of England	4,881
London	9,596
North East	4,811
North West	11,437
Scotland	9,253
South East	6,132
South West	4,758
Wales	4,936
West Midlands	6,509
Yorkshire and the Number	8,862
Total	75,691

I am unable to provide a statistical breakdown by Parliamentary Constituency, or Local Authority, as Jobcentre Plus does not collect this information.

I hope this is helpful.

New Deal (Lone Parents)

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many lone parents in Edinburgh, North and Leith have gained work through the new deal programme. [222906]

Jane Kennedy: 420 lone parents in Edinburgh, North and Leith have gained work through the new deal for lone parents since the start of the programme in October 1998. Figures for lone parents who have gained work through other new deal programmes are not available.

Pensioner Income

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what initiatives his Department has taken to reduce differences in average income between men and women pensioners; and if he will make a statement. [222918]

Malcolm Wicks: One of our guiding principles for pension reform is that the pensions system should produce fair outcomes for women. This has been a key principle that has been inherent in our action so far and will guide our approach in the future.

Through pension credit we have significantly improved the income of the poorest pensioners, the majority of whom are women. Since 1997, we have lifted 1.8 million pensioners out of abject poverty, two thirds of whom are women. As the Pensions Commission Report noted, male and female pensioners now receive a similar level of state benefit.

In addition, almost all of the 1.9 million carers and around 65 per cent. of the 5.8 million low earners who will benefit from the introduction of the state second pension are women. Other measures, such as winter fuel payments, free TV licences and one-off payments have been especially beneficial to women as they are targeted on older pensioners, the majority of whom are women.

We are publishing a report on women and pensions to look at women's pension provision in more detail later this year.

Pensioners

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much has been paid in pension credit to pensioners in Leeds West; how much of this is savings credit; and how many people have benefited. [221966]

Malcolm Wicks: Between 1 October 2003 and 31 December 2004 an estimated total of £10.8 million, was paid in pension credit in the Leeds West constituency. Of this an estimated £1.6 million was paid in savings credit. To the end of December 2004 around 5,000 households comprising around 6,000 individuals, had received pension credit since it was introduced in October 2003.

Note:

Expenditure figures have been rounded to the nearest £100,000 and are in cash (nominal) terms.

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on sources of funding for community-based projects serving the retired community in Birmingham. [223033]

Malcolm Wicks: Funding for community-based projects which assist older people is available from a variety of sources. In Birmingham these include the local authority; the Legal Services Commission; charities, such as Age Concern and Help the Aged; the Scarman Trust; WarmFront; Neighbourhood Renewal; and local businesses.

The Pension Service Partnership Fund, operated by the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP), is currently funding two projects for older people in Birmingham. Community Advice, Support and Advocacy Centre (CASA) and Black Country Housing and Community Services Group Ltd. have both been awarded two years funding for projects to promote the take-up of benefits and complementary services by older people in Birmingham.

The Fund has also awarded funding to another 12 organisations in the West Midlands including two in Coventry, one in Oldbury and one in Wolverhampton.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people (a) in the City of York local authority area and (b) City of York parliamentary constituency receive (i) basic state pension and (ii) pension credit; and what the average weekly value of pension credit received is in each case. [222174]

Malcolm Wicks: The information requested is in the table:

	Basic state pension recipients	Number of households getting pension credit	Average weekly amount of pension credit per household (£)
City of York unitary authority	34,400	6,545	34.55
City of York parliamentary constituency	17,500	4,360	34.95

Notes:
1. Basic state pension figures are taken from a 5 per cent. sample and are therefore subject to a high degree of sampling variation.
2. Basic state pension recipient figures are rounded to the nearest 100. Pension credit recipient figures are rounded to the nearest five.
3. State pension data is as at 30 September 2004. Pension credit data is as at 31 December 2004.
4. Parliamentary constituencies and local authority areas are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant Office for National Statistics postcode directory.
5. A basic state pension is paid to those who fully or partially satisfy the contribution conditions for a Category A or Category B basic state pension, either in their own right or, where applicable, on the basis of their spouse's or former spouse's national insurance contributions.

Julie Morgan: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of (a) women and (b) men are eligible for a full state pension in their own right. [223013]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is not available in the format requested. However, as at 30 September 2004, the percentage of men and women who were receiving a full basic state pension based on their own National Insurance contributions as a proportion of the total pensioner population in Great Britain, was about 87 per cent. and 13 per cent. respectively.

Notes:
1. Figures are taken from a five per cent. sample and are therefore subject to a high degree of sampling variation.
2. Percentages are rounded to the nearest full percentage point.
3. A full basic state pension was £79.60 in 2004–05.
4. Pensioner population estimates are from mid-2003 supplied by the Office for National Statistics.
5. Pensioner population refers to females aged 60 and over; and males aged 65 and over.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220972]

Jane Kennedy: The DWP was formed in June 2001 from the Department of Social Security (DSS) and parts of the former Department for Education and Employment, including the Employment Service (ES). The sales for the earlier period to June 2001 given below refer to the above predecessor organisations.

Departments are required to disclose the proceeds from the sale of fixed assets consistent with the requirements of the Resource Accounting Manual (RAM) and Government Accounting.

This information is included in the Departmental Resource Accounts, copies of which are available in the Library.

The information on value of sales of fixed assets for each year is in the following table.

2000–01	1,180
2001–02	1,775
2003–04[1]	143,375

[1] The sale of the ex-Employment Service estate was undertaken in December 2003 as an extension to the existing PRIME PFI partnership contract with Land Securities Trillium. Under the terms of the contract, the Department received total consideration of £140 million, of which £100 million was in cash.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222569]

Mr. Alexander: In 2004 there were 47 accidents reported at Foreign and Commonwealth Office premises in the UK, and 28 at Foreign and Commonwealth Office posts overseas, one of which involved a member of the public. In 2003 there were 43 accidents at Foreign and Commonwealth Office premises in the UK. Figures for previous years are not currently available.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [222586]

Mr. Alexander: In 2004, there were 75 accidents reported world-wide involving employees of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. The comparable figure for 2003 was 55.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222635]

Mr. Alexander: The Foreign and Commonwealth office has an accident reporting system whereby all accidents are reported to the health and safety section of Human Resources Directorate—Health and Welfare Policy Team. The health and safety advisers monitor the accident reports for trends and produce statistics for discussion at health and safety meetings.

The reporting system is compliant with the Data Protection Act 1998.

Central African Republic

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the recent parliamentary and presidential elections held in the Central African Republic; and if he will make a statement. [223026]

Mr. Mullin: The British Government welcome the holding of elections in the Central African Republic. These mark the end of a two year period of transitional government. We are aware of some reports of irregularities in the election process, but we await the final results which are expected by 28 March.

G8 Summit

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the Government's policy towards discussion of conventional arms sales at the G8 summit in June; and what resolutions will be proposed regarding Iraq. [222956]

Mr. MacShane: There are no plans to discuss conventional arms sales at the G8 Summit, and it is too early to say what discussions there might be on Iraq at the Summit.

Human Rights Norms for Business

Ms Shipley: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what role the Government envisages for the UN Human Rights Norms for Business in clarifying the responsibilities of multinational corporations with regard to human rights. [222838]

Mr. Alexander: While there is merit in clarifying minimum standards for business in relation to human rights, we believe that future action on this agenda should take into account the many codes and initiatives which exist in this field, rather than focussing exclusively on the draft norms. These include the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development Guidelines on Multinational Enterprises, the International Labour Organisation Tripartite Declaration of Principles concerning Multinational Enterprises and Social Policy and the UN Global Compact. This approach is in line with the recent report of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights on this issue.

Through the Business Leaders Initiative on Human Rights, a number of multinational companies have been "road-testing" the draft norms, using the content to inform their codes of practice. This process will continue until December 2006. In addition, the FTSE4Good benchmark takes the draft norms into account in its assessment of companies' performance. And some potential investors consider the draft norms in their requirement for "human rights impact assessments".

Ms Shipley: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if the Government will support the UN Human Rights Norms for Business at the UN Commission on Human Rights meeting in April. [222839]

Mr. Alexander: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to her today (UIN 222838). The UK will continue to play a constructive role in advancing the debate on corporate responsibility and human rights in the Commission. We will be active at the forthcoming Special Session of the Commission in seeking to ensure proper follow-up to the report of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights which addresses, inter alia, the question of the status of the draft norms.

Iran

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent negotiations have taken place between the EU3 and Iran on the future of Iran's nuclear programme; and if he will make a statement. [222882]

Mr. MacShane: Discussions between officials from Iran, Britain, France and Germany—together with officials from the office of the European Union's High Representative—continue on a regular basis. The objective of the discussions is to take forward the full implementation of the November 2004 Paris Agreement.

The most recent round of discussions took place in Geneva during the week beginning 7 March.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is regarding the Iranian authorities' use of enriched uranium; and whether the UK is participating in the US initiatives to encourage Iran not to undertake this process. [222955]

Mr. MacShane: The Government continue to have serious concerns about Iran's nuclear programme, including its plans to develop an indigenous uranium enrichment capability. Together with colleagues from France and Germany (the "E3") and the European High Representative, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has been engaged since late 2002 in efforts to encourage the Iranian authorities to address international concern about their proposed nuclear cycle.

We welcome the announcement by the United States on 11 March 2005 that it has decided to support the E3's diplomacy by dropping its objection to Iran's application to the World Trade Organisation and consider, on a case by case basis, the licensing of spare-parts for Iranian civilian aircraft, in particular from the EU to Iran.

Iraq

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much money from public funds was allocated to the campaign of Mr. Allawi in the Iraq elections. [218389]

Mr. Mullin [holding answer 1 March 2005]: No UK public funds were allocated to Dr. Allawi's election campaign.

Mr. Donaldson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his latest estimate is of the number of Iraqi civilians killed in the conflict since coalition forces entered Iraq; and what estimate he has made of the number of Iraqi civilians killed by the regime of Saddam Hussein. [223479]

Mr. Mullin [holding answer 22 March 2005]: There are no wholly reliable and comprehensive figures for Iraqi civilians killed since military operations began in March 2003. The Iraqi Minister of Health's most recently released figures, based on records from some 180 hospitals, show that between 5 April 2004, when figures began to be collated, and 1 March 2005, 6,265 Iraqis were killed. The Ministry of Health points out that this figure includes all Iraqis, including civilians, Iraqi Security Forces and insurgents, killed as a result of violence.

On 22 July 2003 the United Nations Secretary-General reported to the Security Council that it was estimated that over the past three decades at least 290,000 Iraqis had disappeared in Iraq. The Iraqi Bureau of Missing Persons has registered over 1.3 million missing Iraqis. Some 270 mass graves have so far been reported from that period.

Lebanon

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Lebanese authorities on the planned withdrawal of Syrian forces; and what discussions he has had with representatives of the Maronite Christian community. [222954]

Mr. Mullin: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has had no discussions with the Lebanese authorities about the withdrawal of Syrian forces, or with the representatives of the Maronite Christian community. During her visit to Lebanon last month, my right hon. and noble Friend, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean discussed the political situation in Lebanon with Lebanese Foreign Minister Hammoud. Our embassy in Beirut has regular contact with representatives from across the Lebanese political spectrum, including the Maronite Christian community.

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with (a) European, (b) US, (c) Syrian and (d) Lebanese counterparts about the situation in Lebanon and the withdrawal of Syrian forces; and if he will make a statement. [223028]

Mr. Mullin: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discussed the situation in Lebanon and the Syrian withdrawal with his EU counterparts at the General Affairs and External Relations Council on 16 March, and has also spoken to US Secretary of State Dr. Condoleezza Rice about developments. My right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, emphasised to Lebanese Foreign Minister Hammoud, when they met on 25 February, the importance that the UK places on compliance with United Nations Security Council Resolution 1559; the implementation of a credible electoral process leading to free and fair elections for the Lebanese National Assembly in line with the Lebanese constitution, free from foreign interference; and a full and transparent investigation into the bomb attack in Beirut on 14 February.

Non-proliferation Treaty Review Conference

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what bilateral discussions have taken place between the Government and (a) the United States, (b) the Russian Federation, (c) China and (d) France regarding the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty Review Conference in New York in May. [223322]

Mr. MacShane: We have had contact with a number of countries, including those mentioned, in the run up to the Non-Proliferation Treaty Review Conference.

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions have taken place with the International Atomic Energy Agency regarding the proliferation of nuclear weapons by non-state actors. [223331]

Mr. MacShane: The Government hosted an International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) Conference in London from 16 to 18 March to discuss the nature of the threat of nuclear terrorism and to take forward the agenda on nuclear security. The United Kingdom, through contacts at meetings such as this in London, through its delegation to the IAEA in Vienna, and through the UK Governor who sits on the IAEA Board of Governors, remains in close touch with all aspects of the IAEA's important work.

Nuclear Security

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking to combat nuclear terrorism. [223218]

Mr. MacShane: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) first Strategic Priority is to achieve a world safer from global terrorism and weapons of mass destruction. We work extensively to convince others to face up to these threats and to help them do so. All such efforts make it harder for terrorists and proliferators to operate and so help reduce the threat from nuclear terrorism.

There are a number of programmes specifically targeted at nuclear terrorism—the principal one being the Global Partnership which aims, among other things, to address the problems of the nuclear legacy in the former Soviet Union. My right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the FCO, has also been closely involved in the International Atomic Energy Agency International Conference on Nuclear Security held in London last week, which discussed the significant risks to the international community posed by the threat of malicious acts involving nuclear and other radioactive materials and their associated facilities.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent changes have been made to the United Kingdom donation to the International Atomic Energy Agency for nuclear materials accountancy and security controls. [223219]

Mr. MacShane: The United Kingdom has been a strong supporter of the International Atomic Energy Agency's (IAEA) Nuclear Security Fund since its inception. Most recently my right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, announced at the International Conference for Nuclear Security held in London 16–18 March, the donation of a further £350,000 to the Nuclear Security Fund.

In 2003–04 the UK provided £1.2 million in voluntary support to the IAEA through the UK Safeguards Support Programme. In addition, the UK donated £1.4 million to the agency in support of its Safeguards Information System Replacement Project.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the address made on 16 March by the former United States Senator Sam Nunn to the International Conference on Nuclear Security: Global Directions for the Future. [223221]

Mr. MacShane: I warmly welcome the speech made by Senator Nunn to the International Conference on Nuclear Security. Although unable to attend the conference personally, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary met with Senator Nunn on Monday 14 March to discuss these issues in depth.

We share Senator Nunn's assessment of the urgency of this threat. The UK is developing its nuclear security programme under the Global Partnership and has recently announced a contract to undertake an upgrade of physical security at a key Russian Nuclear Research Centre. The contract, to be managed by experts from the British Nuclear Group, will focus on the Nikiet Institute in the centre of Moscow. It is one of Russia's leading nuclear research centres. The project is worth up to £2 million and will focus on the provision of physical protection upgrades on fencing, lighting, CCTV and access control systems. We hope that further such projects will roll out as nuclear security work becomes an increasingly important part of the Global Partnership programmes. Overall, in this financial year the UK will have spent £35.5 million on nuclear safety, security and non-proliferation programmes across the former Soviet Union.

Pakistan/Iran (Nuclear Technology)

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with counterparts in (a) Pakistan and (b) other European countries regarding the passing of nuclear technology from Pakistan to Iran; and if he will make a statement. [223027]

Mr. MacShane: Iran's nuclear programme is a key issue in discussions with a large number of countries, at ministerial and official level. Dr. Abdul Qadeer Khan has admitted to having supplied nuclear technology to Iran, and this information is being investigated by the International Atomic Energy Agency as well as by the authorities in a number of countries who continue to investigate the activities of Dr. Khan and his associates. Some of these associates were nationals of European countries. It would not be appropriate to comment on matters which are the subject of ongoing criminal investigations.

In response to international encouragement Pakistan is working to strengthen its controls over the export of sensitive nuclear technology, including to Iran.

Palestine Authority

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the risk posed by Hezbollah to the establishment of stable Palestinian Government in the Palestinian Territories. [223158]

Mr. Mullin: Hezbollah continues to reject the legitimacy of the state of Israel and to support Palestinian groups which reject the Oslo Accord. We are concerned that Hezbollah are in a position to undermine the current efforts being made by President Abbas and the Palestinian Authority to work towards a comprehensive peace in the Middle East.

We have made clear that we believe Hezbollah should play a more constructive role and should support the Palestinian Authority in its efforts.

UK Embassies

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many staff are employed in the commercial sections of each UK embassy and consulate. [222029]

Mr. Mullin [holding answer 15 March 2005]: I have placed in the Library of the House a table of the number of full-time equivalent staff working to UK Trade and Investment's trade development and inward investment objective in commercial sections at each Foreign and Commonwealth Office Post in 2004, broken down by UK-based civil servants and locally engaged staff.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222563]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Constitutional Affairs has accident records which identify how many accidents have occurred for the past three years: 2002, 2003, 2004. For 2002, no differentiation was made between accidents to staff and the public. The figures are:

	Staff	Public	Total
2002	[1]—	[1]—	467
2003	430	128	558
2004	497	166	663
2005 (to date)	58	26	84

[1] No analysis

Jon Trickett: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [222579]

Mr. Lammy: Yes. It is intended that accident data will be published in the Department's report for 2005–06, when produced.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222619]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Constitutional Affairs has appointed health and safety advisers across the Department who maintain systems for monitoring accidents at work to employees. The advisers investigate and report accidents via the normal management structures to ensure that control measures are identified to prevent recurrence.

Departmental Accounts

Tony Baldry: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether Ministers in the Department have issued written instructions to override his Department's accounting officer's objections since 1997. [221105]

Mr. Leslie: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary to the Treasury on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 80W.

Electoral Registration

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs how many heads of households have been prosecuted since 2001 for failing to supply information to the electoral registration authorities in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) Northern Ireland. [223309]

Mr. Leslie: Local Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) are responsible for compiling the electoral register for their registration area, and electoral law provides that an ERO may require any person to give information required for the purposes of that officer's duties in maintaining electoral registers. It is an offence to fail to comply with such a request. Figures are not collected centrally in respect of prosecutions arising from this provision.

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs what plans the Department has to introduce further sanctions for failing to supply correct information on an electoral registration form. [223310]

Mr. Leslie: The Electoral Commission recommended in the report "Voting for Change" that it should become an offence for an individual to fail to supply information at any time to the Electoral Registration Officer or to supply false information. We agree in principle that the existing offence of failure to supply or giving false information on the canvass form should be extended to other communications with the Electoral Registration Officer and we are considering how this might be taken forward.

EU Referendum

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether UK rules on spending during the EU referendum period will apply to spending in the UK by the UK Representation of the European Commission. [221569]

Mr. Leslie: The Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 governs the conduct of the referendum and contains the rules on spending during the referendum period. The European Commission have said that they will not intervene or fund activities against the wishes of the member states.

Judges

Ross Cranston: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs what estimate he has made of the difference in cost of permanently locating a High Court judge or judges in a large commercial centre such as Birmingham compared with the costs of the present system of visiting High Court judges. [222771]

Mr. Leslie: No assessment has been made of the difference in cost of permanently locating High Court judges to the larger commercial centres as compared to the present system, although the cost effectiveness of the current arrangements for housing High Court judges while out on circuit is regularly reviewed.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs how many judges have been appointed in each year since 1997. [222479]

Mr. Leslie: The number of judges appointed since 1997 can be found in the following table and includes appointments to courts and tribunals administered by my Department.

The figure quoted for 1997 is for the calendar year and for full-time appointments only. The number of part-time appointments can be determined only at disproportionate cost.

Figures from 1998 are obtained from the Judicial Appointments Annual Reports to Parliament for each of the financial years from 1998–2004 and include both full and part-time appointments.

	Number of appointments
1997	66
1998–99	634
1999–2000	464
2000–01	753
2001–02	915
2002–03	697
2003–04	480

Small Claims Procedure

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs how many cases have been brought using the small claims procedure in the last year for which information is available; and what proportion have been transferred to a higher court or procedure. [223484]

Mr. Lammy: All proceedings issued in the county court are issued using the same procedure. A small proportion of these are then allocated to the small claims track. The number of such claims cases dealt with during 2004 was 45,323. These cases are dealt with by a district judge in the county court. Information is not maintained centrally about cases transferred to a higher court or any other procedure.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220951]

Mr. Leslie: The Department has no record of placing for auction any surplus stock on eBay.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs what the value of sales of surplus assets from the Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220970]

Mr. Leslie: The proceeds from disposal of surplus assets since 2000–01 are shown as follows.

	Cash proceeds	Accrual proceeds
2000–01	8,206	8,206
2001–02	310	310
2002–03	4,194	4,194
2003–04	3,262	59,877

In line with the guidance in the Resource Accounting Manual and Government Accounting these figures are disclosed in the departmental Resource Accounts. Copies of the Resource Accounts are available in the Library of the Houses of Parliament.

The reason for the large difference between cash and accrual proceeds for 2003–04 is that payments are being made in stages with a further £56.6 million due to be received by the Department by the end of the 2006–07 financial year.

Travellers (Cambridgeshire)

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs how much Government funding has been allocated to the Cambridgeshire Travellers Initiative Project. [223374]

Mr. Lammy: The Cambridgeshire Travellers Initiative Project is a Partnership Initiative Budget (PIB) Project funded by the Legal Services Commission. The funding allocated to the project is £60,750 over 36 months (November 2003 to October 2006). All PIB funded projects are required to have at least 25 per cent. match funding. The Cambridgeshire Travellers Initiative Project receives its match funding in kind (covering costs such as office space and supervision) from the Ormiston Children and Families Trust.

HEALTH

Alzheimer's Disease

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the recommendation by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence that Reminyl, Aricept and Exelon should not be provided free on the NHS to patients with Alzheimer's disease and dementia. [221757]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has responded to the National Institute for Clinical Excellence's (NICE'S) consultation on its draft appraisal of drugs for the treatment of Alzheimer's disease; a copy of which is available in the Library. NICE will be issuing a final version of this new guidance later in the year, after considering responses to its consultation. Until then, its original 2001 appraisal continues to apply.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the Government's response to the consultation by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence on the cost effectiveness of Arisept, Excelon and Reminyl. [222690]

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the recommendation of the National Institute for Clinical Excellence not to use donepezil (Aricept) in the treatment of mild to moderate cases of Alzheimer's disease. [223094]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: I refer the hon. Members to the reply I gave my hon. Friend the Member for Monmouth (Mr. Edwards) on Wednesday 23 March.

Asthma

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children have been diagnosed with asthma in (a) England, (b) the East Midlands and (c) Leicester South constituency since 1997. [222894]

Dr. Ladyman: Information on the number of children diagnosed with asthma is not collected. However according to Asthma UK, there are over 1.1 million children in the United Kingdom who suffer from asthma.

Most cases of asthma are diagnosed and managed by general practitioners (GPs). The new GP contract which came into force on 1 April 2004 significantly benefits patients by improving the quality of care and widening the range of services available at GP surgeries.

The contract is supported by a quality and outcomes framework which resources and rewards GPs on the basis of how well they care for patients rather than simply the number of patients they treat, leading to good chronic disease management in the community. Asthma is one of the diseases included in the framework.

Cancelled Operations

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations have been cancelled in NHS hospitals in each of the past 10 years. [219399]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 March 2005]: The available information is shown in the table.

Chiropody

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the Government's plans are regarding the compilation and publication of the KT23 figures on chiropody; and if he will make a statement. [223308]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The Department plans to publish KT23 figures for the year 2004–05 in September.

As part of the initiative to reduce the burden of bureaucracy in the national health service, the KT23 return was reviewed during 2004. As a result of this [illegible] the return is to be discontinued from 1 April [illegible]. The total number of chiropody and podiatry contacts will continue to be collected by the Department for reference costing purposes.

Critical Care

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the optimal staffing levels for (a) level 1, (b) level 2 and (c) level 3 critical care beds; and what the average staffing levels have been in England for each level in each year since 1997. [222828]

Mr. Hutton: It is for national health service trusts to assess staffing within critical care, taking account of levels of patient dependency, and to ensure that there is an appropriate mix of staff to undertake the various tasks required of the service.

The information requested on average staffing levels for levels one, two and three care is not collected centrally.

Dentistry

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dental practices in Merseyside are accepting (a) children, (b) pensioners and (c) adult NHS patients, broken down by primary care trust. [223382]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information is shown in the table.

	Providing occasional national health service treatment to non registered patients	Registering charge exempt adults for NHS treatment	Registering charge paying adults for NHS treatment	Registering children aged 0–18 years for NHS treatment

Deafness

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Health through what mechanism he plans to ensure that the guidelines in the National Institute for Mental Health in England and Department of Health report, Mental Health and Deafness—"Towards Equity and Access"—Best Practice Guide, are effectively implemented. [222468]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The guidelines outlined in "Towards Equity and Access" will be implemented by primary care trusts in the normal way for national health service developments. They will be assisted in this task by an implementation group drawn from the voluntary sector, the National Institute for Mental Health in England and the providers of specialist services.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the total cost is of providing a digital hearing aid on the NHS including (a) assessment, (b) fitting, (c) follow-up and (d) purchase of the aid; [221995]

(2) what the (a) assessment, (b) fitting and (c) follow-up costs for a (i) digital hearing aid and (ii) an analogue hearing aid are; [221996]

(3) what costs are included in the NHS reference cost for the (a) assessment, (b) fitting and (c) follow-up of digital hearing aids on the NHS. [222687]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department collects unit cost and activity data from all national health service providers in England each financial year. This information is available on the Department's website at http://www.dh.gov.uk/PolicyAndGuidance/OrganisationPolicy/FinanceAndPlanning/NHSReferenceCosts/fs/en.

The latest data available are for the financial year 2003–04, but, following a change in accounting procedures, data on the costs of digital hearing aids are no longer included. For analogue aids the data show:

The average cost of an attendance with provision of a standard analogue aid was £63.

The average cost of an attendance with provision of a superior analogue aid (including directional control) was £88.

Under the heading of the fitting of hearing aids and counselling (including tinnitus) the average costs were:

Assessment—£50

Follow-up—£36.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 2 February 2005, Official Report, column 986W, on digital hearing aids, how many students he expects to graduate in the BSc in audiology in the next four years; how many such graduates he expects to recruit to the NHS; and how many patient journeys he expects to be added to capacity over that period. [222685]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is not collected centrally. Strategic health authorities (SHAs) plan to commission 171 Bachelors of Science in Audiology training places in 2004–05.

In line with our policy of shifting the balance of power, it is for primary care trusts (PCTs), in partnership with SHAs and other local stakeholders, to plan, develop and improve services for local people, including audiology services.

Employee Checks

Ms Shipley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps are taken to ensure that individuals deemed unsuitable to work with children, are not able to gain access to other vulnerable client groups. [223474]

Dr. Ladyman: The protection of vulnerable adults (PoVA) list started operating on 26 July 2004. Since that date any referral for inclusion on the Protection of Children's Act list, including ones already made, have also been considered for inclusion on the PoVA list, a process known as cross-referral. The staff who maintain both lists are co-located and work closely together.

Doctor/Nurse Numbers

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) doctors and (b) nurses on average were employed in (i) 1997 and (ii) 2003 at (A) Diana, Princess of Wales hospital, Grimsby and (B) Scunthorpe general hospital. [223460]

Drug Prices

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what changes have taken place in the price to the NHS of drugs produced by (a) GlaxoSmithKline and (b) other pharmaceutical companies in each of the last seven years. [221750]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The prices of branded prescription medicines and the profits that companies are allowed to make on their sales to the national health service are controlled by the Pharmaceutical Price Regulation Scheme. A new five-year scheme commenced on 1 January 2005 and included a price reduction of 7 per cent. on all products covered by the scheme, which will deliver annual savings of £370 million for the NHS in England. The 1999 scheme also included a price reduction of 4.5 per cent. and has delivered annual savings to the NHS of some £250 million. In addition, the reimbursement prices of four generic medicines were reduced in 2003 and 2004 to save £300 million a year.

The mechanisms and criteria for price changes are complex and apply to over 200 companies and thousands of products. The information requested can only be provided at a disproportionate cost.

EU Prescribing Regulations

Mr. Bruce George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what obligation the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency has for consulting patients on the implementation of new EU prescribing regulations in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [220528]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are currently no obligations for the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) to consult patients on the implementation of changes to product information resulting from European scientific advice or harmonised regulatory action. The MHRA's independent scientific advisory committee, the Committee on Safety of Medicines (CSM) has lay members. The advice of CSM informs the United Kingdom position in discussions within Europe. The MHRA values patients' views and opinions, which is reflected in the current proposals to reform the advisory committee structure. The proposals, which are subject to consultation, aim to increase lay members on these advisory committees.

Freedom of Information Act

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS personnel have been employed on processing requests under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 since 1 January. [222524]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The information requested is not held centrally.

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact on (a) costs to the NHS and (b) services to customers of the NHS of the coming into effect of the full provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 since 1 January. [222525]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Each national health service organisation is responsible for managing the impacts of changing governance arrangements, including Freedom of Information, within its own boundaries. Information about the detailed management of those governance arrangements is not held centrally.

General Practitioners

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Health who is responsible for commissioning general practitioner services for people living in residential care homes. [222464]

Mr. Hutton: All patients in residential care homes are entitled to the full range of personal medical services and the same rights of access to primary care as any other patient group. It is for primary care trusts to ensure general practitioner services are commissioned to meet the needs of their local population.

Mr. Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average salary of a GP was in real terms (a) in 1997 and (b) in the latest year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [222511]

Mr. Hutton: Figures for the relevant years are shown in the table. The final column uprates the 1997 figure using gross domestic product (GDP) deflator figures into 2003–04 terms.

Genito-Urinary Medicine

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent estimate he has made of the average waiting times for urgent genito-urinary medicine appointments. [223291]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Data on genito-urinary medicine clinic waiting times are collected and published on behalf of the Department by the Health Protection Agency. The latest data are contained in the report "GUM Waiting Times Audit November 2004", freely available on the Health Protection Agency's website at www.hpa.org.uk

Great Ormond Street Hospital

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations took place at the Great Ormond Street Hospital in each of the last 10 years. [222012]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is shown in the table. This shows that the number of finished consultant episodes at Great Ormond Street Hospital has risen every year since 1997.

Count of finished consultant episodes (FCEs) with an operation: Great Ormond Street Hospital National Health Service Trust, 1994–95 to 2003–04

2003–04	12,815

Health Statistics (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many pharmacies in Shrewsbury and Atcham there were in each year since 1997. [223153]

Dr. Ladyman: The information is not held centrally in the format requested.

Information prior to 2002 is available by health authority (HA). Shrewsbury and Atcham was within Shropshire HA. Table 1 shows the number of community pharmacies in Shropshire HA for the years 1997–98 to 2001–02.

Since 2002, the former Shropshire HA has been covered by Shropshire county primary care trust (PCT) and Telford and Wrekin PCT. Table 2 shows the number of community pharmacies for the years 2002–03 and 2003–04.

Table 1. Shropshire HA: number of community pharmacies

Health Technology Assessment

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the National Institute for Clinical Excellence will announce the topics for its health technology assessment programme for the 11th wave; and whether it will include adjuvant use of taxotere. [221787]

Ms Rosie Winterton: An announcement will be made shortly on the 11th wave of topics referred to the National Institute for Clinical Excellence.

Human Eggs

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many human eggs were donated for (a) fertility treatment and (b) research purposes in each year from 1991 to 2004. [222949]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) has informed me that information on human eggs donated by in vitro fertilisation (IVF) patients for the treatment of others is only available from 1999. The number of eggs donated is as shown in the table.

Human eggs donated for fertility treatment between 1999 and 2004

2000	15,164
2001	14,720
2002	12,664
2003	11,739
2004	12,139

[1] Information not collected prior to 1 April 1999.
Source:
Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority

Data on human eggs donated for research purposes are not collected routinely by the HFEA. However, information obtained by the HFEA from licensed centres suggests that approximately 1,500 human eggs have been donated for research purposes since 1991.

Data on the HFEA's register are currently being audited to improve the accuracy of the information available. It may therefore be subject to future amendment following the completion of the modernisation programme in March 2006.

Intermediate Care

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his Answer of 17 January 2005, Official Report, column 799W, on intermediate care, what further plans his Department has to increase access to intermediate care services on top of the NHS Plan targets for extra beds and care places; and what steps he expects local primary care trusts to take further to expand intermediate care services at a local level. [222612]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The key priorities of the Department are designed to ensure that local health and social care systems continue to invest in and develop the concept of intermediate care alongside mainstream primary, community and social care services.

In addition, we are investing £60 million over the years 2006–07 and 2007–08 to set up joint projects between councils, their national health service and other partners to test and evaluate innovative ways of establishing sustainable arrangements for prevention work including intermediate care services that will provide early and better targeted interventions for older people; which will maintain and enhance their independence and quality of life; and avoid the need for hospital or other high intensity care.

Medical Treatment (Coventry)

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients living in the Coventry area have had (a) operations and (b) other medical treatments funded by the NHS in European countries in each of the last three years. [223068]

Dr. Ladyman: This information is not collected centrally.

Mental Health Care (Suffolk)

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many mental health beds were available in Suffolk in each year since 1997. [223499]

Dr. Ladyman: The number of mental health beds available in Suffolk, local health partnership national health service trust is only held centrally for 2000–01, 2001–02, 2002–03 and 2003–04. The figures are shown in the following table.

	Number of beds
2000–01	324
2001–02	300
2002–03	289
2003–04	284

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many Suffolk residents were placed in mental health beds outside the county of Suffolk in each year since 1997. [223502]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Multiple Sclerosis

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the cost-sharing agreement in ensuring the provision of therapies for people with multiple sclerosis; and what assessment he has made of whether a similar model could be applied in the provision of treatments for Alzheimer's disease. [221868]

Dr. Ladyman: Currently over 9,000 people are being treated with disease modifying drugs under the multiple sclerosis (MS) risk sharing scheme. This exceeds the number, 7,500 to 9,000 or 12.5 to 15 per cent. of the estimated MS population, whom it was estimated would benefit at the start of the scheme in May 2002.

No assessment has been made of the feasibility of introducing similar arrangements for the provision of treatments for Alzheimer's disease.

Myasthenia Gravis

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he will take to increase the number of NHS (a) nurses and (b) consultants qualified to diagnose and treat myasthenia gravis. [222130]

Mr. Hutton: Post-registration training needs for national health service staff are determined against local NHS priorities, through appraisal processes and training needs analyses informed by local delivery plans and the needs of the service.

Access to training is affected by a number of factors, such as the availability of funding, whether staff can be released, the availability of appropriate training interventions, mentors and assessors. It would not be practical for the centre to be prescriptive on this.

National Programme for IT

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made on the national programme for IT as it affects community pharmacists; and if he will make a statement. [222325]

Mr. Hutton: Within the national health service national programme for information technology (NPfIT) a system for the electronic transmission of prescriptions (ETP) will make it easier for general practitioners (GPs) or other prescribers to issue prescriptions and more convenient for patients to collect their medicines. Prescriptions will be transferred electronically to a pharmacist or other dispensing contractor and to the Prescription Pricing Authority to authorise payment. Following development work, the ETP service went live successfully at an initial GP practice and community pharmacy in Keighley, West Yorkshire, on 21 February 2005.

Discussions with other potential initial implementer sites are underway. The purpose of the initial implementer sites is to prove the system, and to look at local prescribing and dispensing processes in light of the introduction of the new service. This will ensure that the benefits of the new service are maximised and lessons learned before a wider roll out.

The national programme has brought together GP and community pharmacy user groups to provide advice and guidance during the development and implementation of the service. For the time being patients will continue to get a paper prescription.

A wider roll out of the service will commence later in the year, with full implementation expected by 2007.

Neonatal Care

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will list the neonatal special care units which are operational; and how many cots are available in each; [222024]

(2) which hospitals with neonatal units (a) offer free on-site accommodation for parents and (b) make accommodation available but charge for it; [222026]

(3) if he will list the (a) neonatal intensive care units and (b) high dependency care neonatal units, which are operational; and how many cots are available in each; [222064]

(4) what the average stay of babies in (a) special care, (b) high dependency and (c) intensive neonatal units was in the last period for which figures are available; [222080]

(5) what his plans are for funding neonatal care over the next five years. [222081]

Dr. Ladyman: Information on the average daily number of cots available in wards classified as 'Intensive Care: Neonates' during 2003–04 has been placed in the Library.

Information on parental accommodation at neonatal units is not collected centrally, nor are data on the average length of stay for babies admitted to units.

An extra £20 million has been provided yearly to national health service primary care trusts (PCTs) for neonatal intensive care. This is in addition to the PCTs' general funding allocation, which is set to increase over the next five years and which may also be used to increase neonatal capacity where needed.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the nurse to baby ratio is in each neonatal unit in NHS hospitals; [222027]

(2) when he expects to achieve British Association of Perinatal Medicine Standards for nursing levels. [222689]

Dr. Ladyman: Information on the nurse-to-baby ratio in each neonatal unit is not collected centrally.

It is for local hospital trusts to ensure that there are appropriate nursing levels within neonatal units relative to the number and criticality of the infants on the unit, as set out in the report of the neonatal intensive care services review group, which was published in April 2003.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) whole time equivalent and (b) head count specialist neonatal (i) nurses and (ii) doctors have been employed in the NHS in each of the last 10 years. [222063]

Mr. Hutton: Information is not collected on the number of specialist neonatal nurses or doctors.

NHS Estate

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of the NHS estate was compliant with (a) fire safety and (b) health and safety legislation on 1 April 2004; and if he will make a statement. [217582]

Mr. Hutton: At 1 April 2004, the national health service reported an increase to 92.9 per cent. in the proportions of the NHS estate, based on the total patient occupied floor area, that was fully compliant with fire safety requirements. The equivalent figure for health and safety increased to 91.2 per cent. Trusts make every effort to remedy any concerns from local enforcement bodies as quickly as possible.

The small area of the estate reported as non-compliant covered a wide variety of conditions, including that which is just below standard, and these figures do not indicate significant levels of risk.

NHS Professionals

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how much funding NHS Professionals received from his Department in financial year 2003–04; and how much it will receive in 2004–05; [223505]

(2) if he will make a statement on recent performance against targets set for NHS Professionals; [223506]

(3) what percentage of bookings received by NHS Professionals in 2004 were successfully filled by NHS Professionals using its own nurse database; [223507]

(4) if he will break down his Department's funding for NHS Professionals by budget subhead; and whether Government funding is intended to cover running costs, with particular reference to (a) staff salaries, (b) recruitment costs, (c) infrastructure, (d) premises, (e) marketing and (f) advertising costs. [223508]

Mr. Hutton: The 2004–05 business plan for the NHS Professionals Special Health Authority is available from the Library. NHS Professionals is currently working with officials in the Department to develop a business plan and corporate strategy for 2005–06 and beyond so that it can become self-financing and prepare to take on independent status from 2007–08 as recommended by the Department's review of its arm's length bodies.

The Department invested £23.2 million in NHS Professionals 2003–04 and £26.6 million in 2004–05. This represents a contribution to the wider running costs and activities of NHS Professionals and is not directly attributable to specific budget headings. The flexible careers scheme was included until the establishment of the special health authority in April 2004. Funding for the scheme was £9,124,033 for 2003–04.

Information relating to the percentage of bookings successfully filled using the NHS Professionals database is not held centrally.

NHS Staff (Devon)

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) medical and (b) non-medical staff were employed by (i) East Devon Primary Care Trust, (ii) Mid Devon Primary Care Trust, (iii) North Devon Primary Care Trust, (iv) South Hams and West Devon Primary Care Trust, (v) Plymouth Primary Care Trust, (vi) Torbay Primary Care Trust, (vii) Teignbridge Primary Care Trust, (viii) Exeter Primary Care Trust, (ix) North Devon Healthcare NHS Trust, (x) Royal Devon and Exeter Healthcare NHS Trust, (xi) South Devon Healthcare NHS Trust, (xii) Plymouth Hospitals NHS Trust, (xiii) Devon Partnership NHS Trust, (xiv) South West Peninsula Strategic Health Authority and (xv) Westcountry Ambulance Services NHS Trust in each year since 2001. [223307]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The information requested is shown in the table.

NHS Office Equipment

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidelines or regulations govern the purchase of office equipment by NHS hospitals. [222136]

Mr. Hutton: As public bodies, national health service trusts must comply with all relevant United Kingdom and European procurement regulations.

The NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency has jointly negotiated separate national framework agreements for photocopiers (multi-functional devices) and fax machines with Office of Government Commerce buying solutions. These agreements require that all appointed suppliers comply with all the relevant health and safety legislation and the European waste electronic and electrical equipment Directive. They both also actively encourage support of sustainable development.

NHS Waiting Times

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting times were for patients at (a) West Suffolk Hospitals NHS Trust and (b) Addenbrookes Hospital NHS Trust for (i) general surgery, (ii) urology, (iii) trauma and orthopaedics, (iv) ear, nose and throat, (v) ophthalmology, (vi) oral surgery and (vii) obstetrics and gynaecology for each year since 2001–02. [222295]

Dr. Ladyman: The average waiting times for patients at West Suffolk Hospital National Health Service Trust and Addenbrookes Hospital NHS Trust for general surgery, urology, trauma and orthopaedics, ear, nose and throat, ophthalmology, oral surgery and obstetrics and gynaecology for each year since 2001–02 are shown in the tables.

NIMHE

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health, to whom the National Institute for Mental Health, England is accountable. [222015]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The National Institute for Mental Health in England (NIMHE) is part of the Modernisation Agency, which is part of the Department, until 31 March 2005. The Secretary of State for Health is ultimately accountable.

From 1 April 2005, the NIMHE will become part of the care services improvement partnership, hosted by the prescription pricing authority, and will be accountable to the care services directorate in the Department.

Each NIMHE regional development centre is hosted by a separate National health service organisation and is accountable, in the first instance, to the boards of their employing organisations, then to the NIMHE and ultimately to the Secretary of State for the central programme work they carry out.

Speech Therapy

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many complaints have been received by the NHS Healthcare Commission in each of the last six months regarding (a) waiting times for speech therapists and (b) access to speech therapists. [221155]

Mr. Hutton: I understand from the Chairman of the Healthcare Commission that information about complaints relating to speech therapists cannot be readily retrieved and separately identified without incurring disproportionate costs.

Nurses

Mr. Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average pay of a fully qualified NHS nurse was in real terms (a) in 1997 and (b) the last year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [222507]

Mr. Hutton: The average pay of a fully qualified national health service nurse is shown in the table. The earliest year for which the Department holds figures is 1999.

Average annualised earnings[1] of qualified nurses: 1999 and 2002—England

	Average annualised earnings[2] in real terms (£)[3] 1999	2002
2002–03 as reference year	22,900	24,500

Obesity

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of the adult population was obese in each of the last five years for which figures are available; how many individuals that percentage represents in actual terms in each of those years; how many obese persons he estimates died in each of those years; and how many individual adults became obese in each of those years. [217667]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Information is not available in exactly the form requested. The figures for the percentage of the adult population that was obese in the five years from 1999 to 2003, taken from the Health Survey for England, are shown in the table. The Health Survey for England provides estimates of the underlying population figures but, because of the small sample size any representation of the figures as a number of the total population should be treated with caution. Although Health Survey data for 2003 are weighted to provide a better match to the general population, un-weighted data for 2003 are shown here for consistency with previous years' data, which have not yet been weighted. Figures for the incidence of obesity are not available.

Adults classed as obese (body mass index greater than 30): 1999–2003

Obese as a proportion of the total sample (percentage)	20.0	21.2	22.4	22.5	23.2
Sample base[1] (number)	6,903	6,963	13,681	6,478	13,056
Estimated number of obese adults in the total population (million)	7.6	8.1	8.6	8.8	9.0

With regard to how many obese people died in each of those years, the fact that a person was obese is not routinely recorded at death certification. However, data on deaths where the underlying cause was certified as obesity or where this condition contributed to the death are collected. The following table shows the number of deaths in England and Wales where obesity was the underlying cause of death and where obesity contributed to the death, for the calendar years 1999 to 2003.

Number of deaths where obesity—International Classification of Diseases (ICD)—9278.0; ICD-10 E66—was the underlying cause of death or contributed to the death: England and Wales, 1999–2003

	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003
Underlying cause	165	161	183	182	219
Contributed to death	597	626	695	732	885
Total number of deaths from all causes	556,118	535,664	530,373	533,527	538,254

Opticians

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to bring dispensing opticians within the scope of NHS regulation; if he will change General Ophthalmic Services regulations to allow optometrists and ophthalmic opticians to refer patients directly to hospital eye services; what plans he has to amend section 24 of the Opticians Act 1989 to allow professionals other than ophthalmic opticians, optometrists and registered medical practitioners to conduct sight tests; for what reasons dispensing opticians are not paid for the general ophthalmic services they supply; and if he will make a statement on the progress of his review of the General Ophthalmic Service. [221960]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Dispensing opticians do not provide general ophthalmic services (GOS) and are therefore not paid by the national health service. We are planning to review the GOS arrangements shortly. This will include considering the relationship of dispensing opticians with the NHS, but we have no plans to amend section 24 of the Opticians Act 1989 to allow professionals other than ophthalmic opticians and registered medical practitioners to conduct sight tests.

The national health service (General Ophthalmic Services Supplementary List) and (General Ophthalmic Services Amendment and Consequential Amendment) Regulations 2005, which come into force on 1 April 2005, amend regulations to allow optometrists to refer patients directly to ophthalmic hospitals.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government has established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of his Department. [219947]

Ms Rosie Winterton: No new regional bodies, institutions, taskforces or panels have been established since 1997. Some new or merged bodies have however set up regional presences or offices including:

Commission for Patient and Public Involvement in Health.
Commission for Social Care Inspection.
Health Protection Agency.
Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency.
National Patient Safety Agency.
NHS Appointments Commission.
NHS Counter Fraud and Security Management Service.
NHS Litigation Authority.
NHS Pensions Agency.
NHS Professionals.
UK Transplant.

South West London and St. George's NHS Trust

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the forecast expenditure against budget for South West London and St. George's NHS Trust is in 2004–05. [223551]

Dr. Ladyman: The audited information in respect of the 2004–05 financial position of national health service trusts will be published in their individual annual accounts. This information will be available centrally in autumn 2005. We have no plans to publish un-audited information.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what role is fulfilled by the third special adviser in his Department. [210486]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Special advisers in this Department are appointed under the terms and conditions set out in "Code of Conduct for Special Advisers".

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list the speeches his special advisers made in an official capacity between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004, broken down by date. [210565]

Ms Rosie Winterton: All meetings held by special advisers and all speeches given by special advisers are conducted in accordance with the requirements of the "Code of Conduct for Special Advisers".

Springfield Mental Hospital

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have been sectioned at Springfield Mental Hospital, Tooting, in each of the last 10 years. [222001]

Dr. Ladyman: The information on the number of patients sectioned is not held centrally. Information on the number of detentions under the Mental Health Act, 1983, of patients, on admission and subsequent to admission in South West London and St. George's Mental Health National Health Service Trust is shown in the table. Information is collected on a NHS trust basis rather than by individual hospital units.

	Total detentions (on admission and subsequent to admission)	Detentions on admission	Detentions subsequent to admission
2003–04	935	539	396
2002–03	1,299	528	771
2001–02	1,180	588	592
2000–01	988	410	578
1999–2000	948	526	422
1998–99	796	489	307
1997–98	628	470	158
1996–97	589	403	186

Notes:

1. Figures exclude previous legislation (fifth schedule) and other acts.
2. A patient may be detained more than once.
3. Detentions subsequent to admission include changes from Section 136 to Sections 2 and 3 and Informal to Sections 2 and 3, 5(2) and 5(4).
4. The table shows detentions for South West London and St. George's Mental Health NHS Trust from 1996–97 to 2003–04. Data is not available in a comparable format for earlier years.

Smoking

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce adult smoking rates to 21 per cent. or less by 2010 will be met; [219247]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce adult smoking rates among routine and manual groups to 26 per cent. or less by 2010 will be met. [219248]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The public service agreement (PSA) targets for smoking prevalence in 2010 were set in summer 2004. A delivery plan for the White Paper, "Choosing Health", has been developed in consultation with a wide range of stakeholders to contribute to achieving the PSA target.

The delivery plan, together with the tobacco control strategy currently in place, will see an expansion of the national health service stop smoking services and additional support to help smokers quit; further measures to reduce peoples exposure to second-hand smoke; further restrictions on tobacco advertising and promotion; continued highly effective national smoking campaigns; work with Her Majesty's Customs and Excise to reduce the supply of smuggled and counterfeit tobacco and measures to combat underage sales. All these measures will contribute to delivery of the PSA target.

Latest prevalence figures, for 2003, published in December 2004 are shown in the following table.

Prevalence of cigarette smoking (persons aged 16 and over, England)

Percentage	2003
Routine and manual socio-economic group	32
All persons	25

NORTHERN IRELAND

Air Links (Europe)

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what support the Government are providing to facilitate the reintroduction of a direct flight between Northern Ireland and Brussels. [223189]

Mr. Gardiner: To date an application for support to the Air Route Development Fund for a Brussels route has not been made by any of the Northern Ireland Airports in relation to a Brussels route. The Fund is fully committed at present and consideration of any further new routes must await the outcome of the current review of the Scheme.

Asthma

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many asthma-related admissions have been made to hospitals in the Province in the last 12 months. [223661]

Angela Smith: During 2003–04 (the latest year for which information is available) there were 2,515 admissions to hospitals in Northern Ireland where the primary diagnosis was asthma.

Cannabis

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to his answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1653W, on cannabis, how many of those arrested for (a) possession and (b) sale of cannabis in each police district command unit area in Northern Ireland since its reclassification were prosecuted. [223305]

Mr. Pearson: To date a total of 81 persons have been proceeded against for offences of possession or intent to supply class C drugs during the period 29 January 2004 to 31 January 2005. A number of cases in relation to this period are still pending in the courts.

It is not possible to provide a breakdown of prosecutions by police district command units.

Children (Street Selling)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what Police Service of Northern Ireland investigations are ongoing into young children acting as street sellers in central and south Belfast; how many arrests have been made in connection with this problem; and what efforts are being made to prosecute those who have organised such activities. [221785]

Mr. Pearson: The Regulatory Services Department of Belfast city council takes the lead on the issue of illegal street trading. Since July 2004 Enforcement Officers from the Regulatory Services Department, supported by the PSNI, have conducted a total of 21 operations aimed at illegal flower selling. As a result of these operations a significant number of real and imitation flowers to the value of £64,750 have been seized.

No persons are currently being prosecuted by Belfast city council for selling flowers in Belfast city centre. To date no arrests have been made by police officers in relation to this issue.

Economy (Greater Antrim)

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the economic impact of the Junction 1 retail park on the greater Antrim area economy since its opening. [223172]

Mr. Gardiner: Government have made no such estimate.

EU Nitrates Directive

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his latest estimate is of the cost to farmers in the Province of compliance with the EU Nitrates Directives; and what public funds and reliefs are being allocated to assist with the costs. [223174]

Mr. Pearson: Officials have been working closely with the industry in developing the Nitrates Directive Action Programme proposals that are currently subject to consultation and include measures to address both nitrogen and phosphorus.

Details of the economic cost of compliance are outlined in the Nitrates Directive Consultation Paper, which was published on 21 February 2005. A copy of this document is available from www.dardni.gov.uk.

The Department of Agriculture and Rural Development has made available £45 million under the Farm Nutrient Management Scheme for capital grant support to assist compliance with the Nitrates Directive. A phased approach to implementation has also been drawn up to assist farmers.

Global Point International Business Park

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the Answer of 3 March 2005, Official Report, column 1328W, on Global Point International Business Park, for what reasons the first operational company expected to locate at the Business Park is conditional upon completion of the public inquiry into the Belfast Metropolitan Area Plan; and when he expects the inquiry to conclude. [221195]

Mr. Gardiner: The draft Belfast Metropolitan Area Plan (BMAP) has zoned additional lands for employment/industry at Ballyhenry. These lands are identified as a single zoning along with the existing Invest NI Global Point site.

The weight that the Planning Service would give to the draft BMAP in determining Invest NFs current application for the development of Global Point depends on a number of factors including the representations received by BMAP during the consultation period. Work is on-going on the assessment and collation of all representations received up to the closing date of 25 January 2005.

Until the impact of BMAP on the current application is determined, Invest NI has had to assume that the Ballyhenry lands will be considered as a single zoning. From liaison with Planning Service it is understood that issues concerning zoning will probably be required to be addressed at public inquiry, hence the response to the hon. Member's earlier question (219688).

It is too early in the process to give an indication of when a public inquiry will be held to consider representations to the draft BMAP.

Invest Northern Ireland

Mr. Hume: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when the new building proposed in Derry by Invest Northern Ireland was agreed in principle by the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Investment; if he will make a statement on the progress with the project; how many evaluations of the project have been carried out; and what target date he has set for the commencement of the building. [223365]

Mr. Gardiner: Ministerial approval, which allowed the project to proceed to final negotiation of the legal contracts with the preferred developer, was granted on 10 December 2004. These negotiations have proven to be difficult. However Invest NI is making every possible effort within the requirements of public accountability to reach a satisfactory and timely resolution to the outstanding issues. Other than the normal tender evaluation process and an associated economic appraisal, there has been no subsequent evaluation of the project. A target date for the commencement of building cannot be established until completion of the contract negotiations and legal documentation.

Northern Ireland Assembly

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the level of payment is for MLAs who are members of the Northern Ireland Assembly Commission; when the payment was authorised; by whom; and what the responsibilities of those individuals have been since the Assembly was suspended. [222917]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Under the Northern Ireland Assembly (Members Salaries) Determination 1999 as provided for by section 47 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998, members of the Assembly Commission received an increased salary entitlement of £10,864.

Following suspension of the Assembly, I made the Northern Ireland Assembly (Members Salaries) (Amendment) Determination 2002 which had the effect of reducing the increased entitlement for members of the Assembly Commission to zero from 5 November 2002.

Under paragraph 8 of the schedule to the Northern Ireland Act 2000, the Assembly Commission is unable to meet and its functions are exercised by me.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland for how long Members of the Northern Ireland Assembly will continue to be paid salaries and allowances while the Assembly remains in suspension. [223685]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The current salaries of Members of the Assembly are kept under regular review. However I fully recognise that continuing to pay these amounts is not an option which can be sustained indefinitely.

Police Stations

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his plans are for (a) opening hours and (b) allocation of manpower to police stations at (i) Toome, (ii) Randalstown, (iii) Crumlin and (iv) Templepatrick in each year from 2005 to 2009. [223170]

Mr. Pearson: The current opening hours in Antrim DCU are as follows:

Antrim—24 hour opening.

Crumlin—Monday 3 pm to 5 pm, Tuesday 5 pm to 7 pm, Wednesday 5 pm to 7 pm, Friday 5 pm to 7 pm and Saturday 5 pm to 7 pm.

Randalstown—5 pm to 7 pm Monday to Saturday, closed Sunday and public holidays.

Templepatrick—Not open to public.

Toome—Not open to public.

The allocation of resources and opening hours of all stations in the DCU are kept under constant review by the DCU Commander.

Renewable Energy

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what percentage of electricity in Northern Ireland is produced from renewable sources. [224004]

Mr. Gardiner: An up-to-date estimate of the percentage of total electricity which will be supplied in Northern Ireland from indigenous renewable sources in 2004–05 is 3.2 per cent. If imports of electricity obtained from renewable sources are included this figure rises to 5.5 per cent.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what progress has been made in reaching targets regarding the provision of renewable energy in Northern Ireland. [224005]

Mr. Gardiner: Northern Ireland's single renewable energy target is that, by 2012, 12 per cent. of all electricity supplied to Northern Ireland consumers will come from indigenous renewable generation. Annual targets have not been set, however in the past year total electricity supplied from renewable energy sources in Northern Ireland has increased from 2.7 per cent. to 3.2 per cent.

If imports of electricity obtained from renewable sources are included this figure rises to 5.5 per cent.

Roads

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps he has taken to consult local farmers and residents between Randalstown and Toome on the proposed building of a new motorway to replace the existing A road. [223169]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Roads Service (Dr. Malcolm McKibbin) has been asked to write to the hon. Gentleman in response to this question.

Letter from Malcolm McKibbin to Mr. David Burnside, dated March 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question about what steps he has taken to consult local farmers and residents between Randalstown and Toome on the proposed building of a new motorway to replace the existing A road. I have been asked to reply as these issues fall within my responsibility as Chief Executive of Roads Service.

The A6 Randalstown to Toome Road forms part of the Key Transport Corridor linking Belfast and Londonderry. In recognition of its strategic importance, Roads Service is proposing to replace the existing road with a high standard dual carriageway from the end of the M22, west of Randalstown, to Castledawson, incorporating the recently completed Toome Bypass.

As part of this process, Roads Service held a public exhibition to inform local farmers and residents of progress on the planning of the scheme. The purpose of the public exhibition was to obtain comments on the alternative alignments that have been developed. Members of the public, whose property may be affected by these alignments, were individually invited to visit the exhibition and to express their views or preferences and the exhibition was advertised in the press. All visitors had the opportunity to record their comments at the exhibition, by completing a questionnaire, or by writing to Roads Service at a later date.

Following the public exhibition, Roads Service officials attended meetings with local representatives and landowners, to receive further comments and, where possible, to address their concerns.

Roads Service officials are now considering all comments received during this consultation process and will take these into account in the selection of the preferred alignment. If necessary, a further public exhibition will be held before a single preferred alignment is proposed. The preferred route alignment will then, of course, be subject to the statutory procedures process, which gives further opportunity for public comment.

I hope this information is helpful.

RUC Garden of Remembrance

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what arrangements are in place for (a) foreign politicians, (b) hon. Members from Great Britain and (c) representatives of the media visiting the Province to be shown the RUC Garden of Remembrance at the Police Service of Northern Ireland headquarters at Knock, Belfast. [223683]

Mr. Pearson: The RUC GC Garden is open to anyone who wishes to visit it. All visits to the garden are arranged on an appointment basis through the RUC GC Foundation which has responsibility for the garden. Visitors are met and escorted around the garden by one of the many volunteer guides.

Although the foundation does not keep specific records of who has visited the garden, I can confirm that since it opened in September 2003 almost 7,000 people have visited it, including a number of Members of Parliament.

SCOTLAND

Dangerous Goods (Transportation)

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland (1) who is responsible for policing the regulations relating to dangerous goods safety advisers in Scotland; [223134]

(2) which Government departments in Scotland are responsible for (a) the Transport of Dangerous Goods (Safety Advisors) Regulations 1999, as amended and (b) the Carriage of Dangerous Goods and use of Transportable Pressure Equipment Regulations 2004 (S.I., 2004, No. 568). [223136]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 21 March 2005]: Policy responsibility on transport of dangerous goods in Scotland is reserved and rests with the Secretary of State for Transport.

The Transport of Dangerous Goods (Safety Advisors) Regulations 1999 were revoked by the Carriage of Dangerous Goods and use of Transportable Pressure Equipment Regulations 2004.

The 2004 Regulations (SI 2004/568) were drafted by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) after consultation with a wide range of organisations in Scotland and elsewhere. The Regulations are the policy responsibility of the Department for Transport. Competent authority functions are primarily shared between the Department for Transport and the HSE.

The HSE are the lead agency for enforcement of the legislation relating to dangerous goods safety advisors. The Vehicle and Operator Services Agency and the police also have enforcement responsibilities under a Memorandum of Understanding with the HSE.

Fishing Industry

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland when he last met the Scottish Executive Minister for Environment and Rural Development to discuss prospects for the Scottish fishing industry. [223468]

Mrs. McGuire: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with Scottish Ministers about a wide range of matters.

Office of Civil Nuclear Security

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State who is responsible for the Office of Civil Nuclear Security in Scotland; and whether the Office has field inspectors based solely in Scotland. [223135]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The Secretary of State for Trade and Industry is responsible for nuclear security in the UK, and this is carried out on her behalf by the Director of Civil Nuclear Security.

Office for Civil Nuclear Security inspectors are allocated responsibility for sites according to the security need; there are none dedicated solely to Scotland.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220944]

Mrs. McGuire: The Scotland Office has sold no surplus stock on the eBay auction website.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220966]

Mrs. McGuire: The value of sales of surplus Scotland Office assets since 2000–01 was £567.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Abandoned Cars

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been spent on dealing with abandoned cars in (a) Leicester and (b) England since 1997. [223642]

Alun Michael: The Defra Abandoned Vehicle Survey of 2002–03 reported that 111,000 was spent on the abandoned vehicle service in Leicester City. Over the same period it is estimated that the cost for England as whole was £26.9 million. We do not hold figures for other years.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether she publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of her Department; and if she will make a statement. [222587]

Alun Michael: Defra's Departmental Health and Safety Unit publish an annual report each April, which gives detail on all aspects of the core-Department's safety performance, including accident statistics. The agency safety advisers also provide this data for their own agency reports. Historically, the Defra departmental report has also published data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of the Department.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of her Department are in place; and if she will make a statement. [222618]

Alun Michael: Within the core-Department accident reports are collated centrally by the Departmental Health and Safety Unit. These are investigated by the internal health and safety specialists and the risk assessments relating to that activity form part of the investigation. A formal programme of auditing is undertaken in order to spot any accident/ill-health trends and focus risk management arrangements to reduce accidents/incidents.

Under current policy line managers must investigate each incident in relation to the effectiveness of their health and safety procedures and monitor all such reports in relation to their local risk assessment programme.

Defra agencies have equivalent accident reporting procedures and monitoring arrangements in compliance with the Defra Safety Policy.

Area Aid

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the level of area aid scheme inaccuracy was as a percentage of total claims in each EU country in the last year for which figures are available. [222976]

Alun Michael: The following table shows IACS inspection results on declarations of area for 2002 (relating to claims paid in 2003).

Member state	Applications with errors (percentages)

Bees

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will take steps to ensure that under the proposed EU directive 2004/28/EC on Veterinary Medicines (a) medicines available to beekeepers for the treatment of pests and diseases will be exempt from the regulations set out and will not require a prescription and (b) the proposed inspectors will be qualified experts who provide and use antibiotics in the treatment of disease and not veterinary surgeons who have no training in bee health. [221410]

Mr. Bradshaw: The amending directive, 2004/28/EC, was published by the European Commission on 30 April 2004 following a major review of EU medicines legislation. Member states are required to implement its provisions by 30 October 2005. It includes a provision requiring all medicines for food-producing animals, including bees, to be available only on veterinary prescription.

This provision was introduced with the intention of strengthening the control of these medicines and related consumer safeguards. While there are valid reasons for restricting some veterinary medicines to prescription supply, we do not consider this appropriate for all medicines for use in food-producing animals. Neither the Commission, nor the majority of member states supported the UK view and the requirement was consequently included in the amending directive.

However, the UK successfully negotiated the inclusion of a provision that allows medicines that meet certain criteria, to be agreed subsequently, to be exempt from the prescription requirement. This provision also allows the current distribution arrangements to remain until a list of exemption criteria is agreed, or until January 2007 if no list has been agreed by then. The exemption list is to be proposed by the Commission and voted on by the member states. We are well aware of concerns expressed by UK beekeepers and will continue to argue strongly for medicines for routine use in bees that do not meet any of the other criteria for prescription only status to be included on the list.

In addition to pressing for routine bee medicines to be exempted from the prescription requirement, we have proposed new distribution categories for the UK that include tiered categories of prescription only medicines. If adopted, these will comply with the directive's provisions while allowing most medicines for food-producing animals that are currently available without prescription to be supplied by pharmacists or suitably qualified persons without the need to involve a veterinary surgeon.

Antimicrobial resistance is a serious problem in human medicine resulting in increasing concerns about the use of antimicrobial products, including antibiotics, in human medicine, veterinary medicine, agriculture and horticulture. It is therefore likely that any veterinary medicines containing antibiotics will be under veterinary control. There is one antibiotic authorised for use in bees, for the treatment of Nosema. Officials at the Veterinary Medicines Directorate will be discussing how this antibiotic is to be supplied with beekeeper representatives.

Betton Abbots Landfill Site

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on the long-term viability of the Betton Abbots landfill site. [223150]

Mr. Morley: Betton Abbots landfill site is operated by Shropshire Waste Management (SWM). In 2002, SWM applied to the Environment Agency for a permit under the provisions of the Pollution Prevention and Control (PPC) Regulations to significantly extend the existing site. As part of the application process the company needed to demonstrate that the underlying groundwater resources would not be affected.

A survey carried out by SWM for the extension of the landfill demonstrated that the geology beneath the site is primarily sandstone, which contains a major aquifer. Environment Agency guidance, based on the requirements of the EU Landfill Directive, precludes the authorisation of any new landfill sites located on major aquifers unless substantial low permeable barriers such as certain types of clay protect them. This does not exist at Betton Abbots and as a consequence SWM have withdrawn their permit application.

In addition to the pollution control issues, there are outstanding planning issues before the site could be considered for further importation of waste materials, these relate mainly to the provision of a new road into the site.

Carbon Emissions (National Allocation Plan)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what criteria she used in making the decision that 736 million tonnes of carbon emissions was appropriate for the National Allocation Plan; for what reasons steps were taken to increase the amount to 756 million tonnes; and what assessment she has made of the impact of not achieving the increase. [223500]

Mr. Morley: The provisional total of 736 million tonnes included in the UK's National Allocation Plan was calculated by estimating the projected emissions from the sectors covered by the EU ETS and subtracting the additional savings of 5.5 $MtCO_2$ which the Government decided the EU ETS would deliver. This calculation was based on provisional emission projections and this was made clear when submitting the UK's National Allocation Plan (NAP) to the European Commission in April 2004.

Following the finalisation of emissions projections and Climate Change Agreement targets UK emissions for the period 2005–07 are now estimated to be around 56 $MtCO_2$ higher than in April last year. These latest projections are more consistent with recent historic emissions levels.

Rather than increase the total by that amount, the UK proposed to increase the total number of allowances by around 20 million to 756 million, which ensures that the UK strikes a balance between the concerns of business about potential competitiveness impacts and the UK's leadership on climate change. However, the Commission has made it clear that it does not consider that the provisional total of 736 million allowances can be exceeded and is not prepared to consider any increase.

On 11 March the Government announced their intention to issue allowances in line with the NAP approved by the Commission (736 million) as soon as possible to allow operators to fully participate in the EU ETS, while initiating legal proceedings against the Commission, seeking to require the Commission to consider the substance of the amendment.

In accordance with earlier announcements, the additional reduction will be taken from the electricity supply industry. As this industry is more insulated from international competition than others, this approach will have less of an impact on UK competitiveness than reducing the allocation to other industries. The Government do not expect this approach will have a material impact on electricity prices which will reflect the price of allowances in the EU-wide market, rather than the number of allowances allocated free to generators. In the event of a successful challenge, the additional allowances would be distributed between the installations in the Electricity Supply Industry (ESI) sector.

Countryside (Access)

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what research the Countryside Agency has carried out to determine the effects of the introduction of the provisions of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 in the

(a) South East and (b) lower North West; and how many members of the public have taken advantage of this new access provision; [222379]

(2) what effect the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 has had on the (a) numbers of people accessing the countryside and (b) number of walks undertaken in the (i) South East and (ii) lower North West areas; [222380]

(3) what plans (a) her Department and (b) the Countryside Agency have for monitoring the effects on (i) access and (ii) outdoor recreation of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000. [222381]

Alun Michael: The Countryside Agency is developing a monitoring programme on the effects of the introduction of the new right of access under the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 which will provide information at a national and regional level on the numbers of people taking advantage of the new right.

The monitoring programme will also explore issues such as visitor behaviour, enjoyment and satisfaction with access rights in more depth. The main elements of the monitoring programme include additional interviews in the continuing England Day Visitor Survey, which measures public use of access land, and using an Omnibus Survey to track public awareness and understanding of access rights and of what constitutes responsible visitor behaviour both in the countryside in general and in relation to access land. In addition there will be on-site surveys to establish a more in-depth profile of visitors and visitor behaviour on access land and an on-line (website) survey of access land users seeking to establish qualitative data on views, perceptions and levels of public satisfaction in relation to access land. The Agency's monitoring programme will include a land manager survey to assess the impact of the new rights of access on land managers and also a nature conservation monitoring element through an extension to the Breeding Bird Survey, operated by the British Trust for Ornithology.

The England Day Visitor Survey records day visits to the countryside and will for the first time separately identify visits to open access land and to English National Parks. The Agency will publish the results of the England Day Visitor Survey and Omnibus Survey in April 2006. The report will include an assessment of the impact of the Act on the number of people accessing the countryside including the effect on the number of walks undertaken in the South East and Lower North West. This assessment will be possible once a full year of data is available to compare against the visits recorded by the Great Britain Day Visit Survey 2002–03. The other elements of the monitoring programme are scheduled to commence from summer 2005 and the Agency will publish reports from these early in 2006.

Decontamination (Corby)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions (a) she and (b) the Environment Agency have had with Corby borough council concerning the decontamination of the land formerly occupied by the British Steel ironworks at Corby. [222274]

Mr. Morley: My officials have been in contact with Corby borough council over funding of intrusive investigations at various sites. Subsequently, the Environment Agency has been asked by the council under Part IIA of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 to inspect on its behalf one site in the ironworks area, and other sites in the borough, as potential special sites. They are meeting to discuss this shortly. Investigations under Part IIA help to establish the level and nature of any risk to human health or the environment from land contamination, and may inform decisions about subsequent remediation.

The Agency has also been consulted by the borough about several planning applications, as a statutory consultee under Town and Country Planning legislation for certain types of application. Such consultations enable the Agency to comment on risks to controlled waters in connection with development proposals.

Departmental Budget

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on her Department's budget for 2005–06; and what the projected change in expenditure is for each component of the budget in each year between 2004–05 and the latest year for which projections have been made. [223034]

Alun Michael: The 2004 Spending Review Settlement provided Defra with its Departmental Expenditure Limit (DEL) profile for the years 2005–06, 2006–07 and 2007–08, as shown in the following table. In 2004–05 the Department's DEL is £3,085 million resource and £331 million capital.

£ million

	2005–06	2006–07	2007–08
Resource	3,276	3,314	3,420
Capital	339	339	339
Total DEL	3,615	3,653	3,759

In addition, Defra estimates Annually Managed Expenditure (AME) and income from the EU as set out in the following table.

£ million

	Annually managed expenditure (AME)	EU income
2004–05	2,445	-3,280
2005–06	2,351	-3,393
2006–07	2,367	-3,258
2007–08	2,375	-3,211

A more detailed breakdown of planned spending will be published in the departmental report 2005 later this year.

Environment Campaigns

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will list the national environment campaigns promoted by the Government since 1997; and what the (a) resource costs, (b) capital expenditure costs and (c) staffing costs were of each at today's prices. [208189]

Alun Michael: The information is as follows.

Waste and resources action programme[1]

2003–04	3,574	3,650
2004–05	[2]4,542	4,542

[1] In addition to this expenditure Defra allocated an additional £1 million to local authorities through ENCAMS for the Local Environmental Quality Pathfinder Programme that forged partnerships between local authorities and the local community. Some of the projects developed reduced fast food litter, railway land litter and schools litter.

[2] Encams baseline grant was increased by £1 million in 2004–05, and is being increased by a further £1 million in 2005–06.

Government funding is provided to ENCAMS (formerly Tidy Britain Group) annually. This funding supports ENCAMS work on a range of local environmental quality issues, including programmes to discourage littering.

[1] This campaign served to raise public awareness and to encourage individual action to help the environment. However, in the absence of an underpinning legal requirement, it was considered to be of lower priority than the Department's other environmental programmes which bodies such as the Energy Savings Trust and NGOs will deliver. Winding down the campaign will help deliver savings of £3.4 million pa from 2005–06 onwards.

Staff and resource figures are not available.

All expenditure at 2004–05 prices has been calculated using the GDP deflator tables from HM Treasury.Since similar questions were answered there have been changes in accounting practices which have given rise to variations in some of the figures given in this answer.

G8 Environment and Development Ministers Meeting

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what matters were (a) discussed and (b) agreed at the special joint meeting of G8 Environment and Development Ministers in Derby on 16–17 March; if she will (i) post on the departmental website and (ii) place in the Library copies of (A) papers submitted and (B) the final declaration of the meeting; and if she will make a statement. [223581]

Mr. Morley: At the G8 Environment and Development Ministerial on 17–18 March Ministers met to discuss climate change in Africa and action to tackle illegal logging and had informal discussions on the Commission for Africa Report, reform of humanitarian aid and the importance of biodiversity for sustainable livelihoods. Ministers also met with civil society representatives.

Ministers agreed that African countries are particularly vulnerable to climate variability and climate change and discussed what more needed to be done, including assistance to reduce vulnerability by building resilience to climate variability and by developing capacity to adapt to climate change. Ministers then identified the key elements needed for an effective international response as building scientific capacity and integrating measures to address the impact of climate change in international development assistance and regional and national development plans. The vulnerability of developing countries to climate change in Africa and throughout the developing world will be discussed by Heads of State and Government at the Gleneagles summit in July.

G8 Ministers agreed that further action was needed to help support timber producing countries to improve governance of their forest resources and tackle wildlife trafficking and to deal with the demand for illegally logged timber, including action to halt the import and marketing of such timber, and using public procurement policies. Ministers also agreed that illegal logging policy experts would meet to review progress towards these commitments in 2006.

Copies of the papers for and outcomes from the ministerial will be placed in the Library of the House and on the Defra website.

Inspection and Enforcement Costs

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost of inspection and enforcement activities carried out by (a) her Department and (b) regulatory bodies and agencies sponsored by her Department was in (i) 1996–97 and (ii) 2003–04. [217778]

Alun Michael: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Plastic Waste

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government is taking to encourage (a) retailers and (b) manufacturers to reduce the amount of plastic waste produced in the UK. [223539]

Mr. Morley: The Government are taking a number of measures to reduce the amount of waste produced, including plastic waste.

The Government-funded Envirowise programme offers UK businesses free advice and support on practical ways to minimise their waste and reduce their environmental impact.

Additional revenue generated from increases to the landfill tax will be redistributed to business through the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) programme to encourage and support resource efficiency, waste minimisation and diversion of waste away from landfill.

As part of their Retailer Initiative, the Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) are working with retailers to reduce waste from supermarkets. Part of this work is looking at design issues around packaging and the scope for reduction.

There are two sets of regulations that encourage producers and retailers to minimise packaging. The Producer Responsibility Obligations (Packaging Waste) Regulations 1997 (as amended) are intended to increase the recovery and recycling of packaging waste and incorporate a cost incentive to reduce the overall amount of packaging. The Packaging (Essential Requirements) Regulations 2003 place a number of requirements on all packaging placed on the market in the UK, including a requirement that packaging should be manufactured so that the packaging volume and weight are limited to the minimum adequate amount to maintain the necessary level of safety, hygiene and acceptance for the packed product and for the consumer.

Protected Birds

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans she has to extend the protected bird species listed in Schedule 4 to the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981; and if she will make a statement. [221457]

Mr. Morley [holding answer 23 March 2005]: In 2002 Defra carried out a full public consultation on the bird registration scheme with the key results that the scheme be retained with some minor changes to the administration process and that a study be commissioned by the Joint Nature Conservation Committee (JNCC) firstly to agree scientific criteria for including species on Schedule 4 and then to apply those criteria to candidate species.

The study has now been completed and the recommendations in their report are likely to form the basis for a full public consultation where interested parties will be invited to comment on the proposals and to submit further evidence for consideration.

Single Farm Payment

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what impact she expects the delay in the single farm payment to have on smaller farmers. [222298]

Alun Michael: The Rural Payments Agency has announced that it expects to begin payments under the single payment scheme in February 2006, well before the deadline of 30 June 2006 set in EU legislation. To the extent that farmers have made plans based on receiving a payment earlier, they may face cash-flow problems. Whether that happens in practice depends very much on the individual circumstances of the farm business rather than its size.

Mr. McLoughlin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what criteria were used to define severely disadvantaged areas; and for what reason the Moorland Line was not used in determining areas eligible for the lower rate of the single farm payment. [222463]

Alun Michael: The severely disadvantaged areas (SDAs) form part of the less favoured areas (LFAs) of the UK as listed in EU Council Directive 84/169/EEC. The LFAs are further divided for domestic purposes between SDAs and disadvantaged areas (DAs), the distinction being one of degree, most significantly of land quality. Upland SDAs are disadvantaged relative to non-SDA land in respect of a number of handicaps. These include higher altitude, harsher climate with a shorter growing season, low soil fertility, difficult topography, and remoteness.

Both the SDAs and the Moorland Line have been taken into account in establishing English areas for the purpose of the single payment scheme (SPS.) In view of the considerable redistributional effects that would flow from a single flat rate payment under the SPS, it was initially concluded that England would be divided into two areas, SDAs and other land. However, following representations from a number of key stakeholders (including the NFU and the CLA) this has been amended so that the area boundaries that will apply in England divide the country into three, broadly corresponding to land types and still using existing boundaries. One area comprises the upland severely disadvantaged area (SDA), another the Moorland Line within the SDA and the third area will be all land outside the SDA.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the value of sales of surplus assets from her Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220973]

Alun Michael: The following table shows the value of sales of surplus assets in fiscal years since the Department was formed in 2001, up to 31 January 2005 in the current year. There are no figures provided for Defra's predecessor Departments as this information could be provided only by incurring disproportionate cost.

2001–02	18,024
2002–03	7,879
2003–04	18,892

Timber

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of whether Denmark's inclusion of social criteria in its policy for timber procurement complies with the requirements of the European Forestry Certification Scheme; and if she will make a statement on the implications for inclusion of social criteria in UK policy. [222183]

Mr. Morley: The UK Government accept that social criteria are complementary to environmental and economic criteria in the context of sustainable forest management and that international guidelines, including the Pan European Operational Level Guidelines, recognise this principle. The UK Government timber procurement policy has been devised so that one outcome will be the enhancement of forest dependent peoples' well being through an increase in the amount of legal timber and timber from well managed forests being supplied.

European procurement directives require public sector contracting authorities to limit their contract specifications to criteria that are relevant to the product or service being purchased. The UK Government believe that forest dependent people play a part in sustaining forest health and vitality. However, as far as the procurement directives are concerned, their well being does not appear to be sufficiently relevant to the subject matter of contracts to warrant inclusion as contract specification criteria. The UK's interpretation of the directives is based on legal advice and on advice from officials responsible for procurement policy. It would appear that a different view is taken by Denmark. However, if it were ever to be established beyond reasonable doubt that the well being of forest dependent people could feasibly be included as a requirement in public sector contracts, then the UK Government would reconsider its position.

Trade

Mr. Wills: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of the implications of the World Trade Organisation appellate body's decision on the Brazil-United States cotton case WT/DS267/AB/R for the eligibility of the Common Agricultural Policy's single payment scheme as a green box measure as defined by the WTO. [222589]

Alun Michael: The implications, if any, of the appellate body's ruling are not immediately apparent, not least because it does not set a directly applicable precedent under WTO law, and an individual case relating to the single payment scheme would be considered on its own merits. However, we will discuss further with the European Commission which has indicated that it will also be considering the implications of the ruling for the EU.

Warm Front (Newcastle-under-Lyme)

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many pensioners have received assistance from the Warm Front Scheme in Newcastle-under-Lyme. [223232]

Mr. Morley: Between the launch of the Warm Front scheme in June 2000 and the end of February 2005 approximately 1,100 pensioner households in Newcastle-under-Lyme received assistance from the scheme.

Of these, 440 received assistance under Warm Front and 650 from Warm Front Plus.

Waste Management

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) whether she met a delegation of representatives from the waste management industry on 15 March; and if she will make a statement; [222966]

(2) what plans the Government have to ease the zero-tolerance policy towards contamination of sorted municipal waste. [222967]

Mr. Morley: I met with representatives of the waste management industry on 15 March to discuss the issue of exports of household recyclables.

Exports of waste destined for disposal are prohibited from the UK. Export of mixed municipal waste is regarded as waste destined for disposal and is thus prohibited. Suitably separated, clean recyclable material is acceptable for export subject to certain controls, which may require pre-notification of the shipment. Operators must check the relevant rules. The Environment Agency has recently issued a regulatory guidance note on this issue.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans the Government have to change the guidelines to local authorities on recycling and collection of sorted municipal waste to increase efficiency. [222968]

Mr. Morley: Following a public consultation in 2004, Defra will shortly be publishing Guidance for Waste Collection Authorities on the Household Waste Recycling Act 2003. The Act requires English local authorities to collect at least two types of recyclable material separately from the remainder of the waste by 2010.

The Waste and Resources Action Programme's (WRAP) Recycling and Organics Technical Advisory Team (ROTATE) advises local authorities on best practice for recyclate collection methodologies. In addition, the Environment Agency has just issued regulatory guidance on the export of household recyclables for recovery.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate she has made of the costs to farmers of implementing the (a) Waste Framework Directive, (b) the Landfill Directive and (c) the Waste Management (England and Wales) Regulations 2005. [223820]

Mr. Morley: I announced that the Government have published for consultation the draft Waste Management (England and Wales) Regulations 2005 on 9 December 2004, Official Report, column 106WS. The main purpose of the draft Regulations is to repeal the current exclusion in section 75(7)(c) of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 and to apply to agricultural waste the national controls that are already in place to comply with the Waste Framework Directive and the Landfill Directive. The consultation paper is available in the Library of the House and on the Department's website at http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/consult/agwaste-regs/index.htm.

The consultation paper includes a Regulatory Impact Assessment which estimates the total disposal cost to farmers of complying with the extension of controls to agricultural waste to be £26.5-£65.3 million per annum with the mid-point of the range being £45.9 million pa.

Water Quality/Supply

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will take steps to ensure that increases in water charges are used to (a) improve (i) reliability of supply and (ii) water quality and (b) reduce (A) sewer flooding and (B) pesticide run-off. [222975]

Mr. Morley: Water companies may increase their charges only within the price limits set by Ofwat. Ofwat's approach to setting price limits is to allow no more than is necessary for efficient companies to finance their functions. In co-operation with the Environment Agency and the Drinking Water Inspectorate, Ofwat monitor companies' delivery of their functions and levels of service and takes regulatory action where their performance falls short.

In the period covered by new price limits, 2005 to 2010, companies will be undertaking a range of measures in order to meet their water supply duties. Companies will, for example, take measures to increase the security of supply where supply is most at risk, including measures to reduce leakage. They will be making improvements to water treatment works to continue to meet the standards of drinking water quality, as well as improving the taste, colour and odour of drinking water in areas where this has been an issue of local concern. They are also expected to reduce the number of homes at risk from sewer flooding so that by 2010 no more than 0.01 per cent. of properties will be at risk of internal flooding from overloaded sewers at least once every 10 years.

The reduction of pesticide run-off is the responsibility of the farmers and growers who apply the pesticides to their crops not the water companies. The Government encourage farmers and growers through advice and Codes of Practice to minimise their use of pesticides to avoid the risk of run-off to surface waters.

Zoological Parks

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many zoological parks there are in the West Midlands. [223385]

Mr. Morley: The Department's records indicate that there are seven establishments in the West Midlands which are licensed as zoos under the Zoo Licensing Act 1981. Definitive records of licensed zoos are kept by local authorities.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much land is occupied by zoological parks and gardens, broken down by individual park. [222852]

Mr. Morley: The Department does not hold information on how much land is occupied by zoological parks and gardens, either in total or broken down by individual park.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate she has made of the revenue generated by zoological parks and gardens in England in 2004. [222853]

Mr. Morley: The Department does not estimate or hold information on the revenue generated by zoological gardens in England.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance the Government have issued regarding the keeping of animals in captivity. [222854]

Mr. Morley: The keeping of animals in captivity is a very broad subject, potentially covering everything from zoos and aquaria to farmed animals, game birds and companion animals—including exotic species. The Department has issued a wide range of guidance relevant to these matters. For example, the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice set out the standards recommended for keeping animals in zoos. A list which includes a number of other relevant publications can be found on the Defra website at: http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/publications/pubcat/anh.htm

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what her policy is on the expansion of zoological parks and gardens; and if she will make a statement. [222855]

Mr. Morley: Zoos are subject to a comprehensive system of licensing and inspection, under the Zoo Licensing Act 1981, to ensure that appropriate standards are maintained.

Beyond the regulation provided by this Act, the Department has no further policies specifically addressing the issue of expansion of zoological parks and gardens, either in relation to total numbers of zoos or expansion of individual zoos. Both matters are likely to be subject to controls under the Town and Country planning regime.

I believe well-managed zoos can play an important role, both in raising public awareness about wild animals and their habitats, and participating in wildlife conservation activities.

CABINET OFFICE

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Office was in each year since 2000–01. [220969]

Mr. Miliband: The value of sales of surplus assets in my Department for each year since 2000–01 is set out in the table.

Sales proceeds on income from disposal of fixed assets

2003–04	4,856
2002–03	176
2001–02	529
2000–01	153

The higher level of sales for 2003–04 is the result of the disposal of land and buildings.

This information is contained within notes of the Resource Accounts available in the Library (Note 10: 2001–02, 12: 2002–03, 13: 2003–04).

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

General Election

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs if he will invite international observers to assess whether the forthcoming general election is fair. [223786]

Mr. Leslie: As a participating member of the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe, we would normally invite its Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights to send election observers to any elections held in the UK. I fully expect us to repeat our previous practice of doing so once the date for the next general election is announced.

Human Rights Act (Gibraltar)

Mr. Key: To ask the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether his Department treats the Human Rights Act 1998 as applying to (a) residents of Gibraltar and (b) locally employed Ministry of Defence employees in Gibraltar. [223348]

Mr. Lammy: No.

PRIME MINISTER

Peerages

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Prime Minister what the principal address at the time of elevation was of each peer created since 1 September 2004, broken down by (a) nation within the UK and (b) region of England for peers resident in England at the time of elevation. [223782]

The Prime Minister: Three people have been elevated to the peerage since 1 September 2004. The place of residence at the time of their elevation is shown in the following table.

Residence at time of elevation	Number
England
Yorkshire	1
London	2

Transcript

Andrew Selous: To ask the Prime Minister pursuant to his answer of 9 March 2005, Official Report, column 1509, to the right hon. and learned Member for Folkestone and Hythe (Mr. Howard), if he will place a copy of the transcript to which he refers in the Library. [223806]

The Prime Minister: No transcript was made by my office.

As I made clear in my answers to the right hon. and learned Member for Folkestone and Hythe (Mr. Howard) on 9 March 2005, Official Report, column 1509, the Government acted on the advice of the Police and the Security Agencies to bring forward new Counter Terrorism legislation. These new powers will be used against those people engaged in or plotting terrorist acts. The powers would not be used against protestors, unless they were engaged in terrorist activities.

TRANSPORT

Blind Junctions

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment his Department has made of the impact of installing convex mirrors at blind junctions on the level of road accidents; and if he will make a statement. [223854]

Mr. Jamieson: The Department has made no overall assessment of the impact convex mirrors have had on road accidents. The Department's view is that the use of traffic mirrors presents more disadvantages than benefits and their use on public roads should be considered only in exceptional circumstances if no better solution is available.

Car Clubs

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much funding has been provided for car clubs in each financial year since 1997–98; what the projected funding to 2006–07 is; and if he will make a statement. [223920]

Charlotte Atkins: In 1999, the Department contributed setting up costs of £150,000 to establish the Edinburgh City Car Club.

The Department has also been supporting the CarPlus car club advisory service with the following annual grants:

	Annual grant
1999	37,000
2000	38,000
2001	103,000
2002	53,000
2003	60,000
2004	60,000

CarPlus have requested further funding for 2005–06. This is currently under consideration.

Channel Tunnel Rail Link

Jonathan Shaw: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to his letter of 22 December 2004 to the hon. Member for Chatham and Aylesford in respect of residents living near the channel tunnel rail link, when he will provide a full reply to the issues raised. [223819]

Mr. McNulty: Department for Transport officials are working with the Department's advisers and Union Railways on possible options for a compensation model for residents concerned about the noise and vibration impacts arising from the operation of the channel tunnel rail link at the North Downs tunnel. However, this is a complex matter which needs to be given careful consideration. I hope to write to the hon. Gentleman soon setting out our proposals to resolve this issue.

Concessionary Travel

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what additional resources he plans to make available to (a) Wychavon district council and (b) Worcester city council to fund the concessionary bus fare scheme for pensioners and the disabled announced in the Budget. [223746]

Charlotte Atkins: £350 million will be provided to English local authorities to cover the additional costs of free fares on local bus services. This sum will be added to the annual local government finance settlement. The amount each authority will receive will be determined as part of this settlement.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) whether the concessionary travel announced in the Budget statement will be paid to local authorities through the revenue support grant; [223910]

(2) whether the concessionary travel funding announced in the Budget statement (a) will be paid directly to local authorities and (b) will be based upon the costs of individual schemes within each authority; [223911]

(3) how local authorities deemed to be floor authorities for the purpose of receiving revenue support grant will be treated in respect of the grant for concessionary travel announced in the Budget statement; whether the floor will be applied to the grant to these authorities; and whether they will be expected to absorb the full costs of concessionary travel. [223912]

Charlotte Atkins: The additional funding for local authorities to implement the move to free concessionary fares for older and disabled people on off-peak local bus services will be paid to local authorities through the revenue support grant. It will be distributed according to the overall revenue support grant settlement formula.

No decisions have yet been taken on possible floor schemes for 2006–07 onwards.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many pensioners in Chorley he expects will benefit from free bus transport. [223789]

Charlotte Atkins: From April 2006, the Government are extending the existing statutory minimum requirement for concessionary fares so that people aged 60 and over and disabled people in England will be guaranteed free off-peak travel on their local bus services, with no charge for the pass.

In Chorley, all residents over 60 will benefit from free local bus travel. According to the 2001 census, there were then 16,813 pensioners (men aged 65 and over and women aged 60 and over) and 19,421 people over 60 in Chorley.

Railways

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will list companies which have submitted accreditation questionnaires to the Department as part of the pre-qualification procedure for the operation of the new Great Western Franchise. [222773]

Mr. McNulty: The Strategic Rail Authority is continuing to evaluate the submissions. A list of all companies submitting questionnaires will be released when the successful pre-qualified bidders are announced.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220965]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department for Transport was formed on 29 May 2002 and has published Resource Accounts since 2002–03, copies of these accounts are laid before the House and are available in the Library.

In their Resource Accounts Departments are required to disclose the proceeds from the sale of fixed assets consistent with the requirements of the Resource Accounting Manual (RAM) and Government Accounting.

The proceeds from the sale of fixed assets were:

	£ million
2002–03	4.756
2003–04	12.024

Transport Services (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many trains into Leicester (a) have arrived late in the last (i) three and (ii) six months and (b) arrived late in 2004. [223645]

Mr. McNulty: Trains are timed at their final destination station and Leicester is not the final destination station for the majority of trains serving it. The train operators do not compile the requested information.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what financial support he has made available for bus services in (a) Leicester and (b) England in each year since 1997. [223652]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department has made available funding to local authorities in England under the Urban Bus Challenge (UBC) Competition. Leicester has been successful with two UBC awards, for the Braunstone Community Service (£1.130 million awarded in 2001) and the for the Service 54 Enhancement (£82,000 awarded in 2003).

Since 1998 the Department has also made available funding to local authorities in England under the Rural Bus Subsidy Grant (RBSG) and the Rural Bus Challenge (RBC) Competition. The following table shows the total amounts made available under all three grant schemes in England by year:

	£ million[1]
1998–99	43.7
1999–2000	49.3
2000–01	53.7
2001–02	77.3
2002–03	85.7
2003–04	88.4
2004–05	51.0

[1] Includes totals awarded to RBC and UBC schemes in the year of award. Expenditure on Challenge projects is typically spread over 2–3 financial years. Challenge competitions were not held in 2004.

The majority of funding for local bus services is available through the Government's Revenue Support Grant (RSG) to local authorities. It is a matter for each authority to decide how much of their RSG resources are used to support bus services.

Bus services throughout England will also have benefited from the Department's Bus Service Operators Grant (BSOG) and support for local transport capital expenditure.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many violent attacks there have been against (a) staff on Leicester buses, (b) staff employed at Leicester Railway Station and (c) Leicestershire's traffic police in each year since 1997. [223654]

Mr. McNulty: The information is as follows:

(a) Data on bus staff assaults are only recorded at a national level for England and separately for London.

(b) The BTP have provided the following data concerning attacks against staff employed at Leicester Railway Station. The data are shown by performance year 1 April-31 March since 1998. Due to the significant changes in the way that crime was recorded due to new Home Office Counting Rules on 1 April 1998, the BTP have informed me that there are no comparable data for 1997:

Offence	1998–99	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Actual Bodily Harm	2	1	0	2	1	0
Causing Racially Aggravated Harassment, Alarm or Distress	0	0	0	1	1	0
Common Assault	3	6	1	1	3	7
Total	5	7	1	4	5	7

(c) The Department does not collect data on attacks on traffic police, who are part of local authority police forces.

TREASURY

Conception Rates

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average conception rate for those under 18 years was in each year since 1998; if he will list the 20 per cent. of wards with the highest conception rates for those under the age of 18 in each year; and what the average total conception rate for those under the age of 18 was in each year, calculated from those wards designated as belonging to the 20 per cent. with the highest rates of under-18 conceptions. [221445]

Margaret Hodge: The following table shows the rate of under-18 conceptions for each year from 1998 (the baseline year for the teenage pregnancy strategy) to 2003 (the latest year for which data are available). This shows that the rate has declined by 9.8 per cent. since 1998.

Table 1: Under-18 conceptions in England: 1998–2003

	Under-18 conception rate[1]	Percentage change since 1998
1998	46.6	0
1999	44.8	-4.1
2000	43.6	-6.4
2001	42.5	-8.9
2002	42.6	-8.6
2003	42.1	-9.8

Source:

Office for National Statistics and Teenage Pregnancy Unit, 2005

Aggregated ward-level data for 2000–02 shows that the average rate in the 20 per cent. of wards with the highest rates is 76.8 per 1,000 females aged 15–17. A table containing the names of the 1,608 highest rate wards has been placed in the Library.

Customs and Excise

Mr. Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the current rental cost is of office space occupied by Customs and Excise in (a) Birmingham and (b) Droitwich Spa; [223767]

(2) what estimate he has made of the cost of transferring computer equipment and systems from the Customs and Excise office in Droitwich Spa to Birmingham, including the cost of contractual changes with suppliers; [223769]

(3) when the Offices of Customs and Excise in Droitwich Spa were most recently refurbished; what the total cost was of the refurbishment, separately identifying the costs of (a) redecoration, (b) double glazing, (c) provision of office equipment and computer contracts and (d) lighting; [223726]

(4) what his estimate is of the costs of providing alternative office accommodation for staff to be moved from the Customs and Excise Office in Droitwich Spa including (a) the cost of rented space and (b) refurbishment costs of office space in Birmingham; [223727]

(5) whether his Department has undertaken a full cost-benefit analysis of the decision to close the Droitwich Spa office of Customs and Excise. [223728]

Mr. Timms: No decision on relocation has yet been made. The Droitwich office is owned by the Ministry of Defence who have confirmed their intention to close the building and have given notice to Customs and Excise to find alternative accommodation. In these circumstances, Customs have not undertaken a cost analysis of the closure. Until relocation details are agreed it is not possible to provide costings for the alternative office space or for the cost of transferring equipment and systems.

The rental of the premises cannot be separately identified, as a single payment is made to the MoD encompassing both rent and rates. The space occupied by Customs in Birmingham was transferred to Mapeley Ltd. as part of a PFI deal in April 2001. A Facility Price is payable for this space which is for fully serviced accommodation. Again, a figure for rental alone is not available.

Records show the most recent office refurbishment took place in 1995, but detailed information is not readily available.

Employment (Pudsey)

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on the levels of long-term (a) adult and (b) youth employment in Pudsey in the last 10 years. [223521]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Paul Truswell, dated 24 March 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about long-term unemployment. (223521)

Information on the number of people who are unemployed is calculated from the Labour Force Survey. However, the Labour Force Survey sample size for the Pudsey Parliamentary Constituency is too small to provide the estimates requested.

The Office for National Statistics also compiles statistics of those claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (ISA) for local areas including Parliamentary Constituencies. The attached table gives the annual average numbers of residents in the Pudsey Parliamentary Constituency claiming JSA benefits for over 12 months in each year from 1996 to 2004: (a) who were aged 25 or over; and (b) who were aged 18 to 24. Comparable information is not available for earlier years.

Freedom of Information

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a list of those individuals who sent e-mails to the official responsible for inadvertently sending information to the BBC about the UK's departure from the ERM which was not to be released in response to the Financial Times' request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 in the 48 hours up to the dispatch of the information; and what the (a) titles and (b) copy recipients were of each e-mail. [216792]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 21 February 2005]: No one in the Treasury knew that the information concerned had been inadvertently sent to the BBC on 4 February until the BBC reported the fact on 9 February. As the Treasury has made clear, no Treasury Minister or political adviser received any communication relating to, or had any involvement in, any decision concerning the Freedom of Information Act disclosure in question. It has been the long established practice under successive Administrations not to release the names of individual officials when answering questions about internal communications within a department.

Gaelic Language

Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his Department's policy is on the use of the Gaelic language; and what plans his Department has to prepare and implement a Gaelic language scheme. [217099]

Mr. Timms: Action to support the Gaelic language is primarily the responsibility of Scottish Ministers.

The Treasury regards the promotion and protection of the Gaelic language as an important responsibility, in line with the UK's obligations under the European Charter for Regional and Minority Languages.

The Gaelic Language (Scotland) Bill currently before the Scottish Parliament does not extend statutory obligations on UK public bodies in Scotland in relation to the preparation or implementation of Gaelic language plans. However, UK departments and public bodies which operate in Scotland may—like comparable Scottish public bodies—have a role to play in facilitating the use of the language.

The Treasury has been working with colleagues in the Scotland Office and the Scottish Executive on the role we can play, voluntarily, in securing the status of Gaelic.

Gas Appliances

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people died from carbon monoxide poisoning in their homes in the last year for which figures are available. [223564]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Barry Sheerman, dated 24 March 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many people died from carbon monoxide poisoning in their homes in the last year for which figures are available. (223564)

The latest year for which figures are available is 2003.[1] The number of deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning[2] in the deceased's own home[3] in England and Wales in that year was 154.

[1] Deaths occurring in 2003

[2] The cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) code T58.

The majority of deaths due to 'toxic effect of carbon monoxide' are suicides. Some deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning are also of undetermined intent, homicides or the result of fires. A small proportion are the result of accidental poisoning.

[3] Place of death—own home

Ministerial Directions

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will list ministerial directions that his Department has been notified of since 30 October 2003. [221878]

Mr. Boateng: The Treasury has not been notified of any ministerial directions for the period since 30 October 2003.

Pensioner Travel (Merseyside)

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what account will be taken in his Budget proposals for free local transport for pensioners of the position of local authorities which have previously funded free local travel for pensioners, with particular reference to Merseyside Passenger Transport Authority; and if he will make a statement. [223747]

Mr. Boateng: Local government will receive increased funding to help meet the costs of providing free concessionary fares for older and disabled people on local off-peak bus services. The additional funding will be provided through Revenue Support Grant as part of the annual local government finance settlement. The amount received by each authority, including the constituent authorities of the Merseyside Passenger Transport Authority, will be determined by the settlement in the usual way.

Pensions

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the Government Actuary's Department's latest estimate is of the net value of the Government's liability for pensions to be paid to its employees; and how much of this sum is in respect of (a) funded and (b) unfunded schemes; [223818]

(2) what estimate he has made of the unfunded liabilities of public sector pension schemes; what the liabilities were in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available; and what proportion of gross domestic product these figures represented in each year. [223799]

Mr. Timms: The total liabilities of unfunded public service pension schemes at 31 March 2004 are estimated to be £460 billion. The last comparable estimate of total liabilities was £425 billion at 31 March 2003; the estimates for the years prior to 2003 were not made on a comparable basis. Comparable information is not held on the liabilities of the funded Local Government Pension Scheme or other funded public sector pension schemes.

Expenditure arising from these liabilities will be spread across many decades into the future.

As a proportion of Gross Domestic Product in the financial year in which the liabilities were assessed, the figure of £425 billion can be expressed as 40 per cent. of the 2002–03 Money. GDP figure of £1,058 billion and the figure of £460 billion can be expressed as 41 per cent. of the 2003–04 Money GDP figure of £1,118 billion. However, as detailed in the Long-term Public Finance Report of December 2004 annual expenditure on these pensions was 1.5 per cent. of GDP in 2003–04 and is projected to rise to 2.2 per cent. of GDP over the 50 years to 2053–54.

Road Expenditure

Mr. Cash: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on what basis the Office for National Statistics defines current spending for repairs and maintenance on roads as capital expenditure. [222370]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. William Cash, dated 24 March 2005:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking on what basis the Office for National Statistics (ONS) defines current spending for repairs and maintenance of roads as capital expenditure. (222370)

ONS classifies all current spending for repairs and maintenance of roads as current expenditure and none as capital expenditure. The basis for classifying ordinary maintenance and repairs as current expenditure is from the 1995 European System of Accounts, paragraph 3.108.

ONS found that it had incorrectly used a combination of two approaches for recording road maintenance expenditure in the public sector current budget, resulting in double counting. This has now been corrected. This correction was initially, on 18 February, described as a reclassification from current to capital expenditure. However, in a News Release of 28 February, accompanying a technical note of the revision it was pointed out that the revision was most easily explained as removing depreciation from both the current budget and net investment. It was not a conceptual reclassification of repair and maintenance expenditure.

RU64 Suitability Standard

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what assessment his Department has made of the effects of the extension of the RU64 suitability standard to all stakeholder financial services products on (a) the provision of financial advice to those at whom stakeholders products are aimed and (b) consumer choice in the financial services market; what representations he has received on those matters from (i) financial services providers and (ii) consumer groups; and what discussions he has had with the Financial Services Authority on these matters; [223623]

(2) when the Financial Services Authority expects to publish further guidance on the RU64 suitability standard; and if he will make a statement; [223624]

(3) when the Financial Services Authority expects to publish its consultation paper on the RU64 suitability standard that has applied to the sale of personal pensions since 1999; what the timescale for the consultation will be; and if he will make a statement. [223625]

Mr. Timms: The FSA is responsible for setting standards about the quality of advice on investment products. It indicated in its consultation paper 04/11, published in June 2004, that it did not intend to extend the particular suitability test that currently applies to the sale of stakeholder pensions—known as 'RU64'—to the wider suite of stakeholder products that will be launched in April 2005. The FSA has confirmed to me that this position has not changed since the publication of that paper.

The FSA has more recently made public its intention to consult shortly on removing 'RU64' from its rules in relation to stakeholder pensions. The issues that this proposed action would give rise to will be discussed fully in the FSA's consultation document when it is published. Officials meet with representatives of industry, consumer groups and the FSA from time to time to discuss a variety of issues regarding financial services.

Stamp Duty

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the reduction in stamp duty yield from residential property which would result from raising the threshold at which stamp duty is applicable at 1 per cent. from £60,000 to £100,000. [222950]

Mr. Timms: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 14 March 2005, Official Report, columns 85–86W, to the hon. Member for Perth (Annabelle Ewing) The stamp duty threshold for residential property at which the 1 per cent. rate applies has been raised from £60,000 to £120,000 with effect from 17 March 2005.

Mr. Mark Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many transactions there were of residential property sales between (a) £60,000 and

£120,000 and (b) £250,000 and £500,000 in Greater London in each of the last five full financial years; and how much stamp duty was raised from them in each year. [223593]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the numbers of residential property transactions and amount of stamp duty raised from residential property sales in Greater London between £60,000 and £120,000 and between £250,000 and £500,000 are given in the following table:

	£60,000-£120,000		£250,000-£500,000
	Number of transactions (thousand)	Stamp duty (£ million)	Number of transactions (thousand)	Stamp duty (£ million)
1999–2000	69	65	20	180
2000–01	52	50	24	260
2001–02	47	40	29	305
2002–03	35	20	33	360
2003–04	19	5	32	350

Sue Doughty: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many properties in England and Wales on which stamp duty was levied at a rate of one per cent. were sold at between £60,000 and £120,000 in each year since 2000; and how many of these properties were sold to first time buyers in each year. [223802]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the number of residential properties selling for between £60,000 and £120,000 in England and Wales, on which stamp duty was levied at 1 per cent. are given in the following table for 2000 to 2003 inclusive. Estimates for 2004 will be available later in the year.

It is not possible to provide this information for first time buyers.

Thousand

	Estimated number of residential properties sold for between £60,001 and £120,000
2000	430
2001	447
2002	453
2003	338

Tax Credits

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how his Department plans to ensure that those who are entitled to claim tax credit are informed of their eligibility. [223384]

Dawn Primarolo: Around 6 million families are benefiting from tax credits. The Inland Revenue encourage people to claim tax credits and they maintain awareness of tax credits through a range of advertising and publicity activities. In particular, information about tax credits is included in the "Bounty Bags" that new mothers receive. And there is an ongoing advertising campaign designed specifically to encourage claims from ethnic minority communities is another priority, using local radio and advertising in the ethnic press and magazines and appropriate intermediary organisations through in-community work.

All our advertising campaigns, whether aimed at encouraging early renewal of awards, or about reporting changes of circumstances serve to maintain awareness of tax credits generally—research shows 95 per cent. awareness—and experience has shown that such campaigns do prompt people to make inquiries to the Tax Credits Helpline.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Affordable Homes

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many affordable homes he plans to deliver (a) over the forthcoming spending review period and (b) in each year after the end of that period; and if he will make a statement. [223451]

Keith Hill: The funding provided in the Spending Review will, along with efficiency improvements, produce 75,000 social rented homes and 40,000 homes for low cost home ownership (including essential public sector workers) over the three years to 2007–08.

In addition, "Sustainable Communities: Homes for All" sets out the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's plans to deliver more affordable housing over the five years to 2009–10. Measures include assisting over 80,000 first time buyers and keyworkers to achieve their home ownership aspirations.

The delivery of outputs from 2008–09 will be dependent upon the outcome of the next Spending Review in 2006.

Civil Justice (Repossessions)

Simon Hughes: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 332W, when the Civil Justice Council and Department for Constitutional Affairs will issue a pre-action protocol for possessions cases; and when the cross-Whitehall group on possessions and evictions will issue good practice guidance. [223780]

Keith Hill: A consultation exercise on the pre-action protocol for possession cases is planned to take place this summer. The cross-Whitehall group aim to issue their good practice guidance on possessions and evictions in summer 2005. This group has been working closely with the Civil Justice Council and the Department for Constitutional Affairs to ensure that the pre-action protocol and the guidance are complementary. This will be a practical guide on the management of rent arrears, which make up 93 per cent. of possessions cases; and is aimed at all social housing organisations and specifically cabinet and board members, housing practitioners and stakeholders. It will set out the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's policy position that possession action should only be taken where strictly necessary.

Community Wardens

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will list the local authorities that have received central government funding for community and neighbourhood wardens since 1997; for how long that funding was allocated; and which local authorities which have received it no longer receive such central funding. [216296]

Yvette Cooper: The Government have funded three rounds of warden pilot schemes. The information is in the following table. Funding for the first round of warden pilots began in 2000–01, with rounds two and three starting in 2001–02 and 2002–03 respectively. Funding for the first round of warden pilots ended in March 2004, funding for the second round will end in March this year and funding for the third round will end in March 2006. Of the 84 round 1, neighbourhood warden schemes, 70 (83 per cent.) have been sustained after the end of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's funding and continue to operate as successful warden schemes. For the 122 round 2, street warden schemes, the majority already have future funding agreed although in some areas decisions have yet to be taken. Guidance has been issued to all round 2 street warden schemes whose funding ends in March 2005. This includes information on how other schemes achieved continued funding, a list of funding sources and guidance for schemes on how they can contribute to Government floor targets. Sustainability events have been organised regionally by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's funded warden resource centres. Letters of support from senior officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and visits from trained consultants are also available to schemes who are seeking future funding. In addition at least 150 more warden schemes have been set up by LAs, RSLs on other bodies without pilot funding.

Council House Repairs

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether his Department met its target to reduce the council house repairs backlog by at least 900,000 properties by April 2004; if he will set a new target further to reduce the council house repairs backlog; and if he will make a statement. [223447]

Keith Hill: Repairs to council housing are now covered by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's target to ensure that all social sector homes reach the decent homes standard by 2010. By reducing the number of non-decent homes we are also reducing the repairs backlog.

Council Tax

Mr. Laws: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will rank in descending order for each (a) county council and (b) district council the change in the level of council tax levied (i) between 1996–97 and 2005–06 and (ii) between 2000–01 and 2005–06; and if he will make a statement. [223715]

Mr. Raynsford: The information requested has been made available in the Library of the House.

Empty Homes (Somerset)

Brian Cotter: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many empty homes there are in (a) North Somerset and (b) the parliamentary constituency of Weston-Super-Mare. [223368]

Keith Hill: The answer for (a), ie the total number of empty properties in North Somerset UA, is 2,200 at 1 November 2004. This figure comes from the council tax records. A figure for (b) is not available because no such data are collected below local authority district level and Weston-Super-Mare is only part of North Somerset UA.

Gypsies and Travellers

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister for what reasons Brentwood borough council has been directed to draw up a Gypsy and Traveller development plan document. [223211]

Yvette Cooper: The reason for the First Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister, being minded to direct Brentwood borough council to prepare an additional development plan document is set out in a letter of 7 March from the Government Office for the East of England, a copy of which has been made available in the Library of the House.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what plans his Department has to amend planning guidance to facilitate the development of Traveller sites on green belt land. [223371]

Keith Hill: The Government's guidance on Green Belt remains as set out in Planning Policy Guidance Note 2 (PPG2).

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what representations he has received concerning illegal traveller camps and unauthorised encampments. [223418]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has received a range of representations on this subject, including correspondence from Members of Parliament, their constituents and various stakeholder groups.

Heathrow

John McDonnell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on the procedure for the determination of planning applications relating to the future development of Heathrow airport (a) runways and (b) terminals. [222222]

Keith Hill: It would be inappropriate for a Minister in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister to discuss an individual planning case because of the appellate function of the First Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister.

Provisions in the Planning and Compulsory Purchase 2004, which are due to commence in May 2005, provide that the Secretary of State, my right. hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister, may direct that an application for planning permission or an application for the approval of a local planning authority required under a development order may be referred to him if he thinks the development to which the application relates is of national or regional importance. In such cases an inspector must be appointed to consider the application and make recommendations to the Secretary of State, my right. hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister, on such matters relating to the application as are prescribed.

Local Authority Staff

Dr. Richard Taylor: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on the employment of people over the age of 65 by local authorities. [221906]

Phil Hope: Information on the number of people currently over the age of 65 employed by local authorities is not held centrally and could only be provided at disproportionate cost. Local authorities will recognise for themselves the benefits of recruiting, training and retaining staff of all ages which will help encourage a move towards a more diverse workforce in local government.

The Government have concluded that legislation should set a default retirement age of 65, but also create a right for employees to request working beyond a compulsory retirement age, which employers will have a duty to consider seriously. Provided that they have the consent of their employer, people over the age of 65 will be able to stay in employment. Legislation from 2006 will make unjustified age discrimination in recruitment, training, promotion and dismissal unlawful for workers of all ages.

Non-decent Homes Target

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether his Department achieved its target of cutting the number of non-decent homes by a third over the 2001 baseline by December 2004. [223448]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's 2004 Autumn Performance report, published in December, provides a comprehensive update on progress against the decent homes public service agreement (PSA) target, and is available on the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's website, at: www.odpm.gov.uk.

Parking (Medical Centres)

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will re-examine the planning guidelines relating to parking requirements at primary care medical centres. [223798]

Keith Hill: Government planning policies on parking are laid down in Planning Policy Guidance note (PPG) 13 Transport. We want to promote accessibility, the use of public transport, walking and cycling and to reduce the need to travel, especially by private car. The availability of parking is an important factor in people's transport choices, so we encourage local authorities to develop and implement policies on parking that, as part of a package of planning and transport measures, ensure levels of parking provided in association with development will promote sustainable transport choices. There should be no minimum standards for development, other than parking for disabled people, and policies in development plans should set maximum levels of parking for broad classes of development.

PPG13 sets national maximum standards at Annex D for certain classes of use, and local authorities should follow these unless the applicant has demonstrated that a higher level of parking is needed. Primary care centres are not one of the uses where the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has set specific standards but officials have been asked to keep this under review for any future guidance that might be issued.

Regional Housing Boards

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the role is of the regional housing boards. [223372]

Keith Hill: The boards are non-statutory bodies comprising representatives of organisations with a key role in the delivery of sustainable communities, brought together at the request of Ministers to take a complementary, strategic approach towards addressing regional and national housing priorities. Ministers have asked each to produce a Regional Housing Strategy (integrated with their region's planning and economic strategies), and to advise on the allocation of funds to support housing capital investment to address the priorities identified in the strategy.

Departmental Dress Code

David Taylor: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what his Department's policy is on the wearing of the Kirpan by Sikh employees. [221669]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's commitment not to discriminate unfairly on the grounds of religion or belief is set out clearly in its equal opportunities policy.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has no objection to its Sikh employees wearing the Kirpan, except where security policy dictates otherwise, and similar items are also banned.

Social Housing

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether he will allow local authorities to submit their stock option proposals after his July deadline. [223196]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister expects local authorities to comply with the guidance on stock options appraisals, which is to submit proposals for sign-off by the end of July 2005.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) if he will replace his Housing Action Task Force with a task force to help and advise those councils which decide to retain their housing stock; [223208]

(2) when he intends to disband his Community Housing Task Force; and whether the individual contracts of its members will run beyond July. [223213]

Keith Hill: The Community Housing Task Force is available to advise all local authorities on their options appraisals regardless of their chosen delivery route.

Once options appraisals are signed off by the end of July this year, local authorities may require continued support to ensure that the chosen options translate into successful outcomes.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is discussing with Government Offices how best to provide this support, including the role of the Community Housing Task Force. We have no plans to disband the Task Force.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many affordable housing units there were in the schemes rejected by his Department in June 2003 for funding through transitional local authority social housing grant. [223288]

Keith Hill: The Housing Corporation ran a competitive bidding round which closed in June 2003 for funding through the transitional local authority social housing grant arrangements. The Corporation, in consultation with Government Offices, assessed the submitted bids. Results were announced in October 2003: those bids that were not successful comprised some 4500 dwellings.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to his answer of 25 February 2005, Official Report, column 902W, on social housing (right to buy), for what reasons his Department estimates that receipts from right to buy sales will decline between 2003–04 and 2007–08. [223299]

Keith Hill: The Government's announcement in January 2003 that they intended to modify the right to buy scheme led initially to higher sales. They expect sales to revert to longer-term trend levels over the next few years.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) what the reasons are for the change in the number of affordable housing units expected to be built over the 2003–04 to 2005–06 period with transitional local authority social housing grant since the written answer of 8 December 2003, Official Report, column 345W to the hon. Member for Runnymede and Weybridge (Mr. Hammond); [223302]

(2) if he will release further transitional local authority social housing grant funding to ensure that his Department delivers the 14,000 affordable housing units referred to in the written answer of 8 December 2003, Official Report, column 345W to the hon. Member for Runnymede and Weybridge (Mr. Hammond). [223303]

Keith Hill: The number of homes expected to be provided in the 2003–04 to 2005–06 period with transitional local authority social housing grant was based on all approved schemes completing. Some schemes are not coming to fruition due to planning difficulties or because they have subsequently failed to meet the criteria set. Some of these have received funding through the Approved Development Programme (ADP). The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has no plans to extend the transitional arrangements for local authority social housing grant beyond 2005–06.

Stamp Duty Exemption

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister which electoral wards in (a) Cleethorpes and (b) Great Grimsby constituencies qualify for stamp duty exemption. [223459]

Mr. Timms: I have been asked to reply.

The following wards, as at 7 May 1998, are qualifying areas for stamp duty land tax disadvantaged areas relief:

Cleethorpes constituency: Park (Cleethorpes) and Croft Baker.

Great Grimsby constituency: North East, Marsh and South.

Relief is available for purchases of residential property in qualifying areas where the consideration does not exceed £150,000.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Office was in each year since 2000–01. [220985]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister was established on 29 May 2002. The value of the sales of assets is shown in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's published accounts.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Energy Use

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the answer of 20 December 2004, Official Report, columns 1417–18W, on energy use, what target has been set for energy use for financial year 2005–06; if he will list the members of the Energy Savers group on the parliamentary estate; on what dates this group met; and what the outcome was of each meeting. [222396]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: I have written to the hon. Member.

Escalators

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what factors have led to the conclusion that escalators on the parliamentary estate should not be set to a motion-activated setting. [222268]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The escalators at Portcullis House are not currently motion-activated for reasons of safety and the high traffic rate during working hours.

They are put to manual control outside sitting hours. The escalator to the underground car park remains on motion-activated setting.

Motor Vehicles

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how many motor vehicles are owned and operated by the House authorities on the House of Commons estate. [222250]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Two vehicles are owned and operated by the authorities on the House of Commons estate: an electric-powered delivery van owned by the Refreshment Department and a delivery van owned by the Works Services Directorate of the Serjeant at Arms Department.

Parliamentary Estate

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how many extra buildings and what additional square feet of office space has been acquired by the parliamentary estate in each year since 1975. [222397]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: Acquisitions on the House of Commons part of the parliamentary estate since 1975 are as follows:

Building	Year acquired	Net internal area (sq m)
Norman Shaw North	1975	10,940
Norman Shaw South	1977	5,578
1 Canon Row	1987	3,451
1 Parliament Street	1991	9,948
7 Millbank	1992–94	13,780
Portcullis House	2000	20,694

During that time some property was disposed of.

Water Usage

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the answer of 15 December 2004, Official Report, column 1142W, on water usage, what the budget for water economy investments and energy-saving measures have been for each year, in real terms, since 1997, broken down by measure. [222333]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: The annual cash budgets for tactical energy saving measures were:

	Cash budget (£)
1997–98	50,000
1998–99	50,000
1999–2000	25,000
2000–01	50,000
2001–02	30,000
2002–03	30,000
2003–04	30,000
2004–05	50,000

The sum is not allocated in advance to specific measures.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Asylum Seekers

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum claims from Burmese citizens are outstanding. [223689]

Mr. Browne: Information on asylum claims outstanding by nationality is unavailable and could be produced only at disproportionate cost by examination of individual case records.

9,800 cases were awaiting an initial decision at the end of December 2004, the lowest level for more than a decade; of these 5,300 cases were work in progress i.e. the application had been outstanding for six months or less.

As at 31 December 2004, there were an estimated 5,000 appeals lodged with the Home Office which had not been sent to the Immigration Appellate Authority (IAA); a proportion of appeals lodged do not result in appeal bundles being sent to the IAA. The total asylum work in progress in the IAA as at 31 December 2004 was 21,600 (10,300 at the Adjudicator Tier, 6,200 applications for permission to appeal to the Tribunal, and 5,200 Tribunal Appeals).

Information on the number of cases awaiting an initial decision or appeal outcome is published quarterly on the Home Office website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html.

Correspondence

David Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall, North dated 16 February regarding a constituent, ref. M4496/5.[223342]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 22 March 2005]: I wrote to my hon. Friend on 23 March 2005.

Early Release Schemes

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the earliest possible release time is of a prisoner convicted of a standard list offence, assuming eligibility for all of the early release schemes, having been sentenced to (a) four months', (b) six months', (c) 10 months', (d) 12 months', (e) 18 months', (f) 24 months', (g) four years', (h) six years' and (i) eight years' detention. [217728]

Paul Goggins: Under the provisions contained in Section 34A of the Criminal Justice Act 1991, eligible prisoners serving sentences of between three months and under four years may be considered for release under the Home Detention Curfew Scheme (HDC). The time the prisoner will spend under curfew is tapered according to the length of sentence. Prisoners must serve a quarter of the sentence in custody subject to a minimum of 30 days before they can be released on HDC. The earliest release dates for eligible prisoners is set out in the following table.

Sentence length	Earliest possible point of release
4 months	After having served 30 days in custody
6 months	After having served 1 ½ months in custody
10 months	After having served 2 ½ months in custody
12 months	After having served 3 months in custody
18 months	135 days before the halfway point of sentence
24 months	125 days before the halfway

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee for the Implementation of the Programme of Exchanges, Training and Co-operation Between Law Enforcement Authorities (OISIN) met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217815]

Caroline Flint: The Oisin funding programme expired on 31 December 2002. The Management Committees last met on 23 and 24 July 2002 to agree the successful projects for funding for that final year. They have since been replaced by a single funding programme known as AGIS.

During the period 1 July 2003 to 31 December 2004 the AGIS Management Committee met three times. On 14 October 2003 it met to discuss the draft annual work programme and call for bids for 2004. On 27 May 2004 it discussed the evaluation of bids for 2004. On 16 September 2004 it met to discuss the draft annual work programme and call for bids for 2005.

Before each meeting the Home Office conducted preparatory consultations with past bidders, stakeholders, agencies and devolved administrations to discuss the UK's position in the Committee.

The Committee meetings take place in Brussels. The UK is generally represented at meetings of these Committees by Home Office officials and an official from the UK Permanent Representation to the EU in Brussels.

The composition of the UK delegation is always agreed beforehand and it is possible for Scottish Executive officials to attend meetings of the Committees as part of the British delegation.

Free Passports

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many pensioners aged over 75 years have applied for a free passport. [223466]

Mr. Browne: Since the scheme was announced on 19 May 2004, the United Kingdom Passport Service has issued 114,504 passports free of charge to British nationals born on or before 2 September 1929.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment his Department has made of the effectiveness of Holocaust Memorial Day in helping to teach the lessons of the Holocaust; and what plans he has for future national commemorations of the Holocaust. [222951]

Fiona Mactaggart: Home Office quantitative polling research in August 2004 and February 2005 show a significant increase in awareness with 77 per cent. of those interviewed in February 2005 having heard of HMD compared with 53 per cent. in August 2004. 66 per cent. agreed that events like HMD have an important part to play in combating racism and discrimination compared with 51 per cent. in August 2004.

To give a comparison, in February 2004 a BBC survey revealed only 55 per cent. of the UK's population had ever heard of Auschwitz. A new BBC survey conducted in January 2005 has shown that now 94 per cent. of the population in the UK has heard of Auschwitz. This awareness is not just superficial, with half of the UK population feeling that they now know quite a lot about the Holocaust, compared to only 30 per cent. last year. In establishing HMD the Government wanted to drive up awareness and understanding of the Holocaust. The televised national event in January, preceded by a reception for survivors at St. James's Palace in the presence of Her Majesty The Queen and supported by other media programming about the Holocaust, has succeeded in this aim. Understanding the continuum of hatred and marginalisation that led from racist abuse to mass genocide will help new generations to stand up to anti-Semitism, racism and intolerance.

The 2005 commemoration provides an excellent basis for the work of the new Holocaust Memorial Day Trust, which will shortly be launched and will assume responsibility for the delivery of HMD from now on.

Immigration Centres

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many cases of physical or racial abuse at the immigration centres were reported to his Department in 2004. [220897]

Mr. Browne: Six alleged cases of physical abuse and 21 alleged cases of racial abuse were reported during 2004. All were investigated and found to be unsubstantiated. Every report or allegation of inappropriate treatment against detainees is reported to the contract monitor and investigated. All allegations of assault or inappropriate use of force, which includes incorrect handcuffing, are also referred to the police as the appropriate authority to investigate such matters.

As I announced on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 94WS, there will be an independent inquiry by Stephen Shaw into the allegations contained in the BBC programme Detention Uncovered: the Real Story. As part of this inquiry, Stephen Shaw will be examining the processes in place for investigating reports of physical or racial abuse, and the way these are monitored. Once he has reported back and made recommendations we will be able to consider any implications for the remainder of the detention estate.

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what date he expects the arrangements for transferring removal centres from the Prison Service to the Immigration and Nationality Directorate to be completed. [223800]

Mr. Browne: Arrangements are in place to complete the transfer of Dover and Haslar Immigration Removal Centres from the Prison Service to the Immigration and Nationality Directorate by 30 June 2006.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department who the members of the senior management of the Immigration and Nationality Directorate are. [222965]

Mr. Browne: I refer my hon. Friend to the Home Office website, where this information is available. It can be found on http://www.ind.homeoffice.gov.uk/ind/en/home/about_us/organisational structure.html?

Imprisonment (Non-UK Nationals)

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on the procedures followed by his Department in respect of non-UK nationals who are imprisoned for serious offences and who have come to the end of their sentences; and what steps his Department takes to ensure the rapid repatriation of such individuals when that is the appropriate course of action. [223337]

Mr. Browne: Prison Service Order 4630 issued in September 2004 makes it a mandatory requirement for all prisons to notify the Immigration and Nationality Department Criminal Casework Team of all foreign nationals sentenced to a term of imprisonment in order to determine their liability to deportation.

Those who are convicted of a criminal offence and sentenced to a term of imprisonment are liable to deportation, either if the court makes such a recommendation or if the Secretary of State considers their presence is no longer conducive to the public good. Each case is examined on its merits taking into consider a person's age, length of residency, conduct, ties to the United Kingdom, compassionate circumstances and representations before taking a decision whether to make a deportation order.

Deportation proceedings are normally initiated 12 months before the earliest point of release, but there is a right of appeal, which will inevitably delay the case. However, where a prisoner waives the right of appeal or the appeal is dismissed, the early removal scheme introduced in the Criminal Justice Act 2003 provides for removal up to 135 days in advance of the conditional release or parole eligibility date, with the exception of a small number of prisoners whose offence is listed in appendix 4 to Prison Service Order 6000.

Money Laundering

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many suspicious activity reports were made to the National Criminal Intelligence Service in connection with suspected money laundering, in (a) each month in 2004 and (b) to date in 2005. [222611]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The total number of disclosures on suspected money laundering (commonly known as Suspicious Activity Reports) received by the National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS) in each month in 2004, and in January and February 2005 is as follows:

	Number
2004
January	8,192
February	10,704
March	12,811
April	12,271
May	12,040
June	14,042
July	14,404
August	12,639
September	13,068
October	12,233
November	14,865
December	17,267
2005
January	14,490
February	13,305

Offenders (Drug Testing)

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of offenders are tested for illicit drugs at the time of arrest; and what proportion of those test positive. [219123]

Caroline Flint: Drug testing on arrest is a provision within the Drugs Bill currently before Parliament. The provision builds upon the existing drug testing on charge scheme and will mean that persons who are in police detention having been arrested for a trigger offence (or an offence to which an inspector has reasonable grounds for suspecting that misuse of a specified Class A drug contributed), may be tested earlier than at present. The Drugs Bill also contains provision for those who test positive to be required to attend an assessment of their drug use and related issues. Assessment in this context has previously been voluntary on the part of the arrestee.

However, the New English and Welsh Arrestee Drug Abuse Monitoring (NEW-ADAM) programme tested a sample of arrestees at 16 custody sites from 1998–2002. The survey, which was not nationally representative, found that 69 per cent. of arrestees tested positive for any drug and 38 per cent. of arrestees tested positive for opiates and/or cocaine/crack.

Ribble Valley

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will set out with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Ribble Valley and Fulwood constituency, the effects of changes to his departmental policy since 1997 on the constituency. [221997]

Fiona Mactaggart: The Government have put in place policies in the areas of crime reduction, anti-social behaviour, policing and active communities that are yielding considerable benefits for the Ribble Valley constituency, as well as for all parts of the UK.

For example, between March 1997 and September 2004, the number of police officers in Lancashire police force increased by 297 from 3,247 to 3,544. The Government's introduction of community support officers (CSOs) in 2002 has put 117 CSOs on Lancashire streets, with funding available to recruit a further 57 by end of March 2005 to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour. Between 1997 and 2003–4, the Lancashire police force area has seen a reduction in recorded domestic burglary crimes of 41 per cent. and in recorded vehicle crimes of 39 per cent.

Lancashire police force is receiving £190.8 million in general grants for 2005–06, an increase of 4.31 per cent. (£7.9 million) over 2004–05. Lancashire police also gains around £0.4 million from the Amending Report for 2003–04, bringing the overall increase to 4.52 per cent. General grants funding to Lancashire has increased by 29.9 per cent. between 1997–98 and 2005–06. In addition to general grants, Lancashire will also receive around £17.4 million in specific grants funding for targeted initiatives and capital provision in 2005–06. The distribution of resources locally is a matter for the Police Authority and the chief constable.

As crime prevention requires action across communities, every area has had a local Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) since 1998 which brings together the police, health services, drugs agencies and council and community representatives to decide how to prevent and deter crime and anti-social behaviour.

The Crime Reduction Programme (CRP) was a pioneering Government intervention programme which ran for three years from April 1999 in England and Wales and took an evidence-based approach to crime reduction. Grants of over £340 million were allocated to over 1,470 projects, including CCTV, under 20 initiatives that formed part of the programme. One CCTV project in the Ribble Valley CDRP area received a total of £572,151 from the CRP.

Since 2001, successive initiatives have provided direct funding to each of the 376 Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships in England and Wales. These initiatives include communities against drugs, the safer communities initiative, the small retailers in deprived areas scheme and the building safer communities fund. Since 2001, a total of £298,794 has been allocated to Ribble Valley CDRP under these initiatives. A further £2.32 million has been provided over the two years 2003–04 and 2004–05 to the Home Office regional director in the north west for CDRP capacity building across the region.

It is estimated that out of a million active offenders, 100,000 have three or more convictions and are responsible for half of all crime. There is a prolific and other priority offenders (PPO) scheme in Ribble Valley set up to target those offenders who cause a disproportionate amount of crime, disorder and anti-social behaviour in the community.

The Government's crime reduction website provides further information on the work being done to reduce crime across the country, including information about action and results in local areas. It is available at http://www.crimereduction.gov.uk.

New legislation has given local agencies a raft of powers, from antisocial behaviour orders to local dispersal orders and crack house closure powers, to work with local people to tackle anti-social behaviour and nuisance. In Ribble Valley a total of 10 antisocial behaviour orders have been issued as of 17 March 2005. Local contacts for tackling anti-social behaviour can be found on http://www.together.gov.uk/authority.asp.

Tackling drug misuse is a priority of this Government and their policy is set out in the 10-year National Drug Strategy launched in 1998 and updated in December 2002. (A copy of the Updated Drug Strategy 2002 is held in the House Library.) Under this, the Government have invested substantially in measures to reduce the harms caused by illegal drugs, focussing on the four strands of:

reducing the supply of illegal drugs;

preventing young people from becoming problematic drug users;

providing effective treatment to all who need it; and reducing drug-related crime.

Direct annual funding nationally to tackle drug misuse amounted to £1,244 million in 2003–04, rising to £1,344 million in 2004–05. Lancashire has seen a significant increase in direct funding for tackling drugs, in particular for drug treatment services and the throughcare and aftercare elements of the Drug Interventions Programme. In 2003–04 the allocation for Lancashire drug action team amounted to £5.47 million, rising to £7.61 million in 2004–05. Details of action taken to tackle drugs in the Ribble Valley constituency can be obtained from the Lancashire drugs action team, for contact details see http://www.drugs.gov.uk/Links/DrugActionTeams .

The Government are working to ensure that citizens, communities and the voluntary sector are more fully engaged in tackling social problems, and there is more equality of opportunity and respect for people of all races and religions. Active community participation in England has increased by 1.5 million people between 2001 and 2003. Charities have been supported more effectively, and £125 million is being invested across the country through the futurebuilders fund in voluntary and community organisations that help provide valuable public services. Advice on ways to engage local people in helping their communities is available on the Active Citizenship Centre website http://www.active-citizen.org.uk.

The Home Office has funded a Time Limited Development Fund (TLDF) project in the Ribble Valley, the Trinity Community Partnership (Clitheroe) Ltd. They were awarded £113,930 for three years (the project finishes 31 March 2005). The project has recruited, trained and developed mentors for young people, particularly for those excluded or in danger of being excluded from school or on the periphery of offending, and has encouraged young people to take up volunteering.

This year, 2005, is the year of the volunteer which is being delivered by the Home Office in partnership with community service volunteers and Volunteering England. This will include a whole range of events in local communities across the country that aim to celebrate the contribution which volunteers make to the quality of people's lives, and encourage more people to volunteer.

We are particularly keen to encourage young people, black and minority ethnic groups, those with no qualifications and disabled people to get involved. More details can be found at www.yearofthevolunteer.org .

Detailed information on the impact of Home Office policies across the full range of responsibilities is set out in the Home Office Annual Report and in the Strategic Plan for 2004–08, available on the Home Office website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Art Galleries

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many publicly-funded art galleries there are in England; and how many are open to the public. [223711]

Estelle Morris: There are 94 art galleries in England that receive public funding directly from Arts Council England (ACE) or my Department.

ACE directly funds 91 art galleries and DCMS sponsors three major national art galleries: the National Gallery; the National Portrait Gallery; and the Tate. In addition, two of the national museums we sponsor, the Victoria and Albert Museum and the Wallace Collection, hold substantial art collections.

All are open to the public.

Many art galleries and museums also receive public funds through their involvement in programmes such as Renaissance and Creative Partnerships, or from their local authority.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many civil servants in her Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223918]

Mr. Caborn: There have been no civil servants from the Department for Culture, Media and Sport who have (a) been relocated or (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months.

Departmental Budget

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the most recent figures are for her Department's budget (a) in 2005–06 and (b) in each year for which projections have been made, broken down by budget sub-head. [223760]

Mr. Caborn: The information is not yet readily available in the form requested by my hon. Friend.

I have therefore set out as follows the summary details of the resource budget allocations to the Department's sectors arising from the Spending Review. The information requested will be available in the Department's Annual Report which is expected to be published at the end of April.

London 2012

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether it is her policy that new sports facilities built in London should support the London 2012 bid. [223692]

Tessa Jowell: The plans for the London 2012 Olympic venues have been developed in close co-operation with sports bodies to ensure that, if the bid is successful, facilities meet the needs of sports in the capital and around the country for many years to come.

On 16 March, Sport England launched Active Places Power, which has been designed to help local authorities and sports organisations to identify gaps in provision and to form strategies for sports facility investment. This will be particularly important if London stages the 2012 Olympic games, in order to plan for new training venues around the country.

At present, the UK does not have adequate training facilities for domestic or visiting athletes and the new Lee Valley athletics centre, at Pickett's Lock, is just one example of a facility that will help to meet this shortfall, thus complimenting the proposed Olympic venue competition provision.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what criteria were used in making the decision to locate the new athletics facility for London announced on 21 March at Pickett's Lock rather than the proposed site for London 2012. [223693]

Tessa Jowell: The decision to locate a new athletics centre in the Lee Valley, at Pickett's Lock, was taken in 2002 by UK Athletics following a detailed site selection exercise. The overall selection criteria included: site compatibility; lottery funding criteria; capital viability; revenue viability; deliverability and readiness; location; planning permission; transportation; regeneration and other miscellaneous issues in relation to support for elite athletes.

The Lee Valley athletics centre will be completed in 2006 and is part of UK Athletics' London wide strategy to have a synthetic outdoor track in every London borough, supported by a range of indoor centres across London.

At present, the UK does not have adequate training facilities for domestic or visiting athletes and the Lee Valley athletics centre will help to meet this shortfall, thus complimenting the proposed Olympic venue competition provision.

Sports Funding

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what Sport England's policy is on sports' national governing bodies discussing reductions in their funding with the media. [223694]

Mr. Caborn: Sport England announced its four-year funding for 32 National Governing Bodies of Sport on 1 February 2005. All Governing Bodies were informed of these decisions prior to the publication of the funding media release on the Sport England website. Substantial press coverage followed the announcement, with both increases and decreases in funding widely covered. The Governing Bodies were at full liberty to discuss their funding with key internal and external audiences. Sport England has not changed—nor does it intend to change—this policy of open discussion.

UK Sport

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether the new Chair of UK Sport was the candidate recommended by the interview panel. [223696]

Tessa Jowell: In accordance with the Code of Practice of the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the panel offered Ministers a choice of candidates judged to be suitable against the established selection criteria.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Anti-corruption

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the value was of business supported by the Export Credits Guarantee Department for Rolls-Royce under interim anti-bribery and corruption arrangements between May and November 2004. [219354]

Mr. Alexander: Zero.

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the value was of business supported by the Export Credits Guarantee Department for BAE Systems under interim anti-bribery and corruption arrangements between May and November 2004. [219356]

Mr. Alexander: £750 million.

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what changes there have been in the rules in respect of bribery and corruption in contracts involving UK businesses in recent months; and if she will make a statement. [207276]

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

Mr. Alexander: ECGD introduced new anti-bribery and corruption procedures in May 2004. Revised procedures came into force on 1 December 2004, which took account of concerns expressed by customers and their representative trade associations about the workability of some aspects of the procedures.

On 18 March 2005, the Export Credits Guarantee Department launched a consultation on the changes to its anti-bribery and corruption procedures introduced in December 2004. Details of this can be found on its website at www.ecgd.gov.uk

Arms Sales (Indonesia)

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) on what date the Export Credits Guarantee Department was informed of the decisions by Alvis to use Mrs. Siti Rakhmana as an agent in connection with the sale of Scorpion and Stormer vehicles to Indonesia, supported by the Export Credits Guarantee Department; [217434]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 10 February 2005, Official Report, column 1786W, on arms sales (Indonesia), what the name was of the agent that the Export Credits Guarantee Department were aware Alvis had employed in relation to the sale of Scorpion and Stormer vehicles to Indonesia; [217611]

(3) on what date the Export Credits Guarantee Department was made aware that Alvis had employed an agent in relation to the sale of Scorpion and Stormer vehicles to Indonesia. [217610]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 24 February 2005]: ECGD was informed by Alvis as part of the application process that at least one agent would be employed in connection with contracts to export Scorpion and Stormer vehicles to Indonesia. The original applications were dated June 1994 and March 1995. At that time, ECGD's application process did not require customers to disclose the names of agents to be employed. ECGD has not been informed subsequently by Alvis (or the BAE Systems group) of the name of any agent that was employed.

Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan Pipeline

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her Department's assessment is of the environmental sustainability of the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [213686]

Mr. Alexander: ECGD, with the assistance of independent environmental and technical consultants, carried out a rigorous assessment of the environmental, social and human rights impacts and financial and project risks of the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project before making its decision on support. Its conclusion was that the environmental, social and human rights impacts of the project had been properly and sufficiently addressed and that the project, as specified, complied in all material respects with relevant guidelines and standards. ECGD's decision to provide support was announced to the House on 17 December 2003, Official Report, column 138WS, and a note of its decision placed in the Libraries of the House and on the ECGD website on the same day.

ECGD receives regular reports from the project company and from independent consultants that are monitoring the implementation of the project on behalf of all members of the Lender Group. As a result of these reports, ECGD continues to believe that the project is environmentally, socially and economically sustainable.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether breaches of the World Bank's involuntary resettlement policy (OD 4.30) constitute breaches of the project agreements for the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [218293]

Mr. Alexander: A breach of the World Bank involuntary resettlement policy (OD 4.30) would represent a breach of the Export Credits Guarantee Department (ECGD) loan agreement for the project if it were considered to have a material effect on the project. Breaches not rectified within a reasonable period, in accordance with the project's Environment and Social Action Plan and the ECGD loan agreement, would constitute an incident for which an event of default could be called.

A Social and Resettlement Action Plan (SRAP) Monitoring Panel, made up of international resettlement and social development experts, has been monitoring the implementation of the Resettlement Action Plan, including the expropriation of land for the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline project. The SRAP panel's reports are sent to the lender group and are also published on the project website at: www.caspiandevelopmentandexport.com.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what audits of record-keeping have been carried out by her Department on (a) quality control and (b) health and safety on the Turkey section of the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [218294]

Mr. Alexander: None.

WorleyParsons and D'Appolonia, independent expert consultants acting on behalf of ECGD and the other lenders to the ETC project, directly monitor and report to the lenders on quality control and health and safety issues.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) when the Export Credits Guarantee Department was supplied with a copy of Trevor Osborne's 18 June 2004 report on the field assessment of coating damage to the Georgian pipeline; and when she first read the report; [218554]

(2) when the Export Credits Guarantee Department first received the results of ShawCor tests on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline; [218558]

(3) when the Export Credits Guarantee Department first received the results of the BP-commissioned Advantica Laboratory tests on SPC 2888 used on the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [218559]

Mr. Alexander: The Export Credits Guarantee Department (ECGD) has not seen these reports.

ECGD, and the other members of the lender group, rely on the expert analysis of independent consultants who monitor compliance with appropriate standards and provide ECGD with regular progress reports. Although they may take account of relevant reports produced by interested parties which are brought to their attention, with the exception of some of the Advantica laboratory tests, the independent consultants have not seen these particular reports.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessments of alternative anti-corrosion systems were requested by the Export Credits Guarantee Department prior to the selection of SPC 2888 for the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline. [218557]

Mr. Alexander: None.

ECGD and the other members of the lender group receive advice from independent consultants on the technical aspects of the project.

The role of the independent consultants was not to re-design the project, nor to seek alternatives, but to confirm that aspects of the pipeline, including SPC 2888, were fit for purpose. As it was content that this was the case, it was not obliged to request assessments of alternatives.

Business Support (Hartlepool)

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the (a) financial and (b) other assistance, excluding regional development agency grants, her Department has given to businesses in Hartlepool since 1997. [215272]

Nigel Griffiths: Total Core funding of £5.79 million since April 2001 provided to Business Link Tees Valley (BLTV), has laid the foundation on which they have sourced additional funding projected at £20.5 million for the benefit of businesses in Tees Valley, up to 31 March 2005. Such funding and the creation of partnership working allowed the following to be delivered within Tees Valley:

355 businesses have been helped to start.

957 established businesses have been helped to increase their productivity through BLTV's impartial brokerage service. These interventions have introduced a range of DTI funded as well as other public and private sector services such as subsidised consultancy (ERDF), training services (TEC/LSC), research and business information etc.

Since April 2003, 768 individuals have been actively helped to develop their business ideas, with interest in enterprise being encouraged in all areas of Hartlepool's community from college students, women entrepreneurs and members of ethnic minority communities, through to disadvantaged wards.

DTI Enterprise Grant Scheme

Figures for the enterprise grant scheme before 1 April 2002 are not available, and this scheme transferred to RDA's on 1 April 2004. Between 1 April 2002 and 31 March 2004, six firms in Hartlepool were granted a total of £112,515.

DTI Small Merit Awards for Research and Technology (SMART)

Figures for the SMART Scheme before 1 April 2002 are not available., Between 1 April 2002 and 31 March 2004, two firms in Hartlepool were granted a total of £73,488 under this scheme.

Small Firms Loan Guarantee Scheme

The following table lists the number of loans and the value of guarantees issued to small businesses in the Hartlepool post code area since 1997.

	Value (£)
1997–98	55,000
1998–99	27,500
1999–2000	0
2001–02	0
2002–03	0
2003–04	253,000
Total	335,500

International trade

DTI has also provided funding through its Passport Companies Programme since 2000. This programme, delivered through UKTI provides individual companies with up to £3,000 to assist them to access export markets. We are unable to provide specific figures for Hartlepool at this time.

Businesses (Edinburgh)

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps the Government has taken to help small businesses in Edinburgh, North and Leith since 1997. [222911]

Mrs. McGuire: I have been asked to reply.

Since 1997 the Government have built a platform of economic stability which allows all businesses, small and large, to thrive. Businesses in Edinburgh North and Leith, and throughout the UK generally, are benefiting from low inflation, low interest rates and sound public finances. Furthermore, the UK now has the lowest ever corporation tax rates for small businesses and the lowest starting rate among major industrialised countries. Other initiatives introduced since 1997 have included the introduction and improvement of R and D tax credits, the reform of capital gains tax and steps to reduce the regulatory burden for business. Further support is delivered through the Scottish Executive and its various agencies.

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many new businesses have been established in Edinburgh, North and Leith since 1997. [222912]

Mrs. McGuire: I have been asked to reply.

The precise information requested is not available. However, data from the Committee of Scottish Clearing Bankers (CSCB) show that there have been 1,767 new business accounts opened in Edinburgh North and Leith since 2002.

Clothing Exports (Tariffs)

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the total revenue from tariffs imposed on clothing exports from developing countries in the last year for which figures are available, broken down by country. [209531]

Mr. Alexander: None.

The data required to make an accurate estimate of tariff revenues collected by the European Community are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Constitutional Treaty

John Cryer: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has had with ministerial colleagues regarding provision of freepost by the Royal Mail during the proposed referendum on the Constitutional Treaty for the European Union. [208554]

Mr. Alexander: None.

Defender Sale

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether her Department gave written permission allowing the sale of the Fast Patrol Vessel Defender to go ahead. [213459]

Mr. Alexander: The Department did not give written permission allowing the sale of the Fast Patrol Vessel Defender to go ahead.

DTI/EU Co-operation

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions her Department has had with the European Commission on the supporting, co-ordinating and complementary action which may be taken by the EU with regard to industry under article I-17 of the proposed EU constitution. [209587]

Mr. Alexander: None. The Treaty has not yet been ratified by the United Kingdom and several other member states and is therefore not yet in force.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee for co-ordination in the internal market field met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [214294]

Mr. Alexander: The Internal Market Advisory Committee has had three meetings of member states' internal market directors general and the Commission over the period of the Italian, Irish and Dutch presidencies of the EU. The UK was represented at these meetings by Ms Jo Durning, Director of Europe, Europe and World Trade Directorate in DTI. The following table outlines when and where the Internal Market Advisory Committee meetings took place.

	Location
18 November 2003	Brussels
7 May 2004	Brussels

Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad Scheme

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what role the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad scheme plays in providing (a) practical and (b) financial assistance for developing global sales. [223561]

Mr. Alexander: The Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad scheme (SESA) provides grants to SMEs seeking to participate in overseas trade fairs or sectoral missions. The key purpose of SESA support is to help less experienced businesses to identify opportunities and deal with low-level commercial risk in investigating export markets. The scheme also supports seminars which promote UK sectoral capabilities to overseas business people and opinion formers.

Gas Appliances

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she is taking to protect consumers from the fitting of faulty gas appliances. [223531]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

Gas safety legislation places duties on those installing gas appliances, whether new or used, to ensure that they can be used without risk. Anyone installing a gas appliance must be competent to do so and all gas installation businesses must be registered with the Council for Registered Gas Installers (CORGI).

Additionally, most landlords have duties to ensure that gas appliances they provide are installed by a CORGI registered business, that they are maintained in a safe condition and receive annual gas safety checks.

HSE has published multi-lingual leaflets for landlords, tenants and consumers that provide advice about the safe installation and use of gas appliances.

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what guidance she has issued to the gas supply industry on steps to reduce the level of deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning in the home. [223532]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

HSE has issued guidance to gas suppliers on their duties under gas safety legislation. HSE also regularly meets with gas suppliers in their capacity as key stakeholders in securing continuing consumer safety through publicity and advice about the risks from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Newcastle-under-Lyme

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps the Government have taken to help small businesses in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223259]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The Government, via the local Business Link and Advantage West Midlands have provided significant support to small businesses in both Newcastle-under-Lyme and the whole of Staffordshire.

Wide-ranging support has been delivered via the local Business Link operator and the Regional Development Agency, Advantage West Midlands (AWM). Core funding from the Small Business Service (SBS) to Business Link Staffordshire has totalled approximately £2.8 million per annum for each operational year since April 2001. Additional funding at least equal to that amount has been sourced from local and regional partners and ERDF as a direct result of that core funding. Whilst that funding covers the whole of the county of Staffordshire, Business Link has been pro-active in its work with companies based in Newcastle-under-Lyme.

There are a total of 3,170 businesses based in the Newcastle-under-Lyme district. These businesses are able to access a wide range of business support services. These range from basic business information through to long-term, in-depth support project that assist companies to diversify into new product areas or to capitalise on new market opportunities.

Businesses are able to benefit from a range of Workforce Development services to help them achieve the Investor's in People (IIP) standard and develop their workforce. Subsidised workshops are available to assist businesses to become IIP accredited, and to maintain that accreditation once they have secured it. In total, companies are able to access up to £1,000 financial support to assist them along their journey to Investors in People recognition.

The new Director Development Programme is also able to assist businesses that are seeking to grow and develop by enhancing and developing the skills of the directors within the business. Individual training plans are agreed with directors to encourage them to develop their business skills in order to enhance the profitability and long-term success of the businesses they are responsible for.

Business Link Staffordshire has worked with over 1,650 businesses in Newcastle-under-Lyme since April 2001, a total of 52 per cent. of the overall business population. Some of those companies have been assisted to diversify into new products and markets to secure their ongoing viability. Other businesses in the area have been assisted with the implementation of e-commerce to ensure that in today's modern society they are able to respond to customer demand for online ordering.

4 per cent. of the total number of businesses the Business Link have worked with (140) have received intensive assistance to enable those SME's to implement improvements to specific business practices.

With support from the DTI and AWM the Rover Task Force has supported more than 160 Staffordshire companies in the automotive supply chain to diversify and to help start ups with high growth potential to establish themselves, 16 of which are based in Newcastle-under-Lyme. The regional Accelerate programme which helps manufacturing companies modernise themselves has also provided specific assistance to three companies in Newcastle-under-Lyme. The Manufacturing Advisory Service (MAS) a DTI and AWM funded initiative has supported 150 companies in the Newcastle-under-Lyme and immediately surrounding area. With 65 companies having received in depth support.

A key area of concern in Newcastle-under-Lyme is the rate of new business formation. Business Link Staffordshire has assisted over 150 entrepreneurs to establish new businesses within the constituency. Those businesses are assisted for a period of two years to ensure they are capable of surviving in the long term. Our business start up survival rate after 12 months is 92 per cent. which reflects the depth and quality of business advice those start up businesses receive. Each start up business must produce a comprehensive business plan that is then reviewed by an experienced business advisor. Having reviewed the plan, goals are established with the entrepreneur which are then reviewed at regular intervals. Any variation from those goals is then explored in detail with the entrepreneur and where appropriate, action plans are developed to help them get back on track.

The availability of suitable premises has also been an issue in Newcastle-under-Lyme and through working closely with partners, including the Business Innovation Centre, a range of specific support has been made available. First, a number of incubator and business starter units, managed by the Business Innovation Centre, have been developed by Staffordshire county council, bringing brownfield sites back into effective use. Those businesses have often qualified for grant assistance of up to £3,000 to develop innovative products.

Business Link Staffordshire has worked closely with the north Staffordshire regeneration zone and other relevant local bodies, including Keele and Staffordshire university to ensure that businesses have been able to benefit from other services, including STEP and knowledge transfer placements. The emerging science park at Keele university has benefited from a dedicated medical technologies adviser to assist businesses within that cluster to establish themselves on the park and become successful.

Since 1997 Advantage West Midlands and it's predecessors responsible for delivery have offered Regional Selective Assistance (RSA) and Selective Finance for Investment (SFI) grants to 10 companies in Newcastle-Under-Lyme totalling £7.8 million. Take up of the grants offered has been £560,000 to two companies. It is expected that over the coming months a further five companies will receive grant support totalling £850,000. The discrepancy between grant offered and take up is largely due to the £5 million project with S and A Food not proceeding.

The SBS via it's SMART and Grant for Research and Development product has provided offers of grant totalling £611,000 to support 14 companies in Staffordshire (one of which is based in Newcastle-under-Lyme, Faraday Technology £114,000 to develop new products and bring them to market.

The North Staffordshire Risk Capital Fund is available to businesses in the Newcastle-under-Lyme area, encouraging businesses to consider appropriate long-term finance rather than short term overdrafts. This is a relatively new initiative that will be on benefit to companies in the long-term.

Business Link Staffordshire has also provided funding for the Minority Business Association in north Staffordshire to ensure that businesses operated by people from ethnic minority backgrounds are not disadvantaged in any way. The MBA has been proactive in its work in Newcastle-under-Lyme.

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses have benefited from regional selective assistance in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223260]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 23 March 2005]: I have asked the Chief Executive of Advantage West Midlands to write to my hon. Friend; a copy of that letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many new businesses have (a) started up in and (b) relocated to Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223261]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 23 March 2005]: Figures for the number of firms that have relocated are not available for Newcastle-under-Lyme, or for any other area.

Barclays bank's survey of business creation includes non-VAT registered firms and shows that there were 5,500 business start-ups in Staffordshire county (which contains the local authority of Newcastle-under-Lyme) in 2003 and a further 5,000 in the first nine months of 2004. This represents an increase of 16 per cent. on the first nine months of 2003.

Data are not available for Newcastle-under-Lyme local authority. Business start-up data for counties are not available for before 2003.

Barclays data show that there were 445,000 (revised) business start-ups in England and Wales in 2003, a 16 per cent. increase on the year before. A further 396,000 businesses started up in England and Wales in the first nine months of 2004. This represents an increase of 14 per cent. on the first nine months of 2003. Barclays do not publish data on the number of businesses that have relocated.

DTI figures based solely on VAT registrations for Newcastle-under-Lyme local authority are shown as follows for 1997 to 2003. Data for 2004 will be available in autumn 2005.

Newcastle-under-Lyme

Business Start-ups and Closures: VAT Registrations and De-registrations 1994–2003, Small Business Service, available from the Library of the House and also at: http://www.sbs.gov.uk/analytical/statistics/vatstats.php

VAT registrations do not capture all start-up activity. Businesses are unlikely to be registered if they fall below the compulsory VAT threshold, which has risen in each year since 1997. Only 1.8 million out of 4 million enterprises were registered for VAT at the start of 2003.

Plutonium

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what consultations her Department has had with outside organisations about the best way to dispose of plutonium waste. [223541]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department has had discussions with a range of organisations, including the Committee on Radioactive Waste Management (CoRWM) which is responsible for advising the Government on the long-term management of the UK's higher activity radioactive waste, including any plutonium that comes to be regarded as waste. CoRWM is due to report its recommendations in 2006.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what plans her Department has for dealing with the plutonium stockpile; and if she will make a statement. [223542]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Future options for the management of the plutonium stockpile are kept under constant review and I welcome the work recently undertaken by the Parliamentary Office of Science and Technology and the BNFL stakeholder dialogue working group on plutonium management.

The Nuclear Decommissioning Authority (NDA) will become the owner of UK's plutonium stockpile as of 1 April 2005. In the meantime the storage of plutonium in the UK continues to be managed in strict accordance with international requirements and has been updated post 9/11. UK plutonium will remain in protective storage pending decisions on whether to immobilise it as a waste or to use it as fuel.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much her Department has allocated to security measures to protect (a) nuclear power stations and (b) plutonium stores in each of the last five years; what budget has been allocated for each of the next five years; and if she will make a statement. [223543]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It is the operators of the licensed civil nuclear sites that pay for the security measures to protect these sites, not the Department of Trade and Industry. The security arrangements are regulated by the Office for Civil Nuclear Security (OCNS). OCNS approves the security measures in place and monitors compliance with these security plans.

Private Finance Initiative

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many private finance initiative and public private partnership contracts with her Department have been won by subsidiaries of Halliburton in each year from 1997; what the terms were of each contract; and if she will make a statement. [205076]

Nigel Griffiths: DTI officials are not aware of any PFI/PPP contracts between the Department and subsidiaries of Halliburton.

Road Safety

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what meetings her Department has recently held to discuss road safety issues in respect of vehicle use and construction regulations, with particular reference to the recall by Volkswagen of vehicles because of problems with outer drive shafts; and if she will make a statement. [223024]

Mr. Jamieson: I have been asked to reply.

The Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) is responsible for supervising and monitoring vehicle recalls. VOSA's vehicle safety branch holds regular discussions with all vehicle and automotive part manufacturers, including Volkswagen, on issues of vehicle and component safety. Neither VOSA nor Volkswagen are aware of a drive shaft recall.

Sheffield Europe Week

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much her Department spent sponsoring Sheffield Europe Week; from which budget within her Department this cost was met; and what unit was responsible for this project. [221233]

Mr. Alexander: United Kingdom Trade and Investment (UKTI), whose parent Departments are the Department of Trade and Industry and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, did not provide direct financial support to the Sheffield in Europe Week programme of events, which ran from 25 February to 6 March 2005. The UKTI regional team for Yorkshire and Humberside did endorse some of the events by agreeing to the use of the UKTI brand. UKTI endorsement was considered worthwhile in order to promote language training in the region through the Regional Language Network and to help foster an understanding of how different cultures and the European Union impact on businesses and international trade.

Small and Medium-sized Enterprises

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many small and medium-sized enterprises were established (a) between 1997 and 2001 and (b) since 2001. [222684]

Nigel Griffiths: Barclays Bank's latest survey of business creation includes non-VAT registered firms and shows that there were 453,000 business start-ups in England and Wales in 2004, the highest since the survey began in 1998.

Barclays data show that there were 1,554,000 business start-ups in total in England and Wales in the years 1997, 1998, 1999 and 2000 combined. There were 1,606,000 business start-ups in total in England and Wales in the years 2001, 2002, 2003 and 2004 combined.

DTI figures show there were 728,755 VAT registrations in total in the UK in the years 1997, 1998, 1999 and 2000 combined. There were 534,035 VAT registrations in total the UK in the years 2001, 2002 and 2003 combined. Data for 2004 will be available in autumn 2005.

Data on VAT registrations are available in the publication "Business Start-ups and Closures: VAT Registrations and De-registrations 1994–2003", available from the Library of the House and also at http://www.sbs.gov.uk/analytical/statistics/vatstats.php.

VAT registrations do not capture all start-up activity. Businesses are unlikely to be registered if they fall below the compulsory VAT threshold, which has risen in each year since 1997. Only 1.8 million out of 4 million enterprises were registered for VAT at the start of 2003.

Both Barclays and VAT registration data include enterprises of all sizes. However, 99.8 per cent. of enterprises are small or medium-sized.

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on the contribution made by small and medium-sized enterprises to the UK economy, with particular reference to the level of exports; and what steps her Department takes to assist small and medium-sized enterprises which rely on exports. [223338]

Nigel Griffiths: The business success of small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) underpins our national prosperity. At the start of 2003, the 4 million SMEs in the UK represented 99.8 per cent. of all businesses and contributed some 52.4 per cent. of all private sector turnover (excluding finance sector). Some 16 per cent. of UK SMEs are exporters. Through their international trade activity, these SMEs help to strengthen the existing drivers of UK productivity—innovation and competition; thus contributing to the UK's overall competitiveness.

Through UK Trade and Investment (UKTI), the Government deliver a range of support services to help SMEs win business overseas. Details of the assistance available is set out on UKTI's corporate website www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk.

UK Trade and Investment

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will announce the proposed changes to (a) the structure and staffing and (b) the focus of UK Trade and Investment; when these changes are to take effect; and if she will make a statement. [203895]

Mr. Alexander: The structure and staffing of the organisation has to be determined in the light of UKTI's future strategy and its focus, as set out in UKTI's Corporate Plan 2004–07, and the financial and manpower resources available following the SR2004 settlement.

UK Trade and Investment's future strategy is set out in its Corporate Plan 2004–07, available at www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk <http://www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk>. Details of the settlement are set out in the Efficiency Technical Note for UK Trade and Investment, also available at www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk <http://www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk>

Bermuda

Mr. Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what steps he has taken to assist in tackling money laundering in Bermuda; [223776]

(2) what discussions he has had with the Bermudan Monetary Authority on money laundering. [223777]

Mr. Rammell: The UK discusses money-laundering with the Bermudan Monetary Authority (BMA) mainly through our joint participation in the Caribbean

Financial Action Task Force (CFATF—the regional body for anti-money laundering and anti-terrorist financing in the Caribbean and Central America).

The UK has provided training to Bermudan officials and law enforcement officers both directly through the Foreign and Commonwealth Office-funded Regional Financial Services Adviser and indirectly through the Caribbean Anti-Money Laundering Programme (which we support financially). A senior staff member of the BMA also recently worked on secondment for two years with the UK Financial Services Authority.

Bolivia

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of (a) the prospects for regional autonomy in Bolivia's provinces and (b) the impact of such autonomy on the country's long-term territorial integrity. [223326]

Mr. Alexander: We understand that a referendum on regional autonomy and the election of departmental prefects may take place later in the year. We hope this will strengthen national cohesion.

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of recent political instability in Bolivia; and if he will make a statement. [223327]

Mr. Alexander: We are following closely political developments in Bolivia. We hope that all concerned in Bolivia will work constructively to find lasting solutions to the challenges facing the country within a democratic and constitutional framework.

Burma

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what political progress in Burma would be required to enable the UK Government to attend EU-ASEAN meetings chaired by Burma in 2006–07. [223423]

Mr. Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to my hon. and learned Friend the Member for Redcar (Vera Baird) on 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 797–98W.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make representations for the inclusion of the Myanmar Oil and Gas Enterprise within investment sanctions provisions under the EU common position on Burma. [223425]

Mr. Alexander: The UK led EU efforts in October 2004 to strengthen the measures in the common position in light of the political situation in Burma.

All aspects of the common position have to be agreed by all 25 member states. There is no consensus at present for the inclusion of Myanmar Oil and Gas Enterprise.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has received from Burmese citizens in the UK about having to pay a percentage of their income to the Burmese embassy in London. [223427]

Mr. Alexander: None.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of whether German manufactured motor engines have been used in Ukrainian armoured personnel carriers supplied to Burma. [223471]

Mr. Alexander: We are not aware of this and have therefore not made any assesament. However, we and our EU partners have raised our concerns with the Ukrainian authorities about the provision of military items to Burma. Although Ukraine is not party to the arms embargo that forms part of the EU common position on Burma, we will continue to make them aware of our position and encourage them to align themselves with it.

China

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of China's anti-secession law; and if he will make a statement. [223324]

Mr. Alexander: Anti-secession legislation, passed by China's National People's Congress, on 14 March, is largely a codification of China's long-held position regarding Taiwan. The impact of the legislation will depend on the reaction of others and how China seeks to apply it.

Although China has stressed its desire for a peaceful resolution of the issue, we are concerned that the legislation makes reference to the possibility of the use of "non-peaceful means". We are strongly opposed to the use of force.

We and others in the international community remain concerned about regional stability. We continue to appeal to both sides to avoid unilateral measures which might heighten tensions.

Our view is still that the Taiwan question should be settled peacefully through negotiation between the people on both sides of the Taiwan Straits. We believe that the continuation of dialogue over practical measures and the search for pragmatic solutions to differences will bring benefits to both sides and contribute towards a peaceful resolution of the issue.

Death Penalty

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the Government made to the recent round table conference on the death penalty held in Zagreb. [222988]

Mr. MacShane: The UK was not represented at this round table conference and did not make any representations to it.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223433]

Mr. Alexander: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not have a financial plan for 2011–12. Budgets from the most recent spending round cover the period up to financial year 2007–08.

Diplomatic Posts

Mr. Wilkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British diplomatic posts were (a) gained and (b) lost during calendar year 2004 to the personnel establishments of UK Missions in (i) Council of Europe member states including international bodies of which the UK is a member located in Europe, (ii) Africa and (iii) Latin America including Belize and the Dominican Republic. [217755]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 24 February 2005]: The introduction of a new IT system means that information is not available from the start of calendar year 2004. New data from this system are also not completely comparable with the previous arrangement.

Subject to this caveat, the changes in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's personnel establishments between October 2003 and December 2004 in the areas in question were as follows:

(i) Council of Europe member states including international bodies of which the UK is a member located in Europe. Plus 25.

(ii) Africa. Plus 67.

(iii) Latin America including Belize and the Dominican republic. Plus 8.

Eritrea

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what representations he has made to the Eritrean Government concerning the arrest of (a) Roman Catholics in Asmara on 9 January, (b) evangelical Christians on 9 January, (c) members of the Kale Hiwot church on 9 January, (d) evangelical Christians on 21 January and (e) Orthodox priests in November 2004; [222504]

(2) what assessment he has made of the extent of persecutions of officially allowed denominations in Eritrea; [222505]

(3) what representations he has made to the Eritrean Government concerning (a) reports of a task force appointed by the Eritrean Government to persecute Pentecostal and Evangelical Christians, (b) the arrest of Christian women on 12 February, (c) the arrest of Professor Senere Zaid on 3 February, (d) the arrest of members of the Kale Hiwot Church in di-Tekelzan on 4 February and (e) the reported intimidation and harassment of those renting their premises to Christians from forbidden denominations. [222506]

Mr. Mullin: We remain concerned at reports of the arrest and detention of members of all religious groups in Eritrea.

We raise these concerns with the Eritrean Government regularly and were able to raise these recent reports with the Eritrean ambassador in London on 16 March. Our ambassador in Asmara has also followed up these cases during his meetings with senior Eritrean officials last week. We will continue to make clear our concern.

Estonia

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what instructions have been given to the UK embassy in Tallinn in relation to (a) support for and (b) dealings with Scotland House. [220303]

Mr. Mullin: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to him on 9 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1891–92W.

European Constitution

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 17 January 2005, Official Report, column 701W, on the European Constitution, when a budget for informing the public about the EU, including about the proposed EU Constitutional Treaty, will be set for financial year 2005–06; if he will list the (a) individual budget lines and (b) sums allocated within the overall budget of £613,000 for informing the public about the EU; when the budget of £613,000 was allocated for this purpose; how much of the budget of £613,000 for informing the public about the EU and the proposed EU Constitutional Treaty has been spent to date; what payments have been allocated to non-government organisations for the purpose of informing the public about the EU and the proposed EU Constitutional Treaty; and if he will make a statement. [221369]

Mr. MacShane: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) budget for communications activities on the EU for financial year (FY) 2005–06 has not yet been allocated. FCO departmental budgets will be confirmed over the next month. The current Europe Directorate budget of £613,000 for EU communications activities for FY 2004–05 is allocated towards various communications activities, including media relations (£55,000), materials (£160,000), ministerial regional visits (£25,000), e-communications (£80,000), partnership marketing (£20,000) and development of a longer-term communications strategy (£55,000). Exact expenditure will be confirmed at the end of FY 2004–05.

The FCO's budget for EU communications activities in 2004–05 was initially set at £200,000. This was increased to £613,000 in the mid-year spending review in November 2004.

No payments have been allocated to non-governmental organisations for the purpose of informing the public about the EU and the proposed EU Constitutional Treaty.

European Union

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what proposals have been made, and by whom, for a change of name of European Union (a) regulations and (b) directives; what the policy of the Government are on the proposals; what consultations the Government have undertaken on those proposals; and by what procedure such a change would be made. [223205]

Mr. MacShane: These proposals are to be found in the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe which the Government support and have put forward for consideration by both Houses of Parliament. Specifically, Article I-33 of the Constitutional Treaty, which describes the legal acts of the Union, provides for (among other things) European laws and European framework laws. The definition of a "European law" in Article I-33 corresponds closely to the definition of a "regulation" in the existing Article 249 TEC and the definition of a "European framework law" in Article I-33 corresponds to the definition of a "directive" in Article 249. Further detail on these points is set out in Command Paper 6459, page 32—the Foreign and Commonwealth Office Commentary on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe.

General Affairs and External Relations Council

Mr. Hood: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the outcome was of the General Affairs and External Relations Council held on 16 March; what the Government's stance was on the issues discussed, including their voting record; and if he will make a statement. [223195]

Mr. MacShane: The information is as follows:

Outcome of the 16 March 2005 General Affairs and External Relations Council

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary and John Grant (UK Permanent Representative to the EU) represented the UK at the General Affairs and External Relations Council (GAERC) in Brussels on 16 March 2005.

Conclusions were agreed on the Middle East, Human Rights—Preparation for the Commission on Human Rights (CHR), Lebanon, Croatia, and Iran.

General Affairs Session

Preparations for the European Council—22–23 March, Brussels

The Council discussed the revised European Council Conclusions. Member states raised the importance of the Lisbon Strategy and the importance of growth and employment. UK and a number of other member states underlined the importance of further developing the EU's medium and long-term strategy to tackle climate change. Language was also agreed on better regulation and administrative burdens. Overall, member states thought that the text represented a good balance. The Government agree.

Enlargement—Croatia

The Council referred to the Conclusions reached by the European Council in June 2004 confirming Croatia as a candidate for membership as well as further Conclusions reached in December 2004. The Council reaffirmed the EU's commitment to the accession of Croatia and referred to the importance of full cooperation with the ICTY on the part of all Western Balkans countries as an essential requirement for closer relations with the EU. After deliberation by the Council it was agreed that the opening of accession negotiations should be postponed. Conclusions were accordingly agreed reiterating the importance of Croatia co-operating fully with ICTY, and confirming that negotiations would open as soon as the Council had established that Croatia was so doing. The Government underlined their desire to see Croatia as a full member of the EU as soon as possible but reiterated that this could only happen when there was full cooperation with the ICTY.

Future financing 2007–13

The presidency presented its so-called "negotiating box" for future financing—essentially a list of issues up for negotiation in the form of possible June European Council Conclusions. The presidency did not invite comments. The Government's position on future financing remains that the Commission's proposals for real term spending increases of 35 per cent. from 2007 to 2013 are unrealistic and unacceptable. We, along with France, Germany, the Netherlands, Austria and Sweden, believe that the priorities of an enlarged Union can be met within a budget of 1 per cent. EU GNI. This is sufficient to meet the challenge of cohesion provided that resources are focused on priorities—namely the poorest member states.

External Relations Session

Middle East

Over lunch the Foreign Secretary briefed Partners on the outcome of the London Meeting and thanked them for their support. There was agreement on the need for continued EU engagement. Ministers then turned to the situation in Lebanon, reaffirming their strong support for a sovereign, independent and democratic Lebanon. They welcomed the commitment to these values shown by the people of Lebanon. They highlighted the importance for the EU that the forthcoming legislative elections in Lebanon be held in accordance with a free and fair electoral process based on the Lebanese constitution, free from foreign interference. The EU will closely monitor the electoral process and be ready to provide assistance. This may, if invited, include sending an election observation mission. Ministers agreed Council Conclusions calling for a full and immediate implementation of UNSCR 1559, the withdrawal of Syrian intelligence services, and the importance of free and fair elections.

Iran

High Representative Javier Solana updated the Council on the state of play of negotiations with Iran on its nuclear programme undertaken by France, Germany and the UK (the 'E3'), plus the Council Secretariat. Ministers exchanged views on the negotiations. They expressed their support for the E3's approach, welcoming the support from the international community and the announcement by the United States on 11 March that it would actively support these negotiations.

Russia

The presidency underlined its commitment to conclude agreement on the Four Common Spaces as a package at the EU-Russia Summit on 10 May and drew to Ministers' attention the remaining issues. A number of member states raised the OSCE Border Monitoring Operation on the Georgia/Russia border and the EU's response to the blocking of its mandate. The Government welcome the progress made on the Four Common Spaces and supports the presidency in their efforts to reach an agreement.

Generalised System of Preferences (GSP)

The presidency emphasised the importance of reaching agreement on the new GSP scheme to meet the commitment made by the Council and the Commission to countries affected by the Asian tsunami to bring it into force on 1 April. Ministers discussed the two outstanding problems, which were the graduation threshold for textiles and clothing and the granting of "GSP plus" to El Salvador. Member states reiterated their positions on the graduation threshold for textiles. The Government had pushed for the same threshold across all sectors, but were willing to compromise and supported the Commission proposal in order to reach agreement in time for the 1 April deadline. However, member states arguing for a lower threshold were unwilling to compromise. The Council was unable to approve the new GSP regime. The Government will continue to work to ensure that a new GSP is agreed at the earliest opportunity.

European Neighbourhood Policy

The European Commission presented European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP) Country Reports on Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Egypt and Lebanon. There was no discussion. The Government welcome the timely preparation of the Country Reports and supports the inclusion of all of these countries in the ENP. The Government believe the ENP will provide a useful tool to encourage reform in all five countries, and progress on conflict resolution in the South Caucasus. We therefore support the recommendation in the Country Reports that Action Plans should be prepared for all five countries.

Sudan

The Council exchanged views on the situation in Sudan, especially on the implementation of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) and the conflict in Darfur. The Council expressed the hope that the negotiations underway in the UN Security Council would lead to consensus in favour of the implementation of a UN mission to Sudan and of measures that would end the violence and impunity in Darfur through referral to the International Criminal Court. This was reflected in Council Conclusions.

AOB—Zimbabwe

Over lunch the Foreign Secretary raised the 31 March Zimbabwean elections and the need for a fair but firm EU assessment. He highlighted that the UK remained concerned about the prospects for free and fair elections. Constituency boundaries had been redrawn in favour of Zanu PF, the voters' roll was a mess, newspapers had been shut down and foreign journalists prevented from working, and intimidation against the opposition continued. The elections should not be seen in isolation, but in the context of the political climate that had prevailed since the 2002 presidential elections. The changes that the Government had made in the last 30 days could not make up for the brutality and lack of respect for human rights and the rule of law over the past three years. The Foreign Secretary offered to write to Partners setting out the issues further.

Holy See

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what occasions the future arrangements for UK diplomatic representation to the Holy See were discussed with (a) the Archbishop of Westminster, as Head of the Catholic Hierarchy in England and Wales, (b) the Archbishop of Edinburgh, as Head of the Catholic Hierarchy in Scotland and (c) Archbishop Sean Brady, as Head of the Catholic Hierarchy in Ireland; what their response was to these consultations; and if he will make a statement. [222243]

Mr. MacShane: We have kept the Catholic church in the UK informed of our deliberations on a regular and informal basis. They have not raised any concerns with us over our plans.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 10 January 2005, Official Report, column 21W, on the Holy See, what the response was of the Papal Nuncio to the Government's consultation concerning revised arrangements for the UK's future diplomatic representation to the Holy See; and if he will make a statement. [222292]

Mr. MacShane: The Papal Nuncio in the UK has been kept informed of our deliberations on an informal basis and has not raised any concerns with us over our plans.

International Driving Requirements

Mr. David Marshall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what action he has taken to ensure that UK drivers are informed of the requirement in (a) Italy and (b) Spain to carry at least one reflective jacket in their cars. [222321]

Mr. MacShane: The requirement for drivers in Spain to carry at least one reflective jacket in their car has been displayed in our Travel Advice for Spain since the new regulation came into force during summer 2004.

We have recently up-dated our Travel Advice for Italy to include this requirement. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) travel advice is available on the FCO website: www.fco.gov.uk. I am writing to the AA, RAC and to motoring and travel edition in the press asking that publicity is given to this requirement for motorists in Spain and Italy.

Interpretation/Translation Services

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many companies were invited to tender for (a) interpretation and translation services and (b) provision of interpretation equipment at meetings of the G8 to be hosted by the UK. [223064]

Mr. Rammell [holding answer 22 March 2005]: No companies have been invited to tender for interpretation and translation services for work associated with the G8 Presidency. Four companies have tendered for the provision of interpretation equipment for the G8 Summit in July.

Ministerial Visits

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the purpose was of his official visit to Lahore and Gujarat in February. [223941]

Mr. Straw: Whenever possible and appropriate, I try on trips abroad of any length to visit areas beyond the capital cities concerned, as well as the capitals themselves. Thus in early 2004 I visited Peshawar as well as Islamabad, Pakistan, and Bangalore as well as New Delhi, India.

In respect of my visit to Pakistan in February 2005, the proposal for a visit to Lahore came initially from the Foreign Minister of Pakistan, Khurshid Kasuri. Lahore is his home. It is the second largest city in Pakistan, and a major centre for the media and commerce, as well as being the capital of Punjab province. Mr. Kasuri arranged for me to meet a wide cross-section of the business and political leaders of the province. In addition, I gave the keynote speech of my visit to Pakistan there, entitled: 'Pakistan and the United Kingdom: a modern partnership for engagement and understanding'.

I also expressed an interest in visiting one of the major centres to which many of the large UK population of people of Pakistani heritage trace their roots. My original idea was to visit Mirpur, in Pakistani-administered Kashmir. However, I decided not to do so for foreign policy reasons. I then sought suggestions from a number of people of Pakistani origin in the UK, in my Blackburn constituency and elsewhere. Two suggestions were made to me—Jhelum or Gujrat in Punjab province. I decided, following advice from officials, to visit the latter as it was easy to slot into my programme and because it is the home city of the Chief Minister of Punjab province, Pervaiz Ellahi. During my visit to Gujarat I was also able to pursue the Government's consular and immigration objectives.

To avoid confusion, I last visited the Indian state of Gujarat (Ahmedabad, the state capital) in September 2000.

Moldova

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions have taken place with Russia regarding Transnistria separatists in Moldova; and if he will make a statement. [223328]

Mr. MacShane: Regular discussions are held with Russia on Transnistria, principally through the framework of the EU troika. Transnistria was discussed most recently at the EU Foreign Ministers' troika meeting with Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov on 28 February. My hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (Mr. Rammell) represented the UK at this meeting. The UK and Russia also discussed Transnistria bilaterally at official level on 18 February during Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Chizhov's visit to London.

Mr. Peter Dun

Mr. Mark Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has received a copy of the Lacey Report on the conduct of officials in his Office in the case of Mr. Peter Dun, a former employee of the diplomatic service. [223592]

Mr. Alexander: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not comment on cases involving serving or former employees, nor would it be appropriate to do so in this case.

Nepal

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment has been made of Nepal's ability to combat Maoist insurgents following the suspension of non-lethal military aid by the UK and India. [223323]

Mr. Alexander: India's assistance is more immediately critical than the UK's as they provide lethal hardware. The UK's support has been non-lethal and focused on improving general professionalism and intelligence capabilities. However, given the topography of Nepal and the capabilities of the security forces and the Maoists, it does not appear that either side can win the conflict militarily. A negotiated political settlement involving all the constitutional forces offers the best way to resolve the conflict in Nepal and to create a stable democracy with good governance and respect for human rights. We assess that by taking power the King has undermined democracy, increased the risk of instability and that this is likely to lead to intensified conflict. The UK's military support has been predicated on multi-party democracy and the preservation of democratic freedoms. We are considering with international partners what our longer term policy should be in the new political context.

OSCE

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with his Russian counterpart about the functioning of the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe. [223202]

Mr. Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not had recent discussions on the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) with his Russian counterpart. I discussed OSCE business with the Russian ambassador in January and with Deputy Foreign Minister Chizhov last month. The functioning of the organisation is also the subject of frequent discussion with Russia at senior official-level in London, Brussels and Vienna. In these discussions, we have made clear to Russia the importance the UK attaches to the central role played by the OSCE in European security architecture, not least through its human dimension work. We have also set out that, while the UK is content to see OSCE reform, this must not be at the expense of the organisation's democratic values and core commitments, including in the field of human rights.

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the budgetary process for the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe. [223203]

Mr. Rammell: Agreement of the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe's (OSCE) unified budget requires the consent of all 55 participating states. There is at present no consensus on the 2005 budget or on a revision to the scales of contribution. We are concerned about the failure to reach an agreement. We are working with EU partners to find a solution, including through discussions with Russia and other participating states. In the absence of such agreement, we support the interim measures taken by the OSCE Secretary General to ensure the continuing functioning of the organisation.

Sudan

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the recommendation by the UN Human Rights Commissioner that the international criminal court should be used to prosecute Sudanese war criminals; and what discussions have taken place between the Government and the US Administration on the issue. [223329]

Mr. Mullin: We have made clear our preference for the situation in Darfur to be referred to the international criminal court (ICC), as recommended by the UN Human Rights Commissioner and the International Commission of Inquiry into Darfur. Since Sudan is not a state party to the ICC Statute, and is unlikely to refer the situation to the court, a decision by the Security Council will be required.

We are currently holding discussions with the US and other partners, in capitals and New York, on the draft text of a Security Council resolution that will address the issue of judicial accountability.

Uganda

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to his Ugandan counterpart about the use of violence by the Ugandan police against the activities of the Forum for Democratic Change; and if he will make a statement. [223007]

Mr. Mullin: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Boston and Skegness (Mr. Simmonds) on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1796W.

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the activities of the People's Redemption Army in Uganda; when it was formed; in what areas of Uganda it is located; what installations and facilities it has attacked; and if he will make a statement. [223008]

Mr. Mullin: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock) on 9 March 2005, Official Report, column 1896W.

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to his Ugandan counterpart concerning the use of violence by the Uganda Presidential Protection Brigade against the Forum for Democratic Change Women's Group's participation in International Women's Day celebrations; and if he will make a statement. [223009]

Mr. Mullin: We are not aware of violence being used against members of the Forum for Democratic Change trying to attend official Women's Day celebrations in Uganda. But we regularly make clear to the Ugandan authorities our views that opposition groups must be allowed to operate free of violence or intimidation.

Venezuela

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the Venezuelan Government's policies on (a) land reform and (b) foreign-owned land. [223325]

Mr. Alexander: We monitor political and economic developments in Venezuela closely, including on land reform. We have consistently underlined to the Venezuelan Government the importance of ensuring that land reform policies are transparent and consistent with Venezuela's domestic and international legal commitments. The Venezuelan Government have informed us that there is no distinction in their land reform policy between foreign-owned land and that owned by Venezuelans.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Business Fraud

23. Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Solicitor-General when she next expects to meet representatives of small business organisations to discuss Government measures to tackle fraudulent schemes aimed at small and medium-sized enterprises. [223622]

The Solicitor-General: I met with representatives of the Federation of Small Businesses and representatives of the CPS and SFO in March 2004. If the Federation would find another meeting helpful, I would be willing to consider this.

Iraq

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Solicitor-General what recent representations she has received on publishing the Attorney-General's advice on the legality of the war in Iraq. [223620]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1 January 2005, my office has received 20 requests for disclosure of the Attorney-General's advice on the legality of military action against Iraq from MPs, journalists and members of the public.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION

Election Participation

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what recent representations have been received by the commission on increasing participation in elections among young women. [223712]

Mr. Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it has not received any recent representations on increasing participation in elections among young women. It has, however, commissioned and published research in this area—"Gender and political participation"; conducted four educational workshops specifically for young women; and its New Initiatives Fund has supported five projects specifically aimed at raising young women's participation in politics. The commission also has a programme of community outreach to increase electoral participation among young people in general, and runs two annual student campaigns in partnership with the National Union of Students.

Postal Votes

Bob Russell: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission, if, pursuant to his oral answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 597, to the hon. Member for Colchester, he will make a further statement about registration levels for postal votes in Newcastle, Cardiff and Stevenage. [224240]

Mr. Viggers: In my response to the hon. Member for Colchester on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 597, I stated that I had been advised that

> "in some areas, such as Newcastle, Cardiff and Stevenage, some 50 per cent. of voters have registered for postal votes".

That information had been given to me orally earlier that day at a briefing on this question by a representative of the Electoral Commission.

I am now informed by the commission that this information was incorrect as regards the position in Newcastle and Cardiff. Following contact with the relevant electoral registration officers, the commission has advised me that while the current percentage of voters registered for postal votes in Stevenage is indeed around 50 per cent., the correct figures for Newcastle and Cardiff are around 41 per cent. and 14 per cent. respectively. Although the general point that I was illustrating with these figures—that postal voting is now very widespread—remains valid, I regret that the incorrect information I had been given led me to give the House an inaccurate picture of the current position in Newcastle and Cardiff.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Diet (Educational Attainment)

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent assessment she has made of the relationship between educational achievement and diet. [223608]

Margaret Hodge: The Department for Education and Skills has made no assessment of the relationship between educational achievement and diet. However, a healthy, balanced diet is a key factor in protecting health and promoting children's proper growth and development. It may help children and young people to improve their concentration, but the evidence at present is anecdotal.

Vocational Training

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she next expects to visit Essex to discuss vocational skills training. [223611]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have no immediate plans to visit Essex. However, as the hon. Member will be aware we have recently published a Skills White Paper, Getting on in Business, Getting on at Work, which will further enhance vocational skills development.

Further Education

Mrs. Anne Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has for charging for 16 to 19 further education courses. [223613]

Dr. Howells: None. We have no such plans. Through the Learning and Skills Act 2000 we have created an entitlement to education or training for all young people under the age of 19. To ensure this entitlement is genuine and encourages access we have ensured young people pay no tuition fees or similar charges. We have further extended this entitlement to include part-time learners and to cover registration and examination fees.

Special Educational Needs

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on Government policy on children with special educational needs. [223616]

Margaret Hodge: The Government's policy on special educational needs is set out in its SEN Strategy,

"Removing Barriers to Achievement",

published in February 2004.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many accidents occurred at her departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of her Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222575]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills records are only maintained for a three year period in line with the guidance from the Health and Safety Executive. Our records do not differentiate between accidents to staff and other people. The following table provides the information requested.

	Total number of accidents reported	RIDDOR reports
2000	n/a	15
2001	n/a	12
2002	132	Yes
2003	141	Yes
2004	107	Yes
2005[1]	14	[2]

n/a = not available.
[1] Year to date.
[2] None to date.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of her Department are in place; and if she will make a statement. [222637]

Derek Twigg: All accidents in the Department for Education and Skills are investigated by trained health and safety officials. Reports on the nature and cause of all accidents are completed and investigations undertaken to identify the appropriate remedial action to reduce or eliminate any risks.

Adult Education

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) whether her Department will fully fund courses for adults at Level 3 in Redbridge in 2005–06; [223074]

(2) whether she expects fees for courses above Level 2 for adults in Redbridge to rise in 2005–06. [223076]

Dr. Howells: It is our policy to ensure that those groups of people benefiting from fully funded further education provision will continue to do so. There will be no change in the fee concessions arrangements that help unemployed people, those on income based benefits, and retired people and working families on low incomes, to access further education. We will continue to make substantial levels of public funding available to all which covers the largest part of the cost of courses but we also expect adult learners, who can afford to do so, to make a contribution to the costs of their learning. Those people already qualified at Level 2, or not in one of our priority groups, will on average pay a higher fee contribution in 2005/06 unless they qualify for fee concessions.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will ensure fee concessions remain in place for those aged over 60-years who wish to study in a further education college in Redbridge. [223075]

Dr. Howells: Older people will continue to be eligible for concessions funded by my Department through the Learning and Skills Council if they are receiving an income based benefit such as housing benefit or council tax benefit, and they may be eligible for fee concessions if they are receiving the pension credit. learners of any age will also continue to have access to literacy, numeracy and English language courses free of charge. Colleges such as those in Redbridge will continue to have considerable discretion in setting fees, and although we want colleges to raise more of the income they voluntarily forgo, we have no plans to stop colleges offering additional concessions if appropriate.

Apprentices

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what information she has on the number of apprentices who continue on to university in England. [219019]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Details of entry qualifications of entrants to higher education are collected annually by the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA) but students with apprenticeships are not identified separately.

We are committed to strengthening the links between higher education and apprenticeship, and have commissioned work to explore the current evidential base on apprenticeship progression to higher education which will inform LSC and DfES workin this area.

Children's Commissioner for England

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the (a) remit and (b) salary will be of the new Children's Commissioner for England. [222044]

Margaret Hodge: The Children's Commissioner's remit is set out in the Children Act 2004. He will promote awareness of the views and interests of children and young people; working as an independent champion, with a strategic role which gives him wide scope and influence in advancing their interests. He will be particularly concerned with the five outcomes that children and young people told us were critical to their well-being: being healthy, staying safe, enjoying and achieving, making a positive contribution and achieving economic well-being. He must have regard to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child in carrying out his work. The Commissioner will be able to focus on the widest possible interpretation of children's well-being and have the freedom to pursue whatever issues he judges most important to children and young people.

In addition, where the Children's Commissioner considers that the case of an individual child in England raises issues of public policy of relevance to other children, he may hold an inquiry into that case.

In line with the Devolution Settlements, the Children's Commissioner has the function of promoting awareness of the views and interests of children in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland in so far as they relate to non-devolved matters.

The Children's Commissioner's salary is £130,000 per annum.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what special arrangements will be put in place when the Children's Commissioner for England deals with complaints about the conduct of paediatricians dealing with children. [222691]

Margaret Hodge: None.

As stated in the Children Act 2004, the Children's Commissioner has the function of promoting awareness of the views and interests of children. As part of this function, he may choose to consider or research any matter, relating to the interests of children, including the operation of complaints procedures. He also has an inquiry function which means that when he considers that the case of an individual child raises questions of relevance to children generally, he may hold an inquiry into that case. He is also independent of Government and if he chooses to deal with complaints about the conduct of paediatricians or any other professional group, it will be up to him how he exercises this duty and what arrangements he will make.

As in all his work, whether the Commissioner holds an inquiry or considers an issue, he will exercise impartiality at all times.

Stourbridge

Ms Shipley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Stourbridge constituency, the effects on the constituency of changes to her Department's policies since 1997. [223339]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Stourbridge constituency lies within Dudley local education authority. The most recent Key Stage 2 and GCSE and equivalents Achievement for pupils attending schools in Stourbridge are given in the following tables:

Key Stage 2 Achievements of 11-year-old pupils attending schools in the Stourbridge constituency— Percentage of pupils gaining level 4 and above

	1997	2004	Percentage point improvement 1997–2004
Stourbridge

National Average—5+ A*-G	87.0	88.8	1.8

[1] For 2004 only results incorporate GCSEs, GNVQs and a wide range of other qualifications approved pre-16. Prior to 2004 results are based on GCSEs and GNVQs only.
[2] As standard the results reported relate to pupils aged 15 at the start of the academic year i.e. 31 August and therefore reaching the end of compulsory education at the end of the school year.

At national level, standards have improved across all key stages. The Primary and Key Stage 3 National Strategies, together with the measures we have taken to help schools in the toughest areas are continuing to deliver better results.

Further information by constituency, is provided within the Department's 'In Your Area' website available at http://www.dfes.gov.uk/inyourarea. Where information is not available at the constituency level it has been provided at local education authority level.

This website allows users to access key facts and local information about education and skills based on postcodes. The data available within the site offers comparisons between 1997 and the latest available year and covers five geographies. These are parliamentary constituency, ward, local authority district, local education authority and Government office region. England figures are also provided.

The information available within the web site is grouped in a number of broad categories including Literacy and Numeracy at age 11, Literacy and Numeracy at age 14, GCSE/GNVQ results, Pupils with Special Educational Needs, School Initiatives, School Workforce, School Funding and Resources, Children's Social Services, Early Years, Class Sizes, Post 16, Higher Education and Adult Education.

Additional information could be provided only at disproportionate cost. However, my Department is investigating ways in which we can disseminate more information about the effects of our policies at a local level. The 'In Your Area' website will be further developed over the coming months to include additional information about Adult Education, School Funding, School Initiatives, School Performance, School Workforce and Post 16.

Disabled Access

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the implementation of the Disability Discrimination Act 2000 by schools and colleges; and what plans she has to increase access for people with disabilities to schools and colleges. [222701]

Margaret Hodge: As I said to my hon. Friend on 8 November 2004, Official Report, column 462W on disabled student (access), schools and post 16 institutions now have a wide range of duties under Part 4 of the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 1995, to improve access to education for their disabled pupils and students and progress is being monitored.

Dyslexia

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she is taking to ensure that teachers are trained to identify and respond to dyslexia. [218498]

Margaret Hodge: In order to be awarded Qualified Teacher Status (QTS), trainee teachers must demonstrate that they understand their responsibilities under the statutory SEN Code of Practice, know how to seek advice from specialists where necessary and can differentiate their teaching to meet the needs of pupils, including those with SEN.

The underpinning standards for the Induction Programme for those awarded QTS require teachers to demonstrate that they can plan effectively, meeting the needs of pupils in their classes with SEN, with or without a statement. In consultation with the SEN Co-ordinator they contribute to the preparation and implementation of individual pupils' education plans or the equivalent.

The Department is working with the Teacher Training Agency to take forward a range of specific proposals designed to improve the skills and confidence of trainee, newly qualified, and established teachers in supporting pupils with SEN. These proposals are currently being developed in discussions with various interested parties.

The Department also continues to work closely with both the British Dyslexia Association (BDA) and the Dyslexia Institute (DI), and have supported a number of initiatives aimed at raising awareness of dyslexia to help teachers to identify pupils with dyslexia and to take appropriate action at an early stage. For example, we have grant-aided the production and dissemination of 'Achieving Dyslexia Friendly Schools' a school resource pack which promotes a whole-school approach to supporting pupils with dyslexia and provides examples of best practice.

The Department through its National Primary Strategy has produced an extensive range of specific guidance material for schools on evidence-based interventions for children with significant literacy and numeracy difficulties. We have also produced guidance material on classroom strategies to enable dyslexic pupils' to access learning. A new interactive CD-ROM based in-service training resource is currently being developed in collaboration with the BDA and DI. This is designed to help school staff increase their awareness and understanding of the barriers to learning presented by dyslexia, and the teaching strategies that can be used to overcome them. This resource is expected to be available to schools from May.

Early Intervention Programmes

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what progress has been made in the Early Intervention pilots; what research she has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effectiveness of the pilots; and if she will make a statement on the future use of Early Intervention programmes in resolving family disputes relating to children. [221869]

Margaret Hodge: The Family Resolutions pilot began in Sunderland, Brighton and Inner London in autumn 2004. The pilot will test the effectiveness of a range of information and parent planning measures in helping separating or separated parents to reach agreement about contact and residence for their children, without needing full court proceedings.

The University of East Anglia has been commissioned to monitor the impact of Family Resolutions and it is expected to report in March 2006. Outcomes of this report will inform the Government's decision on whether or how the programme should be rolled out nationally.

Early Years Care

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will take steps to support private and voluntary early years care providers in the development of the skills of their care staff; and if she will make a statement. [223226]

Margaret Hodge: We are already doing much to support private and voluntary sector early years' providers in developing the skills of their work force. We are giving £129.9 million to local authorities (LAs) in England over the two years 2004–06 for developing the early years and child care work force. We are also working closely with the Learning and Skills Council who, with LAs, have shared local targets to train early years' workers.

Our 10 year strategy for child care, published in December 2004, identifies the work force as the single biggest factor determining the quality of child care. It recognises that developing world-class early years' services will require a step-change in the quality and stability of the work force. We are committed to this radical reform and we will work with leading bodies in the sector to achieve it.

We recognise that quality improvements may have cost implications for all early years' providers, which is why we have created a 'Transformation Fund' of £125 million a year. From April 2006, this fund will be used to support investment by local authorities in high quality, affordable, flexible and sustainable child care provision.

In addition, we have developed the Common Core of Skills and Knowledge to support and focus professional development in the children's work force, including those working for private and voluntary sector early years' providers. This sets out the areas of expertise that everyone working with children, young people and families (including those who work as volunteers) should be able to demonstrate. It sets out the skills and knowledge that, if accredited, could form the basis of a minimum competence for working with children, young people and their families.

Education Business Links

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what advice she has given to (a) local learning and skills councils and (b) those in charge of single regeneration budgets on what funding should be made available for education business links; and if she will make a statement. [223667]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Department does not advise local LSCs on spending priorities. This is a matter for the learning and skills council itself. Mark Haysom, the LSC's chief executive, will write to my hon. Friend on this point, and a copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

The Single Regeneration Budget was subsumed into Regional Development Agency funding in April 2002. Remaining SRB funding is on a commitments-only basis. However, RDAs support education and skills objectives, including education business links. Guidance to RDAs about producing their Corporate Plans for 2005–08 asks them to consider how they can promote "employers' engagement with schools and colleges in developing learners' vocational and employability skills, as well as their enterprise capability in line with the Enterprise Education strategy".

Education Funding (Leeds)

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the level of funding per pupil in Leeds was in each year since 1992. [223567]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is only available from 1997–98 onwards. Due to changes in the school funding system, it is not possible to provide corresponding figures for previous years. The information requested can be found in the following table:

Average funding per pupil aged 3–19—Leeds

1997–98	2,750
1998–99	2,800
1999–2000	2,940
2000–01	3,230
2001–02	3,410
2002–03	3,520
2003–04	3,650
2004–05	3,770

Notes:

1. Total funding includes funding via Education Formula Spending/Standard Spending Assessment and revenue grants allocated at an LEA level. It excludes the pensions transfer to EPS and the Learning and Skills Council.
2. Real terms at 2003–04 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 30 September 2004.
3. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education SSA/EFS settlements.
4. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES Departmental Expenditure Limits relevant to pupils aged 3–19 and exclude EMAs and grants not allocated at LEA level.
5. The pupil numbers used to convert m figures to per pupil are those underlying the SSA/EFS settlement calculations plus PLASC 3-year-old maintained pupils and estimated 3 to 4-year-olds funded through state support in maintained and other educational institutions where these are not included in the SSA pupil numbers.
6. Figures are as reported by the LEA and rounded to the nearest 10.

Education Spending (Wirral)

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what per capita spending on education was in Wirral, South in (a) 1997, (b) 2001 and (c) the last year for which figures are available. [222679]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is collected at local education authority level. Wirral, South is part of both Wirral and Cheshire LEAs and the following table contains the information requested:

Education expenditure[1, 2] per capita[3] in Wirral and Cheshire LEAs[4]

	Wirral	£ per capita Cheshire
1997–98[5]	1,940	1,940
2001–02	2,680	2,440
2002–03	3,110	2,800

[1] The total expenditure on education in schools and LEAs is drawn from the net current expenditure column of the total education spending line. This includes expenditure on schools, education out of schools, continuing education, youth and community and also central LEA management and support. However excluded from the total expenditure is any capital expenditure from revenue (CERA). HE expenditure is not allocated on an LEA basis and instead is largely funded by Government with the money allocated annually, to individual universities through the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE). Similarly, the Department does not collect information on the level of funding per student in FE at a local or regional level and therefore we are unable to identify the per capita cost in respect of HE and FE provision for Wirral and Cheshire LEAs and as such it has been excluded.

[2] The expenditure data for 1997–98 are drawn from the annual 'RO1' spending returns which local authorities submitted to the ODPM. Figures for 2001–02 and 2003–04 are drawn from Section 52 outturn statements which LEAs submitted to the DfES.

[3] In order to provide a per capita figure for expenditure on education we have divided each LEA's net current education expenditure figure by the total population aged between three and 19 (inclusive) within that authority. The population figures are estimated resident mid year population figures from the Office for National Statistics (ONS) and these have recently been revised following the 2001 Census. Thus for financial year 1997–98 we have used the population estimate from mid year 1997 and for 2001–02 we used the mid 2001 estimate (and so on).

[4] Local government reorganisation (LGR) took place on 1 April 1998 where pre-LGR Cheshire LEA was split into Cheshire LEA, Halton LEA and Warrington LEA. As a result, 1997–98 data is for pre-LGR Cheshire LEA and data for subsequent years is for the part of pre-LGR Cheshire now known as Cheshire LEA and is not therefore comparable with the 1997–98 figure. This break in the time series is shown by the blank row.

[5] Figures are rounded to the nearest 10 as reported by the LEA.

Enterprise Education

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the delivery of enterprise education. [223668]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: From September 2005 funding of £60 million will support a new focus on enterprise education for all Key Stage 4 pupils. In preparation for this new requirement we have in the last two years spent over £30 million: on Pathfinder projects involving over 700 schools, from which we have prepared national guidance which is already available to schools; and on the Enterprise Adviser service, to help prepare schools in especially disadvantaged areas. Thus in only two years since the Davies Report, we had funded interventions on enterprise in 50 per cent. of secondary schools.

We are currently arranging regional conferences on enterprise education for all schools and for their local partners, to enable them to discuss the national guidance and consider local delivery in the next academic year. These will take place in April, May and June.

Expulsions (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many pupils between the ages of 11 and 18 years in Leicester, South have been expelled for (a) drugs offences, (b) truancy and (c) bullying since 1997. [223648]

Derek Twigg: The information going back to 1997 is not held centrally. We started to collect reasons for exclusions on a termly basis from the summer term 2003.

However, due to concerns over the reliability of the first set of data, the full data on reasons for exclusion were not published in the Experimental First Release (ESR 01/2004), a copy of which is in the Library. The next Statistical First Release on exclusions, including reasons for exclusion, will be published in June 2005.

Families (Grants)

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what Government funding the National Family and Parenting Institute received in each of the last five years; and what her policy is on the role preventative relationship education should have in the publicly-funded work of the institute. [222323]

Margaret Hodge: The National Family and Parenting Institute (NFPI) was set up in 1999 with start-up funding of £120,000 from the Joseph Rowntree Foundation and a total of £2 million strategic funding from Government against a three year work programme. The funding was renewed in 2002 for a further three years at the same level.

NFPI was established to improve and develop family and parenting support through; network formation, research and the provision of information to the sector and the public. Whilst NFPI has a broad and far reaching remit which may include preventative relationship education it does not have a specific role in this area.

FE Funding

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will take steps to enable colleges to retain funding for students who have withdrawn from courses. [223785]

Dr. Howells: The Learning and Skills Council (LSC) is responsible for funding further education colleges and matters concerning the funding impact of students withdrawing from courses relate to the LSC's operational responsibilities. The LSC's agenda for change programme includes a review of its funding methodology. Mark Haysom the LSC's chief executive will write to the hon. Member about this work. A copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

Granada Learning

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the terms of the contract with Granada Learning for the provision of learning materials for Latin at Key Stage 3 are; and whether the terms include provision for repayment for non-delivery of materials contracted for. [223834]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The terms of the contract with Granada Learning for the provision of learning materials for Latin at Key Stage 3 are that they provide a range of materials covering the Cambridge Latin Course Books 1 and 2.

As with all contracts there is the provision for either party to take appropriate steps should the materials contracted for not be delivered. Seeking repayment for the non-delivery of materials contracted for is one such option.

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on her Department's support for the Granada Learning project for the teaching of Latin at Key Stage 3 referred to by the Parliamentary Under-Secretary in the adjournment debate on 12 July 2004, Official Report, column 1233. [223835]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Department contracted with Granada Learning in November 2002 for the provision of learning materials for Latin at Key Stage 3. This includes audio visual materials, interactive exercises, collaborative items and a range of specially written courses and print support.

Independent Schools

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what percentage of secondary age pupils attended independent schools in England in each of the last five years (a) in total and (b) broken down by local education authority area. [223113]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Nutrition Training

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what advice and guidance is offered to public and private sector service providers on the inclusion of nutrition and malnutrition within the core training of healthcare employees in bands two and three of Agenda for Change. [223947]

Mr. Hutton: I have been asked to reply.

Training at work of healthcare employees within the national health service is the responsibility of individual trusts, based on central advice. However, within the new pay NHS pay system (Agenda for Change) training of staff in all paybands, including paybands two and three is supported by use of the NHS knowledge and skills framework. This will enable staff and managers to use joint personal development planning, individually and organisationally, to identify development requirements and career opportunities.

Parliamentary Questions

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she will answer the Question from the hon. Member for Maidenhead, ref 221881. [223954]

Margaret Hodge: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 853W.

Physical Education (SEN Pupils)

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many (a) primary and (b) secondary school teachers in the West Midlands are trained to provide physical education for pupils with special educational needs. [223070]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The information is not collected centrally.

School Exclusions

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether the number of school exclusions is used to measure levels of indiscipline in schools. [223596]

Derek Twigg: Exclusions are one of a number of indicators we monitor closely as a measure of school behaviour. The other key indicators are Ofsted inspection evidence and the perceptions of people working in schools and of parents. Exclusion is used generally as a last resort after a range of other strategies to tackle poor behaviour have been tried. The number of exclusions may therefore not be a valid measure for levels of low level disruption or minor offences in schools that do not result in exclusion. Also, many schools are now trying, by a variety of means such as learning support units and managed moves, to support disruptive pupils within a school setting, although not necessarily in a classroom, so as to prevent exclusion.

School Funding

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much funding was allocated per pupil to schools in (a) London, (b) the Vale of York and (c) North Yorkshire in 2004–05. [223829]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Total funding per pupil aged 3–19 for 2004–05 was £4,880 for London, £3,600 for York and £3,760 for North Yorkshire.

These figures include funding via the Education Formula Spending Share and grants allocated at LEA level. They include the pensions transfer to EFSS and the Learning and Skills Council, and are in cash terms.

The main reason for the difference in funding is that London authorities have more pupils living in deprived circumstances than York and North Yorkshire and receive extra funding to reflect that. London authorities also receive extra funding to reflect their high costs of recruiting and retaining staff: York and North Yorkshire do not.

Notes:

Price Base: Cash

Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education EFS settlements and include the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC.

Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged 3–19 and exclude EMAs and grants not allocated at LEA level.

The pupil numbers used to convert £ million figures to £ per pupil are those underlying the EFS settlement calculations.

Rounding: Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Status: 2004–05 figures are provisional as some grants have not yet been finalised/audited.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what criteria are used in allocating funding per pupil in comparable local education authorities. [223830]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The formula for distributing funding for schools to local authorities is the School Formula Spending Share (SFSS). It comprises a basic entitlement for each comparable pupil, which is the same across the country, plus top-ups for areas where it costs more to recruit and retain staff; areas with sparse populations; and a top-up for each pupil with additional educational needs. The factor for additional educational needs takes account of the percentage of families in receipt of income support and of those in receipt of the working families tax credit. It also takes account of primary pupils with English as a second language and secondary pupils from low achieving ethnic minority groups.

The funding that individual schools receive is a matter for local authorities through their locally agreed funding formulae.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the merits of a national common funding formula; and if she will make a statement. [223831]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Government's policy, as stated in the consultation document on new school funding arrangements from 2006–07 issued on 17 February is that local authorities should continue to determine local formulae for the allocation of resources between schools in their areas, in consultation with their Schools Forum.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will take steps to incorporate core funding into standard funds. [223832]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Government have no plans to incorporate core funding into the Standards Fund. Proposals for changes to specific grants, including the Standards Fund, were set out in the consultation on new school funding arrangements from 2006–07, published on 17 February, a copy of which has been placed in the Library. The main proposal is to bring separate Standards Fund grants for schools together into a single grant by 2008. This single grant would remain separate from schools core funding, which will continue to be routed through local authorities' school budget formulae.

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much each (a) primary school and (b) secondary school in (i) North East Lincolnshire and (ii) North Lincolnshire has received from the Government in each year since the introduction of direct payments. [223464]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: In 2000–01, the first year of the School Standards Grant, North East Lincolnshire received £1,046,000, and North Lincolnshire £1,027,000. Figures on the primary/secondary split for 2000–01 are not held centrally. The amount of School Standards Grant (SSG) that has been received by North East Lincolnshire and North Lincolnshire since 2001–02 is as follows:

School Standards Grant

	Primary schools	Secondary schools
2001–02
North East Lincolnshire	1,301,500	852,000
North Lincolnshire	1,253,500	932,000
2002–03
North East Lincolnshire	1,299,500	876,100
North Lincolnshire	1,263,500	958,400
2003–04
North East Lincolnshire	1,589,000	1,095,000
North Lincolnshire	1,545,000	1,200,000
2004–05
North East Lincolnshire	1,664,047	1,170,603
North Lincolnshire	1,641,481	1,315,386

Grant was allocated to each school according to the following rates in each year:

2000–01

Number of pupils	Rate of grant (£)
Primary
0–100	3,000
100.5–200.5	6,000
201 + [1]	9,000
Secondary
0–600	30,000
600.5–1,200.5	40,000
1,201 +	50,000

[1] The same rate was given in respect of each middle deemed primary school which did not have a year 8 or 9.

2001–02

Number of pupils	Rate of grant (£)
Primary
0–100	7,000
100.5–200	13,500

2,400.5 +	135,000

2004–05

Number of pupils	Rate of grant (£)
Primary
0–100	10,000
100.5–200	20,000
200.5–400	30,000
400.5–600	45,000
600.5 800	60,000
800.5 +	75,000
Secondary
0–600	80,000
600.5–1,200	96,000
1,200.5–1,800	112,000
1,800.5–2,400	128,000
2,400.5 +	144,000

For 2004–05 the grant was calculated on the basis that each school receives the greater of either (a) an increase of 4 per cent. per pupil on its 2003–04 grant or (b) the level of its 2004–05 SSG band.

Information on the amount of School Standards Grant received for each school in 2000–01 to 2002–03 is not held centrally, as the grant formed part of the schools Budget share in those years and was not reported separately by local authorities. A table showing the School Standards Grant paid to each primary and secondary school in North East Lincolnshire and North Lincolnshire in 2003–04 and 2004–05 has been placed in the Library.

School Meals

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what her estimate is of spending per person on school lunches in each year from 1990–91 to 2005–06; and if she will make a statement. [222148]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The Department for Education and Skills does not collect information on the spending per person on school lunches.

The decentralised system of education funding means that local education authorities (LEAs) receive an amount based on need in their area. LEAs then agree with their schools how funding is to be delegated.

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what her Department's policy is on sourcing pork, bacon and ham bearing the British Pig Executive's Quality Standard Mark in schools; and if she will make a statement. [223242]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills does not have responsibility for central procurement of food for schools. It is for individual local education authorities or, where the budget for school meals is delegated to them, school governing bodies to agree with their catering suppliers the ingredients to be used. If schools wish, they can use organic or locally-sourced foods.

The Healthy Living Blueprint for Schools set out our commitment to provide additional support for headteachers and governors in assessing the best way to provide a meals service, specify and tender contracts and monitor them. The Department is committed to promote the key objectives of the Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative (PSFPI) through this work.

The key objectives of the PSFPI are to:

(1) raise production and process standards;

(2) increase tenders from small and local producers;

(3) increase consumption of healthy and nutritious food;

(4) reduce adverse environmental impacts of production and supply; and

(5) increase capacity of small and local suppliers to meet demand.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the number of schools that provide school dinners consisting of (a) organic and (b) locally-sourced food. [223636]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills does not collect information on schools that use organic or locally-sourced foods. Following the School Standards and Framework Act 1998, responsibility for most local education authority spending is delegated to schools' governing bodies. Schools have the freedom to choose their own suppliers or providers for many services including school meals provision. If schools wish, they can use organic or locally-sourced foods.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to regulate the standards of meals served in schools; and if she will make a statement. [223637]

Derek Twigg: Regulations introduced in 2001 set nutritional standards for school lunches in all local education authority maintained schools in England. It is the responsibility of local education authorities or, where the budget for school meals is delegated to them, a school's governing body to ensure that these standards are met. We are currently working to strengthen the standards to reduce pupils' sugar, salt and fat intakes and increase fruit and vegetable consumption.

The Government's White Paper—"Choosing Health: Making healthier choices easier" set out the commitment that from September 2005 Ofsted will, through its separate programme of subject and thematic reviews, report on the contribution that every school makes to the five outcomes for children underpinning the Every Child Matters: Change for Children programme. As part of their review, Ofsted will look at healthy eating in schools, including school meals and other food and drink available on school premises.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what guidance her Department has produced regarding nutritional standards for school meals. [223638]

Derek Twigg: The Department published three guidance documents in 2001 to coincide with the introduction of statutory nutritional standards. These are

"Healthy School Lunches for Students in Secondary Schools", "Healthy School Lunches for Pupils in Primary Schools", and "Healthy School Lunches for Pupils in Nursery Schools/Units", and are available at www.dfes.gov.uk/schoollunches. In addition to covering the statutory nutritional standards, the guidance covers healthy eating, good catering practice, ideas for improving service and monitoring nutritional standards.

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will rank education authorities by the percentage of children entitled to receive free school dinners; and if she will indicate in each case the change in the percentage receiving free school meals since 1996–97. [222388]

Derek Twigg: The information requested has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

As a result of Local Government Reorganisation, the geographical boundaries of some LEAs in 2004 are not directly comparable with those in 1997. In these cases, figures for 1997 have not been given.

School Sports (Crosby)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the effects on schools of changes since 1997 on the level of investment in school sports in Crosby. [223940]

Derek Twigg: I refer my hon. Friend to the response given by the then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Schools on 22 March 2004, Official Report, column 630W.

Schools (Data)

Mr. Forth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what choice of systems software schools had in production of the 2005 pupil level annual school census data. [223343]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 22 March 2005]: Each school has freedom of choice over which ICT systems it employs to meet its specific needs and circumstances. This applies to the school management information systems that produced the returns of 2005 pupil level annual school census data.

Schools' choices and decisions are informed by the extensive advice and guidance provided by their local education authority, and by Becta (the British Educational Communications and Technology Agency), the Department's strategic partner in these matters.

Secondary Schools

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many secondary schools there are in (a) Bexley, (b) Bournemouth,

(c) Buckinghamshire, (d) Kent, (e) Kingston upon Thames, (f) Lincolnshire, (g) Medway, (h) Poole, (i) Reading, (j) Slough, (k) Southend, (l) Sutton, (m) Torbay, (n) Trafford and (o) Wirral local education authority areas; and how many in each area are designated in performance tables as (i) comprehensive, (ii) selective and (iii) secondary modern schools. [223077]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is shown in the table.

Secondary schools1: Number of schools by admissions policy—January 2004 and May 2004

Annual Schools' Census and Achievement and Attainment Tables

Selective Schools

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the costs of administering entry tests were in each local education authority retaining wholly selective secondary schools in each of the last five years. [223112]

Derek Twigg: We do not collect data on the costs of administering entry tests for selective schools. The setting and administration of these tests is a matter for the relevant admission authorities.

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills which local education authorities her Department defines as (a) wholly selective and (b) wholly comprehensive; and if she will list for each English local education authority retaining wholly selective schools the average percentage of pupils (i) with statements, (ii) eligible for free school meals and (iii) from ethnic minorities in (A) selective schools and (B) non-selective schools in the latest year for which figures are available. [223114]

Derek Twigg: The requested information has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the total payments to Electoral Reform Services for costs incurred relating to grammar school ballots and petitions have been. [223115]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The total cost so far for payments to Electoral Reform Services for all work on petitions and ballots is £2,346,193.40. This includes work completed on setting petition thresholds during the current accounting period.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the value of sales of surplus assets from her Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220976]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills value of sales of surplus assets since 2000–01 is as follows:

£000

Financial year	Net book value
2000–01	321
2001–02	2,843
2002–03	111
2003–04	951
2004–05	[1]—

[1] Figures not available.

The net book values are taken from the Department for Education and Skills Resource Accounts.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent assessment she has made of whether the public service agreement target for 60 per cent. of those aged 16 to achieve the equivalent of five GCSEs at grades A*-C by 2008 will be met. [219217]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Department publishes progress against all its outstanding public service agreement targets (PSAs) in its annual departmental report and autumn performance report. Progress against PSAs was most recently reported in the 2004 autumn report, published in December 2004, together with the Department's assessment towards achievement of the targets. A copy of the report is available from the House of Commons Library.

The spending review 2004 PSA target for 60 per cent, of those aged 16 to achieve the equivalent of five GCSEs at grades A*-C by 2008 was not assessed in the autumn performance report. A statistical first release published on 12 January 2005 shows the amended figure for the percentage of pupils achieving five or more GCSEs or equivalent at grades A*-C in 2004 is 53.7 per cent.

Tomlinson Report

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the likely impact on (a) teaching standards and (b) the number of teachers of implementing the Tomlinson Report recommendations; and if she will make a statement. [223833]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: We estimate that the total increases in staff numbers in schools and colleges needed to implement the reforms set out in our White Paper 14–19 Education and Skills will be of the order of: 1,000–1,250 college staff in teaching roles; and 1,250–1,450 support staff in schools and colleges.

We expect the standards of teaching and learning to rise as a result of our reforms. Teaching staff and school and college leaders will be fully supported by training and professional development to ensure that they are equipped with the skills to deliver the new 14–19 offer.

Top-up Fees

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will estimate the cost to public funds of the subsidy provided for top-up fees in each year from 2006–07 to 2009–10; and on what assumptions this estimate is based. [223817]

Dr. Howells: The exact cost of fee loans to support variable fees will depend on the precise pattern of fee charging by institutions, the way that students respond to that pattern, and the extent to which students take up the option of deferring their fees. The Department published some estimates of the costs on a steady state basis in the Regulatory Impact Assessment published alongside the Higher Education Act 2004. We have just published revised and updated estimates for the costs of the student finance policies in a ministerial written statement on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 71WS.

University Admissions

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what proportion of school leavers entered higher education in (a) 1997 and (b) 2004, broken down by parliamentary constituency. [222857]

Dr. Howells: The latest available figures on participation by constituency were published by the Higher Education Funding Council for England in January in "Young Participation in England", which is available from their website at: http://www.hefce.ac.uk/pubs/hefce/2005/05_03/. Participation rates for constituencies based on this work, showing figures for each year between 1997 and 2000, are given on the supporting POLAR website (www.hefce.ac.uk/polar).

Woodcraft Folk

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will publish the criteria by which the decision was taken to end grant aid to the Woodcraft Folk. [220767]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The criteria by which all decisions on the 160 applications for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation (NVYO) grant scheme were made were explicit in both the application forms and guidance notes, to assist organisations through the application process.

The guidance notes clearly stated that applications should make a strong contribution to the achievement of the outcomes for young people set out in "Every Child Matters".

The Department looked for bids that: (this was in paragraph 13.2 of the guidance).

- were clearly focused on the outcomes identified in the guidance
- were for activities in line with those identified in the grant criteria
- identified clear and robust outcome indicators that were relevant to the outcomes the bid proposed to deliver
- clearly explained the national significance of the activity being proposed
- were realistic and deliverable.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what assessment she has made of the work of the Woodcraft Folk; what grants they have received from her Department in each year since 1997; what future funding is planned; and if she will make a statement. [221428]

Margaret Hodge: The organisation has received the following funding since 1997:

	Amount (£)
1997–98	39,100
1998–99	33,000
1999–2000	38,000
2000–01	38,000
2001–02	38,000
2002–03	52,281
2003–04	52,281
2004–05	52,281
Total	342,943

NVYO Grant Scheme

As part of their participation on the National Voluntary Youth Organisation Grant Scheme running from 2002 to 2005 the Woodcraft Folk have submitted progress reports, These were judged by officials to indicate that the organisation was meeting the objectives set.

The Woodcraft Folk submitted a bid for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation Grant scheme due to run from 2005 to 2008. This scheme was run as an open competition. Participation on previous schemes was not one of the criteria used to determine funding. The bid was assessed in an open and transparent way against criteria made explicit in both the application and guidance notes for the scheme and unfortunately this time the organisation was not successful.

There are no current plans for funding the Woodcraft Folk.

DEFENCE

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222629]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence has a number of arrangements for monitoring accidents at work. The requirements range from the accident book procedures required by the Social Security Act, to Boards of Inquiry required by Queen's Regulations. The arrangements are contained in the MOD health and safety handbook, Joint Service Publication 375. This publication can be found on the www at http: //www.mod.uk/dsef/ohs/jsp375.htm

Armed Forces Act

Mr. Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the Armed Forces Act 2001 expires; and when he expects to bring forward the next Armed Forces Bill. [223351]

Mr. Caplin: The Armed Forces Act 2001 will not expire. Under this Act, however, the provisions of the Service Discipline Acts (the Army Act 1955, the Air Force Act 1955 and the Naval Discipline Act 1957) are subject to annual renewal by Order in Council, but cannot be continued in effect by this means beyond 31 December 2006. We aim to introduce an Armed Forces Bill towards the end of 2005.

Army Medal Office

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence by what means he intends to dispose of the Army Medal Office in Droitwich Spa; and whether conditions will apply to the sale to ensure that the site is used only for the purposes allocated to it in Wychavon district council's local plan. [223724]

Mr. Caplin: It is expected that the site will be passed to Defence Estates for disposal before 31 March 2006.

Consideration of future non-defence alternative uses for the site is at an early stage. However, discussions with the Local Planning Authority are in progress. As is our normal practice, the site will be marketed in a way that reflects the final planning decision following the discussions with the Local Planning Authority and sale is generally by open competition to achieve the best price reasonably obtainable.

Cancer/Leukaemia

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many deaths of (a) serving soldiers and (b) his Department's personnel have been attributable to (i) cancer and (ii) leukaemia in each of the last 20 years. [222019]

Mr. Caplin: Between 1 January 1985 and 31 December 2004, 696 regular service personnel have died of cancer while on service, 71 of which died from leukaemia.

Information on the causes of death of civilian personnel is not collected by the Department.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the rates of incidence of (a) cancer and (b) leukaemia in (i) serving soldiers and (ii) his Department's personnel in each of the last 20 years. [222021]

Mr. Caplin: The Department does not currently collate any information on the incidence of cancer in serving service personnel and civilian personnel.

Defence Employment (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people worked for the Disposal Services Agency (a) in 2003–04 and (b) on the latest date for which figures are available; how many were employed in Scotland in each case; and what the personnel costs of the agency (i) were in 2003–04 and (ii) are expected to be in 2004–05. [215944]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the Disposal Service Agency's (DSA) Annual Report and Accounts 2003–04 that was laid before the House on 15 July 2004; less than five DSA staff members were employed in Scotland during this year. For the current Financial Year, 2004–05, the personnel costs for the agency are forecast to be in the region of £3 million. The latest personnel figures, as at March 2005, are 120 employed by the agency, of which again less than five are employed in Scotland. The increase in staff numbers this year resulted from the pre-merger process of the DSA with part of the Defence Logistics Organisation (DLO) following an "End-to-End Business Process Review of the disposal process within the MOD". The additional staff will not be funded by the agency until 1 April 2005, when it transfers ownership to the DLO.

Eurofighter Typhoon

Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department's entry into Table B18 of the pre-Budget report includes a contingent amount to cover expenditure connected with the purchase of all or part of Tranche 3 of the Eurofighter Typhoon. [222615]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 21 March 2005]: A decision on Tranche 3 of Eurofighter Typhoon is not required before 2007. Any expenditure associated with Tranche 3 would fall outside the period covered by the December 2004 pre-Budget report.

Freedom of Information Act

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence on what grounds he has concluded that there is no obligation under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to disclose correspondence on behalf of Lord Boyce of Pimlico, dated 12 March 2003, to the Legal Secretary to the Law Officers, and the subsequent response. [217421]

Mr. Hoon [holding answer 23 February 2005]: I am writing today to my hon. Friend and I shall place a copy of that letter in the Library of the House.

Harrier

Mr. John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the air availability of the Harrier jet; and if he will make a statement. [222184]

Mr. Ingram: During the current Financial Year, the availability of the Harrier fleet has matched or exceeded the numbers required for our commitments.

In-house Publications

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the titles of the in-house publications and newsletters which are produced for the staff of his Department, including non-departmental public bodies and agencies. [221981]

Mr. Caplin: A comprehensive list of the many in-house publications and newsletters produced for departmental staff, including those for non-departmental public bodies and agencies, is not available and could be produced only by incurring disproportionate cost.

The principal in-house publications are: FOCUS, Paper Clips, Navy News, Soldier Magazine and RAF News. In addition the following publications and newsletters are published on the Department's intranet site:

Merchant Navy

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what measures he has taken to ensure that a sufficient merchant navy fleet within the UK to be drawn upon at times of conflict is maintained. [222216]

Mr. Ingram: The availability of suitable merchant shipping is collated on a regular basis from updated information provided by the Maritime and Coastguard Agency on the UK registered fleet. The MOD supports this work.

Nuclear Test Veterans

Mrs. Betty Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether a health study has been carried out by the Government since 1975 on veterans of the British Nuclear Test Programme. [223379]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The National Radiological Protection Board (NRPB)—as part of their continuing studies concerning nuclear test veterans—has carried out a health study into cancer incidence. The latest of their Reports—NRPB Report W-27 entitled "Mortality and Cancer Incidence 1952–1998 in UK Participants in the UK Atmospheric Nuclear Weapons Tests and Experimental Programmes" (2003)—concluded that overall levels of mortality and cancer incidence in UK nuclear weapons test participants have continued to be similar to those in a matched control group, and overall mortality to be lower than expected from national rates.

Overseas Military Training

Mr. Wareing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list countries to which members of the British armed forces were deployed to give military training and advice during the period 2001 to 2004. [221191]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 14 March 2005]: During the period 2001 to 2004, members of the British armed forces were deployed to give military training and advice to 92 countries. A complete list of countries is set out as follows.

Countries where members of the British armed forces were deployed to give military training and advice: period 2001–04:

Parachutists

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many serving soldiers in the parachute regiments come from abroad. [222275]

Mr. Caplin: The number of soldiers serving in the Parachute Regiment with a non-British nationality is shown in the following table:

Battalions: The Parachute Regiment	Strength
1st	20
2nd	25
3rd	20
Total	70

Notes:
1. The figures quoted are as at 1 January 2005 and are for UK Regular Trained Army soldiers only and therefore exclude TA, Mobilised Reserves, Full-Time Reserve Service, Gurkhas and Home Service Battalions of the Royal Irish Regiment.
2. The strength figures do not include soldiers in the Parachute Regiment that are serving outside the battalion, or personnel from other cap badges that are attached to the battalion.
3. In addition to the figures there are 15 Parachute Regiment soldiers serving outside the battalions whose nationality is not British.
4. We cannot be precise about the strength in each battalion as the means by which these data are collected does not allow for separate attribution. The split is derived from an estimate based on the strength by Unit Identity Number.
5. All figures have been rounded to the nearest five. Totals are rounded separately and therefore may not equal the sum of their parts.

RAF Job Losses (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the effects of job cuts at (a) RAF Lossiemouth and (b) RAF Kinloss announced by his Department on 10 March; and if he will make a statement. [222873]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 21 March 2005]: My written ministerial statement on 10 March outlined the proposed reductions in the number of Service and civilian posts as a result of the end-to-end review of logistics processes for military aircraft support.

For RAF Lossiemouth, this will mean a reduction in the number of Service posts by 700 and, subject to Trades Union consultation, a reduction in the number of civilian posts by 35.

For RAF Kinloss, this will mean a reduction in the number of Service posts by 180 and, subject to Trades Union consultation, a reduction in the number of civilian posts by 20.

I recognise that this may be disappointing news for the local community, but the proposed changes in working practices and force structure will improve the effectiveness and efficiency of logistic support within the RAF.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans have been put in place to minimise the impact of job losses at (a) RAF Kinloss and (b) RAF Lossiemouth announced by his Department on 10 March; and if he will make a statement. [222939]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The impact on personnel of the reduction in the number of posts will be managed primarily through voluntary staff transfers, natural wastage and a voluntary release scheme. The Ministry of Defence will manage the reductions in the number of civilian posts in consultation with Trades Unions.

These reductions form part of the Service and civilian manpower reductions that were announced by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence on 21 July 2004.

RAF Recruits (Ethnic Monitoring)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what proportion of recruits to the Royal Air Force were (a) Asian, (b) black, (c) white and (d) from other ethnic groups in each year since 1997. [222200]

Mr. Caplin: The following table shows the proportional RAF airmen intake from civil life by ethnic origin for financial years 1998–99 to 2004–05. Reliable data are not available prior to this.

Ethnicity data have been collected on joining the armed forces using categories based on population census definitions. The definitions used in the population census were changed in 2001. Table 1 is based on 1991 census codes and table 2 is based on 2001 census codes.

It should be noted that no intake data are shown for 2001–02 as the only data available are based on a mixture of new and old codes.

Figures for 2002–03 onwards are not directly comparable with previous years' figures as the 2001 population census codes included a mixed category. This explains the increase in proportion of the 'other' category.

[1] Figures for 2004–05 cover the year up to 31 December 2004.

Figures are for UK regular forces, both trained and untrained. They therefore exclude full time reserve service personnel and mobilised reservists.

Figures for RAF officers are not available due to low coverage of ethnic origin classification.

Removals Costs

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost of UK to UK removals was in the financial year ended (a) 4 April 1994 and (b) 4 April 2004; and how many moves took place in each case. [218006]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 24 February 2005]: There were some 12,527 UK Service removals during financial year 2003–04 at a cost of £18.850 million. These figures are subject to final audit. Records are no longer held regarding removals which took place during financial year 1993–94.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public; [222574]

(2) whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [222584]

Jane Kennedy: Available data on accidents is provided in the following table. Data prior to the periods covered is not available.

Accidents involving:	2002	2003	2004
Members of the Department's staff	4,488	4,034	4,577
Members of the public	58	72	135
Total	4,546	4,106	4,712

Data for 2004 includes, for the first time, former Employment Service work places and therefore reflects additional estate, staffing and customer levels. This accounts for the increase in the number of accidents reported against the previous year.

We are currently in the process of developing a health and safety annual report for the business year 2005–06. This will be published after April 2006. The report will cover a range of health and safety performance data, including data on accidents to departmental staff and customers.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222636]

Jane Kennedy: Accidents are systematically monitored to identify their immediate and underlying causes and any trends. Lessons learnt are fed back into the operation of the Department's business. Monitoring takes place at a local level to identify ways to minimise recurrence. Monitoring is also regularly discussed at local, regional and national health and safety committee meetings involving managers and trades union representatives.

Asylum Seekers

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department has spent on each type of benefit paid to asylum seekers in each year since 1992 in (a) cash and (b) real terms; and if he will make a statement. [223490]

Mr. Pond: The available information is in the tables.

1. From April 1999 DWP expenditure on payments to asylum seekers were reimbursed by the National Asylum Support Service (MASS).
2. From April 2000 responsibility for supporting asylum seekers passed to the NASS.
3. Numbers of asylum seekers entitled to DWP benefits are declining as the stock of asylum seekers with decisions outstanding at April 2000 reduces.
4. Information on benefit expenditure is estimated using administrative data supplied by local benefit offices (IS) and local authorities (HB and CTB).
5. Information on benefit payments to asylum seekers not available prior to 1994–95.
6. Expenditure is rounded to the nearest £5 million.
7. Real terms figures are provided in 2005–06 prices—using HMTs GDP deflator (updated by ONS 16 March 2005).

Benefit Sanctions

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which employment schemes and pilot schemes may impose benefit sanctions for non-compliance with their conditions; and how many participants on each scheme have received such sanctions during the previous 12 months. [223472]

Jane Kennedy: Jobseeker's allowance is paid to people between jobs to provide the safety net of a secure level of income. Payment of benefit can be withheld for a specific period when jobseekers unreasonably cause or prolong their unemployment, by, for example, refusing to participate in or take up offers of support available through a range of employment and training programmes. Decisions on benefit sanctions are taken by Jobcentre Plus Decisions Makers and there is a right of appeal against such decisions.

The employment and training programmes, including pilot programmes, for which customers can have benefit sanctions applied for non-compliance are: New Deal for Young People; New Deal 25 plus; the mandatory Gateway to Work pilots and mandatory Intensive Activity Period for 50 to 59-year-olds currently operating within New Deal 25 plus; Employment Zones; StepUP, and the mandatory Basic Skills Training pilots.

In the period April 2004 to January 2005, 872 people received a benefit sanction through the Basic Skills Training pilots. 56 people have appealed against the decision to apply a sanction and the result of the appeals are outstanding.

Information on benefit sanctions in relation to the other programmes is only available broken down by the total number of sanctions imposed on participants on New Deal for Young People and the total number of sanctions imposed on participants of the remaining programmes, rather than the number of individuals who have had a benefit sanction imposed.

In the 12-month period to the end of March 2004 (latest available figures) 12,816 jobseeker's allowance sanctions were imposed in relation to the New Deal for Young People programme, and 29,654 jobseeker's allowance sanctions were imposed for other programmes. Information broken down by programme other than New Deal for Young People is not available.

Benefits

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the total value of (a) attendance allowance and (b) disability living allowance payments to people over retirement age living in the City of York local authority area was in (i) 1996–97 and (ii) 2004–05. [222225]

Maria Eagle: The total value of attendance allowance and disability living allowance payments to people over retirement age living in the City of York local authority area was £8.4 million in 1996–97 and is estimated to be £13.9 million in 2004–05.

Note:

Benefit expenditure forecast information is published on the Internet at: http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp

Source:

Expenditure has been taken from departmental accounting systems and has been apportioned using Quarterly Statistical Enquiry data for the relevant benefits, and which is based on a 5 per cent. sample and therefore subject to a degree of sampling variation.

Chris Bryant: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department paid in Wales in (a) incapacity benefit, (b) state pensions, (c) pension credit and (d) winter fuel payments in the last year for which figures are available. [222712]

Mr. Pond: The information is in the following table.

2003–04: expenditure in Wales, £ millions, nominal terms

Incapacity benefit	1,000
State pensions	2,520
Pension credit	277
Winter fuel payments	107

Notes:

1. All figures have been rounded to the nearest million pounds.
2. Incapacity benefit includes expenditure on working age claimants of incapacity benefit, severe disablement allowance and income support (long-term sick/disabled and short-term sick). The figure includes a small number of people who are not claiming incapacity benefit (payment or credits) or severe disablement allowance.
3. State pensions expenditure includes basic state pension, additional state pension, non-contributory state pension and graduated retirement benefit.
4. Pension credit expenditure includes both the guarantee credit and the savings credit.
5. Winter fuel expenditure includes the basic winter fuel payment and the over 80s payment, which was introduced in 2003–04.
6. Figures are consistent with the pre-budget report 2004 and with expenditure information published on the internet at http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp (tables 1, 3 and 7). These tables will shortly be updated with budget 2005 figures.

All of this data is based on a 5 per cent. sample and therefore subject to a degree of sampling variation, with the exception of winter fuel expenditure which has been calculated from 100 per cent. samples.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people were in receipt of each state benefit in (a) the UK, (b) Scotland, (c) England and (d) Wales in each of the last three years; and how much was paid out for each benefit in each case in each year. [222902]

Mr. Pond: The information will be published at the same time as Benefit Expenditure tables, consistent with Budget 2005, and uploaded onto the Department for Work and Pensions website. A publication date will be made available, and posted on the website address as soon as possible.

Benefit Expenditure tables are published on the Department for Work and Pensions website at: http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp.

Bognor Regis Office Closure

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on the proposed closure of his Department's office in Bognor Regis. [223411]

Jane Kennedy: There are no plans to close the Jobcentre Plus office at Bognor Regis.

Carbon Monoxide

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether he plans to undertake national advertising television campaigns to alert people to the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning. [223519]

Jane Kennedy: The Government are actively involved in raising awareness of the dangers of carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning by means other than national television campaigns. The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) arranged for the Council for Registered Gas Installers (CORGI) to run a publicity campaign in February 2005 to raise awareness about CO poisoning targeted at vulnerable groups of the young and the elderly. That campaign reached an estimated 11,000 GP surgeries and 4 million people through radio.

The Department of Health has additionally produced a new leaflet about domestic carbon monoxide poisoning that is endorsed by HSE, industry and the registered charity CO-Gas Safety.

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he is taking to reduce deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning in the home. [223565]

Jane Kennedy: The domestic gas safety regime, overseen by the Health and Safety Executive has been progressively tightened. This has included new gas safety legislation, new competence requirements for gas installers and substantial public investment in publicising carbon monoxide (CO) dangers.

The number of reported gas-related CO poisoning fatalities shows a welcome downward trend. In 2003–04 the number of such fatalities was the lowest on record. We have agreed an innovative programme with HSC/E aimed at sustaining this position by developing new ways for partnering with relevant stakeholders to secure continuing consumer gas safety through sensible approach to risk.

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent discussions he has had with the Health and Safety Executive on the action it plans to take to reduce the number of deaths caused by carbon monoxide in the home. [223566]

Jane Kennedy: I have regular meetings with senior representatives of HSC/E to consider progress across the broad range of their business. I have not recently met them on the specific issue of gas-related carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning. However, I am regularly briefed in writing on gas safety matters and take a close interest in how the downward trend in CO poisoning fatalities can be sustained.

CSA

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when Clare Jackson, the constituent of the hon. Member for Bassetlaw referred to in a letter sent on 11 January will receive (a) a maintenance calculation and (b) a maintenance payment. [222714]

Mr. Pond: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive, Mr. Doug Smith. He will write to my hon. Friend with the information requested.

Letter from Doug Smith to Mr. John Mann, dated 24 March 2005:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, when Clare Jackson the constituent of the honourable Member for Bassetlaw referred to in a letter sent on 11th January will receive (a) a maintenance calculation and (b) a maintenance payment.

As details about individual cases are confidential I will write to you separately about this case.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of Child Support Agency cases are within each of the three new colour code bands. [222715]

Mr. Pond: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive of the Child Support Agency, Doug Smith. He will write to my hon. Friend.

Letter from Doug Smith to Mr. John Mann, dated 24 March 2005:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what percentage of Child Support Agency cases are within each of the three new colour code bands.

The clerical cases team at our office at Nottingham Chalfont Drive use a colour code system in order to prioritise their workloads. This is a local initiative, which is intended to streamline the progression of cases. The current figures are as follows:

	Percentage
216 red cases	22
297 amber cases	31
457 green cases	47

There are no plans to roll this process out nationally.

Departmental Phone Lines

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of callers to his Department's office in Hastings in the week beginning 14 March encountered the engaged tone. [224012]

Malcolm Wicks: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mr. Nick Gibb:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question concerning what percentage of callers to his Department's office in Hastings in the last week encountered the engaged tone. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Customers calling Hastings Jobcentre Plus contact centre to make a claim for a working age benefit would not have received the engaged tone. If all operators are busy the calls are placed in a queue and an appropriate message is played.

If customers in the Hastings area wish to talk to someone about any other Jobcentre Plus matter they can telephone their local office, either at Bognor Regis or Littlehampton. We do not have any information on the number of callers who encountered the engaged tone when ringing these offices.

I hope this is helpful.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what telephone answering system is in place at his Department's Hastings office for people making benefit claims by telephone. [223744]

Malcolm Wicks: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mr. Nick Gibb, dated 24 March 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question concerning what telephone answering system is in place at his Department's Hastings office for people making benefit claims by telephone. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

A single number is provided for customers of working age wishing to make a claim to benefit in the Hastings area. This number is for a contact centre where staff ask customers a series of questions to assess their potential eligibility to Jobcentre Plus benefits and then arrange to call the customer back at a mutually agreed time to assist in the completion of a claim form. There is no answer phone service. If all operators are busy, calls are placed in a queue and an appropriate message is placed on incoming calls.

The Hastings contact centre takes calls from customers in the Surrey and Sussex areas.

I hope this is helpful.

Financial Assistance Scheme

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether the cost of administering the financial assistance scheme (FAS) will be met from within the £20 million annual allocation to the FAS; and what estimate he has made of the annual cost of administering the FAS. [219654]

Malcolm Wicks: The cost of administering the financial assistance scheme (FAS) will not be met from the £20 million annual allocation for FAS payments. Instead it will be funded from DWP's existing administration resources. There is still some detailed planning to be done, particularly on the detailed process design and its effect on both IT requirements and individual job design, which will affect the estimates of administration costs and exact costs will depend on the number of applications for assistance that are made.

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to his oral statement of 23 February 2005, Official Report, column 628, on the Financial Assistance Scheme, how many of the pension schemes to be covered by the Financial Assistance Scheme provided some indexation of post-retirement benefits to scheme members. [220359]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 7 March 2005]: The recent data collection exercise for the Financial Assistance Scheme did not request details of indexation within schemes therefore the specific information requested is not available.

There was no statutory requirement for schemes to index pensions before April 1997 (except in respect of some rights in contracted out schemes), although some schemes did so.

As most schemes eligible for the Financial Assistance Scheme (FAS) will have started to wind up after April 1997 they are likely to have some members with a small proportion of rights subject to statutory indexation. On the other hand, as I made clear in my statement of 22 February 2005, Official Report, column 18WS, the FAS will initially apply to older workers within three years of scheme pension age. For those older workers it is likely that the majority of their rights will have accrued before April 1997, when the statutory indexation requirement referred to came in.

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will include the expanded metal pension scheme in the indicative list of schemes potentially eligible for the financial assistance scheme; and if he will make a statement. [223862]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 425W.

Jobcentre Plus (Dorset)

Mrs. Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what plans he has to change training programmes on offer through Jobcentre Plus in Dorset; [223065]

(2) whether he expects that clients due to start in the week beginning 14 March programmes for self-employment training in Dorset funded by Jobcentre Plus will be able to complete their training; and if he will make a statement; [223265]

(3) whether it is his policy that programmes of self-employment training supported by Jobcentre Plus are promoted equally in all counties in the south-west region; and if he will make a statement. [223266]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mrs. Annette Brooke, dated 24 March 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions concerning the plans he has to change training programmes on offer through Jobcentre Plus in Dorset; whether clients due to start in the week beginning 14 March on programmes for self-employment training in Dorset funded by Jobcentre Plus will be able to complete their training, and whether it is his policy that programmes of self employment training supported by Jobcentre Plus are promoted equally in all counties in the South West Region. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

In answer to your first question, Jobcentre Plus is currently considering its future strategy around contracting for programmes including training and self-employment support. We need to take account of the Department for Work and Pensions' recently published 5 year strategy and an increased priority on helping those who are out of work because of sickness or disability and lone parents.

We are currently in the process of extending current contracts where appropriate, with a view to inviting tenders to compete for new contracts from Autumn 2005. We are clear that with fewer people unemployed and a greater emphasis on providing support to disabled people through the New Deal for Disabled People and the Pathways to Work pilots, we need to review our contracts and focus support on those who need the most help.

Dorset and Somerset District will communicate any emerging strategy to their local stakeholders and partners as soon as possible.

In answer to your second question, we have offered to temporarily extend the Self Employment contract in Dorset in order to ensure that clients currently engaged in training, and those who were due to start this month, can complete their current stage of training. If providers chose not to extend their contracts then this will affect clients and we will try to find alternative solutions to enable these clients to complete their training.

Finally moving to your third question, decisions to extend contracts are made at local level, taking into account local labour market needs and provider performance against agreed outcome targets, to ensure that sufficient capacity is maintained to deliver both policy intent and meet local needs.

A more detailed future strategy for Self Employment training will become clearer once the national contracting strategy is available.

I hope this is helpful.

New Deal

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) south Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK have been helped by the new deal in each year since its inception. [223047]

Jane Kennedy: The available information is in the tables.

Notes:

1. New deal for young people started in January 1998; New deal 25 plus started in July 1998; new deal for lone parents started in October 1998; new deal 50 plus started in April 2000; new deal for disabled people started in July 2001; new deal for partners started in April 1999 but information broken down by geography and year is only available from April 2002.

2. Figures for Jarrow do not include new deal for disabled people and new deal for partners as they are not available at constituency level.

3. South Tyneside data is for the Jobcentre Plus district of Gateshead and south Tyneside.

4. All data is based on calendar years and is to the end of December 2004 apart from new deal for partners which is to March 2004.

5. Information is for Great Britain rather than the UK as the Departments new deals do not operate in Northern Ireland.

6. All figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) young people, (b) lone parents and (c) older people have participated in the new deal in Cleethorpes constituency. [223462]

Jane Kennedy: The information is in the following table.

New deal in Cleethorpes

	People starting new deal	People into jobs through new deal
Young people[1]	1,900	1,290
Lone parents[2]	1,200	690
Older people—new deal 25 plus and new deal for lone parents[3]	230	70
Older people—new deal 50 plus employment credit starts up to March 2003[4]	290	290
Older people—new deal 50 plus from April 2003[5]	—	90

[1] Information relates to the number of people aged 18–24 who have started new deal for young people and new deal for lone parents and those gaining a job through these programmes.

[2] Information relates to the number of lone parents who have started new deal for lone parents and those gaining a job through the programme.
[3] Information relates to people aged 50 and over who have started new deal 25 plus and new deal for lone parents and those gaining a job through these programmes.
[4] Information relates to people aged 50 who claimed the new deal 50 plus employment credit up to the end of March 2003.
[5] Information relates to people aged 50 and over who have gained a job through new deal 50 plus since April 2003. Starts information is not available from April 2003 to date.

Pensions

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department spent on (a) male and (b) female recipients of the (i) basic state pension, (ii) SERPS and (iii) pension credit in 2003–04; and how many recipients there were of each. [223461]

Malcolm Wicks: The requested information is in the table.

Great Britain 2003–04

	Expenditure, £ millions, cash terms
	(i) Basic state pension	(ii) SERPS	(iii) Pension credit
(a) Male	16,801	4,727	1,953
(b) Female	22,978	1,951	2,840

Recipients, £000

	(i) Basic state pension	(ii) SERPS	(iii) Pension credit
(a) Male	4,241	3,597	761
(b) Female	7,011	3,572	1,405

Notes:
1. All expenditure figures have been rounded to the nearest million pounds. Expenditure recorded on the department's accounting systems has been apportioned between males and females using a 5 per cent. sample of administrative records.
2. All caseload figures have been rounded to the nearest thousand, and are based on a 5 per cent. sample of administrative records.
3. A basic state tension is paid to those who fully or partially satisfy the contribution conditions for a category A or category B basic state pension.
4. Category D retirement pensions are not included in the figures.
5. The SERFS (state earnings-related pension scheme) figure also includes amounts for state second pension and graduated retirement benefit.
6. Basic state pension and SERPS expenditure includes pensions paid to people living overseas.
7. Pension credit expenditure includes both the guarantee credit and the savings credit. As pension credit was only introduced on 6 October 2003, the 2003–04 expenditure quoted relates only to half a year.
8. Figures are consistent with the Pre-Budget Report 2004 and with expenditure information published on the Internet at http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp (table 3). These tables will shortly be updated with Budget 2005 figures.

September 2004	86.36	85.71	84.93	85.55

Notes:
1. Figures are taken from a five per cent. sample and are therefore subject to a high degree of sampling variation.
2. Figures prior to 1999 are only available for Great Britain. There are no figures for September 1998 so March 1998 figures have been provided.
3. State pension means Category A, B, C or D state pension or graduated retirement benefit.
4. Parliamentary constituencies and local authority areas are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant Office for National Statistics postcode directory.
5. North East GOR is the North East Government Office Region which includes: the unitary authorities of Darlington, Hartlepool, Middlesbrough, Redcar and Cleveland, and Stockton on Tees; authorities in Durham—Chester-le-Street, Derwentside, Durham, Easington, Sedgefield, Teesdale and Wear Valley; authorities in Northumberland—Alnwick, Berwick-upon-Tweed, Blyth Valley, Castle Morpeth, Tynedale and Wansbeck; and authorities in the Metropolitan county of Tyne and Wear—Gateshead, Newcastle upon Tyne, North Tyneside, South Tyneside and Sunderland).

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the total value of basic state pension payments paid to pensioners in the city of York local authority area was in 1996–97; what the total value of such payments would have been in 2004–05 if the basic state pension had been increased in line with (a) prices and (b) wages between 1996–97 and 2004–05; and what he estimates the total value of (i) basic state pension payments, (ii) pension credit payments, (iii) winter fuel payments, (iv) council tax £100 payments and (v) free television licences to the over 75s in that area will be in 2004–05. [222224]

Malcolm Wicks: Basic state pension expenditure information is not available at constituency or local authority level before 1999–2000, so it is not possible to state the total value of basic state pension payments to pensioners in the city of York local authority area in 1996–97.

However, it has been possible to calculate that if the basic state pension had been increased in line with (a) prices and (b) wages between 1996–97 and 2004–05, the total value of such payments in 2004–05 would have been (a) £127.6 million and (b) £145.9 million respectively.

The other available information is in the following table.

2004–05 city Of York local authority area expenditure, £ million, cash terms

Basic state pension payments	136.9
Pension credit payments	11.0
Winter fuel payments	6.5
Council tax £100 payments	1.7
Free television licences to over 75s payments	1.4

Notes:

1. All figures have been rounded to the nearest hundred thousand pounds.
2. Expenditure for basic state pension and pension credit has been apportioned using 2004–05 Quarterly Statistical Inquiry data.
3. Figures for expenditure on basic state pension exclude people receiving Category C or Category D pension only, additional state pension only or graduated retirement benefit only.
4. Pension credit expenditure includes both the guarantee credit and the savings credit.
5. 2004–05 Quarterly Statistical Inquiry data is not yet available for winter fuel, council tax £100 payments or free television licence expenditure. Therefore, 2003–04 data has been used. It has been assumed that the City of York's proportion of the Great Britain total (United Kingdom in the case of free television licence expenditure) would be very similar in 2003–04 and 2004–05.
6. Winter fuel expenditure includes the basic winter fuel payment and the Over 80s payment, which was introduced in 2003–04.
7. Council tax £100 payments has been interpreted to mean the over 70s payment introduced in 2004–05.
8. Free television licence expenditure data is not available at a local level within the Department. The expenditure has been estimated using the number of households where there is one or more people aged 75 or over, according to the Department's winter fuel payments database, and the estimated cost of free television licences in 2004–05.
9. Figures are consistent with the pre-budget report 2004 and with expenditure information published on the internet at http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp (table3). These tables will shortly be updated with budget 2005 figures.

Expenditure is based on departmental forecasts underpinning the pre-budget report and has been apportioned using Quarterly Statistical Inquiry data, from 2003–04 or 2004–05, for the relevant benefits. The data is based on a 5 per cent. sample, and therefore subject to a degree of sampling variation, with the exception of winter fuel, council tax £100 payments and free television licence expenditure which have been calculated from 100 per cent. samples.

Stourbridge

Ms Shipley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Stourbridge constituency, the effects on the constituency of changes to his Department's policies since 1997. [223340]

Jane Kennedy: We have undertaken a fundamental overhaul of the welfare system, transforming it to an active system that fights poverty, creates opportunity and helps people become self-sufficient and independent.

Since 2001, the Government have significantly extended and improved civil rights for disabled people in areas such as employment, education, access to goods and services and transport. Disabled people in Stourbridge will have benefited from these improvements in disability rights. Similarly, families with severely disabled three and four-year-old children who are unable, or virtually unable to walk will have benefited from the Government's decision to lower the minimum age entitlement to the higher rate mobility component of disability living allowance from April 2001, while older and less well off carers have gained extra help through the provisions within the National Carers Strategy.

In 2002–03 we estimate there were around 10 million adults (22 per cent.) and 0.7 million children (5 per cent.) in Great Britain likely to be covered by the provisions of the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA).

The figures can be broken down to regional level which shows that 21 per cent. of adults and 6 per cent. of children in West Midlands region are likely to be covered by the provisions of the DDA.

Information on the numbers of customers in Stourbridge who are in receipt of disability living allowance (DLA) and attendance allowance (AA) is in the table.

Stourbridge

Operational year	DLA/AA recipients
2001	5,200
2002	5,400

DWP Information Centre. Figures are rounded to the nearest 100 and are from a 5 per cent. sample at 30 November each year.

Through Jobcentre Plus, we are promoting work as the best form of welfare for people of working age. The number of people in work is at historically high levels of over 28.5 million; in Stourbridge, the proportion in employment has risen to 76.7 per cent.

Our new deals have helped lone parents, the young unemployed, the long-term unemployed, disabled people, the over 50s and partners of unemployed people to move from benefit into work. Nationally over 1.25 million people have been helped into work by the new deals, with over 1,680 in Stourbridge alone.

Significant progress has been made in eradicating child poverty and the latest figures (for 2002–03) show that, in the UK, there were over half a million fewer children in relative low income than there were in 1996–97. Since 2001–02 incomes for lone parents in receipt of benefit have risen by more than prices or the cost of living. In April 2005 the child allowance rate in income support for a child up to 18 years old will have been increased by 40 per cent. since 2001–02. Child rates in income support and jobseeker's allowance are also being increased above inflation in April 2005 in line with child tax credit uprating. All of this has benefited 1,400 families in Stourbridge.

We want all pensioners to have a decent and secure income in retirement and to share fairly in the rising prosperity of the country and our first priority has been to help the poorest pensioners. The Government will be spending nearly £10 billon more in 2004–05 (in 2004–05 prices) on pensioners as a result of measures introduced since 1997, with around half going to the poorest third.

Our reforms include the state second pension, which helps more future pensioners build up better pensions, especially carers. Pension credit, introduced from October 2003, provides a contribution to a guaranteed minimum income for those aged 60 and over and, for the first time, those over aged 65 and over may be rewarded for savings and income. As of December 2004, around 4,290 pensioners in Stourbridge are receiving pension credit, with an average award of £39.26 per week.

We know that older people are disproportionately affected by fuel poverty. This winter (2004–05) we have again made available a winter fuel payment of £200 for each eligible household with someone aged 60 or over and £300 to those with someone aged 80 or over to help with their fuel bills. Additionally, for this year, eligible households with someone aged 70 or over will receive the one-off 70 plus payment of £100 to help with living expenses including council tax bills. It is paid with the winter fuel payment.

The constituency data on winter fuel payments and the additional 80 plus annual payment is available in the Library.

Since 1997 single pensioners and pensioner couples have seen a real terms increase in their basic state pension of 7 per cent. and 8 per cent., respectively. Some 16,300 pensioners in Stourbridge have benefited from this increase.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220947]

Jane Kennedy: No.

Tamworth

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Tamworth receive attendance allowance. [221933]

Maria Eagle: The administration of attendance allowance is a matter for the Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service, Mr. Terry Moran. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Terry Moran to Mr. Brian Jenkins, dated 24 March 2005:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Disability and Carers Service, the Minister for Disabled People, Maria Eagle MP, on behalf of the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many pensioners in Tamworth receive attendance allowance.

As at November 2004, there were 2.0 thousand attendance allowance recipients in Tamworth Parliamentary Constituency.

Notes:

1. Figure taken from a 5 per cent. sample and therefore subject to sampling error.

2. Number has been rounded to the nearest hundred and expressed in thousands.

3. Only AA cases in payment have been included.

4. Parliamentary Constituencies have been allocated using the relevant ONS postcode directory.

I hope this is helpful.

Vaccine Damage

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many payments were made by the predecessors of his Department to victims of vaccine damage between 1975 and the introduction of the Vaccine Damage Payments Act 1979. [223012]

Maria Eagle: 75 payments were made to victims of vaccine damage under the extra statutory scheme that preceded the 1979 Vaccine Damage Payment Act. These 75 payments were made following announcement of the extra statutory scheme on 9 May 1978. No payments were made prior to this date.

Winter Fuel Payments

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people have benefited from winter fuel payments in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the north-east and (d) the UK since their inception. [223656]

Malcolm Wicks: Information on the number of people in the Jarrow constituency, South Tyneside, the north-east and Great Britain who have benefited from winter fuel payments in each year for which figures are available is in the Library. Information on payments made in Northern Ireland is a matter for my right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland.

HEALTH

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether it is his policy that payments under the accident and emergency capital incentive scheme should benefit the accident and emergency department itself; and whether he has issued guidance on the issue. [222808]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The incentive scheme was designed to recognise and reward the efforts of national health service trusts in improving accident and emergency performance. The transformation in accident and emergency services that they have brought about reflects not just the work of accident and emergency departments themselves, but a range of other departments working across the hospital and beyond. We therefore deliberately gave trusts flexibility to decide how best to spend incentive scheme monies.

The only guidance issued in relation to the payment was that the money be spent in consultation with their lead primary care trust.

Brian Cotter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many ward beds are available for accident and emergency admissions for the Weston area health trust. [223369]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The number of ward beds that are available for accident and emergency admissions at the Weston area health trust is shown in the following table.

	Number available
Total	370
Acute	324
Geriatric	28
Mental illness	—
Learning disability	—
Maternity	18

Abortion

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many babies have (a) survived and (b) been born alive following abortion since 1991; [221741]

(2) what methods are used to record incidences where babies (a) survive abortion and (b) are born alive following abortion. [221961]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Under the Abortion Act 1967, as amended, any registered medical practitioner who terminates a pregnancy is required to notify the Chief Medical Officer. The abortion notification form does not collect information on whether the foetus survived the abortion.

When a foetus is born which shows signs of life and subsequently dies, the birth and death must be registered in the district where the birth and death happened.

Alzheimer's Disease

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients he estimates would be affected by the implementation of the recommendation by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence that Reminyl, Aricept and Exelon should not be prescribed to NHS patients with Alzheimer's disease and dementia. [223572]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The draft appraisal of drugs for Alzheimer's disease published recently National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) is a consultation document and does not constitute the institute's final advice to the national health service. NICE will issue a final version of the revised guidance later in the year, after considering responses to its consultation. Until then, NICE's original 2001 appraisal continues to apply.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with primary care trusts which do not make available the full range of drugs for treatment of Alzheimer's disease approved by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence. [221023]

Dr. Ladyman: The National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) has recently issued for consultation a revised version of its technology appraisal on drugs for the treatment of Alzheimer's disease. I have had no specific discussions with primary care trusts about compliance with the existing NICE guidance. Until NICE issues a final version of this new guidance, its original 2001 appraisal continues to apply.

The Government have now submitted their response to the current consultation and a copy has been placed in the Library.

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of the measures of cost-effectiveness applied by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence in evaluating whether acetylcholinesterase inhibitors should continue to be available to treat sufferers from Alzheimer's disease; [223627]

(2) what assessment his Department has made of the effectiveness of acetylcholinesterase inhibitors in improving cognitive and global outcomes for sufferers from Alzheimer's disease. [223628]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) published its draft technology appraisal guidance on drugs for Alzheimer's disease for consultation on 1 March 2005. NICE is an independent body with an internationally recognised reputation for the robustness of its technology appraisal development process. The Department responded to NICE'S consultation on the guidance on the 22 March and a copy of the response is available in the Library. NICE will be issuing a final version of this new guidance later in the year, after considering responses to its consultation. Until then, the recommendations in NICE's original 2001 appraisal continue to apply.

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department defines dementia as a long-term neurological condition; and whether the principles of the National Service Framework for Long-Term Conditions apply to the care and treatment of people with dementia. [223801]

Dr. Ladyman: Although the National Service Framework (NSF) for Long-term Conditions focuses on people with neurological conditions, much of the guidance it offers can apply to anyone living with a long-term, progressive condition such as dementia. Commissioners are, therefore, encouraged to use this NSF in planning service developments for people with other long-term conditions.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what criteria the National Institute for Clinical Excellence used to determine the appropriateness of drugs for use in the treatment of dementia; and what assessment has been made of the impact of the withdrawal of these drugs on people suffering with dementia; [223815]

(2) what assessment he makes of (a) cost and (b) clinical need in the determination of the allocation of drugs. [223816]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Information on the process by which the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) conducts its technology appraisals, and the factors it takes into account, are available on the Institute's website at www.nice.nhs.uk. NICE is an independent body with an internationally recognised reputation for the robustness of its technology appraisal development process. NICE published its draft technology appraisal guidance on drugs for Alzheimer's disease for consultation on 1 March 2005 and the Institute will be issuing a final version of this new guidance later in the year, after considering responses to its consultation. Until then, the recommendations in NICE'S original 2001 appraisal continue to apply.

The Department does not allocate drugs. The Department allocates revenue resources to primary care trusts on the basis of the size of the population it serves, the need for health care of the population and unavoidable differences in the cost of providing health care.

Arthritis

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will introduce an NHS National Service Framework for (a) inflammatory arthritis, (b) osteoarthritis and (c) psoriatic arthritis. [223184]

Dr. Ladyman: In recognition of the need for a greater focus on the needs of the 17 million people with long-term conditions, including arthritis, the Government has already published this year:

"Supporting People with Long Term Conditions" (LTCs)

"Self Care a Real Choice"

"Liberating the talents of nurses who care for people with LTCs"—describing the new clinical function of community matrons.

The national service framework for people with LTCs.

As part of this work on LTCs, it is intended to publish best practice guidance on musculoskeletal conditions, which include inflammatory arthritis, osteoarthritis and; psoriatic arthritis, later this year. The work is being developed with a wide range of stakeholders including the Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Alliance.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many hospital admissions there were for (a) inflammatory arthritis and (b) psoriatic arthritis in the last year for which figures are available. [223186]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is shown in the following table.

Counts of finished admission episodes for selected diagnoses on admission, national health service hospitals, England 2003–04

Condition	Total
Inflammatory arthritis	55,960
Psoriatic arthritis	2,488

Notes:
1. A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
2. The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002–03) diagnosis fields in the hospital episode statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.
3. Diagnosis codes used:
(a) Inflammatory arthritis M05—M14 Inflammatory Polyarthropathies.
(b) Psoriatic arthritis—Primary: L40.5 Arthropathic psoriasis.
4. As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 13 (six prior to 2002–03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care.
5. Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

HES, Department of Health.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many children in England suffer from juvenile idiopathic arthritis; [223187]

(2) how many adults in England suffer from (a) inflammatory arthritis, (b) psoriatic arthritis and (c) moderate to severe osteoarthritis of hands, knees or hips. [223188]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department does not routinely and comprehensively collect the data requested.

Epidemiological data for arthritis is, in the main, collected in surveys or from registers, the main sources being Government, academic institutions and charitable organisations.

We are aware that the Arthritis Research Council, a respected major charity, commissioned a large scale study of epidemiological data on arthritis. The Department has not validated its findings. However, it showed that:

At least 4.4 million people in the United Kingdom have x-ray evidence of moderate to severe osteoarthritis of the hands; 0.55 million of the knees and 0.21 million of the hips[1].

Approximately 387,000 people are estimated to have rheumatoid arthritis (one of the inflammatory arthritides).

Around 12,000 children in the UK have juvenile idiopathic arthritis.

Asthma

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding he has made available for research into asthma and related conditions in each year since 1997. [223590]

Dr. Ladyman: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave the hon. Member for Chesham and Amersham (Mrs. Gillan) on 16 December 2004, Official Report, columns 1308–10W.

Care (Statistics)

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many episodes of care relating to (a) health visiting, (b) community nursing, (c) district nursing, (d) community psychiatric nursing, (e) community learning disability nursing, (f) specialist care nursing, (g) chiropody services, (h) clinical psychology, (i) occupational therapy, (j) physiotherapy, (k) speech and language therapy and (l) community dental services there were in each year since 1990–91. [218126]

Mr. Hutton: Information for 1990–91 to 1996–97 is available in fig. 7.2 of the Departmental Report 2001 and for 1997–98 to 2002–03 in fig. 7.2 of the Departmental Report 2004. Copies of these reports are available in the Library. Figures for 2003–04 are shown in the table. These figures do not include episodes of care given by certain specialist care nurses or those given by staff employed by social services.

Episodes of care relating to community nursing, dental and cross sector therapy services, England, 2003–04[1]

	Number (Thousand)
Health visiting	3,000
Of which:
Community nursing services (total)	2,600
District nursing	2,000
Community mental health nursing	330
Community learning disability nursing	24
Specialist care nursing	330
Chiropody services	790
Clinical psychology[2]	n/a
Occupational therapy	1,270
Physiotherapy	4,300
Speech and language therapy	340
Community dental services[3]	n/a

n/a = Not available.

[1] Number of new episodes commenced in the year except health visiting (number of different persons seen at least once in a year) and community dental services (number of episodes of care commenced in year)

[2] Data collection discontinued from 2003–04.

[3] 2003–04 data not yet available.

Charities

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will conduct research into the effects of late payments from his Department on charities, with particular reference to their ability to fulfil the contract at the specified levels. [222655]

Dr. Ladyman: We do not consider that research into the effects of late payments is necessary.

The Department acknowledges that late payments may have an impact on charities and voluntary organisations. We support and have taken on board the good practice guidance on procurement of services from the voluntary and community sector published by the Home Office and the Compact Code of Practice on Funding, both of which emphasise the importance of prompt payment within payment procedures.

The Section 64 General Scheme of Grants represents the greatest single source of grant funding from the Department to the voluntary sector. The Department may also contract with voluntary organisations for a specific service outside the Section 64 scheme.

The majority of Section 64 grants are paid in quarterly instalments starting when the organisation has formally accepted the grant conditions and the project has started. Payments in subsequent years are made following receipt of financial and monitoring information as specified in the conditions. Payment schedules are notified to the organisations.

The Department's general payment policy is that, where there is no contractual provision or other understanding or accepted practice governing the time of payment, the Department should pay within 30 days of receipt of goods and services, or of the presentation of a valid invoice or similar demand for payment, whichever is the later. Our records show that over 90 per cent. of invoices in the current financial year have been paid in accordance with this policy.

Continuing Care

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his written evidence to the Health Select Committee of 24 January, whether all strategic health authorities in England have completed and cleared their pre-April 2004 backlog of cases where individuals were wrongly assessed to pay for continuing care. [220454]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 7 March 2005]: In total, the national health service has now completed over 10,744 investigations into retrospective funding for continuing care. Nationwide, there are only 15 outstanding cases that were logged before 1 April 2004. Their delay has been due to a number of reasons such as staff sickness, problems with locating notes from the independent sector and new information being made available. In addition, the review of some of these cases was delayed at the request of the patient or the patient's representative. The Department is working closely with strategic health authorities to ensure that these cases are completed as soon as possible.

Mr. Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people are receiving NHS continuing care in each strategic health authority in England. [223792]

Dr. Ladyman: The most recent available data are for March 2004. The reported number of people in each strategic health authority (SHA) in England receiving national health service continuing care at that time is shown in the table.

People receiving continuing care: March 2004

	Number
England (estimated)[1]	19,984
By SHA:
Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire	435
Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire	830
Essex	698
North West London	1,468
North Central London	320
North East London	735
South East London	580
South West London	433
Northumberland, Tyne and Wear	1,081
County Durham and Tees Valley	1,374
North and East Yorkshire and Northern Lincolnshire	705
West Yorkshire	688
Cumbria and Lancashire	376
Greater Manchester	984
Cheshire and Merseyside	1,074
Thames Valley	632
Hampshire and Isle of Wight	530
Kent and Medway	770
Surrey and Sussex	719
Avon, Gloucestershire and Wiltshire	741
South West Peninsula	516
Somerset and Dorset	241
South Yorkshire	192
Trent	928
Leicestershire, Northamptonshire and Rutland	215
Shropshire and Staffordshire	663
Birmingham and the Black Country	1,107
Coventry, Warwickshire, Herefordshire and Worcestershire	690

[1] The estimated England figure does not equal the sum of the 28 SHAs listed in the table. This is because the following organisations did not return data in 2003–04:

5LC Westminster Primary Care Trust (PCT)
5A2 Norwich PCT.
5KR North and East Cornwall PCT.

Notes:

The figures include people receiving NHS fully funded physical and mental health care over an extended period of time, as the result of disability, accident or illness. This can be in a NHS hospital, care home or peoples' own homes.

The figures exclude hospital admissions, people receiving intermediate care, NHS funded nursing care in a care home or any package of care jointly funded with social services.

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what methodology was used to calculate the estimate of £180 million to compensate those who did not receive NHS Continuing Care. [223697]

Dr. Ladyman: Additional funding was provided for continuing care on the basis of information provided to the Department by strategic health authorities after an assessment by primary care trusts of the likely level of local claims.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223446]

Mr. Hutton: Budgets are set for Government Departments in the spending review held every two years. The most recent spending review in 2004 set budgets up to 2007–08. The Department's departmental expenditure limits for 2007–08 as set in the last spending review are £88.9 billion revenue and £6.3 billion capital.

Pudsey

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Pudsey constituency, the effects of changes to departmental policy since 1997 on Pudsey constituency. [223568]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Government have put in place a programme of national health service investment and reform since 1997 to improve service delivery in all parts of the United Kingdom. There is significant evidence that these policies have yielded considerable benefits for the Pudsey constituency.

For example:

At the end of January 2005, the number of people waiting more than nine months for inpatient treatment within Leeds North West Primary Care Trust (PCT) had fallen to 0, from 230 in June 2002.

At the end of December 2004 the number of patients waiting over 13 weeks for out-patient treatment within Leeds North West PCT had fallen to 201, from 928 in June 2002.

Figures for December 2004 show that all patients within Leeds North West PCT are able to be offered an appointment with a primary care professional within two working days, an improvement from 85.7 per cent. in June 2002.

Leeds North West PCTs financial allocation increased to £158.3 million for 2004–05 a real terms increase of 6.4 per cent.

In June 2003, at Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust, 88.7 per cent. of patients spent less than four hours in accident and emergency from arrival to admission, transfer or discharge. Figures for December 2004 show an improvement to 93 per cent.

Between September 2000 and September 2003 the number of consultants at Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust has increased from 437 to 538. The number of nurses increased from 4,461 to 4,783.

In the Leeds local authority area death rates from cancer per 100,000 population have fallen to 196.3 in 2003, from 203.3 in 1997.

In the Leeds local authority area death rates from coronary heart disease per 100,000 population have fallen to 127.5 in 2003, from 156.6 in 1997.

In November 2003, an additional computed tomography (CT) scanner was delivered to Cookridge hospital.

In March 2002, a replacement CT scanner was delivered to Leeds General Infirmary.

In June 2002, an additional CT scanner was delivered to Cookridge hospital.

In April 2001, an additional magnetic resonance imaging scanner was delivered to Cookridge hospital.

In October 2001, two replacement linear accelerators were delivered to Cookridge hospital.

In February 2003, a replacement cardiac catheter laboratory was delivered to Cookridge hospital.

In November 2004, one additional and one replacement linear accelerator were delivered to the Yorkshire Regional Centre for Cancer. Two replacement linear accelerators will be delivered in September 2006.

The Joint Local Investment Finance Trust scheme, involving Leeds West PCT, Leeds North West PCT, Leeds North East PCT, East Leeds PCT and South Leeds PCT, with a capital value of £19.7 million. The scheme includes two GP practices plus addiction services, midwifery and school nursing for Woodhouse Primary Care Centre, two general practitioner (GP) practices, health visiting, speech therapy and addiction services for Armley Primary Care Centre and four GP practices, district nursing, health visiting and midwifery for Dewsbury Road Centre.

Departmental Staff

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the staff complement for his Department was in each of the last nine years. [222867]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Information on the staff complement for the Department for the last nine years is shown in the table. This information is available at www.civilservice.gov.uk/management information/ statistical information/statistics/archived data/archived data on staff in post/index.asp.

As at 1 April	Number full-time equivalent permanent staff
2004	2,750
2003	3,150
2002	3,440
2001	3,640
2000	3,570
1999	3,543
1998	3,491
1997	3,683
1996	3,732

Digital Hearing Aids

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many NHS trusts have the necessary (a) facilities and (b) staff to fit digital hearing aids; [222190]

(2) if he will make a statement on the process for assessing the quality of audiology services in hospitals; [222191]

(3) what measures were taken to prepare primary care trusts for the modernising hearing aid services programme; and if he will make a statement; [222192]

(4) what plans he has to collate centrally statistics on waiting times relating to the modernising hearing aid service project; and if he will make a statement. [222193]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department has invested £125 million into the modernising hearing aid services (MHAS) project since it started in September 2000. This project is being managed on behalf of the Department by the Royal National Institute for the Deaf (RNID).

All national health service audiology departments, which are part of the MHAS project, within England have a named lead primary care trust (PCT) which acts on behalf of all those PCTs which commission audiology services from each NHS trust.

In spring 2004, the RNID undertook a comprehensive series of 26 seminars across England to promote the benefits of the MHAS project. All PCTs and strategic health authorities were invited to attend these events.

95 per cent. of all NHS audiology departments in England are fitting digital hearing aids routinely to those people they have diagnosed as suitable and the few remaining departments will be offering the service by the end of March 2005.

The Healthcare Commission is responsible for regulating and inspecting NHS services, including audiology services.

There are no plans to centrally collate statistics on waiting times.

Drug Users

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of problematic drug users are in treatment; and how many were in treatment on average in each of the last five years. [209617]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The percentage of problematic drug users that are in treatment, in England in 2003–04, is estimated to be around 45 per cent.[1]

The number of people in treatment for drug misuse during the year in England is shown in the table.

[1] This estimate is based upon:

The estimated figure of around 281,000 problematic drug users in England and Wales (Godfrey C, Eaton G, McDougall C & Culyer A (2002). "The Economic and Social Costs of Class A Drug Use in England and Wales, 2000. Home Office Research Study 249.")

The assumption that problematic drug use levels in the population are the same in England and Wales Resident population estimates for England, 49.9 million, and Wales, 2.9 million, for 2003.

The 126,000 figure and methodology for numbers in treatment in England in 2003–04 "Key statistics on drug misusers in treatment, England 2003–04", available at http://www.nta.nhs.uk.

The assumption that all people in treatment are problematic drug users.

	Number of people in treatment
1999–2000	Not available
2000–01	118,500
2001–02	[1]128,200
2002–03	[1]140,900
2003–04	[2]154,000

[1] Provisional data.

[2] This figure is used to allow for a more accurate comparison with previous years. As explained in: "Bridging exercise comparing drug misuse treatment data 2002–03 and 2003–04", available at http://www.nta.nhs.uk, the method of measuring contact with drug treatment services has been changed and the definition tightened since data was collected in 2002–03. Based on the new methodology introduced in 2003–04, the total number of people actually recorded as being in contact with structured drug treatment in 2003–04 was 125,913. This figure is the total number of individuals whose treatment falls within the definition of structured drug treatment as defined by NTA's Models of Care as "treatment following assessment and delivered according to a care plan, with clear goals, which is regularly reviewed with the client." This figure is used to produce the percentage data.

Eye Tests

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average cost was of eye tests carried out on the NHS to (a) individuals and (b) the NHS in (i) 1979 and (ii) 1997. [222182]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Sight tests provided by the national health service were free in 1979. An optometrist who carried out a sight test under the general ophthalmic services between 1 January to 31 December 1979 would have received a fee of £4.25. An ophthalmic medical practitioner who carried out a sight test under the general ophthalmic services between 1 April 1979 to 31 March 1980 would have received a fee of £3.40.

In 1997 sight tests provided by the NHS were free to children under 16, those aged 16–18 in full-time education, people on low incomes, individuals predisposed to eye disease, those registered blind or partially sighted and people who have a complex prescription. An optometrist who carried out a sight test under the general ophthalmic service between 1 April 1997 to 31 March 1998 received a fee of £14.10. An ophthalmic medical practitioner who carried out a sight test under the general ophthalmic services would have received a fee of £12.51 from 1 April 1997 and £14.10 from 1 December 1997.

Genito-Urinary Medicine

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of genito-urinary medicine clinics that offer an HIV test to clinic attendees on their first screening for sexually transmitted diseases. [223290]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Data on the number of genito-urinary medicine clinics that offer an HIV test to clinic attendees on their first screening for sexually transmitted diseases is not held centrally.

Gluten Intolerance

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will list gluten-free products available on an NHS prescription for patients who are intolerant of gluten; [222840]

(2) what guidance on gluten-free diets is made available by his Department to general practitioners; [222841]

(3) what information is provided to patients by the NHS on (a) symptoms, (b) treatment and (c) dietary recommendations for people with gluten intolerance; [222842]

(4) how many people (a) were estimated to have and (b) had been diagnosed with a gluten intolerance on the latest date for which figures are available. [222843]

Dr. Ladyman: The data on numbers diagnosed with coeliac disease are not available. Coeliac UK estimates that the average incidence in the United Kingdom is one in a hundred.

Advice on food intolerance, including advice on how to avoid certain ingredients when shopping for food or eating out, is available on the Food Standards Agency's website at www.food.gov.uk and also at its consumer advice and information website at www.eatwell.gov.uk.

We have no specific plans to raise awareness of the condition among the medical profession. The Department is not responsible for setting curriculum's for general practitioners; that is rightly the responsibility of the statutory and professional bodies. However, we do share a commitment with those bodies that all general practitioners are trained so that they have the skills and knowledge to deliver a high quality health service to all groups of the population with whom they deal.

All the gluten free products available on national health service prescription on the recommendation of the advisory committee on borderline substances are listed in Part XV of the Drug Tariff, which is published monthly by The Stationery Office, a copy of which is available in the Library.

Great Ormond Street Hospital

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations have been cancelled at the Great Ormond Street hospital in the 2004–05 financial year. [222010]

Dr. Ladyman: Published data for cancelled operations are available for 2004 to December 2004 (the latest available data). Great Ormond Street hospital has had 74 last-minute cancellations for non-clinical reasons.

Based on data from the previous year, we can estimate that 9,611 inpatient operations were performed without cancellation during the same period.

Health Services (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people received NHS treatment in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [223730]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is not available in the format requested.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentist surgeries there have been in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [223732]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Leicester, South is served by Leicester City West Primary Care Trust (PCT) and Eastern Leicester PCT.

The number of dental practices in these PCT areas, for the years 1997 to 2004 is shown in the table.

	Eastern Leicester	Leicester City West
1997	41	18
1998	40	18
1999	41	20
2000	40	20

Dental Practice Board

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) nursing and (b) residential homes for the elderly there have been in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [223653]

Dr. Ladyman: Data are not available for the area requested. Information on the number of care homes for people aged 65 or over and for all adults aged 18 and over in Leicestershire at 31 March for the years 1997 to 2001 is shown in the table.

I understand from the chair of the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that figures for later years were collected by the National Care Standards Commission, and now CSCI, but comparable details are not available.

Number of residential and nursing homes in Leicestershire[1], 1997 to 2001

At 31 March	Residential[2] 65 and over	Residential[2] Total	Nursing[2,3] 65 and over	Nursing[2,3] Total	Total

Figures may not sum due to rounding.

Health Services (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients were waiting for elective in-patient admission to York Hospitals NHS Trust (a) in total, (b) for less than three months, (c) for three to five months, (d) for six to eight months and (e) for nine to 11 months; and what the median waiting time in months was (i) in May 1997 and (ii) at the latest date for which figures are available. [222294]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is shown in the table.

Patients waiting for admission by month waiting: York Hospitals National Health Service Trust

Influenza Pandemic Plan

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what evidence he has received on the effectiveness of stockpiling oseltamivir in reducing the impact of an influenza pandemic. [220996]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department has reviewed published evidence based on the effectiveness of antiviral drugs, including that from the National Institute for Clinical Excellence, together with estimates of their likely effect during an influenza pandemic.

Health Statistics (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) nursing and (b) residential homes for the elderly there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223177]

Dr. Ladyman: Data are not available for the area requested. Information on the number of care homes for people aged 65 or over and for all adults aged 18 and over in Shropshire at 31 March for the years 1997 to 2001 is shown in the table.

I understand from the Chair of the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that figures for later years were collected by the National Care Standards Commission, and now CSCI, but comparable details are not available.

Healthcare Commission

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his answer of 27 January 2005, Official Report, column 553W, on the Healthcare Commission, how the Healthcare Commission has increased its capacity to handle the increased level of referrals; and how many cases are outstanding. [222675]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 17 March 2005]: I understand from the Chairman of the Healthcare Commission that it has continued to receive a large number of requests from patients wanting their complaints independently reviewed, and is on track to receive about 9,000 complaints in the first year of this activity. This is up from 3,000 cases in 2003 under the previous system.

The Healthcare Commission has increased capacity by bringing in interim teams to help to deal with the complaints, and will have more than doubled the number of full-time permanent staff to 110 by the summer. Between 30 July 2004 and 28 February 2005, the Healthcare Commission received 5,338 requests for independent review, is reviewing 2,624 and has closed 877. A further 1,887 are outstanding.

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the resourcing of the complaints handling function of the Healthcare Commission. [223042]

Mr. Hutton: I understand from the Chairman of the Healthcare Commission that it has continued to receive a large number of requests from patients wanting their complaint independently reviewed, and is on track to receive about 9,000 complaints in the first year of this activity. This is up from 3,000 cases in 2003 under the previous system. The Healthcare Commission has increased capacity by bringing in interim teams to help to deal with the complaints, and will have increased the number of staff devoted to this function to 110 by the summer.

IVF

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many IVF embryos were (a) created, (b) created for research purposes and (c) donated for research purposes between 1991 and 2004. [222647]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) has advised me that between 1991 and 2004, 1,950,757 embryos were created, of which 78,505 were donated for research purposes. Data on embryos created for research is not routinely collected by the HFEA. However, information obtained by the HFEA from licensed centres suggests that approximately 370 embryos have been created for research purposes since 1991.

Data on the HFEA's register is currently being audited to improve the accuracy of the information available. It may, therefore, be subject to further amendment following completion of the modernisation programme in March 2006.

Leeds Community and Mental Health Trust

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 162W, on Leeds Community and Mental Health Trust, whether the bed occupancy rate for 2003–04 includes patients occupying the beds of other patients on leave. [223214]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Bed availability and occupancy are measured at midnight so by definition there cannot be more than one patient occupying a bed. A bed allocated to a patient on home leave would be recorded as not available and therefore not occupied. If the bed is subsequently made available for another patient, it would be recorded as available and occupied. In this way, occupancy never exceeds 100 per cent.

Low Birth Weight Babies

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the rate of low birth-weight babies in England compared with other countries in Western Europe. [222688]

Dr. Ladyman: The incidence of low birth-weight babies has increased across Europe, particularly in England, which has a high incidence. In part, this is the result of advances in maternal and neonatal care which save premature babies who would not have survived in the past. There are also a number of avoidable causal factors associated with low birth-weight, which we are addressing through a range of initiatives to promote access to wholesome nutrition, enhanced health care prior to and during pregnancy and the adoption of healthier lifestyle choices.

McKinsey and Company

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much money has been paid to McKinsey and Company by NHS trusts seeking to secure foundation status in the past 12 months. [223631]

Mr. Hutton: The Department provides a programme of support, including direct financial support to applicants preparing for national health service foundation trust status. It does not, however, hold information on the level of resources or the way in which resources are used by applicants in preparing for foundation status, as it is for each trust to determine how resources are best spent. Costs vary from trust to trust depending on individual circumstances of the organisation and its state of readiness.

Mental Health

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many mental health beds have been available in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [223649]

Dr. Ladyman: The average daily numbers of available beds by sector for the years 1997 to 2004 are shown in the table.

Department of Health form KH03.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the change in the number of mental health patients presenting at accident and emergency departments over the last eight years; and if he will make a statement. [222041]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has not made a formal assessment of changes in the number of patients attending accident and emergency departments with mental health problems. However, we have encouraged local services to make improvements in the support available for people in mental health crises and we published guidance for A and E staff that provides practical support to improve the care of patients with mental ill health who access emergency care services. The guidance is available on the Department's website at www.dh.gov.uk/PublicationsAndStatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidanceArticle/fs/en?CONTENT_ID=4081455&chk=PZrfPQ

In addition, the Department provided incentive money in the current financial year for trusts that made progress to integrate elements of their crisis services. 80 per cent. of trusts were awarded the one-off payment of £200,000 following an assessment of their progress and performance by strategic health authorities.

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff were employed by the Leeds Community and Mental Health Trust and its successor trust in each year since 1992, broken down by staff group. [223522]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested.

A new system of occupation coding for national health service non-medical staff was introduced in 1995. Data prior to 1995 is not directly comparable with later years.

Mental Health Tribunals

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent changes have been made to the location of mental health tribunals sittings for patients of the Humber mental health teaching NHS trust; and for what reasons the changes were made. [223538]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 23 March 2005]: All units in Humber mental health teaching national health service trust have their mental health review tribunals organised by one Mental Health Act Administrator, who works in a separate unit. The tribunals take place at the hospitals where the patient is detained in line with other trusts.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients of the Humber mental health teaching NHS trust subject to sectioning did not have their tribunal hearings within the designated time limit under the 1983 Mental Health Act in the last 12 months. [223573]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding 23 March 2005]: All mental health review tribunals (MHRTs) are listed, in the first instance, within statutory time scales.

A small number of patients do not subsequently have their cases heard within time limits due to factors outside the Tribunal Secretariat's control. These include requests by the responsible authority or patient's representative for an alternative hearing date. Tribunals can also be adjourned by the MHRT panel members when they convene at the hearing. The MHRT is an independent judicial body and the Secretariat has no influence over these decisions to adjourn.

Midwives

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many midwives were employed by the NHS in the last year for which figures are available. [222946]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: As at September 2004, there were 24,844 midwives employed in the national health service, an increase of 2,459 since 1997.

Mobile Phones (Under-fives)

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research his Department has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the health effects of mobile phones on the under-fives. [223589]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Mobile Telecommunication and Health Research (MTHR) programme set up following the Stewart Report in 2000 is jointly funded by Government and industry under the aegis of an independent scientific management committee. One study in this programme is investigating the risk of early childhood cancer among the population residing near mobile phone base stations, although all the studies are relevant to populations of any age. A brief description of all the studies can be found on the MTHR website at www.mthr.org.

The National Radiological Protection Board (NRPB) continually monitors and evaluates research into potential health effects from mobile phone technologies on behalf of Government. The NRPB's independent Advisory Group on Non-ionising Radiation issued a comprehensive review entitled "Health Effects from Radiofrequency Electromagnetic Fields" (docs. of the NRPB, vol. 14, no. 2, 2003). This report noted that little had been published specifically on childhood exposures to radiofrequency. The World Health Organization has prioritised research recommendations for studies on children and electromagnetic fields including those from mobile phone technologies. Further information is available from the World Health Organisation website at: www.who.int/peh-emf/research/children/en/index4.html.

MRI Scans

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2005, Official Report, column 693W, on MRI scans, if he will place the representations he received in the Library. [220512]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 8 March 2005]: No. The representations received fall in the category of commercially sensitive documents that the Department would not generally disclose. Some of the representations received also form part of advice received from strategic health authorities and other national health service bodies. Information of this kind is also not generally disclosed, as it would be detrimental to the provision of free and frank advice.

MRSA

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment the Government have made of whether relationship exists between MRSA and the privatisation of cleaning activities in NHS hospitals. [209146]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Analysis carried out by the Department found that there was no statistically significant relationship between the contracting out of cleaning work and methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) rates in national health service trusts.

However, the impact of cost-cutting programmes during the 1980s and 1990s did lead to a reduction in the number of cleaning staff and expenditure on cleaning.

The problem of MRSA has developed over some time. Between 1993 and 1997, the percentage of S aureus bacteraemias that were MRSA increased from four per cent. to 30 per cent.. It is now settling at just over 40 per cent. The latest data for MRSA bloodstream infections (April-September 2004) show a 6 per cent. drop on the corresponding period in 2003.

Several initiatives are already improving hospital cleanliness and infection control. These are summarised in "Towards cleaner hospitals and lower rates of infections".

Neonatal Care

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average age is of neonatal nurses; and what assessment he has made of the effect on neonatal care of early retirements of such nurses over the next 10 years. [222025]

Mr. Hutton: The information requested is not collected centrally. Neonatal nurses are included within the paediatric nursing area of work. As at September 2004, the average age of paediatric nurses employed in the national health service was 37.

In line with our policy of "Shifting the Balance of Power", it is for primary care trusts, in partnership with strategic health authorities and other local stakeholders, to plan, develop and improve services for local people, including neonatal services.

NHS Dentists

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) children and (b) adults were registered with NHS dentists in Chesterfield on the latest date for which figures are available. [222625]

Ms Rosie Winterton: As at 30 September 2004, there were 16,489 children and 47,339 adults—63,828 patients in total—registered with national health service dentists in Chesterfield.

NHS Professionals

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether staff supplied by NHS Professionals to hospitals undergo the same (a) recruitment, (b) training and (c) occupational health checks that are required of private recruitment agencies; and if he will make a statement; [223574]

(2) when he expects NHS professionals to become self-financing; and if he will make a statement; [223575]

(3) if he will list the NHS trusts which ceased to use NHS professionals in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; and if he will make a statement. [223576]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 23 March 2005]: NHS professionals fully complies with the pre and post-employment checks for all those working in the national health service, the appropriate checks and minimum standards set out in the Department's code of practice for the supply of temporary staffing and NHS purchasing and supply agency delivery standards. A recent Department of Trade and Industry audit confirmed that NHS professionals fully met, and in some cases exceeded, the requirements of the Employments Agencies Act and the Conduct of Employment and Employment Businesses Regulations 2003.

I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to him on 23 March, regarding when NHS professionals is expected to become self-financing.

Information relating to the NHS professionals service prior to the establishment of the special health authority in April 2004 is not held centrally. The Pennine care NHS trust disengaged with the NHS professionals nursing service in 2004, but it continues to use the full range of doctors' services.

NHS Reconfiguration (Merton)

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the representations from the London borough of Merton to call in the reconfiguration decisions made by the local NHS; and if he will make a statement. [223945]

Dr. Ladyman: The Secretary of State has received a referral from the London borough of Merton on the reconfiguration decisions made by the local national health service. We will now consider the issues raised before responding.

NHS Research

Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the research carried out for his Department by Warwick university in connection with its calculations of the market forces factor adjustment as it affects hospitals in Lancashire and Greater Manchester. [223402]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The most recent research carried out on behalf of the Department by university of Warwick, Institute for Employment Research, on the market forces factor, was published in March 2002.

Copies of the report titled 'Spatial Variations in Labour Costs: 2001 Review of the Staff Market Forces Factor' are available in the Library.

Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the differences were between the methodology of the market forces adjustment factor for (a) 2004–05 and (b) 2005–06; what effect this has had on the allocation of funds to the hospital trusts in Blackpool and Preston; for what reasons Blackpool and Preston have different allocations; and when the trusts received details of their 2005–06 allocations using the revised market forces adjustment factor. [223403]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The Payment by results market forces factor (MFF) used in 2004–05 was updated for 2005–06 to take account of the most recently available data on earnings, expenditure, land values and building costs. Following advice to Ministers from the independent Advisory Committee on resource allocation, we also made a change to the methodology to make it more sensitive to cost pressures within individual primary care trust areas, rather than the larger areas previously used. Full details are available on the Department's website at: www.dh.gov.uk/assetRoot/04/10/02/99/04100299.pdf.

In 2004–05, the MFF was a determinant of the prices paid by primary care trusts (PCTs) to national health service trusts for only 48 groups of procedures (known as healthcare resource groups). In 2005–06, the scope of payment by results will be increasing to cover the whole of elective in-patient care for NHS trusts. PCTs will pay the same national tariff to any trust with which they commission, and an allocation for the MFF for elective care will be made to providers directly from the centre. 2005–06 will be the first year in which such allocations will be made.

The Department provided details of the 2005–06 MFF allocations to the NHS on 21 February 2005. There are three reasons why Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre hospital NHS trust (Blackpool) would have a different MFF allocation to Lancashire teaching hospitals NHS trust (Preston): differences in their volume of elective activity (more activity requires more funding); differences in the case mix of that activity (more complex activity requires more funding), and differences in the MFF itself (trusts located in more expensive areas require more funding). The 2005–06 MFF for Lancashire teaching is 1.1 per cent., higher than for Blackpool largely because the MFF allows for higher general wage pressures in Preston.

NHS Spending

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 March 2005, Official Report, column 518W, on NHS spending, if he will provide the figures for each year since 1996–97, at (a) real and (b) nominal prices, broken down by (i) hospital expenditure, (ii) community services expenditure, (iii) ambulance services expenditure and (iv) administration expenditure. [223745]

Mr. Hutton: It is not possible to break down the figures given in the earlier answers into the categories requested as the accounts of primary care trusts and health authorities do not include this analysis.

NICE Guidance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with the National Institute for Clinical Excellence on its draft guidance which does not recommend Aricept, Exelon and Reminyl for treatment of Alzheimer's disease. [222812]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has corrected press misrepresentation and informed the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) that it would be responding to NICE's draft consultation document. The position was restated in a recent debate in Westminster Hall, Official Report, columns 93–101WH, which outlined a number of points the Government later made in their response. A copy of the response is available in the Library and on the Department's website.

Nottinghamshire Drug Action Team

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what qualifications are required of members of the clinically-led Direct Access Management Team for drug treatment established by Nottinghamshire Drug Action Team for the management of general practitioners; and what criteria his Department uses in reaching decisions on funding the clinical management of primary care. [223072]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The qualifications required for any clinically-led service are specifically addressed in 'Models of Care', the national framework document for the treatment of adult drug misusers, which was published by the National Treatment Agency (NTA) in 2002. Models of Care (NTA, 2002) clearly states that

> "A professional should only assess a drug or alcohol misuser or a particular need if they have the required level of competence to do so. Where medical intervention is required for substitute prescribing, an appropriately trained doctor must assess the substance misuser".

All central funds have been placed into one budget, the drug pooled treatment budget (PTB). In addition to this, approximately £200 million of mainstream local expenditure is spent on drug treatment. Drug action teams (DATs) are responsible for assessing local need and then commissioning services accordingly, using the drug pooled treatment budget and other mainstream funds. There are no central funds or grants available for individual projects.

Allocations to local DATs from the PTB are made on a formula basis that recognises key deprivation factors, ensuring the money goes to the areas most in need. Year-on-year increases in PTB funding will see the budgets of every drug action team increase by approximately 55 per cent. by 2008.

Nurses

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many nurses were employed in the NHS in each year since 1997. [223483]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The information requested is shown in the table.

NHS hospital and community health services (HCHS): Qualified nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff employed in the national health service as at 30 September each year

	Headcount	Number Whole-time equivalents
1997	318,856	256,093

Department of Health Non-Medical Workforce Census

Mr. Keith Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to continue the funding of the bursaries for nurses returning to work in the NHS. [221196]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 10 March 2005]: From 1 April 2004, responsibility for funding the bursaries for nurses returning to work in the national health service has been devolved to primary care trusts. (PCTs). This gives PCTs the flexibility to determine the appropriate investment for return to practice, working in partnership with strategic health authorities and other local stakeholders. Furthermore, we are allocating historic levels of funding to PCTs to ensure the NHS secures the workforce necessary to deliver improved services. For the three-year revenue allocations to cover 2003–04, 2004–05 and 2005–06, PCTs received an average cash increase of 9.22 per cent., 9.55 per cent. and 9.32 per cent. This is an average over the three years of 30.83 per cent. For the recent round of allocations to cover 2006–07 and 2007–08, PCTs received average cash increases of 9.2 per cent. and 9.4 per cent. This is an average over the two years of 19.5 per cent.

Occupational Code Definitions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the reclassification of NHS occupational code definitions for managers at Watford general hospital; and if he will list other (a) hospitals and (b) NHS hospital trusts where the same reclassification has taken place. [223043]

Dr. Ladyman: The non-medical workforce census is an annual census, which collects all non-medical staff directly employed by the national health service as at 30 September each year. Data are collected at NHS trust and primary care trust level in England.

The census includes the number of administrative managers and senior managers employed in the NHS. These and other staff are classified using a three-digit occupation code, using guidance contained in the occupation code manual.

In order to provide accurate information, organisations periodically review the codes assigned to their staff. West Hertfordshire NHS Trust, which includes Watford general hospital, conducted reviews in 2001 and 2002. While the census can identify where year-on-year changes have been made, we cannot accurately identify all the changes that are due to reclassification rather than staff movements.

Organ Donation

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether it is his Department's policy to permit live donors to donate their organs to recipients who are not known to them. [222814]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Human Tissue Act, passed in November 2004, prevents the live donation of organs other than in accordance with regulations to be made by the Secretary of State. It is intended that regulations allow donation to persons unknown to the donor, subject to the scrutiny and approval by the Human Tissue Authority (HTA). It will be a matter for the HTA to prepare guidance on the necessary procedures to be followed. These regulations and guidance will be subject to consultation and parliamentary scrutiny.

Osteopathy

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether osteopathy is available on the national health service; and whether a charge is made. [223230]

Mr. Hutton: It is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to commission services in order to meet the needs of their local population, taking into account evidence for the safety and effectiveness of the treatment, and the availability of properly qualified and regulated practitioners. The profession of osteopathy is regulated by the General Osteopathic Council. Information on the detail of services commissioned by PCTs is not centrally collected.

Patient Throughput

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how he measures patient throughput in hospitals; and what the level of patient throughput has been in each year since 1991, broken down as in Table 3.9.2 of the Department's response to the Health Select Committee's 2004 public expenditure questionnaire. [222811]

Mr. Hutton: The data requested are shown in the table. Throughput is calculated as the number of finished consultant episodes divided by the number of available beds.

Patient throughput: 1990–91 to 2003–04

Personal Care

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will estimate the total number of people means-tested for their personal care in January 2004 (a) who are now receiving free NHS continuing care and (b) who will receive free NHS continuing care in each of the next five years. [223253]

Dr. Ladyman: We do not collect the necessary data on which to base an estimate.

PFI Projects

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total projected cost is of private finance initiative projects which have reached Strategic Outline Case or beyond. [223569]

Mr. Hutton: Detailed information on the projected cost of private finance initiative health contracts signed to date has been placed in the Library. This information is only held centrally for projects with a capital value of £10 million or greater.

It is not possible to include details of the unitary payments for schemes yet to reach financial close as they are not finalised and are commercially sensitive.

Pharmaceutical Products

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of existing arrangements for product recall following the discovery of counterfeit pharmaceutical products in the supply chain. [223804]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Counterfeit medicines are classified as defective medicines and as such subjected to the existing arrangements for conducting and notifying product recalls.

The existing arrangements for product recalls are used on a regular basis for recalls and product safety notifications. In 2004, two suspected counterfeit products in the supply chain were recalled using the existing arrangements which operated effectively.

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions his Department has had with representatives of parallel importers of pharmaceutical products on how repackaging carried out by them may impact on the ability to recall products. [223805]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Site inspections of parallel importers are regularly conducted by good manufacturing practice inspectors to ensure they have adequate systems for repacking medicines. Site inspections examine batch records, traceability and recall systems.

If a site has not recently been involved in a recall, the inspector may ask the site to carry out a dummy recall to ensure suitable systems are available, in accordance with the European Commission's guide to good manufacturing practice.

Pharmacies (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many pharmacies there have been in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [223650]

Dr. Ladyman: Information about the number of community pharmacies by constituency is not collected centrally. However, data are available and published by primary care trust (PCT). Leicester, South is served by Leicester City West PCT and Eastern Leicester PCT.

Information prior to 2002 is available by health authority (HA). Leicester, South sat within Leicestershire HA. Table 1 shows the number of community pharmacies by HA, table 2 by PCT.

Procurement

Mr. Patrick Hall: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his assessment is of the progress to date of the Procure 21 procurement process. [223131]

Mr. Hutton: The national health service "ProCure21" programme was set up by the Department to drive forward Government policy as set out in "Achieving Excellence in Construction (1999)". Through "ProCure21", the NHS is delivering facilities:

Through constructive partnering relationships between the public and private sectors.

Within budget.

Which are delivered on time.

Which incorporate best design.

Which achieve value for money.

The programme was rolled out nationally in September 2003. Progress to date is shown in the table.

"ProCure21" schemes

	Number	Value
Schemes registered	238	£2.4 billion
Schemes on site	49	£475 million
Schemes completed	26	£90 million

The National Audit Office report, "Improving Public Services through better construction", was published on 15 March 2005. Sir John Bourn concluded that there has been considerable improvement in completing projects to time and cost and that real savings were being delivered by those Departments which had adopted partnering and collaborative approaches to construction. NHS "ProCure21" was highlighted as a model of best practice.

Renal Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many paediatric patients have received renal replacement therapy for kidney failure in each year since 1997. [222800]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Latest figures are from the UK Renal Survey for 2002, which shows there were 710 patients receiving renal replacement therapy for kidney failure from paediatric services in England. Comparable historical data are not available. However, the British Association for Paediatric Nephrology report that in the United Kingdom there were 508 patients under 15 years old in 1999, 516 in 2001 and 534 in 2002.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people aged (a) under 26 years, (b) 26–50 years, (c) 51–60 years, (d) 61–70 years and (e) 71 years and over have received kidney dialysis in each year since 1997. [222801]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Data from the last two national surveys of renal services commissioned by the Department show that in 2002 there were 16,394 adults receiving kidney dialysis in England compared with 13,405 in 1998. Detailed and specific information on people receiving kidney dialysis broken down into age groups is not yet available. However, the 2002 survey showed that 27 per cent. of adult patients on renal replacement therapy (dialysis and transplantation) were aged 18–44, 39 per cent. were aged 45–64 and 34 per cent. were aged 65 or older. The survey also shows that half of all new patients are over 65 years when they start renal replacement therapy.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what central capital funding is being made available to support the expansion of kidney dialysis services; [222802]

(2) how many (a) main renal units and (b) satellite renal units for dialysis there are in England; how many of these have been established since 1997; and what steps he is taking to improve patient access to renal services. [222817]

Ms Rosie Winterton: £60 million has been made available in the period 2000–01 to 2005–06 for capital investment to support the expansion of renal dialysis services. Data from the last two national surveys of renal services commissioned by the Department show that in 1998 there were 52 main renal units in England and 73 satellite units. In 2002, there were 52 main renal units, and the number of satellite units had risen to 101. This does not reflect the full increase in capacity, as additional facilities were also put into existing units; the total number of haemodialysis stations in England rose from 1,890 in 1998 to 2,582 in 2002. Satellite units can be sited to make services available closer to where people live.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with the Healthcare Commission on how it intends to audit the implementation of the quality requirements contained within the National Service Framework for Renal Services. [222803]

Ms Rosie Winterton: It is the role of the independent Healthcare Commission to review the provision of health care, including renal services, using criteria that they develop and that the Secretary of State approves. The commission has recently completed a public consultation on their approach to the assessment of health care, and will publish their new approach shortly. In addition, the commission has responsibility for development of the national clinical audit programme, and the development of national clinical audit around renal services fits within that programme of work.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many kidney transplant surgeons there have been in the NHS in each year since 1997. [222815]

Mr. Hutton: Information on the number of kidney transplant surgeons is not collected centrally.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients are waiting for a kidney transplant; and what estimate he has made of the number of patients who have died while waiting for a kidney transplant in each of the last five years. [222816]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information requested is shown in the tables.

1: Patients currently[1] registered for a kidney transplant, United Kingdom

Status	Kidney	Kidney/pancreas	Total
Active	5,356	96	5,452

These figures may change slightly (especially 2004) as new data is reported

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many kidney transplants have been carried out by the NHS in each year since 1997. [222818]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The number of kidney transplants carried out by the national health service in each year since 1997 is shown in the table.

Kidney transplants in the UK, 1997–2004

Royal Shrewsbury Hospital

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list items of equipment at the Royal Shrewsbury hospital which have (a) broken down and (b) required repair since 2001. [223334]

Dr. Ladyman: This information is not collected centrally.

Social Care Work Force

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance is offered to (a) public and (b) private sector service providers on the inclusion of knowledge and skills in relation to nutrition and malnutrition in the core training of the social care work force at bands two and three of agenda for change. [223963]

Mr. Hutton: It is the responsibility of social care service providers to ensure that they employ suitably qualified, competent and experienced staff. National occupational standards set out the skills, knowledge and values required and are used as benchmarks for national vocational qualifications. Joint health and social care national occupational standards contain specific standards on meeting nutritional needs.

Rheumatology

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what targets he has set for waiting times between referral by general practitioner and appointment with consultant rheumatologist for (a) adults and (b) children. [223629]

Mr. Hutton: By the end of 2005, no patient should have to wait more than 13 weeks from general practitioner (GP) referral for a first out-patient appointment with any consultant. This includes consultant rheumatologists. By the end of 2008, the maximum wait will be just 18 weeks from GP referral to the start of treatment. These targets apply regardless of age.

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of the number of general practitioner consultations for (a) inflammatory arthritis, (b) osteoarthritis and (c) psoriatic arthritis in the last year for which figures are available. [223630]

Mr. Hutton: The information requested is not available centrally.

Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitors

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what selective serotonin reuptake inhibitor drugs are approved by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence for use by children; [222038]

(2) what advice has been issued by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency about the use of selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors by children. [222039]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) has not made any recommendations on the use of selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs) in children.

Based on the work of its expert working group on the safety of SSRIs, the Committee on Safety of Medicines (CSM) issued advice on the use of SSRIs in the paediatric population in June, September and December 2003. That advice was that the balance of risks and benefits for the treatment of depressive illness in under 18s is judged to be unfavourable for paroxetine (Seroxat), venlafaxine (Efexor), sertraline (Lustral), citalopram (Cipramil), escitalopram (Cipralex) and mirtazapine (Zispin). It is not possible to assess the balance of risks and benefits for fluvoxamine (Faverin,) due to the absence of paediatric clinical trial data. Only fluoxetine (Prozac) has been shown in clinical trials to be effective in treating depressive illness in children and adolescents, although it is possible that, in common with the other SSRIs, it is associated with a small increased risk of self-harm and suicidal thoughts. Overall, the balance of risks and benefits for fluoxetine in the treatment of depressive illness in under 18s is judged to be favourable.

South West London and St. George's NHS Trust

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding he allocated to the South West London and St. George's NHS Trust for (a) Agenda for Change and (b) the new consultant contract; and what the trust's estimate is of the actual cost. [223552]

Dr. Ladyman: A total of £7.077 million of central funding was allocated to South West London and St. George's Mental Health National Health Service Trust in relation to the period up to 1 October 2004 when they were an Agenda for Change early implementer site.

Across England we have allocated £426 million in 2004–05 and £937 million in 2005–06 to primary care trusts (PCTs) as part of main allocations to meet the costs of implementing Agenda for Change. This is in addition to the costs of the general pay uplift of around 10 per cent. over three years agreed as part of the Agenda for Change package.

Funding for the consultant contract, agreed with the British Medical Association during negotiations, was allocated to PCTs in December 2002 as part of main allocations. The amount that went in main allocations was 0.3 per cent. (£129 million) in 2003–04, 0.4 per cent. (£178 million) in 2004–05 and 0.5 per cent. (£224 million) in 2005–06.

We do not hold complete cost estimates by individual trusts of implementing Agenda for Change or the new consultants' contract.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what specialist services provided by the South West London and St. George's NHS Trust are due to be ended. [223553]

Dr. Ladyman: I understand that South West London and St. George's Mental Health National Health Service Trust is currently reviewing its specialist services.

The principles behind this work are to match local and national provision to levels of income from commissioners, to provide locally accessible services in the least restrictive environment for clients, and to investigate possible partnerships with other providers such as from the voluntary sector. The changes under consideration are aimed at further improving mental health services in South West London.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list the managerial posts advertised for the South West London and St. George's NHS Trust in the last 12 months, broken down by salary range offered. [223554]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department does not collect data for manager vacancies only.

Strategic Health Authorities

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which strategic health authority in England has the largest deficit; and what that deficit is. [222868]

Mr. Hutton: In 2003–04, the latest year for which figures are available, no strategic health authority reported a deficit in its final accounts.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the future of strategic health authorities. [224039]

Mr. Hutton: I refer the hon. Member to "Creating a Patient-led NHS, Delivering the NHS Improvement Plan", a copy of which is available from the Library. Chapters three and five of this document include information on the future role of strategic health authorities.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce inequalities in health outcomes by 10 per cent., as measured by infant mortality and life expectancy at birth will be met by 2010. [219242]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Our most recent assessment shows that despite overall improvements in the health of the population, there is a continuing, if slight, widening of health gap on infant mortality and life expectancy. This assessment is based on data up to 2003, the date the national health inequalities strategy, the "Programme for Action", was published. The first challenge set out in the strategy was to stop the health gap from widening further.

We will be publishing by the summer a first report of progress against the national strategy and 2010 public service agreement target, in line with the commitment in the "Programme for Action". This report summarises developments against the target and the main headline indicators and provides a baseline against which to measure future action.

Telephone Numbers

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer by the Minister of State for Health, 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1090W, on telephone numbers, if he will make a further statement on the use of national or premium rate numbers by national health service organisations. [220791]

Mr. Hutton: Regulations have been made which will ban the use of national and premium rate telephone numbers for general practitioner practices. Directions will also be made which cover primary care trusts and national health service trusts.

Traditional Herb Medicines Products Directive

Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the impact of the proposed traditional herb medicines products directive on the registration of treatments for head lice. [223864]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are 25 products licensed under medicines legislation for the treatment of head lice in the United Kingdom. All of these are either restricted to pharmacy sale or supply by a prescription from a doctor. These products will remain unaffected by the implementation of the directive on traditional herbal medicinal products (2004/24/EC).

There may be other products used in the treatment of head lice, which currently reach the market as unlicensed herbal remedies. These will potentially qualify to be registered under Directive 2004/24/EC when it is implemented on 30 October this year. To qualify for registration, products will have to demonstrate that they comply with the required evidence of traditional usage and that they meet the required standards of safety and quality.

Products registered under Directive 2004/24/EC will have indications exclusively appropriate to traditional herbal medicinal products, which due to their composition and purpose are intended and designed for use without the supervision of a medical practitioner for diagnostic purposes or for the prescription or monitoring of treatment. The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) anticipates that the majority of products registered under this directive will be suitable for general sale list status.

Uniforms

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what advice he has given (a) hospitals and (b) other health facilities on (i) the wearing of staff uniforms outside those facilities, (ii) staff access to spare uniforms and (iii) the provision of laundry facilities. [224040]

Mr. Hutton: The Department has not issued guidance on the wearing or availability of uniforms in the healthcare environment.

It is for individual national health service trusts to determine their own policies on the wearing of uniforms away from the workplace. It is for the trust chief executive to ensure that nurses have enough suitable clothing and equipment to carry out their duties effectively.

Health Service Guidance 95(18), published in 1995, provides advice and guidance to NHS organisations on laundry practices. The prevention and control of infection is part of the overall risk management within the healthcare environment and NHS trusts are required to have risk management protocols in place.

Waiting Times

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting time to see (a) an audiologist and (b) an ear, nose and throat specialist is in the Fareham and Gosport Primary Care Trust area. [222702]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The table shows the average waiting time to see an ear nose and throat specialist in the Fareham and Gosport Primary Care Trust (PCT) area. Information is not collected centrally on waiting times for audiology.

Worcestershire Acute Hospital NHS Trust

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the accumulated deficit is of the Worcestershire Acute Hospital NHS Trust; what measures are being taken to reduce the deficit; and by when the Trust is required (a) to bring its budget into balance and (b) to eliminate the deficit. [223725]

Dr. Ladyman: The accumulated financial deficit for Worcestershire Acute Hospitals National Health Service Trust at 31 March 2004 was £25.1 million. West Midlands South strategic health authority (SHA) has provided planned financial support in the current year (2004–05) of £5 million.

A comprehensive financial recovery plan has been developed involving all of the organisations within the Worcestershire health economy. Work on this recovery plan is continuing, with expenditure, efficiency and service effectiveness under review. The financial year 2005–06 is the final year of this plan. The SHA continues to work with the Trust to ensure that it achieves financial balance on a year-by-year basis.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Engineering Apprenticeships (West Midlands)

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many people (a) entered into and (b) completed engineering apprenticeships in the West Midlands region in each year since 1997. [218985]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). Mark Haysom, the Council's Chief Executive, has written to the hon. Gentleman with the information requested and a copy of his reply has been placed in the Library.

Letter from Mark Haysom to Mr. Peter Luff, dated 18 March 2005:

I am writing in response to your parliamentary question, relating to engineering apprenticeships in the West Midlands region.

I enclose a table setting out the number of starts and achievements on engineering apprenticeships in the region from 1997–98 to 2003/04. Note that information for the period before the creation of the LSC has been provided by DfES, and may not be completely consistent with more recent figures.

If you have any queries, please contact Stephen Lilley, Regional Skills Director for the West Midlands, on 0121 345 4644.

Engineering apprenticeship starts in the West Midlands region 1997–98 to 2003–04. Pre-LSC figures measured in terms of financial years (April to March)

	Starts
	Advanced apprenticeships	Apprenticeships at level 2
1997–98	1,000	n/a
1998–99	900	500
1999–2000	800	600
2000–01	700	500

LSC—figures measured in terms of academic years (August to July)

	Starts		Framework achievements

2002/03	61	164	320	722
2003/04	71	109	276	968

Notes on methodology:

1. Learner numbers pre-2001 are taken by DfES from TEC management information. TEC MI is aggregagated data and does not contain information on sector. Individual learner data held on the trainee database contains information on sector, but we know the database did not accurately record the total number of learners. For each year, the percentage of learners studying engineering apprenticeships in the West Midlands from the trainee database has been applied to the total number of learners in the West Midlands from the TEC MI to estimate the volume of learners studying engineering apprenticeships in the West Midlands. The number of achievements was not collected prior to 2001.
2. Learner numbers and achievements from 2001 onwards are taken from the individualised learned record (ILR) collected by the LSC. Figures include all apprenticeships in the engineering area of learning.
3. Definitions of 'engineering' pre- and post-2001 may not be directly comparable.

CABINET OFFICE

Civil Service Pensions

Mr. John Taylor: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office if he will meet representatives of the Civil Service Pensioners' Alliance. [223165]

Mr. Miliband: Should the Civil Service Pensioners' Alliance write to me requesting a meeting, I would consider their request.

Civil Service Training

Llew Smith: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office what changes in civil servant training (a) at the Civil Service Training College and (b) in service are planned to be implemented to ensure delivery of the commitment contained in the Sustainability Strategy to strengthen civil service leadership capacity with better training in sustainable development. [224011]

Mr. Miliband: Centre for Management and Policy Studies (CMPS), the Government's centre for learning and development, has run short programmes on sustainable development for civil servants for some years with a largely estates management and procurement focus.

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

In autumn 2004, as part of a broader partnership in the sustainability area, CMPS and the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) co-designed two one day pilot workshops for senior civil servants which took a strategic and practical view of sustainable development. Parts of the workshop were delivered by Jonathon Porritt, chair of the Sustainable Development Commission, senior Defra officials and Forum for the Future. Jonathon Porritt also spoke recently on the Top Management Programme and sustainable development will be given dedicated coverage on all future runs of the Top Management Programme. Two further workshops for senior civil servants are planned for June and November 2005, and more will be offered if there is demand.

CMPS is currently developing an internal project to integrate sustainable development thinking and practice into a wide range of programmes and will be giving much greater emphasis to sustainable development in professional and policy skills and leadership development programmes. More programmes will be developed which directly address sustainability issues and links are being made to emerging areas of work such as the Egan Skills for Sustainable Communities Review.

Information on sustainability training in individual civil service departments is not held centrally.

Parliamentary Questions

Llew Smith: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office whether his Department has issued guidance to Government Departments on responding to parliamentary questions recommending that in cases where an answer would incur a disproportionate cost, efforts should be made when appropriate to provide an answer to part or parts of the question. [223933]

Mr. Miliband: The Cabinet Office's "Guidance to Officials on Drafting Answers to Parliamentary Questions", copies of which are available in the Library, advises officials that

> "where information is being refused on the grounds of disproportionate cost, there should be a presumption that any of the requested information which is readily available should be provided".

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many accidents occurred at her departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of her Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222564]

Alun Michael: The following figures reflect accidents, incidents, and work-related ill health occurring on Defra premises since Defra was formed in 2001. (a) shows the figures for core-departmental staff and (b) shows the figures for members of the public.

The figures given are in calendar years, and are for the core Department only.

	(a) core-departmental staff	(b) members of the public
2002	213	0
2004	208	1

Avian Flu

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the evidential basis was for the distances chosen for protective and surveillance zones under the strategy to fight avian influenza. [222980]

Mr. Bradshaw: The sizes for both the protection zone (a minimum of 3 km radius from an infected premises) and the surveillance zone (from the edge of the protection zone to a minimum of 10 km radius from an infected premises) have been set in European legislation for avian influenza since 1992. These minima are common for other non-vector borne exotic notifiable diseases and will be extended if the epidemiological investigation into a disease outbreak suggests that a larger area needs to be subject to disease control measures.

Circuses

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will list the local authorities in England which ban circuses with performing animals. [223458]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not hold information on which local authorities have refused to allow circuses to perform with animals. Such a decision is up to individual local authorities and is in relation to council owned, not private, sites.

Environmentally Friendly Farms

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what her Department's strategy is for encouraging farmers to make their farms more environmentally friendly. [222616]

Alun Michael: The Government are acutely aware of the link between agriculture and the environment and agreed the role of farmers as custodians of the countryside to be basic. The strategy for sustainable farming and food was launched in England in 2002 and sets out the basis for a new relationship between Government and the farming industry in England. At its heart is a drive to enable farmers to focus on their market, rather than on subsidies, while managing their businesses in more environmentally and socially responsible ways.

The Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) reform deal of 2003 is central to the strategy. Farmers are now encouraged to meet the demands of the market, and there is no incentive to over-produce, because the link between subsidies and production has been broken. This will benefit society as a whole by reducing the negative environmental and animal welfare impacts of intensive farming.

The cross compliance element of the CAP single payment scheme provides a new basis for agricultural subsidies, by linking them to delivery of important environmental and animal health and welfare standards. This will contribute to a number of strategy objectives by protecting soils, wildlife habitats and the landscape.

Further to this is the launch of environmental stewardship this spring which builds on cross compliance and replaces existing agri-environment schemes (environmentally sensitive areas, countryside stewardship and organic farming schemes). The aim of environmental stewardship will be to tackle countrywide environmental problems such as diffuse pollution, loss of biodiversity and landscape character, and damage to the historic environment. For the first time every farmer in England will be eligible to earn payments for undertaking environmental management on the land.

Environmental stewardship has three elements:

(i) Entry Level

A whole farm scheme open to all farmers and land managers who agree to carry out basic environmental management. Farmers will be able to earn up to 30 per hectare annually for delivering straightforward, yet effective, work.

(ii) Organic Entry Level

A similar whole farm scheme, which offers organic management options to farmers with land registered as fully organic or in conversion to organic farming, with an organic inspection body approved by Defra. It provides payments of up to 60 per hectare annually for land entered into the scheme.

(iii) Higher Level

Rewards more ambitious environmental management.

Together with the new CAP single payment scheme and cross-compliance, the new scheme will mark a watershed in the way England is farmed, and will continue to improve and build on the successes achieved through almost two decades of experience with the countryside stewardship, environmentally sensitive areas and organic farming schemes. There are a number of wide-ranging objectives, which go beyond those of the earlier schemes and include the protection of water and soil and flood management.

The Department is also committed to encouraging greater production of organic food, and has set out its strategy for achieving this in the action plan to develop organic food and farming in England, published in July 2002, and the Two Years On report, published in August last year.

Fallen Stock

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate she has made of the cost to public funds of subsidising the collection of one (a) beef carcass, (b) sheep carcass and (c) horse carcass in each county of England in the 2004–05 financial year. [223836]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The information is not available in the form requested and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. However, the latest total figures for the Government contribution to collection costs under the National Fallen Stock Scheme for the UK as a whole from 22 November 2004 to date is as follows: (a) bovine carcases £162,094; (b) sheep carcases £198,929; (c) horse carcases £0 (horses are not eligible for support under the scheme).

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the lowest charge quoted to the National Fallen Stock Company is for the collection of a (a) beef, (b) sheep and (c) horse carcase in each county of England. [223837]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The information is not available in the form requested and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. Information on prices charged by fallen stock collectors in particular areas are provided on an individual postcode basis to farmers and horse owners who join the National Fallen Stock Scheme. This is not only on the basis of the species but different categories within species (e.g. bovines 6–12 months, 12–24 months etc.).

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what evidence she has collated of the pollution of (a) watercourses and (b) groundwater by on-farm burials of fallen stock in each year since 1999. [223838]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 24 March 2005]: None. However, the Environment Agency is often involved with carcases found in or near to watercourses and it has no direct evidence to show that on-farm burial in the past has caused reportable pollution problems.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what records she has kept of trends in the costs of (a) incineration and (b) rendering of fallen stock in each year since 1999; and if she will make a statement on the cost of disposal of (i) beef, (ii) sheep and (iii) horse carcasses. [223839]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The Department does not keep records of trends in costs of incineration and rendering of fallen stock. This is a commercial matter for the fallen stock disposal industry. The Government contribution to the National Fallen Stock Scheme has assisted farmers, but not horse owners, who have joined the Scheme with the costs of collection and disposal of fallen stock since November 2004.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of the effect of changes in the over-30-month scheme on (a) demand for incineration capacity between March 2005 and March 2007 and (b) the cost of incineration of (i) beef, (ii) sheep and (iii) horse carcases. [223840]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 24 March 2005]: My officials met with representatives of the disposal industry in January 2005 to discuss the likely effects of the forthcoming OTM rule change. Views on the impact of the rule change on all sectors are also being sought as part of the process of the respective Defra and FSA consultations on changes to the domestic TSE Regulations.

Farm Gate Prices

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans she has to meet farmers and supermarkets to discuss farm gate prices. [222285]

Alun Michael: While we recognise the problems that low farm gate prices have caused, the prices at which farmers sell their produce is a commercial matter in which the Government should not get involved. However, Ministers frequently meet representatives from all parts of the supply chain and are aware of the issues.

Farm Subsidies

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the average compensation payments paid in each region of England and Wales were in each month from February to October 2001 for (a) sheep and (b) cattle. [221328]

Alun Michael: The question does not specify which scheme of compensation payments is referred to, but I assume that this request refers to foot and mouth compensation payments.

I have placed in the Library a table that shows the average amount of compensation for both sheep and cattle for each region within both England and Wales. The table only includes those months where compensation was paid, and the amounts shown are rounded to the nearest pound.

I am providing the information on a county basis since that is how figures have been recorded and it would be difficult to produce regional averages without considerable work to aggregate the base information.

Farmers (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many farmers there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223152]

Alun Michael: The following figures show the number of farmers, partners, directors and spouses on holdings in the Shrewsbury and Atcham local authority area.

	Number of farmers, partners, directors and spouses (full and part time) working on the holding	Number of holdings with farmers, partners, directors and spouses
1997	1,275	702
1998	1,281	689
1999	1,267	691
2000	1,380	790
2001	1,466	818
2002	1,388	837
2003	1,343	785
2004	1,378	776

Notes:
1. Figures prior to 2000 show main holdings only. From 2000 minor holdings are included. A holding is defined as a minor if it meets all of the following conditions:
the total area is less than 6 hectares the labour requirement is estimated to be less than 100 standard person-days there is no regular full-time farmer or worker the glasshouse area is less than 100 sq m the occupier does not farm another holding.
2. Due to the introduction of new questions in 1998 figures prior to this year are not directly comparable with earlier years' results.
3. Due to a register improvement exercise in 2001 labour figures prior to this are not directly comparable with later results.

Food Miles

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research she has commissioned on methods of reducing food miles. [222987]

Alun Michael: The Government are working with the industry on practical measures to reduce food miles in a way which is sustainable. The industry, particularly food retailers, has a crucial role to play in helping to reduce food miles. There are encouraging signs, notably in development of logistics planning and preparation of advice, but more could be done. Defra has commissioned research that is due to report this spring, analysing available data and making recommendations for indicators for measuring improvement.

Foot and Mouth

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many previously paid invoices for (a) direct compensation and (b) associated activities connected with the 2001 outbreak of foot and mouth disease are being re-investigated. [221943]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to pages 6, 35, 36 and 37 of the National Audit Office Report "Foot and Mouth Disease: Applying the Lessons—Report by the Comptroller and Auditor General HC184 Session 2004–2005 2 February 2005".

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many ongoing claims and invoices for work connected with the 2001 foot and mouth disease outbreak have not been settled by her Department. [221944]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to pages 36 and 37 of the National Audit Office Report "Foot and Mouth Disease: Applying the Lessons—Report by the Comptroller and Auditor General HC184 Session 2004–2005 2 February 2005".

Home Energy Efficiency Schemes

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many homes in Leicester South constituency have benefited from the (a) home energy efficiency and (b) warm front schemes. [222901]

Mr. Morley: Between the start of the warm front scheme in June 2000 and the end of February 2005, approximately 2,950 households were assisted in Leicester South.

Under the previous home energy efficiency scheme information was collected by local authority rather than parliamentary constituency. Between April 1991 and

May 2000 the number of households assisted by the scheme in the Leicester city council area were:

	Number of households assisted
1991–92	1,280
1992–93	1,350
1993–94	1,850
1994–95	1,950
1995–96	5,100
1996–97	2,770
1997–98	3,200
1998–99	2,960
1999–2000	3,110

Multiple Retailers

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions she has had with multiple retailers regarding their commercial treatment of primary producers; and if she will make a statement. [223235]

Alun Michael: No meetings have been held with multiple retailers specifically to discuss their treatment of primary producers, though the subject will have arisen in the course of the Department's ongoing contacts with multiple retailers and other representatives of the food retail industry.

The Department considers that it is in the long term interests of all buyers within the food chain to deal with their suppliers in a fair and straightforward way.

Public Bodies

Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which (a) Departments, (b) agencies and (c) public bodies she expects will be affected by the proposed merger of English Nature, the Rural Development Service and the Countryside Agency. [223529]

Alun Michael: English Nature and the Countryside Agency are both statutory non-departmental public bodies. The Rural Development Service is part of core Defra. The new statutory non-departmental public body announced in the Rural Strategy 2004 will comprise all of English Nature, the landscape, access and recreation elements of the Countryside Agency and the environmental land management functions of the Rural Development Service. No other Departments, agencies or public bodies will be involved in the merger.

In the Rural Strategy my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State, also announced that the advocacy and advice role of the Countryside Agency would be refocused on a small expert body providing advice to government and advocacy on behalf of rural people. The establishment of the Commission for Rural Communities, initially within the legal framework of the Countryside Agency, but in due course as a statutory NDPB in its own right, was announced on 9 March. The socio-economic funding currently disbursed by the Countryside Agency is being devolved to the regional development agencies, together with control of the EU social and economic schemes of the England Rural Development Programme currently administered by the Rural Development Service while funding for Rural Community Councils will be continued, along with help for the rural voluntary and community sector, via Government offices.

Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate she has made of the number of jobs which will be lost in the Grantham and Stamford constituency following the proposed merger of English Nature, the Rural Development Service and the Countryside Agency. [223530]

Alun Michael: English Nature currently has an office in Grantham. Work is currently being undertaken on the structure, precise numbers of staff, and the potential future locations of offices of the new agency. As decisions have yet to be taken, it is not yet possible to know whether there will be an impact on jobs in the hon. Member's constituency.

Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of the likely impact of the merger of English Nature, the Rural Development Service and the Countryside Agency on (a) the services they provide and (b) the general public. [223545]

Alun Michael: The rural strategy set out the benefits of creating a new agency to champion integrated natural resource management, nature conservation, biodiversity, landscape, access and recreation. These were:

a stronger, unified voice at regional and local level;

a stronger, more coherent evidence-base for informing policy and influencing land managers; increased opportunities for everyone to understand, enjoy and benefit from the natural environment;

a more flexible integrated, sustainable approach to management of the natural environment.

coherent promotion of the wider social benefits of the environment across rural, urban, urban fringe and coastal areas; better opportunities to promote and exploit the part that a high quality environment plays in delivering social and economic benefit;

a clearer framework for resolving potentially conflicting objectives between conservation and the use and enjoyment of our natural environment;

more effective and simpler relationships with land managers, through the development of a single 'shop window' for customers for environmental schemes and advice; and efficiency savings through shared corporate services and operational synergies.

Further work is currently under way to ensure that the impact of these changes can be measured against an agreed baseline.

The new agency will be accountable to Parliament through the Secretary of State for the exercise of its functions. Its annual report and accounts will be laid before Parliament and its performance will be monitored by Ministers as part of the corporate planning and reporting cycles.

Wrecked Vehicles

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will investigate the restoration on private land of the vehicle to which Early Day Motion 953, tabled by the hon. Member for Pendle, refers; and if she will bring forward proposals to amend the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill to bring within its scope wrecked vehicles deposited on private land by their owners. [223796]

Alun Michael: I am not able to comment on the particular case cited. However, I believe the existing law on abandoned vehicles, with the amendments contained in the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill, is adequate. I do not think that these provisions should be used to remove vehicles from private land against the wishes of the occupier. The effect on the visual amenity of a neighbourhood of vehicles kept on private land is a matter for the planning authorities.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

Counter-terrorism

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what input the Government will have to the European Council's contribution to (a) the G8 summit's discussions on counter-terrorism and (b) the G8's core principles on counter-terrorism; and if he will make a statement. [223791]

Mr. MacShane: The Chair of the European Council usually attends G8 Summits. As the UK assumes the presidency of the EU from 1 July, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister will also represent the European Council at the G8 Summit. We do not envisage formal co-ordination in the Council on the issue of counter-terrorism in the G8 ahead of the Summit. However, the UK, as G8 presidency, maintains a dialogue on G8 counter-terrorism work with EU partners.

European Funding

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will list projects for which the Department has provided joint funding with the European Commission and other institutions of the European Union during the past five financial years; and what funding is planned for such projects in this financial year. [221375]

Mr. MacShane: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has worked together with various European institutions on a number of projects in the last five years.

In October 2003, the FCO and European Commission jointly organised the "Europe United" football tournament as part of the plans to celebrate EU enlargement. In early 2004 the FCO produced with Commission support booklets explaining the benefits of EU enlargement that were sent to the nine English regions and the devolved administrations. On 24 April 2004, there was 'Europe Day—Meet the Neighbours'—a jointly organised FCO-Commission project which celebrated EU enlargement.

The European Parliament funded jointly with the FCO a number of Wilton Park conferences: The European Union's Strategic Priorities (14–16 September 2000); Reforming the Governance of the European Union: Towards an ever closer EU? (22–24 October 2001); How Can Parliamentarians Best Re-Engage the Public? (9–12 June 2003); The Future of Europe: What kind of Institutional and Security arrangements do we want (September 2002). In addition, the European Parliament hired an Exhibition Space at the Europe Day.

The FCO and EU institutions also jointly fund a number of development projects aimed to assist accession states prior to their joining the European Union, under the 'Action Plans' scheme, which started in 1999 and the Global Opportunities Fund which started in 2003. The Global Opportunity Fund also has a broader focus beyond Europe. I will write to my hon. Friend with further details of joint funded projects under the Actions Plans the Global Opportunities Fund.

No jointly-funded projects are currently planned for this year, with the exception of the Action Plan and Global Opportunity Fund programmes.

Iran

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Iranian authorities to encourage them to co-operate with international human rights organisations. [223562]

Mr. Rammell: We have urged Iran on many occasions to co-operate with international human rights organisations. In December 2004, the UK and other EU countries co-sponsored a resolution at the United Nations General Assembly on human rights in Iran, which called on Iran to co-operate with UN mechanisms and respond fully to their subsequent recommendations. With our strong support, international NGOs take part in sessions of the EU-Iran human rights dialogue.

Iraq

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many times lawyers representing Saddam Hussein have met their client since 16 December 2004. [220818]

Mr. Rammell: Saddam Hussein is a criminal detainee and is liable to prosecution under the Iraqi criminal justice system. He was transferred into the Iraqi criminal justice system on 1 July 2004, and is currently awaiting trial. At the request of Prime Minster Allawi, the US will maintain physical custody of Saddam Hussein until such time as the Iraqi Correctional Service is able to provide for his safe and secure detention. The US authorities have told us that Saddam Hussein has seen his lawyer once since 16 December 2004. He has not requested to see his lawyer since that meeting.

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many lawyers chosen by Saddam Hussein have been able to meet him in confidence, as required by international law, since his arrest. [220819]

Mr. Rammell: Saddam Hussein is a criminal detainee and is liable to prosecution under the Iraqi criminal justice system. He was transferred into the Iraqi criminal justice system on 1 July 2004, and is currently awaiting trial. At the request of Prime Minster Allawi, the US will maintain physical custody of Saddam Hussein until such time as the Iraqi Correctional Service is able to provide for his safe and secure detention. The US authorities have told us that Saddam Hussein has seen his lawyer on each occasion that he has made a request. Thus far he has met one lawyer one time for several hours, in confidence. Neither he nor his lawyer of record have made any further requests to meet. Procedures are in place to allow him lawyer visits on request.

Lebanon

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the effects on the security situation in Lebanon of Syrian troops making a full withdrawal; and if he will make a statement. [223737]

Mr. Rammell: The withdrawal of Syrian troops to the Beka'a Valley and Syria is a first step in the implementation of United Nations Security Council Resolution 1559. We welcome the steps that the Lebanese Government have taken to ensure a calm security situation, including at the large-scale peaceful rallies that have been taking place in Beirut. So far, the Lebanese security forces have shown themselves to be capable of filling the security role left by the departing Syrian troops.

We are concerned about the recent bomb explosions which killed three and injured five on 23 March, and injured eight on 19 March. We condemn all such attacks which seek to de-stabilise Lebanon.

Pakistan

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the request by the chairman of Pakistan's Atomic Energy Commission to the nuclear security conference in London that the nuclear suppliers group lift controls on the export of dual-use nuclear technology to Pakistan. [223748]

Mr. MacShane: Countering the proliferation of nuclear weapons technology is a key priority of the Government.

Given that Pakistan remains outside the Non Proliferation Treaty, and has placed very few nuclear facilities under International Atomic Energy Agency safeguards, it is difficult for suppliers to be confident that transfers of dual-use nuclear technology will not contribute to a nuclear explosive activity. Any lifting of these controls would require amending the Nuclear Suppliers Group Guidelines, which would need the unanimous agreement of all 44 Participating Governments.

The UK's position on the export of Nuclear Dual Use items remains as set out by my hon. Friend the then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (Mr. Bradshaw) in reply to my hon. Friend the Member for Edmonton (Mr. Love) on 15 March 2002, Official Report, columns 1298–1300W. It states, inter alia, that:

> "We will continue to deny all export licence applications (ELAs) for items listed on the Nuclear Suppliers Group (NSG) Dual use list to nuclear and nuclear related end users in India and Pakistan".

Somalia

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment his Department has made of the political situation in Somalia; and if he will make a statement. [223644]

Mr. Rammell: We, together with international partners, support the progress Somalis are making to reintroduce effective government. We welcome the efforts that are being made to create the conditions necessary for the safe return of the Transitional Federal Institutions and to plan for bringing much needed stability to the country.

We were, however, concerned by the violent confrontation in the Transitional Federal Parliament at the end of the debate on deployment of foreign troops for a peace support mission in Somalia. We welcome efforts by the Intergovernmental Authority on Development and the African Union to find an acceptable formula for a peace support operation.

Telephone Numbers

Mr. Tyler: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many non-geographic 0870 telephone numbers are in use by his Department; and what services can be accessed by calling each of them. [205829]

Mr. Rammell [pursuant to the reply, 10 January 2005, Official Report, c.28W]: My answer of 10 January to the hon. Member was incorrect. The correct answer should read as follows:

> The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has two 0870 telephone numbers which are designed to allow members of the public to call the FCO in London from anywhere in the United Kingdom at national rates. There is no revenue generated for the Government from use of these telephone numbers.

Mr. Tyler: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much revenue his Department has received from the use of non-geographic 0870 telephone numbers for the period 1 October 2003 to 30 September 2004. [205841]

Mr. Rammell [pursuant to the reply, 10 January 2005, Official Report, c. 28W]: My answer of 10 January to the hon. Member was incorrect. The correct answer should read as follows:

> The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has two 0870 telephone numbers designed to allow members of the public to call the FCO in London from anywhere in the UK. Calls are charged at national rates, and there is no revenue generated for the Government.

United Nations (Reforms)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the UN Secretary-General about reforms of the UN. [223659]

Mr. Rammell: My right hon. Friends the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary have had regular discussions with the UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan on his plans to reform the UN.

The Secretary-General, Prime Minister, Foreign Secretary and I were present at an event in February at Banqueting House launching a UK public debate on UN reform, at which the challenges facing the UN and the international community were addressed.

We have warmly welcomed the publication of the Secretary-General's report issued on 21 March "In Larger Freedom" and support the strong lead Kofi Annan is providing. The report is an important landmark on the way to the Millennium Review Summit in September, which will shape the UN's agenda for years to come. The UK intends to play an active role in the summit and its preparation, as a committed supporter of the UN and holder of the G8 and EU presidencies at the time.

Weapons (Non-proliferation)

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department is taking to assist the G8 in its aims on non-proliferation of chemical, biological, radioactive and nuclear weapons, with particular reference to source material for such weapons; and if he will make a statement. [223790]

Mr. MacShane: We are committed to using the UK's Presidency to take forward the Action Plan on Non-Proliferation agreed by G8 Leaders at the Sea Island Summit in June 2004. In particular, we are working to ensure that new measures are put in place to limit the spread of sensitive nuclear technology to states that may seek to use them for weapons purposes, or allow them to fall into terrorist hands. Another priority is to promote co-ordination between governments and international organisations to counter the threat of bioterrorism. At the same time, we are working to ensure that the commitment of both G8 partners and other countries to the Global Partnership against the spread of weapons and materials of mass destruction leads to the continued effective implementation of collaborative projects to address legacy proliferation risks in partner countries in the Former Soviet Union.

HEALTH

"Choosing Health"

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which elements of the extra funding made available to implement the public health White Paper, "Choosing Health", will be ring-fenced. [222804]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Over £1 billion of additional funding is available to meet the "Choosing Health" commitments over the next three years. Around half of this funding has been allocated to primary care trusts in their general allocations for 2006–07 and 2007–08. None of this funding is ring-fenced. The remainder is being held centrally to fund national action, such as public health campaigns, or will be allocated for specific local action at a future date.

Blind Diabetic Patients

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to make talking diabetic monitoring machines available for blind or partially sighted diabetic patients in England. [223473]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are currently no "talking" or audible blood glucose meters marketed in the United Kingdom. No blood testing meters of any kind are currently available on general practitioner prescription, although blood testing strips are.

In the past, "talking" blood glucose meters were marketed, but were withdrawn for commercial reasons outside the Department's control. The Department cannot influence which products are marketed in this country, or the price that manufacturers charge. We have received no application from any company to have audible blood glucose testing equipment made available.

Climate Change

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the likely change in incidence in UK citizens of (a) Dengue Fever, (b) malaria and (c) meningitis arising from climate change; and if he will make a statement. [223544]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Dengue Fever and malaria occurs in United Kingdom citizens as travel-related infections acquired abroad. The Chief Medical Officer's national expert panel on new and emerging infections recently considered the risks posed by vector-borne diseases and concluded that they do not pose any significant public health threat in the UK and that climate changes are unlikely to lead to any significant increase in such diseases.

Reported cases of laboratory confirmed meningitis for England and Wales has shown a slight decline in recent years. The impact of climate changes globally upon the incidence of meningitis in the UK population cannot be predicted.

Dentistry (Burnley)

Mr. Pike: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were registered for NHS dental services in Burnley in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [219495]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information is not available in the format requested. However, the figures for registrations for national health service dental services in the Burnley, Pendle and Rossendale primary care trust (PCT) area since September 1997 are shown in the table.

	Number of people registered
1997	142,493
1998	127,786
1999	126,366
2000	122,466
2001	96,813
2002	94,073
2003	96,361
2004	97,181

The drop in registrations between 1997 and 2004 is mostly attributable to the reduction in the re-registration period for patients from two years to 15 months. The figures also exclude patients treated in dental access centres (DACs) who are not registered. In 2004, there were some 375,000 episodes of treatment in the 48 DACs then in operation in England.

During 2004, there was a large switch to personal dental services (PDS) in the PCT area. For patient registrations (or for where registration does not apply, patients seen in the past 15 months), the PDS number rose from 1,900 at the end of December 2003 to 47,200 at the end of December 2004.

The Government remain determined to improve access to NHS dentistry and has introduced a number of initiatives which will help bring about improvements nationally and more locally. PCT funding for dentistry will increase by 19.3 per cent., from 2003–04 to 2005–06. Consequently, over £250 million of additional resources will be provided by 2005–06.

A NHS support team has been created to work with those PCTs which are experiencing most difficulty in terms of access. PCTs across East Lancashire, including Burnley, Pendle and Rossendale are benefiting from the efforts of the support team. The Burnley, Pendle and Rossendale PCT has so far received £540,000 recurrently from the support team. £28,000 has also been provided to the PCT as part of the dental access moneys provided to the Cumbria and Lancashire strategic health authority (SHA).

The PCT has facilitated some dental access sessions as part of the work of the four PDS schemes in the area. The PCT also has robust plans in place, which will also help to improve access levels over the next three years resulting in an additional 32,000 places for patients on dental lists.

Although the PCT has so far not recruited any international dentists, it is participating in the SHA-wide scheme which is working towards boosting recruitment from this source.

Drugs

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people from (a) Leeds and (b) Leeds, West have completed drug addiction rehabilitation courses in each of the last 10 years. [222247]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested.

Fluoridation

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which strategic health authorities have expressed an interest in fluoridating their water supply. [220889]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department is aware that Greater Manchester strategic health authority has expressed interest in the fluoridation of water supplies.

Food Supplements Directive

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to ensure that the Food Supplements Directive does not place a disproportionate burden on small businesses. [223821]

Miss Melanie Johnson: An assessment of the economic impact of the Food Supplements Regulations was made in the regulatory impact assessment, which was published with the national regulations implementing this directive. This included an assessment of the impact on small businesses.

The Food Standards Agency (FSA) has offered to assist the industry, including small businesses, by providing technical advice on preparation of the safety dossiers that are needed for any unlisted ingredients to remain on the market. The agency has also published an up to date list of ingredients where dossiers have been submitted to the United Kingdom and other member states to ensure that dossiers are not produced unnecessarily. I have also encouraged companies to work together with respect to producing dossiers to reduce the burden on industry.

Friarage Hospital, Northallerton

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the future of the Friarage Hospital, Northallerton. [223823]

Miss Melanie Johnson: As part of the Tees Health Review, involving the independent advice of Professor Sir Ara Darzi, it was agreed that Professor Darzi would examine two additional areas to his original terms of reference. One of these areas was the work under way by the Hambleton and Richmondshire Primary Care Trust and South Tees Hospitals National Health Service Trust in relation to the Friarage Hospital.

Professor Darzi will submit his report later this year. No decision regarding the future of the Friarage Hospital has been made. Any proposals which concern changes to current services will be subject to a formal period of consultation.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact on the Friarage hospital of the Working Time Directive. [223824]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Friarage hospital is part of the South Tees hospitals national health service trust. This trust has achieved compliance with the European Working Time Directive.

Health Food Supplements

Mr. Hurst: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people in England and Wales using health food supplements. [221951]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department have not made a recent estimate of the number of people in England and Wales using health supplements.

Health Statistics (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of adults were registered with a NHS dentist in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223178]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department does not have population figures pre-2001 for Shropshire County Primary Care Trust (PCT).

The table shows the percentage of adults who were registered with a national health service dentist in the Shropshire county PCT area in each year since 1997.

	Adult registrations	Adult population	Percentage registered
1997	100,786	218,150	46.20
1998	82,470	219,500	37.57
1999	77,586	220,500	35.19
2000	75,689	221,600	34.16
2001	74,104	222,264	33.34
2002	75,403	224,259	33.62
2003	71,094	225,611	31.51
2004	71,785	226,100	31.75

The drop in registrations between September 1997 and September 1998 is mostly attributable to the reduction in the re-registration period from two years to 15 months. The figures exclude patients treated in dental access centres (DACs) who are not registered. In 2004, there were some 375,000 episodes of treatment in the 48 DACs then in operation in England.

Hepatitis C (Parliamentary Report)

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department expects to respond to the All-Party Parliamentary Group report on Hepatitis C. [223975]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department is considering the report.

Hospital-acquired Conditions

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average cost of treating a patient with (a) MRSA and (b) pressure sores in the last year. [222960]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The reference costs data provides unit cost information for a variety of procedures, treatments and services undertaken by the national health service in England for a given financial year. However, the costs of treating methicillin resistant "Staphylococcus aureus" and pressure sores cannot be separately identified from the information collected centrally.

Influenza Pandemic

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to refresh stockpiles of antivirals. [223812]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Plans are in place to refresh stockpiles of antivirals in line with the expected shelf life of the drugs.

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to (a) encourage major employers to purchase antivirals for their employees and (b) encourage training of professionals to deal with an influenza pandemic. [223814]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department does not currently have plans to encourage employers to purchase antivirals.

We are preparing documents to support the national health service with the impact of a 'flu pandemic. These will encourage the training of staff.

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding is allocated to the communications strategy in the UK influenza pandemic community plan; and if he will make a statement on the role of the media in that strategy. [223813]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The strategy is being developed and will be funded as appropriate.

The media will be a crucial mechanism for ensuring our key messages reach the full range of audiences during a flu pandemic. A communications strategy was published as an annex to the United Kingdom influenza pandemic contingency plan, which is available in the Library and can be found on the Department's website at www.dh.gov.uk/pandemicflu.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects the documents known as sleeping scripts, for the purpose of advising patients in the event of an influenza pandemic, to which reference is made on page 46 of the UK Influenza Pandemic Plan, to be published by NHS 24 and NHS Direct; and how frequently these scripts will be reviewed. [220984]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The sleeping scripts have been developed by national health service clinicians with input from experts at the Health Protection Agency (HPA). They have been available within NHS Direct since November 2004 and were made available to NHS24 in early 2005. All sleeping scripts are automatically reviewed on an annual basis and changes can be made immediately should any new evidence/ information become apparent in the period between reviews. In the event of a pandemic, the joint HPA/NHS project group would review and amend the scripts as often as required by the Department, to ensure that updated information was incorporated.

Mental Health Services (Leeds)

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the expenditure of the Leeds Community and Mental Health Trust, and its successor trust, was on mental health services in each year since 1992. [223520]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not available in the format requested.

The table shows the total operating expenses for the Leeds Community and Mental Health National Health Service Trust and its successor trust, the Leeds Mental Health Teaching NHS Trust.

£000

	Total operating expenses
Leeds Community and Mental Health NHS Trust
1996–97	85,361

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many mental health patients have been treated as (a) inpatients and (b) outpatients by the Leeds Community and Mental Health Trust and its successor trust in each year since 1992. [223525]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The table shows the outpatient attendances under mental illness specialities by gender for the Leeds Mental Health Teaching National Health Service Trust and its predecessor trust.

Consultant outpatient attendances—Leeds Mental Health Teaching NHS Trust[1] (RGD), 1991–92 to 2003–04

MRSA

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many recorded deaths in University of Leicester Hospital Trust have been directly caused by MRSA infections in each year since 1999. [222786]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what action he is taking to improve the tracking of sterile medical devices in hospitals, with particular reference to infection control. [223905]

Miss Melanie Johnson: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam (Mr. Burstow) by my hon. Friend, the Minister of State (Ms Winterton), on 21 March 2005, Official Report, columns 625–26W.

Obesity

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions the Government have had with producers of alcohol concerning the Health Select Committee report on obesity. [222489]

Miss Melanie Johnson: There have been no such discussions.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what support he is providing to the Obesity Awareness and Solutions Trust's national obesity helpline. [222827]

Miss Melanie Johnson: We are aware of the work of The Obesity and Solutions Trust and have previously supported it for two years from 2001 to 2003 through the Section 64 grant scheme.

Salt

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many grammes a day of salt the Government regards as necessary for adult (a) males and (b) females; and what the latest advice from the Government's scientific advisers is on the minimum daily intake of salt required by humans to survive. [223844]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 24 March 2005]: In its 2003 report on salt and health, the scientific advisory committee on nutrition (SACN), which advises Government on nutrition and health, stated that the lowest population average intakes of sodium consistent with apparent good health in adults ranged between 1.75 grams and 2.3 grams of salt per day. In 1994, the committee on medical aspects of food and nutrition policy recommended that the population average salt intake should be reduced by a third to six grams per day as an achievable target. This was endorsed by the SACN in 2003 and the Government set a target to reduce the average population intake to six grams per day by 2010 in line with the recommendation.

Schizophrenia (Cannabis Use)

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of the evidence of an increased risk of developing schizophrenia resulting from (a) early age and (b) chronic use of cannabis; [222978]

(2) whether his Department has established an inquiry into evidence linking early age and chronic use of cannabis to higher risk of developing schizophrenia. [222981]

Miss Melanie Johnson: There is a widely recognised strengthening of the evidence in recent years of an association between early use of cannabis and the risk of later development of mental health problems, such as schizophrenia. The evidence of a causal link has also strengthened, although there is not a full consensus on the issue.

The Department monitors all the key research in this area and has a range of expert advisers to inform policy. The Department is currently commissioning an academic 'expert topic review' of research on cannabis and mental health, with the aim that its findings will inform mental health promotion regarding cannabis and will also help us ensure our advice to mental health patients, their families and professionals continues to be comprehensive and up-to-date.

In addition, the independent advisory council on the misuse of drugs (ACMD), which advises my right hon. Friend, the Home Secretary, on the harms relating to controlled drugs, including cannabis, has been keeping the emerging evidence under review. Additionally, on 18 March 2005, my right hon. Friend formally asked ACM D to review the recent research studies in this area and to advise on this. The Department will support this process.

There is a range of current health promotion materials and drugs advice approved by the Department, which is aimed particularly at young people, that already draws attention to the important mental health risks of cannabis, including the risk that use can trigger serious mental, health problems. This will continue to be updated in the light of the emerging evidence.

South Tees Hospital Trust

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with South Tees hospital trust on its financial position; and what assessment he has made of its plans for (a) staff appointments, (b) shift patterns and overtime for permanent staff and (c) timing of operations. [223825]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The role of Health Ministers and the Department is to secure adequate resources for funding the national health service and to set out a strategic framework for it to work within. This allows decisions about local NHS services to be taken at a local level.

In line with "Shifting the Balance of Power", strategic health authorities (SHAs) performance manage the NHS organisations within their area. The SHAs will work in partnership with primary care trusts and local health providers to determine how best to use the funds allocated, to meet national and local priorities for improving health, to tackle health inequalities and modernise services.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost of National Insurance contributions to the South Tees hospital trust in (a) 1997–98, (b) 2001–02 and (c) 2003–04. [223826]

Miss Melanie Johnson: This information is not collected centrally.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to halt the year-on-year rise in obesity among children aged under 11 by 2010 will be met. [219249]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The public service agreement (PSA) target is jointly owned by the Department of Health, the Department for Culture, Media and Sport and the Department for Education and Skills in recognition that cross-Government action will be necessary to tackle this major public health issue.

The delivery plan for the White Paper, "Choosing Health", together with action plans focusing on nutrition and activity published recently, demonstrates how delivery of the White Paper commitments will contribute to the PSA target.

Weight Loss Guide

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he plans to publish the Weight Loss Guide announced in the Public Health White Paper; how he intends to consult stakeholders; if he will ensure that controlled carbohydrate dietary approaches are considered in this process; and if he will make a statement. [223721]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Public Health White Paper, "Choosing Health", makes a commitment to issue a weight loss guide by July 2005. The content and process of developing the guide are still under discussion.

DEFENCE

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222572]

Mr. Caplin: Accidents at work are recorded onto the Central Health and Safety Project Database (CHASP), and are given in the following table by financial year.

Financial year	Ministry of Defence employee on Ministry of Defence premises	Member of the public on Ministry of Defence premises
1999–2000	8,414	1,724
2000–01	7,800	1,651
2001–02	6,370	1,684
2002–03	5,565	2,029
2003–04	5,091	2,243

The figures for 'Members of the Public' includes all persons visiting MOD premises including contractors who are not MOD employees.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [222576]

Mr. Caplin: Since 1998, accidents in the Department have been recorded onto the Central Health and Safety Project Database (CHASP). Reports giving the numbers, types and rates of accidents in the Department are produced annually. I have instructed officials to place copies of these annual reports in the Library of the House.

Aegis Defence Services

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what information his Department has (a) supplied to and (b) received from the United States

Administration regarding that Government's award of the Iraq Reconstruction Security Support Services contract to Aegis Defence Services. [220987]

Mr. Hoon: The contract with Aegis Defence Services Ltd. was placed by the United States Administration.

The United Kingdom Ministry of Defence/Pricing and Forecasting Group provided the US Administration with an audit report on the cost accounting system and the financial status of Aegis Defence Services Ltd. This was in response to a standard request from the US Administration placed under the US/UK Defense Co-Operation Memorandum of Understanding—Annex III Reciprocal Audits.

Pricing and Forecasting Group have not been asked to provide further advice beyond that. The ownership of the information contained within the audit report remains the sole property of the US Administration.

Air Cadets Organisation

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) role and (b) purpose of the Air Cadets organisation is. [223413]

Mr. Caplin: The Air Cadet Organisation (ACO) is a national youth organisation that comprises the Air Training Corps (ATC) and the Royal Air Force Sections of the Combined Cadet Force (CCF(RAF)). The ACO exists to promote a practical interest in aviation and the Royal Air Force, training useful to service or civilian employment, good citizenship and leadership, as well as a sense of adventure amongst the young men and women who become Air Cadets. The ACO also encourages membership of schemes such as the Duke of Edinburgh's Award, which provides practical, cultural and adventurous activities, including an emphasis on helping others in the local community.

Armed Forces Discipline

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many armed forces personnel have been (a) disciplined, (b) court-martialled and (c) dismissed for alcohol misuse or behaviour related to alcohol misuse since 1997. [222899]

Mr. Caplin: The number of recorded disciplinary cases and subsequent dismissals for alcohol misuse in the armed forces since 1997 are:

	Number
Summary discipline[1]	3,421
Courts-martial	213
Dismissed	9

[1] Cases dealt with at summary level are not available for the Naval Service prior to 2001, the Army prior to October 2000 and for RAF officers prior to 2001.

These figures represent the number of those charged with drunkenness and vehicle alcohol related offences. They exclude those charged with other offences (eg criminal damage) where alcohol may have been a factor.

Army Training Regiment

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the Army Training Regiment will remain based at the Whittington Barracks near Lichfield following his review of his Department's property; and if he will make a statement. [222858]

Mr. Caplin: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 1 November 2004, Official Report, column 110W. The study into the future of Army Training Regiment Lichfield and Whittington Barracks will not be concluded until June 2005.

Bowman System

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) if he will make a statement on the integration of Bowman into the (a) Royal Armoured Corps and (b) Infantry; and when he expects the system to be fully operational; [218130]

(2) if he will make a statement on the fitting of the Bowman radio system into warrior armoured fighting vehicles. [218135]

Mr. Ingram: We are progressively integrating the Bowman communications system into military vehicles, ships supporting amphibious operations, and support helicopters. Military vehicles are converted while units are in their training period. The first Royal Armoured Corps and Infantry units to be equipped with and trained to operate Bowman are within 12 Mechanised Brigade, which will deploy to Iraq in the spring with a core Bowman capability.

We are addressing the outstanding issues involved in integrating Bowman into Challenger main battle tanks and Warrior infantry fighting vehicles. This will inform decisions on when Bowman-fitted Challenger and Warrior vehicles are ready to deploy on operations.

We have always planned for Bowman, like other complex programmes, to be developed and delivered incrementally over a number of years. We currently expect the complete capability to be delivered next year, and for the conversion programme to continue up to 2008.

British Nuclear Deterrent

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate his Department has made of the death toll that would arise from the use of one of the UK's (a) tactical and (b) strategic nuclear warheads on a population centre of (i) 100,000, (ii) 1 million and (iii) 5 million inhabitants. [218492]

Mr. Hoon: The UK has no tactical nuclear weapons.

The casualties that might arise from the use of a nuclear weapon depend on a wide range of variable factors. These include the yield and design of the weapon; the accuracy of the delivery system; the nature and construction of the target; the geographical characteristics of the surrounding terrain; geological conditions in the target area; the height of weapon burst; and the weather conditions at the target.

Cancer/Leukaemia

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many deaths of (a) former soldiers and (b) his Department's personnel have been attributable to (i) cancer and (ii) leukaemia in each of the last 20 years. [222020]

Mr. Caplin: Apart from Ministry of Defence studies into specific groups, e.g. veterans of the 1990–91 Gulf Conflict, there is no mortality data routinely collected on former Service personnel. Information on the causes of death of civilian personnel is not collected by the Department.

Counter-terrorism

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what representations he has received from the Scottish Executive regarding the formulation of the European Council's position on counter-terrorism. [224028]

Mr. Hoon: None.

Deaths in Action

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many UK army personnel have been killed in action overseas in each year since 1981, broken down by regiment. [223246]

Mr. Caplin: I will write to the hon. Member and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Defence Estate

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list farmers and farm companies which rent land from his Department on Salisbury Plain; how much land, in hectares, each of these rent; and which of these farms have been used for military training purposes in the last five years. [222833]

Mr. Caplin: Forty three farmers or farm companies currently rent land from the MOD on Salisbury Plain. The information requested is shown below, although, in accordance with the Data Protection Act these have not been listed by name.

Land is categorised as either schedule I, or schedule III (there is no longer a schedule II). Military training takes place over all schedule III land. Schedule I land on Salisbury Plain is arable in nature, and located around the edges of the training and impact areas acting as a buffer zone between military activities and the civilian population. Land designated as schedule I attracts higher rents. Generally speaking, schedule I land is not used for training, but depending upon the terms of an individual agreement, and the rights reserved under it, some training may take place, with compensation payable in the event of damage being caused by military personnel.

It should be noted that the total number of hectares let out has altered since my last answer on 10 February, and will change again in the next month as work is concluded on grazing licences under the mid-term review.

The table details current information where the farm is depicted by a serial number, the relevant schedule and the number of hectares involved.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will estimate the income per hectare in 2005 which would be derived from the rental of land owned by his Department to farmers at full market value. [222835]

Mr. Caplin: Rents are negotiated on a case by case basis and reflect sometimes onerous conditions which this department has to impose on tenants. Rents thus reflect "what the market will bear" and this is effectively the full market rent for those sites. Bearing that in mind, the average income per hectare for 2005 is estimated at £34.62.

Defence Export Services Organisation

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 23 February 2005, Official Report, column 652W, on the Defence Export

Services Organisation, which Ministers attended the Defence Export Services Organisation Symposium on 9 March. [223513]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The Secretary of State for Defence, the Minister for Defence Procurement, and the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, Mr. Rammell, participated in the Defence Export Services Organisation Symposium on 9 March 2005.

Defence Service Agencies (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Naval Manning Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215433]

Mr. Caplin: Both Civilian and Service personnel data by Agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of the United Kingdom Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk

The number of Service personnel employed by Agency and location is not collated centrally. However, locally held records were available and have been included in the following table.

A table showing numbers of Civilian personnel by MOD Agency, for the Agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, has also been published on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House. However, no civilian staff were employed in Scotland by the Naval Manning Agency.

The information asked for is shown in the following table. The NMA ceased to be an agency on 31 March 2004.

Personnel employed in Scotland by the Naval Manning Agency from April 1997 to March 2004

	Monetary value (£ million)	Number	Percentage of total spend on Naval Manning Agency personnel
1999–2000	0	0	0
2000–01	0.067	less than 5	0.59
2001–02	0.085	less than 5	0.66
2002–03	0.097	less than 5	0.69
2003–04	0.105	less than 5	0.74

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Armed Forces Personnel Administration Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215453]

Mr. Ingram: We are unable to answer the question fully, as personnel cost statistics by geographical area are not held.

Details held by AFPAA of MOD staff employed in Scotland are as follows:

Date	AFPAA MOD civilians employed in Scotland	AFPAA MOD Service personnel employed in Scotland
April 1997	Nil	Nil
April 1998	Nil	Nil
April 1999	Nil	Nil
April 2000	Nil	Nil
April 2001	Nil	Nil
April 2002	110	10
April 2003	20	10
April 2004	20	10
January 2005	30	10

Notes:

1. MOD figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. MOD civilians numbers employed by the agency in Scotland were published in the United Kingdom Defence Statistics 2004, but not in previous editions.

Both civilian and Service personnel data by agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the House of Commons Library. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk.

The number of Service personnel employed by agency and location is not collated centrally. However, locally held records were available and have been included.

A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MOD agency, for the agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, has also been published on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, www.dasa.mod.uk, and has been placed in the Library of the House.

The civilian workforce numbers have been collated from centrally held records and may be different to locally produced numbers. However, all numbers in the table are produced using the agreed standard definition of civilian workforce, in full-time equivalent terms (part-time staff are counted only in proportion to the number of hours worked compared to the normal full-time hours) and are rounded to the nearest 10 to preserve confidentiality.

Departmental Finances

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence from which public corporations his Department received a receipt from a dividend payment or equity withdrawal in financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04; what the value of each receipt was; and whether receipts were (a) appropriated in aid of his Department and (b) surrendered to the Consolidated Fund. [217991]

Mr. Ingram: Dividends and equity withdrawals for public corporations for the years commencing 1999–2000 are shown below. For the purposes of the response, Trading Funds are regarded as public corporations for budgeting purposes by HM Treasury and are therefore included.

The required information in respect of years 1997–98 and 1998–99 is included in the Appropriation Accounts for the respective years. These accounts have been placed in the Library of House.

End-to-end Logistics

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the written statement of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 120WS, on end-to-end logistics, if he will give details of the redundancies listed in the other changes category. [223517]

Mr. Ingram: The written ministerial statement on 10 March listed the estimated reductions in the number of posts at a number of RAF Stations as a result of the application of end-to-end logistic principles. It did not offer any redundancy estimates, since the reduction in the number of posts will be managed primarily through voluntary staff transfers, natural wastage and a voluntary release scheme.

First World War Medals

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the estimated cost of keeping the first world war medal index cards is; and if he will make a statement. [223558]

Mr. Caplin: It is estimated that the cost to the Ministry of Defence of continuing to store these records is in the order of £1,000 per month.

Gibraltar Services Police

Mr. Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the statutory basis is for the Gibraltar Services Police; and if he will make a statement. [223350]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The Gibraltar Services Police is a statutory police force established under the Police Ordinance (Laws of Gibraltar) Section 51(1)(2).

Gurkhas

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Gurkhas in the UK armed forces are aged (a) 16 and (b) 17 years old. [222169]

Mr. Caplin: As at 1 February 2005 there are no soldiers aged 16 or 17 years of age serving in the Brigade of Gurkhas.

Infantry Manning

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) if he will publish the recent reports of the Director of Infantry's study for the Army Board on Infantry Manning; [208324]

(2) if he will publish all recent papers for the Executive Committee of the Army Board. [208325]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 13 January 2005]: I am withholding the documents in question since releasing the papers would prejudice the effective formulation of government policy, on the basis that it would discourage the consideration of the full range of options thereby interfering with the effective conduct of business.

In arriving at this judgment, I have weighed carefully the public interest in disclosure against the harm that I assess would result from doing so. I have also taken into account the full description of the Government's decisions which have already been provided to Parliament.

However, I am making an exception with the statistical information about manning levels which informed ECAB's consideration of how the reduction by four battalions should be effected. Copies of this will be placed in the Library of the House.

Multi-national Exercises

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans the Royal Navy has to participate in multi-national military exercises in the next five years. [223276]

Mr. Ingram: The Royal Navy is planning to participate in 35 multi-national exercises in 2005–06 and a large number of lower level tactical engagements with coalition partners. In 2006–07 the number of planned exercises stands at nine though this is likely to increase as planning progresses. Tactical engagements will continue at around the same level.

National Defence Industries Council

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the members of the National Defence Industries Council; and who the employer is in each case. [223512]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 22 March 2005]: We are in the process of reviewing the Terms of Reference and membership of the National Defence Industries Council (NDIC) in consultation with the Defence Industries Council. John Wall (Amicus) accepted the Secretary of State's invitation to join the NDIC and represent the Trade Unions. The current membership of the NDIC is:

Industry

Sir John Rose, Chief Executive Officer, Rolls Royce and Chairman of the Defence Industries Council

Alex Dorrian, Chief Executive, Thales plc

Simon Frost, Chairman, Gardner Group Ltd.

Colin Green, President Defence Aerospace, Rolls Royce plc

Naval Sector Strategy Study

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 30W, on Naval Sector Strategy Study, whether any members of the Naval Sector Strategy Study are members of the armed forces. [223588]

Mr. Ingram: The Naval Sector Strategy Study (NSSS) is an industry-led initiative, and the study team does not include currently serving members of the armed forces. However, joint meetings between the NSSS and MOD led maritime study groups have taken place to co-ordinate the assumptions which underpin the studies.

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what remit he has given to the armed forces members of the Naval Sector Strategy Study. [223892]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 30W.

Naval Shipbuilding Implementation Study

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 1992, on the Naval Shipbuilding Implementation Study, if he will list the members of the Naval Shipbuilding Implementation Study. [223546]

Mr. Ingram: Formal terms of reference for the Naval Shipbuilding Implementation Study, including its membership, are currently under review in consultation with industry.

Northern Ireland (Deaths in Service)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 28 February 2005, Official Report, column 968W, on Northern Ireland, what investigations (a) have taken place and (b) are ongoing into these deaths. [223300]

Mr. Caplin: Investigations into the deaths of service personnel are a matter for the civil authorities, in particular the Police Service Northern Ireland and HM Coroner.

Pilot Training

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what provision he is making to train combat pilots to withstand forces up to 12G. [223515]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence is currently reviewing the provision to train combat pilots to withstand forces up to 12G. The outcome of this review is expected in the summer.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the annual costs were of providing RAF fast jet pilots with G-Force training in each of the last five years. [223516]

Mr. Ingram: The following table details the annual cost of providing RAF fast jet pilots with G-Force training in each of the last five years.

Financial Year	Expenditure (£)
2000–01	4,053
2001–02	20,268
2002–03	16,215
2003–04	28,376
2004–05	34,780

These costs relate to NATO Flying Course, Centrifuge Training, NATO High G Training and Typhoon Training.

Private Finance Initiative

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many private finance initiative and public private partnership contracts with his Department have been won by subsidiaries of Halliburton in each year since 1997; what the terms were of each contract; and if he will make a statement. [205078]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence has let two private finance initiative (PFI) contracts and no public private partnership (PPP) contracts with subsidiaries of Halliburton since 1997.

In December 2001 a contract was signed with the FASTRAX consortium which is led by the United Kingdom element of the Halliburton subsidiary Kellogg Brown & Root (KBR).

The contract is for the provision of Heavy Equipment Transportation (HET) Services (i.e. primarily Challenger 2 Main Battle Tank), using Sponsored Reserves. The other consortium members are Oshkosh Truck Corporation, Deutsche Bank, King Trailers and Tru-hitch.

Details are as follows:

20 year PFI contract worth, in Whole Life Cost terms, approximately £290 million (excluding VAT).

Service under the contract commenced on 7 July 2003 and became fully operational in July 2004.

The project was awarded the "Best Operational PFI Project" at the Public Private Partnership Industry awards in May 2004.

In April 2003 a contract was signed with Brey Utilities a Yorkshire-based consortium comprising Yorkshire Water (45 per cent.), Earth Tech Engineering (45 per cent.) and the UK element of the Halliburton subsidiary Kellogg Brown & Root (KBR) (10 per cent.).

The contract is for the provision of water and wastewater services at over 3,000 MOD sites in the UK. Aquatrine Package A covers approximately 1,000 sites in the Midlands, Wales and South West England.

Details are as follows:

25 year PFI contract worth, in Whole Life Cost terms, approximately £1 billion (excluding VAT).

Service delivery under the contract commenced and became fully operational on 1 December 2003.

Provisions

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's policy is on sourcing pork, bacon and ham bearing the British Pig Executive's Quality Standard Mark for the armed forces; and if he will make a statement. [223244]

Mr. Ingram: Currently all pork consumed by British based armed forces is supplied from farms which comply to the new British Pig Executive's Quality Standard Mark or equivalent schemes, such as Assured British Pigs.

RAF St. Mawgan

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the decision was taken to place RAF St. Mawgan into care and maintenance; and when he expects to inform the House of the implications of this decision. [223412]

Mr. Ingram: No RAF aircraft will, under current plans, be based at RAF St. Mawgan after the Search and Rescue Operational Conversion Unit departs in 2006–07. The decision, subject to appropriate Trades Union consultation, to place the airfield there onto a care and maintenance basis was taken shortly in advance of my announcement on 10 March. The implications of this decision are that the Department will not be expending resources on facilities for which there will be no military requirement.

Regiments

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many hon. Members made representations to him indicating their preference for the name Royal Lancashire Regiment as a name for the new regiment in the North West. [222277]

Mr. Ingram: No hon. Members have made representations to my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence, apart from the hon. Member for Chorley.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many letters were received from civic leaders regarding the new name for the Queen's Lancashire Regiment; [222287]

(2) what discussions took place with civic officials on the new name for the Queen's Lancashire Regiment. [222286]

Mr. Ingram: Over a dozen letters have been received from local government officials on the matter of infantry restructuring affecting the Queen's Lancashire Regiment, including on the particular issue of preserving the link between regiment and county.

Neither the Secretary of State nor I had any discussions with civic officials on the name of the new West of Pennines regiment.

Royal Navy

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 414W, on the Royal Navy, what the acronym STOROB stands for. [223582]

Mr. Ingram: The removal of a ship's fitted equipment (or parts of it) for installation in another is known as STOROB, which stands for Stores Robbery. This is a formal process, but is used only as a last resort to meet high readiness operational commitments, and only where the demanded items are not available from other sources. Because of the impact on a given facet of the donor ship's capability, this is considered only when the donor ship is either reducing in readiness towards upkeep or disposal, or is already in upkeep.

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 414W, on the Royal Navy, how many Royal Navy ships are (a) in upkeep, (b) reducing in readiness towards upkeep and (c) reducing in readiness towards disposal. [223583]

Mr. Ingram: There are currently 18 Royal Navy ships in upkeep, four ships reducing in readiness towards upkeep and 18 ships reducing in readiness towards disposal. These figures include vessels of the Royal Fleet Auxiliary.

Ships

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the merits of delaying the withdrawal from service of HMS (a) Superb and (b) Trafalgar; and if he will make a statement. [223528]

Mr. Ingram: Since the restructuring of the Astute contract in 2003 the build of the first of class is proceeding to plan. There is at present, therefore, no reason to reconsider the withdrawal of HMS Superb or HMS Trafalgar.

Sonar 2170

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what criteria will be used to determine which surface ships will be equipped with Sonar 2170; [223108]

(2) in what circumstances surface ships would be deployed without a Sonar 2170 set; and what assessment he has made of the likely implications; [223109]

(3) in what circumstances Sonar 2170 radio sets would be transferred from one Royal Navy ship to another; [223106]

(4) what assessment he has made of the length of time needed to remove Sonar 2170 from one surface ship and re-install it on another. [223107]

Mr. Ingram: Sonar 2170 is a sonar system designed to provide anti-ship torpedo defence. When deciding which ships will be fitted with Sonar 2170, the programme and military tasks of each ship, including an assessment of the underwater threat in the area in which it will operate, will be taken into account.

Surface ships whose military tasking is not assessed as exposing them to a high risk of torpedo attack will continue to be deployed without Sonar 2170. Those units assessed as facing lower levels of risk will continue to be protected by other measures.

Sonar 2170 is a system which is designed for transfer from ship to ship. The system will be removed from ships if they are alongside for any length of time, for example during refits.

Transfer of Sonar 2170 from ship to ship takes around four days. This extremely efficient process allows the equipment to be provided to those units that require it operationally and represents a cost-effective means of providing advanced capability when and where it is required.

Submarine Acquisition Study

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 1995W, on the Submarine Acquisition Study, if he will list the (a) names and (b) designations of the members of the Submarine Acquisition Study. [223907]

Mr. Ingram: The purpose of the Submarine Acquisition Modernisation (SAM) project is, through a coherent, long-term approach to the management of the nuclear submarine programme, to implement a more efficient, more effective and sustainable submarine enterprise through life, leading to a significant reduction in whole life costs and greater submarine availability.

SAM is a joint MOD/industry study being driven by a Defence Logistics Organisation (DLO) team leader with membership drawn from specialists within the DLO, the Defence Procurement Agency (DPA) and the four main industrial partners (Devonport Management Limited (DML), Babcock Naval Services, BAE Systems (Barrow) and Rolls Royce). However, in order to comply with our obligations and protect the identity of individuals, we will not be releasing the names or designations.

Trident

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he last undertook a risk assessment of command and control procedures for the Trident nuclear missile system. [218342]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 33W.

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of possible acquisition costs for a replacement for the Trident nuclear warhead. [218349]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1148W, to the hon. Member for Banff and Buchan (Mr. Salmond) and the hon. Member for North Tayside (Mr. Wishart).

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will inform Parliament of any expenditure undertaken in relation to research and development for a replacement for the Trident nuclear missile system. [218351]

Mr. Hoon: Normal procedures for reporting to Parliament apply to such expenditure.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has received representations from the Scottish Executive regarding (a) Trident in Scotland, (b) the formulation of the UK position on non-proliferation of weapons and (c) the transportation of nuclear materials relating to the Trident weapon system. [224027]

Mr. Hoon: I have received no specific representations from the Scottish Executive on these matters. MOD officials do however have regular contact with the Executive in respect of nuclear matters which fall within the Executive's responsibility.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the annual operational costs for a replacement for the Trident nuclear submarine and missile system. [218491]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1148W.

Vaccine Damage

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many payments were made by his Department to children suffering from vaccine damage between 1975 and the introduction of the Vaccine Damage Payments Act 1979. [223011]

Mr. Caplin: The Department for Work and Pensions is responsible for administering vaccine damage payments under the Vaccine Damage Payments Act 1979. The Ministry of Defence has no record of making common-law compensation payments to children suffering from vaccine damage.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Essex Police

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many hours police officers have spent attending incidents inside and outside nightclubs in each year since 1997 in (a) Essex and (b) Southend. [222476]

Ms Blears: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public; [222566]

(2) whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement; [222581]

(3) what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222631]

Fiona Mactaggart: The available information for each of the last five years is as follows:

Accidents at work are reported and monitored in a number of ways across the Department and its agencies. All accidents are reported on an internal accident reporting system. Where an accident is required to be reported to the Health and Safety Executive, the reporting procedure laid down in the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulation 1995 is followed.

Line managers are provided with guidance on reporting accidents. This includes the requirement to pass this information to others with an interest including health and safety professionals. Accident reports are then scrutinised to see what further action may be required to deal with the situation and prevent recurrence.

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

Asylum Seekers

Mr. David Atkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether it is the Government's policy to consider claims for asylum from member states of the Council of Europe; and if he will make a statement on the claims of (a) Natalia Chernyshera, (b) Dmitri Maruev and (c) Aleksandr Gorbachev from Russia. [221905]

Mr. Browne: As a signatory to the 1951 United Nations Convention relating to the Status of Refugees, we consider each claim for asylum on its individual merits to determine whether the claimant can demonstrate a well-founded fear of persecution for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion. An asylum claim made by a national of one of the member states of the Council of Europe would be given individual consideration.

Nationals of EU member states are subject to separate immigration arrangements. Very few EU nationals claim asylum, and claims that are received are likely to be certified as clearly unfounded with the result that there is no right of appeal against refusal.

We do not discuss or disclose the immigration status of any individual, other than matters already in the public domain, without the written consent of that person.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to his answer of 9 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1830–31W, on asylum seekers, what the average cost to public funds of removing failed asylum applicants was in (a) 1997, (b) 1998, (c) 2000, (d) 2001 and (e) 2002; and if he will make a statement. [222422]

Mr. Browne: The cost of the removal of failed asylum seekers is not disaggregated from the overall costs of the Immigration and Nationality Directorate (IND) and therefore not readily available. Any attempt to calculate the cost of removal of failed asylum seekers would need to take into account a large number of factors and this could be done only at disproportionate cost. However the total public spending for IND is set out in the published Home Office Report.

Information on the number of failed asylum seekers whom have been removed from the UK in each calendar year since 1997 is shown in the table.

Number of persons[1]

	Principal asylum applicants removed	Dependants removed[2]	Total removed[2]
1997	7,160	—	—
1998	6,990	—	—
1999[3]	7,665	—	—
2000[3]	8,980	—	—
2001[3]	9,285	1,495	10,780
2002	10,740	3,170	13,910
2003[4]	13,005	4,890	17,895
2004[4]	12,430	2,290	14,715

[1] Includes enforced removals, persons departing voluntarily following enforcement action being initiated against them, persons leaving under Assisted Voluntary Return Programmes run by the International Organisation for Migration.
[2] Figures may include a small number of dependants leaving under Assisted Voluntary Return Programmes.
[3] Data on dependants removed not available before April 2001.
[4] Provisional figures.
Note:
Figures rounded to the nearest 5, and may not sum due to rounding.

Statistics on the number of asylum applicants removed from the UK are available from the Home Office website at www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html.

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to his recent statement to the Bicester Advertiser, to what level asylum seeker applications would need to fall for him to consider the need for accommodation centres for asylum seekers to be unnecessary. [222561]

Mr. Browne: The statement to the Bicester Advertiser was made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister. Accommodation centres continue to have an important place in the Government's policy for accommodating destitute asylum seekers and are a means of improving contact management with applicants, speeding up decision making and ultimately helping to increase removals. The Government have not set a level of intake at which accommodation centres would cease to be necessary, nor are there plans to do so.

Burma

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Burmese citizens were deported from the United Kingdom in 2004; and how many of these were deported to Burma. [223688]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Management information indicates that no Burmese citizens were removed from the United Kingdom in 2004 as a result of deportation action.

This data is based on management information and is not National Statistics. The data for 2004 is provisional and subject to change.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the Government's policy is on the deportation of Burmese asylum seekers. [223690]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Asylum and human rights claims by Burmese nationals are, like those of all claimants, from all countries, considered on their individual merits in accordance with our obligations under the 1951 UN Refugee Convention and the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). If the claimant meets the definition of a refugee in the 1951 Refugee Convention, they are granted asylum. If they do not qualify for asylum, but there are other circumstances that make them particularly vulnerable and engage our obligations under the ECHR, they are granted humanitarian protection or discretionary leave. If an application is refused, and any appeal is unsuccessful, then we expect the individual concerned to leave the UK voluntarily. If they do not, we consider that it is reasonable for us to enforce the return of that individual.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what reports the Government has received regarding the monitoring of Burmese dissidents and asylum seekers in the UK by the Burmese embassy and Burmese Government officials in the UK. [223691]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The Government are aware that in the 1990s, the Burmese authorities took photographs of demonstrators outside the Burmese embassy in London. We are also aware that there are security cameras on the building/embassy walls, which could be used to monitor any demonstration outside the embassy. The UK Government have not received any further specific reports regarding the monitoring of Burmese dissidents and asylum seekers in the UK by the Burmese authorities.

Child Poverty

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps his Department is taking to achieve the Government's targets of ending child poverty by 2020, and halving it by 2010; and if he will make a statement. [220886]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The Home Office is supporting the Treasury in meeting the ambitious targets this Government have set on child poverty. Children born into poverty are more likely to be victims of crime and more likely to offend. The child poverty review highlighted the strong associations between youth crime, parental crime and child poverty.

In order to tackle the poor outcomes associated with child poverty, and to improve the life chances of poor children, the Home Office has invested in a number of prevention programmes for children at risk of involvement in crime or substance misuse.

To break the cycle of youth offending and deprivation, the Home Office strategic plan includes a commitment to increase youth crime prevention programmes. This includes multi-agency youth inclusion and support panels, targeting high risk children and their families, providing them with support and improving their access to mainstream services. It also includes the youth inclusion programme, which targets the 13 to 16-year-olds most at risk of crime in 72 of the most deprived neighbourhoods. The numbers of both will be increased by 50 per cent. by 2008. We have also increased the coverage of intensive supervision and surveillance programme (ISSPs).

Children living in poverty are a key risk group for substance misuse. We are targeting young people in the most deprived neighbourhoods at risk of substance misuse through 'Positive Futures', a national sports based social inclusion programme aimed at marginalised 10 to 19-year-olds. Positive Futures aims to > "have a positive influence on participants' substance misuse, physical activity and offending behaviour".

The Positive Futures projects have proved successful in building relationships, engaging and providing developmental opportunities for young people living in deprived areas.

Correspondence

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will provide a substantive reply to the letter of 22 December 2004 from the hon. Member for Aylesbury about the case of Mr. A. K. (references K516836 and B179/5) which his Department acknowledged on 13 January. [221347]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The Immigration and Nationality Directorate replied to the hon. Member on 22 March 2005.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letters dated 24 and 25 January from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Ms Madeline Crolla and Ms Vanessa Lees, transferred from the Department of Constitutional Affairs. [221912]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I replied to my right hon. Friend on 10 March and 18 March 2005 respectively.

Criminal Justice (Case Files)

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the project to make case file information on a suspect electronically available to all the main criminal justice organisations was initiated; what stage the project has reached; whether it is on schedule; and what the latest estimate of the cost of this project is. [218856]

Caroline Flint: The contract for NSPIS case preparation was placed in 1997 and for NSPIS custody in 1998. "Thick" client case preparation, whereby the NSPIS case preparation application is held on the force's local IT server system, was initiated and deployed in March 2002 and custody followed in May 2002. Presently there are 11 forces with NSPIS case preparation in operational use and nine forces with custody. Version four of NSPIS custody and case preparation is scheduled to be rolled out in April 2005 with version five to follow in July 2005. NSPIS custody and case preparation will be available to all 43 forces in England and Wales by 31 March 2006. The forecast spend for the NSPIS programme at the end of 2005–06 is £228 million.

Criminal Justice Act

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the provisions of chapter 2 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 will be brought into force. [216108]

Paul Goggins: The provisions relating to hearsay evidence contained in chapter 2 of part 11 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 will be brought into force on 4 April 2005.

Departmental Policies (Newcastle-under-Lyme)

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government have taken to promote stronger and safer communities in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223233]

Ms Blears: Since 1997 Newcastle-under-Lyme has benefited from a number of crime reduction and community safety initiatives. The Government Office for the West Midlands provides partnership support for all Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs) across the region, with identified partnership support officers to assist with making best use of Government funds. In addition, support is given to enable CDRPs to make better linkages with other funding programmes and achieve greater efficiency in programme management and evaluation.

The Newcastle-under-Lyme Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership has received a total of £997,370 since 2001–02 to promote stronger and safer communities. This funding has been provided through a variety of funds, as set out in the following table. While Newcastle-under-Lyme will have received further funding for some elements of the Crime Reduction Programme prior to 2002, the exact details are not collected centrally.

Fund	Amount (£)
2001–02
Communities Against Drugs (CAD)	112,700
2002–03
Safer Communities Fund (SCI)	39,702
Communities Against Drugs (CAD)	112,700
Capital Modernisation Fund (Small Retailers in Deprived Areas)	34,946
Reducing Burglary Initiative	7,900
CCTV (under the Crime Reduction Programme)	48,690
Wardens	18,125
Total	262,063.00
2003–04
Building Safer Communities Fund (BSC)	158,301
Anti-Social Behaviour (ASB)	19,000
CMF (SRDA)	17,597
Business Crime	1,000
Wardens	19,725
BCU Fund[1]	100,000
Total	315,623.00
2004–05
BSC	162,259
ASB	25,000
Wardens	19,725
BCU Fund[1]	100,000
Total	306,984.00

[1] BCU fund goes to North Staffs BCU which covers both Newcastle-U-Lyme and Staffordshire Moorlands CDRP and is £200,000. For ease of reckoning it is inferred that each CDRP would receive 50 per cent., hence £100,000.

Information on police strength is set out in Table 1. The Newcastle-under-Lyme parliamentary constituency is part of the North Staffordshire Basic Command Unit (BCU) of the Staffordshire Police. Information on strength at BCU level is collected annually and reflects the position at the end of March. Information on BCU strength is only available from 2002. BCU strength between March 2002 and March 2004 is set out in the Table 2. It is not possible to provide police numbers at constituency level.

Table 1: Staffordshire police strength 1997 to 2004

As at 31 March	Police officer numbers[1]	Police (support) staff[1]

Note:
The deployment of officers to BCUs is a matter for the Chief Constable (Mr. John Giffard QPM) and within the North Staffordshire BCU deployment of officers is a matter for the Divisional Commander.

Door Supervisor Licensing

Mr. Byers: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects the licensing of door supervisors under the Private Security Industry Act 2001 to be completed in (a) the North East and (b) London; and if he will make a statement. [223494]

Ms Blears [holding answer 22 March 2005]: Security Industry Authority licences have been required for door supervisors working in the North East area since 13 December 2004 whereas those in London have until 11 April 2005 to get licensed.

E-mails

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on his Department's policy regarding the retention of e-mails in electronic form (a) after and (b) up to 1 January 2005; and what instructions have been given regarding the deletion of e-mails prior to 1 January 2005. [206963]

Fiona Mactaggart: The Department continues to implement well established policies and procedures for the review and disposal of files in accordance with its administrative needs and the Public Records Act.

E-mail messages that form part of the official record are saved for as long as business needs require and stored corporately in accordance with departmental record management procedures. Further e-mail guidance is available on the National Archives website at: http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/electronicrecords/advice/pdf/managing emails.pdf.

Departmental policies are kept under review and this is the case for all record management policies. There has been no change to policies over the last 12 months. They continue to treat e-mails as one of the many document types containing business information and so they are used as part of the business record accordingly.

Fixed Penalty Notices

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of each category of fixed penalty notices have been (a) issued and (b) paid in each month since their introduction in each police force area. [223586]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The information requested in relation to penalty notices for disorder will be published in May/June.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many times (a) Essex and (b) Southend community support officers have issued a fixed penalty notice to parents for truancy since 27 February 2004; [210150]

(2) how many times (a) Essex and (b) Southend community support officers have stopped cyclists in order to issue a fixed penalty notice for cycling on a footpath since 20 January 2004; [210151]

(3) how many times (a) Essex and (b) Southend community support officers have issued a fixed penalty notice for graffiti and fly posting since 31 March 2004; [210152]

(4) how many times (a) Essex and (b) Southend community support officers have used the power to disperse groups since 20 January 2004; [210153]

(5) how many times (a) Essex and (b) Southend community support officers have used the power (i) to detain a person for up to 30 minutes pending the arrival of a constable, or to accompany that person to a police station with the person's agreement and (ii) to use reasonable force to detain a person or prevent him or her from leaving the scene in each year since their inception. [210154]

Ms Blears: This information is not collected centrally.

Commencement of paragraph 2 of Schedule 4 to the Police Reform Act 2002, whereby a Chief Constable may designate the power of detention to a Community Support Officer (CSO), took place on 23 December 2004. The Chief Constable of Essex is currently considering whether to designate CSOs on his force with the power to detain.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment his Department has made of the impact of holocaust memorial day in increasing awareness of and drawing conclusions from the holocaust; and what plans he has for future commemorations. [223021]

Fiona Mactaggart: Home Office quantitative polling research included four questions about holocaust memorial day (HMD) in the August 2004 and February 2005 surveys. The February 2005 research findings show a significant increase in awareness with 77 per cent. of those interviewed having heard of HMD (compared with 53 per cent. in August 2004) and 66 per cent. agreeing that events like HMD have an important part to play in combating racism and discrimination (compared with 51 per cent. in August 2004).

To give a comparison, in February 2004 a BBC survey revealed only 55 per cent. of the UK's population had ever heard of Auschwitz. A new BBC survey conducted in January 2005 has shown that now 94 per cent. of the population in the UK has heard of Auschwitz. This awareness is not just superficial, with half of the UK population feeling that they now know quite a lot about the holocaust, compared to only 30 per cent. last year. In establishing HMD the Government wanted to drive up awareness and understanding of the holocaust. The televised national event in January, preceded by a reception for survivors at St. James's Palace in the presence of Her Majesty the Queen and supported by other media programming about the holocaust, has succeeded in this aim. Understanding the continuum of hatred and marginalisation that led from racist abuse to mass genocide will help new generations to stand up to anti-semitism, racism and intolerance.

The 2005 commemoration provides an excellent basis for the work of the new Holocaust Memorial Day Trust, which will shortly be launched and will assume responsibility for the delivery of HMD from now on.

Illegal Abortions

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many convictions of individuals for unlawfully carrying out abortions there have been in each year since 1997. [222485]

Ms Blears: The available information is contained in the table and gives the number of offenders found guilty at all courts for "procuring illegal abortion", England and Wales 1997 to 2003.

Number of offenders found guilty at all courts for "procuring illegal abortion"[1] England and Wales 1997 to 2003

	Found guilty
1997	5
1998	3
1999	—
2000	1
2001	—
2002	—
2003	1

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.

Statistics on court proceedings for 2004 will be published in the autumn.

Illegal Experimentation (Human Embryos)

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many convictions of people found to have experimented unlawfully on human embryos there have been in each year since 1997. [222484]

Ms Blears: Persons found guilty for offences of experimenting on human embryos over 14 days under section 41 of the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 1990 cannot be separately identified in the statistics collected centrally.

Inland Revenue

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1110W, on Inland Revenue, when the Inland Revenue first advised his Department that it had a necessary and proportionate requirement to use covert human intelligence sources; and when his Department advised (a) Inland Revenue and (b) other Departments making use of informers to conduct a review of their informers and practices for dealing with them prior to the coming into force of the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000. [223175]

Ms Blears: When approached by the Home Office in late 1999, as one of a number of public authorities that used or might use covert human intelligence sources, the Inland Revenue indicated that it did use such sources and wished to continue doing so but within the statutory framework which was to be provided by the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000. At no time prior to the coming into force of the 2000 Act did the Home Office advise the Inland Revenue, or any other public authority, to review its practices for dealing with informers.

National Missing Persons Helpline

Richard Burden: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment he has made of the funding base of the National Missing Persons Helpline; what representations he has received in respect of funding by his Department for the helpline; and if he will make a statement; [223030]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of the work of the National Missing Persons Helpline. [223031]

Ms Blears: We have approved funding of up to £300,000 for the National Missing Persons Helpline subject to a fuller understanding of their financial and management situation.

Neighbourhood Policy Document

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many copies of Neighbourhood Policy—Your Police, Your Community, Our Commitment (a) have been printed, (b) have been distributed to date and (c) have been distributed unsolicited; and what the costs to date are of (i) design, (ii) printing and (iii) distribution. [223267]

Ms Blears [holding answer 22 March 2005]: The publication Neighbourhood Policing—Your Police, Your Community explains the Government's policies on community based policing. It is intended for those who work in policing and for the communities they serve.

A total of 300,00 copies of the publication were printed in English and 3,500 in Welsh.

To date 107,730 copies have been distributed to 21,546 addressees.

The costs of the publication were £850 for design; £42,474 for print and £24,000 for distribution.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when his Department will provide a substantive reply to questions 202011 and 202012 tabled for answer on 6 December 2004. [220269]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 4 March 2005]: I replied to the hon. Member on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 1841W.

Parole

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what criteria are applied when considering whether a prisoner is eligible for parole; and if he will make a statement. [221471]

Paul Goggins: The Parole Board is required to take account of the Secretary of State's Directions when determining whether or not an offender held in custody is of sufficiently low risk to be released into the community.

The panel of the Board will consider the matter either on the papers or at an oral hearing, depending on the type of release and the status of the offender. Depending on the matter before the Board for consideration, the Board will have some or all of the following available to them:

Reports from the Probation Service;

Copy of the antecedents;

Reports from the Prison Service, including a copy of any adjudications and reports of progress in custody, including details of progress on offending behaviour programmes;

Court documentation; and

Details of the index offence.

A copy of the Directions can be found in the House Library.

Police

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what methods are used in the national assessment process aimed at preventing racists from joining the police force. [221867]

Ms Blears: It is essential that we do all we can to exclude those with racist or other unacceptable attitudes from joining the police service.

We have introduced a national assessment and selection process across all forces which tests candidates' against seven competencies identified as requirements for a recruit police officer, including community and customer focus and respect for race and diversity.

The process aims to prevent people with prejudiced views and behaviour from joining the police service.

In particular, it comprehensively tests candidates' attitudes to race and diversity. Candidates' attitudes are tested at least seven times across all the exercises in the assessment centre, including at interview, in interactive role play exercises and through written assessment.

The exercises are all contextually based. Putting people through a range of exercises, using a range of assessment instruments when people are under pressure, makes it difficult for candidates to conceal attitudes and behaviours.

Those who do not score sufficiently highly in respect for race and diversity are not accepted—regardless of how well they have done in the rest of the selection process.

Moreover, candidates are failed automatically if they demonstrate inappropriate behaviour through their behaviour or language while at the assessment centre. This includes outside the testing environment, when they are in the corridors, waiting areas, and other public areas.

We are also encouraging all forces to use members of their minority ethnic communities as assessors in their selection processes.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) headcount and (b) whole-time equivalent (i) police officers and (ii) civilian staff have been employed by Sussex police in each of the last 10 years. [222032]

Ms Blears: The latest figures on police strength for September 2004 were published in an online report number 23/05.

The information requested is given in the following table:

Sussex

	Officers		Police staff
30 September	FTE	Headcount[1]	FTE	Headcount
1995	3,020	—	1,076	1,187
1996	3,097	—	1,167	1,296
1997	3,040	—	1,182	1,289
1998	2,924	—	1,216	1,332
1999	2,909	—	1,275	1,409
2000	2,812	—	1,405	1,515
2001	2,837	—	1,506	1,625
2002[2]	2,933	2,978	1,560	1,686
2003[2]	2,973	3,015	1,647	1,765
2004[2]	3,075	3,125	1,840	1,976

[1] Police strength headcount not collected prior to 2002.
[2] Comparable with previous years' data—excludes staff on career breaks and maternity/paternity leave.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much the police received in funding in (a) 1997 and (b) 2003. [218615]

Ms Blears: Funding for the police service in England and Wales is set out in the following table.

£ million

	1997–98	2003–04
Home office police grant	3,473	4,288
Revenue support grant[1,2]	1,516	2,055
National non-domestic rates[1,2]	1,035	770
Total other grants[3]	—	658
Capital grants[4]	170	306
Revenue raised from council tax[1]	947	2,047
Total	7,141	10,124

[1] Source: Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and National Assembly for Wales.
[2] Revenue Support Grant (RSG) includes SSA Reduction Grant and Central Support Protection grant in 1997–98. RSG and NNDR for the City of London Police are provided in respect of all the Corporation's functions.
[3] Specific grants for targeted programmes.
[4] Capital grants include Home Office police capital grant, supplementary credit approvals, Air Support, Premises Improvement Fund, Airwave capital and C3i. The figure for 1997–98 includes an element for major capital schemes allocated under the Priority Planning List (PPL) scheme.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the North Yorkshire Police Authority Medium Term Financial Plan 2005 to 2011. [221144]

Ms Blears: Each police authority is responsible for its own Medium Term Financial Plan, which will reflect the resource implications of local policing service levels and developments.

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the central Government grant to Nottinghamshire constabulary was in (a) 1999–2000 and (b) 2004–05; and if he will make a statement. [223207]

Ms Blears: The information is set out in the table.

£ million

	General grants[1]	Specific grants[2]	Capital grant[3]
1999–2000	110.7	0	4.3
2004–05	127.6	10.7	1.8

[1] Includes Home Office principal police grant, ODPM revenue support grant and redistributed business rates.
[2] Includes Crime Fighting Fund, Street Crime Initiative, BCU funding, CSO funding and Neighbourhood Policing Fund, DNA funding, Special Priority Payments and Airwave.
[3] Capital grant in 1999–2000 includes £3.4 million paid to Nottinghamshire Police Authority under the then arrangements to provide additional support for a limited number of major capital schemes each year. In addition, the authority received supplementary credit approvals of £2.6 million in 1999–2000 and £1.3 million in 2004–05 for grant supported borrowing.

Police Funding

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much has been allocated to police funding in each year since 2001. [201270]

Ms Blears: Government grant to support policing in England and Wales since 2001 is set out in the table.

£ million

	Home Office police grant	National non-domestic rates[1,2]	Revenue support grant[1,2]	Total other grants[3]	Capital grants[4]	Total
2001–02[5]	3,955	1,214	1,596	229	221	7,215
2002–03	4,005	1,311	1,504	349	316	7,485
2003–04	4,288	770	2,055	658	306	8,077
2004–05	4,380	744	2,222	708	261	8,315
2005–06	4,574	877	2,244	766	255	8,716

[1] Source: Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and National Assembly for Wales.
[2] Revenue Support Grant (RSG) includes SSA Reduction Grant and Central Support Protection grant. RSG and NNDR for the City of London police is provided in respect of all its functions.
[3] Specific grants since 2000–01 for targeted programmes.
[4] Capital grants include Home Office police capital grant, supplementary credit approvals, Air Support, Premises Improvement Fund, Airwave capital and C3i. The figures included substantial capital for Airwave in 2001–02 (£74.3 million), 2002–03 (£101.2 million) and 2002–03 (£5.9 million). Totals up to 2001–02 include an element for major capital schemes allocated under the Priority Planning List (PPL) scheme.
[5] The grant figures for 2001–02 and 2002–03 are not directly comparable, owing to changes from 2002–03 in the method of funding the National Crime Squad and the National Criminal Intelligence Service.

Prisons (Contestability Test)

Mr. Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) if he will visit prison personnel at HM Prisons (a) Swaleside, (b) Elmley and (c) Standford Hill to discuss the contestability test; [224063]

(2) at which other prisons contestability tests will be conducted following those at HM Prisons Swaleside, Elmley and Standford Hill; and what implications for terms of employment of prison staff the contestability test has. [224064]

Paul Goggins: I hope to have the opportunity to visit staff at the three prisons on the Isle of Sheppey in the near future.

We are announcing one competition relating to prisons at this time. No decision has yet been taken about the future programme. If the public sector Prison Service is successful in its bid for running prisons on the Isle of Sheppey, there will be no changes to terms of employment of prison staff as a result of the competition. Should the public sector Prison Service be unsuccessful in its bid for running prisons on the Isle of Sheppey, then management of the "undertaking" will transfer to the private sector bidder.

All staff will form part of the "undertaking" and will therefore transfer to the new employers under the protection of TUPE (Transfer of Undertaking; Protection of Employment Act). TUPE provides that staff will transfer on such existing terms and conditions as those provided by the previous employer and thereafter changes in such terms and conditions will be negotiated directly between the new employer and the employees/recognised trade union as appropriate.

Pension arrangements for such staff have to be "broadly comparable" and within guidelines established by the Cabinet Office entitled "Fair Deal on Pensions".

Additionally, the recent establishment of the Code of Practice on Two-Tier Workforce, agreed by both the TUC and CBI, now makes provision that any new staff joining the transferred undertaking after the date of transfer must be employed on comparable terms and conditions as the existing workforce, hence creating a "level playing" field in terms of competition between bidders.

Private Mario Clarke

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 1 February 2005, Official Report, columns 847–48W, on Private Mario Clarke, when a Home Office large murder inquiry system opened on the death of Private Mario Clarke; how many (a) officer hours were expended and (b) statements were taken (i) up to 31 January 2003 and (ii) in each month since January 2003; how many lines of inquiry were being pursued in relation to the death of Private Mario Clarke on 26 December 2003; and on what date a closing report was recorded. [215701]

Ms Blears: The Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis reports that up to 31 January 2003 a total of 76 statements were taken. In each month since 31 January 2003, the following number of statements have been taken.

2003	Number
February	3
March	4
April	7
May	2
July	7
September	1

Up to December 2003 there had been six main lines of inquiry.

This is still an ongoing inquiry and as such no closing report has been completed.

The Met have indicated that information requested regarding the expansion of officer hours can be provided only at disproportionate expense to the Metropolitan Police Service.

Sex Abuse (Historical Cases)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department in what types of investigations other than historical sex abuse police use (a) trawling and (b) dip-sampling. [207457]

Ms Blears: The use of operational techniques in police investigations is an operational matter for the police. The Association of Chief Police Officers have advised that "dip-sampling", also referred to as "trawling", is rarely used during the course of police investigations. The use of "dip-sampling" is invariably limited to investigations involving allegations of historical sex abuse in care or residential homes, where the police need to identify any corroborating evidence relating to the allegations under investigation.

Sikhs

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will revise the Statutory Code of Practice to ensure that all public bodies recognise and monitor Sikhs for the purposes of the Race Relations Act 2000. [221660]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 15 March 2005]: I have no current plans to revise the current Statutory Code of Practice on the duty to promote race equality under the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000. The Statutory Code encourages public authorities to use the same ethnic classification system as the one used in the 2001 census, but it does provide public authorities with a degree of flexibility to add extra ethnic categories to fit their particular circumstances, providing these fit in with the census categories. This approach ensures consistency, allowing comparisons to be made over time and across different areas.

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he last reviewed the list of Sikh organisations included in the list of groups proscribed in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [222550]

Ms Blears: The list of proscribed organisations is kept under regular review as a matter of policy, the Government do not comment on whether particular organisations are being considered for proscription or de-proscription under section 3 of the Terrorism Act 2000. Such decisions are only taken after the most careful consideration and on the basis of the best possible security advice.

Special Constables/CSOs (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) special constables and (b) community support officers there were in Leicester in each year since 2001. [222774]

Ms Blears: The following information has been provided by the chief constable of Leicestershire (Matt Baggott).

The table sets out the number of special constables deployed in the central area basic command unit which includes the City of Leicester from 2001.

Leicestershire constabulary—central area BCU Special constable strength

As at 31 March	Special constable numbers
2001	27
2002	19
2003	17
2004	23

CSO were allocated to the central area basic command unit (BCU) for the first time during 2004–05. On 18 March 2004 the BCU had 22 CSOs.

Violent Crime

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on levels of violent crime. [216757]

Ms Blears: According to figures from the British Crime Survey (BCS), which are the most reliable indicator of long-term trends in violence in England and Wales, there were an estimated 2.52 million violent incidents in the 12 months to September 2004. Levels of violent crime are now stable after significant falls since the latter part of the 1990s—36 per cent. down from a peak in 1995 and 26 per cent. down from 1997. The fear of violent crime has also fallen steadily since 1998, with the proportion of adults with a high level of concern about violent crime down from 21 per cent. in 2002–03 to 16 per cent. in 2003–04.

Half of all violent incidents reported to the BCS in 2003–04 did not result in injury to the victim. However, this does not mean that public concern about violent crime is unjustified or that the ordeal of victims is not traumatic, even if injury has not occurred.

Recorded violent crime has risen since 1997, reaching 1.1 million incidents in 2003–04, but these data are affected by changes in reporting and recording practices. The Home Office Counting Rules for Recorded Crime were amended in 1998 to include a large number of offences particularly in the less serious violence categories. The introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard (NCRS) in April 2002 also resulted in an increase in recorded crime. The effect of the change on the reported level of violent crime was estimated to be an increase of 20 per cent.

In addition, more violent crimes are being recorded by the police as public tolerance of violence in the family or by acquaintances diminishes. Along with a more proactive response from the police, more crimes that would have previously been unreported are finding their way into the official figures.

Witness Statements

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many witness statements were taken by police forces in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [208274]

Ms Blears: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Women Offenders

Mr. Stinchcombe: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made in implementing the 2004 spending review commitment to pilot new approaches to (a) meet the needs of women offenders and (b) reduce the need for custody; and how much has been allocated from Home Office budgets to each. [217170]

Paul Goggins: The Home Secretary announced on 22 March 2005 that £9.15 million will be allocated to implement the 2004 spending review commitment to develop radical new approaches to meet the specific needs of women offenders.

This is the first time that Government funding has been allocated specifically to tackle women's offending. It will enable the development of a co-ordinated multi-agency response to women's offending and will show how this kind of approach can tackle issues such as drug dependency and mental health problems in the community and avoid the use of custody for women who do not need to be there.

Work Permits

Mr. Lilley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many work permits were issued in each year since 1990 at (a) tier 1, broken down into categories (a) to (e) and (b) at tier 2. [223383]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The table outlines the number of work permits that were issued in each year since 2000 at (a) tier 1, broken down into categories (a) to (e) and (b) at tier 2. This two tier system was introduced in 2000 so figures are not available for previous years.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Aggregates (Northamptonshire)

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what recent research he has commissioned into the availability of glacial gravel and aggregate resources in Northamptonshire; and if he will make a statement. [223850]

Keith Hill: No recent research has been commissioned by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister into the availability of glacial gravels and aggregate resources in Northamptonshire. However, the British Geological Survey, funded through the Sustainable Land-Won and Marine Dredged Aggregate Minerals Programme, which is administered by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister within the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affair's Aggregate Levy Sustainability Fund, is currently researching aggregate resource availability in the Milton Keynes and South Midlands Sub-Region, an area that includes Northamptonshire. One of the objectives of this project is to collect new data on the sand and gravel resources, including those of a glacial origin, which occur in the study area. The project is expected to report in November 2006.

Antisocial Behaviour

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many local authority antisocial behaviour orders have been (a) applied for and (b) obtained in each local authority in each year since their introduction, broken down by recipients aged (i) under 10, (ii) 10 to 20, (iii) 20 to 30, (iv) 30 to 50 and (v) over 50 years; and how many have been breached in each case. [210757]

Ms Blears: I have been asked to reply.

The available information is given in tables which have been placed in the Library. Data prior to 1 June 2000 is not broken down by type of applicant. Data by the requested age groups are not readily available. However, age group data for juveniles (10–17) and adults (18+) are given. Antisocial behaviour orders (ASBOs) are not given to children under the age of 10.

Breach data are currently available for the period 1 June 2000 up to 31 December 2002. Data for 2003 are due to be released shortly

Asylum Seekers (Grants)

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will list the payments and grants made by predecessor departments to each local authority in (a) England, (b) Wales, (c) Scotland and (d) Northern Ireland to reimburse the costs of supporting asylum seekers in each year from 1996–97 until the transfer of responsibility to the Home Office. [217783]

Mr. Raynsford: Immediately before 1 April 1999 the budget for support of asylum seekers was split between the then Department of Social Security (DSS) and the Department of Health (DoH). DSS were responsible for supporting applicants who made their application at a port of entry until such time as an initial decision was recorded on the claim for asylum. DoH picked up the costs of supporting those claiming asylum after entry and also all appellants (including those who made their original application on arrival). The budget for adult and family asylum seekers transferred to the Home Office on 1 April 1999. The budget for unaccompanied asylum seeking children transferred to the Home Office on 1 April 2000

For information on the costs the Government in relation to asylum seekers prior to 1999–2000, I refer the hon. Member to a response given by the then Home Secretary on 9 May 2000, Official Report, column 331W. The figures contained in the answer are global, and cover the entire of the UK. They cannot be broken down further into areas.

Gypsies and Travellers

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) how many (a) sites and (b) caravans he assesses would be reasonable to be contained within a Gypsy and Traveller development plan document drawn up by Brentwood borough council; [222206]

(2) what his assessment is of the need for Gypsy and Traveller sites in (a) each (i) district and (ii) unitary authority in the county of Essex and (b) each county in the eastern region; and if he will make a statement; [222209]

(3) how he will assess the need for Gypsy and Traveller sites in each (a) district, (b) county and (c) region; and if he will make a statement; [222211]

(4) how he will allocate the required number of Gypsy and Traveller sites between adjoining local authorities in each district, county and region. [223222]

Yvette Cooper: It is for Brentwood borough council to assess the need for Gypsy and Traveller sites in its area. The Housing Act 2004 will require that local authorities, when assessing local housing need should include the accommodation needs of Gypsies and Travellers, and that they should develop a strategy on how to meet the needs identified.

Assessments of housing need are co-ordinated at the regional level and provide input to the revision of regional spatial strategies (RSS). Guidance in the draft circular "Planning for Gypsy and Traveller Sites" proposes that where there is an assessment of unmet need for Gypsy and Traveller accommodation in the area the regional spatial strategy and development plan documents at local level should allocate land to meet those needs. The RSS should set out how the required number of pitches for Gypsies and Travellers might vary between constituent authorities. Development plan documents at local level should then allocate land to meet those needs.

In advance of provision in revised regional spatial strategies local authorities have a range of information available to them to inform the development of local policies and plans, including the twice-yearly caravan count, waiting lists for public sites and incidents of unauthorised encampment, and their own assessments.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what criteria will be used in assessing a Gypsy and Traveller development plan document. [222207]

Yvette Cooper: Section 20 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 sets out that the purpose of the independent examination of a development plan document as being to determine whether:

(i) it satisfies the statutory requirements for the preparation of the plan as set out in section 19 of the Act and it is in general conformity with the regional spatial strategy or, in London, the spatial development strategy; and

(ii) it is sound.

A development plan document will be sound if it meets the procedural; conformity; and coherence, consistency, and effectiveness tests set out in paragraph 4.24 of Planning Policy Statement 12—Local Development Frameworks.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many (a) authorised and (b) unauthorised Gypsy and Traveller sites there were in (i) each (A) district and (B) unitary authority in Essex and (ii) each county in the eastern region in the last five years for which figures are available. [222208]

Yvette Cooper: Detailed information on local authority Gypsy and Traveller sites in the east region is available in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's count of Gypsy and Traveller caravans, as is data on the number of caravans on private authorised sites, unauthorised encampments and unauthorised developments of land without planning permission. The bi-annual count is published electronically on the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's website and paper copies are also available in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what criteria he will use in deciding whether to exercise his powers to direct local authorities to draw up a Gypsy and Traveller development plan document; and if he will make a statement. [222210]

Yvette Cooper: Sections 21 and 27 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 set out the Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister's intervention and default powers. Planning Policy Statement 12—Local Development Frameworks paragraphs 4.31–4.35 sets out the circumstances in which the Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister will use these powers.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2005, Official Report, column 1296W, on Traveller sites, for what reasons incorrect information was provided; which official was responsible for providing the incorrect information; when it was brought to Ministers' attention that incorrect information had been provided; and what action has been taken to prevent the re-occurrence of such errors. [219904]

Yvette Cooper: The original answer of 31 January 2005, Official Report, column 655W was inadequately researched. I was informed that the answer was inaccurate on 6 February 2005 and corrected this at the first opportunity in the pursuant answer of 7 February 2005, Official Report, column 1296W. Officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister are regularly reminded of the importance of providing accurate information in parliamentary answers.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many unauthorised Traveller sites he estimates there are in each parliamentary constituency. [223138]

Yvette Cooper: The data gathered under the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's bi-annual Gypsy and Traveller caravan count records the number of Gypsy and Traveller caravans on authorised and unauthorised sites in each local authority area. The count is published electronically on the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's website and paper copies are also made available in the Libraries of the House. Data is not held centrally on the number of unauthorised sites on which Gypsy and Traveller caravans are found, neither is it possible to reorganise our data to reflect constituency boundaries.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on unauthorised Traveller encampments. [223416]

Yvette Cooper: The Government introduced new powers to deal with unauthorised camping in the Anti-social Behaviour Act 2003. The joint Office of the Deputy Prime Minister/Home Office document, "Guidance on Managing Unauthorised Camping", was published in February 2004 and amended on 7 March 2005.

Homelessness

Ms Oona King: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) how much funding each local authority in London will receive from the Homelessness Directorate in 2005–06 to support local homelessness strategies; [223579]

(2) if he will make a statement on the funding available to support the Tower Hamlets Homelessness Strategy in 2005–06. [223580]

Yvette Cooper: The table shows the amount of homelessness funding allocated to each local authority in London for 2005–06. These grants are helping authorities to prevent homelessness, which can in turn generate wider savings in their General Fund expenditure on homelessness.

Local authority—London	Revenue grant 2005–06 allocation up to
Barking and Dagenham	28,000
Barnet	160,000
Bexley	58,000
Brent	740,000
Bromley	100,000

Mr. Gill: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much funding has been spent on supporting homeless people in (a) Leicester, South, (b) Leicester and (c) England since 1997. [223640]

Yvette Cooper: Before 2002–03 our homelessness grant funding was allocated to various voluntary organisations to support their work in reducing rough sleeping and tackling homelessness. It is not possible to break down allocations by local authority area prior to 2002–03.

Since 2002–03, homelessness grant funding has been mainly routed through local authorities to sustain rough sleeping, end the long term use of bed and breakfast (B&B) accommodation for homeless families with children and to tackle homelessness more effectively. The following table is a breakdown of the total figure of homelessness grant funding allocated to Leicester city council (which would cover Leicester South) and all local authorities and voluntary sector agencies in England since 1997.

[1] First year of funding routed through all local authorities.

On 14 March, the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister announced our new strategy for tackling homelessness "Sustainable Communities: settled homes; changing lives" which builds on our successes in tackling the worst aspects of homelessness—a 70 per cent. reduction in rough sleeping since 1998 and ending the long term use of homeless families with children living in B&B accommodation. It also sets out plans to reduce homelessness further and halve the use of temporary accommodation by 2010. On the same day, we announced that £200 million will be made available over the next three years to support homelessness prevention schemes.

A copy of "Sustainable Communities: settled homes; changing lives" has been made available in the Library of the House and is also available on the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's website at: www.odpm.gov.uk

The Supporting People programme which went live in April 2003 also plays an important part in tackling and preventing homelessness. How local authorities allocate Supporting People grant is a matter for local discretion. However, on the basis of expenditure patterns at April 2003, it is estimated that the sums in the following table were available to authorities to help tackle and prevent homelessness in their areas.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is increasing the supply of new social rented homes by 50 per cent. by 2008, providing 75,000 new social rented homes over the next three years which, with our continued investment in homelessness prevention, will help to turn around the rising trend in homelessness.

Housing

Ms Oona King: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many affordable housing units were built or procured through the Housing Corporation Approved Development Programme and Challenge Fund in London in each year since 1997–98, broken down by (a) mixed funded social rented housing, (b) temporary social rented housing, (c) homebuy general market purchase, (d) homebuy general new build, (e) mixed funded general low cost ownership for sale, (f) miscellaneous works to registered social landlord (RSL) stock, (g) reimprovement to rented RSL stock, (h) works-only rehabilitation of rented RSL stock, (i) works-only rehabilitation of RSL stock for sale, (j) intermediate rented accommodation for key workers, (k) homebuy market purchase for key workers, (l) homebuy new build for key workers, (m) the London Challenge Teacher Market Purchase Homebuy, (n) mixed funded sale for key workers and (o) starter home initiative. [222371]

Substantive answer from Keith Hill to Oona King:

In my reply to your Parliamentary Question on 17 March about the number of dwellings built or procured through the Housing Corporation's Approved Development Programme (ADP) and Challenge Fund, in London, by various categories in each year since 1997–98, I undertook to write to you when the information had been collated.

The attached table shows the dwellings built, procured or improved under each of the headings listed. Miscellaneous works are not recorded as improved dwellings as the work undertaken is small scale, such as an adaptation for a person with a disability or improved insulation. New Build Homebuy and Key Worker Living were both introduced in 2004/05. The Starter Home Initiative (SHI) was a programme in its own right and was not included in the ADP.

A copy of this letter and the attachment is being placed in the House library.

Ideal Home Exhibition

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the (a) capital and (b) running costs were of his stand at the Ideal Home Exhibition. [223594]

Yvette Cooper: The capital cost of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's corporate stand was £30,000. This stand represents the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister around the country at a wide variety of public and private events, and is expected to last for five years. The cost of attending the IHS was £52,730.

The Ideal Home Show will receive over 450,000 visitors over the four weeks from across the country. The stand is providing information on Building Regulations, Home Information Packs, Key Worker homes and Planning. Part of the stand is also dedicated to the Fire Kills campaign—an essential part of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's drive to help reduce fire deaths.

Local Authority Finance (Lincolnshire)

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much financial assistance his Department has provided to (a) North Lincolnshire council and (b) North East Lincolnshire council in each year since 1997. [223465]

Mr. Raynsford: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister was established following the machinery of Government changes on 29 May 2002. The tables set out the amounts of formula grant and other grants and payments made to (a) North Lincolnshire council and (b) North East Lincolnshire council by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister since 2002–03. For earlier years, the tables show the amounts paid by the predecessor Departments from programmes which are now administered by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister.

(a) Financial assistance to North Lincolnshire council

£ million

	Formula grant[1]	Other grants and payments[2]
1997–98	86.00	2.637
1998–99	90.638	3.287

2002–03	116.245	10.409
2004–05	117.896	11.235

[1] These figures may not be comparable year-on-year due to changes in the funding and function of local authorities.
[2] For 2004–05 this is a forecast figure.

(b) Financial assistance to North East Lincolnshire council

£ million

	Formula grant[1]	Other grants and payments[2]
1997–98	98.355	2.848
1998–99	104.436	3.104
1999–2000	109.088	3.472

2003–04	133.289	17.443
2004–05	133.996	23.982

[1] These figures may not be comparable year-on-year due to changes in the funding and function of local authorities.
[2] For 2004–05 this is a forecast figure.

Additionally, we have issued exceptional capitalisation directions to North East Lincolnshire for total maximum amounts of £4.5 million in 2003–04 and £10.5 million in 2004–05, and under our local government intervention programme we have approved a grant determination for £3.8 million, which relates to work for 2004–05 and it is as yet unclaimed.

Local Government Pension Scheme

Mr. Edwards: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on progress of negotiations with trade union representatives about the future of the Local Government Pension Scheme. [222676]

Phil Hope: My right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister announced on 18 March, following a constructive dialogue with local authority employers and trade unions that it has been decided to establish a tri-partite committee of key stakeholders to consider and negotiate the long term future of the Local Government Pension Scheme. In addition, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister has made clear the intention to revoke the Local Government Pension Scheme (Amendments) (No.2) Regulations 2004 at the earliest parliamentary opportunity, subject to statutory consultation, as required by the Superannuation Act 1972. A meeting with the employers and trade unions will be taking place as soon as possible to discuss the next steps with nothing ruled in and nothing ruled out.

Local Strategic Partnerships

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what status local strategic partnerships have within the democratic decision-making process of local government; and if he will make a statement. [223312]

Yvette Cooper: Local strategic partnerships (LSPs) are non-statutory, non-executive bodies which bring together public, private, voluntary and community interests to work together more effectively. They are not designed to replace local government, but are a vehicle through which councils can exercise their community leadership role by facilitating effective partnership—working to produce a strategic direction for a locality.

Elected officials who sit on LSPs also have a responsibility to scrutinise them, therefore maintaining a clear link to the democratic decision making process.

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister to whom local strategic partnerships are accountable. [223313]

Yvette Cooper: Within a local strategic partnership (LSP), individual partners will remain responsible and accountable for decisions on their own services and the use of their own resources. Accountability to the partnership, therefore, cannot override these individual commitments. The LSP partner organisations already have established lines of accountability, to their own customers and the wider community. LSP accountability arrangements need to build on these frameworks.

While local authorities are legally required to prepare community strategies, in the community strategy guidance they are encouraged to see LSPs as the vehicle to determine and deliver these.

For the 88 areas receiving neighbourhood renewal fund (NRF) resources, although the local authority remains the accountable body, ultimately it is the responsibility of the LSP to determine their allocation with the aim of meeting the partners' strategic priorities, improving public services in the most deprived neighbourhoods, and contributing to the achievement of public sector agreement (PSA) targets to narrow the gap between deprived areas and the rest.

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will list local strategic partnerships. [223314]

Yvette Cooper: A local strategic partnership (LSP) is a non-statutory, non executive organisation which brings together public, private, voluntary and community interests to work together more effectively to improve the quality of life in their area. There is no one model for the structure of a LSP nor is an area obliged to set one up; what works in one area may not work in another. As such this information is not held centrally by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister but the Government Offices (GOs) would have this information.

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister who is responsible for (a) appointments to and (b) removal of members of local strategic partnerships. [223315]

Yvette Cooper: Local strategic partnerships (LSPs) are a collaborative partnership where each member is an equal partner. Partners are not appointed by any one person or any one organisation. They join on a voluntary basis to help organise the delivery of local services more effectively. Each partner has a different contribution to make to secure the economic, social and environmental well being of an area for those who live and work there.

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether he monitors the activities of local strategic partnerships. [223316]

Yvette Cooper: Local strategic partnerships (LSPs) are voluntary bodies and have no statutory responsibilities. They rely on the goodwill of their partners to operate. Therefore they are not required to develop any formal performance management mechanisms.

However, LSPs in receipt of neighbourhood renewal funds resources have all now developed performance management frameworks. This is primarily a self-assessment process. To ensure the process is robust, since 2004 Government offices have undertaken an annual review, with the outcomes of performance management forming the basis of these reviews. Government offices provide the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister with a report on each of the 88 LSPs in September each year.

New Deal for Communities (North London)

Mr. Mark Field: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what action has been taken to respond to the petition submitted to his Department in November 2004 by local residents regarding the New Deal for Communities project in the Seven Sisters area of North London; and if he will make a statement. [223319]

Yvette Cooper: The petition, on behalf of two expelled Partnership Board Members, has been carefully considered and the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister remains satisfied that the expulsions were handled fairly.

Official Residences

Chris Grayling: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will list the official residences for which his Department is responsible; who occupies each one; what the annual cost is of running each property; what contribution the occupants of each make towards running costs; what the total capital and refurbishment expenditure has been on those properties in each of the past five years; how much money was spent in each property on (a) flowers and plants, (b) wine and entertaining, (c) food, (d) telephone bills and (e) electricity and gas in 2003–04; how many (i) domestic and (ii) maintenance staff are employed at each property, broken down by post; and what the total cost of staff employment was in 2003–04. [213562]

Yvette Cooper: With regard to which residences the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is responsible for and who occupies them, I refer the hon. Member to my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister's answer of 20 January 2005, Official Report, column 1037W.

On general running and refurbishment/maintenance costs of residences, I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Member for Corby (Phil Hope) to the hon. Member for Hertford and Stortford (Mr. Prisk) on 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1733W.

The costs of other expenditure items in the official residence in Admiralty House of my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister are as follows:

(a) There have been no flowers or plants provided from public funds.

(b) The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's entertainment budget does not detail expenditure by venue and this could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

(c) There has been no expenditure on food from public funds.

(d) The cost of telephone calls was £857.20 in 2003–04.

(e) The cost of electricity and gas was £1,361.00 in 2003–04.

i. There are no domestic staff providing services in the official residence occupied by my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister.

ii. Maintenance within the residence is provided under a Cabinet Office contract and the cost of this is included within the service charge. There are no maintenance staff employed exclusively in my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister's official residence.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister also has the use of Dorneywood, which is a Trust property available for use by Ministers.

Parking

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much has been spent on (a) provision of parking spaces for civil servants and (b) parking tickets and penalties incurred by civil servants in the Department and its predecessors in each year since 1997. [213831]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister was established in May 2002. Car parking spaces are provided for staff (including those with disabilities) and visitors. For the buildings of both the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and its predecessors, the car parking spaces are included in the rent of each building and this element cannot be separated from the overall cost.

Civil servants in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister are personally responsible for meeting the cost of any parking tickets and penalties they may incur. Since May 2002 one fine costing £50 has been paid by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister. This was as a result of a Government Car and Despatch Agency car being used by a member of staff incurring a penalty charge.

The value of any fines incurred prior to the establishment of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

This answer does not include information pertaining to Government Offices, who carry out functions on behalf of 10 Government Departments.

Quality Mark

Brian Cotter: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of the proposals developed in conjunction with the construction industry and consumer bodies to revive the Quality Mark initiative; whether he anticipates incorporating his Department's existing Competent Persons Schemes under the Building Regulations into the proposed successor initiative; and if he will make a statement. [223997]

Phil Hope: Officials from the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister have taken part in discussions with the Department for Trade and Industry, the construction industry and consumer bodies to develop a possible successor to the Quality Mark Initiative. Existing and future competent person schemes and their registered installers will be free to take part in any successor if they wish to do so.

Social Housing

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to his answer of 25 February 2005, Official Report, column 902W, on social housing (right to buy), what estimate he has made of the amount of capital receipts from right to buy sales in debt-free authorities that will be centrally pooled in (a) 2004–05, (b) 2005–06, (c) 2006–07 and (d) 2007–08. [223296]

Keith Hill: Current estimates are tabled as follows:

	£ million
2004–05	51
2005–06	102
2006–07	150
2007–08	197

The increase year-on-year is a feature of the transitional arrangements, which allow debt-free local authorities to retain 75 per cent. of the value of poolable receipts in 2004–05, 50 per cent. in 2005–06 and 25 per cent. in 2006–07. The transitional arrangements end in 2007–08.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether his Office sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220952]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister was formed in May 2002. The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister does not use eBay to dispose of any surplus stock. Any surplus stock that cannot be used within the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister or any other Government Department is disposed of in accordance with departmental procedures which are contained in the Procurement Manual.

Telecommunications Masts

Mr. Gill: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what recent discussions he has had with mobile phone operators on the siting of phone masts. [223641]

Keith Hill: The last meeting between a Minister of the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and the Mobile Operators Association was held with me on 24 March 2004.

Monday 4 April 2005

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Air Quality (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the concentration of (a) nitrogen dioxide, (b) sulphur dioxide and (c) benzene in Leicester has been in each year since 1997. [223643]

Alun Michael: The table shows annual mean concentrations (in micrograms per metre cubed) for nitrogen dioxide and sulphur dioxide from 1997 to 2004 measured by the Automatic Urban and Rural Network (AURN) air monitoring site in Leicester.

There are no measurements of benzene in Leicester. The table includes measurements from Birmingham, East (1997 to 2000) and Birmingham Roadside (2002–04). These are the nearest benzene monitors to Leicester.

Annual mean concentrations for nitrogen dioxide and sulphur dioxide, measured by the Automatic Urban and Rural Network air monitoring site in Leicester, and for benzene measured at Birmingham, East (1997 to 2000) and Birmingham Roadside (2002–04)

Common Agricultural Policy

Mr. George Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was paid under the Common Agricultural Policy to farmers in each (a) constituency, (b) county and (c) region of England in the last period for which figures are available. [213156]

Alun Michael: Tables setting out payments to farmers under the Common Agricultural Policy will be made available in the Library of the House.

The data relates to farm based schemes for the 2004 European Agriculture Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004.

The schemes included are:

Arable Area Payment

Beef Special Premium

Suckler Cow Premium

Extensification Premium

Slaughter Premium

Sheep Annual Premium

England Rural Development Programme

Structural Funds[1]

Over-thirty-months Slaughter

Payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of the farming activity.

[1] Structural funds are moneys made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe.

Crufts

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost was of her Department's stand at Crufts; how many man days were used to (a) erect and (b) man it; and what its purpose was. [223937]

Alun Michael: The costs of Defra's attendance at Crufts 2005 was as follows:

Cost of stand build including graphics production and literature storage—£9,031 plus VAT

Defra man days to install—1

Defra man days to occupy stand—19 (Thursday 4, Friday 5, Saturday 5, Sunday 5)

Defra attends many specialist exhibitions and shows as part of it's on-going communication with stakeholders. Crufts provides an excellent opportunity to target pet owners with messages about the Pets Travel Scheme, rabies, Countryside Rights of Way, the DACTARI scheme about exotic diseases in cats and dogs, the draft Animal Welfare Bill, and EU and UK legislation relating to the responsible ownership of dogs.

Environment Agency Inspectors

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many inspectors have been employed by the Environment Agency in the exercise of functions previously conducted within Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Pollution in each year since 1997. [224007]

Mr. Morley: At the present time the Environment Agency has 335 employees working on tasks that would formerly have fallen under the umbrella of Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Pollution.

This is the readily available information. I will write to the hon. Member within the next three weeks when I have received further information from the Environment Agency.

Farm Support

Mr. George Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much public money was spent on support for farming in England in the last period for which figures are available, broken down by (a) constituency, (b) county and (c) region. [213155]

Alun Michael: Tables setting out the amount of public money which has been spent on support for farming in England will be made available in the Library of the House.

In this context public funding is taken to mean the Exchequer funded element of payments under the Common Agricultural Policy which are not reimbursable by the European Commission.

The data relates to farm-based schemes for the 2004 European Agriculture Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004.

The main schemes included are:

England Rural Development Programme

Structural Funds [1]

Over-thirty-months Slaughter

All of which are jointly funded, in differing proportions, between Exchequer and EAGGF elements.

Payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of the farming activity.

[1] Structural funds are moneys made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether her Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000-01. [220948]

Alun Michael: Defra has not used the eBay auction website to dispose of surplus stock.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Disabled Teachers

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many teachers in (a) primary schools and (b) secondary schools have registered disabilities in (i) Leicester, South and (ii) England. [224280]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Education Spending (Crosby)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much public funding has been spent on education in Crosby in each of the last seven years. [223884]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is collected at local education authority level. Crosby is part of Sefton LEA and the following table contains the information requested:

Total funding (real terms) from 1997–98 to 2004

	Total funding (£ million)
1997–98	128.5
1998–99	133.4
1999–2000	139.2
2000–01	152.9
2001–02	161.2
2002–03	165.6
2003–04	173.7
2004–05	177.2

Notes:

1. Price Base: Real terms at 2003–04 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 30 September 2004.
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education SSA/EFS settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged 3–19 and exclude EMAs and grants not allocated at LEA level.
4. Where responsibility for funding a school transferred from an LEA, related funding no longer appears in the series.
5. Rounding: figures are rounded to the nearest £0.1 million.
6. Status: 2003–04 and 2004–05 figures are provisional as some grants have not yet been finalised/audited.

Ethnic Minority Teachers

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans the Government have to (a) recruit more ethnic minority teachers and (b) encourage more people from ethnic minorities to become school governors. [223879]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Teacher Training Agency's commitment to increase the recruitment of trainees from minority ethnic backgrounds to 9 per cent. of the allocated training places has been a priority since 2000.

In 2004, the provisional figures for entry to initial teacher training show that 2,934 trainees (9.1 per cent.) were from a minority ethnic background. This is an increase of 759 (35 per cent.) additional trainees recruited since 2002. Despite meeting the 9 per cent. target, it remains a priority for the agency to further increase recruitment of trainee teachers from a minority ethnic background.

There are approximately 350,000 school governor places at maintained schools in England. 12 per cent. of serving governors are from a minority ethnic background.

Responsibility for the recruitment and appointment of school governors is shared between local authorities, schools themselves and any relevant body—such as a faith organisation—for schools with foundations. These local organisations are best placed to identify the most successful ways to recruit good quality, suitable candidates. The Department supports the recruitment activities of schools and LEAs by providing the generic Help Schools Help Children recruitment leaflets, available in 11 minority languages, and a recruitment toolkit. Additionally, since November 1999, the Department has funded the School Governors' One Stop Shop (SGOSS) to recruit school governor volunteers with transferable skills from the business world. Since their establishment SGOSS have identified 6,437 candidates. Of these candidates 3,047 have already been appointed to governing bodies, with 18 per cent. coming from a minority ethnic background.

Food Provision

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what public subsidies were available to (a) employers and (b) training providers delivering national vocational qualification food preparation and cooking at levels one to four in each of the past three years. [223955]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The Learning and Skills Council funds these qualifications as part of apprenticeship programmes or through colleges and other providers working with employers.

The Learning and Skills Council funding rates are in the attached annex.

Annex A

Funding through apprenticeships

Food processing and cooking: NVQ at level 2

	16–18 rate	19+ rate
2002/03	3,106	1,941
2003/04	3,449	2,242

2003/04	1,411	943
2004/05	1,282	857

NVQ levels 3 and 4 in food preparation and cooking (normally delivered over two years)

	Mode A	Mode B
2002/03	2,964	1,982
2003/04	2,822	1,886
2004/05	2,564	1,714

Mode A: Delivery by provider and employer jointly, mainly at the workplace and partly at provider
Mode B: Delivery by provider and employer jointly, entirely at the workplace

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what (a) public and (b) trade consultation was carried out during the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority funded consultation on the People 1st National Vocational Qualification for food preparation and cooking; which organisations made representations (i) supporting and (ii) opposing the inclusion of a mandatory nutrition unit at levels 1 to 4; and for what reasons. [223957]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: People 1st held over 30 consultation meetings throughout the UK for employers, industry and training providers, FE colleges, external verifiers and the Food Standards Agency (FSA). In addition, 571 people downloaded the Standards from the People 1st website.

The DfES and the FSA both supported the inclusion of a mandatory nutrition unit. The majority of industry personnel consulted were opposed to the inclusion of a mandatory nutrition unit because a knowledge-based unit would not be easily assessable in the workplace and because it would not reflect current work practice.

Learning and Skills Council

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much the Learning and Skills Council spent on consultants in 2004; and if she will make a statement. [223669]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council. Mark Haysom, the Council's Chief Executive, will write to my hon. Friend with this information and a copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

Letter from Mark Haysom to Mr. David Drew, dated 31 March 2005:

I write further to your recent question to the Secretary of State for Education and Skills regarding how much the LSC spent on consultants in 2004.

The Learning and Skills Council (LSC) financial year 2004–05 covers the period 1 April 2004 to 31 March 2005. At this juncture my officers are in the process of implementing rigorous year end procedures to ensure that all activity occurring during the 2004–05 financial year is correctly accounted for, this will then be impartially audited by the National Audit Office prior to publication of the LSC's Annual Report and Accounts. As you will appreciate these accounts are predicated on assurance work undertaken in partnership with a number of providers, such as FE Colleges and WBL providers. As a result, the LSC's accounts will not be available until some time later in the year.

Consequently, the most recent financial year for which the information you have requested is available is 2003–04.

Table 1 below shows the total expenditure coded as consultancy in the LSC's accounts for the 2003–04 financial year.

Organisation	National	Regional[1]	Local	Total
Higher Education Funding Council	8,814	0	0	8,814
KPMG LLP	3,513	0	129	3,642
Learning and Skills Development Agency	3,328	0	5	3,333
NIACE	1,890	0	10	1,900
RSM Robson Rhodes	1,825	0	2	1,827
Prospects Services Ltd.	0	0	1,638	1,638
Baker Tilly	1,588	0	0	1,588
Pricewaterhouse Coopers	1,376	0	0	1,376

Other consultancy firms	27,441	0	16,510	43,951
Total	51,737	0	18,296	70,033

[1] A regional structure to further strengthen the LSC's focus upon delivering frontline provision was introduced during the 2004–05 financial year. Unfortunately, 2003–04 expenditure cannot be analysed on a Regional basis.

I hope that you find this information helpful.

Nutrition Training

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) what plans she has to include nutrition as a mandatory unit within the new Food Preparation and Cooking NVQ; [223952]

(2) what her policy is on the inclusion of a mandatory nutrition unit in the national vocational qualification for food preparation and cooking. [223956]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Qualifications relating to food preparation and cooking are developed in response to employers needs, and at this point most employers do not want nutrition as a mandatory element. However, our recent work on improving school meals has shown the advantages of school catering staff having knowledge of nutrition and healthy eating. DfES, the Food Standards Agency and People 1st are developing the content of a school catering qualification that will provide basic knowledge of this subject, and we envisage the recently announced School Food Trust will consider this and other issues related to training school kitchen staff in due course.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what further consultation occurred after the expiry of the formal consultation deadline of the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority funded consultation on the People 1st National Vocational Qualification, regarding whether nutrition should be a (a) mandatory and (b) optional unit at levels 1 to 4. [226958]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: There was further consultation on the standards and the levels of some units. Nutrition was covered in this consultation and, again, the results indicated that there was not a strong enough industry view that nutrition should be included as a mandatory unit in the new food preparation and cooking N/SVQs.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what meetings have taken place between Ministers in her Department and (a) People 1st and (b) the Food Standards Agency in relation to the development of nutrition elements of the national vocational qualification for food preparation and cooking. [226959]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: No such meetings have taken place.

Pupil Funding (Crosby)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much public funding was spent on each school pupil in Crosby on average in each of the last seven years. [223882]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The information requested is collected at local education authority level. Crosby is part of Sefton LEA and the following table contains the information asked for:

Funding (real terms) per pupil aged 3–19

	Funding per pupil (£ million)
1997–98	2,740
1998–99	2,810
1999–2000	2,930
2000–01	3,200
2001–02	3,360
2002–03	3,480
2003–04	3,640
2004–05	3,770

Notes:

1. Price Base: real terms at 2003–04 prices, based on GDP deflators as at 30 September 2004.
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of education SSA/EFS settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC.
3. Total funding also includes all revenue grants in DfES departmental expenditure limits relevant to pupils aged 3–19 and exclude EMAs and grants not allocated at LEA level.
4. The pupil numbers used to convert m figures to per pupil are those underlying the SSA/EFS settlement calculations plus PLASC three-year-old maintained pupils and estimated three to four-year-olds funded through state support in maintained and other educational institutions where these are not included in the SSA pupil numbers.
5. Rounding: figures are rounded to the nearest £10.
6. Status: 2003–04 and 2004–05 figures are provisional as some grants have yet to be finalised/audited.

School Buildings (North-West)

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills (1) how many schools have been refurbished since 1997 in (a) Liverpool, Riverside, (b) Liverpool, (c) Merseyside and (d) the North-West; [223982]

(2) how many new schools have been built since 1997 in (a) Liverpool, Riverside, (b) Liverpool local education authority, (c) Merseyside and (d) the North-West. [223984]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: We do not hold this level of detailed information centrally. The information will be held locally. Much of the Department's support for capital investment is allocated to local authorities and schools so that investment decisions can be made locally, based on asset management planning processes. We have, however, made available significant capital support. Last November we announced capital allocations covering the next three years. This means that schools in Liverpool, Merseyside and the North-West will benefit from the following investment:

2005–06 to 2007–08

	£ million
North-West	652.7
Merseyside	146.3
of which:
Liverpool	37.7

In addition, Knowsley, Lancashire and Manchester are in wave 1 of Building Schools for the Future, and are due to receive investment under that programme from 2005–06. Liverpool will be in wave 2 (2006–07), and Salford and Tameside will be in wave 3 (2007–08). Building Schools for the Future aims to renew, refurbish and transform the secondary schools' estate over 15 waves.

School Catering

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the reasons were for introducing a new vocational qualification for school catering managers and staff from April. [223934]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: In 2004, the Department for Education and Skills in partnership with the Food Standards Agency funded research that looked at school lunch standards in 79 secondary schools in England. It found that pupils made healthier food choices in those schools where catering staff had received training. It is for this reason that we are developing a new qualification for school catering staff.

School Funding (Wimbledon)

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much public funding has been spent on computers for schools in Wimbledon in each of the last seven years. [224244]

Derek Twigg: The Department does not hold information on funding for ICT in schools at constituency level. However, Wimbledon is in Merton LEA and allocations for this authority since 1998 are detailed in "Funding for ICT in Schools in England" which is available in the House Library.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much funding each school in Wimbledon has received under the new deal for schools. [224245]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Merton local education authority (LEA) was allocated the following amounts under the four phases of new deal for schools (NDS):

£000

Period	NDS funding
1997/98	360
1998/99	1,287
1999/2000	1,217
2000/01	1,922

Of the funding included in the table, Wimbledon schools received £106,998. Information on other projects is not held centrally.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much public funding has been spent on repairing schools in Wimbledon in each year since 1997. [224246]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: The following table indicates the level of capital funding allocated to Merton local education authority since 1997:

£000

Period	Total capital allocation
1996/97	383
1997/98	583
1998/99	2,022
1999/2000	4,214
2000/01	5,032
2001/02	12,574
2002/03	[1]71,923
2003/04	7,293
2004/05	5,836

[1] Includes £56,600,000 of PFI credits.

Decisions regarding how the allocation is spent are taken locally by the local education authority. Information is not held centrally on how much is spent on repairing each school in Wimbledon.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many teaching assistants there were in schools in Wimbledon (a) in each of the last seven years and (b) on the latest date for which figures are available. [224247]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Information on the number of teaching assistants in service is collected in January of each year. The following table shows the number of teaching assistants in maintained schools in Wimbledon from 1997 to 2004, the latest information available.

Full-time equivalent number of teaching assistants

	Teaching assistants
1997	70
1998	80
1999	80
2000	90
2001	110
2002	100
2003	100
2004	150

Notes:
1. Figures include non-maintained special.
2. Teaching assistant figures include nursery assistants, special needs and support staff and minority ethnic pupil support staff.
3. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Synthetic Phonics

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will undertake a review of the National Literacy Strategy following the publication of the Clackmannanshire research into synthetic phonics teaching of reading. [223996]

Derek Twigg: The National Literacy Strategy has constantly evolved since its introduction in 1998 in response to the latest research. This will continue to be the case.

The Clackmannanshire study is a valuable piece of research which highlights the importance of having a well structured and direct programme of synthetic phonics teaching in schools. It lends further weight to the approach to teaching reading and spelling advocated by the National Literacy Strategy which has at its heart early and direct instruction in synthetic phonics, very similar to the teaching methods trialled in Clackmannanshire.

While the pupils who took part in the Clackmannanshire study made significantly faster gains than pupils in the control group, their attainment in reading comprehension was broadly the same as that achieved by an average 11-year-old in an English school who would be taught using the National Literacy Strategy.

Teachers (Key Stage 3)

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what estimate she has made of the number of Key Stage 3 teachers who are (a) not fully qualified in the subject they are teaching and (b) not fully qualified to teach the age group they are teaching. [223893]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Details of the qualifications held by secondary school teachers in the subject they teach are available but cannot be split by Key Stage level. The information was published in table 24 of the Statistics of Education, School Workforce in England Volume, 2004 edition, a copy of which has been placed in the House of Commons Library. Alternatively it may be accessed at the following URL: http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/VOL/v000554/index.shtml

No estimate has been made of the number of Key Stage 3 teachers who are not fully trained to teach at that level.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION

Referendums

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission which EU institutions may be permitted participants in a referendum, under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000; and if he will make a statement. [224264]

Mr. Viggers: Section 105(1) of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (PPERA) sets out the definition of 'permitted participant' in relation to a particular referendum to which Part VII of that Act applies. Ultimately, it would be for the courts to decide whether any particular body falls within the scope of this definition in relation to any particular referendum.

As I informed the hon. Member for Vauxhall (Kate Hoey) on 7 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1666–67W, The Electoral Commission has already indicated that it does not regard the European Commission as falling into any of the categories of organisation that can be a permitted participant in a referendum on the EU Constitution. Beyond this, the Commission has not expressed any views on whether EU institutions may be permitted participants in any particular referendum to which Part VII of PPERA applies.

PRIME MINISTER

Audiences with the Queen

Mr. Allen: To ask the Prime Minister if he will ask Her Majesty the Queen to allow cameras to film (a) the audience he has with Her Majesty when he requests the dissolution of Parliament and (b) the audience Her Majesty has with the person invited to form the next Government. [224567]

The Prime Minister: I have no plans to do so.

Iraq War (Legal Advice)

Adam Price: To ask the Prime Minister what classification the Attorney-General's legal advice on the use of force in Iraq has under the Official Secrets Act 1989. [224458]

The Prime Minister: The Official Secrets Act does not prescribe any classification system for Government documents.

Adam Price: To ask the Prime Minister whether the Government (a) showed the Attorney-General's legal advice on the use of force in Iraq to and (b) discussed the legal advice with the US Administration. [224459]

The Prime Minister: It is not the practice of the Government to make public details of all discussions with foreign Governments.

Lord Birt

Norman Baker: To ask the Prime Minister whether Lord Birt has requested that his position be turned into a paid one. [224024]

The Prime Minister: There are no plans to change Lord Birt's status as an unpaid adviser.

Sudan

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Prime Minister what discussions he has had with the Government of Sudan regarding the situation in Darfur. [224087]

The Prime Minister: We are in constant contact with the Government of Sudan about the crisis in Darfur, both at ministerial and official level. I visited Sudan in October last year, and since then the embassy in Khartoum has monitored commitments given to me during that visit. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development (Hilary Benn) and my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary (Mr. Straw) recently met the Sudanese Foreign Minister in London on 10 February.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Arts Council Grants (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding theatres in Leicester have received from the Arts Council since 1997. [223639]

Estelle Morris: Total grant in aid funding from Arts Council England for theatres in Leicester since 1999 is shown in the table:

	Total grant in aid funding
1999–2000	942,150
2000–01	971,965
2001–02	993,420
2002–03	1,279,151
2003–04	1,379,360
2004–05	1,467,332

Information regarding funding between 1997 and 1999 could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Institute of Sport Reviews

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will list the external reviews that have been undertaken into (a) the United Kingdom

Institute of Sport and (b) the English Institute of Sport; and if she will place a copy of each report in the Library. [222157]

Mr. Caborn: An external review of the English Institute of Sport was conducted by KPMG in June 2003. A copy of the report will shortly be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

There have been no external reviews of the United Kingdom Institute of Sport.

Licensing

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will make a statement on how the new licensing regulations will apply to eating establishments. [224195]

Mr. Caborn: The Licensing Act 2003 affects eating establishments to the extent that they carry out any licensable activities—that is, the sale by retail of alcohol; the provision of regulated entertainment; and the supply of late night refreshment (i.e. the provision of hot food or drink to members of the public between the hours of 11 pm and 5 am for consumption on or off the premises). For example, the proprietor of a restaurant with a bar which currently has a justices' licence permitting the sale of alcohol under Part IV of the Licensing Act 1964 will need to convert to a premises licence. He can apply to extend his hours and/or provide regulated entertainment under the same licence. Further details of how and in what circumstances applications could and should be made can be found on our website (www.culture.gov.uk < http://www.culture.gov.uk >) under alcohol and entertainment.

Olympic Bid

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what undertakings the Government have given to the London Olympic Bid team on meeting shortfalls in the budget for a London Olympics should the bid be successful. [223707]

Tessa Jowell: The costs of staging and operating a London Olympic Games would be met and managed by the London Organising Committee for the Olympic Games (LOCOG). In line with the requirements made by the International Olympic Committee of candidate cities, the UK Government have provided a guarantee that underwrites these costs.

Mr. David Marshall: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which locations outside London the International Olympic Committee visited during its recent visit. [224292]

Tessa Jowell: The International Olympic Committee (IOC) Evaluation Commission decided only to visit those venue locations outside the Greater London area which have not previously held World Class Events. The locations visited were: Broxbourne, Hertfordshire (canoe slalom); Weald, Essex (mountain biking); and Eton Dorney, Berkshire (rowing and flat water canoeing).

Playing Fields (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many playing fields that were in use in 1997 in Leicester, South constituency are no longer used for that purpose. [223655]

Mr. Caborn: This information is not held centrally. Through Active Places we are creating a new database which, from June 2005, will be able to identify the current stock of playing pitch provision and how that changes over time.

The Government have dramatically reduced the overall number of sales of both school and community playing fields, by introducing legislative changes and improving checks to the planning system.

We fully support the recent upgrade of the rules governing the sale of school playing fields. As a result of the changes, the sale of a school playing field must now be an absolute last resort, sale proceeds must be used to improve outdoor facilities wherever possible and new sports facilities must be sustainable for at least 10 years.

Sport (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assistance the Government have given to (a) amateur sports clubs and (b) sport in schools in York since 1997. [224592]

Mr. Caborn: In April 2002 the Government introduced the Community Amateur Sports Club (CASC) scheme. It provides such clubs with a relief of 80 per cent. on their non-domestic rates and Gift Aid on donations from individuals, as part of a wider package of benefits intended to promote community and grass roots sport.

More than 2,400 clubs have so far registered with the scheme and received an estimated total of £5 million in tax reliefs as a result of doing so.

21 clubs in York are enjoying the benefits of CASC status.

In 2002 we launched the first ever comprehensive national physical education, school sport and club links strategy with an investment of £459 million. Two school sport partnerships involving seven School Sport Co-ordinators and 31 Primary Link teachers are based at Oaklands and Burnholme schools in the City of York.

Sport England

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what criteria are used to assess Sport England's performance in meeting the Government's criteria for (a) partnership with and (b) funding of voluntary sector organisations. [224306]

Mr. Caborn: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport assesses Sport England's performance at quarterly meetings, on the basis of our Funding Agreement. The current Funding Agreement contains no references to criteria for partnership with, or funding of voluntary sector organisations.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what provisions are included in Sport England's contract with national governing bodies of sport under the Whole Sport Funding Plan concerning (a) public announcements, (b) confidentiality, (c) disrepute and (d) adverse comments about Sport England. [224307]

Mr. Caborn: The following provisions are incorporated within Sport England's contracts with national governing bodies of sport under the Whole Sport Plan funding arrangements:

(a) Public Announcements

There are no specific clauses in the agreement as currently drafted that refer to public announcements. The agreement does not prevent Governing Bodies from making public announcements about Sport England, although Sport England does ask for prior consultation before any press announcement is released.

(b) Confidentiality

The agreement requests that neither party disclose information relating to the agreement, its subject matter, the negotiations or the other party unless that information is publicly available or is required to be disclosed by law, provided that Sport England shall disclose all information it holds that it is required to disclose in compliance with the Freedom of Information Act and the Governing Body shall assist Sport England if required in order that Sport England may comply with its obligations under this Act. The clause relating to confidentiality places reciprocal obligations and is intended to protect the interests of both parties.

(c) Disrepute

The agreement provides that neither party shall act in a way that brings the Governing Body's sport, sport or Sport England into disrepute. This does not prevent adverse comments and complaints being made about Sport England through the appropriate channels. If there is any case of genuine misadministration, there is nothing in the agreement to prevent the Governing Body from raising this and pursuing any appropriate means of redress,

(d) Adverse Comment

There is no mention of adverse comment in the body of agreement and no restrictions on Governing Bodies making adverse comments, subject to the disrepute clause. There is a requirement in Annex 3 that athletes who are funded or supported by a Sport England award agree not to make adverse comments about his or her sport, sport in general or Sport England.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the (a) staff head count was and (b) total salary costs were at Sport England in each year since 2000. [224308]

Mr. Caborn: The table provides a breakdown of figures for the number of staff and annual salary costs for Sport England since 2001–02:

	2001–02 Actuals		2002–03 Actuals		2003–04 Actuals		2004–05 Projections
	Number of staff	Cost (£000)	Number of staff	Cost (£000)	Number of staff	Cost (£000)	Number of staff	Cost (£000)
North East	20	504	22	664	20	633	14	561
Yorkshire	20	557	21	602	12	634	18	644
East Midlands	14	529	17	643	15	644	11	567
East	20	541	19	579	18	658	15	613
London	22	642	22	717	20	818	18	810
South East	29	864	30	934	19	826	21	767
South West	19	531	21	624	22	639	17	670
West Midlands	21	545	23	593	21	626	16	671
North West	25	721	23	792	15	692	18	718
Headquarters	258	12,463	200	12,469	124	8,750	127	6,677
Total	435	17,895	385	18,617	273	14,920	275	12,698

Sport England changed its accounting system for the 2001–02 year. Information is therefore not readily available for previous financial years.

The costs shown include posts funded through specific programmes by other agencies and temporary staff costs. The headcount numbers exclude posts funded through specific programmes and temporary staff as these can vary throughout the year. For 2001–02, the average number of externally funded staff was 42 and temporary staff was 96, bringing the total staff number to 573.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what representations have been received from sports national governing bodies about Sport England's Whole Sport Funding Plan. [224309]

Mr. Caborn: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 558W. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has subsequently received representations about Sport England's Whole Sport Plans from the Rugby Football Union (RFU), on behalf of the RFU, the Lawn Tennis Association, the Football Association and the England and Wales Cricket Board.

CABINET OFFICE

Contaminated Land

Llew Smith: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office when his department's business regulation team will publish the Remediation Licensing Task Force proposals for permitting on-site processing of contaminated soils. [224465]

Mr. Miliband: Cabinet Office officials have been involved in the work of the Remediation Licensing Task Force. However, the Environment Agency is the regulator responsible for enforcing the new system. The Agency published a press release, along with a supporting regulatory guidance note setting out the changes, on 29 March 2005. The announcement was welcomed by the Environmental Industries Commission.

Waste Policy

Dr. Whitehead: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office whether the review to assess the merits of focusing all central Government's waste policy in one Department undertaken by his Department following the Strategy Unit's Report, Waste not want not, has been completed; and what date he has planned for the publication of its conclusions. [224301]

Mr. Miliband: The Cabinet Office expect to finalise this review shortly and to publish its conclusions during the summer.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Annunciator System

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission (1) if he will bring forward changes to the current practices of television annunciator use on the parliamentary estate so that sets do not turn on automatically in non-public spaces; [222398]

(2) what steps are taken to ensure that television sets on the parliamentary estate are not automatically activated on non-sitting days. [222509]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: There are different types of annunciator and television sets on the parliamentary estate, all of which are presently pre-set to turn on each working day in public and non public spaces whether or not the House is sitting. It would be possible to set them to be off on non-sitting days. But the majority are older style annunciators which cannot be switched on by means of remote handset and are sited out of easy reach. They could therefore be switched on individually only at disproportionate cost.

Misuse of House of Commons Facilities

Mr. Steen: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission when he expects the Serjeant at Arms to report on the alleged misuse of House prepaid envelopes by the hon. Member for Teignbridge (Richard Younger-Ross). [223948]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: This is not a matter for the Commission. Any complaints that the rules on the use of House stationery and post-paid envelopes have been breached are considered by the Serjeant at Arms on behalf of Mr. Speaker.

Printer Cartridges

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission if he will estimate how many printer cartridges used by offices on the parliamentary estate were (a) recycled and (b) added to the general waste stream in the last year for which figures are available. [222399]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: In the current financial year, the Serjeant at Arms Department has sent 1,066 printer cartridges for recycling. Members are encouraged to hand cartridges to Office Keepers for recycling but many prefer to send them to other organisations or charities to be recycled. In addition, 120 photocopier toner cartridges have been recycled. Since Members place orders to purchase cartridges for their parliamentary and constituency offices directly with suppliers, the total number purchased is unknown.

Waste

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission what targets have been set to reduce the amount of waste material produced on the parliamentary estate; and if he will make a statement on the outcomes measured against those targets. [222327]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: It is the House's policy to minimise waste, but no quantified targets have been set.

TREASURY

Alcohol/Tobacco (Tax Revenues)

Paul Flynn: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total tax revenues earned from alcohol and tobacco were in the UK in each year since 1975, broken down by (a) duty paid and (b) tax raised from alcohol and tobacco. [223703]

John Healey: Tobacco and alcohol duty revenue figures are published by HM Customs and Excise in the Tobacco and Alcohol Factsheets, copies of which are available in the Library of the House and from Customs' website: www.uktradeinfo.com

The above website provides 10 years' information on tobacco and alcohol duty revenues. HM Customs and Excise do not collect data on VAT from individual goods or services, but the above website provides broad estimates of VAT on alcohol and tobacco in recent years. The back series of duty revenues are shown in the Office for National Statistics publication "Financial Statistics", table 2.1D, which is available at the ONS website: www.statistics.gov.uk

Annual Growth Rate

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps the (a) UK and (b) EU economies are taking to meet the objective of 3 per cent. annual growth to bridge the economic gap with the United States. [224142]

Mr. Timms: The European Council concluded at its spring meeting this year that > 'it is essential to relaunch the Lisbon Strategy without delay and re-focus priorities on growth and employment'.

The Government are committed to promoting economic reform at home and in Europe. And they continue to work closely with other member states and the Commission to advance structural reform.

The Government's annual report sets out the measures and reforms they believe are required to deliver the Lisbon objective. The 2005 report, "Growth and Opportunity: prioritising economic reform in Europe",[1] was published in February this year. Further analysis was set out in the 2005 Budget companion document, "Long-term global economic challenges and opportunities for Europe".[2]

Burmese Community

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the size of the Burmese community in the UK. [223679]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Alistair Carmichael dated 4 April 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your parliamentary Question on the size of the Burmese community in the UK. (223679)

The Office for National Statistics does not collect and code information specifically on those persons identifying themselves as ethnically Burmese.

We do, however, collect and code information on country of birth in the census of population, such that persons who reported Myanmar (Burma) as their country of birth can be estimated every 10 years. The number of persons born in Myanmar and resident in the United Kingdom at the time of the 2001 census was 9,922.

Among those born in Myanmar and resident in the United Kingdom at the time of the 2001 census, the main ethnic groups were as follows: white, 3,759 people (38 per cent); mixed ethnic group, 1,792 people (18 per cent); Indian, 1,049 people (11 per cent); and other ethnic group, 2,838 people (29 per cent).

Cabinet Office Budget

Llew Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to increase the Cabinet Office budget to enable the Government's Chief Scientific Adviser to enhance the advice he can provide on security issues, as recommended in paragraph 27 of Cm 6492, Review of Intelligence on Weapons of Mass Destruction; Implementation of its Conclusions. [224464]

Mr. Miliband: I have been asked to reply.

The need to ensure access to relevant scientific expertise as part of the rigorous analysis of intelligence material has been recognised. As indicated in Cm6492, the increase in size of the Cabinet Office Assessments Staff will include at least one individual with a scientific background. All members of the Assessments Staff are tasked with ensuring that the relevant expert advice is sought as part of the assessment and analysis process. There are already significant scientific resources available to government on a wide range of subjects. Sir David King is being consulted on how best use of those resources in supporting analysis of security issues can be made.

Cancer

Mr. Gill: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people have under the age of 25 years suffered from cancer in (a) England, (b) the East Midlands and (c) Leicester South in each year since 1997. [224284]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Parmjit Singh Gill, dated 4 April 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning the number of people under the age of 25 years who suffered from cancer in (a) England, (b) the East Midlands and (c) Leicester South in each year since 1997. (224284)

The most recent available figures are for the year 2001. The number of newly diagnosed cases of cancer in people under the age of 25 years registered in the years 1997 to 2001 are given in the table below for England, East Midlands Government Office Region and Leicester unitary authority (which includes the Leicester South Parliamentary Constituency). Information cannot be provided for Parliamentary Constituencies that are not coterminus with administrative areas.

Number of newly diagnosed cases of all cancers[1] in people aged under 25 years in England, the East Midlands, and Leicester, 1997–2001

Number of cases

	England	East Midlands (GOR)	Leicester unitary authority
1997	2,544	186	20
1998	2,465	197	17
1999	2,529	189	11
2000	2,576	207	14
2001	2,527	217	16

Church Buildings (Northern Ireland)

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will expand the VAT exemption scheme in Northern Ireland to cover all church buildings. [224068]

John Healey: The Listed Places of Worship Grant scheme was introduced while we negotiate with our European partners to secure a reduced rate of VAT for the repair and maintenance of listed places of worship. The Government recognise the importance of these buildings within their communities and that the need to use specialist craftsmen and costly materials means that their upkeep can be a heavy burden, particularly on small congregations. The same considerations do not apply to all places of worship.

Civil Service

Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which Departments and agencies he expects will be affected by the proposed reduction in civil service numbers; what account his Department has taken of local unemployment levels in preparation of these plans; and whether he expects that the proposed changes will affect civil servants employed in Southend-on-Sea. [223766]

Mr. Boateng: The planned levels of reductions in total and in detail were set out in the Spending Review 2004 White Paper, and are summarised in Chapter 2, Table 2.2.

It is for each Department to develop their own efficiency plans, including those for workforce reductions, taking into account their business needs. Departments are currently working through detailed implementation planning including location and local numbers, in consultation with all stakeholders including unions and staff. Departments will come forward with details of their plans as these are finalised.

Jobcentre Plus is due to close a Social Security Office in Southend-on-Sea on 1 April 2007. It is anticipated that staff will move to the Basildon Benefit Processing Centre.

In response to planned workforce changes, the Government have established the Efficiency and Relocation Support Programme to provide information and support to those affected.

Mr. Quentin Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will list the Departments and agencies in which the 12,500 reduction in civil service posts outlined in the Budget have been achieved. [223773]

Mr. Boateng: The following Departments have announced reductions in their workforce:

Environment, Food and Rural Affairs

Education and Skills

Ofsted

Trade and Industry

Work and Pensions

Health

HM Treasury

Inland Revenue and Customs and Excise

Defence

Office of the Deputy Prime Minister.

Currency Speculation Tax

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the Government's policy is on an international currency speculation tax. [224033]

Dawn Primarolo: Currency transaction taxation is a long-established idea that has recently re-emerged in international discussions on how to raise development financing. The Government are prepared to consider all proposals for raising international finance for development, but there would be significant technical problems with a tax of this sort and it is not being actively considered at the present time. We believe the International Finance Facility remains the most developed proposal for providing additional resources in the region of the required $50 billion estimated for meeting the Millennium Development Goals.

Customs and Excise

Mr. Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what his estimate is of the cost of funding additional travel to work by staff of the Droitwich Spa Customs and Excise following the closure of the office; [223768]

(2) with which Government Departments with offices in Worcestershire he has discussed the transfer of staff consequent on the closure of the Customs and Excise office in Droitwich Spa; [223770]

(3) whether staff transferred from the Customs and Excise office in Droitwich Spa will be offered permanent contracts in the Department to which they are transferred; [223771]

(4) what assessment he has made of the effect of the closure of the Droitwich Spa Customs and Excise office on (a) part-time and (b) flexible working staff. [223774]

Dawn Primarolo: Customs are looking at the feasibility of moving staff to their offices in Wolverhampton, Birmingham and possibly Coventry. No final decision has been taken as to where staff will be relocated and it is not possible to quantify any additional travelling costs.

Inland Revenue, DEFRA and the Crown Prosecution Service have been made aware of the position of Customs staff at Droitwich.

There is a mix of permanent and fixed term contract staff at Droitwich. The fixed term staff were originally employed on work that was not due to be retained at Droitwich on a permanent basis. The closure of Droitwich has not altered this position.

It is expected that permanent staff who choose to move to other Departments will do so on a permanent basis.

All staff based at Droitwich are being consulted on an individual basis about the practicalities of them following their work. An initial assessment has been completed and local managers are in the process of exploring options with each member of staff.Customs' Regional Head would be pleased to meet the hon. Member to explain where matters stand once the picture is clearer.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223432]

Mr. Timms: Resource and capital departmental expenditure limit (DEL) budgets up to 2007–08 are set out by department in annex C of Budget 2005. DEL budgets beyond 2007–08 will, as normal, be determined in future spending reviews.

Enhanced Capital Allowances

Mr. Watts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many companies have received enhanced capital allowances in each of the last three years; and what the total cost was. [224015]

Dawn Primarolo: The total number of companies that ticked a box on their Corporation Tax returns to show a claim to enhanced capital allowances (ECAs) on their annual investment in designated environmentally beneficial technologies, including cars with low carbon dioxide emissions is detailed as follows.

Companies claiming ECAs on their corporation tax return form[1]

	Number
2001–02	60
2002–03	848
2003–04[2]	1,412

[1] These numbers do not include claims to capital allowances made or amended after a company has sent in its corporation tax return for (CT600).
[2] Information for 2003–04 is not yet complete.

The actual costs to the Exchequer of ECAs are not available. However, an estimate of the expected cost of the scheme is set out in Table 3.1 on page 210 of the Budget report 2005.

Mr. Watts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment has been made of the application process for enhanced capital allowances. [224016]

Dawn Primarolo: There are no special rules for businesses claiming enhanced capital allowances for investments in environmentally beneficial technologies (ECAs). Businesses claim these allowances in their corporation or income tax returns, in the same way as they would claim other capital allowances. The Inland Revenue keep all processes connected with tax reliefs under regular review, and are not aware that businesses have any particular difficulty in claiming ECAs.

European Union

Mr. David Marshall: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total value is of the UK's financial contribution to the European Union since the UK joined. [224291]

Mr. Timms: The UK's total net contribution (i.e. gross contribution, after abatement, less public sector receipts) to the EC Budget over the period 1973–74 to 2003–04 was some £50.9 billion. The Government's latest estimate for 2004–05 is £4.3 billion (net contribution).

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the UK's (a) rebate from the EU, (b) net contribution to the EU excluding the rebate and (c) net contribution to the Common Agriculture Policy excluding the rebate has been in each year since the rebate was introduced; how the rebate is calculated; how it is affected by changes in the UK net contributions to (i) the EU and (ii) the CAP; and if he will make a statement. [224585]

Mr. Timms: The European Commission is directly and solely responsible for calculating the UK abatement. The formula for the calculation is set out in Article 4 of the Own Resources Decision (Council Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom of 29 September 2000 and explained in more detail in a Working Methods Paper first published in 1988 and revised in 1994 and 2000 (10646/00 ADD 2 of 21 September 2000). A more detailed explanation can be found in the Glossary of the 2004 "European Community Finances" White Paper (Cm 6134, page 26).

The UK rebate and net contribution to the EC Budget, excluding the rebate, for the period 1985–86 to 2003–04 are set out in the following table.

£ million

	UK Rebate	UK net contribution, excluding UK rebate
1985–86	823	1,815
1986–87	1,343	2,564
1987–88	1,137	2,948
1988–89	1,600	2,767
1989–90	1,317	3,769
1990–91	1,838	4,023
1991–92	2,428	3,371
1992–93	1,993	4,161
1993–94	2,350	4,542
1994–95	1,648	3,289
1995–96	1,576	5,428
1996–97	2,418	4,712
1997–98	1,563	4,130
1998–99	2,447	6,557
1999–2000	2,206	5,531
2000–01	2,223	6,541
2001–02	4,427	5,903
2002–03	3,233	6,314
2003–04	3,874	7,139

The Government's latest estimate of these two figures for 2004–05 are £3,722 million and £8,032 million respectively. The UK makes its contributions to the EC Budget as a whole and not to specific areas of expenditure. There is not therefore a UK net contribution to the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP).

Financial Inclusion Fund

Mr. Battle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Financial Inclusion Fund will be set up; how applications to it will be made; and if he will make a statement. [223906]

Mr. Timms: The 2004 pre-Budget report announced a Financial Inclusion Fund of £120 million over the 2004 Spending Review period. In particular, the fund will support the Government's aims to increase access to forms of affordable credit and to see a significant increase in the capacity of free face-to-face money advice. Further details will be announced shortly.

High Energy Manufacturing Industries

Mr. Watts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will take steps to reduce taxation on high energy manufacturing industries. [224492]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government conducts an on-going dialogue with representatives across the manufacturing industry. The Chancellor will consider any changes to the corporate tax system as part of the normal Budget cycle.

Job Creation (Wimbledon)

Roger Casale: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many new jobs have been created in Wimbledon since 1997. [224243]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been ask to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Roger Casale, dated 4 April 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about the number of jobs created in Wimbledon. (224243)

While statistics of new jobs created are not available explicitly, statistics from surveys enable comparisons to be made of net changes in numbers of jobs from year to year.

The attached table shows the number of jobs in Wimbledon from 1997 to 2003 and the net change over that period. This is the latest period for which information is available.

The Annual Business Inquiry and Annual Employment Survey, are sample surveys and therefore the estimates used in this answer are subject to sampling variability. The small change in the number of jobs in Wimbledon from 1997 to 2003 should therefore be treated with caution.

Number of employee jobs and change in jobs[1,2] in the parliamentary constituency of Wimbledon: 1997 to 2003

	Number
1997	43,000
1998	45,000
1999	48,000
2000	50,000
2001	48,000
2002	46,000
2003	43,000
Change[3] in number of jobs since 1997	-1,000

[1] Excludes self-employed jobs.
[2] These figures are aggregates from which agriculture class 0100 (1993 SIC) have been excluded.
[3] The change from 1997 to 2003 has been rounded to the nearest thousand separately from rounded levels.

Listed Places of Worship

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will allow listed places of worship under his Listed Places of Worship Grant Scheme to reclaim VAT paid on renovations and improvements which are designed to meet the requirements of the Disability Discrimination Act 2000. [224025]

John Healey: There is already a VAT zero rate for approved alterations to certain listed buildings, including places of worship. There is also a VAT zero rate for certain works to improve facilities for disabled people within charity buildings.

Most works of renovation and improvement to listed places of worship which are necessary to comply with the Disability Discrimination Act will come within the scope of these reliefs or are covered by the Listed Places of Worship Grant scheme.

Nuclear Plants

Llew Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the effect on tax revenue of the implementation of Statutory Instruments No. 644, of 10 March, in respect of the Thorp nuclear reprocessing plant and the Sellafield Mox plant, over the full period of the operation of those plants. [224043]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not expected that any tax will be lost to the Exchequer. Statutory Instrument 2005/644 is expected to protect tax revenues as the activities it deals with are likely to be loss-making for tax purposes. The background to this and the purpose of the legislation was set out in more detail in the explanatory notes to Section 27 of the Energy Act 2004.

Part-time Workers (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many (a) male and (b) female part-time workers there are in City of York parliamentary constituency. [224643]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. Hugh Bayley, dated 4 April 2005:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about part-time employment in the City of York Parliamentary Constituency. (224643)

According to responses to the Labour Force Survey (LFS) sample survey for the twelve month period ending in February 2004, among people resident in the City of York Parliamentary Constituency 3,000 men and 13,000 women were working part-time.

These estimates from the LFS are, as with any statistical sample survey, subject to sampling variability.

Pension Funds

Mr. Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to change the limits on the commutation of small pension funds into lump sums. [224261]

Mr. Timms: From 6 April 2006 there will be a facility for pension scheme members to commute trivial pensions and take the pension as a lump sum, where pension benefits have a total capital value of less than 1 per cent. of the lifetime allowance. The lifetime allowance will be £1.5 million at its introduction in April 2006, rising to £1.8 million by 2010. So, at the introduction of the simplified tax regime, the trivial commutation threshold will be £15,000. People in this position will be able to choose a year falling between their 60th and 75th birthdays in which all trivial pensions may be commuted.

The trivial commutation rules ensure that members will not be forced to purchase an annuity with very small amounts of pension savings which could prove to be uneconomic and disproportionately bureaucratic for both schemes and members.

The rules are the result of extensive consultation prior to legislation. As part of this consultation the Government published "Simplifying the taxation of pensions: increasing flexibility for all" (December 2002) and "Simplifying the taxation of pensions: the Government's proposals" (December 2003).

Property Values (Lancashire)

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many properties valued at between £60,000 and £120,000 there are in (a) Lancashire and (b) Chorley. [223788]

Dawn Primarolo: The Valuation Office does not hold statistics on the numbers of residential property within the value range indicated at current levels of value. The Valuation List however lists all residential property in England according to capital value as at 1 April 1991 for council tax purposes. As at 31 October 2004 residential properties in Lancashire (including Chorley) and Chorley were assessed for council tax in the following bands:

CT band	Value range (£)	Total Lancashire	Total Chorley
A	Up to 40,000	258,145	13,836
B	40,001 to 52,000	123,626	9,733
C	52,001 to 68,000	112,203	8,241
D	68,001 to 88,000	68,841	5,485
E	88,001 to 120,000	39,431	4,133

The Valuation Offices's property market report indicates that levels of value in Lancaster for an average semi-detached property increased some 135 per cent. between spring 1991 and July 2004.

Southend

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many persons aged 17 and under have lived in Southend in each year since 1995. [223976]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. David Amess, dated 4 April 2005:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your question concerning the number of people aged 17 and under that have lived in Southend in each year since 1995. (223976)

Below is a table showing the 1995 to 2003 mid-year population estimates for those aged 17 and under within Southend Unitary Authority.

Stability and Growth Pact

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the likely effect on the economies of EU countries of the recent changes to the operation of the Stability and Growth Pact. [224141]

Mr. Timms: The Government have consistently argued for a prudent interpretation of the Stability and Growth Pact that takes account of country-specific factors including debt sustainability, the economic cycle and public investment.

Tax Avoidance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what measures he is planning to put in place to enhance anti-avoidance measures for tax purposes at an international level. [224032]

Dawn Primarolo: The Chancellor announced a package of anti avoidance measures during his Budget speech which tackle the avoidance of UK tax by international tax planning.

Measures were announced to prevent the avoidance of capital gains tax by individuals and trusts. Action has also been taken to prevent individuals and companies manipulating the rules that give relief for overseas tax, and to strengthen the existing controlled foreign company rules.

Anti avoidance measures were also announced by the Chancellor which affect both UK and international avoidance, including action against avoidance through arbitrage, persons who act together and collectively control a business and avoidance using shares and derivatives in place of loans.

The Government are committed to creating a fairer tax system. Artificial and contrived tax avoidance schemes undermine fairness, at the expense of those who do not indulge in them.

Tax Credits

John Thurso: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1064W, on tax credits, whether the omission of earnings of one partner on tax credits awards issued in 2003–04 occurred as a result of (a) human processing error and (b) a computer systems failure. [222429]

Dawn Primarolo: My earlier answer stated that the Inland Revenue is aware of a small number of occasions in 2003–04 when the earnings of one partner were omitted in a joint tax credits award. This error occurred when staff did not follow the correct procedure to update the tax credits computer system with more recent information about income.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the take-up of (a) working tax credit, (b) child tax credit and (c) child care tax credit was in 2003–04. [223763]

Dawn Primarolo: Estimates of the take-up rate of child and working tax credit will not be available until household survey data for 2003–04 have been analysed. Subject to ensuring the data and methodology are sufficiently robust, we expect the analysis to be completed towards the end of 2005–06.

Latest statistics show that at 3 December 2004 5.9 million families were benefiting from these tax credits.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will extend Table 3 on page 30 of "Tax credits: reforming financial support for families" (March 2005) so as to show marginal deduction rates of over 50 per cent. and over 40 per cent. (a) before 1998 and (b) in 2005–06. [224664]

Dawn Primarolo: The table is an extension of table 4.3 in "Tax credits: reforming financial support for families", and also of table 4.2 in Budget 2005 (HC 372).

Marginal deduction rate (percentage)	Before budget 1998	2005–06 system of tax and benefits
Over 100	5,000	0
Over 90	130,000	30,000
Over 80	300,000	165,000
Over 70	740,000	235,000
Over 60	760,000	1,730,000
Over 50	760,000	1,900,000
Over 40	800,000	2,095,000

Figures are cumulative. This table shows marginal deduction rates for working households in receipt of income related benefits or tax credits, where at least one person works 16 hours or more a week, where the head of the household is not disabled, and where higher earnings would lead to reduced benefits or tax credits. They include the marginal effects of income tax and national insurance contributions, and the withdrawal of housing benefit and council tax benefit.

This analysis does not take into account the way in which the new tax credits will respond to rises in income. The new tax credits only respond to rises in income in the current year of more than £2,500, disregarding the first £2,500 of any rise. This means that recipients will not see their tax credits reduced as soon as their income rises, so reducing the effective marginal deduction in any one year.

As a result of the Government's reforms, around half a million fewer low-income households now face marginal deduction rates in excess of 70 per cent. than did so in April 1998. The increase in the number of households facing marginal deduction rates of between 40 and 70 per cent. is primarily due to the introduction of tax credits, and more recently the extension of support to workers aged 25 or over without children. The number of heads that face an excess of 70 per cent. has fallen. This is because administrative data suggests a reported fall in the number of families on multiple tapers, i.e. non-disabled persons working more than 16 hours in receipt of tax credits and housing benefit and/or council tax benefit.

Tax Rates (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in (a) the UK, (b) Yorkshire and the Humber and (c) the City of York pay (i) half or more than half of their income tax and (ii) all of their income tax at the 10 pence starting rate. [224686]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer my hon. Friend to table 2.1 "Number of individual income taxpayers" on the Inland Revenue website www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/income_tax/table2-1.pdf. This table shows that 3.4 million income taxpayers in the UK in 2004–05 pay all of their income tax at the starting rate. 4.7 million UK income taxpayers pay half or more than half of their total income tax liability at the starting rate. These estimates are based upon the Survey of Personal Incomes 2002–03 and are consistent with the pre-Budget report 2004. Estimates consistent with the Budget 2005 will be published on the Inland Revenue website at the end of April 2005.

I refer the hon. Friend to table 3.11 "Income and tax, by region and country", 3.15 "Total income by parliamentary constituency" and the introductory note on personal incomes on the Inland Revenue website for the available income tax statistics for Yorkshire and the Humber and the City of York. The information can be found at www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/income_distribution/table311-0203.pdf, www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/income_distribution/table-3-15.pdf and www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/income_distribution/inc-distribution-note.pdf.

VAT (Child Care)

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the impact on the voluntary sector's ability to deliver welfare services of his decision to refund the VAT which local authorities incur in the provision of child care and children's centres. [224198]

Dawn Primarolo: Where the Government procure welfare services from voluntary and community sector providers, it should be on the basis of full cost recovery, including any associated VAT costs providers incur. This decision will therefore have no adverse impact on the delivery of welfare services by voluntary and community sector organisations.

Working Tax Credit

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his latest estimate is of the number of families eligible for, but not claiming, working tax credit in (a) Wales, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland, (d) England and (e) Bridgend; and what plans he has to improve take-up. [224303]

Dawn Primarolo: Information on the number of families eligible for, but not claiming working tax credit is not available.

Estimates of the number of UK families who are entitled to child and working tax credit in 2003–04 will not be published until household survey data have been analysed. Subject to ensuring the data and methodology are sufficiently robust, we expect the analysis to be completed towards the end of 2005–06.

Estimates of the number of in-work families receiving tax credits in each country and constituency appear in "Child and Working Tax Credit Statistics. Geographical analyses. December 2004." This can be found on the Inland Revenue website at http://www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/menu.htm. The estimates are based on a sample of cases, and are subject to sampling uncertainty.

For details of the Inland Revenue's work to encourage take-up, I refer the hon. Member to my reply on 24 March 2005, Official Report, columns 949–50W to the hon. Member for Coventry, South (Mr. Cunningham).

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people aged over 50 years have claimed the return to work element of the working tax credit in each quarter since the introduction of the payment. [224675]

Dawn Primarolo: Numbers of beneficiaries based on final 2003–04 incomes and circumstances will be published on 31 May 2005.

TRANSPORT

Air Fares

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether he has made an assessment of the likely effect on air fares of the new compensation rules agreed by the European Union in respect of air passengers; and if he will make a statement. [224151]

Charlotte Atkins: An assessment of the likely impact of Council Regulation 261/2004 on air fares was set out in the Regulatory Impact Assessment (RIA) accompanying Explanatory Memorandum 12190/03 sent to the Parliamentary Scrutiny Committees on 29 September 2003. A final, updated version of the RIA will be placed in the Llibraries of both Houses shortly as an annex to the RIA accompanying the UK's associated enforcement Regulations.

Air Travellers (Financial Protection)

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what estimate he has made of the percentage of UK international leisure air travellers that were covered by ATOL in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage his Department estimates will be covered in five years' time; [224609].

(2) if he will implement the Transport Select Committee's recommendation in its report, Financial Protection for Air Travellers, Fifteenth Report, Session 2003–04, to apply a levy on the sale of all tickets. [224610]

Charlotte Atkins: Statistics compiled by the Civil Aviation Authority indicate the percentage of UK international leisure air travellers covered by ATOL over the last 10 years was as follows:

	Leisure passengers (million)	ATOL protected passengers (million)	ATOL protected (percentage)
1994	22.7	17.0	75
1995	23.2	19.1	82
1996	22.2	21.3	96
1997	24.0	23.5	98
1998	27.4	25.0	91
1999	30.3	26.4	87
2000	33.5	28.0	84
2001	35.9	29.1	81
2002	36.8	27.9	76
2003	39.6	27.6	70

The Civil Aviation Authority has not yet submitted advice to Government on its economic assessment of the wider options relating to the future financial protection of air travellers. This advice will project ATOL protection over the next 10 years. Only when we have considered this advice will the Government be in a position to respond substantively to the Transport Select Committee.

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what research he has undertaken into the effectiveness of scheduled airline failure insurance as a means of repatriating those stranded overseas following airline failure; [224611]

(2) what percentage of air travellers his Department estimates are protected by scheduled airline failure insurance. [224612]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department has not commissioned research into the effectiveness of scheduled airline failure insurance, which allows stranded passengers to recover their costs of getting home. We understand from the insurance industry that some 7 million people are estimated to be protected by such insurance, bought either directly by the customer or indirectly via the agent selling the air ticket. This represents approximately 20 per cent. of the UK international leisure travel market.

Automatic Number Plate Recognition

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how long after a vehicle is (a) licensed for the first time and (b) relicensed the information about that licence is included on the database for Automatic Number Plate Recognition. [224517]

Mr. Jamieson: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency provides police automated number plate recognition cameras with details of vehicles which have been unlicensed for two months or more. From April this information will be provided twice monthly. Details of licensed vehicles are not provided.

As a separate exercise, the DVLA vehicle database is downloaded onto the Police National Computer every 24 hours. This gives the police access to information about the vehicle keeper and indicates if the vehicle has been unlicensed for more than three months.

Brighton Main Line

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he expects to issue his official response to the route utilisation study strategy for the Brighton Main Line. [224022]

Mr. McNulty: Consideration is being given to the issues raised during consultation and a final route utilisation strategy will be published in due course.

Crossrail

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what his Department's latest assessment is of the timescale for the implementation of the Crossrail project. [224164]

Mr. McNulty: Main construction of Crossrail could not start until the necessary powers are in place. A hybrid Bill seeking such powers was introduced on 22 February 2005. Previous experience, with the Channel Tunnel Rail Link Bill, suggests that the Crossrail Bill will not complete its passage before 2007. On that basis, the assumption remains that Crossrail services would start in 2013.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223445]

Charlotte Atkins: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary today.

East Midlands Airport

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will require the management of Nottingham East Midlands airport to provide full and frank factual information about its plans for expanding the number of night flights in and out of the airport. [224353]

Charlotte Atkins: We would expect the airport operator to include this information in its draft master plan, which is expected to be published for consultation during the summer.

Free Bus Passes

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether (a) pensioners and (b) people with disabilities wishing to travel by bus to neighbouring local authority areas will benefit from the free bus pass proposed in the Budget. [223985]

Charlotte Atkins: Concessionary fares schemes for older and disabled people are provided by non-metropolitan district councils, unitary councils, passenger transport executives and the London boroughs. Councils have the discretion to provide concessionary fares on journeys in neighbouring authorities, and authorities can agree to provide joint schemes over a wider area, such as a county, or a county and neighbouring unitary council. Many already do so and they will continue to be able to do so when the statutory minimum fare is increased from half fare to free fare in April 2006.

Freedom of Information Act

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what advice or instructions he has given to the Civil Aviation Authority about the need to deal expeditiously and candidly with requests from the public under the Freedom of Information Act 2000; and if he will make a statement. [224352]

Charlotte Atkins: The statutory guidance for public bodies on Freedom of Information, the Secretary of State for Constitutional Affairs' Code of Practice on the discharge of public authorities' functions under Part I of the Freedom of Information Act 2000, is produced by the Department of Constitutional Affairs. The document is on the internet at the following address http://www.foi.gov.uk/codepafunc.htm, and is available in the Library of the House.

The Department for Transport has not given any supplementary advice or instructions to the Civil Aviation Authority on handling Freedom of Information requests. However, the Department has provided its own internal guidance on Freedom of Information to the authority, to assist it in producing its own guidance.

In line with the Code of Practice, the Civil Aviation Authority has established its own complaints procedure; in the first instance, an applicant should pursue a complaint through this if he/she is dissatisfied with the authority's handling of a Freedom of Information request. If this process is exhausted and the applicant remains dissatisfied, the applicant may complain to the Information Commissioner.

General Lighthouse Fund

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the cost in each year since 2000 was of the provision by the UK General Lighthouse Fund of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters. [224204]

Mr. Jamieson: The contribution from the General Lighthouse Fund to the provision of navigational aids in the Republic of Ireland since 2000 is given as follows:

	£ million sterling
2000–01	4.4
2001–02	5.5
2002–03	5.8
2003–04	5.9

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether the UK General Lighthouse Fund is a public corporation. [224205]

Mr. Jamieson: The independent Office for National Statistics (ONS) is responsible for classifying economic entities in accordance with the European System of Accounts. The General Lighthouse Fund is classified by ONS as a public corporation.

Global Road Safety

Dr. Moonie: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what action his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take in response to UN resolution A/58/L60 on improving global road safety; and if he will make a statement; [224101]

(2) what action his Department has taken in response to the World Health Organisation and World Bank report on road traffic injury prevention of April 2004; what plans his Department has to work with road safety organisations towards meeting the report's objectives; and if he will make a statement; [224102]

(3) what mechanisms are in place to facilitate co-operation between his Department and the Department for International Development on global road safety issues; [224103]

(4) what contribution his Department has made to the pursuit of global road safety issues; and if he will make a statement; [224105]

(5) what action his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take in response to UN resolution A/58/L60 on improving global road safety; and if he will make a statement. [224106]

Mr. Jamieson: The joint World Health Organisation (WHO) and World Bank "World report on road traffic injury prevention" focused attention on the global impact of road accidents on low and middle income countries. The Department for Transport also welcomes the UN resolution on improving road safety. The resolution noted the recommendations of the World Report and invited the WHO to act as co-ordinator on road safety issues.

The Global Road Safety Partnership (GRSP) was founded in 1999 to increase awareness of road safety and promote reductions in deaths and serious injury resulting from road traffic accidents in developing and transition countries. GRSP is a partnership between businesses and governments and is sponsored by the Department for International Development.

Department for Transport officials support the activities of WHO in this area and are presently participating in work on child injury prevention. We recognise the problems faced by developing countries and have provided support where we are able, including sponsoring a conference on driver training and testing, held in India in 2002.

Highways Agency Business Plan

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when the Highways Agency Business Plan 2005–06 will be published; and on what date in 2004 the Business Plan for 2004–05 was published. [224207]

Mr. Jamieson: The Highways Agency Business Plan 2005–06 was published on 24 March 2005 and the Business Plan for 2004–05 was published on 30 March 2004.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for what reason the Highways Agency Business Plan 2005–06 includes no reference to improving the A358 between Ilminster and the M5; and if he will make a statement. [224501]

Mr. Jamieson: The Highways Agency's Business Plan 2005–06 sets out the forward programme of major schemes to be progressed in the period 2005–06 to 2007–08. Schemes expected to be taken forward after 2007–08, including the proposed improvement to the A358 between Ilminster and the M5, are not included in the Plan.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he will announce whether schemes set out in the Highways Agency Business Plan 2005–06 as awaiting inclusion in the Targeted Programme for Improvements are to be included. [224502]

Mr. Jamieson: All the schemes set out in the Highways Agency Business Plan 2005–06 as awaiting inclusion in the Targeted Programme of Improvements (TPI), with the exception of M11 J8–9 Widening, were added to the TPI on 24 March 2005.

In respect of the M11 J8–9 scheme, the Highways Agency has been asked to undertake further work so that it can be considered for entry to the TPI as soon as possible.

Liquid Natural Gas Tanker Shipments

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the suitability of Milford Haven for liquid natural gas tanker shipments; and if he will make a statement. [224547]

Mr. Jamieson: The Department has not made any assessment of the suitability of Milford Haven for liquid natural gas shipments. Comprehensive risk assessments have, however, been undertaken by the statutory undertaker, the Milford Haven Port Authority.

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the conclusions of the Health and Safety Executive's quantitative risk assessment of the liquid natural gas tankers proposed for Milford Haven; and if he will make a statement. [224548]

Mr. Jamieson: Neither the Department nor the Maritime and Coastguard Agency, the UK's competent authority for regulating shipping, are aware of any risk assessment of natural gas tankers undertaken by the HSE.

The HSE has assessed the risk associated with storage and transport of liquefied natural gas at Milford Haven, and it is for the Harbour Authority to draw on this in producing its own comprehensive risk assessment. The Department for Transport has not made any assessment of the suitability of Milford Haven for liquid natural gas operations.

Local Authority Grants

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what grants local authorities in the South West Region have been allocated for transport for the spending period (a) SR02, (b) SR03 and (c) SR04. [224625]

Charlotte Atkins: The total amount of supported transport capital funding and targeted transport revenue grants provided to the 15 local transport authorities in the South West Region between the years 2002–03 to 2004–05 was approximately £514 million. Capital maintenance and integrated transport schemes (each costing less than £5 million) are supported through Revenue Support Grant. Funding support for major schemes (each costing more than £5 million) has been provided through a combination of direct grants and borrowing supported through Revenue Support Grant.

The following table sets out the grants for each year.

£ million

South West— Nature of funding	2002–03	2003–04	2004–05
Capital maintenance	82.343	83.194	96.103
Integrated transport block	59.15	58.8	61.598
Targeted bus grants[1]	15.980	12.374	9.855
Major schemes	9.498	9.443	15.656
Total	166.971	163.811	183.212

[1] Includes Rural Bus Subsidy Grant and Rural Bus challenge funding

Rail Freight

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what plans he has to expand rail freight movements through Bassetlaw using the existing coal freight line network; [223857]

(2) what plans he has to re-open the railhead at Manton colliery. [223858]

Mr. McNulty: There are no current plans for the expansion of rail freight movements through Bassetlaw on the existing coal freight line network, or for the re-opening of the railhead at Manton Colliery.

Roads Budget

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what change is planned in the roads budget over the next five years; and which road improvement projects are projected to be (a) started and (b) completed during that period. [224134]

Mr. Jamieson: We announced last year investment funding for the next three years (2005–06, 2006–07, 2007–08) of £4.6 billion. This funding covers transport schemes delivered by local authorities, including local authority major road and public transport schemes, and planned investment funding for regionally important schemes delivered by the Highways Agency. This funding is in addition to the £1 billion programme of major improvements to strategic roads of national importance over the next three years announced by the Highways Agency in December 2004. Funding from 2008–09 onwards will be subject to the next Spending Review.

Under the regional and national funding allocations for 2005–06 to 2007–08 announced in November and December 2004, the following table lists the road schemes that are either under construction and will be complete, or are currently projected to commence, by April 2008, subject to completion of all necessary statutory procedures and compliance with conditions of funding approval.

A11 Attleborough Bypass

Speed Limits

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will require local authorities to make 20 mph the default speed limit outside schools. [223916]

Mr. Jamieson: The Department encourages local authorities to introduce 20 mph speed limits and 20 mph zones outside schools wherever appropriate, but recognises that particular circumstances at particular locations may make this inappropriate.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will require local authorities to make 30 mph the default speed limit in built-up areas. [223928]

Mr. Jamieson: Where built up areas have street lighting—as most do—30 mph is already the default speed limit, and local highway authorities are in any event able to set a 30 mph limit on any road.

Traffic Congestion

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what action is being taken to address congestion at the A14 and M11 junction. [224505]

Mr. Jamieson: Proposals to improve the A14 and M11 junction at Girton in Cambridgeshire are included in the proposed A14 Ellington to Fen Ditton Improvement. Public Consultation on proposals for the scheme started on 30 March 2005.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what action is being taken to address traffic congestion at the M4 and M5 junction. [224504]

Mr. Jamieson: A study report was produced in 1998–99 which recommended measures to reduce congestion at the M4/M5 Almondsbury Interchange. Of these recommendations two schemes, to improve the M4 westbound to M5 slip road diverge and the M5 south to M4 east slip road, have been completed. Both of these schemes improved capacity and safety by widening of the carriageway and providing additional lanes.

Further work is also taking place on a wider look at future transport needs for the area through the Greater Bristol Strategic Transport Study. Almondsbury Interchange and the nearby M5 Junction 16 are specifically identified as problems for the study to consider.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what action is being taken to address traffic congestion at the M40 and A46 junction. [224503]

Mr. Jamieson: The Highways Agency has recently improved the M40 and A46 junction at Longbridge in Warwickshire by resurfacing and widening the carriageway around the roundabout and on the slip roads. New traffic signals have also been installed. These measures will ease congestion in the short term.

Proposals to provide a bridge over the M40 and new link roads to further improve the capacity of this junction are included in the M40 Junction 15 (Longbridge) Improvement. Draft Orders for the scheme are expected to be published in the autumn, and subject to satisfactory completion of the statutory procedures, work on the scheme could start in spring 2007 and be completed by autumn 2008.

Train Services (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many trains between Leicester and London St. Pancras (a) have been cancelled in the last (i) three and (ii) six months and (b) were cancelled in 2004. [223646]

Mr. McNulty: The cancellation figures are as follows:

	From Leicester	From London	Total
(a)(i)	48	49	97
(a)(ii)	69	73	142
(b)	176	201	377

Transport Access (Disabled)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much has been spent on providing improved access to transport for disabled people on (a) buses and (b) the rail network in (i) England and (ii) Leicester South in each year since 1997. [224279]

Charlotte Atkins: Regulations introduced under Part 5 of the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) require that all new public service vehicles used on local and scheduled service with a carrying capacity of more than 22 passengers, and all new rail vehicles, have to be accessible to disabled people. In addition, duties under Part 3 of the DDA require service providers to take reasonable steps to provide access to transport infrastructure such as bus and railway stations.

Prior to July 2000 the Government provided funding to improve access to public transport through the Transport Policies and Programme (TPP) system. Local authorities were allocated funding for individual schemes on an annual basis. This system was replaced by the Local Transport Plan (LTP) process which takes a more strategic approach. Local transport authorities in England outside London produce 5-year LTPs, and report on progress against these plans in Annual Progress Reports (APRs). The first 5-year plans were submitted in 2000. The following table details the funding for bus grant schemes since their introduction in the 1998–99 financial year, allocated nationally and to the Central Leicestershire Local Transport Plan area, which includes Leicester, South. Decisions on how to target funding towards specific projects and initiatives such as those to improve public transport accessibility are made at local level.

[1] Includes Rural Bus Subsidy Grant and both Rural and Urban Bus challenge funding

On access to the rail network, I announced on the 22 March a £370 million Access for All Fund for improving the accessibility of railway stations. The SRA is currently consulting on their Disability Strategy and the outcome will determine how best to spend this extra money. In addition, by the end of this year more than 4,000 new fully accessible rail vehicles will have been introduced onto the network since 1997 at a cost of £4.2 billion. I note that many of these new trains serve Leicester station.

Zebra Crossings (Safety)

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road traffic accidents occurred on or near zebra crossings in each year since 1997. [224491]

Mr. Jamieson: The numbers of recorded injury road accidents which occurred on or near a zebra crossing in each year since 1997 are shown in the following table:

Number of accidents occurring on or near a zebra crossing: GB 1997–2003

	Fatal	Serious	Slight	All
1997	53	921	5,742	6,716
1998	49	843	5,775	6,667
1999	39	769	5,452	6,260
2000	34	722	5,046	5,802
2001	50	673	4,836	5,559
2002	45	727	4,794	5,566

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Building Regulations

Mr. Laws: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister when he plans to extend requirements to comply with building regulations to those ex-nationalised industries which are excluded; and when he expects to reach conclusions about minimising the range of Crown exemptions under these regulations. [224355]

Phil Hope: Amendments made to the Building Act 1984 by the Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004 will allow the exemption from the requirements of the Building Regulations granted to statutory undertakers to cease to have effect. The Government will shortly be consulting on the removal of this exemption.

At present the Crown has immunity from complying with the requirements of the Building Regulations. There is provision in the Building Act 1984 for the partial removal of this immunity. The Government would need to consult with those covered by the immunity about how far and how quickly it should be removed.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister when he expects to publish his proposed changes to part L of the Building Regulations; and if he will make a statement. [224358]

Phil Hope: Following a public consultation officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister are reviewing the proposed changes to part L in conjunction with a Working Party of the Building Regulations Advisory Committee. The proposals are expected to be finalised this summer and published at the first opportunity thereafter.

Business Rates

Brian Cotter: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many non-domestic hereditaments with a rateable value of less than £25,000 there are in each billing authority following the 2005 revaluation of non-domestic properties for business rates. [223989]

Mr. Raynsford: The information requested has been made available in the Library of the House.

Fair Trade Products (Best Value)

Mr. Alan Duncan: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will exempt Fair Trade products from the requirement on local authorities to purchase less expensive alternatives under the terms of their Best Value procurement obligations. [224232]

Mr. Raynsford: Local authorities are responsible for taking their own decisions on procurement within the framework of the European Union Treaty, the EU Procurement Directives, the regulations that implement them in the UK and other domestic legislation. Fair trade options have to be considered by local authorities within this framework. The duty of Best Value, as laid down in legislation, requires authorities to make arrangements to secure continuous improvement in the way in which they exercise their functions, having regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness. Best Value recognises that successful procurement strategies are likely to be based on whole life cost considerations that include subsequent revenue implications, and not simply the lowest initial tender price.

Fire Service (Assaults)

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many assaults there have been on fire crews in each year since 1997. [224112]

Mr. Raynsford: Since April 2004 fire and rescue authorities in England and Wales have been asked to report attacks on firefighters through the Fire or Incident of Special Interest (FOSI) system. The FOSI (attacks on firefighters) definition includes verbal abuse, acts of aggression, harassment, objects thrown at appliances and physical abuse. Since that time 605 incidents in England and Wales have been reported to the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister.

Housing

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many homeless families there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223147]

Yvette Cooper: Information about local authorities' actions under homelessness legislation is collected quarterly and is in respect of households rather than families. The number of households accepted as eligible for assistance, unintentionally homeless and in priority need and the number of households in temporary accommodation arranged by local authorities under homelessness legislation as at 31 March of each year in Shrewsbury and Atcham, since 1997, is tabled as follows. Also shown is the number of acceptances, and those in temporary accommodation, as a percentage of all households in Shrewsbury and Atcham.

After being accepted as homeless, a household will be placed in some form of accommodation. They may be placed in temporary accommodation, until a settled solution becomes available, or they may be given a settled solution straight away depending on the accommodation available to the local authority. As an alternative to temporary accommodation an authority may arrange for a household to remain in their current accommodation (homeless at home), until a settled solution becomes available.

Information is also collected, since 1998, on the number of people who sleep rough, that is, those who are literally roofless on a single night. The above table shows number of persons sleeping rough in Shrewsbury and Atcham district, on a single night.

Quarterly Statistical Releases on statutory homelessness published by the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister include information on decisions, and households in temporary accommodation, at local authority level in an associated supplementary table. The latest release, of 14 March, and previous editions are available both in the Library of the House and via the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's website.

Andrew George: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) how much Housing Corporation (a) Approved Development Programme funding and (b) Challenge funding was spent on (i) mixed funded social rented housing, (ii) temporary social rented housing, (iii) Homebuy general market purchase, (iv) Homebuy general new build, (v) mixed funded low cost home ownership for sale, (vi) miscellaneous works to RSL stock, (vii) reimprovements to rented RSL stock, (viii) works only rehabilitation of rented RSL stock, (ix) works only rehabilitation of RSL stock for sale, (x) intermediate rent for key workers, (xi) Homebuy market purchase for key workers, (xii) Homebuy new build for key workers, (xiii) mixed funded sale for key workers and (xiv) Starter Home Initiative in the South West region in each year since 1997–98; [224523]

(2) how many affordable housing units were built or procured through the Housing Corporation (a) Approved Development Programme and (b) Challenge Fund, broken down by (i) mixed funded social rented housing, (ii) temporary social rented housing. (iii) Homebuy general market purchase, (iv) Homebuy general new build, (v) mixed funded low cost home ownership for sale, (vi) miscellaneous works to RSL stock, (vii) reimprovements to rented RSL stock, (viii) works only rehabilitation of rented RSL stock, (ix) works only rehabilitation of RSL stock for sale, (x) intermediate rent for key workers, (xi) Homebuy market purchase for key workers, (xii) Homebuy new build for key workers, (xiii) mixed funded sale for key workers and (xiv) Starter Home Initiative in each year since 1997–98 in the South West region. [224524]

Keith Hill: The information available on the Housing Corporation's Approved Development Programme has been made available in the Library of the House. There has been no Challenge funding available in the South West region.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make a statement on the provision of affordable homes in the Vale of York. [224194]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's recently published Five Year Plan, 'Sustainable Communities: Homes for All' set out our proposals for housing, including expenditure plans for the next two years, in the context of our longer term Sustainable Communities Plan. This takes a co-ordinated approach to the provision of affordable housing, including not only additional financial resources—expenditure of £2 billion in 2007–08, more than double the 1997 level, for new social rented housing and home ownership initiatives, plus more for PFI—as well as changes to the planning system so that it can help authorities deliver more affordable housing. All these policies apply fully to rural areas, where we are committed to addressing housing needs and have already more than doubled the provision of affordable housing in small settlements funded through the Housing Corporation.

The provision of affordable housing in high demand areas, including rural areas and market towns, is one of the priorities identified in the current Regional Housing Strategy for Yorkshire and the Humber and its accompanying Investment Framework. The Regional Housing Board's current two year investment plan for affordable housing delivered by the Housing Corporation includes 45 dwellings in the Vale of York. The board is also helping to fund the extra care housing scheme at Easingwold, Hambleton district council's Young Single Homeless scheme and affordable housing initiatives in the 'Golden Triangle' high demand, high price area including north Leeds, Harrogate and York. These priorities continue into the board's revised draft strategy, which is currently out for consultation. Sub-regional housing partnerships are currently working on their investment proposals for 2006–08 for submission to the board and subsequent approval by me later this year, and I would expect to see them appropriately reflect the needs of the Vale of York. Recently completed research into 'Rural Housing in the Yorkshire and Humber Region' for the Housing Corporation and the Countryside Agency will help in addressing rural housing needs.

However, it is important to make full use of all opportunities to provide additional affordable housing where it is needed. There are already good achievements by Vale of York authorities in using the planning system to deliver affordable housing, and I hope that the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's recent changes to Planning Policy Guidance Note 3 will help them to do more. I was also pleased to recently give approval to North Yorkshire county council to implement an affordable housing scheme using their share of the proceeds from the flexibility that we gave local authorities to reduce the council tax discount for second homes. The first phase comprises a proposed county-wide programme with an investment of almost £12 million, including 15 dwellings in the Vale of York.

Housing Market Renewal Areas

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 579W, on housing market renewal areas, what specific targets the Government has agreed with the Merseyside pathfinder in relation to housing market renewal in the Welsh Streets of Liverpool. [223983]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has not agreed with New Heartlands, the Merseyside pathfinder, targets in respect of housing market renewal specifically in relation to the Welsh Streets of Liverpool.

Parish Councils

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister whether he plans to change the number of parish councils. [223927]

Mr. Raynsford: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's policy is to create new parishes, as we consider appropriate, where this is recommended in reviews of parish arrangements undertaken by a district council or requested in a petition of local electors. In 2004 23 new parish councils were created.

Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004

Mr. Stunell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what steps he is taking to implement sections (a) 1, (b) 2, (c) 3, (d) 4, (e) 5, (f) 6, (g) 7, (h) 8, (i) 9, (j) 10 and (k) 11 of the Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004; and if he will make a statement. [224563]

Phil Hope: Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 9 of the Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004, which amend or add to provisions in the Building Act 1984, will be used as appropriate to make regulations to improve the sustainability and security of buildings. All proposals for regulations will be subject to full public consultation and a full regulatory impact assessment.

Section 6 of the Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004 requires a biennial report on the progress of sustainability in the building stock in England and Wales to be presented to Parliament. The first report must be presented by 16 November 2006. The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister is currently establishing baselines for this report.

Sections 10 and 11 of the Sustainable and Secure Buildings Act 2004 do not require implementation.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Africa

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what additional resource commitments he plans to make to deliver the improvements in (a) monitoring and data capacity on climate change in Africa, (b) scientific collaboration to enhance the development process and (c) the integration of climate information and science into development, as set out in his Department's joint report on Climate Proofing Africa, published on 22 March. [224234]

Hilary Benn: DFID is committed to helping Africa adapt to climate change by improving climate monitoring networks and strengthening capacity to management climate risks to development including in disaster prevention.

DFID believes a concerted international response is the best way of providing effective assistance and are seeking a joint commitment from the G8 countries under the Climate Change pillar of the Government's G8 Presidency. To that end, the Secretary of State for the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and I raised these matters on the agenda of the recent G8 Environment and Development Ministers meeting. I am pleased to say that Ministers agreed on the urgency of the problem and committed, in principle, to help build scientific capacity and integrate measures to address climate change in development assistance and national development plans. We will be working to agree specific practical measures at the G8 Heads of Government meeting at Gleneagles. In that context, we are currently considering additional UK resource commitments.

Details of the outcome paper from the meeting entitled 'G8 Environment and Development Ministerial, 18 March 2005', is available in the Libraries of both Houses.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many permanent staff from his Department are stationed in (a) Sierra Leone, (b) Nigeria, (c) Angola, (d) Namibia, (e) Malawi, (f) Zambia, (g) Tanzania, (h) Kenya, (i) Uganda and (j) Ethiopia; and what changes have taken place in (i) the deployment of staff and (ii) the levels of expenditure by his Department in these countries in each of the last three years. [224300]

Hilary Benn: Numbers of permanent staff by country were as follows. Figures include UK-based staff, staff appointed in country and some permanent staff seconded to other organisations in country.

	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Angola	—	3	3
Ethiopia	[1]17	[1]36	46
Kenya	43.5	43.5	42.75
Malawi	24	42	59
Namibia	4	4	2
Nigeria	71	71	81
Sierra Leone	[1]8.5	[1]10.25	[1]11.75
Tanzania	36	44	48
Uganda	44	46	52
Zambia	[1]2	34	34

[1] For these years, DFID staff were based in British embassies/high commissions, preceding the opening of DFID offices.

Total DFID spending by country, for the last three completed financial years, was as follows:

£ million

	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Angola	3.6	9.9	7.8
Ethiopia	11.8	42.7	43.3
Kenya	27.5	44.5	25.8
Malawi	46.6	52.3	54.8
Namibia	2.0	2.2	1.4
Nigeria	20.9	30.5	31.2
Sierra Leone	37.1	32.4	34.3
Tanzania	65.0	95.9	80.5
Uganda	68.5	54.9	56.0
Zambia	44.8	41.4	28.4

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many visits have been undertaken by staff from his Department to (a) Sierra Leone, (b) Nigeria, (c) Angola, (d) Namibia, (e) Malawi, (f) Zambia, (g) Tanzania, (h) Kenya, (i) Uganda and (j) Ethiopia in each of the last three years; and for what purpose, in each case. [224299]

Hilary Benn: Visits to these countries are a frequent and routine aspect of programme management and administrative support to DFID overseas offices. Visits include those from Ministers and senior officials, project and programme design missions, policy and technical advisers, missions to assist in the monitoring and evaluation of DFID programmes, and support to the management and running of DFID in-country offices in areas such as staff training, audit and accounts, estates management and communications. To obtain the information requested would incur a disproportionate cost.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment the Commission for Africa made of the economic and environmental sustainability of uranium exports from African countries. [223765]

Hilary Benn: No specific assessment was made of the economic and environmental sustainability of uranium exports from African countries in the Commission for Africa's work.

Angola

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what reports he has received of the discussions between the International Monetary Fund and the Government of Angola concerning budgetary control and transparency of taxation; and if he will make a statement. [224590]

Hilary Benn: The Bretton Woods institutions confirm that most areas of off-budget spending in Angola decreased in 2004. However, much more progress has to be made to eradicate this practice completely. The next mission of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to Angola is expected in early April. The purpose of this mission is to conclude negotiations on the start of a Staff Monitored Programme (SMP) which will, among other things, focus on bringing all revenue and expenditure into the annual budget process in a transparent fashion. Fiscal discipline is another area which the Ministry of Finance itself has identified as a national priority. DFID, working together with the World Bank, is planning to fund a training programme in budgetary processes including fiscal discipline for line ministry staff at both the central and provincial levels.

As regards transparency of oil revenues, including taxes from the oil industry, Angola has taken several significant steps forward. These include full annual financial audits of Sonangol, the state oil company, and publication of up-to-date oil revenues by production blocks on the website of the Ministry of Finance. The UK continues actively to encourage the Government of Angola to make progress on the remaining components of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). One other important issue which the IMF will be raising during its forthcoming mission is how the Government intends to use the windfall resulting from higher than expected oil prices. The first step will be to declare how much additional revenue has accrued and then to ensure that these funds are incorporated transparently into the annual budget system.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much aid was disbursed to Angola by the UK in 2004–05; what aid is planned for 2005–06; and what projects will be the major recipients of that aid. [224616]

Hilary Benn: DFID's programme to Angola amounted to some £8 million in 2004–05. £8.6 million has been allocated for the Angola programme in 2005–06. This will focus on the key areas of consolidation of peace, relief and recovery, democratisation and economic reform, poverty reduction and HIV/AIDS. Projects currently being funded are:

Consolidation of peace (£0.3 million)

Integrated Regional Information Networks Radio Soap Opera

Christian Aid Civil Society Peacebuilding

Centre for Common Ground—peace-building media programme

ACCORD Conflict and Vulnerability Assessment

Relief and recovery (£1.2 million)

Oxfam—Water and Sanitation project (£0.1 million)

World Food Programme—rebuilding of bridges (£1.05 million)

Economic reform and poverty reduction (£2.9 million)

One World Action—Land Reform Seminars/Workshops (£0.1 million)

World Bank—Trust Fund for Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (£0.25 million)

Luanda Urban Poverty Programme (£2.6 million)

HIV/AIDS (£1.68 million)

BBC World Service Trust—promoting HIV/AIDS awareness through media (£0.5 million)

UN AIDS—Assistance to the National Aids Commission (£0.08 million)

Population Services International—Condom Social Marketing (£0.8 million)

GOAL—Voluntary Counselling and Testing (£0.3 million)

We are currently considering funding for further projects in the above-mentioned areas of focus.

Cambodia

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assistance the Government has provided to the Government of Cambodia in removing landmines. [224488]

Mr. Gareth Thomas: DFID supports a sizeable programme of global mine action, including direct funding of mine clearance. DFID provides funding for global action to the United Nations Mine Action Service, the United Nations Development Programme and the Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining.

In Cambodia, in the past three years, DFID has provided more than £1 million to support the mine clearance efforts of the HALO Trust and the Mines Advisory Group, and some £500,000 to the Cambodian Mine Action Centre for demining projects. We recently approved a further grant to the Mines Advisory Group of £378,156 for technical survey work and are considering further funding support to the HALO Trust and Cambodian Mine Action Centre.

Correspondence

Mr. Keith Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Manchester, Withington dated 5 January 2005 about his constituent Catriona Roussel. [224121]

Hilary Benn: The right hon. Member's letter of 2 February 2005 on behalf of Catriona Roussel was originally sent to the Foreign Secretary for reply and passed to me on 1 March. A reply was issued on 31 March.

Cuba

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what discussions (a) he, (b) members of his Department and (c) representatives of the UK Government have had with members and representatives of the Government of (i) the United States of America and (ii) Cuba regarding tying Cuba's humanitarian assistance to South and Central American countries into a multilateral approach to humanitarian aid between the EU, the US and Cuba; and if he will make a statement. [224582]

Mr. Gareth Thomas: DFID has had no recent discussions with either the Cuban or US Government concerning Cuban humanitarian assistance to South and Central American countries, nor a multilateral approach to humanitarian aid between Cuba and the EU and US. Representatives of HMG have had wide-ranging discussions with the Cuban authorities, including on their relations with South and Central American countries. Cuba provides technical assistance to a number of countries in the region, most notably Venezuela, but no assessment of its effectiveness has been shared by the Cuban Government or been made independently. Following Hurricane Ivan DFID contributed £50,000 to Cuba through the Regional Appeal of the International Federation of the Red Cross. The Regional Appeal included the provision of shelter and non-food relief for affected families.

Darfur

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the role of livestock in the rebuilding of the rural economy of Darfur, with particular reference to working animals. [223160]

Hilary Benn [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Animal husbandry is dominant in the rural economy of much of Darfur. Animals are raised for sale outside the state, traded and consumed locally, used as beasts of burden and, less frequently, to provide traction for farm equipment. So livestock is central to prospects for economic recovery in the state.

In Darfur, DFID support includes £1 million to the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO), who provide veterinarian support for livestock. This includes the provision of feed and health care to donkeys, small ruminants, and chickens both in camps and outside. In addition the programme includes provision for the training of community animal health monitors. We are continuing DFID support of these projects into the next financial year 2005–06 through a $4.5 million (approximately £2.3 million) contribution to the FAO under the UN Workplan.

However, before there can be any economic progress in Darfur, either livestock-based or otherwise, there will need to be an end to the conflict. The crisis in Darfur is caused by the conflict between the Darfur rebels and the Sudanese Government and can end only through a political, negotiated settlement in line with the Comprehensive Peace Agreement signed in January this year.

The UK is pressing all parties to abide and implement the ceasefire and humanitarian and security protocols which they have signed, and is supporting the on-going African Union-mediated Abuja Peace Talks. DFID has also provided £14 million in support to the African Union observer mission that is there to monitor the ceasefire agreement.

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the UN's current estimate is of the level of unmet requirements for its work on emergency assistance for agriculture and livestock in Greater Darfur. [223162]

Hilary Benn [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The latest UN's Humanitarian Needs Profile covers a conflict affected population of 2.1 million people and indicates that 93 per cent. of this population is not receiving assistance for agriculture and livestock.

This gap is explained by the fact that funding is prioritised against immediate needs such as food, water, primary health care, and sanitation. In Darfur, assistance towards medium-term concerns is compromised by the scale of emergency needs and the degree of armed insecurity on the ground.

The poor security situation hampers access to arable land and progress on community development programmes. These include agricultural and livestock assistance. The situation is further exacerbated by the onset of severe drought in the region, with the most immediate concern being the provision of food.

To this end, of the £70 million in humanitarian assistance that the UK is providing to Sudan for the financial year 2005–06, £40 million is being channelled through the UN Workplan which is being disbursed based on recommendations by the UN Humanitarian Co-ordinator for Sudan. 59 per cent. of the Workplan is for food aid in Darfur.

In the long-term, it is only through a political process to which both sides are committed that the situation in Darfur can be resolved and crucial assistance given towards key needs, including the re-development of agriculture and livestock.

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) what assurances he sought from the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation that they were capable of implementing the project proposals outlined in Emergency Assistance (agriculture and livestock) to vulnerable households in the Greater Darfur region of Sudan before awarding a grant for this work; and what steps he has taken to ensure the aid reaches the intended beneficiaries; [223163]

(2) what assessment he has made of whether (a) veterinary equipment, (b) medicine and vaccines and (c) food and fodder detailed in the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation project documentation has been (i) purchased and (ii) applied where it was required. [223161]

Hilary Benn [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The UN Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO) undertakes the implementation of its Emergency Assistance Programme through International Non-Governmental Organisations (INGOs). The FAO has been in Darfur for four years, but has worked previously with its implementing partners in other areas of Sudan. As such they have built up a good professional relationship based on mutual trust and responsibility. From previous reporting by the UN, as well as from my officials following monitoring visits and discussions within Sudan, I have confidence in the FAO's capability to implement their project proposals in this very difficult environment.

The UK has already funded the FAO project 'Emergency Assistance (Agriculture and Livestock)' with a contribution of £1 million (2004–05). This was agreed on the basis of in-depth dialogue with the FAO in Sudan. DFID has supplemented this with an additional contribution of $4.5million (£2.3 million) to the FAO, as part of DFID's contributions to the UN Workplan. Timely disbursements of funds are of especial importance to the FAO, as it needs to plan ahead so it has inputs available at the key points in the agricultural calendar.

This year DFID is piloting in Sudan some of the reforms to the International System that I have proposed on humanitarian reform supported by the Organisation for Co-ordination Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), notably empowering the UN Humanitarian Co-ordinator (UNHC). The aim is for the UNHC to take the lead on responsibility for needs assessments, planning, and resource allocation. DFID funding to UN agencies this year is being channelled through the UNHC who is responsible for allocating funds to UN agencies against priority needs. This most recent FAO contribution from-DFID (of $4.5million) forms part of his prioritised allocations for the first tranche of money (£14 million) we have made available.

In the Emergency Assistance project cereal seed is being procured locally (59.5 metric tons), some of which has already been delivered. The FAO is responsible for delivering the seed to the three regional capitals of the Darfur region where it is handed over to the INGOs. INGOs have identified a number of specific vulnerable groups totalling 261,000 families who have access to land at the moment. This equates to over 1,000,000 direct beneficiaries. These INGOs are then responsible for delivering directly to the families.

Overall monitoring and evaluation is the responsibility of the FAO who have to ensure appropriate performance of their implementing INGO partners. Co-ordination of these activities is carried out by the Food Security Co-ordination meeting, which is held bi-weekly in each of the Darfur regional capitals. The FAO will be reporting on their performance this year to both DFID and the UNHC. In addition, through DFID's humanitarian and livelihoods advisers in Khartoum and London, we will be undertaking monitoring of this programme during the course of this year.

The FAO has stressed that there still remains a considerable shortfall in the amount of seed required (855MT), but there still remains sufficient time to purchase and distribute as the rains will not be expected until a further two months.

Veterinary Equipment:

This has been purchased in Sudan and distributed to the three Darfur capitals. The equipment is dispatched to the INGOs who then distribute it to selected Community Animal Health Workers (CAHW). This cadre of staff has been selected by the community and trained by the INGOs. They are paid a small stipend by the INGO which is reimbursed by the FAO. Again, all activities are monitored and evaluated by the INGOs. Pertinent issues can and are raised in community dialogue in formal and informal manner.

Medicine/Vaccine:

These have been purchased in Khartoum and distributed through the same mechanism as above.

Food/Fodder:

A supplementary feed (concentrate pellets) for feeding is purchased in Sudan. Again, this is distributed by the INGOs direct to the beneficiaries with monitoring carried out by the CAHW.

The FAO has a Letter of Agreement (LOA) with each of its INGOs to purchase fodder in the local market. The implementing partner then agrees a sub-contract with a private contractor to deliver the fodder to them, which is then distributed direct to the beneficiaries and again monitored by the CAHW. This component is strongly linked to issues on protection. Women are usually required to go out and gather fodder, but have been subject to rape and violence when moving outside of camps. This intervention will help to minimise the risk.

Democratic Republic of Congo

Mr. Blizzard: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps the Government are taking to assist rural populations living in and depending on the forests of the Democratic Republic of Congo to obtain security of land tenure. [224107]

Hilary Benn: The Department for International Development (DFID) is not currently providing direct support to rural populations living in the forest areas of the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC). However natural resource management has been identified in our country engagement plan as one of the key areas of possible future UK support to the DRC. We are developing a DRC natural resources strategy, due later this year, which will indicate the nature of any likely support, including the forestry sector amongst others. DFID also keeps in regular touch with the World Bank and non-governmental organisations on forestry issues in the DRC.

DFID is also funding a review of the management of natural resource extraction in the DRC, to help in the establishment of more transparent means of natural resource management in the future for the benefit of the Congolese people.

Fair Trade

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what action the Government have taken to encourage the adoption of fair trade rules by (a) the European Union, (b) the World Bank, (c) the IMF and (d) other international bodies. [224162]

Hilary Benn: The UK Government are fully committed to a framework of rules for world trade that is fair as well as free, that works in the interests of the world's poor, and provides developing countries the opportunity to trade themselves out of poverty. This can only be achieved through the multilateral system, particularly the world trade organisations (WTO) and the current round of negotiations, the Doha Development Agenda (DDA).

DFID is working with its partners in the EU to press for a successful outcome to the Doha round and to ensure impact of the EU's trade policies on developing countries is taken into account. For example during negotiations between the EU and African Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) countries over Economic Partnership Agreements (EPAs) we are working to ensure EPAs are designed to deliver long-term development, economic growth and poverty reduction in ACP countries. The UK Government also works closely with the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and other international bodies such as the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) to ensure developing countries receive support to engage in trade negotiations and integrate progressively into the global trading system.

Rwanda

Ms Oona King: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the extent to which Rwanda's new land policy safeguards the livelihoods of the rural poor; what assessment he has made of its likely impact on security in the country; and if he will make a statement on how the UK will engage with Rwanda on the issue of land reform. [223852]

Hilary Benn: Rwanda is the most densely populated country in Africa with 90 per cent. of a population of over 8 million people earning their livelihoods from the land. Most families operate at the level of subsistence agriculture, producing almost entirely for their own consumption. Tenure of some 90 per cent. of the arable land in Rwanda is currently based upon customary rights, with no formal written title. Rwanda faces the challenge of trying to promote economic growth and reduce poverty in an economy largely dependent upon unsustainable, low productivity subsistence agriculture, while at the same time addressing a historical legacy of land disputes in the interests of national reconciliation.

Rwanda's Draft National Land Policy (June 2004) has the overall objective

> "to establish a land tenure system that guarantees tenure security for all Rwandans and give guidance to the necessary land reforms with a view to good management and rational use of national land resources"

Safeguards for the Livelihoods of the Rural Poor

The draft policy and land law include provisions that contribute to safeguarding the livelihoods of the poor in the following areas:

- Prohibition of any discrimination in land ownership or rights
- Preservation of existing land rights
- Limiting to an absence of 10 years on the right of refugees to claim back previously owned land now occupied by others
- Assertion that water is a public good to which everybody has access
- Provision of a land reserve, for allocation to landless people
- Local consultation for all proposed schemes for plot consolidation and compensation either financially or in kind where appropriate
- Administration of land belonging to genocide orphans under 18 years of age on their behalf until they come of age, and assistance to vulnerable orphans above 18 and widows in developing their land.

However, the draft land law gives the government and its officials considerable administrative powers in order to achieve its policy objectives. Protecting the livelihoods of the rural poor will depend upon the way in which these powers are exercised.

Likely impact upon security in Rwanda

A lack of consistent policy and an absence of procedure for dealing with land was a contributory factor in the conflict in Rwanda that culminated in the genocide in 1994. The land reforms seek to remedy this and hopefully make an important contribution to achieving long-term peace and security in Rwanda.

How the UK will engage with Rwanda on the issue of land reform

DFID has been providing technical assistance to the Ministry of Land in Rwanda since August 2002 and supported the development of the "Strategic Plan for Agricultural Transformation in Rwanda". From this engagement we judge that the Government of Rwanda are sincere in their intentions of taking forward land reform in the best interests of all Rwandan people. The Government have noted that the land reform process will take at least 10 years and that the procedures envisaged in the policy and law will need to be carefully tested before they are implemented across the country.

DFID's Rwanda programme is planning to provide support to produce a "road map" for the implementation of the land reform proposals. The support will focus on consultation with those affected by the land reform proposals; will test approaches to land reform based upon local priorities and provide the required, structured training for the Ministry of Land and other key Government of Rwanda staff involved in land reform.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what total aid budget to Rwanda is planned for 2005–06. [224579]

Hilary Benn: The total UK aid budget for Rwanda for 2005–06 is £47 million.

Of this, £31 million will be transferred to the Government of Rwanda as Poverty Reduction Budget Support to enable Rwanda to meet the costs of implementing policies and programmes under Rwanda's Poverty Reduction Strategy.

Working in co-ordination with other donors in response to specific needs of the Government of Rwanda as set out in the DFID Country Assistance Plan for Rwanda, the remaining £16 million of the total UK commitment to Rwanda for 2005–06 will be provided in the form of projects and programmes. These will provide targeted technical assistance for capacity building activities in Government of Rwanda Ministries and other bodies. UK funded technical assistance in 2005–06 will focus support in the following areas: education; social protection (including support to genocide survivors); improving gender equity in public policy; land reform; civil service reform; support to the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning and public financial management.

In addition to our bilateral commitment to Rwanda, the UK has contributed an estimated €5.8 million to planned European Commission development programmes Rwanda for 2005.

Shipping Lines

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his Department's spending was in each of the last two years with the shipping lines (a) P&O, (b) Nippin Yusen Kaisha, (c) Mitsui Osaka Shosen Kaisha, (d) Orient Overseas Container Line and (e) Mediterranean Shipping Corporation. [217316]

Hilary Benn: DFID has not made any direct payment to the shipping lines cited. All of DFID's shipping needs are met by specialised freight handling companies who we pay directly. We do not require these companies to maintain a central report of payments made to individual shipping lines and this information could be obtained only by incurring a disproportionate cost.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220946]

Hilary Benn: No surplus stocks of assets have been sold by DFID on eBay.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220971]

Hilary Benn: The value of sales of surplus assets by DFID is shown as follows:

	Value of sales (£)
2000–01	28,000
2001–02	109,264
2002–03	28,828
2003–04	106,685
2004–05	[1]76,860

[1] Year to date figure.

This information is included in departmental Resource Accounts, copies of which are normally available in the Library.

Technical/Logistical Expertise (Information Exchange)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what channels are available for the exchange of (a) technical and (b) logistical expertise between his Department and UK non-governmental organisations active in the field of international development; what fora his Department has (i) initiated, (ii) funded and (iii) run for such purposes since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [224576]

Hilary Benn: DFID consults extensively with NGOs on both policy and technical issues. We do this through a variety of channels including ministerial and official meetings with the British Overseas Aid Group (BOAG), British Overseas NGOs for Development network (BOND), regional visits and bilateral meetings.

DFID endeavours to carry out public consultations as recommended in the Code of Practice on Consultations published by the Cabinet Office in January 2004. When consulting NGOs, this guidance is used in conjunction with the 'Compact' between the government and the voluntary and community sector which includes a specific code of good practice on 'Consultation and Policy Appraisal'.

DFID has funded the British Overseas NGOs for Development network (BOND) since 1993 when it was established as a membership organisation. It now represents over 280 international development NGOs

Since 1997, there has been a great deal of consultation through a variety of ad hoc fora but no central record is held.. This information could be obtained only by incurring a disproportionate cost.

Technology Transfers

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will list the technology transfers effected by his Department in each of the last three years. [215315]

Hilary Benn: DFID funds research which generates a wide range of new or improved agricultural and other technologies, which are transferred to farmers and users in developing countries. These transfers occur over a period of years, rather than in a single year. Recent examples include the use of animal traction techniques for improved efficiency (Bolivia, Kenya and Zimbabwe) and seed priming on farms (soaking seeds in water before sowing) for improved crop establishment and higher yields (25 countries).

Further information on DFID's research programmes is available on the DFID website: www.dfid.gov.uk. Details of natural resources and infrastructure research and technology projects are included on two databases: www.narsis.org and www.infrastructureconnect.info.

World Bank

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which candidate the Government plan to support for the Presidency of the World Bank. [223375]

Hilary Benn: The broad support of the membership, including from developing country clients of the Bank group will be very important in taking their work forward.

The Government have noted Mr. Wolfowitz's nomination with interest. He is very distinguished and experienced internationally. There is of course a process that has to be gone through in which the views of developing countries are important. It is the Bank's board which makes the decision, and it is important that this is a transparent process. The UK Government are interested in Mr. Wolfowitz's vision for the future of the World Bank in reducing international poverty at a time when the need to make much faster progress has never been clearer.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces Training Review

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list with a short biography the inspectors who took part in the Adult Learning Inspectorate Safer Training review into armed forces training. [223678]

Mr. Ingram: In May 2004 I commissioned the Adult Learning Inspectorate (ALI) to conduct an independent and searching review of the way the armed forces train our personnel. Their report was published on 21 March 2005. I am grateful for the work of the Chief Inspector of Adult Learning for England and his inspection teams in undertaking this comprehensive and very detailed survey of Defence initial training. I am, however, unable to provide the names and biographical details of the inspectors requested, as it is my Department's policy in line with the Data Protection Act 1998 not to release such information into the public domain as this might contribute to or facilitate an unwelcome invasion of their privacy.

British Nuclear Deterrent

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make it his policy to remove the British nuclear deterrent from the Clyde. [218369]

Mr. Hoon: We have no plans to change basing policy for the UK's nuclear deterrent force.

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will rule out the acquisition of battlefield nuclear weapons for use by British forces. [218370]

Mr. Hoon: Battlefield nuclear weapons are not required by the Government's policy on nuclear deterrence.

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will rule out the use of UK nuclear weapons on a first strike basis. [218371]

Mr. Hoon: The United Kingdom Government would be prepared to use nuclear weapons only in extreme circumstances of self-defence. We would not use our weapons, whether conventional or nuclear, contrary to international law.

A policy of no first use of nuclear weapons would be incompatible with our and NATO's doctrine of deterrence, nor would it further nuclear disarmament objectives. We have made clear, as have our NATO allies, that the circumstances in which any use of nuclear weapons might have to be contemplated are extremely remote. Our overall strategy is to ensure uncertainty in the mind of any aggressor about the exact nature of our response, and thus to maintain effective deterrence.

Camouflage Garments

Mr. Watts: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many camouflage combat garments have been supplied by the factory in China under the cut and sew contract; and what the timetable for the delivery of all camouflage garments under the contract is. [223935]

Mr. Ingram: To date a total of over 100,000 items have now been delivered by the cut and sew prime contractor, this includes over 40,000 items of combat clothing. Under this Enabling Arrangement, the contract delivery schedule is agreed on each Warrant as it is issued.

Coalition Forces (Iraq)

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will publish an up to date list of the countries providing troops to the coalition forces in Iraq and how many troops each country provides. [215163]

Mr. Ingram: In early March 2005, the United Kingdom had 7,961 personnel deployed in Iraq.

The number of personnel per troop contributing nation is a matter for individual countries. Open source figures provided by those countries, as at early March 2005, are as follows.

Countries	Troops
Albania	74
Armenia	46
Australia	312
Azerbaijan	154
Bulgaria	495
Czech Republic	92
Denmark	485
El Salvador	380
Estonia	47
Georgia	159
Italy	3,033
Japan	536
Kazakhstan	29
Lithuania	131
Latvia	117
Macedonia	34
Mongolia	130
Poland	2,400
Romania	727
Slovakia	105
South Korea	3,700
Ukraine	1,449
United States	140,000

Norway and Portugal retain nine and two staff officers respectively.

Contracts (Rolls-Royce)

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value of each of his Department's contracts with the Rolls Royce Group was in each year since 1997. [223758]

Mr. Ingram: I will write to the hon. Member and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Deaths in Service

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the full coroner's inquest will be held into the death of Paul Justin Connolly at Shaibah Logistics Base, Iraq on 26 December 2004. [224479]

Mr. Ingram: These arrangements are a matter for HM Coroner in line with the coroners' system in England and Wales.

Defence Estate

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average rent charged by his Department to farmers for land was per hectare in each county in the UK in the latest period for which figures are available. [222832]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence does not own land in every county in the United Kingdom and thus does not record or retain information on that basis. Land is held for purposes of military training and is made available without detriment to such training. Rent is set according to the conditions with which the Department is content to let the land, and this therefore becomes the market rent for that land taking into consideration these conditions. To provide the information requested, given that it is not held for defence purposes, would require disproportionate cost and effort.

Departmental Costs

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost of staff surveys in the Department was in each year since 1997. [213675]

Mr. Caplin: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Eurofighter

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will estimate how many UK jobs have been created by the supplementary order for Eurofighter aircraft; and if he will make a statement. [224140]

Mr. Ingram: Industry estimate that the Typhoon Tranche 2 order will, at the peak of manufacture, create or sustain some 16,000 jobs with United Kingdom defence manufacturers, many in areas of high technology, plus a significant number of jobs in supporting industries across the economy more widely.

Flight Refuelling (Brize Norton)

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the change of responsibilities for the flight refuelling fleet at Brize Norton. [223890]

Mr. Ingram: There has been no change of responsibilities for the air-to-air refuelling fleet at RAF Brize Norton.

Gulf War Veterans

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many Gulf War veterans have committed suicide; [223887]

(2) what estimate he has made of how many Gulf War veterans have committed suicide in prison. [223888]

Mr. Caplin: As at 31 December 2004, there had been 120 deaths due to intentional self-harm and events of undetermined intent (suicides and open verdict deaths) among veterans of the 1990–91 Gulf Conflict, compared with an estimate of 112 in the comparison group of Service personnel who did not deploy.

From the information available to the Defence Analytical Services Agency, of the 120 deaths, the number where the recorded place of death is stated as a HM Prison is less than five; it is not appropriate to give the precise number for these events for reasons of confidentiality. In a number of the 120 cases, the place of death is not apparent.

Iraq

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many persons arrested by British service personnel in Iraq have been in custody for over a year without charges having been brought against them. [215479]

Mr. Ingram: Two internees originally taken into custody by the United Kingdom have been held for more than a year. Both are held at the Divisional Temporary Detention Facility in Basrah Province. They were interned on the basis that they represented an imperative threat to security and not on the basis that they were suspected of any specific criminal offence.

Medals

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the future of paper records of medals issued to First World War combatants; what electronic records are kept of these medals; whether those records contain all the information contained in the paper records; and what arrangements he is making to ensure that records of these medals are not lost. [223633]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence, together with The National Archives, has been actively seeking to identify a suitable institution prepared to take these cards. So far, a home for just a small part of the collection has been found. No decision on the retention or destruction of the cards will be taken until all such avenues have been explored.

However, the information from the front of the First World War medal index cards is already preserved in a microfilmed format and is available to researchers at The National Archives (in Class WO 372) and through the National Archives website online.

During microfilming the reverse side of the cards was not copied as the vast majority of them are blank. Sampling found that information on the reverse is restricted to about 1 per cent. of the cards.

Northern Ireland (Royal Navy)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Royal Naval vessels are assigned to duties in Northern Ireland for 2004–05; and how many Royal Naval vessels are planned to be assigned to duties in Northern Ireland in each of the next five years. [223294]

Mr. Ingram: The Northern Ireland Patrol Vessel (NIPV) Squadron comprises three re-roled Hunt Class Mine Counter-Measure Vessels (HMS Brecon, HMS Dulverton and HMS Cottesmore) with one ship usually on station at any given time. I announced on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 69WS, that we have decided that the vessels will be decommissioned in September 2005. While there will be no permanent assignments of Royal Navy vessels for Northern Ireland following their release by the General Officer Commanding Northern Ireland, the Chief Constable is satisfied that routine Royal Navy activities around the UK and specific intelligence-led maritime operations will deliver an appropriate level of support to the police in countering terrorism.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what duties are performed by (a) land-based Royal Naval personnel and (b) ship-based Royal Naval personnel based in Northern Ireland; and what plans he has to change the numbers of each category. [223295]

Mr. Ingram: Royal Navy (RN) personnel provide a Naval Intelligence unit within Headquarters Northern Ireland and administration of HMS Caroline (a Royal Naval Reserve establishment). RN personnel also crew the Northern Ireland Patrol Vessel (NIPV) Squadron, with one ship usually on station at any one time. I announced on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 69WS, that we have decided that the NIPV vessels will be decommissioned in September 2005 releasing the crews for other duties. The removal of the NIPV may also result in changes in the number of land-based RN personnel.

Nuclear Test Veterans

Mrs. Betty Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will carry out a study of the health of veterans of the British Nuclear Test Programme. [223378]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 22 March 2005]: A study into the general health of Nuclear Test Veterans would involve major practical and methodological difficulties. Such a study would necessitate individual contact with participants in the study or their GPs. Not only would this be a very large exercise to organise and undertake successfully, but there would also be considerable risk of bias arising from the difficulties of identifying, contacting and recovering responses from a fully representative sample of veterans or their dependants.

The Government do not therefore intend to institute such a study.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will answer the question from the hon. Member for Portsmouth South, reference 200301. [216498]

Mr. Ingram: I replied to the hon. Member on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 128W.

Penalties (Contractors)

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on his Department's policy on operating penalties on contractors who fail to deliver on contracts due to (a) quality and (b) time. [200744]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence does not include penalty clauses in its contracts as they are not generally enforceable under English or Scottish law.

Most Ministry of Defence contracts contain express quality provisions and performance criteria, occasionally associated with differential pricing or liquidated damages. The Ministry of Defence has the right to reject goods and services which do not conform to the contract specification and to require the supply of satisfactory replacements. This right is exercised in appropriate circumstances and the failure to achieve a satisfactory supply within the contracted time scales could lead to invoking liquidated damages provisions or termination of the contract.

RAF Menwith Hill

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what provision is made in the contract between his Department and the US authorities for the continuing use of RAF Menwith Hill. [223682]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 24 March 2005]: There is no such contract. RAF Menwith Hill is made available to the United States Visiting Force under the terms of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement of 1951, and other confidential arrangements.

Regiments

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many redundancies will take place when the Kings, Lancashire and Border Regiment is formed. [222288]

Mr. Ingram: As a result of the implementation of the future army structure there will be up to 335 commissioned officer and soldier redundancies across the infantry during 2006 and 2007.

Commissioned infantry officers have already received letters if they fall into the relevant redundancy categories and have until 5 May 2005 to lodge an expression of interest. Infantry soldiers in the relevant redundancy categories will receive letters around the turn of the year. Planned dates for notifying those officers and soldiers selected for redundancy are 8 July 2005 and 1 May 2006 respectively. Consequently, it is too early to speculate as to where the redundancies will fall in relation to individual regiments.

Further information can be obtained from the relevant Defence Council Instruction (DCI Army 7/05), a copy of which has been placed in the Library of the House.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many towns have granted freedom to (a) the Queen's Lancashire Regiment, (b) the King's Regiment and (c) the King's Own Borderers; and if he will list the (i) battle honours of each regiment and (ii) medals won by each regiment in the last 30 years. [222316]

Mr. Ingram: The towns, cities and boroughs that have granted freedom to the King's Own Royal Border Regiment (KORBR), the King's Regiment (Kings) and the Queen's Lancashire Regiment (QLR) are as follows:

KORBR

Appleby
Barrow-in-Furness
Carlisle
Kendal
Lancaster
Whitehaven
Workington

Kings

Liverpool
Manchester
Tameside

QLR

Blackburn
Burnley
Haslingdon (Rossendale)
Hyndburn
Pendle
Preston
The Fylde
Warrington
(Spandau, Berlin)

Note:
QLR is expected to receive the freedom of Chorley on 16 April 2005.

Battle honours for all regiments are listed in the Army List Part 1, which is available in the Library of the House. Regiments with a long tradition and a history of amalgamation inherit many honours: KORBR have 179, Kings 183 and QLR188.

The number of medals won by personnel in each of the KORBR, Kings and the QLR in the last 30 years runs into many thousands, details of which can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Royal Navy

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, column 414W, on the Royal Navy, how many Royal Navy ships are in a state of readiness for the Joint Rapid Reaction Force. [223584]

Mr. Ingram: There are 34 Royal Navy vessels currently in a state of readiness for the Joint Rapid Reaction Force.

Trident

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has discussed a replacement for Trident with the Prime Minister. [218350]

Mr. Hoon: I routinely discuss a variety of matters with my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister. It is not our practice to divulge the details of such discussions.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Arms Exports (Chile)

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list, for each year since 1997, the total number of arms export contracts agreed to Chile. [224532]

Nigel Griffiths: The Department is responsible for holding information on the licences we have issued, not on numbers of arms export contracts agreed. Since 1997 the Government have published an Annual Report on strategic export controls, and since 2004 also a Quarterly Report on strategic export controls, containing information on the total number of export licences issued to each destination and the goods summaries covered by those licences. The Annual Reports are available from the Libraries of the House, and the Quarterly Reports from the DTI Export Control Organisation website, www.dti.gov.uk/export. control.

Business Start-ups

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many business start-ups there have been in (a) North East Lincolnshire and (b) North Lincolnshire in each year since 1997. [223463]

Nigel Griffiths: Barclays Bank's latest survey of business creation includes non-VAT registered firms and shows that there were 453,000 business start-ups in England and Wales in 2004, the highest number since the survey started in 1998.

Barclays data show that there were 1,900 business start-ups in North East Lincolnshire Unitary Authority in 2003 and a further 1,300 in 2004.

Barclays data show that there were 900 business start-ups in North Lincolnshire Unitary Authority in 2003 and a further 800 in 2004.

DTI figures based solely on VAT registrations for North East Lincolnshire and North Lincolnshire Unitary Authorities are shown in the following table for 1997 to 2003. Data for 2004 will be available in Autumn 2005.

VAT registrations

	North East Lincolnshire	North Lincolnshire

VAT registrations do not capture all start-up activity. Businesses are unlikely to be registered if they fall below the compulsory VAT threshold, which has risen in each year since 1997. Only 1.8 million out of 4 million enterprises were registered for VAT at the start of 2003.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many new businesses have started up in Wimbledon since 1997. [224254]

Nigel Griffiths: Barclays Bank's latest survey of business creation includes non-VAT registered firms and shows that there were 453,000 business start-ups in England and Wales in 2004, the highest number since the survey started in 1988.

Barclays data show that there were 2,000 business start-ups in the London borough of Merton (which contains the constituency of Wimbledon) in 2003 and a further 2,500 in 2004. Data for London boroughs are not available for before 2003.

DTI figures based solely on VAT registrations for Wimbledon parliamentary constituency and the London borough of Merton are shown in the table for 1997 to 2003. Data for 2004 will be available in autumn 2005.

Catering Costs

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much has been spent on (a) entertainment lunches involving civil servants and guests and (b) working lunches, in each year since 1997. [215052]

Ms Hewitt: The information on the amount spent on entertainment lunches involving civil servants and working lunches is not available as requested and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Correspondence

Sir George Young: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will reply to the letters from the right hon. Member for North West Hampshire of 27 October 2004, 7 December 2004, 5 January, 9 February and 3 March relating to labels on bottles. [224356]

Nigel Griffiths: I apologise for the delay in responding to the letters. I responded on 30 March.

Departmental Budget

Mr. Byrne: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the most recent figures are for her Department's budget (a) in 2005–06 and (b) in each year for which projections have been made, broken down by budget sub-head. [223759]

Ms Hewitt: The DTI Business Plan 2005–08 published in February 2005 sets out the Department's budget for the period 2005 to 2008 broken down by business plan objective.

An electronic version of the Business Plan can be found at: http://www.dti.gov.uk/about/dti-businessplan-2004-08.pdf

Energy

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what research has been funded by the Government on improving access to (a) the renewables obligation, (b) climate change levy exemption certificates and (c) renewables energy guarantees of origin for domestic consumers installing qualifying microgeneration technologies; what recommendations have been made from this work; what steps she is taking in the context of the current review of the renewables obligation to implement those recommendations; what additional work she intends to undertake further to improve access; and if she will make a statement. [224009]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Through the Distributed Generation Coordinating Group (DGCG), the Government have funded a report by Jade Energy on the accrual of renewables obligation certificates (ROCs), levy exemption certificates (LECs) and renewable energy guarantees of origin (REGOs). The report, which was published in February 2005, addresses concerns on the part of the microgeneration community (which includes domestic consumers who install microgeneration technologies) about access to the benefits of these schemes. The report makes recommendations on bulk processing of applications, meter data provision and "sell and buy back" contracts as well as recommendations to streamline the schemes and make them more user-friendly. Jade Energy's report is available on the DGCG's website (www.distributed-generation. gov.uk).

In the current review of the renewables obligation, the preliminary consultation addresses the issue of administrative arrangements for small generators and seeks views on a number of proposals with the potential to benefit microgenerators. In developing the Government's strategy on microgeneration, I will be assessing the usefulness of various measures including improving access to ROCs, LECs and REGOs, taking account of, among other things, the Jade Energy report.

Export Control Organisation

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will place in the Library copies of written representations (a) made by her Department to and (b) received by her Department from (i) representatives from industry and (ii) others relating to the future of the Export Control Organisation and private sector involvement in delivering some of that organisation's services. [221736]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The DTI has carried out no public consultation on the matter. I have received two written representations, (which are commercially sensitive.)

International Conference on Nuclear Power

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what contribution her Department made to the International Conference on Nuclear Power for the 21st Century in Paris; and if she will place in the Library copies of relevant papers. [223931]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: None. The conference was organised by the International Atomic Energy Agency and hosted by the French Government. Information about the conference is available at www.parisnuclear2005.org/accueil.htm and www.iaea.org/.

Milford Haven (Liquefied Natural Gas Development)

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of whether the liquid natural gas tanker should be included in risk assessments for the liquid natural gas developments at Milford Haven; and if she will make a statement. [224544]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Risk assessment for the LNG developments at Milford Haven does not fall within the planning vires of the Department for Trade and Industry. Hence I am told that prior to October 2004, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry has had no direct contact nor discussions with the organisations mentioned concerning risk assessment either with regard to LNG tankers, or any other part of the LNG developments at Milford Haven.

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what discussions she had with (a) the Health and Safety Executive, (b) Pembrokeshire National Park Authority, (c) Exxon Mobil and Petroplus, (d) the Department for Transport and (e) the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister concerning risk assessments for the liquid natural gas developments at Milford Haven prior to October 2004; and if she will make a statement; [224545]

(2) what discussions she had with Pembrokeshire county council on whether the liquid natural gas (LNG) tanker should be included in the risk assessment for the LNG developments in Milford Haven prior to October 2004; and if she will make a statement. [224546]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Risk assessment for the LNG developments at Milford Haven does not fall within the planning vires of the Department of Trade and Industry. Hence I am told prior to October 2004, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry has had no direct contact nor discussions with the organisations mentioned concerning risk assessment either with regard to LNG tankers, or any other part of the LNG developments at Milford Haven.

Minimum Wage (Leicester)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses were found to be employing workers for less than the minimum wage in (a) Leicester and (b) England, in each year since the minimum wage was introduced; and how many (i) were fined and (ii) were forced to cease trading. [223488]

Mr. Timms: I have been asked to reply.

The Inland Revenue did not start recording the information requested until April 2000.

The number of cases identified by NMW teams based in England where non compliance of minimum wage was identified:

	Number
1 April 2000 to 31 March 2001	1,505
1 April 2001 to 31 March 2002	1,345
1 April 2002 to 31 March 2003	1,476
1 April 2003 to 31 March 2004	1,660
1 April 2004 to date	1,153

For these cases a total of 55 penalty notices have been issued throughout this period.

A penalty notice may be issued where an employer fails to comply with an enforcement notice.

The Leicester NMW team was formed in April 2002 and the number of cases identified where non compliance of NMW was identified is as follows.

	Number
1 April 2002 to 31 March 2003	38
1 April 2003 to 31 March 2004	83
1 April 2004 to date	50

The Leicester team have not issued any penalty notices to date.

We do not hold information on the number of employers who ceased trading.

Newspaper Supply Chain

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what assessment she has made of the likelihood of passive selling of magazines following proposals by the Office of Fair Trading to change the way in which magazines are distributed in the UK; [223533]

(2) whether she has commissioned an independent assessment of the analysis by the Office of Fair Trading of the UK newspaper and supply chain; [223547]

(3) if she will make a statement on the likely effect of passive selling on (a) the competitiveness of small independent newsagents and (b) consumer choice; [223556]

(4) what assessment she has made of the likely impact of the proposals by the Office of Fair Trading to change the UK supply chain for newspapers and magazines on delivery charges to (a) small independent and (b) larger retailers; [223570]

(5) what assessment she has made of the impact on relevant organisations of the changes proposed by the Office of Fair Trading relating to the newspaper supply chain. [223560]

Mr. Sutcliffe: In response to industry requests, the Office of Fair Trading (OFT) has undertaken an informal consideration of the compatibility with competition law of agreements for distribution of newspapers and magazines. OFT's provisional opinion was announced on 23 February 2005 and a fuller draft advisory opinion will be published shortly for public consultation. The Government has no plans to commission any separate assessment of these issues which should be considered by the OFT as the UK's independent competition regulator. The OFT's opinion aims to help companies ensure that the arrangements they put in place for the distribution of their products are compatible with the law.

North Sea Oil

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the (a) monetary value and (b) output in barrels was of North sea oil in each of the past five years. [224069]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The latest relevant annual data published by my Department are for 2003. Assuming 7.5 barrels per tonne of oil, the information sought is as follows.

UK continental shelf

	(a) Sales of crude oil (£ million)	(b) Crude oil production (million barrels)
1999	10,257	964.4
2000	16,275	884.1
2001	13,646	812.9
2002	13,629	805.7
2003	13,365	733.8

Nuclear Power

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what representations she has received from Ineos Chlor expressing an interest in funding a new nuclear power plant. [224042]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: None.

Pharmaceutical Products

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether her Department has discussed the recall of pharmaceutical products with the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency as part of its consultation on the implementation of the general product safety directive. [223803]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Yes.

Sellafield

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on the reliability of instruments used to measure plutonium levels in drums at Sellafield; and what the maximum factor of error is relative to the estimated level present which it is accepted can occur. [221565]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 14 March 2005]: Plants which handled plutonium waste drums at Sellafield operate under safety cases. These define the level of reliability required from instrument systems measuring the waste. Reliability varies according to the nature of the operations being conducted, but in all cases in instrument systems the required reliability levels. Both the safety cases and the substantiation process comply with industry standards and are subject to inspection by industry regulators.

It is normal for safety cases to require instrument systems to add to the reported plutonium figures an allowance for reasonable measurement uncertainties. The margin by which the results are overestimated depends on the specifics of the particular instrument system and upon the physical properties of the waste within each drum. In some cases this margin can be a significant fraction of the reported figure.

Solar Photovoltaics

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) whether funding allocations for domestic and other small-scale solar photovoltaic installations under her Department's Major Demonstration Programme will continue until August; [224073]

(2) what steps her Department is taking to ensure that funding allocations for domestic solar photovoltaic installations under her Department's Major Demonstration Programme will continue from summer 2005. [224074]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: I would refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to her previously on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 76W.

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry on what date the application for EU State Aid clearance was made for the £6 million solar photovoltaic Major Demonstration Programme announced by her Department in September 2004. [224075]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The application for State Aid clearance for the extension to the Major PV Demonstration Programme was made on 4 January 2005.

Wind Farms

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her most recent estimate is of the number of wild bird deaths from each wind farm; what advice she gives to wind farm operators to protect birds; and what assessment she has made of experience from wind farms in other countries in respect of the protection of birds from wind turbines. [224530]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: We do not have estimates for the number of wild bird deaths from each wind turbine in the UK. However, we are not aware of any UK wind farms that have been associated with substantial adverse impacts on birds. As part of the planning process for wind farms in the UK, developers have to provide environmental assessments of their proposals which consider impacts on a range of factors, including those related to birds. The assessments are considered by the nature conservation agencies (English Nature and the Countryside Council for Wales) and are made available for public scrutiny so other organisations such as the RSPB and local bird clubs can offer comments on the suitability of wind farm locations. The DTI advises wind farm developers to make early contact with these organisations as part of their preparatory planning for wind farm projects.

Experience from other countries shows that badly sited wind farms can have impacts on birds, for example, Altamont Pass in California where there is extensive wind development and also a high year-round raptor use which has led to high bird mortality rates. This should be kept in the context of the existing background bird mortality from collision with, for example, buildings and vehicles which is far greater.

I understand that research from Denmark suggests that birds, by day or night, tend to change their flight route some 100–200 metres before a turbine and so pass above it at a safe distance.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the area of onshore land which will be required to meet the Government's wind turbine programme. [217511]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: We have not made our own estimate of the area of onshore land required. That said, we note that the British Wind Energy Association (BWEA), in a report dated November 2003, estimated that between 800 to 1,200 hectares across the UK would be used for foundations and access roads for onshore wind farms to meet the 2010 target.

Working Conditions

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on changes to working conditions for employees since 1997. [217465]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave on 24 February 2005, Official Report, column 797W.

World Intellectual Property Organisation

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she is taking to support the formulation by the World Intellectual Property Organisation of (a) a development agenda and (b) measures to promote the transfer across the jurisdictions of material in formats accessible to disabled people created under copyright exceptions in national legislation. [223735]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Government, together with their European partners, are playing a positive role in supporting WIPO's work on the development-related aspects of IP. Our efforts build on commitments given in our response to the 2002 report on the subject by the Commission on Intellectual Property Rights. Specifically, the Patent Office is engaged in making and discussing proposals with WIPO officials, developed and developing countries aiming towards an IP system which enables developing countries to make best use of their innovative and creative activity so as to achieve social and economic progress. We must also ensure that the legitimate interests of those holding intellectual property are properly protected to facilitate wider international investment in developing countries.

In November 2004, the WIPO Standing Committee on copyright and related rights considered a proposal by Chile that the committee should address the subject of exceptions to rights for the purposes of education, libraries and disabled persons. A constructive exchange resulted in full support from those present, including the United Kingdom, for further discussion at the committee's next session planned for later this year.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Iraq (Legal Advice)

Adam Price: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will make a statement on the Attorney-General's duty to provide legal advice to Parliament. [223250]

The Solicitor-General: The Attorney-General and I are legal advisers to the Government. On occasion—where this does not conflict with our Governmental role—we also give advice to Parliament on procedural questions, matters of standards and privileges, and on the meaning and effect of proposed legislation.

Adam Price: To ask the Solicitor-General whether the Attorney-General, or his advisers, in drafting the Parliamentary answer setting out his view on the legal basis for the use of force in Iraq dated 17 March 2003 had concluded that (a) there was no prospect of a successful legal challenge of a decision by Her Majesty's Government to use force in Iraq at any competent international court, (b) there were no legal grounds on which such a challenge could be based and (c) while justiciable grounds existed, such a challenge was unlikely to be initiated. [223779]

The Solicitor-General: The advice given by the Attorney-General is not publicly disclosed.

Adam Price: To ask the Solicitor-General on what date the Attorney-General agreed with the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary the proposal to make a written statement to Parliament setting out his view of the legal basis for the use of force in Iraq; on what date this discussion was first initiated; on whose initiative; and when the Attorney-General was first informed of the question tabled by the Baroness Ramsay of Cartvale which he answered on 17 March 2003. [223783]

The Solicitor-General: Baroness Ramsay of Cartvale tabled her question to the Attorney-General on 17 March 2003. The question was inspired by the Government to enable the Attorney-General to set out his view to Parliament of the legal basis for the use of force against Iraq. Ministerial discussions about the making of a statement to Parliament are not disclosed.

Glenda Jackson: To ask the Solicitor-General pursuant to her answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1639W, on Iraq (Legal Advice), if she will publish the assistance furnished by Professor Christopher Greenwood, QC, in preparation of the Attorney-General's statement to Parliament of 17 March 2003. [224014]

The Solicitor-General: The assistance provided by Professor Greenwood in relation to the preparation of the Attorney-General's written answer of 17 March 2003 was given at a meeting with the Attorney-General on 16 March 2003, as described in a written answer given by the Attorney-General on 28 February 2005, Official Report, House of Lords, column WA1.

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Solicitor-General on what date the legal advice from Professor Greenwood relating to the war in Iraq was received; and how much was paid for the advice. [224070]

The Solicitor-General: As my right hon. Friend the Attorney-General said in reply to Baroness Miller of Chilthorne Domer on 21 March 2005, Official Report, House of Lords, column WA3, and as I said in my reply to the hon. Member for Blaenau Gwent (Llew Smith) on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1639W, Professor Greenwood was not instructed to advise on whether the war in Iraq would be lawful.

The answer given my right hon. Friend the Attorney-General on 21 March set out the fees paid to Professor Greenwood for the assistance he has provided between March 2003 and March 2005 in relation to a variety of different legal issues arising from the Iraq conflict. Christopher Greenwood QC was instructed in relation to these issues because he is a highly regarded professor of international law and advocate who has advised the Government on issues of international law on many occasions, including in relation to cases in both domestic and international courts.

Adam Price: To ask the Solicitor-General if the Attorney-General will publish background papers used to prepare his written parliamentary answer on the legality of the use of force in Iraq of 17 March 2003. [224460]

The Solicitor-General: The Attorney-General's written parliamentary answer of 17 March 2003 was based on his legal advice. The Government do not intend to publish this advice.

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will list each legal authority consulted by the Attorney-General in the preparation of his opinion on the legality of taking military action against Iraq in March 2003. [224467]

The Solicitor-General: No. The information requested relates to the provision of advice by the Law Officers and is not disclosed.

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor General what criteria were used in deciding to engage Professor Christopher Greenwood as an adviser on considering the legality of military action against Iraq in 2003. [224469]

The Solicitor-General: As my right hon. Friend the Attorney General said in reply to Baroness Miller of Chilthorne Domer on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column WA3, and as I said in my reply to the hon. Member on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1639W, Professor Greenwood was not instructed to advise on whether the war in Iraq would be lawful.

The answer given by my right hon. Friend the Attorney General on 21 March set out the fees paid to Professor Greenwood for the assistance he has provided between March 2003 and March 2005 in relation to a variety of different legal issues arising from the Iraq conflict. Christopher Greenwood QC was instructed in relation to these issues because he is a highly regarded professor of international law and advocate who has advised the Government on issues of international law on many occasions, including in relation to cases in both domestic and international courts.

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor-General how many pages constituted the briefing material the Attorney-General used in support of his presentation to Cabinet on 17 March 2003 of his legal opinion on the legality of taking military action against Iraq. [224550]

The Solicitor-General: At the meeting of the Cabinet on 17 March 2003, the Attorney-General reported that he had answered a parliamentary question on the authority for the use of force in Iraq. He produced the text of that answer for Cabinet and made an oral presentation. It was also reported that the Foreign Secretary had sent a memorandum to the Foreign Affairs Committee on the legal basis for the use of force.

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor-General what meetings (a) she and (b) the Attorney-General held with (i) Ministers, (ii) Government special advisers, (iii) external contracted advisers and (iv) officials of foreign Governments between 7 March and 17 March 2003, in respect of the preparation of the Attorney-General's legal advice on military action against Iraq. [224555]

The Solicitor-General: Neither the Solicitor-General nor the Attorney-General held any meetings with Ministers, Government special advisers, external contracted advisers or officials of foreign Governments between 7 March 2003 and 17 March 2003 for the purpose of preparing the Attorney-General's legal advice on military action against Iraq.

Legal Advice (Ministers)

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor General if she will list the occasions since 1997 when legal advice to Ministers prepared by the Attorney General has been made publicly available. [223750]

The Solicitor-General: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my right hon. Friend the Attorney General on 6 November 2003 to the Lord Lester of Herne Hill, Official Report, column WA128.

Ministerial Visits

Llew Smith: To ask the Solicitor General which departments of the United States Administration were visited by the Attorney General during his visit to Washington in February 2003; and what the purpose of each meeting was. [223787]

The Solicitor-General: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave him on 24 March 2003, Official Report, column 21W, and the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Hampstead and Highgate (Glenda Jackson) on 30 November 2004, Official Report, column 48W.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Court of Appeal (Criminal Division)

Ross Cranston: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what assessment he has made of the level of successful appeals against convictions to the Court of Appeal Criminal Division between 2000 and 2004, with particular reference to the implications for the funding of the Criminal Defence Service; and if he will make a statement. [222735]

Mr. Lammy: Between 2000 and 2004, in those applications where leave to appeal had been granted, on average 33 per cent. of appeals against conviction were successful. During the same period the overall annual spend from the Criminal Defence Service (CDS) Budget in the Court of Appeal Criminal Division varied between £5 million and £10 million. In the context of a current annual CDS Budget of approximately £1 billion, it is not considered that total spend in the Court of Appeal is excessive, nor that it threatens delivery of other CDS priorities.

Freedom of Information

Llew Smith: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what steps have been taken to disseminate information on best practice in the application of freedom of information guidance to Government Departments. [223930]

Mr. Lammy: My Department has provided support to Freedom of Information (FOI) practitioners in Government Departments through the FOI Practitioners Group forum as well as through the e-forum website. The Practitioners Group has provided a useful forum to discuss in depth the practical impact of FOI and the application of the suite of guidance issued by my Department on 26 October 2004. To provide more in-depth support on particular issues facing Government Departments, my Department has issued working assumptions on the application of exemptions to particular classes of information. The Access to Information Central Clearing House provides daily support to all Whitehall departments. My Department also ran training seminars for all Whitehall decision makers prior to 1 January.

Immigration

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs whether the Immigration Appeal Tribunal has considered the case of Mr. Aaron Chisango; and if he will make a statement. [223757]

Mr. Lammy: Permission to appeal was granted by the Immigration Appeal Tribunal (IAT) on 2 February 2005. The appeal has been listed for hearing by the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal on Monday 9 May 2005, in accordance with The Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants, etc.) Act 2004 (Commencement No. 5 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2005 (SI 2005 No. 565 (C.25)).

Legal Aid (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs if he will list those cases in which legal aid has been (a) awarded and (b) applied for but not awarded to families in Leicester, South since 1997. [223647]

Mr. Lammy: The Legal Services Commission is not able to name individual cases due to the Data Protection Act 1998.

The Legal Services Commission contracts with suppliers in Leicester and elsewhere to provide a range of legal and advice services across different categories of law.

The following table outlines numbers of certificates (a) issued and (b) applied for but not issued in the family and non-family categories of civil legal aid for the Commission's Leicester contracting bid zone.

Applications issued in Leicester 1 January 1998 to 31 December 2004

	Issued family	Issued non-family	Total application	Not issued family	Not issued non-family	Total application

Royal Marriage

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs pursuant to his answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 462W, on the Royal Marriage, whether the spouse of HRH the Prince of Wales will be the Princess of Wales consequent on the marriage to be held on 9 April; and if he will make a statement. [224110]

Mr. Leslie: Following her marriage, Camilla Parker Bowles will be HRH the Duchess of Cornwall and the Duchess of Rothesay in Scotland. As was made clear at the time of the announcement of the marriage, she will be Princess of Wales but will not use the title.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH

Chile

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the Government of Chile's adherence to end user certificates in respect of arms exports from the UK. [224533]

Mr. MacShane: We believe that the Government of Chile issue end user certificates in respect of arms exports in good faith and that they take appropriate steps to safeguard UK-origin defence equipment. The UK Government undertake monitoring in the recipient country of arms supplied by UK manufacturers when we believe that this would genuinely help to minimise the risk of diversion and where such monitoring is practical. In addition, UK overseas Posts have standing instructions to report any misuse of UK-origin defence equipment. Evidence of misuse would be taken into account when the Government assess any subsequent licence applications for the end-user and we may also, if appropriate, revoke related licences.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has held with the Government of Chile concerning the prosecution of General Pinochet and other officials of the 1973 to 1990 regime; what assistance has been offered for forensic research; and if he will make a statement. [224588]

Mr. Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not discussed this issue with the Government of Chile. The Government have not received any request for forensic research. While it would be inappropriate to comment on specific cases still in process, we warmly welcome any measures taken by the Chilean Government to address past human rights abuses.

EU Constitution

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which Articles in the proposed Constitution for the European Union include provisions which are not already in force by virtue of existing treaties; and which of the Articles making new provisions have been subject to debate in Parliament. [223966]

Mr. MacShane: A Commentary analysing the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe and comparing its provisions with the existing EU Treaties was published on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website: www.fco.gov.uk and laid before Parliament on 26 January. It was published as Command Paper 6459 in time for Second Reading of the EU Bill. The Commentary, in analysing every Article of the draft Treaty, sets out which provisions are new and explains where the Treaty provision derives from if it is not new. There has been considerable parliamentary scrutiny of all parts of the Constitutional Treaty, including during debates on the Convention on the Future of Europe and the Intergovernmental Conference in 2003–04. In addition, Parliament will be able to comment on the Treaty during the passage of the EU Bill.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the Courts of the United Kingdom will be bound by the terms of the Charter of Fundamental Rights if the proposed Constitution for the European Union is adopted. [223967]

Mr. MacShane: The Charter of Fundamental Rights as set out in part 2 of the EU Constitutional Treaty will become part of UK treaty law by virtue of the EU Bill. The Charter binds only the EU's own institutions, and binds member states only when they are implementing EU law.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which body was responsible for drafting the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Community and Union; who the representatives of the United Kingdom on that body were; at which Heads of Government Council it was agreed that the Charter should be part of the draft Treaty establishing a Constitution for the European Union; and what parliamentary procedures occurred in the United Kingdom relating to it prior to signature of the Treaty for the Constitution on 29 October 2004. [223210]

Mr. MacShane: The Charter of Fundamental Rights was drafted in 2000 by a Convention of representatives of member state Governments, National Parliaments, the European Parliament and the European Commission. The UK Government's representative was my noble Friend Lord Goldsmith, and his alternate was Martin Eaton. The UK's National Parliament was represented by the noble Lord, Lord Bowness and my hon. Friend the Member for Bridgend (Mr. Griffiths). Their alternates were my hon. Friend the Member for Eastleigh (Mr. Chidgey) and my noble Friend the Baroness Howells of St. Davids. The UK was also represented through the European Parliament by Andrew Duff MEP and Timothy Kirkhope MEP. Their alternates were Graham Watson MEP and Philip Whitehead MEP.

The Charter was agreed as a political declaration at the Nice European Council in December 2000, where Heads of State and Government also agreed to review its legal status at the next intergovernmental conference (IGC). The UK Government agreed to the incorporation of the Charter of Fundamental Rights into the EU Constitutional Treaty at the June European Council in 2004.

There has been considerable parliamentary scrutiny of all parts of the Constitutional Treaty, including the Charter of Fundamental Rights, during the Convention on the Future of Europe and the IGC in 2003–04. In addition, Parliament will be able to comment on the treaty during the passage of the EU Bill, and the public will be able to vote on it in the referendum.

European Court of Justice

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the process of appointment for members of the European Court of Justice for each member state is. [223988]

Mr. MacShane: The judges and Advocates-General of the European Court of Justice (ECJ) are appointed by common accord of the Governments of the member states and hold office for a renewable term of six years. The Court is composed of one judge per member state, so that all the EU's national legal systems are represented. If a judge or Advocate-General resigns or retires before the end of their term, the member state in question nominates a new candidate. Members of the ECJ are chosen from legal experts whose independence is beyond doubt and who possess the qualifications required for appointment to the highest judicial offices in their respective countries or who are of recognised competence.

European Legislation

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) directives and (b) regulations of the European (i) Communities and (ii) Union are in force; and how many have come into force since 1 May 1997. [223965]

Mr. MacShane: Information relating to the number of European Community and European Union directives and regulations currently in force, and those which have entered into force since 1 May 1997, is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The Government welcome the Commission's recent Communication 'Better Regulation for Growth and Jobs', which promises further work on assessing the impact of new measures and on simplifying existing legislation.

My hon. Friend may also wish to consult Standard Note SN/IA/2888 in the Library of the House which gives details of the number of measures adopted and the number which have been repealed or have expired in any given year.

G8 Summit

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the cost to public funds of (a) completed and (b) planned refurbishment and redecoration of (i) buildings and (ii) sites associated with the forthcoming G8 summit; and if he will make a statement. [223736]

Mr. Rammell: In preparation for the G8 Summit in July, some refurbishment work and building of temporary structures will be necessary, but the work has not yet started and the cost has not yet been finalised.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the cost to (a) the Scottish Executive and (b) his Department will be of completed or planned refurbishment and redecoration of buildings and sites for the forthcoming G8 summit; and if he will list (i) work completed, (ii) work planned and (iii) the buildings and sites involved. [224029]

Mr. Rammell: In preparation for the G8 Summit in July, some refurbishment work will be necessary at facilities in Scotland, as well as the building of temporary structures at the Gleneagles hotel. The work planned by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has not yet started and the cost has not yet been finalised. We understand that some limited refurbishment and redecoration (amounting to less than £500) has taken place in a number of police buildings. Other property costs are being incurred in connection with security but it is not Scottish Executive policy to comment on security aspects.

Intelligence Operations

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the nature is of the complexities and difficulties to which reference is made in respect of international co-operation on security intelligence, at paragraph 7 of Cm 6492, Review of Intelligence on Weapons of Mass Destruction, implementation of its conclusions. [224287]

Mr. Straw: The global nature of the current terrorist threat is such that groups and individuals from different countries may be involved in planning and supporting terrorist activity both in the country in which they are based and elsewhere. This presents challenges in managing investigations, prosecutions and other legal sanctions often simultaneously, across national boundaries, further complicated by other practical difficulties, such as different legal systems.

Iraq

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has received concerning further steps to safeguard the archaeological heritage of Iraq; and if he will make a statement. [224452]

Mr. Rammell: The Government take very seriously the need to respect Iraq's cultural heritage. As United Nations Security Council Resolution 1546 (June 2004) stressed, all parties need to respect and protect Iraq's archaeological, historical, cultural, and religious heritage.

Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials are in regular contact with the Iraqi Ministry of Culture. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (Tessa Jowell) has spoken with the Iraqi Minister of Culture and is kept closely informed of key cultural issues in Iraq. At the Iraqi Ministry's request we helped facilitate a British Museum visit to Babylon in December 2004.

The Government are currently funding three Iraqi interns to receive training on site management techniques and museology, based at the British Museum. We continue to look at ways of supporting the museum's involvement in Iraq.

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will authorise Mrs. Elizabeth Wilmshurst to give a public account of her arguments and her reasoning on the legality of war in Iraq. [224470]

Mr. Straw: Elizabeth Wilmshurst is under continuing obligations by virtue of the Official Secrets Acts and her professional position. It would not be appropriate to relieve her of these obligations.

Irish Lights

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Irish Government about payments from the UK General Lighthouse Fund for the provision of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters; and if he will make a statement. [224206]

Mr. MacShane: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has had no contact with the Irish Government on this issue. However, Her Majesty's Ambassador to Ireland raised this issue with the Secretary-General of the Irish Department of Communications, Marine and Natural Resources on 17 June 2004. Officials at the Department of Transport have recently discussed with the Irish Government the principle of a review of the light dues system including the 1985 agreement. The Irish Government have indicated that it is willing for such a review to take place.

Kyrgyzstan

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the political situation in Kyrgyzstan; and what steps he is taking through diplomatic channels to find a peaceful settlement. [224050]

Mr. Rammell: On 27 February 2005, Kyrgyzstan held parliamentary elections. On 4 March I made a statement noting that, while more competitive than previous elections, the elections had still not fully matched up to international standards.

The second round of elections on 13 March 2005 were marred by the same shortcomings as the first, with allegations of vote buying and pressure on the independent media.

In the course of the following week the number of protests against individual results escalated, and the demonstrations became increasingly assertive. By 21 March, the protesters had seized regional administrative buildings in the southern cities of Osh and Jalabad.

On 24 March a large demonstration took place in the capital Bishkek calling for President Akaev to resign. The demonstrators took control of the main Government building. The Government resigned and President Akaev left the country.

The opposition figures have formed an interim Government and attempted to restore order to the streets of Bishkek and to the country as a whole. The old Parliament has now dissolved itself, so legitimising the newly elected Parliament. However, 13 out of the 75 seats remain disputed. New elections will be held for them in the future. New presidential elections have provisionally been called for 26 June.

Our ambassador was in Bishkek on 24–28 March when the main action took place. With EU and Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) colleagues he met various members of the interim Government. They encouraged the Government to re-establish law and order, pursue a policy of national reconciliation and dialogue with all political forces in Kyrgyzstan and ensure continuity of reform programmes. In doing so they emphasised the need to respect fully democratic norms and human rights.

I reinforced these messages in a phone call to the acting Foreign Minister, Roza Otunbaeva, on 30 March. I noted that the upcoming elections would be crucial in determining the domestic and international credibility of the interim Government. I encouraged the interim Government to work closely with the OSCE and reaffirmed the willingness of the UK, with our EU partners, to co-operate with the interim Government in this respect.

Nepal

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if the Government will support a resolution at the Commission on Human Rights calling for the appointment of a Special Rapporteur on Nepal to monitor the human rights situation; and if he will make a statement. [223853]

Mr. Straw: The UK is closely involved in negotiations at the UN Commission on Human Rights this year, as we were last year when we contributed significantly to a chairman's statement. We remain equally engaged this year in the new political context following the King's take-over of power on 1 February and his suspension of fundamental rights. We remain deeply troubled by all abuses carried out against the ordinary people of Nepal, both by the state and the Maoists, and remain committed to improving the human rights situation in Nepal. We are seeking to do this through a number of means, including by continuing to fund human rights organisations and remaining engaged with the Nepalese National Human Rights Commission. We are also seeking to effect change through the UN Commission for Human Rights and are currently working with our international partners to find the best way to take this forward. Unless radical progress is made in the short term, we will be looking to secure a robust statement calling for the release of all political prisoners, the restoration of fundamental rights and an appropriate mechanism for human rights monitoring. The final position is still evolving in negotiation with our international partners.

Non-proliferation Treaty Review Conference

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking to encourage Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty signatory states to sign and ratify additional protocols; and whether it is his policy that adherence to additional protocols should be set as the standard for verifying compliance with the Treaty. [223330]

Mr. MacShane: The Government use every opportunity bilaterally and multilaterally to encourage universal acceptance of the International Atomic Energy Agency Additional Protocols (AP) and for recognition that, together with the Comprehensive Safeguards Agreement, the AP is now the nuclear verification standard. We would like to see the AP accepted as a future condition of supply of sensitive nuclear materials.

Nuclear Proliferation

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs in what circumstances he would make public information received from friendly foreign intelligence services on nuclear proliferation activities. [224010]

Mr. Straw: Intelligence information is made public only in exceptional circumstances, and in the case where it has been received from a foreign security or intelligence service this would be done only with their agreement.

Porton Down

Matthew Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs for what reasons the Secret Intelligence Service commissioned the chemical defence establishment at Porton Down to conduct experiments with the chemical LSD on service personnel; when these experiments took place; what the outcome was of the trials; how many service personnel were tested with LSD; how many Porton Down scientists were tested with LSD; and if he will make a statement. [220430]

Mr. Straw: In 1953 and 1954 the Secret Intelligence Service commissioned Porton Down to conduct tests on military service volunteers, and also on Porton Scientists themselves, to examine their reactions to LSD. The Government's defence interest in LSD began in the early 1950s because of its perceived potential as an incapacitant and/or interrogation aid. The 1953–54 LSD tests were but a small part of the continuing Porton Down volunteer test programme. The conclusion of the tests was that LSD had no demonstrable value for intelligence purposes.

Uganda

Mr. Colman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the People's Redemption Army (PRA) in Uganda was formed; what installations the PRA has attacked; and if he will make a statement. [223795]

Mr. Rammell: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office

(Chris Mullin) gave on 9 March 2005, Official Report, column 1896W to the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock).

United Nations (Secretary-General's Report)

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what response the Government will make to Chapter three of the Secretary-General of the United Nations' Report, In Larger Freedom: Towards Development, Security and Human Rights For All. [224135]

Mr. Rammell: We have warmly welcomed the publication of the Secretary General's report issued on 21 March "In Larger Freedom", and the bold reform proposals it makes. It is consistent with UK priorities for the Millennium Review Summit in September.

We are engaging actively with partners and with the UN on implementation of the report, including on many issues highlighted in Chapter III: Freedom from fear. We want to encourage agreement on a substantial package of UN reforms, including on the proposed Peacebuilding Commission and on strengthening the UN's response to the threat of terrorism.

We have also embarked on a public consultation exercise throughout the UK with the UN Association, to ensure that members of the public and civil society are given the opportunity of feeding in their views.

Zimbabwe

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports his Department has received concerning the fundraising mission to the UK earlier in 2005 of Dr. Ghulam Adam from Zimbabwe; what action his Department has taken to ensure there has been no breach of the European Union's restrictive measures against Zimbabwe; and what action can be taken against individuals who may have donated money in contravention of the EU restrictions. [223866]

Mr. Straw: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office received uncorroborated reports earlier this year that Dr. Adam had previously been in the UK conducting fund-raising for ZANU-PF. Fund-raising for a political party is not in itself a breach of EU sanctions on Zimbabwe. These sanctions provide that > 'no funds or economic resources shall be made available directly or indirectly to or for the benefit of natural or legal persons, entities or bodies listed', a list which includes individual leading members of the Zimbabwean regime and of ZANU-PF but not the party itself. An offence would therefore have been committed only if the object or effect of the fund-raising was to give funds directly or indirectly to persons subject to the sanctions, and we have not received actionable evidence to that effect. We refer all credible allegations that the EU sanctions may have been broken to the relevant UK authorities. Those responsible for breaching sanctions are liable for prosecution.

HEALTH

A and E Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons the compliance target for the maximum four-hour accident and emergency waiting time has been set at 98 per cent. [222806]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The 98 per cent. operational standard was set to allow sufficient flexibility for clinicians to manage the small minority of patients who clinically require more than four hours in accident and emergency. It followed a wide consultation with clinicians and their representative organisations.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to undertake unannounced inspections of hospitals accident and emergency departments to monitor compliance with the four-hour waiting time target. [222831]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The national health service collects data for every patient who attends accident and emergency (A and E) showing performance against the four-hour target. There are clear reporting standards, set through national guidance, and there are rigorous checks at both local and national level to ensure that the data returns are robust. The Department also deploys a number of improvement teams who work directly with A and E departments and who are able to provide additional assurances about the quality and reliability of performance reporting. We do not consider that any additional checks are needed.

Agenda for Change

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to seek to ensure that pay scales on the Whitley scheme will be the same or greater following the implementation of the Agenda for Change programme after April 2006. [224478]

Mr. Hutton: The pay banding of staff under Agenda for Change is determined by the NHS Job Evaluation Scheme, which is designed to ensure equal pay for work of equal value. In the case of the minority of individual staff whose regular pay might otherwise be lower under the new system, their pay will be protected in accordance with the arrangements agreed by the NHS Staff Council. These arrangements are set in Section 46 of the NHS Terms and Conditions of Service Handbook, a copy of which is in the Library.

Appointments Commission

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) when he expects an evaluation of the effectiveness of the Appointments Commission to be initiated; [224035]

(2) what checks on declaration of interests the Department of Health undertakes alongside those of the Appointments Commission. [224036]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The national health service Appointments Commission was reviewed last year as part of the Department's review of its arm's-length bodies. The review recommended a change of status to executive non-departmental public body and an extended remit.

As part of the current governance arrangements for the NHS Appointments Commission, the Department formally reviews progress in meeting annual business plan targets bi-annually. The Appointments Commission is also subject to regular audit by the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments.

The Department does not undertake additional checks on declarations of interest. The Secretary of State has delegated the majority of his appointments functions to the NHS Appointments Commission.

Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Alliance

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will assess the extent to which the standards set by the Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Alliance and included in his Department's publication Supporting People with Long Term Conditions, are achieved in the NHS. [224521]

Mr. Hutton: The Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Alliance's standards for care for people with back pain were referenced in the Department's publication "Supporting People with Long Term Conditions" as an example of best practice.

"Standards for Better Health", published in July 2004, sets out the national standards for national health service patients to receive effective treatment and care that conforms to nationally agreed best practice.

In line with Shifting the Balance of Power, it is the responsibility of the NHS locally to manage the delivery of these standards with the independent Healthcare Commission responsible for assessing and inspecting health care, taking into account "Standards for Better Health".

Children's National Service Framework

Mr. Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what structures are in place to monitor the implementation of the children's national service framework. [223845]

Dr. Ladyman: The national service framework (NSF) is a key component of the Government's overall programme, "Every Child Matters: Change for Children", which aims to improve outcomes for children, including health outcomes. "Supporting Local Delivery", the delivery strategy for the NSF, described how progress would be measured. This will include internal evaluation using indicators which are under development, performance management by strategic health authorities and the inspection process. The inspectorates will be responsible for measuring progress against the NSF, to judge the contribution of services to improving these outcomes. Commencing in September this year, Ofsted, the Healthcare Commission and the Commission for Social Care Inspection will conduct joint area reviews of children's services to assess the contribution of local services to improving outcomes for children and young people.

Assessment of progress against the NSF in the national health service specifically is the responsibility of the Healthcare Commission, which has recently completed an extensive public consultation on a new system of assessing and performance rating NHS trusts in 2005–06.

Mr. Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how he plans to support primary care trusts in setting local delivery targets for the Children's National Service Framework. [223848]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department is keen to encourage maximum flexibility in the setting of local targets, to ensure that they are appropriate to the needs of local communities. The Department has set out six principles for local target setting for the national health service and social care as part of its planning guidance, "National Standards, Local Action".

Primary care trusts must agree appropriate local targets, in line with the six principles, with their strategic health authority, which is responsible for offering support throughout the planning process. In providing the context for these principles, the guidance states that organisations will need to be guided by the evidence set out in national service frameworks.

COX-2 Inhibitors

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ban the use of all COX-2 inhibitors. [223861]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), with expert advice from the Committee on Safety of Medicines (CSM), has continuously monitored the balance of risks and benefits of selective COX-2 inhibitors since they were first licensed in the United Kingdom, and has taken regulatory action to minimise risks and maximise safe use of these medicines on a number of occasions, as new evidence has emerged.

In 2004, new clinical trial evidence showing an increased risk of heart attacks and strokes with rofecoxib led the Marketing Authorisation holder to withdraw this selective COX-2 inhibitor. Subsequently, the CSM set up a working group to re-examine the cardiovascular safety of all selective COX-2 inhibitors. In addition, the UK has taken a leading role in a Europe wide review of this issue. Having reviewed all the available evidence, CSM has advised that selective COX-2 inhibitors should not be used in patients with heart disease or previous stroke, but should remain an option for other patients, with whom the balance of benefits and risk may be favourable. CSM's latest advice was communicated to healthcare professionals on 17 February 2005.

Crohn's Disease

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will exempt sufferers of Crohn's disease from prescription charges. [224165]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We have no plans to extend the existing list of medical conditions that give exemption from prescription charges. The list has been reviewed on a number of occasions but no clear cut case for extending it has emerged. There is no consensus on what additional conditions might be included in any revised list of medical exemptions, or how distinctions could be drawn between one condition and another.

Government policy is to help those who may have difficulty paying charges. The current exemption and charge remission arrangements are intended to ensure that no one need be deterred from obtaining any necessary medication on financial grounds. Consequently 86 per cent. of prescriptions are dispensed free of charge.

Device Evaluation

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what resources have been allocated for device evaluation from April 2005–06. [222959]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The devices evaluation service is due to transfer from the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency to the NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency in 2005. Its budget is still being finalised but will be increased from the 2004–05 level.

Drug Reactions

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to improve the systems for detecting adverse reactions to drugs. [223860]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The United Kingdom has been working with other member states on the implementation of a European risk management strategy designed to strengthen drug safety monitoring by making best use of all available resource, both data and expertise. Changes proposed to legislation, which will come into force in November 2005, will further strengthen drug safety monitoring in requiring risk management plans at the time of licensing new medicines and in further strengthening the obligations on the industry to keep regulators informed of any issue that may impact on the safety of a marketed medicine.

Drug Treatment

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of differing reports by Nottinghamshire Drug Action Team and Bassetlaw Primary Care Trust of the number of people receiving treatment for drugs in Bassetlaw in 2003–04; what definition his Department uses of the term drug treatment; and what steps are taken to correlate this definition with that used by the Department of Health; [223015]

(2) what methodology was used to quantify the figure reported by Nottinghamshire Drug Action Team for the number of clients accessing needle exchanges in Bassetlaw in 2003–04; and what criteria were used by (a) the National Treatment Agency and (b) the local Government office to verify its authenticity. [223073]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 23 March 2005]: I have asked officials in the Nottinghamshire Drug Action Team to write to my hon. Friend directly with this information.

Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will increase funding available for research into developing a therapy for Duchenne muscular dystrophy; and if he will make a statement. [224472]

Dr. Ladyman: The main agency through which the Government supports medical and clinical research is the Medical Research Council (MRC). The MRC is an independent body, which receives its grant-in-aid from the Office of Science and Technology, part of the Department of Trade and Industry.

Elderly People (Falls)

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to prevent falls by elderly people. [224260]

Dr. Ladyman: The national service framework (NSF) for older people, launched in March 2001, requires integrated falls services to be in place locally by April 2005. The NSF provides a detailed description of what an integrated falls service should consist of. Adherence to this target is currently being monitored.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence also published on 24 November 2004 clinical guidelines on preventing falls in older people.

Electronic Referral Scheme

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress is being made on the choose and book electronic referral scheme. [224034]

Mr. Hutton: The choose and book implementation programme is making good progress. The choose and book service has been implemented in five reference sites. AH strategic health authorities (SHAs) and primary care trusts have submitted revised roll-out returns, based on the aim of the choose and book service being used for at least 80 per cent. of general practitioner referrals by the end of 2005. The Department is currently discussing these returns with SHAs.

Epilepsy

Mr. John Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he has issued on whether people with epilepsy may be sectioned under the Mental Health Acts; and if he will make a statement on the case of Mr. Martin Buckley, currently in the care of the National Society for Epilepsy, Buckinghamshire, whose mother is a constituent of the hon. Member. [223898]

Ms Rosie Winterton: As epilepsy is not now regarded by clinicians as a mental disorder, I have issued no such guidance. The decision on whether a person meets the criteria for detention under the Mental Health Act can only be taken in the light of the facts of the particular case.

I am unable to comment on the particular details of the case of Martin Buckley for reasons of patient confidentiality.

Exercise and Sport

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he intends to complete the process of evaluating (a) the Local Exercise Action Pilots, (b) the New Opportunities for Physical Education and Sport programme and (c) the Active England programme. [222825]

Mr. Caborn: I have been asked to reply.

The process of evaluating (a) the Local Exercise Action Pilots (LEAPs) will be completed in summer 2006 (b) the New Opportunities for PE and Sport programme will be completed in 2008 and (c) the Active England programme by 2009. An interim report for LEAP will also be produced in May 2005 and interim reports for the other two programmes will be produced on a regular basis up until the final evaluation.

External Management Consultants

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the NHS spent on the employment of external management consultants in each of the last five years, broken down by type of project. [224251]

Mr. Hutton: Information on the costs of employing external management consultants and the type of project is not collected centrally.

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information he collects on the (a) roles and (b) extent of use of external management consultants in the NHS; and in what year this information was first collected. [224252]

Mr. Hutton: This information is not collected centrally. The use of external management consultants is a decision for each national health service trust.

Free Personal Care

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what criteria are used to determine which medical conditions qualify a patient for free personal care. [224006]

Dr. Ladyman: A patient who is assessed as needing national health service fully-funded continuing health care services will receive all those care services, including any personal care, free of change. Eligibility criteria for continuing health care services are currently set by strategic health authorities and are based on the need for care, not diagnosis.

General Medical Services Contracts

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will introduce (a) inflammatory arthritis and (b) psoriatic arthritis into the quality and outcome frameworks of general practitioners' general medical services contracts. [223626]

Mr. Hutton: The national quality and outcomes framework (QOF) is under review. The review will include an independent expert group advising on the clinical evidence to support any changes to the current scheme. As part of that review, the Department will be submitting evidence to the expert group to ensure that the Government's priorities for improving the care delivered to patients by primary care practitioners is secured.

The expert group will then give advice to the national health service employers, who negotiate changes to the general practitioner contract on behalf of the Department and the British Medical Association about changes that may be made to the QOF for implementation from April 2006.

Head Lice

Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on progress in dealing with the prevention and treatment of head lice; and whether there is evidence that the problem is being contained. [223865]

Dr. Ladyman: Information on the incidence of head louse infestation is not collected centrally. The Department has no evidence that the problem is not being contained. Advice on tackling head louse infestation has been issued by the Department. Assistance is also available from the primary health care team, which includes health visitors, school nurses, general practitioners and community pharmacists. The Department also funds a voluntary group, Community Hygiene Concern, which promotes the "Bug Busting" approach to controlling infestation.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what records he keeps of the incidence of head lice infestation; what steps he is taking to reduce infestation; and what change there has been in the last five years in (a) the level of infestations, (b) the immunity of lice to treatment and (c) effectiveness of treatments for head lice. [224030]

Dr. Ladyman: Information on the incidence, changing levels of head louse infestation or acquired immunity to insecticides in lice is not collected centrally. Advice on tackling infestation, and thereby reducing incidence, has been issued by the Department. Further assistance is available from the primary health care team, which includes health visitors, school nurses, general practitioners and community pharmacists.

A number of lotions are licensed for the safe and effective treatment of head lice. The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency keeps the safety and efficacy of treatments under review and will cancel or restrict the licence of products which fail in terms of safety and/or efficacy. The Department also funds a voluntary group, Community Hygiene Concern, which promotes the Bug Busting approach to controlling infestation, which does not rely on lotions.

Health Services (Leicester, South)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were receiving NHS dental treatment in Leicester South in each year since 1997. [223731]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The information requested is not available in the format requested. However, Leicester South is served by Leicester City West Primary Care Trust (PCT) and Eastern Leicester PCT. The number of people in the PCT areas, that were registered with an national health service dentist for the years 1997 to 2004 are as shown in table 1.

Table 1: Number of people registered with an NHS dentist 1997 to 2004

	Eastern Leicester PCT	Leicester City West PCT
1997	129,541	60,993
1998	112,111	50,475
1999	112,397	51,637
2000	114,121	51,097
2001	119,118	49,789
2002	109,940	53,009
2003	109,637	54,665
2004	112,346	53,513

The drop in registrations between 1997 and 2004 is mostly attributable to the reduction in the re-registration period for patients from two years to 15 months.

The figures also exclude patients treated in dental access centres, who are not registered. In 2004, there were some 375,000 episodes of treatment in the 48 dental access centres then in operation in England. However, table 2 shows the breakdown of patients seen and treatments completed at the Leicestershire dental access centre, which opened in December 2001—up to and including data as of 31 January 2005.

McKinsey and Company

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what payments his Department made to McKinsey and Company during the past 12 months. [223632]

Mr. Hutton: Since April 2004, the Department has paid £105,750 to McKinsey and Company to assist with implementing new financial arrangements for national health service foundation trusts.

Heart Surgery (Wimbledon)

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on NHS waiting times for heart surgery in Wimbledon. [224249]

Dr. Ladyman: Revascularisation data is not available for the Wimbledon area and is only collected by trust. The table shows revascularisation waits at St. George's Healthcare NHS Trust.

Hospital Food

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's policy is on sourcing pork, bacon and ham bearing the British Pig Executive's Quality Standard Mark in hospitals; and if he will make a statement. [223241]

Mr. Hutton: The procurement of pork and bacon within the English national health service has to comply with the European Union Procurement Legislation, as the value of meat and poultry consumed by the English NHS is in excess of the threshold values contained within the legislation. The framework agreements covering these products, developed by the NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency (NHS PASA), influence approximately 70 per cent. of the requirements of the NHS in England and aim to deliver best value for money in terms of price, quality and service from contracted suppliers.

The specifications employed by NHS PASA were created with the Meat and Livestock Commission and Louchry College in Ireland. For the pork and bacon products, the specifications call for all suppliers to comply with the NHS code of practice for the manufacture, distribution and supply of food, ingredients and food related products; additionally, along with a wider range of criteria, the specifications call for pigs to be slaughtered and processed on European Commission, or equivalent, approved premises and the labelling must include the country of origin. Provided that it satisfies the NHS code of practice, NHS PASA would purchase pork, bacon and ham carrying the British Pig Executive's quality standards mark if it represented value for money.

Over the past 12 months, in excess of 86 per cent. of the pork joints, chops, mince, loin steaks etc. procured against NHS PASA's framework agreements were sourced from pigs originating from the United Kingdom. In terms of bacon, approximately 50 per cent. of the bacon sourced from NHS PASA's contracted butchers was of UK origin. The remaining countries of origin were mainly Holland and Denmark.

Mental Health

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to his answer of 9 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1909–10W, on mental health, what assessment he has made of the reasons for parts of the country being slow to use atypical antipsychotics; and what action he is taking to increase their take-up. [223851]

Ms Rosie Winterton: No evaluation has been made of the reasons as to why parts of the country may be slow to use atypical antipsychotics. However, the Department will continue to monitor prescribing trends of all antipsychotic drugs.

NHS Bank

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on progress in delivering the NHS Bank. [224037]

Mr. Hutton: The NHS Bank has been in existence and supporting national health service financial management since 2002.

NHS Charges

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost to the NHS of

(a) providing free sight tests for all, (b) meeting the cost of all prescription charges and (c) meeting the cost of all charges for dental care; and what estimate has been made of the additional cost to the NHS of meeting the charges only for those currently ineligible in each case. [221808]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The cost of extending eligibility for free national health service sight tests to all those who currently pay privately for sight tests is estimated at about £90 million a year in England, based on the 2004–05 fee rate of £17.82 per test payable to optometrists, and assuming no change in the take up rate for sight tests.

Income from prescription charges is expected to amount to £452 million in England in 2005–06. If all prescriptions were provided free of charge that income would be lost. There would also be an unquantifiable, additional cost to the drugs bill.

The cost of providing free NHS dental care to all those patients who currently pay dental charges is estimated at about £500 million a year in England, based on the levels of NHS dental care provided in 2003–04.

Dentistry (Chesterfield)

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentists were practising in Chesterfield constituency on the latest date for which figures are available; and how many of them were accepting new NHS (a) adult patients and (b) child patients. [222626]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are 54 dentists practicing in the Chesterfield primary care trust (PCT) area as at 31 December 2004[1].

The Trent strategic health authority (SHA) reports that, as at 30 March 2005, there are currently three dental practices accepting new national health service adult or child patients in the Chesterfield PCT area. In addition, a further five practices are accepting NHS adult patients on a qualified basis and three practices accepting children as NHS patients on a qualified basis.

The Government remain determined to improve access to NHS dentistry and has introduced a number of initiatives, which will help bring about improvements nationally and more locally. PCT funding for dentistry will increase by 19.3 per cent. from 2003–04 to 2005–06. Consequently, over £250 million of additional resources will be provided by 2005–06.

£127,000 has been provided to Chesterfield PCT as part of the dental access monies supplied to Trent SHA. This funding was due to deliver 2,120 new registrations.

However, it has in fact delivered 2,776 additional patient registrations as at the end of February 2005. It is estimated that this figure will increase by approximately 600 within the next six months.

Chesterfield PCT is keen to increase dental services in North Derbyshire. The Department has encouraged PCTs to be proactive in establishing early entry into the personal dental service (PDS). Orthodontic PDS will allow development of orthodontic services in the community and thereby reduce the waiting list for secondary care services. The PCT has pursued this goal and has developed good relationships with practice owners. It already has six early PDS practices and one more due to go live in May.

North Derbyshire PCTs have the following access agreements: four sessions per week with a practice in Clay Cross (in North Eastern Derbyshire PCT) and out of hours service for registered and non-registered patients for three hours during the evening on weekdays and three hours per day weekends and bank holidays at Scarsdale (within Chesterfield PCT).

NHS Personnel (Ethnicity)

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the ethnic composition of NHS personnel is broken down into the categories of the Census for (a) doctors, (b) consultants, (c) general practitioners excluding retainers, registrars and locums, (d) nurses, (e) midwives, (f) managers and senior managers, (g) other and (h) all NHS personnel. [224647]

Mr. Hutton: Information on the ethnicity of general practitioners and practice staff is not collected centrally.

Information on the ethnic composition of all other national health service personnel is shown in the table.

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

NHS University

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the training programmes of the NHS University will be continued in (a) Wales and (b) Northern Ireland. [223968]

Mr. Hutton: Decisions on the future of NHS University training programmes will be announced shortly.

NIMHE

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the salaries are of the eight regional directors of the National Institute for Mental Health, England (NIMHE); what the cost is of running NIMHE; and how many people have been employed by NIMHE in each year since its inception. [222014]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The salary range for National Institute for Mental Health (NIMHE) regional directors is between £78,000 and £115,000. The eight regional directors are employed by different local national health service organisations and as such, their salary details are not collected centrally. The salaries of NIMHE regional directors are not set centrally but, are decided by the local arrangements of the host organisation.

NIMHE's budget for 2004–05 is £22.903 million. Of this, £10.61 million is allocated to regional development centres, £9.7725 million to NIMHE national programmes, £2.22 million for central running costs, and £300,000 for NIMHE fellows.

Since NIMHE's establishment in June 2002, NIMHE has employed 56.8 whole time equivalent (wte) members of staff in 2002–03, 139.9 wte in 2003–04, and 230.15 wte in 2004–05.

The NIMHE in England was established to directly support front-line organisations to improve their care, helping them to develop services consistent with the standards laid out in the national service framework. The NIMHE regional centres often employ or second in on a part-time basis—clinical staff from front line organisations.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the purpose was of the recent trip by National Institute for Mental Health, England staff members to Australia and the Far East; how many members of staff were involved; what their air travel arrangements were; and how much the visit cost. [222016]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The recent visit made by staff from the National Institute for Mental Health in England (NIMHE) was to New Zealand, rather than Australia and the Far East. The purpose of the visit was to attend the International Institute of Mental Health Leaders conference.

The visit to NZ is part of an international initiative to promote effective leadership of mental health services sponsored by the Department in England and the equivalent bodies in the United States of America, NZ and Australia.

The NIMHE paid for 11 people to visit NZ, which included a national service user (and his carer) and a national carer representative. All air travel arrangements were made following guidance issued by the Department. The total cost NIMHE was £24,000.

Examples of learning by involvement in the International Initiative Mental Health Leadership exchanges and conference encompassed seeing how NZ is taking a leading role internationally in tackling issues of direct relevance to services in the United Kingdom, including:

Engaging the voluntary and independent sector in playing a major role in providing mental health services—30 per cent. of services in NZ are delivered by this sector compared to less than 10 per cent. in England.

Developing innovative models of mental health service delivery for a complex multicultural society (35 per cent. of the population), which reflects the key role of families and local communities in supporting recovery.

Managing major public campaigns challenging stigma and discrimination to ensure that people with mental health problems can play their full role in the workforce and in the wider community.

Addressing the challenges of delivering services in rural communities with limited access to professional staff.

Among the issues that NZ staff were anxious to learn about were the UK experience of:

Creating a workforce with appropriate capabilities to meet the needs of rapidly changing services.

Challenging the social exclusion of people with mental health problems in employment, housing, education and social activities.

Establishing a national mental health research network to support the development of evidence based practice in health and social care.

Demonstrating how NIMHE has supported service improvement in front line service delivery, including improved access, booking and choice for service users and their families.

Organ Donation

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether it is his Department's policy that relatives of a deceased person on the organ donor register may refuse permission for the deceased's organs to be donated; and if he will make a statement. [222813]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Human Tissue Act 2004 makes clear that where an adult has, while alive and competent, given consent for one or more of the scheduled purposes to take place following their death, then that consent is sufficient for the activity to be lawful. In these circumstances, therefore, a relative of the deceased person may not refuse permission for the deceased's organs to be donated, but there may be cases in which donation may not be practicable. The Human Tissue Authority will be responsible for preparing codes of practice that set out what is lawful and the procedures to be followed to implement the Act. These codes of practice will be subject to consultation and parliamentary scrutiny.

Orthopaedic Joint Replacements (Sefton)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect that contracts with Interhealth Care Services for treatment centres will have on waiting lists for orthopaedic joint replacements in Sefton. [223754]

Mr. Hutton: Interhealth Care Services will carry out over 900 orthopaedic procedures in the Sefton area, starting from June 2006. Interim service with Nuffield hospitals and Capio Healthcare began in October 2004 and will provide South Sefton Primary Care Trust with an additional 269 procedures for their patients in that year.

These arrangements will help to speed up operations that patients might otherwise have had to wait longer for.

Paediatric Continence Services

Mr. Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what structures are in place to measure the availability of integrated paediatric continence services in every community; [223846]

(2) how he expects that the children's national service framework will promote the provision of integrated paediatric continence services in every community. [223847]

Dr. Ladyman: The standard for an integrated, community-based paediatric continence service is defined in the children's national service framework (NSF). National health service primary care trusts (PCTs) are expected to ensure that accessible, high quality continence assessment and treatment is provided. This process will be informed by "Good Practice in Paediatric Continence Service Benchmarking in Action 2003". The Department has also set out principles for needs-based local target setting for health and social care as part of its three-year planning guidance, "National Standards, Local Action". PCTs must agree appropriate local targets with their strategic health authority, whose responsibility it is to ensure that local health services are of a high quality and are performing well. The guidance states that organisations will need to be guided by the NSFs, the standards of which will be inspected and reviewed by the Healthcare Commission over a 10-year implementation period, for the children's NSF.

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what advice has been given to strategic health authorities on supporting the development of integrated paediatric continence services by primary care trusts; [224189]

(2) what guidance is available to primary care trusts to support the development of integrated paediatric continence services; and whether guidance has been distributed at the local level; [224190]

(3) what action he will take to promote the provision of integrated paediatric continence services. [224191]

Dr. Ladyman: Strategic health authorities (SHAs) and primary care trusts (PCTs) have all received the national service framework for children, young people and maternity services (children's NSF). This promotes the development of integrated, community-based paediatric continence services. It states that service provision should be informed by the NHS Modernisation Agency's 2003 publication "Good Practice in Paediatric Continence Services—Benchmarking in Action", which is available on the clinical governance support group's website at www.cgsupport.nhs.uk/PDFs/articles/Mod_Agency_Good_Practice.pdf.

The Department has also set out principles for local target setting for the national health service and social care as part of its planning guidance, "National Standards, Local Action". This requires PCTs to agree appropriate local targets with their SHA, which has a responsibility to offer support throughout the planning process. "National Standards, Local Action" states that organisations will need to be guided by the evidence set out in the national service frameworks. In the case of the children's NSF, the Healthcare Commission will inspect and review progress towards achieving the standards over a 10-year implementation period.

Residential Care Costs

Mr. Keith Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average level of personal care costs in residential homes in England was in the last year for which figures are available. [223775]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Separate figures on the average level of personal care costs in residential homes in England are not available. The average gross weekly expenditure by local authorities, on residential care, including board and lodging payments, personal care, management and support costs, in 2003–04 is shown in the table.

Weekly expenditure on residential care 2003–04

Supported residents	Amount (£)

Saneline

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how Saneline can benefit from the mental health helplines investment framework. [222662]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The chair of the mental health helplines partnership (MHHP), of which SANE was until recently a member has written to SANE offering MHHP's support. The Department has indicated to the chair of the MHHP that it would offer advice and support to MHHP in this matter.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will meet representatives of SANE to discuss future funding of Saneline. [222665]

Ms Rosie Winterton: SANE and the Department have met on a number of occasions to discuss the issue of funding for Saneline.

The Department's contract with SANE in respect of Saneline comes to an end on 31 March 2005. In terms of the future funding of the Saneline service, SANE is eligible to apply for government funding streams aimed at the voluntary and community sector.

Unified Health and Social Care Assessments

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what performance criteria are applicable to the (a) number and (b) type of assessments to be undertaken in the Unified Health and Social Care Assessment Process; [223961]

(2) how (a) nutrition and (b) malnutrition are included in the assessment domains of the Unified Health and Social Care Assessment Process; [223962]

(3) what data relating to (a) nutrition and (b) malnutrition his Department will collect within the assessment domains in the Unified Health and Social Care Assessment Process. [223964]

Mr. Hutton: The independent Healthcare Commission is responsible for developing the indicators for use in the national health service performance ratings. Details can be found on its website at: www.healthcarecommission.org.uk/indicators_2005/.

The Commission has recently completed an extensive public consultation on a new system for assessing and performance rating NHS trusts in 2005–06 and will be making an announcement in due course.

The independent Commission for Social Care Inspection is responsible for developing the indicators for use in social care assessment. Details can be found on its website at: www.csci.org.uk/council_performance/paf/performance_indicators.htm.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Pensioners

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will extend the £200 assistance to pensioners to women aged 60 to 64 years. [224072]

Malcolm Wicks: We have are no plans to extend the £200 assistance to pensioners to women aged 60 to 64 years.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Coventry he expects will benefit from the £200 council tax assistance proposed in the Budget Statement. [223921]

Malcolm Wicks: We estimate that about 30,000 pensioners in Coventry will benefit from the 200 council tax assistance.

Note:
Local authorities are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.

IAD Information Centre

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners in Coventry who have not applied for pension credit since its introduction; and what rationale underlay the decision to means-test applicants for pension credit. [223922]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is not available in the form requested. As at 31 December 2005, there were 16,215 households (19,615 individuals) in the Coventry local authority area in receipt of pension credit. Information on numbers of households or individuals eligible for pension credit is not available at local authority or constituency level.

This Government's priority when we came to office was to tackle the legacy of pensioner poverty. We continue to do this by targeting help on today's poorest pensioners and by encouraging all pensioners to receive the benefits they are entitled to. At the same time, the Government believes that empowering individuals to make real and informed choices about working and saving for retirement is fundamental if they are to make sure people get the income in retirement they expect. Pension credit rewards those who have worked hard to provide modest incomes for themselves in retirement. Income-testing of benefits has existed since before and after the creation of the Welfare State in 1948. With the introduction of pension credit, and the ease by which it can be applied for, we have moved away from the stigmatising weekly means tests of the past.

Pension Service (Norfolk)

17. Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what plans he has for the organisation of the Pension Service in Norfolk. [224425]

Malcolm Wicks: The Pension Service is undergoing a challenging transformation programme through to 2008, which will contribute towards the efficiency challenge announced in the Budget 2004. The Pension Service will be transforming at least 12 pension centre sites to deliver improved customer services, efficiencies and more fulfilling jobs for staff.

The Kingfisher House site in Norwich will support the recovery plans for the Child Support Agency, and will transfer to it by the end of December 2005. The Baltic House site will transfer to Jobcentre Plus by the end of March 2006 to support their transformation programme.

There will be no change to any telephone numbers and no disruption of service. Customers will continue to contact us, as they do now by phone—on our national number—by email and face to face support in Norfolk through The Pension Service Local Service network.

Child Support Agency

18. Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what criteria are used to determine the order of priority in migrating legacy Child Support Agency cases to the new system. [224426]

Mr. Pond: Where an old scheme case has a link with a new scheme application, that case will transfer early. However, the legislation allowing the transfer of unlinked cases will be put into effect only when we believe the IT is ready and not before.

We are determined not to repeat the mistakes of 1993 when the old scheme was brought in far too quickly.

21. Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the investigatory powers available to the Child Support Agency to trace parents required to make child support payments. [224429]

Mr. Pond: The Government made clear in their response to the Select Committee on Work and Pensions that they are committed to keeping the investigative powers the Agency uses under review.

We acknowledge that the CSA has not made the most effective use of its information gathering powers and are looking for a significant improvement in the Agency's performance in this area.

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) senior management posts and (b) enforcement officer posts there have been in each of the regional Child Support Agency centres in each of the last seven years. [216764]

Mr. Pond: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive, Mr. Doug Smith. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Doug Smith to Mr. Steve Webb, dated 4 April 2005:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many (a) senior management posts and (b) enforcement officer posts there have been in each of the regional Child Support Agency centres in each of the last seven years.

(a) For the purposes of this response I am regarding 'senior management' as posts filled by members of civil service grades 6 and 7. I am unable to provide a geographical breakdown of senior management posts prior to 2003. From 2003 onwards, the number of senior management posts is as follows:

Regional centre	March 2003	March 2004	January 2005
Midlands	6	5
South Eastern	6	6	23
South Western	3	6
Scotland and NE England	7	7
Wales and NW England	6	5	12
Eastern	1	1	1
Total	29	30	36

We have altered the way senior management figures are reported from January 2005 to reflect recent changes in our organisational structure. 5 of the original business units have been amalgamated to become the Southern and Northern Territories.

(b) The number of specialist enforcement officer posts is as follows:

Regional centre	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005
Midlands	32	25	9	17	24	34	38
South Eastern	10	12	14	23	30	27	28
Scotland and NE England	22	46	38	45	46	48	46
South Western	37	16	18	24	30	41	43
Wales and NW England	14	13	14	36	33	36	33
Eastern	14	23	14	17	26	52	52
Total	130	136	107	162	189	237	240

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on progress in migrating the existing Child Support Agency caseload to the new formula and systems. [224348]

Mr. Pond: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for Ashford, (Mr. Damian Green), on 8 December 2004, Official Report, column 568W.

Pension Credit

20. Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent estimate he has made of the number of pensioners eligible for pension credit who are not claiming the credit. [224428]

Malcolm Wicks: Reliable estimates of the number of people eligible for pension credit but not receiving it are not yet available. We plan to publish definitive National Statistics on take-up and entitlement for the first six months of pension credit by the end of 2005.

At the end of December 2004, 3,600 pensioner households (4,460 individuals) in Mid Worcestershire were receiving pension credit, with an average weekly payment of £37.88 per household.

23. Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on measures taken by his Department relating to the take-up of pension credit. [224431]

Malcolm Wicks: We continue to devote considerable effort and resources to increasing levels of pension credit take-up.

We have already written to every pensioner household in the country about pension credit and we are re-contacting directly, by mail, telephone or personal visit, those people whom we believe particularly likely to be eligible.

New marketing campaigns seek to overcome the barriers which might prevent take-up of pension credit and the reasons which people give for not applying.

The Pension Service local service continues to work in partnership with local authorities and the voluntary sector, particularly in identifying and contacting older people who are vulnerable or who have yet to take up their entitlement.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether a pensioner's higher income from a deferred basic state pension will be taken into account in assessing entitlement to pension credit. [219554]

Malcolm Wicks: If a person receives a higher weekly income as a result of deferring, then that higher amount is taken into account in pension credit and may be rewarded in savings credit. There are no proposals to change this.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many phone calls have been made by the Pension Service informing pensioners of pension credit in each month since October 2003; [221764]

(2) how many pensioners in each parliamentary constituency, having been invited to explore the possibility that they may be eligible for pension credit through an unsolicited call from the Pension Service or other agency for which his Department is responsible (a) went on to make a successful application for pension credit and (b) did not go on to make a successful application for pension credit; [221776]

(3) how many pensioners in each parliamentary constituency have received telephone calls since September 2003 from the Pension Service or other agencies for which his Department is responsible, inviting them to explore the possibility that they may be eligible for pension credit; [221777]

(4) how many telephone calls the Pension Service has made since September 2004 to invite pensioners to explore the possibility that they may be eligible for pension credit (a) after 6.30 pm on weekdays and (b) at weekends; and to which parliamentary constituencies those calls were made; [221778]

(5) how many pensioners in each parliamentary constituency have since October 2004 received (a) telephone calls and (b) letters from the Pension Service or other agencies for which his Department is responsible, inviting them to explore the possibility that they may be eligible for pension credit; [221779]

(6) what criteria are used by (a) the Pension Service and (b) other agencies for which his Department has responsibility to identify and approach people who have not applied for pension credit but might be eligible for it. [221780]

Malcolm Wicks: The table shows the number of calls about pension credit made by staff in the pension credit application line between April 2004, when such calls were first made, and February 2005. These calls were not made 'cold' but were either to pensioners who were judged likely to be eligible for pension credit to ask if they wish to apply, or to those who had been sent a completed application form to sign and return but had not yet done so. All those who receive a telephone call would already have received at least one letter about pension credit, including one informing them that a call might be made. It is not possible to break down the figures by constituency or the time at which they were made. Some calls about pension credit have also been made by departmental staff outside the pension credit application line. Figures for these are not available.

The Pension Service uses a range of data to identify those who are potentially eligible for pension credit, including age, gender, marital status, receipt of housing benefit and council tax benefit and an affluence measure based on postcode. Information on the number of people who received a telephone call and went on to make a successful or unsuccessful application for pension credit is not available.

The Pension Service issued 807,000 letters about pension credit between 1 October 2004 and 11 March 2005.

Outbound telephone calls made by the pension credit application line, April 2004 to February 2005

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on the most recent take-up levels of pension credit. [224099]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement by my hon. Friend the Secretary of State on 3 February 2005, Official Report, column 68WS.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the most recent take-up levels of pension credit are in each Inland Revenue district; and if he will make a statement. [224302]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is not available in the form requested. Information on numbers of households and individuals in receipt of pension credit in each Government Office region, constituency and local authority area at 31 December 2004 is contained in the most recent quarterly pension credit progress report, which was published on 3 February 2005. A copy of the report is in the Library.

State Pension Age

22. Mr. Tom Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on his Department's plans to encourage people to work beyond state pension age if they choose to do so. [224430]

Malcolm Wicks: The number of people working past State Pension age has been increasing and now stands at one million. In our March publication Opportunity Age—Meeting the challenges of ageing in the 21st century, we confirmed our aspiration of increasing the number of older people in employment by a million.

We are committed to giving people more choice about when and how they retire. For the first time ever, from this month we will offer people choosing to defer their State pension for a year or more the choice of either an enhanced weekly pension or a generous lump sum payment.

Pension Payments

25. Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people are using pension books to receive pension payments. [224433]

Mr. Pond: Order books have now ended. All recipients of state pension have been converted to direct payment, whether direct into a bank or building society account or post office card account. The small number of customers that we cannot pay this way are being paid by cheque. No state pension payments after 28 February are due to be paid by order book, although order book foils can be cashed for up to three months after the date shown on the foil. Information on the number of people who retain order book foils yet to be cashed is not available.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in (a) Orkney, (b) Shetland, (c) Scotland and (d) the UK were receiving pension payments using pension books in the week beginning 21 March. [224263]

Mr. Pond: Order books have ended. All recipients of state pension have been converted to direct payment, whether direct into a bank or building society account or Post Office card account, by the week beginning 7 March. The small number of customers that we cannot pay this way are being paid by cheque. No state pension payments after 28 February are due to be paid by order book, although order book foils can be cashed for up to three months after the date shown on the foil. Information on the number of people who retain order book foils yet to be cashed is not available.

Pensions

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people did not receive the full basic State Pension because of their contribution records in the latest year for which figures are available; and by what amount on average their pensions fell short of the basic state level. [217327]

Malcolm Wicks: As at 31 March 2004, 3,679,200 people in Great Britain received a basic State Pension at less than the full rate of £77.45 a week because of incomplete contribution records. On average the basic State Pension paid fell short of the full level of the basic State Pension by £27.54.

Where the basic State Pension is the only source of income, extra help is available in the form of pension credit.

Notes:
1. Numbers are taken from a 5 per cent, sample and are therefore subject to a high degree of sampling variation.
2. Numbers are rounded to the nearest hundred. Amounts are rounded to the Nearest penny.
3. A basic State Pension is paid to those who fully or partially satisfy the contribution conditions for a Category A or Category B basic State Pension, either in their own right or, where applicable, on the basis of their late or former spouse's National Insurance contributions.
4. Numbers do not include people entitled to a basic State Pension which is then increased when they meet the conditions for a Category D Pension.
5. The calculation of the average amount of the shortfall excludes those receiving a basic State Pension of £77.45.

Benefit Claimants

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many men aged 50 to 64 years are on (a) unemployment benefits and (b) incapacity or other disability benefits. [224676]

Maria Eagle: As at 30 November 2004, there were 95,255 men aged between 50 and 64 claiming jobseekers allowance, 780,000 claiming incapacity benefits and 417,900 in receipt of disability living allowance.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claimed (a) incapacity benefit and (b) disability allowance in Leicester, South in each year since 1997. [224282]

Maria Eagle: The information is in the tables.

Incapacity benefit (IB) and severe disablement allowance (SDA) claimants in the Leicester South parliamentary constituency, at the dates shown

Number

As at November	IB/SDA	IB	SDA
1997	4,900	4,300	600

2003	5,300	4,900	MOO
2004	5,000	4,600	[1]500

[1] Are based on very few sample cases and are subject to a high degree of sampling variation.

Notes:
1. Figures are rounded to the nearest hundred. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
2. 'Claimant' figures include all incapacity benefit, severe disability allowance and credits only cases.

Notes:
1. Numbers have been rounded to the nearest hundred.
2. Only disability living Allowance cases in payment are included.
3. From November 2002, the methodology for producing these figures was changed to allow statistics to be published much sooner. This has resulted in a small increase in the reported caseload. This is because some cases which have actually terminated but have not yet been updated on the computer system are now included.

Benefit Payments

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what plans he has to suspend payments to claimants of benefits until they provide bank details; [224056]

(2) how many jobseeker's allowance claimants in (a) Sheffield and (b) the UK have had their benefits suspended until they have agreed to have their benefit paid into a bank or post office account. [224057]

Mr. Pond: No payment has been suspended in Sheffield or elsewhere for failure to provide account details and currently there are no plans to do so.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the role is of private sector companies in assisting benefit claimants in opening bank or post office accounts. [224058]

Mr. Pond: The Department is working with a number of private sector providers and not-for-profit organisations to help convert people from order books and cheques to direct payment into a bank, building society or Post Office card account. The Department regularly works with such organisations who are able to focus tailored help on customers who are disadvantaged or facing particular difficulties. In particular, we have asked them to support customers who may not have been reached by our customer conversion centre or who might be finding it difficult to open a suitable account. This is part of our commitment to increasing financial inclusion and giving customers all the help, information and support they need to open the account which best meets their needs and circumstances.

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in receipt of (a) the state pension, (b) jobseeker's allowance, (c) income support, (d) disability living allowance, (e) attendance allowance, (f) child benefit and (g) carer's allowance are receiving their payments via the Department's cheque-based service. [224525]

Mr. Pond: The information is not available in the format requested.

The information in the following table gives the number of benefit and pension accounts in receipt of the cheque method of payment as at 19 February 2005.

	Number accounts paid by cheque
Retirement pension	75,400
Pension credit	157,055
Jobseeker's allowance	105,590
Income support	169,900
Disability living allowance (DLA)	168,715
Attendance allowance (AA)	27,970
Carers allowance (CA)	0
Total	704,630

The figures refer to accounts not claimants, a person with multiple benefits will be counted more than once.

Child benefit figures are not included as they are the responsibility of Inland Revenue.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the last date was for benefit payments covered by the last pension book issued before they were withdrawn; [221763]

(2) what the latest date is on which the last benefit payment might be made from a pensioner's passbook; [221765]

(3) on what day the last pension book was issued. [221767]

Mr. Pond: The last pension order book was issued on 9 February 2005 and all order book production for The Pension Service ceased on 10 February. No payment due after 28 February will be paid by order book, although order book foils can be cashed for up to three months after the date shown on the foil. The last possible date for encashment of an order book foil is thus 31 May 2005.

Disabled People

Mr. Sarwar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to implement the recommendations made in the report Improving the Life Chances of Disabled People. [224411]

Maria Eagle: This is an important report requiring action by a number of Departments. My Department is co-ordinating the overall implementation process. In particular we will be ensuring the involvement of disabled people and other relevant groups in this work, including the setting up of a national forum for disabled people. We have also set up the new Ministers Group—the first meeting is later today—and we will be working closely with other Departments to establish early pilots to test out aspects of the recommendations.

Guarantee and Savings Credits

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) individuals and (b) households are in receipt of (i) guarantee credit only, (ii) savings credit only and (iii) both guarantee and savings credit. [221517]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is given in the table:

Recipients of pension credit by type, Great Britain, 31 December 2004

	Households	Individuals
All	2,653,175	3,222,700
Guarantee element only	767,985	948,070
Guarantee element and savings element combined	1,312,945	1,513,045
Savings element only	572,245	761,580

Notes:

1. Figures are based on 100 per cent. Generalised Matching Service (GMS) data. Data taken as at 10 December 2004 have been rated up to give month end figures.
2. Figures are rounded to the nearest 5.
3. Individual recipients may include a small number of partners under the age of 60.

Incapacity Benefit

Barbara Follett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment his Department has made of the merits of extending mortgage assistance to those on incapacity benefit. [224432]

Maria Eagle: The Government believe that homeowners should take responsibility for ensuring that mortgage payments are made when they are unable to work.

Help with mortgage interest is already available to those on incapacity benefit, who are also entitled to income related benefits. We believe that this is the best way of ensuring assistance is targeted at those who need it most.

We have no plans to extend this assistance to non income-related benefits.

Jobcentres

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many job centres there are in the UK; and how many are to be closed as part of the Jobcentre roll-out programme and centralisation of benefit processing. [219299]

Jane Kennedy: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mr. David Willetts dated 4 April 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question about the number of offices we have and the number that will close due to the roll-out of the new service and the centralisation of benefit processing. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

When Jobcentre Plus was formed in 2002 we inherited the infrastructure of the former Employment Service and those parts of the Benefits Agency delivering services to people of working age. The estate comprised some 1,100 Jobcentres and 450 social security offices and was entirely unsuitable for delivering the new service and operating the new processes. Over a four year period we are introducing the new, integrated service across the country and we are acquiring, building and refurbishing premises to enable us to deliver the new service. Once the roll-out is completed nationwide the total number of outlets from which our services can be accessed is likely to be around 1000.

A full list of sites already closed or planned for future closure as part of the Jobcentre Plus rollout programme can be found in the Library. This list includes a number of sites which are closing through merging with co-located offices. While the majority of these sites will be disposed of in due course, a number will be retained by Jobcentre Plus to accommodate non-customer facing activity.

I should stress that this is a snapshot of our plans based on the best information available. The list of offices will inevitably change as we progress through rollout of the new, integrated service and continue to refine our plans for centralising benefit processing in Jobcentre Plus. For example, a significant number of the site closures are dependent on construction of new buildings or acquisition of new premises and these are often subject to delays and other issues.

We continue to review the plans for our network, and will ensure that local stakeholders are kept informed of progress and any changes to our plans.

I hope this is helpful.

New Deal

16. Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the effect of the New Deal has been in Nottingham, North. [224424]

Jane Kennedy: The New Deal has had a major impact in my hon. Friend's constituency helping more than 3,400 people into work and helping to reduce the number of those long-term unemployed by 81 per cent. and long-term youth unemployment by 70 per cent.

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) over 25s, (b) lone parents, (c) over 50s and (d) young people have participated in the New Deal in (i) Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside, (iii) the North East and (iv) the UK in each year since its inception. [223872]

Jane Kennedy: The information is in the table.

Notes:

1. The new deal for young people started in January 1998; new deal 25 plus started in July 1998; new deal for lone parents started in October 1998; new deal 50 plus started in April 2000.
2. New deal 50 plus EC starts information gives the number of starts to employment credit up to March 2003.
3. New deal 50 plus data are the number of people finding jobs from new deal 50 plus from April 2003. No starts information is available for new deal 50 plus from April 2003.
4. All data are to December 2004.
5. All figures have been rounded to the nearest 10 and for this reason, components may not necessarily sum to totals.
6. South Tyneside information is given for the Jobcentre Plus district of Gateshead and South Tyneside.
7. Information is for Great Britain rather than the UK as the Department's new deals do not operate in Northern Ireland.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in York have been assisted into work through the new deal. [224427]

Maria Eagle: The new deal has been a huge success, so far helping over 1.2 million people into work, including more than 2,000 people in York.

Since 1997, in my hon. Friend's constituency, the new deal has helped to reduce long term adult unemployment by 88 per cent. and long term youth unemployment by 90 per cent.

Unemployment (Wirral, South)

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on unemployment in Wirral South. [224417]

Jane Kennedy: In the last year alone overall unemployment in Wirral South fell by 10 per cent. and since 1997 it has fallen by around two-thirds, with long-term unemployment falling by 92 per cent. There are currently 750 people unemployed in Wirral South, roughly 1.7 per cent. of the total working-age population of that area.

The improvements in the labour market in Wirral South and over the rest of the country over the last seven years have been principally due to our success in providing economic stability and sustained growth, as well as providing active help to unemployed people through programmes such as the new deal.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Asylum and Immigration

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum claims are outstanding in the UK; and from which countries. [224334]

Mr. Browne: Information on asylum claims outstanding by nationality is unavailable and could be produced only at disproportionate cost by examination of individual case records.

Information on the number of cases awaiting an initial decision or appeal outcome is published quarterly on the Home Office website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people are in custody serving sentences of more than four months imprisonment following conviction under section 2 of the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants etc) Act 2004; and in which prisons each is being held. [224531]

Paul Goggins: Information on the number of people in custody who are serving sentences of more than four months imprisonment following conviction under Section 2 of the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants) Act 2004 is not available.

Between 29 September 2004 and 19 March 2005 148 people have been convicted under Section 2 of the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants) Act 2004. All those convicted have received custodial sentences.

The figures provided are obtained from locally collated management information and may be subject to change.

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Home Department took to inform (a) Parliament and (b) the public of the changes to the immigration rules in respect of ECAA switching cases which were applied by the Immigration and Nationality Directorate (i) from August 2003 until 10 February 2004 and (ii) from 10 February 2004 until 30 April 2004. [218876]

Mr. Browne: No changes to the Immigration Rules in respect of ECAA switching cases were made during either period.

Begging

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of individuals successfully prosecuted for begging in each year since 1990 have re-offended; and if he will make a statement. [220680]

Paul Goggins: No data are readily available on reconviction rates for those convicted of begging.

Published reconviction rates are calculated using data from the Offenders Index. The Offenders Index only contains information on Standard List offences. Begging is not a Standard List offence.

Cancer

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what policies his Department has in place for supporting employees with cancer. [218581]

Fiona Mactaggart: Employees diagnosed as having cancer have access to support and advice from the Department's Welfare Services. This can cover both personal and work related matters. It can include home visits, discussions with family members and help in finding specialist support groups. Assistance can also be provided with planning for the financial implications of a long term illness or terminal illness.

The Department would normally seek Occupational Health advice at an early stage when the diagnosis, or the severity of the condition, becomes known. The Occupational Health provider will advise on the functional effects of the condition. For employees able to continue working, the Department provides support in the workplace by making reasonable adjustments to working hours, duties and working practices.

Employees who are on sick absence have a contractual entitlement to sick pay at a rate of full pay for six months and half pay for six months. After entitlement to contractual sick pay has been exhausted, an employee may be placed on sick pay at pension rate. This decision is taken on the advice of a medical officer in circumstances where it is envisaged the employee is likely to return to work within three months, or the ill-health retirement criteria are likely to be met. Entitlement is reviewed every three months.

The Department will also consider medical/ill health retirement in cases of poor prognosis, significant functional impairment or proximity to normal retirement age.

Catering Costs

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much has been spent on (a) entertainment lunches involving civil servants and guests and (b) working lunches, in each year since 1997. [215046]

Fiona Mactaggart: Hospitality is classified as the provision of food and drink or entertainment to non-civil servants when it is not strictly necessary for the conduct of public business, but where to do so is nevertheless beneficial to the interests of the Department.

Working lunches and refreshments are offered as a normal courtesy to visitors or made available to facilitate the efficient management of meetings.

The total costs of hospitality and working lunches for the Home Office Department since 1997 are given in the table.

	1997	1998	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003
Hospitality	37,747	44,415	94,370	108,925	75,808	70,591	89,072
Working lunches	346,685	92,916	457,147	511,610	572,279	727,354	1,330,997
Total	386,429	139,329	553,516	622,535	650,088	799,947	1,422,072
Percentage total spend	0.006	0.002	0.007	0.007	0.007	0.008	0.012

The records for hospitality costs do not distinguish between civil servants and guests. The costs for refreshments and working lunches are combined and therefore separate figures cannot be extracted.

CCTV

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what schemes are available to provide financial assistance for the extension of closed circuit television in town centres. [223237]

Ms Blears: Previously, closed circuit television (CCTV) has been provided using a range of national and local funding streams. The principal fund has been the crime reduction programme from 1999 to 2003 which invested £170 million in CCTV schemes.

Currently, crime reduction funding is allocated directly to local crime and disorder reduction partnerships (CDRPs) through the building safer communities fund and to basic command unit (BCU) commanders through the BCU fund. These funding streams finance a variety of interventions, including CCTV, to tackle local crime priorities. Funding allocations are local decisions and are the responsibility of individual CDRPs and BCUs.

C-FAR

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will increase the proportion of funding for C-FAR derived from Criminal Justice Service sources; and if he will implement the concept of full cost recovery in support of C-FAR's work. [221748]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 14 March 2005]: To date the Home Office has given £570,000 and pledged £150,000 for 2005–06 to C-FAR. Given the decision taken by C-FAR's Trustees on 8 March to close the centre on 11 March 2005, the Home Office will not be providing further funding. The Home Office is committed to implementing the concept of full cost recovery for all the organisations that it funds.

Chartered Aircraft

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much money his Department has spent on chartering aircraft in each of the past five years. [213716]

Fiona Mactaggart: Travel by Ministers makes clear that special flights may be authorised when a scheduled service is not available, or when it is essential to travel by air, but the requirements of official or parliamentary business or security considerations or urgency preclude the journey being made by a scheduled service. In respect of overseas travel by Ministers, since 1999 the Government have published an annual list of all visits overseas undertaken by Cabinet Ministers costing £500 or more during each financial year. The list published in 1999 covers the period 2 May 1997 to 31 March 1999. Where RAF/private charter aircraft are used this is shown in the list. The Government have also published on an annual basis the cost of all Ministers' visits overseas.

Copies of the lists are available in the Library. Information for 2004–05 will be published in due course.

For operational reasons the Home Office uses charter aircraft as a means of removing failed asylum seekers and other immigration offenders when there is no availability of seats on scheduled aircraft. They are also used for removals to destinations that carriers from the United Kingdom currently do not operate.

Charter flights have been used to remove failed asylum seekers since March 2001. The cost of charters since 2002 are given in the table:

	Expenditure £ million
2002–03	1,968,025
2003–04	1,226,972

Figures for 2001–02 are not available as they were not separated from other public expense removal costs.

Conviction Times

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average time between the reporting of a crime and securing a conviction was in (a) 1998, (b) 2001 and (c) 2004. [221532]

Ms Blears [holding answer 15 March 2005]: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Deaths Abroad

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many inquests have been held in the UK regarding violent or suspicious deaths abroad in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [224120]

Paul Goggins: Statistics on inquests held on those who die overseas are not collected centrally.

However, I can draw the hon. Member's attention to the figures quoted in "Death Certification and Investigation in England, Wales and Northern Ireland: The Report of a Fundamental Review 2003." [Cm 5831] This independent Review commissioned its own one-off research which concluded that, in the previous 12 months, about 550 deaths abroad were the subject of an inquest when the body was returned to the UK.

Departmental Accounts

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether Ministers in his Department have issued written instructions to override his Department's accounting officer's objections since 1997. [221112]

Fiona Mactaggart: No such directions have been issued by Home Office Ministers since 1997.

The Treasury, which has a wider policy responsibility for the financial accountability mechanisms under which such directions are issued, has not been notified of any directions by Ministers in Departments to their accounting officers beyond those already disclosed to Parliament in the following written answers:

The former Chief Secretary to the Treasury (Andrew Smith) on 23 October 2000, Official Report, column 73W and 8 May 2002, Official Report, column 253W, myself on 10 June 2002, Official Report, column 1037W, the Economic Secretary (John Healey) on 13 January 2003, Official Report, column 413W and 23 June 2003, Official Report, column 618W and the former Financial Secretary (Ruth Kelly) on 30 October 2003, Official Report, columns 319–20W and 24 March 2004, Official Report, column 841W.

The circumstances in which an accounting officer should seek a direction from a Minister before authorising expenditure are set out in paragraphs 15–18 of the Treasury document, The Responsibilities of an Accounting Officer (as updated in March 2004). This document is published as Annex 4.1 of the Treasury guidance, Government Accounting and is accessible at www.government-accounting.gov.uk

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost of travel within the UK for the Department was in each year since 1997; and how much of this was spent on (a) hire cars, (b) helicopter hire, (c) hotel accommodation and (d) subsistence. [206467]

Fiona Mactaggart: Home Office rules provide for the reimbursement of extra expenses "necessarily" incurred in carrying out official duty and in certain other specified circumstances. The overriding principle is that: where no extra expense is incurred no reimbursement is due. Overall expenditure on travel and subsistence is controlled through devolved budgets that enable managers to keep under review both the need for official travel and the economy of the travel arrangements. Managers are required to satisfy themselves that, for instance, regular travel commitments or programmes cannot be curtailed or reorganised, that meetings involving costly travel are really necessary, that the venue is appropriate, that only the necessary numbers of staff attend; and consider the desirability of requiring their staff to declare their forward visit proposals for prior approval. Where staff undertake necessary official travel, managers are required to ensure that they do so by the most efficient and economic means, taking all costs into account.

Travel costs for the core Home Office have been held centrally only since 1996; totals as follows:

	1997	1998	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003
Helicopter	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Travel	3,898,126	3,270,766	3,187,174	4,245,879	6,348,417	8,732,248	12,406,053
Hire car	223,585	158,266	228,841	281,549	785,179	1,782,070	1,912,341
Subsistence	5,737,985	1,366,151	1,729,980	3,260,704	3,920,093	5,267,013	6,459,101
Total	9,861,693	4,797,181	5,147,994	7,790,132	11,055,690	15,783,333	20,779,498
Percentage of total spend	0.14%	0.06%	0.06%	0.09%	0.11%	0.15%	0.06%

The marked increases in travel costs since 2001 can largely be attributed to changes in strategy within the Immigration and Nationality Directorate (IND) where increased staff numbers and the need to travel as a result of new policy initiatives to improve IND performance and reductions in unauthorised entry to the UK. Other contributing factors have been related to providing advice to the organisers of the 2002 Football World Cup in Japan and Euro 2004 in Portugal and the creation of new units to support the police reform agenda.

Hotel accommodation costs and subsistence payments are recorded together against a general subsistence account on the General Ledger. Examination and extraction of hotel elements from T and S claims and the expenses payment system could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many overseas trips, and at what total cost, have been made by his Department in each year since 1997; and what the costs of (a) flights, (b) internal travel, (c) hotel accommodation and (d) subsistence were of each trip. [206654]

Fiona Mactaggart: All categories of overseas visit require prior authorisation through the normal line management chain and are required to accord with Cabinet Office guidelines and the Home Office Overseas Travel Guide. In approving an overseas visit careful regard is given to the objective of the visit in relation to the guidelines and in particular, the benefit that will accrue to the Department in relation to the cost.

The total cost of overseas travel for the Home Department since 1997 are given in the table.

	1997	1998	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003
Flights	168,342	192,583	314231	427627	517,073	381,706	415,106
Hotels	132,069	34,672	8,392	6,983	119,034	266,925	559,039
Subsistence	1,442,337	919,494	826,066	1,008,356	1,857,705	2,553,769	4,249,782
Travel	1,011,383	706,482	1,119,345	943,075	1,628,786	1,959,965	4,010,948
Total	2,756,128	1,855,229	2,270,033	2,388,041	4,124,599	5,164,367	9,236,878
Percentage total spend	0.04	0.024	0.029	0.025	0.04	0.05	0.08

The cost of overseas internal travel is not recorded separately and is incorporated within the travel totals given in the table. Similarly, the number of overseas journeys is not recorded separately within the claims calculation process; it would not be possible to extract these aspects of from the data provided without interrogating the paper claim records, this could be done only at disproportionate cost.

The marked increases in travel costs since 2001 can largely be attributed to changes in strategy within the Immigration and Nationality Directorate where increased staff numbers and the need to travel as a result of new policy initiatives to improve IND performance and reductions in unauthorised entry to the UK. Other contributing factors have been related to providing advice to the organisers of the 2002 Football World Cup in Japan and Euro 2004 in Portugal and the creation of new units to support the police reform agenda.

Information relating to overseas travel by Ministers is published on an annual basis. Information for the period 2 May 1997 to 31 March 2004 is available in the Library of the House.

Information for the financial year 2004–05 will be published as soon as possible at the end of the current financial year.

Drug-related Arrests

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many arrests have been made for (a) possession and (b) supply of (i) cannabis and (ii) class A drugs in the last two years; [220848]

(2) how many arrests have been made for (a) possession and (b) supply of (i) cannabis and (ii) class A drugs in London in each month since January 2004. [220849]

Caroline Flint: The information requested is not available centrally.

Information on arrests collected centrally is based on persons arrested for "notifiable" offences by main offence group only and therefore does not identify individual offences. The data are also only available by police force area and collected on a quarterly basis.

Drugs Crime (Leeds)

Mr. Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many crack houses have been closed down in (a) Leeds and (b) Leeds West in the last 12 months; how many of these were part of Operation Crackdown; and if he will make a statement. [222244]

Caroline Flint: Data are not centrally collected on a city-by-city basis. The latest national information available on "crack house" closure orders relates to Government Office regions for the period 20 January to end September 2004, when there were four reported uses of the "crack house" anti-social behaviour power in the Yorkshire and Humberside region.

West Yorkshire police are one of 33 forces who are participating in the national enforcement campaign Operation Crackdown. However information requested is not collated regionally or by force but 75 crack houses have been closed by Crackdown forces during the period 12 January to 7 March 2005.

EU Business Applications

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for the right of establishment in business under EU association agreements submitted by or on behalf of persons who had already arrived in the UK under other immigration categories were received between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004, broken down by nationality of the applicant; and how many applications were (a) granted, (b) refused, (c) withdrawn and (d) otherwise disposed of. [218873]

Mr. Browne: According to internal management information and accordingly provisional, between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004 there were 18,565 applications for the right of establishment in business under EC Association Agreements received by the Immigration and Nationality Directorate, submitted by or on behalf of persons who had already arrived in the UK under other immigration categories. The table shows this total figure broken down by nationality of the applicant and by the outcome of the case.

Nationality of applicant	Total switching[1] cases received 1 June 2003 to 30 April 2004	Granted	Refused	Withdrawn by applicant	Other[2]
Bulgaria	1,999	1,621	226	57	95
Czech Rep	143	113	3	21	6
Estonia	166	131	7	21	7
Hungary	79	65	1	13	0
Latvia	875	656	78	117	24
Lithuania	4,677	3,715	188	584	190
Poland	8,158	5,823	613	1,608	114
Romania	1,644	1,259	269	24	92
Slovakia	193	167	6	19	1
Slovenia	3	3	0	0	0
Turkey	628	398	61	15	154
Total	18,565	13,951	1,452	2,479	683

[1] The term switching refers to those applicants who were already in the UK in another immigration category, or without valid leave to enter or remain.
[2] Category of 'other' includes all outcomes possible on the General Casework Information Database apart from granted, refused and withdrawn by applicant. This includes applications received in the specified period against which no outcome is yet recorded, and applications received in the specified period against which an outcome was recorded after 30 September 2004.
Note:
Numbers of applications granted, refused, withdrawn by applicant or 'other' relate only to applications received by IND between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004.

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether he has received reports of applications for the right of establishment in business under EU association agreements having been granted in error between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004. [218874]

Mr. Browne: None other than the report by Ken Sutton published on 17 June 2004, which confirmed that there was clear evidence that the ECAA category had been exploited and that applications were granted from some individuals who were unlikely to have been able to demonstrate that they could sustain themselves in business.

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for the right of establishment in business under EU association agreements were refused between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004, broken down by (a) reason for refusal and (b) nationality of the applicant. [218875]

Mr. Browne: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 27 January 2005, Official Report, column 482W.

Mr. Leigh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for the right of establishment in business under EU association agreements were submitted using standard-form business plans identical or materially similar to those submitted by other such applicants between 1 June 2003 and 30 April 2004; and how many were refused on these grounds (a) in total and (b) broken down by nationality of the applicant. [218877]

Mr. Browne: Information in the form requested is not readily available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

G8 Summit

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps he is taking to provide financial support to police authorities which will be required to organise additional security for G8 summit events. [221695]

Ms Blears: Police authorities are normally expected to have reserves for exceptional events. They may apply for special grant to assist with additional costs of policing exceptional events like G8.

HMP/YOI Parc

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many inmates at HMP and YOI Parc were (a) being held on remand and (b) awaiting sentence on the latest date for which figures are available. [224180]

Paul Goggins: As of 24 March 2005 there were 91 prisoners being held on remand or awaiting trial, and 44 prisoners awaiting sentence.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what separate provision is made for health care services for young offenders at HMP and YOI Parc. [224184]

Paul Goggins: There is no separate health care provision for young offenders at HMP and YOI Parc. When necessary, both adults and young offenders reside in the health care facility. In such circumstances independent approved regimes are operated so that separation is maintained.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many places the Youth Justice Board has contracted to be available at HMP and YOI Parc; in each year for which figures are available; and what the average occupancy rate has been in each of those years. [224196]

Paul Goggins: The number of places the Youth Justice Board has contracted to be available at HMP and YOI Parc is as follows:

	Number
March 2002 to September 2004	28
October 2004 to present	36

The average monthly occupancy rate in each of the years during this period has been:

	Number
April 2002 to March 2003	19
April 2003 to March 2004	17
April 2004 to September 2004	20
October 2004 to February 2005	28

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on inpatient juvenile health care provision at HMP and YOI Parc; and how many of those detained have been moved elsewhere for treatment in each year for which figures are available. [224199]

Paul Goggins: The Youth Justice Board has invested in HMP and YOI Parc in order to enhance the care and accommodation that is offered to juveniles. Service improvements have included three discrete inpatient beds, together with a small day room, dedicated for use solely by juveniles. This facility opened in October 2004. In addition, since December 2004, a dedicated Juvenile Support Nurse has been in post and based within the Juvenile Unit. The Youth Justice Board has also funded a substance misuse manager and worker, in order to ensure implementation of the YJB's National Specification for Substance Misuse. As a direct result of the YJB's investment, there should be a significant reduction in transfers of juveniles from Parc as a result of health needs.

During 2004 three juveniles were moved elsewhere for treatment, two requiring admission as in-patients in outside hospitals. The remaining prisoner was transferred because of mental health issues.

Records are unavailable for preceding years.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many inquest reports the Prison Service has received since January 2003 following deaths in custody at HMP and YOI Parc; and how many reports are outstanding. [224179]

Paul Goggins: A total of nine inquests have taken place since January 2003 in respect of deaths in custody at HMP and YOI Parc. Six of these deaths occurred after January 2003. There are no inquests at present which remain outstanding.

Home Detention

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 393W, on home detention curfew, how many of the people released under the Home Detention Scheme have gone on to re-offend within (a) two months, (b) four months, (c) six months, (d) a year and (e) two years. [223585]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 23 March 2005]: Information on re-offending within the particular periods requested is not available.

Identity Theft

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps individuals can take to prevent identity theft. [224293]

Mr. Browne: The Home Office Identity Fraud Steering Committee, a collaboration of Government Departments and private sector organisations, has produced a website (www.identitytheft.org.uk) which offers advice on how individuals can protect their identity. This includes keeping personal information secure, keeping plastic cards safe and being careful when giving out card details, looking after important documents and destroying unwanted documents, and advice on use of passwords.

In the longer term, the introduction of ID cards issued on a more secure basis than current passports and driving licences will provide people with a highly effective way of protecting their identity from misuse.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what (a) remedies and (b) penalties are available in the event of identity theft; and what steps are taken to restore misappropriated property used in identity theft to the owner. [224310]

Mr. Browne: It is not a criminal offence for a person simply to use another identity. However, false identities are often used to facilitate criminal activity such as deception, fraud, theft and money laundering. The Identity Cards Bill currently before Parliament includes a new offence of being in possession or control of false identity documents, including a genuine document that relates to someone else, without reasonable excuse. The proposed maximum penalty for this offence is two years imprisonment. It will also be an offence for a person to possess these documents with the intention of using the document for establishing registrable facts about himself, or allowing or inducing another to use it for establishing, ascertaining or verifying registrable facts about himself. The proposed maximum penalty for this offence is 10 years imprisonment.

Subject to the needs of any criminal investigation and prosecution, the police will make any property that comes into their possession available to the rightful owner.

Iran

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to his answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 191W, on Iran, what action the Immigration and Nationality Directorate has taken to secure responses from the Iranian Government. [224304]

Mr. Browne: The Immigration and Nationality Directorate (IND) continues to encourage the Iranian embassy to issue Emergency Travel Documents (ETDs) at the earliest opportunity through regular reviews of all cases with the Consul. These vary in frequency between one week and 13 weeks dependant on the case and the quality of documentation that is submitted as proof of the subject's nationality and identity.

The purpose of each review with the Consul is to secure the issue of an ETD for a subject. The Iranian embassy requires the submission of specific evidence of nationality and identity including expired passports, birth certificates, identity cards and other original official Iranian documentation. Irrespective of the number of reviews that are held with the embassy, if the required documentation is not available, then it is virtually impossible to secure an ETD to effect a removal.

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications have been made by his Department to the Iranian Government for passports or other travel documentation to facilitate the repatriation of failed asylum seekers in each of the last five years; and how many have been granted in each of those years. [224203]

Mr. Browne: Applications for travel documents are not annotated with a person's immigration status. Consequently it is not possible to differentiate between the number of applications submitted to the Iranian Government/Embassy to repatriate failed asylum seekers from those required to return other immigration offenders.

Prior to 2003, there were no applications made to the Iranian Government as removals could be effected by EU letter.

In 2003, 24 applications for travel documents were submitted and three were issued.

In 2004, 60 applications for travel documents were submitted and six were issued.

To date in 2005, five applications for travel documents have been made and three issued.

The above statistics are from internal management information and are therefore subject to change.

Knife Crime

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many knife attacks, including those which did not result in homicide, were reported in each year since 1995. [222650]

Ms Blears: The number of offences involving knives is not separated out in the recorded crime statistics. Therefore no information is available on knife offences causing serious or minor injury. The Homicide Index holds details on the number of homicides where the apparent method of killing was the use of a sharp instrument. The available information from 1995 to 2003–04 is given in the table.

Number of homicides[1] involving the use of a sharp instrument

	Number
1995	243
1996	197
1997	200
1997–98	202
1998–99	202
1999–2000	213
2000–01	214
2001–02	261
2002–03	268
2003–04	237

[1] As at 22 October 2004; these figures relate to the year in which the police initially recorded the offence as homicide and are subject to revision as cases are dealt with by the police and by the courts, or as further information becomes available.

Migrant Workers

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Department's records identify the top 10 employers of migrant labour. [219957]DES

Mr. Browne: No. The Home Office holds records that can identify the top 10 employers who have applied to take on individuals from outside of the European Economic Area under the work permit scheme and those who use the seasonal agricultural workers scheme. These do not, however, include those employers who employ people from overseas who have permission to work in the UK under other schemes.

Ministerial Private Office Telephone Numbers

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he intends to inform the House authorities of the new telephone numbers for ministerial private offices in his Department; and if he will make a statement. [221472]

Mr. Charles Clarke: Notices have now been sent to all Members in both Houses.

Motor Vehicle Seizure

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the Police Reform Act 2002 in regard to the seizure of motor vehicles. [221514]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 21 March 2005]: Section 59 of the Police Reform Act 2002, which came into effect in January 2003, gives the police a power to seize vehicles being driven off-road without authority or on-road inconsiderately or without due care and attention if they are at the same time causing alarm, distress or annoyance.

The police welcomed the new provision in principle. They have been gradually developing policies and practices to ensure its best use, and we are aware of a number of instances where it has been employed effectively. With the Association of Chief Police Officers and practitioners on the ground we have been looking at whether there is any need for further clarification of the power, guidance on its use or amendments to the secondary legislation governing its technical aspects.

Non-geographic Telephone Numbers

Mr. Tyler: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 2 March 2005 to Question 205820, what steps his Department has taken to cease entirely the use of non-geographic 0870 telephone numbers for (a) Core Home Office services and (b) the Prison Service; and what steps were taken in the recent renegotiation of contracts for telephone lines at the Immigration and Nationality Directorate to cease entirely the use of non-geographic 0870 telephone numbers. [223110]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The information requested is as follows:

(a) A review of the use of an 0870 number for the main Home Office public enquiry service is under way and is due to be completed in May 2005. Alternative options being considered include 0845, 0800, and a geographical number.

(b) Her Majesty's Prison Service have changed the 0870 number in use at Her Majesty's Prison Holloway to an 0800 number, but have no plans to discontinue the use of the 0870 number for their public enquiry service.

The renegotiation of the telephony contract for the Immigration and Nationality Enquiry Bureau (INEB) did not include changing the 0870 number. Currently a review of the operation of INEB is being conducted, and will consider whether continued use of the 0870 number is appropriate.

Oakington Detention Centre

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what action he proposes to take following the broadcasting of inappropriate and offensive language being used by staff at Oakington detention centre. [220787]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 8 March 2005]: As I announced on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 94WS, I have asked the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman, Stephen Shaw, to carry out an independent inquiry into the allegations contained in the programme.

Parole

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what methods are used for tracking prisoners on parole; and if he will make a statement. [221470]

Paul Goggins: Before an offender is released from prison on parole licence, the local probation officer prepares a risk management plan to facilitate the resettlement of the offender into the community and to minimise the risk to the public.

The plan may contain conditions to constrain the activities of the offender, relating for example to employment restrictions, residence, treatment for addictions, a curfew, or exclusion from certain places. The probation officer will manage the components of the plan in conjunction with other agencies. If there are curfew or exclusion conditions, these can be electronically monitored by private contractors who will work closely with the probation officer.

In three areas of the country (Greater Manchester, West Midlands and Hampshire), management of the exclusion conditions can be enhanced by satellite tracking using global positioning by satellite (GPS) technology. This will provide the probation officer with evidence of any breach of the exclusion zones. This is a one year pilot which began in September 2004 and is being independently evaluated. A total of 94 offenders have been tracked in the pilot, and two of them have been subject to parole licence.

Police

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost of translation services was for each police force in each of the last three years. [221561]

Ms Blears: This information is not held centrally and could only be obtained at disproportionate cost.

Police Funding

Mr. Donohoe: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much funding has been allocated to the police in each year since 1997. [203140]

Ms Blears [holding answer 7 December 2004]: Government grant to support policing in England and Wales since 1997 is set out in the table.

£ million

	Home Office police grant	National non-domestic rates[1,2]	Revenue support grant[1,2]	Total other grants[3]	Capital grants[4]	Total

[2] Revenue Support Grant (RSG) includes SSA Reduction Grant and Central Support Protection grant. RSG and NNDR for the City of London Police is provided in respect of all its functions.
[3] Specific grants since 2000–01 for targeted programmes.
[4] Capital grants include Home Office police capital grant, supplementary credit approvals, Air Support, Premises Improvement Fund, Airwave capital and C3i. The figures included substantial capital for Airwave in 2001–02 (£74.3 million), 2002–03 (£101.2 million) and 2002–03 (£75.9 million). Totals up to 2001–02 include an element for major capital schemes allocated under the Priority Planning List (PPL) scheme.
[5] The grant figures for 2001–02 and 2002–03 are not directly comparable, owing to changes from 2002–03 in the method of funding the National Crime Squad and the National Criminal Intelligence Service.

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what change there has been in the funding of Staffordshire police since 1997. [223239]

Ms Blears: The information is set out in the table.

£ million

	General Government grants[1]	Specific grants[2]	Capital grant[3]
1997–98	96.1	0	2.6
2005–06	113.3	9.1	2.0

[2] Includes funding from the Crime Fighting Fund, Rural Policing Fund, Basic Command Unit funding, Community Support Officer funding, Neighbourhood Policing Fund, Special Priority Payments DNA Expansion Programme, capital provision (including Supplementary Credit Approvals) and Airwave.
[3] Capital grant in 1997–98 includes £1.5 million paid to Staffordshire Police Authority under the then arrangements to provide additional support for a limited number of major capital schemes each year. In addition, the Authority received Supplementary Credit Approvals of £1.6 million in 1997–98 and £1.2 million in 2005–06 for grant supported borrowing.

Police Information Technology Organisation

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he intends to publish the McFarland Report on the performance and structure of the Police Information Technology Organisation. [223680]

Ms Blears [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The Review's report has been completed and is currently being considered by Ministers. A ministerial statement will be made to Parliament in due course. Copies of the final report will then be available in the Library.

Police Officers (Northumbria)

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers there have been in (a) the South Tyneside Area Command and (b) Northumbria in each year since 1997. [222554]

Ms Blears: The latest figures on police strength by Basic Command Unit were published as supplementary data on the Home Office/Research Development and Statistics website.

The information requested is given in the table:

	Police officers
As at 31 March	South Tyneside[1]	Northumbria
1997	—	3,677
1998	—	3,769
1999	—	3,840
2000	—	3,788

2002	268	3,929
2003	[2]291	[2]4,018
2004	[2]303	[2]4,061

[1] Figures not available prior to 2002.
[2] Not comparable with earlier years' data—includes officers on career breaks and maternity/paternity leave.

Police Recruitment

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps he is taking to increase diversity in the recruitment of police officers. [222964]

Ms Blears: We have established national recruitment standards with a view to minimising adverse impact on any group. In the Police Reform Act 2002 we removed the requirement for recruits to be citizens of the United Kingdom. We have amended fitness standards to reduce adverse impact on women applicants.

We have produced materials for forces to use in recruitment campaigns which promote diversity within the police service and we have supported projects in six forces to improve recruitment from ethnic minority communities.

In the White Paper "Building communities, beating crime" we announced additional measures including recruitment of people with operationally valuable language skills and recruitment at senior levels.

Serious Organised Crime Agency

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimates he has made of the total running costs of the Serious Organised Crime Agency over (a) the first year and (b) the first 10 years of operation. [218362]

Caroline Flint: The costs for the first year of the Serious Organised Crime Agency's (SOCA) operation will be met by transferring the provision which would have otherwise have been made for the National Criminal Intelligence Service and National Crime Squad under SR 2004. These organisations become part of SOCA on 1 April 2006. In addition negotiations are currently taking place with Her Majesty's Customs and Excise as to the funds to accompany the posts to be transferred to SOCA from that Department. A total of approximately £1.6 million resource will be transferred from the United Kingdom Immigration Service to cover the posts currently based in the Immigration Service which will transfer to SOCA.

Additional transition costs to be met from the Home Office SR 2004 settlement have yet to be determined.

Subsequent funding will be decided under the SR 2006 bidding round.

Student Visas

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions officials in his Department had with (a) universities, (b) Ministers and officials in the Department for Education and Skills and (c) Ministers and officials in the Foreign Office prior to his announcement on 8 February of his plans to abolish the appeals service for international students who are refused visas. [224146]

Mr. Browne: 'Controlling our borders: Making migration work for Britain' the Government's five-year strategy for asylum and immigration, is the product of a review of the whole immigration and asylum system, including appeal rights and the appeals system. The strategy sets out proposals on appeals including the removal of appeal rights for those refused an entry clearance overseas for the purpose of study in the United Kingdom. This was agreed across Government, including the Department for Education and Skills and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, prior to its publication on 7 February.

There were no discussions with universities prior to the publication of the strategy about the decision to abolish appeals rights for students refused visas.

War Criminals

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the UK policy is on granting (a) residence permits, (b) asylum and (c) citizenship to alleged war criminals; and if he will make a statement. [224630]

Mr. Browne: The Government's policy that the UK should not provide a safe haven for alleged war criminals was set out in the 2002 White Paper, Secure Borders, Safe Haven. The Government are committed to making wider use of existing immigration and nationality powers to prevent suspected war criminals and those who may have committed crimes against humanity from entering the UK or from establishing themselves here. These powers include the ability to refuse leave to enter or remain on the grounds that the person's presence in the UK is not conducive to the public good, to refuse or deprive an individual of British citizenship and to exclude individuals from refugee protection if there are serious reasons for considering that they have committed war crimes or crimes against humanity.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Area Planning and Development Partnerships

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when the Area Planning and Development Partnerships of the Department of Education as defined by the Costello Working Party recommendations were established; who the members are of each partnership; and whether the Department of Education is meeting the implementation process timetable. [223740]

Mr. Gardiner: No such groups have been established. Collaboration among schools and between schools and further education colleges will secure access to the Entitlement Framework for all pupils and will be developed at local level. The arrangements to take this forward are expected to be included in forthcoming guidance to schools and managing authorities. The Government remain on course to implement new post-primary arrangements after the last transfer tests in 2008.

Assets Recovery Agency

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the budget for the Assets Recovery Agency (ARA) was for (a) 2003–04 and (b) 2004–05; how many personnel are employed by the ARA; and what plans the Government have to change the ARA's budget for the 2005–06 financial year. [223190]

Mr. Pearson: The ARA budget for 2003–04 was £13 million (NI allocation: £2.071 million) and £15.5 million in 2004–05 (NI allocation: £2.326 million). The ARA has 163 staff in total and currently employs 30 personnel in its Belfast office who progress NI specific investigations.

The 2005–06 budget for ARA has been maintained at the 2004–05 level. Additional funds will arise out of 2004–05 end year flexibility, but this will not be confirmed until later in the year. The ARA is planning to increase the number of investigators and lawyers working on NI investigations.

Belfast (Renewal)

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many applications have been received under the Neighbourhood Renewal Phase Two in (a) North Belfast, (b) Inner West Belfast and (c) Outer West Belfast; how many of these are being assessed; and how many have been granted. [224153]

Mr. Spellar: This information is set out in the table:

	North	Inner West	Outer West
Total number of applications received	77	119	46
Number being assessed	21	32	6
Number granted	2	1	0

Braille Books

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Braille books are available in schools and libraries managed by each Education and Library Board in Northern Ireland; and how much has been spent in each board in each of the last five years to provide books for readers suffering from sight loss. [223491]

Mr. Gardiner: Education and Library Boards assess and make provision for pupils with special educational needs on an individual basis.

The Western Education and Library Board has advised that one pupil has required books to be provided in Braille and the cost of Braille books for this pupil is £300. In addition a classroom assistant has prepared Braille materials for the pupil. Materials required for Braille preparation during the past five years have been as follows:

Braille paper	730
Zytex paper (used for making raised diagrams)	700

Due to the diverse nature of the provision for pupils with sight loss the remaining Education and Library Boards cannot quantify funding levels, since provision is made from a range of funding streams.

The Education and Library Boards are also responsible for provision of both the Public Library Service and the School Library Service but do not purchase any Braille books, and none is held in stock. However Braille books can be obtained on request from the Royal National Institute for the Blind for users of the service.

Expenditure by each Education and Library Board on the provision of books and services for readers suffering from sight loss is detailed in the following table.

BSE

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many confirmed cases of BSE were recorded in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years. [226960]

Mr. Pearson: The number of confirmed cases of BSE recorded in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years is detailed in the following table. The table provides a breakdown of the number of cases identified through normal statutory reporting of BSE suspects (passive surveillance) and those cases identified as a result of the surveillance testing programmes (active surveillance) in operation in Northern Ireland.

Compensation Payments

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much public compensation has been paid in the last 30 years to families of (a) the regular Army, (b) full-time and part-time UDR and RIR, (c) RUC and full-time and part-time reserve, (d) the Northern Ireland Prison Service, (e) the Northern Ireland fire service and (f) the ambulance service who have been killed or injured by acts of terrorism. [223684]

Mr. Spellar: This is an operational responsibility of the Compensation Agency. The chief executive has advised me that the information requested is not available and because of the normal file destruction policy a partial answer could be compiled only at a disproportionate cost.

Conservation

Joan Ruddock: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland for how many areas of special scientific interest (ASSI) in Northern Ireland conservation objectives have been prepared in accordance with the requirements set out in guidance issued by the Joint Nature Conservation Committee in 2003 on Common Standards Monitoring for Sites of Special Scientific Interest and ASSIs; and when he expects conservation objectives to be completed for all ASSIs in Northern Ireland. [224078]

Angela Smith: Of the 220 ASSIs presently designated as of 24 March 2005, 214 sites already have conservation objectives. It is planned to complete conservation objectives for the remaining six sites in 2005–06.

Cross-border Bodies

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the administration costs of (a) the North/South Ministerial Council Joint Secretariat and (b) each of the cross-border bodies have been in each year since their formation; and what the outturn against planned expenditure was in each of these years. [212327]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The details requested are set out in the following tables:

Education (False Sexual Allegations)

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what arrangements the South Eastern Education and Library Board made to educate a child at a private school as a consequence of a false sexual abuse allegation by the pupil against a teacher; whether a grant was paid to (a) the family and (b) a school; what the consequences were for the teacher who was falsely accused; whether the Department of Education or the Board have taken steps to rehabilitate the teacher; whether he will be paid compensation; and if he will make a statement. [221824]

Mr. Gardiner: In the case to which the hon. Member refers, the teacher concerned pleaded guilty to assault of a pupil but not, I understand, a sexual assault. I am told by the South Eastern Education Board that, having considered a range of options and looked at what was in the best interests of the child, the decision was taken to secure a place in a privately operated school. The Board is paying the fees for the pupil's attendance at the school.

While the teacher will not receive compensation, I can assure the hon. Member that his rehabilitation was a major consideration and that the Terms of Settlement of this dispute contain a section relating specifically to the teacher and his needs.

As a matter of principle I acknowledge the need to protect teachers from false allegations made against them. While we must of course listen to children and give primacy to their needs and welfare, the position of teachers also needs to be given due consideration in any investigative process. I am very much aware of the hugely damaging and lasting effect that false allegations can have on a teacher's professional and personal life. Our procedures must recognise teachers' rights to be heard, and to be protected against false allegations.

In the coming months my Department will be undertaking a review of the way precautionary suspensions currently operate, with the aim of issuing fresh guidance to schools.

Education and Library Boards

Mr. Hume: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the (a) recurrent and (b) capital expenditure funding provided to each Northern Ireland education and library board was in each year since 1995. [220906]

Mr. Gardiner: The following table shows all the recurrent and capital allocations provided to the education and library boards for the period 1995–96 to 2003–04. The allocations for 2004–05 have not yet been finalised.

Equality Consultation

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland why the consultation on the Department of Education's equality scheme and equality impact assessment timetable does not appear on the Department's website. [223950]

Mr. Gardiner: The documents are available on the Departments website, under 'Current Consultations' and details of the consultation are also on the Consultation NI website.

Hard copies and alternative formats of the documents are available from the Department on request.

Housing Executive

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many properties the Northern Ireland Housing Executive owns in each parliamentary constituency in Belfast; how many are vacant in each case; and what different types of heating system are fitted in occupied Northern Ireland Housing Executive properties in each parliamentary constituency in Belfast. [224225]

Mr. Spellar: The information is not available by constituency, however at 24 March 2005 the information by housing executive district office is as follows.

Housing executive district office	Occupied stock	Vacant stock[1]	Heating source: Oil	Gas	Electric	Room heater	Other

Housing Executive Funding

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland which community organisations have received funding from the Housing Executive in each constituency in Northern Ireland in the last five years to meet (a) staff costs, (b) administration costs and (c) capital costs. [224158]

Mr. Spellar: The information is shown in the following table. No funding was provided in respect of capital costs.

Language Teaching

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many pupils in the Belfast Education and Library Board area are given teaching support from the English as an Additional Language Support Unit; and what the annual budget is for this unit in the BELB area. [224172]

Mr. Gardiner: The numbers of children with English as an Additional Language (EAL) are determined by the annual school census which took place in October 2004. At that date, the Belfast Education and Library Board (BELB) recorded 574 children with EAL.

Each of the five Education and Library Boards receive earmarked funding from the Department on a per capita basis in respect of EAL. The Department's total earmarked budget is £420,000 in 2005–06 and the BELB has been allocated £117,000 from this budget for EAL support services in the 2005–06 financial year which is an increase of £7,000 from 2004–05.

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many pupils are taught through the Irish language schools sector in the Belfast Education and Library Board area; and what the Government spending on this sector was in the last year for which figures are available. [224173]

Mr. Gardiner: In 2004–05, there are 1,058 pupils taught in grant-aided Irish Medium primary schools, and 442 pupils taught in grant-aided Irish Medium post-primary schools in the Belfast Education and Library Board (BELB) area. In 2003–04, the respective figures were 995 and 406. Based on information contained in the Local Management of Schools Outturn Statement published by the BELB for the financial year 2003–04, a total of £4,011,407 was spent directly on Irish Medium Schools in the Belfast Board area.

Lir Integrated Primary School

Mr. Barnes: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many representations he has received concerning the development proposal for Lir Integrated Primary School in Ballycastle. [223200]

Mr. Gardiner: The Department of Education received two objections to the Development Proposal, one during the two-month consultation period and one shortly after the consultation period expired. 145 pre-printed postcards were also received from supporters of the proposal from across the Province, 135 were received during the two-month consultation period and 10 were received after the consultation period expired.

Means-tested Benefits (Strangford)

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people of pensionable age who are living in (a) nursing and (b) residential homes in Strangford constituency qualify for means-tested benefits. [223723]

Mr. Spellar: The information requested is not available. The Social Security Agency and the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety do not hold details of residents of nursing and residential homes and has not carried out exercises to assess their entitlement to means-tested benefits.

Offender Management

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps his Department is taking to implement the recommendations of the Criminal Justice Inspectorate Northern Ireland Report and the Management of Sex Offenders in Northern Ireland, with particular reference to the management of violent offenders in the community; and if he will make a statement. [224170]

Mr. Spellar: The first thematic inspection by the Criminal Justice Inspection Northern Ireland provides a sound basis to further develop the procedures already in place for assessing and managing the risk posed by sex offenders. I wish therefore to give careful consideration to the recommendations of the report for which I have responsibility, including extending the arrangements to include violent offenders. I have asked officials to consult with colleagues who operate the offender management procedures, both here and in England and Wales, before reaching conclusions on the way forward.

Pension Credit

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment has been made of pension credit take-up levels in Northern Ireland; and what policies are in place to increase that rate. [224066]

Mr. Spellar: No estimate has been made of the number of pensioners who might be entitled to state pension credit.

A target has been set of promoting take-up of 98,500 by March 2006 and 104,000 by March 2008. By February 2005, 91,782 pensioner households were in receipt of pension credit.

Police Appointments

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to his answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 589W, on police appointments, how many of the (a) 816 non-Catholic candidates appointed to the police and (b) 408 suitably qualified candidates who were rejected because of the equal recruitment policy were Protestant. [224210]

Mr. Pearson [pursuant to the reply, 21 March 2005, Official Report, c.589W]: I am advised that of the stated 816 non-Catholic applicants appointed to the PSNI as trainee constables, 802 were perceived as being from a Protestant community background.

I am also advised that of the stated 408 suitably qualified applicants who were rejected because of the equal recruitment policy, 405 were perceived as being from a Protestant community background.

Polling Stations

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether it is his intention that all polling stations in the forthcoming local government elections on 5 May and at the next general election in Northern Ireland should be guarded by uniformed police officers. [223173]

Mr. Pearson: The Police Service of Northern Ireland is committed to providing the appropriate level of support to the chief electoral officer in his management of the electoral process in Northern Ireland. This support will be based on individual threat assessments conducted on behalf of district commanders, with whom the operational decisions for deployments lie.

Pollution

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many incidents of pollution were reported in Lough Neagh in 2004; and what the origins were of the incidents. [224091]

Angela Smith: From 1 January 2004 to 31 December 2004, the Department of the Environment's Environment and Heritage Service Unit received 12 reports of pollution within a 50 metre radius of Lough Neagh. Of these, eight incidents were confirmed and all assessed as 'low severity' in that the incidents resulted in a localised environmental impact only. By origin, seven incidents were attributed to industry and one to the Department for Regional Development's Water Service.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many incidents of pollution were reported in the Six Mile Water river in 2004; and what the origins were of the incidents. [224092]

Angela Smith: The Department of the Environment's Environment and Heritage Service received 127 reports of pollution in the Six Mile Water river from 1 January 2004 to 31 December 2004. Of these, 52 incidents were confirmed.

By origin, 27 incidents were attributed to industry, six to the Department for Regional Development's water service, three to farming, three to transport and 13 to 'other' sources (i.e. sources which are not any of these nor domestic). By severity, nine incidents were assessed as 'medium' in that the incidents would have had a more than localised impact and may for example have had a readily observable impact on the invertebrate life in the watercourse. The remaining 43 incidents were assessed as 'low' severity in that they would have resulted in a localised environmental impact only.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 588W, on marine pollution, what constituted the failure of the screening plant at Briggs Rock, Orlock. [224255]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Water Service (Mrs. Katharine Bryan) has been asked to write to the hon. Lady in response to this question.

Letter from Mrs. Katharine Bryan to Lady Hermon, dated 31 March 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question, pursuant to his Answer of 21 March, Official Report, column 588W, on marine pollution, about what constituted the failure of the screening plant at Briggs Rock, Orlock (224255). I have been asked to reply as the issue falls within my operational responsibility as Chief Executive of Water Service.

The screening plant at Briggs Rock originally comprised two automatic rotating screens which removed most solids and materials from the sewage before the effluent liquor was discharged to sea. Over the past two to three years, due to difficulties in sourcing replacement parts, the screens became increasingly difficult to maintain and repair, and more expensive to operate. The condition of the screens continued to deteriorate and they were removed in late 2004. As an interim measure, pending the provisions of a new automatic screening plant, the screens were replaced by fabricated bar screens. These screens have to be cleaned manually twice per day and are not as effective as the automatic rotating screens.

Water Service regrets the pollution caused by the failure of this equipment and is currently taking forward a project to provide a new automatic screening plant. This is scheduled for completion by the end of this summer.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 588W, on marine pollution, if he will make a statement on action taken since 9 March to clean up the coastline. [224256]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Water Service (Mrs. Katharine Bryan) has been asked to write to the hon. Lady in response to this question.

Letter from Mrs. Katharine Bryan to Lady Hermon, dated 31 March 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question, pursuant to his Answer of 21 March, Official Report, column 588W, on marine pollution, if he will make a statement on action taken since 9 March to clean up the coastline (224256). I have been asked to reply as the issue falls within my operational responsibility as Chief Executive of Water Service.

Water Service has already met with North Down Borough Council to discuss the situation. A detailed inspection of the foreshore at Orlock Point has been undertaken and a clean-up operation commenced on 30 March 2005. Owing to the nature of the rocky coastline around Orlock Point, it is expected that it will take several days to complete.

Pending the provision of the new automatic screening plant at Briggs Rock, due for completion by the end of the summer at a cost of £150,000. Water Service will carry out regular inspections of the coastline around Orlock and take further clean-up action when necessary.

Post-primary Education

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the differences between post-primary integrated education and controlled secondary schools, with particular reference to the (a) curriculum, (b) ethos and (c) examination results. [224084]

Mr. Gardiner: The information is as follows:

(a) The requirements of the statutory curriculum are the same for all post-primary schools.

(b) The Department of Education does not have an overarching statement on ethos in relation to controlled secondary schools. The managing body of individual schools may, however, express this as a statement of values.

The Department requires schools transforming to integrated status to publish a Transformation Development Plan in which it is suggested that schools may wish to address the issue of ethos. In addition, all integrated schools have the option of signing up to a Statement of Principles prepared and published by the Northern Ireland council for Integrated Education.

(c) The performance in public examinations for all post-primary schools for the period 2001–04 is as follows:

Performance in public examinations by key indicators and management type, 2001–02 to 2003–04

Academic year	Key indicator	Controlled non-grammar	Controlled grammar	Total controlled	Integrated non-grammar
2003–04	Percentage of year 12 pupils achieving 5+ GCSEs (or equivalent) at Grades A*-C	35	96	52	47
	Percentage of those entered for A-levels achieving 2+ A Levels (or equivalent) at Grades A-E	82	98	93	83

	Percentage of those entered for A-levels achieving 2+ A Levels (or equivalent) at Grades A-E	83	99	94	76

Notes:
1. 'Integrated' schools include Controlled Integrated and Grant Maintained Integrated schools.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what estimate he has made of the likely size of the independently financed secondary school sector after the ending of academic selection between primary and secondary schools in the Province. [221768]

Mr. Gardiner: The size of the independent school sector in Northern Ireland is not expected to change as a result of the new arrangements for post-primary education.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland which (a) parents' groups, (b) principals of secondary and grammar schools and (c) principals of primary schools he has met since the publication of the Burns Report to discuss seleotion procedures for transfer between primary and secondary schools in the Province. [221770]

Mr. Gardiner: Prior to the suspension of the Northern Ireland Assembly, education matters were the responsibility of the devolved Administration. Since then, my predecessor Jane Kennedy and I met with representatives of the Governing Bodies Association on a number of occasions and with representatives of the Association of Headteachers in Secondary Schools and the Secondary Heads Association to discuss new arrangements for post primary education in Northern Ireland. No meetings between Ministers and parents' groups or principals of primary schools have been held.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost is of implementing the Costello Report in years (a) one, (b) two and (c) three after the ending of academic selection between primary and secondary schools in the Province. [221773]

Mr. Gardiner: As the new post-primary arrangements will largely be developed at local level, it is not yet possible to estimate the implementation costs in the three years following the ending of academic selection. Over the next three years £24.7 million has been made available to support the preparation for, and the phased introduction of key elements of, the new arrangements in advance of the last transfer tests in 2008.

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether the proposals in the Costello Report on post-primary education in Northern Ireland were subject to an economic appraisal. [223270]

Mr. Gardiner: A key recommendation is that new arrangements will be developed at local level by schools and school managing authorities working together. As these emerge, individual proposals will be required to demonstrate value for money and those which involve capital expenditure will be subject to an economic appraisal in the normal way.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many and what percentage of those pupils (a) not entered and (b) eligible for the transfer test for post-primary schools were from disadvantaged backgrounds in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [223742]

Mr. Gardiner: Information on the background of individual pupils at primary schools/preparatory departments is not available. However, the following tables show the number of pupils eligible for the transfer test, and the number of these who were not entered, at grant-aided schools in each Free School Meal band.

	Number of Year 7 pupils who did not sit the test
Free school meal (FSM) band	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04

Pupil Numbers

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the most recent projections of pupil populations in Northern Ireland are for each year in the period 2005 to 2012, broken down by (a) school type and (b) education board area. [223212]

Mr. Gardiner: Projected pupil numbers at grant-aided schools in Northern Ireland are available for the period 2005–06 to 2010–11 and are as follows:

	2005–06	2006–07	2007–08	2008–09	2009–10	2010–11
Nursery schools	6,200	6,200	6,200	6,200	6,200	6,200
Primary schools/preparatory departments	169,000	166,800	165,300	162,300	159,800	157,600
Secondary (non-grammar) schools	87,900	85,700	83,200	81,900	80,700	79,500
Grammar schools (secondary departments)	63,300	63,100	63,100	63,000	62,900	62,900
Special schools	4,800	4,800	4,800	4,800	4,800	4,800

The projected pupils numbers are only produced in respect of Northern Ireland as a whole. However, for education and library board areas, population projections for the relevant age-group i.e. those aged 3–17 (which include children not attending grant-aided schools) are as follows:

	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009	2010	2011	2012
Belfast	52,100	50,400	48,900	47,500	46,000	44,500	43,100	41,900
Western	66,800	65,800	64,800	64,000	63,200	62,600	62,200	61,800
North Eastern	84,500	83,800	83,100	82,400	81,800	81,200	80,700	80,200
South Eastern	81,700	80,800	79,800	78,700	77,500	76,300	75,400	74,500
Southern	81,600	80,900	80,300	79,600	78,900	78,400	78,100	77,900

School Admissions

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland why the Department of Education does not supply additional response booklets to parent groups, schools and politicians as part of the consultation process in Northern Ireland's admissions arrangements for post primary schools; which policy directs civil servants to refuse such requests; and when the policy came into effect. [223949]

Mr. Gardiner: It is important that those responding do so after carefully considering the content of the consultation document itself. Issuing copies of the "Response Booklet" in isolation could result in ill-informed comments and would not contribute to a fair and accurate reflection of opinion. The approach the Department is taking is established practice and is consistent with the approach used in other consultations.

This is an open consultation and anyone who wishes to respond can contact the Department by telephone, fax, e-mail or in writing and the Department will provide them with a copy of the consultation document and the "Response Booklet". Over 17,000 copies of the documents have been issued to date. The "Response Booklet" can also be downloaded from the Department's website.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the average GCSE points score for post-primary integrated schools using academic selection as an admission criterion was in the periods immediately (a) before and (b) after the change to admission criteria was introduced. [223741]

Mr. Gardiner: Two post-primary integrated schools use academic selection as an admission criterion: Slemish College and Lagan College. Slemish College opened on 1 September 1996 and its pupils did not take GCSEs until 2000–01. GCSE point score information is unavailable for years prior to 1995–96.

Average GCSE point scores for the two schools are as follows:

	Slemish College	Lagan College
1995–96	n/a	33.0
1996–97	n/a	37.8
1997–98	n/a	35.6
1998–99	n/a	31.4
1999–2000	n/a	36.7
2000–01	30.1	34.3
2001–02	32.0	36.2
2002–03	32.4	37.6
2003–04	36.0	35.1

The change to admission criteria occurred on the following dates:

Lagan College—September 1996

Slemish College—September 2002.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many responses have been received by the Department of Education on the consultation on admissions criteria to post-primary schools, broken down by those received by (a) post, (b) electronic submission and (c) other means. [223752]

Mr. Gardiner: To date, the Department has received 159 responses to the consultation on new admissions arrangements for post-primary schools. Of these, 93 responses have been received by post and 66 responses have been submitted electronically.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many responses have been received by the Department of Education on the consultation on admissions criteria to post-primary schools rejecting the proposals on the basis that no provision has been made for academic selection as a criteria; and if he will make a statement. [223753]

Mr. Gardiner: We are still in the early stages of this consultation exercise. The closing date for responses is 30 June 2005. Analysis of responses has not started.

All responses will be given careful consideration before decisions are taken and a summary of responses will be produced following the consultation.

School Closures

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what school closures are planned in Northern Ireland for each year in the period 2005 to 2012, broken down by (a) school type and (b) education board area. [223223]

Mr. Gardiner: All proposals for school closures are subject to the formal Development Proposal process which ensures that all interested parties are consulted and have an opportunity to comment.

There are currently three schools which are the subject of Development Proposals, two of which if approved would close in 2005 (ie Antiville and St. Mary's), with Tullymacarette Primary School scheduled to close in 2007.

Name of school	Type	Education and Library Board area
Antiville Primary School	Controlled primary	North Eastern
Tullymacarette Primary School	Controlled primary	Southern
St. Mary's Primary School	Maintained primary	Western

No decisions have yet been taken on any of these proposals.

There are 29 other schools which have already been approved for amalgamations which will result in 12 replacement schools. Unless indicated to the contrary, these involve amalgamations into one new replacement school as follows:

Name of schools	Type	Education and Library Board area	Estimated completion date
St. John's Primary School/St. Catherine's Primary School/St. Gall's Primary School Belfast	Maintained primary	Belfast	2005
Clough Primary School/Downshire Primary School	Controlled primary	South Eastern	2005
Hillsborough Primary School/Newport Primary School	Controlled primary	South Eastern	2005

Name of schools	Type	Education and Library Board area	Estimated completion date
Dervaghroy Primary School/Sixmilecross Primary School/The Hutton Primary School	Controlled primary	Western	2005
All Saints Primary School/St. Mary's Primary School/St. Joseph's Primary School/St. Louis Primary School Ballymena	Amalgamation into two maintained primary schools	North Eastern	2006
Charley Primary School/Lambeg Primary School/Drumbo Primary School/Hillhall Primary School	Controlled primary	South Eastern	2006
Annaghmore Primary School/Tullyroan Primary School	Controlled primary	Southern	2006
Burnfoot Primary School/Dungiven Primary School/Largy Primary School	Controlled primary	Western	2006
Coranny Primary School/Cornagague Primary School	Maintained primary	Western	2006
Limegrove Special School, Limavady/Glasvey Special School, Ballykelly	Controlled special	Western	2006
St. Patrick's Boys' Academy/St. Patrick's Girls' Academy, Dungannon	Voluntary grammar	Southern	2008

School authorities are expected to plan for the future level of provision needed and further closures are likely to occur in the period to 2012 as relevant authorities bring forward Development Proposals for approval.

School Services

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on changes in services in schools to be provided in 2005–06 following his Department's recent budget discussions with the North Eastern Education and Library Board. [224082]

Mr. Gardiner: For 2005–06, I have made available some £954 million directly to schools, an increase of £79 million on the amount provided in 2004–05. More money is going into virtually every school at a time when pupil numbers are falling. Under the new common funding arrangements, schools across Northern Ireland are also having their budgets determined, for the first time, on a consistent and equitable basis.

I am conscious that the Education and Library Boards provide many important services directly to schools. Their centre budgets too have increased—by almost £20 million in overall terms and by almost £4 million in the case of the North Eastern Education and Library Board.

The children in our school system need to be at the centre of all that we do and I have made clear to all boards that I expect priority to be given to the needs of the classroom and to other key front-line services.

Smoking

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many responses he has received to his Department's consultation on smoking in enclosed public places in Northern Ireland as contained in question 5c of the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety 20-year strategy, A Healthier Future; and how many of these responses were (a) in favour of a total ban, (b) against a total ban and (c) in favour of a partial ban. [223272]

Angela Smith: I will not be in a position to provide further information on the responses received until after the end of the consultation exercise.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what action he has taken to publicise his Department's consultation on smoking in enclosed public places in Northern Ireland as contained in question 5c of the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety 20-year strategy, 'A Healthier Future'. [223273]

Angela Smith: The consultation document 'A Healthier Future' was launched on 21 December 2004, a press release issued and media interviews were undertaken. The document was issued to a wide range of organisations and individuals. A week long advertising campaign ran from 24 February 2005 to 2 March 2005 in the main local Northern Ireland newspapers. This provided the public with the opportunity to respond by either replying to the adverts or sending their views online on the Department's website.

Special EU Programmes Body

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether the Special EU Programmes Body set up under the Belfast Agreement is a public authority for the purposes of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. [223999]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Special EU Programmes Body is not a public authority for the purposes of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 806W.

Substitute Teachers

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost was of providing substitute teachers in Northern Ireland in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; and how much of that cost was due to industrial action relating to progression on the upper pay spine. [224083]

Mr. Gardiner: The total salary cost of providing substitute teachers in Northern Ireland (including employer costs in relation to superannuation and national insurance contributions) was as follows:

Financial year	£
2003–04	49,291,271.41
2004–05	51,656,414.26

Information regarding the reasons for the employment of substitute teachers is not readily available and could be obtained only at a disproportionate cost.

Teaching

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) how many students graduated in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years with teaching qualifications; [224155]

(2) how many people in Northern Ireland have gained teaching qualifications in each year since 1997. [223995]

Mr. Gardiner: The number of teacher training qualifications obtained from Northern Ireland higher education institutions in each year since 1997 are as follows:

Students gaining teacher training qualifications at NI higher education institutions 1996–97 to 2003–04

	Number of qualifications obtained
1996–97	753
1997–98	644
1998–99	649
1999–2000	635
2000–01	700
2001–02	716
2002–03	772
2003–04	779

The Department publishes annual statistical bulletins on higher education qualifications which are available to download from: http://www.delni.gov.uk/index.cfm/area/information/page/SRHEQualifications

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many new teaching posts were created in each of the last five years in Northern Ireland. [224156]

Mr. Gardiner: There is no set level of staffing for schools in the primary or post-primary sectors. Under local management of schools funding arrangements, it is a matter for Boards of Governors of individual schools to decide on the level of staffing in the school.

In terms of the overall supply and demand for teachers the Department uses a statistical demand model to balance the supply with the aggregate level of demands.

University Graduates

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people have graduated from university in Northern Ireland in each year since 1997. [223994]

Mr. Gardiner: The number of higher education qualifications obtained from Northern Ireland higher education institutions in each year since 1997 are as follows:

Students gaining qualifications at NI higher education institutions 1996–97 to 2003–04

	Number of qualifications obtained
1996–97	11,982
1997–98	12,833
1998–99	11,625
1999–2000	11,321
2000–01	12,248
2001–02	13,076
2002–03	13,215
2003–04	13,860

Please note that from 1998–99, the university of Ulster no longer conferred interim awards to students on linked postgraduate certificate, postgraduate diploma and masters courses.

The Department publishes annual statistical bulletins on higher education qualifications which are available to download from: http://www.delni.gov.uk/index. cfm/area/information/page/SRHEQualifications.

Women's Centres

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will ensure continued funding for women's centres in Northern Ireland. [224090]

Mr. Spellar: I am aware that many women's centres would have faced a financial crisis if the recent £1.1 million short-term funding that I announced on 16 March had not been provided. Women's Centres provide a range of local services in disadvantaged communities and continue to make a major contribution towards peace building and social cohesion. I am establishing a review group to consider the longer-term funding for the women's sector. This group will be led by the Department for Social Development and will report to me and recommend actions within the six-month period of this programme.

Women's Support Network

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what sources of funding his Department has offered to the Women's Support Network following the ending of funding under the Executive Programme Fund. [224154]

Mr. Spellar: The Women's Support Network received £24,613 funding from the Department for Social Development under the short-term Executive Programme Funds in the financial year 2003–04. Since that time the Women's Support Network has secured other public funding and it is currently in receipt of funding provided by OFMDFM, under the Peace II programme. This funding will end in December 2006.

On 16 March I announced that I will establish a review group to consider the longer-term funding for the women's sector. In the meantime I have made available short-term funding of £1.1 million for the sector. The Women's Support Network will be considered under this review.

TREASURY

Airport Passenger Duty

Norman Baker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect of Airport Passenger Duty on passenger numbers; and what assessment he has made of the merits of adjusting the level of such duty. [224018]

John Healey: HM Customs and Excise analysis indicates that the price elasticity of demand for changes in Air Passenger Duty (APD) duty rates is low, and air travel has proven relatively unresponsive to changes in price. My right hon. Friend, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced a freeze on air passenger duty for the year ahead in his recent Budget report. The Chancellor takes into account a range of social, economic and environmental considerations, including the effects of APD on passenger numbers, when setting levels of taxation.

Bereavement Grants

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his answer of 4 March 2005, Official Report, column 1402W, on bereavement grants, whether occupational pension schemes are permitted to pay a non-taxable bereavement grant voluntarily on the death of a pensioner member aged over 75. [224677]

Mr. Timms: Under the current pension tax regime an occupational pension scheme can make a tax-free lump sum payment on a pensioner member's death of up to £2,500. There is no age limit on when this payment can be made.

From 6 April 2006, under the new simplified pension tax regime schemes can continue to pay lump sums on the death of a pensioner member unless the member is aged 75 or over when they die. In these cases survivors benefits must be paid in the form of income. Existing rights to a tax-free lump sum on death at age 75 or over on 6 April next year will be protected. Details are contained in the Inland Revenue Pensions Tax Simplification Technical Note that was published on 16 February 2004.

Censuses

Mr. John Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) if he will instruct the Economic Secretary to the Treasury to provide substantive answers to Questions concerning decennial censuses after consulting the Registrar General; [224047]

(2) whether Treasury Ministers have used their powers under section 2(1) of the Census Act 1920 to control and direct the Registrar General since 1990; [224048]

(3) whether the necessary permission to retain the (a) 1981 and (b) 1991 census records for England and Wales in the Office for National Statistics once they are over 30-years-old has already been granted by the Lord Chancellor. [224049]

Mr. Timms: I am the Minister responsible for the population census. Day-to-day responsibility rests with the Registrar General, who is also the National Statistician.

All Parliamentary questions to the Chancellor of the Exchequer are answered substantively. It has been the practice of successive Administrations for many years to delegate questions concerning the census to the Registrar General for answer by letter. All such letter answers are printed in the Official Report.

The Registrar General undertakes his functions under section 2(1) of the Census Act 1920 and of any Census Order or Regulations made under the 1920 Act. His powers to carry out the census are subject to the control of, and in compliance with, any Ministerial direction by virtue of Section 2(2) of the 1920 Act. The Registrar General has regular meetings with the relevant Minister to discuss census-related issues. The Government's proposals for the 2001 Census were published in a White Paper ("The 2001 Census of Population", Cm 4253) in March 1999. Parliamentary authority for the 2001 Census was subsequently given by virtue of the Census Order 2000 (SI 2000/744), the Census Regulations 2000 (SI 2000/1473), the Census (Amendment) Order 2000 (SI 2000/3249), and the Census (Amendment) Regulations 2000 (SI 2000/3351).

I understand that no application has yet been made by the Registrar General to the Lord Chancellor, under the provisions of section 3(4) of the Public Records Act 1958, for him to retain the records from the 1981 or 1991 Censuses once they are over 30-years-old.

Child Benefit

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what rationale underlies his policy of not means-testing for receipt of child benefit. [223923]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Child benefit is payable to every family in the UK in respect of each child. The Government believe it is right that society should recognise the importance of family life by providing financial support for every family with a dependent child.

Employment Rates

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assumptions of long-term employment rates for (a) men and (b) women underpin the Treasury's published figures on long-term fiscal trends. [224669]

John Healey: As required by the "Code for Fiscal Stability", the Treasury publishes illustrative long-term fiscal projections as part of the Economic and Fiscal Strategy Report (EFSR). The long-term macroeconomic assumptions are stated in Annex A of the EFSR. Regarding long-term employment rates, Annex A of the 2005 EFSR states that:

> "By assumption, employment is driven entirely by demographic trends. Specifically, with the overall employment rate assumed to remain constant from 2009–10 onwards, changes in employment levels reflect changes in the working-age population" (Budget 2005, page 178).

No specific assumptions regarding the future evolution of male and female employment rates are made.

In addition to the illustrative long-term fiscal projections, the Treasury also publishes the Long-term Public Finance Report (LTPFR) alongside the pre-Budget report. The baseline results of the 2004 LTPFR are also based on the assumption of an unchanged total employment rate beyond the medium term. In addition, the 2004 LTPFR (pages 33–37) presents results based on an alternative approach to projecting employment trends.

Environmental Taxes

Mr. Watts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the impact of environmental taxes (a) on manufacturing industries' competitiveness and (b) energy prices. [224017]

John Healey: The Government assesses the impact of environmental taxes against a range of social, economic and environmental factors, including impacts on competitiveness and energy prices, in the annual Budget process. As part of this, the Government have published an independent evaluation by Cambridge Econometrics of the climate change levy. This considers the environmental impact of the levy as well as its impact on the economy and energy prices. Copies are available from the House of Commons Library or the Customs and Excise website.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Joint Committee (ECC-Switzerland) on the simplification of inspections and formalities (and working party) met; when and where these meetings took place; which UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217256]

Mr. MacShane: I have been asked to reply.

The EEC-Switzerland Facilitation of Controls and Formalities in Goods Transport Joint Committee meets annually in October. It met once under the Italian presidency, and once under the Dutch, both times in Brussels. The European Commission represented the European Community. No UK Government expert was present.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the EEC—European Free Trade Association Joint Committee and working parties met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217924]

Mr. MacShane: I have been asked to reply.

There is no Committee with such a title. However, the Joint Committee of the European Economic Area, which is responsible for the ongoing management of the EEA Agreement, met on the following dates during the Italian, Dutch and Irish presidencies: in 2003 on 11 July, 26 September, 7 November, and 5 December. In 2004 it met on 6 February, 19 March, 23 April, 4 June, 9 July, 24 September, 29 October, and 3 December.

The Joint Committee is assisted by four sub-committees. Subcommittee I met in 2003 on 1 July, 16 September, 14 October, and 25 November. In 2004 it met on 27 January, 2 March, 30 March, 11 May, 22 June, 14 September, 19 October, and 16 November. Subcommittee II met in 2003 on 2 July, 17 September, 15 October, and 26 November. In 2004 it met 29 January, 4 March, 1 April, 13 May, 24 June, 16 September, 21 October and 18 November. Subcommittee III met in 2003 on 4 July, 19 September, 17 October and 28 November. In 2004 it met on 29 January, 4 March, 1 April, 13 May, 24 June, 16 September, 21 October and 18 November. Subcommittee IV met in 2003 on 3 July, 16 September, 16 October and 27 November. In 2004 it met on 29 January, 4 March, 1 April, 13 May, 24 June, 16 September, 21 October and 18 November.

All meetings took place in Brussels. The European Commission represents the European Community—UK Government experts do not normally attend.

TRANSPORT

Air Travellers (Financial Protection)

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions his Department has had with consumer organisations about the future of air traveller financial protection. [224613]

Charlotte Atkins: The Department has consulted widely with relevant stakeholders on the future financial protection of air travellers including the Air Transport Users' Council.

The Department, in conjunction with the Civil Aviation Authority, held two industry stakeholder meetings to inform interested parties, including the Air Transport Users' Council, of the approach being taken to the economic modelling being undertaken to assess the impact of a range of options for the future financial protection of air travellers.

East Midlands Airport

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions he has had with the (a) Civil Aviation Authority and (b) management of Nottingham East Midlands airport about the noise and air pollution effects of the two new flight paths over Leicestershire in and out of the airport. [224351]

Charlotte Atkins: The Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) has primary responsibility for assessing airspace change proposals, in accordance with Directions and Guidance issued to them by the Secretary of State. Written details of the proposed new routes at Nottingham East Midlands airport (NEMA) were supplied to the Department, along with a detailed environmental assessment, and representatives from the CAA attended meetings with me and with my predecessor on this matter. The management of NEMA also presented the proposals to a meeting of local Members of Parliament, convened by my predecessor.

Government Transport Adviser (Aviation)

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what appointments procedure was followed for the appointment of Mr Rod Eddington as a transport adviser to the Government on aviation. [224163]

Charlotte Atkins: The Secretary of State for Transport and the Chancellor have appointed Rod Eddington to advise them on the longer-term impact of transport decisions on the UK's productivity, stability and growth.

Lighthouses

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what contracts his Department has for maintenance work to be undertaken by (a) the Trinity House Lighthouse Service, (b) the Northern Lighthouse Board and (c) the Irish Lights; and what the financial value is of each. [224602]

Mr. Jamieson: The General Lighthouse Authorities do not have any contracts to undertake maintenance work in the UK or Ireland for the Department for Transport.

Trinity House Lighthouse Service does, however, carry out residual statutory responsibilities for the Colonial Lighthouse Service on behalf of the Department.

M6 Toll Road

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he expects to announce the results of his consultation on the proposed new M6 Toll Road between Birmingham and Manchester; and if he will make a statement. [224177]

Mr. Jamieson: The Government is considering the response to the consultation and will respond in due course.

Maritime and Coastguard Agency Budget

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what proportion of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency budget was for (a) coastguards, (b) ship inspectors, (c) depots and (d) emergency towing vessels in each year since it was established. [224603]

Mr. Jamieson: The Maritime and Coastguard Agency's expenditure is set out in the following table:

Percentage

	Coastguard	Ship inspectors	Accommodation	Emergency towing vessels
Resource accounts
2003–04	13	6	6	10
2002–03	13	5	6	11
2001–02	13	5	6	7

Percentage

	Coastguard	Ship inspectors	Accommodation	Emergency towing vessels
Cash accounts
2000–01	14	5	8	8
1999–2000	15	6	8	7
1998–99	13	7	7	5

The resource accounts figures include depreciation and capital charge which are not included within the cash accounts outturns.

New Transport Schemes

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what conditions his Department has set on the £1 billion offered to West Midlands local authorities for new transport schemes. [224734]

Charlotte Atkins: My colleague the Minister of State for Transport (Tony McNulty) wrote to the West Midlands Regional Assembly on 9 July 2003 setting out the Secretary of State's response to the West Midlands Area Multi-Modal Study. In that letter, the full text of which is available at http://www.go-wm.gov.uk/MultiModal/mms/wm, he set out the terms under which the Secretary of State would be prepared to consider making available up to £1 billion of capital funding for the West Midlands conurbation.

Operation Stack

Mr. Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans he has to replace Operation Stack on the M20; and if he will make a statement. [224453]

Mr. Jamieson: The Highways Agency is reviewing what improvements may be possible in the short and long term to reduce delays and disruption for travellers. These options include the modified use of Operation Stack, with and without contraflow working on the M20 London bound carriageway, and a possible lorry park for use as a holding area for HGVs waiting to travel to the continent.

Mr. Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the number of journeys affected by Operation Stack on the M20. [224457]

Mr. Jamieson: During 2004 Kent police activated Operation Stack on six occasions. Between 27 January and 29 March 2005 it has been necessary to implement Operation Stack on 17 occasions because of the difficulties with the docking facilities in Calais and the effects of industrial action in France.

Kent police do not hold detailed records that show how many vehicles have actually been affected by the implementation of Operation Stack. However, there are approximately 23,000 vehicles per day travelling on the M20 between Junctions 11 and 12 on the coastbound carriageway (Phase one of Operation Stack) and approximately 30,000 vehicles per day travelling between Junctions eight and nine on the coastbound (Phase two of Operation Stack). When Operation Stack is implemented a large proportion of these vehicles would have to alter their route, change their travel plans and may experience a delay to their journey.

Transport Access (Disabled)

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make it his policy to extend anti-discrimination legislation to make all public transport accessible to disabled people. [224539]

Charlotte Atkins: The Government are committed to an accessible public transport system in which disabled people have the same opportunities to travel as other members of society. We have already introduced regulations under part 5 of the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 (DDA) to make all new trains, buses and coaches accessible and have announced our proposals for taxis. However, although associated infrastructure is covered, transport services are currently exempt from part 3 of the DDA which covers access to goods, services and facilities. The Government consider that to be an untenable position.

Measures have been included in the Disability Discrimination Bill currently being considered by Parliament to allow for the removal of that exemption through regulations. We have completed consultation on draft regulations which would cover public transport—trains (including light rail, underground and trams), buses, coaches, taxis and private hire—vehicle hire, breakdown services and vehicles used in leisure and tourism transport services. Subject to the passage of the Bill, we intend to lift the exemption for those services in December 2006.

Transport Knowledge Partnership

Dr. Moonie: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions his Department has had with the Department for International Development on the setting up of the Transport Knowledge Partnership; and if he will make a statement. [224104]

Mr. McNulty: The Department for Transport has not had discussions with the Department for International Development (DFID) on this issue. The global Transport Knowledge Partnership is an international initiative to increase the capacity of developing countries to share and apply knowledge and information for sustainable transport. DFID supports the initiative and has committed up to £2 million to it over a period of four years.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

Middle East

18. Helen Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what action he is encouraging the EU to take to further the middle east peace process. [224401]

Mr. Rammell: We continue to work closely with the EU and other Quartet members on middle east peace process issues. The Commission and other EU partners attended the London Meeting on 1 March, and have been active in work to follow up that meeting. We will continue to support the work of the Commission, along with the World Bank and US, in their efforts to assist the Palestinian Authority implement its programme of reforms.

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the transfer of Palestinian towns to the control of the Palestinian authorities. [224406]

Mr. Rammell: The transfer of five West Bank cities to Palestinian Authority control is progressing as agreed at Sharm al-Sheikh. The handover of Jericho took place on 16 March, and that of Tulkarem on 21 March. We welcome the transfers and the improved security cooperation between the Israelis and Palestinians.

23. Martin Linton: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Israeli Prime Minister concerning the expansion of settlements on the West Bank. [224407]

Mr. Rammell: We have frequently made clear to the Israeli Government our view that settlements are illegal under international law. The roadmap requires that Israel freeze settlement expansion and dismantle outposts erected since March 2001. My noble Friend Baroness Symons made representations on this issue to the Israeli ambassador on 23 March.

Darfur

Rev. Martin Smyth: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the impact of the continuing conflict in Darfur on the North-South Sudanese peace deal. [224408]

Mr. Mullin: Full implementation of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) is vital for peace in the whole of Sudan, including Darfur. However, the full benefits of a peace dividend for Sudan, including progress on debt relief, will not be realised until the conflict in Darfur is resolved. We are therefore pressing the parties in Darfur to negotiate a political settlement, consistent with the CPA.

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking to persuade the Government of Sudan to allow access to conflict-affected populations in Darfur by non-governmental organisations and human rights organisations. [224346]

Mr. Mullin: We regularly discuss with both the Government of Sudan and the rebels the importance of access for all non-governmental organisations throughout Darfur. Our Ambassador raised this matter with the Government on 21 March and I discussed this with the Secretary General of the Sudanese Liberation Movement on 22 March. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary secured access for human rights groups, including Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch, in August 2004. Lack of security is the key factor hampering access throughout Darfur. We have made it clear to the Government and the rebels that they must abide by their commitments under Abuja humanitarian and security protocols and improve the situation in Darfur.

Anti-Semitism

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on Government-funded monitoring of anti-Semitic incitement in (a) the Middle East and (b) Eastern Europe. [224122]

Mr. Rammell: The UK is committed to tackling discrimination and intolerance, including anti-Semitism. Incitement against any community may result in an increase in racial, religious or national tension.

As part of its efforts to combat incitement, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office is funding a project with the NGO index on censorship and BBC monitoring, to monitor incidents where the media has been either inciting conflict or raising tension, including on anti-Semitic grounds. The project, which began in 2004 and is expected to run for four years, focuses on four regions, including Eastern Europe and the Middle East.

The outputs of the monitoring can serve as early warning of increasing tensions in a given region; and to highlight areas where action is needed by Governments or civil society to tackle hate speech and incitement.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made regarding anti-Semitic incitement to the Governments of (a) Iran, (b) Lebanon, (c) Syria and (d) Egypt. [224127]

Mr. Rammell: We remain deeply concerned at continuing anti-Israel and anti-Semitic rhetoric from senior figures in the Iranian regime. Senior UK officials discussed this most recently with representatives of Iran's Supreme National Security Council on 2 February 2005. We have also pressed the Iranian authorities on many occasions to address international concerns about Iran's links to groups undermining the Middle East Peace Process through violence.

We have raised the issue of anti-Semitism with the Lebanese, Syrian and Egyptian authorities in the past, but have not had occasion to do so recently.

Botswana

Donald Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the high commission in Gaborone has made to the Botswanan authorities concerning the threatened deportation of Professor Ken Good; and if he will make a statement on (a) academic freedom and (b) respect for human rights in Botswana. [218980]

Mr. Mullin: Professor Good is an Australian national; as such, consular assistance is being provided by the Australian high commission in Pretoria. It is not our practice to offer consular assistance to foreign nationals.

We have made clear to the authorities in Botswana, through our high commission in Gaborone, the importance that we attach to academic freedom and respect for human rights.

Correspondence

Clare Short: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he will reply to the letter from the right hon. Member for Birmingham, Ladywood of 21 February concerning refusal of a visit visa to Miss Sinclair Deona Marie, Case Ref KGN 64392. [223855]

Mr. Mullin: A reply to my right hon. Friend will be sent shortly. I apologise for the delay.

Cote d'Ivoire

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with (a) the UN and (b) France regarding (i) the security situation in Côte d'Ivoire and (ii) the long-term strength of UN and French peacekeeping forces stationed there. [224486]

Mr. Mullin: The UN Security Council discussed the situation in Côte d'Ivoire on 28 March, including the UN Secretary-General's proposal to reinforce the UN mission there. Council members are now discussing the renewal of the mandates of the UN and French forces in Côte d'Ivoire. We remain in close touch with our French counterparts in Paris, New York and Abidjan and with the UN Secretariat in New York about the security situation and the future mandates of the UN and French forces.

Cotonou Agreement

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the proposed inclusion of weapons of mass destruction clauses in the Cotonou agreements between the EU and African, Caribbean and Pacific states. [223943]

Mr. MacShane: The Cotonou Agreement covers many aspects of the EU's relationship with the ACP group—trade, aid and political dialogue. The EU has agreed that such mixed agreements should reflect our common interest in non-proliferation of WMD as an issue of political dialogue. The EU has told the African, Caribbean and Pacific states (ACP) that

> "financial and technical assistance in the area of counter proliferation of WMD will be financed from instruments other than those intended for the financing of ACP-EC cooperation"

i.e. not from the European Development Fund or other EC thematic development lines.

Cyprus

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many properties built on occupied and misappropriated Greek Cypriot owned land in the northern part of the island of Cyprus have been purchased by citizens of the United Kingdom. [224357]

Mr. MacShane: The Government does not have access to that information. It is a matter for private individuals, acting upon appropriately qualified legal advice.

However, I welcome this opportunity to give further publicity to the relevant advice on our website (www.fco.gov.uk), to the effect that:

"Before purchasing property anywhere in Cyprus you are strongly advised to seek independent qualified legal advice.

Property issues are closely linked to the political situation. The non-recognition of the 'Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus' and the possibility of a future political settlement in Cyprus could have significant practical or financial implications for those considering buying property in the north. There is also a risk that purchasers would face legal proceedings in the courts of the Republic of Cyprus. Separately, there are specific rules for foreigners purchasing property in the north and you should ensure you are fully aware of these."

Departmental Structures

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 215W, on departmental structures, how many staff there are in the Presidency Unit within the Europe Directorate; and what the unit's (a) programme budget and (b) staffing budget is in 2005–06. [224316]

Mr. MacShane: The Presidency Team in the European Directorate currently consists of 12 members of staff. A thirteenth is being recruited to reach our full complement to meet projected staffing requirements for the duration of the Presidency. Staffing for the unit is being covered through re-prioritisation but is costed at £438,692 for financial year 2005–06.

Although budget allocations are yet to be finalised, the budget for programme spend is currently projected to be £6,732,000 in 2005–06.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 216W, on departmental structures, what the (a) remit, (b) programme budget and (c) staffing budget for 2005–06 are of (i) the EU Economic Reform and Analysis Unit, (ii) the Agenda 2007 Unit, (iii) the International Trade Team and (iv) the EU Forward Planning Unit. [224317]

Mr. MacShane: The Economic Reform and Agenda 2007 Units are principally charged with winning support among our EU partners for UK views on, respectively, European economic reform and the EU's future financing negotiations (Agenda 2007). These two units and the Forward Planning Unit are also responsible, between them, for the UK's bilateral relations with Ireland and with the five new EU member states from central Europe. The Forward Planning Unit is, in addition, responsible for relations with the EU institutions. The International Trade Team's principal task is winning support among EU and World Trade Organisation partners for the UK's international trade policy objectives. All four units work closely with other Government Departments.

Staffing levels in the different units vary as staff arrive and depart and they are moved to priority work. But the current staffing budgets for the units, based on average grade costs, are:

	Staffing budgets
EU Economic Reform and Analysis Unit	191,000
Agenda 2007 Unit	195,000
International Trade Team	186,000
EU Forward Planning Unit	159,000

None of the units currently has a free-standing programme budget.

EU Presidency

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 592W, on the EU presidency, what public-facing activities the Government plan to undertake in relation to the UK presidency of the EU. [224635]

Mr. MacShane: The Government are committed to informing and involving the public on the Government's policies and issues relating to the UK presidency of the EU.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office plan to be involved in a range of public communication activities during the presidency including the presidency website, regional advertising, leaflets, public discussions and media relations. These activities are currently in the planning stages but all UK presidency events will be listed on the official website.

Other Government Departments are responsible for organising their own communication activities relating to their policies during the presidency.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 592W, on the EU presidency, if he will make a statement on the types of public information that the Government intend to provide in relation to the UK presidency of the EU. [224636]

Mr. MacShane: The Government are committed to providing public information during our presidency. We plan to provide information relating to the presidency and its priorities through the official website (including documents, statements and speeches), as well as more proactive communication such as advertising, leaflets and media relations.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 592W, on the EU presidency, which team within his Department's Europe Directorate will be responsible for the budget for provision of public information on the UK presidency of the EU. [224637]

Mr. MacShane: A dedicated resource unit within the presidency team of the EU Directorate at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has been set up with responsibility for managing the FCO's presidency budget.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 592W, on the EU presidency, if he will break down the costs of the UK presidency of the EU by activity. [224638]

Mr. MacShane: I refer my hon. Friend to my reply of 21 March in which I said that final figures are not yet available for 2005–06. However, using provisional allocations where necessary, spending over the 18-month planning period and the 6-month operational period of the presidency currently breaks down as follows:

	Spending
Official meetings (including the Gymnich and European councils)	5.91 million
Administration (including human resources and training)	3.85 million
Official presidency website	388,000
Public information and communication	350,000
Total provisional budget	10.56 million

There may be some variation in final spending patterns.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 592W, on the EU presidency, what the budget was for public-facing activities for the previous UK presidency of the EU. [224639]

Mr. MacShane: Expenditure for public-facing activities for the previous UK presidency of the EU in 1998 is recorded as being £521,359.35.

European Constitution

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what factors informed his choice for the question in the referendum on the EU Constitution. [214335]

Mr. MacShane: The question was drafted bearing in mind the Electoral Commission's published guidelines, which are designed to ensure that a question is intelligible. The Electoral Commission's published views on the noble Lord, Lord Blackwell's Private Member's Bill of July 2004 were also taken into account. The wording of the question was agreed collectively at ministerial level.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect, when compared with existing rules, of the new qualified majority voting rules contained within the EU Constitutional Treaty on the ability of the UK Government to prevent EU legislation being passed. [224270]

Mr. MacShane: The Government do not believe the new voting arrangements in the EU Constitutional Treaty represent a significant change in the UK or other member states' powers. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's Commentary on the Treaty (Cm 6459) provides a detailed analysis in the changes in voting rules which would be introduced by the EU Constitutional Treaty if it were to come into force. In addition, the treaty would give national parliaments a direct say in the EU's law-making procedures for the first time.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect of the changes to the qualified majority voting rules of the EU within the Constitutional Treaty in terms of Coleman's measure of the power to block legislation. [224272]

Mr. MacShane: None. The implications of the new voting rules were fully and properly assessed with regard to UK interests, including the UK interest in the effective operation of the EU.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether it is his policy that failure by (a) the UK, (b) France and (c) the Netherlands to ratify the Constitution for Europe should lead to a presumption that that State (i) would and (ii) should withdraw from the European Union. [224273]

Mr. MacShane: No. That will depend on each member state.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Central Office of Information regarding public information on the Constitution for Europe. [224313]

Mr. MacShane: In line with normal government practice, the Central Office of Information has been commissioned by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to work with them on their on-going communications work on the EU and the proposed EU Constitutional Treaty.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 219W, on the European Constitution, what the (a) civil service grades and (b) job description are of the 14 members of the EU Constitution team within his Department's Europe Directorate. [224314]

Mr. MacShane: Further to the reply I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for Luton North (Mr. Hopkins) on 3 March 2005, Official Report, column 220W, following normal recruitment procedures there are now 15 staff in the EU Constitution Team. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office grades are:

1 × D7; 2 × D6; 1 × C5; 4 × C4; 3 × B3; 2 × A2; 2 × Al.

The team consists of a Team Leader, a Policy and Communications Manager, a Bill Manager, an officer responsible for communications strategy, three officers responsible for communications, publications and policy, an officer responsible for the EU Bill, an officer responsible for Parliament, an officer responsible for regional visits and media and an officer responsible for polling. There are four support officers at the Band A grade.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 March 2005, Official Report, column 219W, on the European Constitution, how he intends to estimate public demand for distribution of the text of the EU Constitutional Treaty; and what assessment he has made of the cost of such a distribution. [224315]

Mr. MacShane: The text of the EU Constitutional Treaty and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's Commentary on the Treaty are available free at www.europe.gov.uk. The full text and commentary have also been made available to all central libraries in the UK, and are available to members of the public on request from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. No assessment has yet been made of demand for further distribution and related costs.

Joyce Quin: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with his EU counterparts regarding the progress being made in EU national Parliaments towards ratification of the treaty establishing a constitution for Europe. [224402]

Mr. MacShane: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary and I continue to have informal discussions with his EU counterparts on the progress being made in EU national Parliaments towards ratification of the EU constitutional treaty.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what forthcoming publications relating to the EU constitution are planned by his Department. [224634]

Mr. MacShane: Decisions have not yet been made on forthcoming publications on the EU constitutional treaty. Current publications relating to the treaty include the Guide to the EU and Foreign and Commonwealth Office Commentary on the Treaty and are available at www.europe.gov.uk.

European Council

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the European Council has taken decisions by majority vote since 1997. [224640]

Mr. MacShane: No.

Free Press

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's policy is on the promotion of a free press overseas. [224687]

Mr. Rammell: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) continues to work both bilaterally and with our international partners to promote freedom of expression. We do this through lobbying on individual cases and wider human rights issues, and through projects supported through the Global Opportunities Fund.

The FCO's Freedom of Expression Panel, which I chair, includes representatives of NGOs, academic experts and legal and media professionals. It meets regularly to provide expert advice and guidance to the FCO. The panel has sub-groups working on hate speech; safety and risk management for media professionals; public sector broadcasting laws and imprisoned journalists/writers. Further details of FCO work on this subject can be found in the FCO's Annual Report on Human Rights 2004 (Command Paper Cm 6364), a copy of which is available in the Library of the House, and which can be found on the FCO website, www.fco.gov.uk.

Galileo Navigation System

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the United States Administration regarding the European Union's Galileo navigation system. [223951]

Mr. MacShane: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has had no discussions with the US Administration regarding Galileo. However officials from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and other Government Departments are regularly in touch with their US counterparts on Galileo—contacts were particularly frequent in the run-up to the EU-US Agreement on Galileo of June last year. The Department for Transport is the lead Government Department for Galileo.

Iran

Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on relations with Iran. [224404]

Mr. Rammell: Our policy towards Iran remains one of constructive, but critical and conditional, engagement. The European Union has made clear that the development of its relations with Iran is possible only on the basis of action by Iran to address political concerns, in areas such as its nuclear programme, human rights record, approach to terrorism, and attitude to the middle east peace process.

Iraq

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what account was taken of Article 64 of the Fourth Geneva Convention in the appointment of the Iraqi Special Tribunal. [220813]

Mr. Rammell: Article 64 of the Fourth Geneva Convention would not apply to the establishment of the Iraq Special Tribunal (IST) or any appointment of the IST because it was established by the Iraqi Governing Council and not by an Occupying Power. It is part of the Iraqi criminal justice system and comprises of Iraqi judges.

Irish Lights

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has received from the Northern Ireland Office regarding the cessation of payments from the UK General Lighthouse Fund for the provision of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters. [224598]

Mr. MacShane: None.

Israel

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Israeli authorities on the plans of the Israeli Government to build more homes on the West Bank. [224051]

Mr. Rammell: We have made frequent representations to the Israeli government expressing our concern over continued settlement activity. We have made clear our view that settlements are illegal under international law. The Roadmap requires that Israel freeze all settlement expansion and dismantle outposts erected since March 2001. Most recently my right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, the Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, met the Israeli Ambassador in London on 23 March. Baroness Symons expressed our concern at Israel's plans to build 3,500 more homes between the West Bank settlement of Ma'ale Adumim and Jerusalem.

Middle East

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment his Department has made of the political impact on (a) Jordan, (b) Syria, (c) Israel, (d) Palestine and (e) Iran of the recent conflict in Iraq. [223942]

Mr. Rammell: We closely monitor the political situation in the Middle East. The fall of Saddam Hussein's regime removed the threat he posed to Iraq's neighbours.

For Syria, the conflict gave rise to the movement of numbers of Iraqis across Syria's borders. There is evidence that some Syrian extremists have travelled to Iraq to take part in the insurgency. Syria appears to be the principal route for insurgents entering Iraq and continues to support former Iraqi regime elements who are based in Syria. We have repeatedly raised our concerns about these issues with the Syrian Government, and will continue to do so.

For Iran, the removal of Saddam's Government has created an opportunity to re-establish Iran/Iraq relations on a more positive footing. A stable and prosperous Iraq is in the best interests of Iran as well as the wider region. We have encouraged Iran to play a constructive role and to support Iraqi efforts to preserve security. We have made clear our concern at the alleged links between elements of the Iranian regime and armed groups in Iraq who have sought to undermine the rule of law.

For Jordan, the conflict gave rise to the movement of numbers of Iraqis across Jordan's borders. Since the conflict ended, Jordan has provided political support and practical assistance to Iraq.

The conflict has had less direct effect on Israel and Palestine, although a source of funds for some Palestinian groups has dried up with the removal of Saddam Hussein. In recent months the Israeli and Palestinian focus has been directed internally towards the Palestinian elections and disengagement.

Successful elections were held in Iraq on 30 January. The formation of a democratically elected Iraqi Government should have a further positive impact on stability in the region.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what programmes his Department is undertaking to promote political reform in the Middle East. [224128]

Mr. Rammell: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's main programme tool for supporting reform in the Middle East is the Engaging with the Islamic World programme under the Global Opportunities Fund. It currently supports 44 programmes in the Middle East and North Africa region. From this financial year we are doubling the programme's budget to £8.5 million. We also have a number of other programmes, such as the Global Conflict Prevention Pool, sponsored themed visits and scholarships, which contribute to our policy of supporting regionally-led reform.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the work of the EU on (a) governmental transparency and (b) anti-corruption mechanisms in the Middle East; and if he will make a statement. [224628]

Mr. MacShane: My Department has made no specific assessment of the work of the EU on governmental transparency and anti-corruption mechanisms in the Middle East. But the UK's national contribution to the 10-year Review of the Barcelona Process argues that the EU and Mediterranean Partner countries should set long-term governance targets in order, among other things, to promote greater transparency in policy making and to counter corruption across the EuroMed region. We believe that such targets should be incorporated into the European Neighbourhood Policy Action Plans with Mediterranean Partner countries. And we will continue to press the EU to incorporate the principles of the EU Strategic Partnership with the Mediterranean and the Middle East as it develops its relations with other countries in the region.

Mr. Nick Baker

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what information his Department has received concerning the state of health of Mr. Nick Baker who is in prison in Japan; and what discussions (a) he and (b) his officials have had with Japanese officials concerning Mr. Baker's case. [224449]

Mr. Mullin: Our embassy in Japan and the Consular Directorate in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) are monitoring Mr. Baker's case closely, including his state of health. Embassy officials have discussed health issues with Mr. Baker during consular visits and raised them with Japanese officials where necessary. For reasons of consular confidentiality we cannot reveal detailed information about Mr. Baker's health.

The FCO is also monitoring Mr. Baker's appeal against his conviction, which is continuing in the Japanese courts. Embassy officials raise Mr Baker's case with the Japanese authorities whenever appropriate.

The FCO remains in touch with Mr. Baker and his family and will inform them of any developments in his case.

Nuclear Proliferation

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the report Multilateral Approaches to the Nuclear Fuel Cycle: Expert Group Report, submitted to the Director-General of the International Atomic Energy Agency, INFCIRC/640, 22 February; and whether he plans to adopt its recommendations in United Kingdom submissions to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty Review Conference in May in New York. [224003]

Mr. MacShane: The report represents a preliminary assessment of the options for strengthening the proliferation resistance of the civil nuclear fuel cycle, while assuring supply of fuel for peaceful civil nuclear purposes: We believe it is a valuable contribution to the debate. We will, as the report recommends, be investigating the practicality, feasibility and usefulness of the approaches it sets out. We will continue to take an active part in the debate.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the oral answer of 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 805, on Iran, which part of Article 2 of the Non-Proliferation Treaty allows the United Kingdom to hold nuclear weapons. [224044]

Mr. MacShane: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary, in answer to my hon. Friend's oral question of 1 March, stated that the United Kingdom was allowed to hold nuclear weapons under Article 2 of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and that non-nuclear weapon states were defined as such by Article IV of the Treaty. The correct position on the definitions of the articles and our obligations under the treaty articles is set out in my reply to my hon. Friend on 15 March 2005, Official Report, columns 222–23W.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the United Kingdom has made representations to any non-nuclear weapons states in respect of the development or operation of (a) spent nuclear fuel reprocessing plants, (b) uranium enrichment plants and (c) separated plutonium stores. [224045]

Mr. MacShane: The UK, as a State Party to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), upholds the inalienable right of non-nuclear weapon states to the peaceful use of nuclear energy under Article IV of the Treaty, in conformity with Articles I and II of the Treaty. The UK also seeks to uphold, and is committed to, all other Articles of the Treaty. It actively participates in and promotes, in the International Atomic Energy Agency, the Nuclear Suppliers Group and other relevant for a such as the G8, compliance with the international nuclear non-proliferation obligations set out in the NPT and other international instruments.

Syria/Lebanon

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of whether Syria's recent troop deployment is compliant with United Nations Security Council resolution 1559; and if he will make a statement. [224125]

Mr. Rammell: The ongoing redeployment of Syrian troops to the Beka'a Valley and withdrawal of some to Syria is a first step in the implementation of UNSCR 1559. Among other terms, the resolution requires all Syrian forces, including intelligence and security personnel, to withdraw from Lebanon. The Government notes the undertaking made by Syrian Foreign Minister Shara'a's letters of 29 March 2005 to the UN Secretary General and the President of the UN Security Council to withdraw all Syrian troops from Lebanon by May.

Uranium Enrichment Facilities

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the possibility of limiting uranium enrichment and reprocessing plants to countries that already have the facilities. [223320]

Mr. MacShane: The Government is committed to ensuring that sensitive nuclear items, such as enrichment and reprocessing plants, which have clear proliferation potential, are not exported to states that may seek to use them for weapons purposes.

Recognising this, the UK is committed to strengthening the Nuclear Suppliers Group Guidelines, which control the export of such equipment, with a series of tough criteria that a recipient state must adhere to in order to receive such transfers. This will provide suppliers of nuclear items with adequate assurances that transferred items will not be used for non-peaceful purposes. The criteria are relevant whether or not the recipient state is in possession of equipment and reprocessing facilities.

Western Sahara

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has held with the (a) UN, (b) Polisaro Front and (c) Government of Morocco on holding a referendum on the future of the Western Sahara. [224597]

Mr. Rammell: UK officials hold regular discussions with the parties to the Western Sahara dispute and UN officials. These focus on ensuring that the UN process leads to a fair and lasting solution to this dispute that provides the people of the Western Sahara with an opportunity to exercise their right to self-determination.

Written Ministerial Statements

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has concluded his discussions with ministerial colleagues on the provision of written ministerial statements prior to and following all Council of Ministers' meetings to provide details of the meeting's agenda and its outcomes; and if he will make a statement. [224109]

Mr. MacShane: After consultation with ministerial colleagues, I made proposals to provide written ministerial statements prior to and following all Council of Ministers meetings to the chairs of the Commons European Scrutiny and Lords EU Select Committees. The proposals were generally well-received.

I am now in the process of reporting back the Committees' views to ministerial colleagues. I will announce any new initiative for reporting on Council of Ministers meetings by way of a written ministerial statement.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when she will reply to the letter dated 16 February from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to John Gilburn. [224361]

Mr. Caborn: I wrote to my right hon. Friend on 3 April.

Digital Switchover

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assistance the Department plans to give to those on low incomes to obtain the necessary equipment in advance of digital switchover. [224098]

Estelle Morris: As the Charter Review Green Paper makes clear, the vast majority of citizens will need only a source of good information to help them through switchover. However, we are working with the BBC and others to assess the scope of measures required to ensure the interests of the most vulnerable customers are protected.

Licensing

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will make a statement on the application of the provisions of the Licensing Act 2003 to alcohol wholesalers who rent their business space. [224368]

Mr. Caborn: Under the 2003 Act, sales of alcohol which are made to traders for the purposes of their trade, including another wholesaler, or to holders of club premises certificates, premises licences or personal licences, or premises users who have given temporary event notices for the purpose of making sales authorised by these permissions or notices, are not licensable. However a sale, not in the class above, made to a member of the public, even if in wholesale quantities, will become a licensable activity under the 2003 Act when it is fully operational. A premises licence would therefore be required for the premises where the alcohol is stored prior to despatch if any of the alcohol is to be dispatched to the public, whether or not the business space was rented. In addition under the 2003 Act no supply of alcohol, in retail or wholesale quantities to the public, may be made unless it is made or authorised by a person who holds a personal licence.

UK Sport

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many other public and Government advisory appointments are held by the new Chair of UK Sport. [223695]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Sue Campbell has since 2000 been a specialist adviser to the Secretary of State for Education and Skills and the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport as a part-time unremunerated appointment. She holds no other public appointments.

Yorkshire Tourism Board

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been granted to the Yorkshire Tourism Board in each year since 1996. [224593]

Mr. Caborn: In 2004–05 Yorkshire Forward provided funding to the Yorkshire Tourist Board of £503,258 to cover its core operational costs.

In 2003–04 the final figure for core operational costs was £685,466.

In addition to core funding, Yorkshire Forward provided funding to the Yorkshire Tourist Board of £217,437 in 2003–04 and £2,360,161 in 2004–05. This was for a range of services including marketing, e-tourism and data.

For the previous years figures I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 21 October 2004, Official Report, column 823W.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Antisocial Behaviour Orders (North Yorkshire)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Solicitor-General what recent discussions she has had with the Crown Prosecution Service on breaches of antisocial behaviour orders in North Yorkshire. [224193]

The Solicitor-General: I refer the hon. Member to the oral answer I gave on 24 March 2005, Official Report, column 999.

Departmental Policies

Mr. Gordon Marsden: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as closely as possible to the constituency, the effect of the actions and policies of the Law Officers' Department on Blackpool, South constituency since (a) 1997 and (b) 2001. [215749]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government has embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained at a constituency level but I can provide information on Lancashire as a whole. The introduction of the statutory charging scheme in June 2004 has already brought benefits in reducing the number of cases which fall out of the system after charge. The figures have fallen from 23.4 per cent. in 2002–03 to 17.2 per cent. in 2004–05 to date.

A Witness Care Unit has been established at Blackpool in furtherance of the No Witness No Justice initiative. This is already having an impact on the number of ineffective trials, particularly in the Crown court.

Lancashire has one of 14 specialist antisocial behaviour prosecutors in the country. The CPS work closely with other agencies to address antisocial behaviour and 37 orders on conviction were granted in Lancashire between November 2004 and February 2005.

Mr. Pike: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to the Burnley constituency, the effects on Burnley of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [214701]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government has embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained at a constituency level but I can provide information on Lancashire as a whole. The introduction of the statutory charging scheme in June 2004 has already brought benefits in reducing the number of cases which fall out of the system after charge. The figures have fallen from 23.4 per cent. in 2002–03 to 17.2 per cent. in 2004–05 to date.

Three new witness care units have been established in Lancashire, one of which is situated in Burnley. These units are already making a contribution towards the reduction in the percentage of ineffective trials, particularly in the Crown court.

Lancashire has one of 14 specialist antisocial behaviour prosecutors in the country. The CPS work closely with other agencies to address antisocial behaviour and 37 orders on conviction were granted in Lancashire between November 2004 and February 2005. Burnley is one of two new action areas within Lancashire and the specialist prosecutor will be establishing close working relationships with the relevant crime and disorder reduction partnerships, and with Burnley council's community safety department to determine how the CPS can contribute more to reducing antisocial behaviour in the area.

Mr. Sedgemore: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to Folkestone and Hythe constituency, the effects on Folkestone and Hythe of the Law Officers' Department policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [216027]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government have embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained on a constituency level. For Kent as a whole the statutory charging scheme was introduced in May 2004. This has had a significant impact on the number of cases which fall out of the criminal justice system after charge with an improvement from 18.3 per cent. in 2002–03 to 15.4 per cent. in 2004–05 to date.

Within Kent there are nine Witness Care Units, the introduction of which should have an impact on the numbers of ineffective trials in both the magistrates courts and the Crown court.

Kent has one of 14 specialist antisocial behaviour prosecutors. The prosecutor contributes substantially to inter-agency working and 21 Orders on conviction were granted in Kent between November 2004 and February 2005.

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to the Kingston upon Hull North constituency, the effects on Kingston upon Hull North of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [211806]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government has embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained at constituency level, but within the Humberside area, the introduction of statutory charging in August 2004 has already had an impact, reducing the level of cases which fall out of the system after charge. The current figures for the year to date are 13.3 per cent. as against 17.9 per cent. in 2002–03.

The CPS is also working with other agencies in this area to tackle antisocial behaviour. Between November 2004 and February 2005 16 antisocial behaviour orders on conviction have been granted in Humberside.

Mr. Sedgemore: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to Maidenhead constituency, the effects on Maidenhead of the Law Officers' Department policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [216028]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government have embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained on a constituency level, but within Thames Valley the statutory charging scheme was adopted in September 2004. This has already had an impact on the number of cases which fall out of the system after charge with an improvement from 29.9 per cent. in 2002–03 to 25.7 per cent. in the current year to date.

Departmental Policies (Preseli Pembrokeshire)

Mrs. Lawrence: To ask the Solicitor-General if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to Preseli Pembrokeshire constituency, the effects on Preseli Pembrokeshire of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [211317]

The Solicitor-General: Since 1997 the Government has embarked on a programme of reform in the criminal justice system to deliver justice for all by convicting and punishing the guilty and helping them to stop offending, while protecting the innocent.

Statistics are not maintained at a constituency level, but within the Dyfed Powys area, the introduction of a statutory charging scheme has already had an impact on the number of cases falling out of the criminal justice system after charge. There has been a reduction from 21.2 per cent. to 17.3 per cent. since 2002–03.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Coastal Action Zone

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment has been made of the impact of the Coastal Action Zone initiative in East Lincolnshire; and if he will make a statement. [224489]

Keith Hill: My right hon. Friend the Lord Rooker was involved in the formal launch of the Coastal Action Zone (CAZ) at Whitehall in December 2004.

I understand that since then the CAZ members have been considering priorities and potential activities. Officials from the Government Office for the East Midlands (GOEM) are involved in these discussions. It is very much early days. No impact assessment has been made by the Government but GOEM continue to follow developments with interest.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223430]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Member for East Ham (Mr. Timms) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many regulations have been repealed by his Department since 1st October 2004. [224617]

Yvette Cooper: 33 Regulations or Orders classified as general have been wholly revoked and five have been partially revoked.

Firefighters' Pensions

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many divorced spouses given a share of a retired firefighter's pension in each of the last three years did not receive it because they were under the qualifying pension age; and how much this saved the pension fund in immediate payments in each year. [224239]

Mr. Raynsford: The firefighters' pensions scheme is administered by individual Fire and Rescue Authorities, so this information is not held centrally, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Firelink Radio System

John Robertson: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister when he expects to announce a decision on the selection of a contractor for the Firelink radio system. [224237]

Mr. Raynsford: The announcement is expected in June 2005.

John Robertson: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how long after receipt of the best and final offer submission from the bidding contractors he would expect to wait before making a decision on the selection of a contractor for the Firelink radio system. [224238]

Mr. Raynsford: Upon receipt the best and final offer submissions will be evaluated with a final decision expected in June 2005.

Housing

Mr. Steen: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many acres of vacant, dormant, unused and under-utilised land are owned by his Department; and if he will estimate the number of homes that could be built on the land if it was made available. [219681]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has six unused sites which total 1.8 acres. Of these:

One site (0.07 acre) is subject to a Planning Obligation under Section 106 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 and is therefore not available for development.

One site (0.038 acre) is considered too small to have development potential.

Two sites (total 0.42 acre) which are close to each other are surrounded on three sides by roads and motorways. The local authority position is that the land forms a special landscaped area and that development would not be appropriate.

Two sites (total 1.25 acres) are on either side of a motorway. These have development potential and this is being explored.

There has been no estimate made of the number of homes that could be built on these sites.

This answer does not include information pertaining to Government Offices, who carry out functions on behalf of 10 Government Departments.

Local Authority Pension Schemes

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the latest estimate is of the deficit or surplus in each local authority pension scheme. [224674]

Phil Hope: As at 31 March 2001, the most recent date for which the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has full actuarial valuation data for the Local Government Pension Scheme, pension funds in England and Wales held assets some £6.3 billion less than their liabilities. The results of the actuarial valuation carried out for each local authority pension fund as at 31 March 2004 are not yet available.

Travellers

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of the implications for (a) Traveller migration to the UK, (b) demand for

Traveller sites and (c) unauthorised encampments of the introduction of changes in the law of trespass in the Irish Republic. [223936]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's bi-annual Count of Gypsy and Traveller caravans in England, and the annual count of Traveller families in the Republic of Ireland carried out by the Irish Government, do not indicate that there has been a significant population shift since the introduction of the legislative changes in the Republic, which took effect in 2002.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether she will publish the data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of her Department; and if she will make a statement. [222585]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills does not currently publish accident data.

Autism

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what provisions her Department makes to assist children with autism in schools. [224088]

Margaret Hodge: It is for individual schools to decide how best to make provision for children with autism. The Special Educational Needs (SEN) Code of Practice advises schools and local education authorities (LEAs) that children's needs should be assessed individually and that provision should address the particular needs of the individual child. It gives advice to schools on making provision for children with SEN, including those with autism.

The Department for Education and Skills, together with the Department of Health, has issued good practice guidance on making provision for children with autistic spectrum disorders which aims to raise awareness of autism. Nine of the 11 SEN regional partnerships have working groups focusing on improving provision for children with autism in their areas, using the good practice guidance. The regional partnerships have also been producing other autism guidance, including guidance on delivering the curriculum for children with autism in secondary schools, a transition toolkit for children with autism moving from primary to secondary school, and guidance for learning support assistants.

Over recent years many LEAs have used available funding to support in-service training on autism. As part of the Government's SEN strategy, published last year, the Department is working with the Teacher Training Agency to develop proposals for improving training in relation to SEN, including autism. An inclusion development programme is also being developed to strengthen the evidence base about what works in educating children with autism and build a consensus about how to implement good practice most effectively.

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many children with autism there were in schools in Norfolk in each month since January 2002, broken down by (a) primary and (b) secondary schools. [224096]

Margaret Hodge: Information on pupils with special educational needs (SEN) and their primary need was collected in the Annual Schools' Census for the first time in January 2004 for pupils at School Action Plus and those with a statement of SEN. In Norfolk local education authority maintained primary schools reported having approximately 310 pupils and maintained secondary schools reported 130 pupils whose primary need was autistic spectrum disorder.

The purpose of the data collection is to inform policy and planning, to study trends and to monitor the outcomes of initiatives and interventions on pupils with different types of SEN, not to classify individuals, or assigning children by type of need. We are aware that some schools had difficulty in identifying a child's primary need and where appropriate their secondary need. Also professionals from education and health fields may classify some children differently; and the levels of identification of SEN are varied between local authorities.

Children's Commissioner

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what role the Children's Commissioner for England will play in improving children's health services; and what information sources will be available to the Commissioner to assess children's health services. [223559]

Margaret Hodge: The Children's Commissioner's remit is as set out in the Children Act 2004. He will promote awareness of the views and interests of children and young people; working as an independent champion, with a strategic role which gives him wide scope and influence in advancing their interests. As part of this function, he may choose to consider or research any matter, relating to the interests of children, including the improvement of children's health services. He also has an inquiry function which means that when he considers that the case of an individual child raises questions of relevance to children generally, he may hold an inquiry into that case.

He is independent of Government and if he chooses to deal with health services, it will be up to him how he exercises this duty and what arrangements he will make. As in all his work, whether the Commissioner holds an inquiry or considers an issue, he will exercise impartiality at all times.

The Government look forward to supporting the Children's Commissioner whenever they can to aid him in his work. We will make available to him any information that we are permitted to, in order to help him discharge his functions. This will include anything related to health services.

Computer Learning (Crosby)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many Capital Modernisation Fund computer-learning centres have been established in Crosby. [223944]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information has been supplied by Ufi who took over responsibility for administration and development of Capital Modernisation Fund (CMF) funded UK online centres in April 2003.

There are two UK online centres in Crosby and third on the border between Waterloo and Crosby. See details as follows:

Construction Industry (Training)

Mr. Hurst: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many people were undergoing training in the construction industry in each year from 1975 to 2004. [223896]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information cannot be provided as the cost of gathering the information is disproportionate. However if the hon. Member wishes to write to me I may be able to provide information about specific types of training over some or all of the period in question.

Correspondence

Sir George Young: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she will reply to the letter from the right hon. Member for North-West Hampshire of 9 February, on an alleged breach of the Civil Service Code. [224095]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 4 April 2005]: A reply was sent to the right hon. Member on 31 March.

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many EU (a) regulations and (b) directives covering matters within the responsibility of her Department have been repealed since 1 April 2004. [224574]

Derek Twigg: No EU regulations or directives covering matters within the responsibility of the Department for Education and Skills have been repealed since 1 April 2004.

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many regulations have been repealed by her Department since 1 April 2004. [224575]

Derek Twigg: 15 regulations have been repealed by the Department for Education and Skills since 1 April 2004.

Disabled Students

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps her Department is taking to support access to mainstream inclusive education for disabled people. [224540]

Margaret Hodge: The Special Educational Needs and Disability Act 2001 amended the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 to cover the provision of education. The 2001 Act required local authorities (LAs) and schools not to discriminate against disabled people in their access to education for reasons relating to their disability. It also required LAs and schools to plan to increase progressively, and over time, access to schools by disabled pupils and prospective pupils.

The Government's SEN Strategy: "Removing Barriers to achievement" is providing support to help schools and LAs implement these duties through the development of guidance and practical tools. These tools explain how they can make reasonable adjustments to their policies and practice to prevent discrimination, and how they can review and revise their accessibility strategies and plans.

The Department is also making available £300 million through the Schools Access Initiative between 1 April 2003 and 31 March 2006 to cover the first accessibility planning period. This funding is intended to support projects to improve the accessibility of mainstream schools to disabled pupils. It is for LAs to decide the schools at which projects are to be undertaken. We are encouraging schools and LAs to consider access as part of all capital building plans, including through the Building Schools for the Future programme and the recently announced 15 year capital investment programme for Primary Schools.

Education Business Links

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much Learning and Skills Council funding is planned for education business links for 2005–06; and how much was made available in 2004–05. [223666]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Learning and Skills Council (LSC) funding to support education business links activities is a matter for the LSC. Mark Haysom, the LSC's chief executive, will write to my hon. Friend, and a copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

Families (Grants)

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what grants have been made in the 2005–06 financial year under the Safeguarding Children and Supporting Families grants; to which organisations; and if she will list unsuccessful applications. [222322]

Margaret Hodge: The information requested has been placed in the House Libraries.

Food Provision

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether her Department issues general guidance and advice to local authorities in respect of (a) meals on wheels and (b) other public provision of food. [223953]

Dr. Ladyman: I have been asked to reply.

The Department does not issue guidance or general advice to local authorities in respect of meals on wheels. This is a matter for local decision and commissioning, taking into account local circumstances and demography.

The Department has just launched the food in schools toolkit to provide guidance and support for schools and those working with schools, including local education authorities (LEAs), in implementing a 'whole school approach' to healthy eating and drinking. In addition, the Department issues guidance to LEA maintained schools on implementing the school fruit and vegetable scheme. Funding for the scheme for 2005–06 is £46 million.

The welfare food scheme (WFS) currently provides tokens for either seven pints of liquid cow's milk or 900 grams of infant formula per week to pregnant women and children under five years old in families on qualifying benefits. "Healthy Start" will replace the existing WFS and will be phased in from summer 2005. We expect that "Healthy Start" expenditure should continue at a similar level to the WFS. The budget is demand-led and current welfare food expenditure is approximately £140 million per annum.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will extend nutrition education and training in food preparation and cooking units to all sector skills councils. [224013]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Improve, the sector skills council for the food and drink industry have responsibility for the national occupational standards related to food preparation. Sector skills councils will address skills issues in the food and cooking industry where this is relevant to their sector. A number of sector skills councils with interests in food and drink manufacture, the crop industry, storage, retail, food preparation, hospitality and other related areas are already working together and have formed the Food Chain Group to address areas of common interest and to share good practice.

Further Education (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many students at (a) Shrewsbury Sixth Form College and (b) Shrewsbury College of Arts and Technology paid tuition fees in each year since 1997. [223176]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). Mark Haysom, the Council's Chief Executive, will write to the hon. Gentleman with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

Immigration and Asylum Skills Body

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when the skills advisory body announced as part of the Home Office strategy for asylum and immigration in Controlling our Borders: making migration work for Britain, is expected to be set up; whether it will have statutory Scottish representation; and if he will make a statement. [223540]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: We will work closely with the Home Office, the Department of Trade and Industry and the Skills for Business Network to set up the new Skills Advisory Body in the course of this year. We are not proposing to place the new body on a statutory footing. It will have Scottish representation.

Looked After Children

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she has taken to improve the line of accountability of social services departments placing looked after children out of area since the passage of the Children Act 2004. [222068]

Margaret Hodge: Children's services authorities are in the process of appointing the directors of children's services (DCS) and lead members for children's services required under the Children Act 2004. About 60 authorities report that they have a DCS in place or have appointed one; almost as many have designated a lead member. The director and lead member will improve children's services authority accountability for the placement of all looked after children by being, respectively, professionally and politically responsible on behalf of the authority for the safety and welfare of such children.

Although all members of the authority have a shared responsibility for corporate parenting, the lead member will take the lead in ensuring that looked after children have their interests protected, their opportunities maximised, their educational achievement enhanced and their care shaped to meet their needs. Draft statutory guidance, on which we have consulted and which will be published shortly, states explicitly that the lead member should take the local political lead in all corporate parenting issues. The 2004 Act also introduces a new duty on local authorities to promote the educational achievement of looked after children.

The Department is currently conducting a review of local authority practice in placing looked after children in other local authority areas, with a view to both reducing their dependence on such placements and improving support for children who are placed out of authority. In the meantime, we have written to local authorities to remind them of the importance of ensuring that looked after children are placed out-of-authority only where their assessed needs clearly justify it, and to review their current practice to ensure that they are meeting their existing statutory responsibilities; taking steps to prevent, wherever possible, children being placed away from home (e.g. by developing an adequate supply of good quality local foster and residential care places); and securing good outcomes for children who are placed out-of-authority.

We have also asked the Commission for Social Care Inspection to offer advice on how best they can monitor and assess local authority practice in this area.

National Literacy Strategy

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will describe the synthetic phonics programme in the National Literacy Strategy. [224328]

Derek Twigg: The National Literacy Strategy, now the Primary National Strategy, places a clear and early emphasis on synthetic phonics instruction, reinforced by complementary reading strategies such as context, grammatical knowledge and word recognition. This is in line with the best available international research.

We have produced structured teaching materials for teachers on synthetic phonics entitled "Progression in Phonics" published in 1999, and "Playing with Sounds": a supplement to "Progression in Phonics" published in 2004. Copies of these have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

The approach to the teaching of synthetic phonics advocated by the Primary National Strategy is that children should be taught as quickly as possible to identify, segment and blend phonemes in speech and writing, and that this should be taught directly, and not left to inference or invention. We recommend that synthetic phonics should be taught as a separate set of skills and knowledge within the broader structure of the literacy hour.

The Playing with Sounds programme is designed to support the learning and teaching of synthetic phonics for children from the ages of three to six. It begins with developing children's awareness and discrimination of sounds and supports their progression through segmentation and blending, to an ability to read and spell regular polysyllabic words. The pace at which children are introduced to phonic knowledge through the Playing with Sounds programme is quicker than that set out in the original National Literacy Strategy framework and supports the achievement of the foundation stage early learning goals.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many cues to word recognition are recommended in the Searchlight approach within the National Literacy Strategy; and if she will describe each of these cues. [224329]

Derek Twigg: The National Literacy Strategy is based on the best international research available and supports the statutory requirements of the National Curriculum. It advocates a model of teaching reading which has come to be known by the "Searchlights" metaphor. The model characterises reading as the ability to coordinate and orchestrate four basic cues. These are:

Fast automatic phonic decoding

The recognition of word and word parts

Predictions from knowledge of syntax to make sense of strings of words

Predictions from context to aid comprehension.

The Searchlight model is designed to enable the reader to cross-refer between cues, which support each other. The ability to use this range of cues together makes it less critical if one of them fails on any given occasion. However, we promote phonics as the first and foremost strategy that children employ as they encounter new words.

Phonic decoding and instant recognition of high frequency irregular words are the cues employed at the level of word recognition; grammatical knowledge and understanding of context operate at the level of phrases, sentences and text as a whole. Therefore both aspects of the reading process, decoding and comprehension, are represented in the approach and complement each other.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the names are of the officials in her Department responsible for advising her on her response to the Clackmannanshire longitudinal study into the teaching of reading. [224330]

Derek Twigg: Officials in the School Standards Group are responsible for advising the Secretary of State on all aspects of the teaching and learning of literacy in schools. Further details can be obtained from the Civil Service Year Book and the DfES website. In addition, through the National Strategies, we draw on the expertise of a number of practitioners and academics who are constantly responding to and keeping abreast of the latest research. In this capacity Dr. Kevan Collins, Director of the Primary National Strategy, has provided advice to Ministers and officials on the implications of the Clackmannanshire study.

Over time our approach to phonics, which is the subject of the Clackmannanshire study, has been informed by a wide range of experts in the field. In 2003 we convened a seminar of all the leading researchers and practitioners working on phonics issues. The findings of this seminar were independently reviewed and used to inform the development of our most recent guidance on phonics "Playing with Sounds: A supplement to Progression in Phonics".

National Voluntary Youth Organisation Grant

Mr. Nicholas Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will list the successful bidders in the 2005 to 2008 round of the National Voluntary Youth Organisation grant scheme, broken down by amount of grant. [224289]

Margaret Hodge: The successful bidders in the 2005–08 NVYO grant scheme are detailed in the following table, together with the amounts awarded for the three-year duration of the scheme.

Mr. Nicholas Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what criteria were used to assess bids for inclusion in the National Voluntary Youth Organisation grant scheme. [224290]

Margaret Hodge: The criteria by which all decisions on the 160 applications for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation (NVYO) grant scheme were made were explicit in both the application forms and guidance notes, to assist organisations through the application process.

The guidance notes clearly stated that applications should make a strong contribution to the achievement of the outcomes for young people set out in Every Child Matters.

The Department looked for bids that (this was in paragraph 13.2 of the guidance):

- were clearly focused on the outcomes identified in the guidance
- were for activities in line with those identified in the grant criteria
- identified clear and robust outcome indicators that were relevant to the outcomes the bid proposes to deliver
- clearly explained the national significance of the activity being proposed
- were realistic and deliverable

Older Students

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many over 60-year-olds are studying in further education institutes in England. [224335]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is published in the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) statistical first release (SFR), Further Education, Work Based Learning for Young People and Adult and Community Learning—Learner Numbers in England: 2003–04, available on the LSC website: http://www.lsc.gov.uk/National/Partners/Data/Statistics/LearnerStatistics/LearnerNumbers/StatisticalFirstRelease200304.htm

In 2003–04, there were 387,000 learners aged 60 and over in LSC funded further education. This is more than two and a half times greater than the number in 1997–98.

Return-to-work Skills

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many women in Crosby have visited an information and communications technology training centre in order to learn skills to return to work. [223939]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information has been supplied by Ufi who took over responsibility for administration and development of Capital Modernisation Fund (CMF) funded UK online centres in April 2003.

Ufi is unable to provide the actual number of female users for individual CMF funded UK online centres in the Crosby area (College Road Library, Crosby Connect Learning Centre and 3TC—Merseyside Third Sector Technology Centre) as data at this level is not gathered for individual UK online centres.

However, 52 per cent. of users of UK online centres nationally are women, on average 112 people per quarter use each of the CMF centres, hence on average 58 women per quarter use each CMF centre.

This data is taken from the quarterly report of CMF centres for the quarter ending December 2004. It should be noted that this data only covers CMF centres and only those that still return data (this is about one third of CMF centres). The percentage of users figure and the average number of users figure have been fairly consistent over the last 12 months.

School Meals

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent representations she has received regarding Jamie Oliver's Feed Me Better campaign; what plans she has to implement the recommendations of the campaign; and if she will make a statement. [223634]

Derek Twigg: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has met with Jamie Oliver to hear about his work in Greenwich, and to inform him of our own work to improve school meals. The Department for Education and Skills has had a large number of letters, e-mails and telephone calls relating to Jamie Oliver's Feed Me Better campaign.

On 30 March the Secretary of State announced a package that will transform school meals in local education authority maintained schools in England. The elements of the package include:

Over the next three years, from September 2005, £220 million of new grants to schools and local education authorities to raise the quality of school meals. The LEA grants will be targeted in part to help primary schools spend a minimum of 50p on ingredients and secondary schools, 60p;

Higher priority to providing new or upgraded kitchen facilities, through our existing programmes to rebuild and refurbish schools. Government are already committed to investing £5.5 billion in 2005–06 rising to £6.3 billion in 2007–08 to improve secondary school buildings, and at least £1.8 billion to improve primary schools in 2007/08;

£60 million to fund the new School Food Trust, with £45 million of this coming from the Big Lottery Fund. The Trust will provide independent support and advice about school meal improvements to schools and parents and will be working with the Lottery on a range of healthy eating programmes based around schools;

Toughening up minimum school lunch nutritional standards to reduce sugar, salt and fat intakes and increase consumption of fruit and vegetables and essential nutrients;

Extending school lunch standards to other food available on school premises, including vending machines and tuck shops;

Producing new guidance to help schools and local education authorities draw up catering contracts that source healthy school meals' services and healthy food in vending machines, tuck shops and breakfast clubs;

A range of qualifications for school catering staff.

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what research her Department has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effect of the content of school meals on rates of obesity in children. [223635]

Derek Twigg: The Department for Education and Skills has not commissioned research or evaluated the effect of the content of school meals on rates of obesity in children.

Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what advice she (a) has given and (b) plans to give to schools on (i) additives in school meals and (ii) vending machines selling food in schools; and if she will make a statement. [224059]

Derek Twigg: The Secretary of State has not given advice to schools on additives in school meals. Subject to meeting the requirements of mandatory school lunch standards, local education authorities are responsible for deciding whether lunches should be free from additives. This responsibility is transferred to the governing body of schools that have a budget for school lunches delegated to them.

The Food Standards Agency (FSA) is currently carrying out research into the impact of artificial colourings and preservatives on children's behaviour. This Department works closely with FSA and will carefully consider the results of their research, due for publication in March 2007.

DfES and DH have today issued guidance on healthy practice in school vending through the Food in Schools programme. Details can be found on the Food in Schools' website at: www.foodinschools.org/

There is separate guidance on commercial sponsorship, Commercial activities in schools: best practice principles, which was published in 2001 by DfES in conjunction with the Incorporated Society of British Advertisers (ISBA) and the Consumers' Association. The principal aim of this publication, aimed at parents, teachers, school governing bodies, LEAs and businesses was to encourage consideration by all parties of a range of issues and to ensure that commercial objectives are consistent with genuine educational benefits. The guidance is to be updated after consultation over the next few months.

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the percentage of school meals provided free at the point of delivery is in

(a) England and (b) Hull; what percentage of pupils in primary schools eat school meals in (i) England and (ii) Hull; and if she will make a statement. [224652]

Derek Twigg: The available information is shown in the table. Information on pupils taking school meals is not collected centrally.

Annual Schools' Census

Pupils are recorded as being eligible for free school meals if a claim has been made by them or on their behalf by parents and either the relevant authority has confirmed their eligibility or the school or LEA have seen the necessary documentation. Eligibility requires the parent (or pupil) to be in receipt of either income support, or income-based jobseekers allowance, or support under the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999, or Child Tax credit but not working tax credit and have an annual income (as assessed by the Inland Revenue) that does not exceed for 2003–04 Tax Year £13,480.

Section 512 of the Education Act 1996 (EA96), amended by section 201 of the Education Act 2002, places a duty on local education authorities to provide free school lunches to eligible pupils. (A similar duty is transferred to the governing body of any school that has had the budget for school lunches delegated to them).

Children, whose parents receive the following support payments, are entitled to a free school lunch:

Income-support (IS);

Income-based jobseekers allowance (IBJSA);

Support under part VI of the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999;

Child tax credit, provided they are not entitled to working tax credit and have an annual income, as assessed by the Inland Revenue, that does not exceed 13,480 (2004–05).

Children who receive IS or IBJSA in their own right are also entitled to free school lunches.

For information on Wales I refer the right hon. Member to the Welsh Assembly.

Special Educational Needs

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on Government policy on children with special educational needs. [224192]

Margaret Hodge: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 24 March 2005, Official Report, column 998W.

Special Schools

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many special schools have closed in (a) Coventry and (b) England since 1997. [224089]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: Since 1997 281 special schools[1] have closed in England. There were no special school closures[2] in Coventry during this period.

[1] Special schools include: Other independent special schools, community special schools, non-maintained special schools, foundation special schools and independent schools approved for SEN pupils.

[2] The figures include special schools that closed as a result of the amalgamation or merger of two or more schools.

Sure Start

Mr. Pickthall: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what steps she is taking to ensure that the involvement of parents in children's centres builds on the experience of parents' involvement in Sure Start. [221413]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 16 March 2005]: We are building on the successful experience of parents' involvement in Sure Start local programmes in a number of ways. Written guidance for local authorities and delivery partners emphasises the importance of parental involvement in the planning and implementation of children's centres. Parental involvement must be discussed with local authorities in planning discussions. A new Framework for Inspection of Children's Services will ensure that inspections assess how services involve children and parents. We are developing a mechanism for assessing the extent to which parents are involved in the design and delivery of children's centres services. And we will implement this when a greater number of parents have a children's centre planned in their area.

Surplus Stock Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether her Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220957]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The Department for Education and Skills has not sold surplus stock on the eBay auction website in each year since 2000–01.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent assessment she has made of whether the public service agreement target to halt the year-on-year rise in obesity among children aged under 11 years by 2010 will be met. [219272]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the Department of Health on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1101–102W.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent assessment she has made of whether the public service agreement target to ensure that 80 per cent. of children aged under 16 years who have been in care for 2.5 or more years will have been living in the same placement for at least two years, or are placed for adoption, will be met by 2008. [219273]

Margaret Hodge: This PSA target was only set in SR 2004. It is a new and challenging target that requires a strong focus on both care planning and placement stability. We are taking forward our delivery plan for this target and will report on progress made through our regular statistical bulletin.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Animal Welfare

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment she has made of the welfare of battery hens; and if she will make a statement. [224226]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The Government are currently considering a recently published scientific report by the Animal Health and Welfare Panel of the European Food Standards Authority (EFSA). The report considers the welfare aspects of various systems for keeping laying hens and takes into account pathological, zootechnical, physiological and ethological aspects of the various systems. This will form the basis of an EU Commission report, due to be published in the autumn.

Avian Flu

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of the likely impact on (a) UK production of poultry, (b) local employment at UK turkey factories, (c) health of UK-produced poultry and (d) public health in the UK of avian influenza introduced into the UK through turkeys imported from (i) Thailand, (ii) Brazil and (iii) other countries; and what plans she has to limit the level of turkey imports. [221180]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Contingency Plan for Avian Influenza sets out the policies that would be implemented to control an outbreak of avian flu, and includes arrangements for protecting those who have to deal with an outbreak of avian flu in this country. This plan will be implemented whatever the source of the disease. The arrangements contribute to protecting public health for which the responsibility lies with the Department of Health.

Defra has not undertaken assessments of impacts on industry (production or employment) related to hypothetical outbreaks of disease.

We are not aware of any outbreaks of HPAI in Brazil and therefore consider that there is currently no risk of introducing the disease from that country. We continue to actively monitor the animal health status of countries which export animals or animal products to the EU. When Defra is officially notified of a new disease incident in an EU member state, a country on the border of the EU or one of the UK's third country trading partners, we carry out a qualitative risk analysis. Risk assessments for avian influenza have been completed and are available at: <http://www.defra.gov.uk/animalh/diseases/monitoring/riskassess.htm>

Of those countries in South East Asia that are affected by outbreaks of HPAI, only Thailand was eligible to export poultry meat including turkey meat to the EU prior to their outbreaks. As soon as Defra was notified of the outbreak in Thailand, safeguard measures were put in place to ban imports of fresh poultry meat. Cooked poultry meat that has not been heat treated to at least 70C has also been banned. Imports of live poultry from the affected countries are not permitted.

All poultry meat imported into the EU from third countries must enter at designated border inspection posts where it is subject to veterinary inspections to ensure import conditions are met.

There have been no outbreaks of either avian influenza or Newcastle disease in the UK for seven years. The Defra Veterinary Laboratories Agency produces a quarterly report on avian surveillance which is published on the Defra website at: http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/vla/science/science-end-survrep-qtly.htm

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many exercises have been undertaken by (a) her Department and (b) the State Veterinary Service to determine policy to combat an outbreak of avian influenza. [222979]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department held a tabletop exercise in June 2003 to explore the policy and operational issues arising from an outbreak of avian influenza and to develop its contingency plans.

The State Veterinary Service has subsequently held five exercises to test its operational plans for an avian influenza outbreak.

Additionally, a major national-scale exercise is currently being planned by the SVS on behalf of the department for spring 2006.

Badger Culling

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what funds

she has made available for badger culling in (a) the UK and (b) Gloucestershire; and if she will make a statement. [218461]

Mr. Bradshaw: Total funds made available for the randomised badger culling trial and associated epidemiological research in Great Britain is given in the table.

	£ million
1998–99	3.0
1999–2000	4.6
2000–01	6.6

Bovine Passports

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what reports she has received on practice in EU member states in applying the EU regulatory framework when drawing up policy on issuing bovine passports following late applications. [222772]

Mr. Bradshaw: Defra officials wrote to the Agricultural Attaches in 15 member states in September 2004 requesting specific information on their procedures for enforcing the deadline for registering calf births. We have discussed the findings with industry representatives.

Bovine TB

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many tuberculosis outbreaks in cattle were recorded in England and Wales in 2004; and whether a similar number of outbreaks has been recorded in any of the last 30 years. [214130]

Mr. Bradshaw: There were 3,233[1] new bovine tuberculosis (TB) incidents recorded in England and Wales in 2004. In comparison, there were 3,138[1] new incidents in 2003, and 3,230[1] in 2002.

Numbers of new TB incidents between 1975 and 2001 were at the level of 1,700 per year or below.

[1] Provisional data downloaded from the State Veterinary Service database between 8–15 February 2005. Subject to change as more data becomes available.

Note:

In 2001, the TB testing and control programme was largely suspended due to the foot and mouth disease (FMD) outbreak. When testing resumed in 2002, resources were concentrated on herds with overdue TB tests which would have had a longer period in which to contract the disease. Also the proportion of high risk herds tested immediately after the FMD outbreak was greater than that prior to the outbreak. As a result, data for 2001 and 2002 is not comparable with other years.

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate her Department has made of the costs of carrying out a comprehensive culling programme of badgers infected with bovine tuberculosis. [214137]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has conducted a preliminary study which integrates scientific models developed at the Central Science Laboratory and Reading University to establish the overall costs and benefits of various badger culling options. Further work is needed on the model before we can draw conclusions on policy options. As scientific information is generated from the RBCT and other studies (e.g. Republic of Ireland Four Area Trial), it will be used to inform the assumptions used in the model and so reduce the uncertainty surrounding the results. The model will help inform policy decisions and areas for future research. It is at present not possible to reliably identify infected badgers except by post-mortem examination and laboratory culture.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will assess whether there is a link between an increase in human TB and the spread of bovine TB among cattle. [224679]

Mr. Bradshaw: There is no link between increase in human tuberculosis (TB) and the spread of bovine TB among cattle in the United Kingdom (UK). Human TB is most often caused by Mycobacterium tuberculosis (which is usually acquired from another human) and not by Mycobacterium bovis, the cause of bovine TB, which nowadays is rarely transmitted to man.

Between 20 and 50 (typically 40) people have been diagnosed with bovine TB in the UK annually since 1990, representing 1 per cent. to 1.5 per cent. of culture-confirmed cases of TB in humans. Their geographical distribution does not mirror that of bovine TB in the cattle population. Most cases are attributed to (i) reactivation of old infection contracted prior to widespread pasteurisation of milk, or (ii) infection contracted abroad.

CAP Payments

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions she has had with (a) the National Farmers' Union and (b) other farmers' organisations on the publication under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requirements of records of moneys paid under the Common Agricultural Policy. [224053]

Alun Michael: Officials mentioned the possibility of disclosure briefly to representatives of the National Farmers Union and the Tenant Farmers Association in December 2004.

Lord Whitty raised the possibility publicly with farming representatives and others attending the Oxford farming conference on 4 January 2005. He subsequently discussed the issue with the NFU later that month. The Rural Payments Agency wrote to its Industry Forum on 15 February seeking formal views on the publication of information. The Industry Forum includes representatives from the British Meat Producers Association, Country Land and Business Association, Dairy UK, Food and Drink Federation, Grain and Feed Trade Association, Livestock Auctioneers Association, National Farmers Union, Tenant Farmers Association, Agricultural Industries Confederation and National Sheep Association.

Officials subsequently met representatives of the National Farmers' Union and the Food and Drink Federation on 8 and 15 March 2005. Several telephone calls between officials and representatives from these and other organisations also took place during February and March.

Departmental Land Purchases

David Maclean: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost to her Department was of purchasing land and buildings in the Kirkbride airfield area in Cumbria. [224615]

Alun Michael: Kirkbride airfield was purchased in November 2001 at a cost of £650,000.

Environmental Crime

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance she intends to issue to local authorities on the prosecution of environment crimes under the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill; what assessment she has made of the likely impact on the courts of applications under the reverse burden of proof provisions of the Bill; and what assessment she has made of the likely impact on funding requirements. [223510]

Alun Michael: Defra will produce comprehensive guidance on the powers that will be available to local authorities once the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill comes into effect, including the prosecution of offences for which there is provision for a defence to be shown. We do not expect the impact on the courts to be significant, especially given that the overall effect of the Bill is to simplify the legislation, to extend the options available to enforcement bodies and to introduce a limited number of new offences following extensive consultation.

Environmental Stewardship Scheme

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when she expects to respond to farmers who have applied to the Rural Payments Agency for environmental stewardship scheme support, but who have yet to be included on the Rural Land Registry or have maps returned. [220272]

Alun Michael: Farmers are obliged to register land they intend to use as part of a claim to the Single Payment Scheme (SPS). Such registrations extend the process established under the Integrated Agricultural Control System, through which more than £1.7 million land parcels were registered. Demand for land registrations is unprecedented, with requests from farmers intending to apply for SPS and those seeking to enter into agreements for the Environmental Stewardship Scheme. In the past six months the Rural Payments Agency (RPA) has received nearly 25,000 registrations, when it normally expects to receive around 9,000 requests annually. The RPA has increased processing capacity but there is inevitably a current backlog of claims awaiting completion. At the current rate of progress most registrations will be processed by the end of June but some requests, particularly those received close to the 16 May deadline for submitting an SPS application ,might not be processed until August. The RPA is giving priority to those registrations that affect an outstanding scheme payment. Once the current round of applications has been dealt with, it is expected that the situation will stabilise and subsequent applications will be dealt with more quickly.

Fallen Stock

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost to public funds was of establishing the National Fallen Stock Company; and what budget has been allocated for maintenance costs. [223913]

Mr. Bradshaw: Just over £1 million has been made available by Defra for setting up the Company and establishing the arrangements for the administration of the Scheme. It is intended that future Company and administration costs will be financed through the moneys raised via the registration fees for farmers subscribing to the National Fallen Stock Scheme. The setting of a budget for maintenance costs is a matter for the Company Board.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment has been made of the effect of the ban on on-farm burials of fallen stock on carrion-dependent fowl. [223914]

Mr. Bradshaw: No such assessment has been made. However, we understand that the RSPB is content with the existing arrangement of the feeding of Category 2 and 3 material (i.e. butchers' waste) to wild necrophagous birds and that a derogation to permit the use of ruminant fallen stock as feed material is not, therefore, necessary. Accordingly, the UK has exercised the derogation that permits member states to authorise the feeding of animal by-products which do not contain SRM to birds of prey.

Even when burial was permitted carcases were required to be buried in such a way that carnivorous animals (including necrophagous birds) could not gain access to them. Therefore the effect of the ban on burial is minimal as carcases should not have been left uncovered where birds could have gained access to them.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of (a) the availability of and (b) response times for services for the collection of fallen stock in England and Wales. [223915]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has not made such an assessment. However, the National Fallen Stock Company has analysed the coverage provided by the National Fallen Stock Scheme and concluded there is a reasonable choice of collection services available to farmers in most areas. The Company has said that under most circumstances it would expect carcases to be collected within 48 hours following notification and since the Scheme began the Company has only received just over 200 complaints about delays in collection out of around 60,000 pick ups nationally.

However, within this encouraging assessment, the Company has acknowledged that there are particular problems with service provision in North Wales and some other localised areas including the Isle of Wight where the only Scheme collector has left the Scheme. The Company is taking action to address these difficulties with the co-operation of the fallen stock collection industry and other relevant parties.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost to public funds has been of subsidies paid by the National Fallen Stock Company for the collection of fallen stock. [224000]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Government contribution to collection costs under the National Fallen Stock Scheme for the UK as a whole from 22 November 2004 to date is just over £0.4 million.

Defra has committed £5 million in year one, £3 million in year two and £2 million in year three. There is equivalent funding from the Devolved Administrations, which, along with the Defra contribution, will amount to £10 million in the first year for the UK as a whole.

Fisheries

Ms Atherton: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many dead harbour porpoises have been stranded on the coasts of Cornwall, Devon and Dorset in each of the past five years; and what the cause of these deaths was. [222863]

Mr. Bradshaw: From 1 January 2000 until 17 March 2005 a total of 352 harbour porpoises were stranded on the coasts of Cornwall, Devon and Dorset. Table 1 gives a breakdown for each county. The number of carcases reported is always higher than the number which are suitable for or actually go to post mortem. I have provided a breakdown for each county for each year, and the causes of death where post mortems were carried out can be found in tables 2 to 4.

Strandings data is obtained under the Defra-funded Cetacean and Turtle Strandings Scheme, carried out by the Natural History Museum in partnership with the Institute of Zoology and Scottish Agricultural College.

Foot and Mouth

Mrs. Browning: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions took place between her Department and Northumberland county council to ensure that all material relating to the index case of foot and mouth disease at Burnside farm, Heddon on the Wall was submitted to the Anderson Inquiry. [214256]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 February 2005]: There was contact between my Department and Northumberland county council on the prosecution of Mr. Waugh, but there is no record of any such discussions concerning the submission of evidence to the Anderson Inquiry. The Origins of FMD paper, prepared by the then Chief Veterinary Officer, which was submitted to the Anderson Inquiry, contained comprehensive information on the index case.

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many premises were assigned during the UK foot and mouth epidemic in 2004 to the (a) infected premises, (b) dangerous contact—3 km cull, (c) dangerous contact—contiguous cull, (d) dangerous contact—other, (e) slaughter on suspicion and (f) voluntary firebreak cull category; how many premises in each category were subject to laboratory testing; how many positives were identified in each category by such testing; how much compensation was paid for the value of the animals that were slaughtered at premises in each category; what the cost was of cleansing and disinfection at premises in each category; and how many animals were slaughtered at premises in each category, broken down by species. [224565]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 4 April 2005]: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for East Surrey (Mr. Ainsworth) on 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 838W, for the details requested at (a) to (f) , in particular at Tables (ii) and (iv). However, we are unable to identify the information separately for the voluntary firebreak cull.

Compensation paid for the value of animals in each category is a follows:

(a) £482,625,076

(b) £68,677,197

(c) and (d) £527,477,519 (Defra is unable to distinguish between dangerous contact—contiguous cull and dangerous contact—other)

(e) £24,639,178

The information required on the cost of cleansing and disinfecting at premises in each category is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Livestock Prices

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what changes took place in the average sale prices at markets of (a) sheep and (b) cattle between February and October 2001. [223859]

Alun Michael: Average sale prices at markets for (a) sheep and (b) cattle are available for part of February 2001 before the markets need to close down due to the outbreak of foot and mouth disease. No prices are available between March and October 2001, as the livestock markets remained closed until February 2002.

The following tables give average sheep and cattle prices for February 2001.

Marine Pollution (Sewerby)

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what action (a) has been taken in the past two years and (b) is being taken to prevent bacterial discharge into the sea at Sewerby near Bridlington; and if she will make a statement. [224115]

Mr. Morley [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Since 2003 investigations have been under way into the impact of the discharge made by Munton's plc into the short sea outfall pipe at Sewerby. These have shown that there are no discharges of human sewage into the outfall, which is owned by the East Riding of Yorkshire council. The indicator organisms found in the discharge are present in the raw materials (grain) brought to the site and the malting process carried out there provides the humid, dark conditions which encourage multiplication.

Following discussions between the company, the Environment Agency and the council, it has been agreed that additional treatment, by way of a reed bed system, should be provided to reduce bacterial concentrations and provide storage to balance flows. Discharge of effluent would also be limited to when there is sufficient dilution at the outlet to prevent visual nuisance.

Meat and Dairy Imports

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which countries are refusing to allow British beef to be imported; and for what reasons. [216567]

Mr. Bradshaw: Following is a list of 84 countries which we understand still impose a ban on the import of British beef. The situation in a further 27 countries has still to be confirmed. In addition there is continuing dialogue between the EU and Egypt on recently revised Egyptian import conditions. The reasons cited for the bans are animal and public health related.

However, we consider that these bans are not justified in the light of science and the BSE controls applied in the UK. Currently, beef exports can only take place under the stringent conditions of the Date-based Export Scheme, which complies fully with EU and World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE) rules and guidance.

We are currently working with the European Commission for recognition that, like most other EU member states, the UK is now a moderate (rather than high) risk country according to current OIE rules. We are also working with the Commission with a view to lifting the ban on the export of beef from UK cattle born after July 1996 as soon as possible after the over-30-month rule is replaced by testing and these cattle can be sold for human consumption in the UK.

Dr. Strang: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the Government's policy is on the European Commission's proposal to increase to 275,000 tonnes the import into the EU of boneless poultry meat from non-EU countries. [220992]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 10 March 2005]: There are no restrictions on the quantity of imports into the European Union of poultry meat.

We are aware that the EU Commission has considered the possibility of a reduced rate import tariff quota for 275,000 tonnes of poultry meat as part of the proposed free trade agreement with the Mercosur countries of South America (Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay) but no such offer has yet been formally made.

The Government have raised with the Commission the points that have been made by the poultry industry, including the point that, as a result of higher EU welfare standards, it is not competing on a level playing-field with countries such as Brazil. We continue to press for recognition of increased animal welfare costs as a legitimate issue in the context of the World Trade Organisation's current round of trade liberalisation negotiations (the Doha Development Agenda).

Multiple Retailers

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions her Department has had with the Office of Fair Trading regarding the code of conduct for multiple retailers on the treatment of primary producers; and if she will make a statement. [223234]

Alun Michael: Responsibility for the Supermarkets' code of practice rests with the Office of Fair Trading (OFT). However, as Defra is sponsor Department for the farming and food industries we have discussed the subject of the code with the OFT as and when the need has arisen.

The OFT has recently published the findings of an audit of the code, together with a paper that considers the implications of those findings and invites comments and evidence on a number of issues arising from them. These documents can be found on the OFT's website at http://www.oft.gov.uk/News/Press+releases/2005/52-05.htm. We encourage all those who have views on the issues in question to respond to the OFT's invitation to comment.

The OFT's paper also makes reference to a proposal for a new voluntary code, known as the Buyers Charter, that is being developed by the National Farmers Union (NFU) in consultation with other industry bodies. We welcome this initiative and have encouraged all sections of the food chain, whether they be retailers, processors or manufacturers, to work positively with the NFU to develop the proposal.

Sewers/Drains

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) if she will make a statement on her proposals to transfer ownership of private sewers and lateral drains from property owners to local water companies; [224365]

(2) what arrangements are being made for the transfer of ownership of sewers and drains; and whether necessary repairs will be carried out before that transfer. [224367]

Mr. Morley: The Government published a response to their consultation—Review of Existing Private Sewers and Drains in England and Wales—in October 2004. 81 per cent. of respondents favoured a change of ownership, and of these, 90 per cent. held the view that sewerage undertakers should take over responsibility. The Government acknowledged the strength of support for this solution and undertook to look into it in more depth.

The Department also recently held a seminar with stakeholders to look at sustainable options for a potential transfer. Further information on the seminar is available on the Department's website.

The Government intend to publish a decision paper this summer, but do not rule out the need to consult further on the scope and form of a potential transfer.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment her Department has made of the condition of sewers; and what the impact on household water bills is estimated to be of carrying out necessary repairs. [224366]

Mr. Morley: The Director General of Water Services sets price limits for the water and sewerage companies in England and Wales. He published his decisions on 2 December 2004. In arriving at his decisions he assessed the state of Companies' sewers to be 'stable'.

'Future water and sewerage charges 2005–10: Final determinations', which is available from the Library of the House of Commons, sets out for each water and sewerage company Ofwat's assessment of what contribution capital maintenance will make to the changes in each company's bills over the period 2005–10. However it is for each company to make decisions on what proportion of customers' bills they will spend on maintaining their sewers.

Ofwat reviewed each company's proposals to maintain all of its water and sewerage assets and concluded that, within a total of £8.4 billion, the companies would need to invest around £1.0 billion to maintain their sewerage infrastructure over the period 2005–10. This is a 17 per cent. increase on what Ofwat estimates the companies will have spent on sewerage infrastructure in the period 2000–05.

TB (Badgers)

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will introduce field trials of devices for detecting biological warfare agents used on the battlefield to detect levels of TB in badgers in the west country. [224236]

Mr. Bradshaw: The application of portable laboratories developed by the Ministry of Defence for detection of biological warfare agents, to detect bovine tuberculosis (TB) in badgers in the field is not yet at the stage appropriate for field evaluation.

This technology is based on the polymerase chain reaction (PCR). Research using conventional laboratory-based PCR has shown that the technique is not yet able to perform as well as conventional bacterial culture in the detection of Mycobacterium bovis (M. bovis) in diseased animals.

A collaboration between the Veterinary Laboratories Agency and the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory at Porton Down is evaluating a prototype portable machine for diseases other than bovine TB (Bovine Diarrhoea Virus and Foot and Mouth Disease). There are plans to evaluate it for use in detecting M. bovis in the field in the future.

Defra is currently assessing research applications for projects that will conduct a review of all current PCR assays available for Mycobacterium tuberculosis complex identification and assess their cost benefit analysis for incorporation into routine TB testing.

Mark Tami: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what strains of bovine TB in infected livestock have been isolated; and whether the same strains have been isolated in badgers killed in road traffic accidents. [224717]

Mr. Bradshaw: Strains of Mycobacterium bovis (M. bovis) isolated from cattle or badgers infected by bovine tuberculosis are routinely determined by spoligotyping.

A total of 705 isolates of M. bovis from badgers killed in road traffic accidents have been typed by this method since November 1988, resulting in identification of 17 different strains. Of 25,120 isolates of M. bovis from cattle typed since November 1988, 46 strains have been found.

16 of the M. bovis strains have been found in both badgers and cattle. These accounted for 99.9 per cent. of badger isolates and 99.3 per cent. of cattle isolates.

TB Tests

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what powers she has to enforce tuberculosis tests on dairy farmers; and how many times these powers have been used in the last three years. [220766]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The bovine tuberculosis testing regime is executed by officers of Defra in England. Prosecutions for non-compliance are brought by local authorities as the body responsible for enforcement. If the person responsible for the animal fails to co-operate to enable his animals to be tested the appropriate officer may take all necessary steps to enable the test to be done.

There have been no prosecutions by local authorities during the last three years to enforce tuberculosis tests on dairy farmers. Where, for whatever reason, tuberculosis tests are not carried out on time, the Department and the local authority endeavour to resolve the matter without recourse to the Courts.

Waste Management

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of responses received to the Waste Management (England and Wales) Regulations 2005 (Agricultural waste regulations consultations); and what plans she has to publish her conclusions. [224681]

Mr. Morley: I announced on 9 December 2004, Official Report, column 106WS, that the Government had published a draft of the Regulations for consultation. The consultation paper confirmed that the exercise is being carried out in compliance with the Cabinet Office's "Code of Practice on Consultation" which is available at:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/regulation/consultation/index.asp

The consultation's closing date was 18 March 2005 and we are now considering the responses which have been received. The next step will be the publication of a summary of those responses and our analysis of them. Criterion 4 of the Code of Practice provides that this summary should be published, as far as possible, within three months of the consultation's closing date.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research has been carried out to investigate possible links between emissions from landfill and hazardous waste sites and health problems, with particular reference to birth defects; and if she will make a statement. [221625]

Mr. Morley: Last year my Department published an independent review of environmental and health effects of waste management. This brought together the available evidence on the health and environmental effects of different waste management facilities for treating municipal solid waste and similar wastes. It is available on the Defra website at: www.defra.gov.uk/environment/waste/research/health/index.htm. Later this year there will be a follow up study to extend the review to cover non-municipal waste management processes.

MINISTER FOR WOMEN

Social Work

Mr. Amess: To ask the Minister for Women if she will make a statement on female employment in social care. [223419]

Ms Hewitt: As at 30 September 2003, women represented over 80 per cent. of the total whole-time equivalent employees in social service departments. On a headcount basis, women accounted for 230,700 employees in a directly employed council workforce of 277,000. There are another estimated 650,000 social care workers employed in the private and voluntary sectors, mostly in residential and domiciliary provision, and it is estimated that around 90 per cent. of that workforce is female.

CABINET OFFICE

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223434]

Mr. Miliband: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary (Mr. Timms) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION

Referendums

Kate Hoey: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what plans the Commission has made to investigate complaints about illegal donations or spending connected with the referendum on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe that are made during (a) the regulated period and (b) the referendum period. [224683]

Mr. Viggers: By virtue of section 145 of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (PPERA), the Electoral Commission has the general function of monitoring compliance with the restrictions and other requirements imposed by or by virtue of Part VII of PPERA in relation to referendums to which the Act applies.

The Commission informs me that it has in operation robust processes and procedures to undertake investigations into potential breaches of the regulatory requirements of the Act. It will apply these in relation to any referendum on the Treaty establishing a constitution for Europe as it would to any other referendum to which the provisions of Part VII of PPERA apply.

Kate Hoey: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission whether it is the Commission's assessment that it has adequate powers to prevent illegal donations or spending connected with the referendum on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe during (a) the regulated period and (b) the referendum period. [224684]

Mr. Viggers: Although by virtue of section 145 of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (PPERA), the Electoral Commission has the general function of monitoring compliance with the restrictions and other requirements imposed by or by virtue of Part VII of PPERA in relation to referendums to which the Act applies, this does not give the Commission power to intervene to prevent either donations or spending in connection with such referendums, including any referendum on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe.

However, the Commission informs me that it has in operation robust processes and procedures to undertake investigations into alleged breaches of the regulatory requirements of PPERA, including those relating to referendums.

Kate Hoey: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what discussions regarding donations and expenditure the Commission plans to have with organisations that are permitted participants in the referendum on the EU Constitution which are funded by institutions of the European Union. [224685]

Mr. Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it will provide guidance for all organisations expressing interest in registering as permitted participants in any referendum on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe and further guidance for those which actually register.

In addition, the Commission intends to hold briefing sessions throughout the country to advise potential permitted participants in such a referendum on the relevant statutory requirements of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendum Act 2000, including those relating to donations and expenditure.

As I informed the hon. Member on 7 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1666–67W, The Electoral Commission has already indicated that it does not regard the European Commission as falling into any of the categories of organisation that are allowed to make donations to permitted participants in a referendum on the EU Constitution.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Fish Purchases

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Roxburgh and Berwickshire, representing the House of Commons Commission how many fish have been bought by the Refreshment Department in each year since 1997, broken down by species. [224008]

Sir Archy Kirkwood: I have written to the hon. Member.

DEFENCE

Arms Supplies

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department makes of the use in other countries of arms that have been supplied by UK manufacturers. [209549]

Mr. MacShane: I have been asked to reply.

The Government undertake monitoring in the recipient country of arms supplied by UK manufacturers when we believe that this would genuinely help to minimise the risk of diversion and where such monitoring is practical. In addition, UK overseas posts have standing instructions to report any misuse of UK-origin defence equipment. Evidence of misuse would be taken into account when the Government assesses any subsequent licence applications for the end-user. We may also, if appropriate, revoke related licences, and consider whether to prosecute if the Government believed that a criminal offence had been committed.

Army Discipline

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) officers, (b) non-commissioned officers and (c) private soldiers have been disciplined following the outcome of (i) an Army board decision, (ii) a divisional level decision and (iii) a unit level decision since 1997. [201830]

Mr. Ingram: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many complaints considered under Army redress procedures have been made by (a) officers, (b) non-commissioned officers, (c) private soldiers and (d) untrained private soldiers since 1997. [201837]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence does not hold complete records dating back to 1997. However, during the period January 1999 to December 2004, our records indicate that 369 officers, 833 non-commissioned officers and 154 private soldiers applied for redress of complaint.

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will reply to the letter dated 23 February from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Alan Green. [224360]

Mr. Hoon: I replied to the right hon. Member on 24 March.

Deaths in Service

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps were taken by his Department to ensure that the next of kin of Sergeant Paul Connolly were informed prior to the public announcement of his death in Iraq on 26 December 2004. [224480]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 4 April 2005]: It is Ministry of Defence policy to release the names of deceased personnel after the Next of Kin and nominated Emergency Contacts (if different) have been notified: the Next of Kin and/or the Emergency Contacts may request a further delay to enable them to inform other family members. Wherever possible, such a request will be honoured. Sergeant Connolly's nominated Emergency Contact was informed on 27 December; the formal public announcement of his death followed on 30 December.

Iraq

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what information he has received from his United States counterpart in respect of the number of Iraqi citizens being detained by the United States military authorities in Iraq in connection with alleged offences connected with weapons of mass destruction. [216005]

Mr. Hoon: I do not routinely receive information from other coalition partners regarding the details of those being detained by them, nor information about the specific offences for which individuals are being detained/interned.

Mr. Sayeed: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which soldiers who have served and been injured in the recent Iraqi conflict live in the constituency of Mid Bedfordshire. [210785]

Mr. Ingram: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Naval Studies

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the terms of reference of the (a) Maritime Conference Study, (b) Submarine Acquisition Modernisation Study and (c) Surface Ship Support Study are; and when he expects each to conclude its work. [222438]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 17 March 2005]: I refer the hon. Member to the answers I gave on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 572W, to the hon. Member for Blaby (Mr. Robathan), on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 127W to the hon. Member for Mid-Sussex (Mr. Soames), and 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 1996W, to the hon. Member for Blaby (Mr. Robathan).

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will provide a substantive answer to the question, ref. 209882, from the hon. Member for Banff and Buchan. [216229]

Mr. Hoon: I replied to the hon. Member on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 256W.

RAF Menwith Hill

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence by what mechanism the US authorities pay his Department's Police Agency for policing activities at RAF Menwith Hill. [223681]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The United States authorities pay for the Ministry of Defence Police Agency against bills raised on the Agency's behalf by the MOD Liaison Office at RAF Mildenhall. These bills are raised on a weekly basis and in arrears. At the end of each month, Mildenhall transfer the income from payments made by the US to the MOD Police Agency. Bills are based on the salaries of Agency personnel, both police and civilian, deployed to Menwith Hill and any other costs that are appropriate in accordance with the 1989 Memorandum of Understanding between the United States European Command (EUCOM), represented by the Headquarters Third Air Force, and the United Kingdom MOD concerning the role and responsibilities of MOD police deployed at bases occupied by United States Forces in the UK.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220959]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to Key Target 1 of the Key Targets Table in the Ministry of Defence's Disposal Services Agency (DSA)'s Annual Report and Accounts that were laid before the House for each of those years respectively. The 2003–04 report, laid before the House on 15 July 2004, can be viewed on the DSA's website www.edisposals.com. The figures include receipts from sales undertaken by the DSA on behalf of its main customer—the MOD—and other Government Departments and other customers. The DSA has sole authority to act to dispose of all MOD surplus equipments bar land and property and nuclear material.

Gross accrued receipts from the sale of surplus land and property are disclosed in the Defence estates accounts that were laid before the House for each of the years 2000–01 to 2003–04. Copies are available in the Library of the House.

Both the DSA's Annual Report and Accounts and the Defence estate accounts in respect of 2004–05 are due to be laid before the House in advance of the summer recess.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220956]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The Ministry of Defence's Disposal Services Agency (DSA) has sole authority to act to dispose of surplus equipment. The majority of equipments are sold through the DSA's network of contractors, with whom it has marketing agreements, who have the freedom to market and sell as they choose so as to optimise returns for the taxpayer. These contractors have occasionally used the eBay website in the last few years but records are not held centrally. The DSA has not used eBay directly.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for her Department is for 2011–12. [223440]

Ms Hewitt: Under the Spending Review process, budget allocations are given for the three years ahead. Following Spending Review 2004 we therefore have detailed spending plans in place for 2005–06, 2006–07, and 2007–08. The Spending Review process does not provide for the setting of budgets more than three years ahead.

Economic Partnership Agreements

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to her written ministerial statement of 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 62–3W, on economic partnership agreements, on what basis her Department arrived at the period of 20 years given unconditionally to African, Caribbean and Pacific countries to open their markets to trade with the EU, following implementation of any given EU Economic Partnership Agreement; and whether she plans to make this period fully reciprocal. [224079]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 4 April 2005]: In recommending a transition period of 20 years, the Government took into consideration the views of the ACP countries, the ACP submission in the current WTO negotiations on Article 24 of the GATT, which suggested a minimum of 18 years for developing countries, and the transition period agreed in other recent regional trade agreements. The Government believe that each ACP regional group should make its own decisions on the timing, pace, sequencing, and product coverage of market opening in line with individual countries' national development plans and poverty reduction strategies. Regional groups should have the flexibility to move towards more open markets along a non-linear path if necessary.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to her written ministerial statement of 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 62–3WS, on economic partnership agreements, whether she has earmarked specific UK funds to be made available via the EU to African, Caribbean and Pacific countries to enable them to benefit from trade reforms. [224137]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The UK cannot specifically earmark funds provided through the EU for the ACP. However the UK, through DFID's development assistance programmes, is continuing to make available funds for EPA policy research and capacity building for the ACP regional group secretariats and negotiators. This is intended to help the ACP structure EPAs in their development interests and assist them to get the best deal from the negotiations.

Equipment Leasing

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list the equipment leasing arrangements entered into by her Department in each of the last two years; and what the cost was to public funds in each case. [202383]

Ms Hewitt: The total cost to the Department and its Executive Agencies of hiring office equipment under operating leases for the last two years was:

£ million

	Cost of hiring office equipment
2003–04	1.6
2002–03	1.1

In addition, the Department has an off-balance sheet PFI contract for the provision to it of a wide range of information systems and services, including infrastructure management, IT development, business process re-engineering, consultancy advice and technology refresh. This is treated as an operating lease under the PFI guidance issued by HM Treasury. The total payments under this contract in 2003–04 amounted to £37 million. In 2002–03 this total was £35 million. It is not possible to split this total into payments for the use of equipment as opposed to payments for services.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee on the implementation of projects promoting co-operation and commercial relations between the European Union and the industrialised countries of North America, the Far East and Australasia met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [217836]

Mr. Alexander: The Committee has met four times (on each occasion in Brussels) since it was established in July 2002 (under the Spanish presidency); January 2003 (Greek presidency); January 2004 (Irish presidency); and October 2004 (Dutch presidency). Officials from UK Trade and Investment attended each meeting with the exception of meeting during the Irish presidency.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee for the Adaptation to Technical Progress of Directives on the Removal of Technical Barriers to Trade in the Sector of Cosmetics met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [217911]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Policy on cosmetic products under Council Directive 76/768/EE is discussed and agreed by the Standing Committee on Cosmetic Products which meets in Brussels four or five times a year. Representatives from the DTI always attend the Committee meetings.

Export Credits Guarantee Department

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when consultation on changes to the anti-bribery and corruption procedures at the Export Credits Guarantee Department will be launched; and when it is expected to end. [223713]

Mr. Alexander: The Export Credits Guarantee Department launched a consultation on the changes to its anti-bribery and corruption procedures introduced in December 2004 on 18 March 2005. Details of this can be found on its website at www.ecgd.gov.uk.

The consultation will close on 18 June 2005.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will estimate the costs to be paid by her Department to the plaintiffs, the Corner House in respect of her Department's settlement of the case relating to consultation on Export Credits Guarantee Department forms. [223714]

Mr. Alexander: No claim for any particular sum has yet been submitted by the Comer House. As a result no reliable estimate can yet be formulated.

Gaelic Language

Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her Department's policy is on the use of the Gaelic language; and what plans her Department has to prepare and implement a Gaelic language scheme. [217097]

Ms Hewitt: Marketing communication materials are translated into Gaelic and other minority or foreign languages according to objectives and target audience requirements.

Large Print Versions

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, if she will require the Insolvency Agency to make available to the public on request large print versions of standard documentation' and if she will make a statement. [223978]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Insolvency Service is fully aware of its responsibilities to its users in line with the Disability Discrimination Act 1995. Where it is possible to do so the Insolvency Service will accommodate requests made by the public for large print versions of any standard leaflets or documentation.

Minimum Wage

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people in the Chorley constituency have benefited from the national minimum wage since its introduction. [212095]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Chorley due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 120,000 people in the North West of England stood to benefit from the introduction of the national minimum wage in October 1999. It is estimated that around 160,000 people in the North West of England stood to benefit from the October 1999 estimate on the Office for National Statistics' central estimate of low pay; the 2004 estimate is based on data from the annual survey of hours and Earnings.

Minimum Wage (Lancashire)

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people have benefited from the minimum wage in (a) the North West, (b) Lancashire and (c) Chorley since its introduction. [216236]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested is as follows:

(a) The DTI estimates that around 120,000 people in the North West of England stood to benefit from the introduction of the national minimum wage in October 1999. It is estimated that around 160,000 people in the North West of England stood to benefit from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. The DTI has based the October 1999 estimate on the Office for National Statistics' central estimate of low pay; the 2004 estimate is based on data from the annual survey of hours and earnings.

(b) Reliable figures cannot be produced for Lancashire due to small sample size.

(c) Reliable figures cannot be produced for Chorley due to small sample size.

National Minimum Wage

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her estimate is of the number of people in the (a) London region and (b) Leyton and Wanstead constituency who have benefited from the most recent rise in the national minimum wage. [208773]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested is as follows:

(a) The DTI estimates that around 90,000 people in London have benefited from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. The DTI has based this estimate on the April 2004 annual survey of hours and earnings.

(b) Reliable figures cannot be produced for Leyton and Wanstead due to small sample size.

Mr. Fisher: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her estimate is of the number of people in Stoke-on-Trent who have benefited from the most recent rise in the national minimum wage. [209897]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Stoke-on-Trent Central due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 140,000 people in the West Midlands stood to benefit from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum rage. The DTI has based this estimate on the April 2004 annual survey of hours and earnings.

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the (a) monetary and (b) percentage increase has been of each uprating of the national minimum wage since its introduction. [214027]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The following tables present the monetary and percentage increase of each uprating of the national minimum wage since its introduction.

Monetary and percentage increases in the adult [1]national minimum wage (NMW) rate

	Adult hourly NMW rate (£)	Increase in adult hourly NMW rate (£)	Percentage increase in adult hourly NMW rate
1999	3.60	—	—
2000	3.70	0.10	2.8
2001	4.10	0.40	10.8
2002	4.20	0.10	2.4
2003	4.50	0.30	7.1
2004	4.85	0.35	7.8

[1] The adult rate applies to workers aged 22 or above

Monetary and percentage increases in the youth[1] (development) national minimum wage (NMW) rate

	Youth hourly NMW rate (£)	Increase in youth hourly NMW rate (£)	Percentage increase in youth hourly NMW rate
1999	3.00	—	—
2000	3.20	0.20	6.7
2001	3.50	0.30	9.4
2002	3.60	0.10	2.9
2003	3.80	0.25	6.9
2004	4.10	0.25	6.5

[1] The youth development rate applies to workers aged 18–21

Mr. Salter: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people in Reading, West constituency have benefited from the national minimum wage since its introduction. [215817]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Reading, West due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 110,000 people in the South East of England stood to benefit from the introduction of the national minimum wage in October 1999. It is also estimated that around 110,000 people in the South East of England stood to benefit from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. The DTI has based the October 1999 estimate on the Office for National Statistics' central estimate of low pay; the 2004 estimate is based on data from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings.

National Minimum Wage (Edinburgh)

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people in Edinburgh North and Leith constituency have benefited from the national minimum wage since its introduction. [211571]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Edinburgh North and Leith due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 90,000 people in Scotland stood to benefit from the introduction of the national minimum wage in October 1999. It is estimated that around 130,000 people in Scotland stood to benefit from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. The DTI has based the October 1999 estimate on the Office for National Statistics' central estimate of low pay; the 2004 estimate is based on data from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings.

National Minimum Wage (Hull)

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people in the Kingston upon Hull North constituency have benefited from the national minimum wage since its introduction. [211799]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Reliable figures cannot be produced for Kingston upon Hull due to small sample size.

The DTI estimates that around 100,000 people in Yorkshire and the Humber stood to benefit from the introduction of the national minimum wage in October 1999. It is estimated that around 130,000 people in Yorkshire and the Humber stood to benefit from the October 2004 uprating of the national minimum wage. The DTI has based the October 1999 estimate on the Office for National Statistics' central estimate of low pay; the 2004 estimate is based on data from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings.

Newspaper Distribution

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will publish the economic modelling and analysis used by (a) the Office of Fair Trading and (b) her Department to assess the impact of proposed changes to the UK supply chain for newspapers and magazines. [224349]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Office of Fair Trading (OFT) plans to publish its draft advisory opinion on the compatibility with competition law of distribution agreements for newspapers and magazines very soon. The draft advisory opinion will provide a fuller explanation of how the OFT reached the conclusions it announced in its 23 February press release. There has been no separate consideration of this matter by the Government.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the impact on small independent retailers of proposed changes to the UK supply chain for newspapers and magazines. [224350]

Mr. Sutcliffe: None. The Office of Fair Trading (OFT) has undertaken an informal consideration of the compatibility with competition law of distribution agreements for newspapers and magazines. In carrying out this work, I understand OFT received and took into account representations from all sides of the newspaper and magazine supply chain. I am aware that representatives of retailers—notably the National Federation of Retail Newsagents—have publicly welcomed the OFT's provisional findings which were announced on 23 February.

Postal Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she is taking to improve parcel post services to Orkney and Shetland. [224624]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The parcels delivery market is a fully liberalised and competitive market, and many parcel operators offer a range of services to Orkney and Shetland.

Royal Mail provides the universal service for parcels—the standard three to five day delivery service—which provides for the delivery of parcels weighing up to 20 kg at a uniform price anywhere in the United Kingdom.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry and I have been assured by Royal Mail that improving quality of service is the company's top priority.

Press Officers

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many press officers are employed in the Department. [206518]

Ms Hewitt: The number of press officers employed in the Department of Trade and Industry is 18.

Public Information

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what (a) printed public information and (b) other public information is made available by her Department. [215323]

Ms Hewitt: A list of in print publication together with public information covering various topics is available via my Department's website at www.dti.gov.uk.

Regional Development Agency (North-east)

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much investment the regional development agency for the north-east of England has spent in Hartlepool in each year since it was formed. [215126]

Jacqui Smith: I have been advised by One NorthEast, the regional development agency for the north-east of England, that targeted spend in Hartlepool since the agency was created has been as follows:

	Funding (£)
1999–2000	5,002,000
2000–01	8,302,048
2001–02	8,483,361
2002–03	9,875,538
2003–04	7,489,115
2004–05	[1]6,154,707

[1] Forecast spend

Expenditure includes the single regeneration budget, single programme and also land and property expenditure relating to the acquisition and development of Queens Meadow.

In addition Hartlepool residents and businesses will have benefited from the agency's regional programmes which are aimed at increasing the economic prosperity of the north-east of England. These programmes cannot always be directly attributable to specific localities.

Examples of One NorthEast's activities in Hartlepool have included improvements to disadvantage housing estates of West View, King Oswy and Central Estate, investment in the Headland and docks, and in the Oakesway Industrial Estate. Further development is planned in Victoria Harbour and the headland area.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what the (a) planned capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223428]

Mr. Lammy: Resource and capital Departmental Expenditure Limit (DEL) budgets up to 2007–08 are set out by department in annex C of Budget 2005. DEL budgets beyond 2007–08 will, as normal, be determined in future Spending Reviews.

Royal Marriage

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs if he will bring forward proposals to amend section 2 of the Regency Act 1937 to clarify the application of the Act to the future HRH Duchess of Cornwall, consequent upon her husband ascending to the throne. [222469]

Mr. Leslie: No.

WORK AND PENSIONS

"Are you over 50?"

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the cost was of (a) designing, (b) writing, (c) printing and (d) distributing the booklet "Are you over 50?", reissued in April 2004. [223908]

Jane Kennedy: The information about the costs associated with the revised English and Welsh versions of "Are you Over 50?" April 2004 is in the table.

	Cost
Design	1,920.00
Writing	Nil
Printing	172,350.00
Distribution (including storage costs)	48,541.00

Benefit Payment Methods

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make it his Department's policy to give benefit claimants information about all the payment options available, including the Post Office Card Account method, when they apply for benefits. [224085]

Mr. Pond: It is already the Department's policy to give benefit claimants information about all the payment options available, including the Post Office Card account, when they apply for benefits. This enables them to make an informed decision about which account best meets their individual needs.

British United Shoe Machinery

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much money in the Financial Assistance Scheme will be provided to pensioners of British United Shoe Machinery Limited; and what the average annual payment under the scheme paid to these pensioners will be. [224551]

Malcolm Wicks: Estimates cannot be made of the cost of assistance for members of individual schemes until we have received more detailed information; including information on what the scheme pension age is for individual members, their distance from scheme pension age as at 14 May 2004, and their individual losses in the schemes.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what discussions (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department and their predecessors and (c) departmental officials have had with (i) Sir Ronald Cohen, (ii) other directors and senior managers of British United Shoe Machinery (BUSM) Limited and (iii) pension fund managers or trustees of BUSM since 1 June 1997 about the collapse of the BUSM pension fund. [224552]

Malcolm Wicks: We are not aware of any such discussions taking place with Sir Ronald Cohen, directors or senior mangers of BUSM or managers or trustees of the BUSM pension scheme about the collapse of the BUSM pension fund. However, we are aware of the very difficult situation faced by members of the BUSM pension scheme, and sympathise with their position. I have held many meetings with members of pension schemes that are winding up, including their constituency MPs and Trade Union representatives.

The Government have introduced a number of measures to strengthen scheme member protection in the Pensions Act 2004. These include the introduction of the Pension Protection Fund (PPF), a new pensions regulator and the Financial Assistance Scheme. I can confirm that the BUSM pension scheme is on the indicative list of schemes potentially eligible for the Financial Assistance Scheme.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will commission an inquiry into the collapse of the British United Shoe Machinery pension fund. [224553]

Malcolm Wicks: There are no plans to commission such an inquiry into the scheme.

The Pensions Ombudsman is an independent statutory commissioner and can investigate complaints of injustice resulting from maladministration and disputes of fact or law by the trustees or managers of a scheme, or by an employer on a pensions matter.

The body responsible for monitoring occupational pension schemes' compliance with statutory duties and functions is the Occupational Pensions Regulatory Authority (Opra). A scheme's auditor and actuary have a statutory duty to report breaches of the law to Opra, which will then investigate any allegations.

New Deal

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many lone parents in Crosby have gained work through the new deal programme. [223881]

Mr. Pond: A total of 350 lone parents in Crosby have gained a job through the new deal for lone parents since the start of the programme in October 1998. Figures for lone parents who have gained work through the other new deal programmes are not available.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many women in Crosby have participated in (a) the New Deal for Lone Parents and (b) the New Deal for Partners since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [223938]

Mr. Pond: Through the New Deal we have introduced a wide range of initiatives to help individuals improve their employment prospects by giving them the skills, support and confidence they need to move into work. We have successfully rolled out Work Focused Interviews to provide lone parents with the opportunity to discuss work options and find out about the help available to them. From 12 April 2004 we have enhanced the New Deal for Partners to offer partners taking part in the programme the same level of support as our successful New Deal for Lone Parents programme. We are rolling out Work Focused Interviews for Partners offering greater support to partners of benefit recipients.

From October 2004 we have piloted a number of initiatives, including Worksearch Premium and In Work Credit, to test out whether barriers to lone parents entering and remaining in work can be removed.

540 women have started the New Deal for Lone Parents in Crosby since the beginning of the programme in October 1998. Information on the number of women in Crosby who have started the New Deal for Partners is not available.

Occupational Pensions

Mr. Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for what reason the Financial Services Authority implements payments to those occupational pension holders whose pensions are in deficit or administration at the age of 65 years rather than at the age of retirement stipulated in each scheme. [224071]

Malcolm Wicks: The Financial Assistance Scheme is intended to provide those hardest hit by pension scheme wind-ups with assistance funded by the taxpayer. To ensure that the resources provided by the taxpayer are used most effectively, and to keep administration simple and cost-effective, the Financial Assistance Scheme will adopt a single simple set of rules, based on the most common features of occupational pension schemes, rather than attempting to replicate each particular feature of each individual eligible scheme. According to the Occupational Pension Schemes 2000 survey by the Government Actuary's Department, around 2/3 of active members of private sector defined benefit schemes have a retirement age of 65.

Pension Credit

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 3 March 2005, Official Report, column 1397W, on pension credit, if he will estimate the savings credit take-up rate for (a) those who are entitled to both guarantee credit and savings credit and (b) those who are entitled only to savings credit. [221555]

Malcolm Wicks: National statistics on take-up of major DWP benefits are published annually by the Department in "Income Related Benefits: Estimates of Take-up". These are based on the Family Resources Survey (FRS) for the relevant year and take account of both entitled non-recipients and non-entitled recipients. However, they are published significantly in arrears and the 2004–05 statistics will not be available for some time.

Interim figures can be derived by comparing administrative claimant count with entitlement figures derived from the Policy Simulation Model, based on the 2002–03 Family Resources Survey. However administrative and survey figures are not directly comparable and any take-up figure derived this way is indicative only.

Guarantee element take-up estimates thus formed can be roughly validated by comparison with existing minimum income guarantee entitlement and take-up estimates. However, in the case of savings credit this is not possible. It is thought that take-up for those on both guarantee and savings credit is to the order of 80 per cent. Similarly it is thought that around half of individuals entitled to savings credit only are taking up their entitlement, although there is no way of validating these results.

The savings element of pension credit is a relatively new entitlement, introduced in October 2003. Weekly entitlement can be up to £15.51 for single pensioners and £20.22 for couples. It is already in payment to over half a million households. The average award was £9.81 as at November 2004, the latest date for which this figure is available.

Mr. Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when Mr. David Ross, a constituent of the hon. Member for Sittingbourne and Sheppey, will receive his pension credit. [224031]

Malcolm Wicks: A cheque for arrears of pension credit was issued to Mr. Ross on 4 April 2005. He will now receive his pension credit weekly by direct payment into his account.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his latest estimate is of the number of eligible people not claiming pension credit in (a) Wales, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland, (d) England and (e) Bridgend; and what plans he has to improve take-up. [224347]

Malcolm Wicks: Direct, reliable estimates of the number of eligible people not receiving pension credit are not yet available.

The following table shows indicative, broad brush estimates of eligibility levels in 2004–05, where available, and numbers in receipt of pension credit at the end of December 2004. These sets of figures are derived from survey and administrative sources respectively and are not directly comparable. We plan to publish definitive National Statistics on take-up and entitlement for the first six months of pension credit by the end of 2005.

The pension service is committed to increasing levels of pension credit take-up. We have already written at least once to every pensioner household in the country to tell them about pension credit and encourage them to apply. We are re-contacting directly, by mail, telephone or personal visit, those people whom we believe are particularly likely to be eligible. New, targeted marketing campaigns seek to overcome the barriers which might prevent take-up of pension credit and the reasons which people give for not applying. The pension service local service continues to work in partnership with local authorities and the voluntary sector, particularly in identifying and contacting older people who are vulnerable or who have yet to take up their entitlement.

Eligibility estimates for pension credit 2004–05 and numbers in receipt of pension credit, December 2004

	Wales	Scotland	England
Estimated number of eligible private households, 2004–05	200,000	300,000	3,050,000
Estimated number of eligible individuals, 2004–05	250,000	400,000	4,000,000
Private households in receipt of pension credit, 31 December 2004	148,500	259,400	2,082,400
Individuals in receipt of pension credit, 31 December 2004	184,600	313,700	2,561,500

Notes:

1. Eligibility levels for pension credit are estimated using the 2002–03 Family Resources Survey modelled using the Department's Policy Simulation Model. Results are subject to sampling errors and estimation assumptions, so these projections are indicative only until the publication of the National Statistics estimates of income-related benefits.
2. Eligibility estimates by country are based on estimates for Government Office Regions. These do not include those in residential care or nursing homes (RCNH). Eligibility estimates are in thousands, rounded to the nearest 50,000.
3. Numbers in receipt of pension credit are as at the end of December 2004 ascrecorded by General Matching Service data, scaled up to provide month-endcfigures and rounded to the nearest hundred.
4. Numbers in receipt do not include RCNH recipients. Total numbers in receipt at the end of December have been adjusted by estimated numbers of RCNH recipients, based on the November 2004 QSE administration data and rounded to the nearest 100.
5. Some individual recipients may be under 60 years of age, where the claimant is aged 60 or over and the partner aged under 60.
6. Eligibility estimates at constituency level are not available.
7. Figures for Northern Ireland are not available.

Pensions

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what his latest estimate is of the number of companies that are failing in their duty to provide stakeholder pensions; [219562]

(2) what his latest estimate is of the number of companies that have been fined for failing to provide stakeholder pensions. [219563]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for Northavon (Mr. Webb) on 27 October 2004, Official Report, column 1289W.

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department spent on (a) male and (b) female recipients of the (i) basic State Pension, (ii) SERPS and (iii) pension credit in 2003–04; and how many recipients there were of each. [223461]

Malcolm Wicks [pursuant to the reply, 24 March 2005, Official Report, c. 1037W]: The requested information is in the tables.

Great Britain 2003–04

Expenditure (£ million, cash terms)

	(i) Basic state pension	(ii) SERPS	(iii) Pension credit
(a) Male	16,801	4,727	1,010
(b) Female	22,978	1,951	1,468

Recipients (Thousand)

	(i) Basic state pension	(ii) SERPS	(iii) Pension credit
(a) Male	4,241	3,597	761
(b) Female	7,011	3,572	1,405

Notes:

1. All expenditure figures have been rounded to the nearest million pounds. Expenditure recorded on the department's accounting systems has been apportioned between males and females using a 5 per cent. sample of administrative records.
2. All caseload figures have been rounded to the nearest thousand, and are based on a 5 per cent. sample of administrative records.
3. A basic State Pension is paid to those who fully or partially satisfy the contribution conditions for a category A or category B basic State Pension.
4. Category D retirement pensions are not included in the figures.
5. The SERPS (State Earnings-Related Pension Scheme) figure also includes amounts for state second pension and graduated retirement benefit.
6. Basic State Pension and SERPS expenditure includes pensions paid to people living overseas.
7. Pension credit expenditure includes both the guarantee credit and the savings credit. As pension credit was only introduced on 6 October 2003, the 2003–04 expenditure quoted relates only to half a year.
8. Figures are consistent with the pre-Budget report 2004 and with expenditure information published on the internet at http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp (table 3). These tables will shortly be updated with Budget 2005 figures.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many of the schemes listed as being potentially eligible for the Financial Assistance Scheme had promised index-linked benefits to some or all of their non-pensioner members. [222185]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 24 March 2005, Official Report, column 1034W to the hon. Member for Northavon (Mr. Webb).

Pensions Act 2004

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many statutory instruments have been made under the Pensions Act 2004; and how many remain to be made to implement provisions of the Act. [224670]

Malcolm Wicks: To date 43 statutory instruments have been made under the Pensions Act 2004, 31 of which bring into force The Pensions Regulator and Pension Protection Fund from April 2005.

We anticipate that we will make approximately 60 further statutory instruments over a period of 12 to 18 months to bring into force other provisions of the Act. This estimate may change as the legislation is prepared and as we consult with the pensions industry on particular issues.

Rebates

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the cost of contracted out rebates in the (a) public and (b) private sector was in the last year for which figures are available; and how many people were covered by contracted out rebates in each sector. [219703]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is in the table and based on the numbers contracted-out during the 2002–03 tax year, the latest year for which information is available:

Cost of contracted-out rebates		Number of people covered by contracted-out rebates
Public sector	£3.7 billion	Public Sector	5.2 million
Private sector	£6.8 billion	Private Sector	7.6 million

HOME DEPARTMENT

Antisocial Behaviour Orders

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many antisocial behaviour orders have been (a) applied for and (b) granted by the courts in Leicester, in each year since their inception. [222898]

Ms Blears: The available information on the number of antisocial behaviour orders (ASBOs) applied for and issued, on application or following conviction, as notified to the Home Office by the courts in Leicester, is given in the following table.

Number of ASBOs issued, as notified to the Home Office, by type of court in Leicester, 1 June 2000[1] to 30 September 2004

[1] From 1 April 1999 to 31 May 2000 data were collected by police force area on aggregate numbers only. During this period one ASBO was notified as issued within Leicestershire.
[2] Only covers applications dealt with by 30 September 2004.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many and what percentage of 10 to 17-year-olds with an antisocial behaviour order also have an individual support order. [223749]

Ms Blears: The available information is given in the table.

Number of individual support orders[1] given at the magistrates court, England and Wales

	1 May 2004 to 30 September 2004
ASBOs (age 10–17) (number)	454

Caravans

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been (a) charged and (b) prosecuted for using (i) over-wide and (ii) over-long caravans on roads in the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [222999]

Ms Blears [holding answer 18 March 2005]: It is not possible to separately identify offences relating to vehicle limit lengths on the Home Office Court Proceeding database.

Information for Scotland is a matter for the Scottish Office and that for Northern Ireland for the Northern Ireland Office.

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his policy is for checking the ownership of caravans used by Travellers. [223000]

Ms Blears [holding answer 18 March 2005]: The Home Office does not have a policy specifically to check whether caravans used by Travellers are stolen. Where caravan theft is an issue of local concern, police forces are able to draw on guidance jointly produced by the Association of Chief Police Officers and bodies representing the interests of caravan users.

CCTV (North Tyneside)

Mr. Alan Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications his Department has received from North Tyneside council for funding for CCTV cameras since 1997; what the result was of each application; and how many applications are outstanding. [220936]

Ms Blears: Under rounds 1 and 2 of the Crime Reduction Programme, a national competitive bidding process which ran from 1999 to 2003, North Tyneside did not receive any funding.

Under subsequent funding streams, North Tyneside received:

£10,000 for North Tyneside General Hospital CCTV Link and £10,000 for Tynemouth Village CCTV System from the Safer Communities Initiative in 2002–03;

£40,417 for Wallsend CCTV from the Communities Against Drugs Initiative in 2002–03; and £20,000 for CCTV and lighting from the Small Retailers in Deprived Areas Initiative in 2003–04.

Under the Building Safer Communities and Basic Command Unit funds, no CCTV projects were planned by the North Tyneside Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) in either 2003–04 or 2004–05. The CDRP is currently determining its plans for 2005–06.

Christmas Cards

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many hours of staff time were taken up in preparation of Christmas cards in 2004; [205106]

(2) how many departmental staff have responsibility for preparing Christmas cards; [205107]

(3) what percentage of official departmental Christmas cards included a contribution to charity in their cost; and which charities benefited from such a contributions; [205108]

(4) what the cost of postage was for official departmental Christmas cards in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; [205109]

(5) what the cost was of purchasing official departmental Christmas cards in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; [205110]

(6) how many official Christmas cards were sent out by his Department in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004. [205111]

Fiona Mactaggart: 20,000 official departmental Christmas cards were purchased in 2003 at a cost of £11,750. The original price quoted was £13,630 but because of poor printing quality we were able to negotiate this down. In 2004, 20,270 cards were purchased at a cost of £14,380.47. In both years all cards were sold in aid of Victim Support with 10p per card being donated. The cards are used by the Department's senior managers and sent to external contacts. The information on staff preparation, time and numbers, as well as postage costs is delegated locally and not held centrally. To obtain this information would incur disproportionate costs.

Civil Servants

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff were working for each directorate of the National Offender Management Service on 11 February; and where they are based. [220517]

Paul Goggins: Staff numbers for 11 February 2005 are not available. However, on 22 November 2004, the following full-time equivalent posts were located in each National Offenders Management Service (NOMS) Directorate:

Directorate	Full-time equivalents
Policy	216.9
Finance	161.9
Standards and Innovation	69.2
Health	87.7
National Offender Manager	17.0

In addition, the following full-time equivalent posts were located in units that were working for NOMS headquarters but were not attached to a NOMS headquarters directorate:

	Full-time equivalents
Chief Executive's Office	7.0
NOMS Programme Office	12.0
Office for Contracted Prisons	66.0

The posts in the HR Sub-Programme were based in the Prison Service Headquarters. All of the other posts were based in NOMS headquarters.

Community Support Officers

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many community support officers there have been in (a) the South Tyneside Area Command and (b) Northumbria in each year since their inception. [222553]

Ms Blears: The first community support officers (CSOs) were introduced into Northumbria in 2003–04. I am informed by the Chief Constable that the first deployment of CSOs to the South Tyneside Area was on 10 January when six were allocated to the area. South Tyneside should have 11 CSOs by 1 April.

The table sets out the number of CSOs for the Northumbria police.

Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letter dated 13 September 2004 from the hon. Member for Brent, East regarding Mrs. Helen Adumekwe. [215633]

Ms Blears: Unfortunately, there was no record of the hon. Member's letter being received in the Home Office. We have since obtained a copy and I shall reply shortly.

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letter of 25 February from the hon. Member for Northavon regarding a visa application by a constituent, Mr. Swaine. [221403]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 14 March 2004]: I wrote to the hon. Member on 5 April 2005.

Credit Card Fraud

Mr. David Stewart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of Chip and PIN cards in preventing credit card fraud. [222133]

Ms Blears [holding answer 16 March 2005]: Chip and PIN is a major finance and retail industry anti-fraud initiative. The introduction of Chip and PIN has been managed by the Chip and PIN Programme Management Organisation, and actively supported by Government.

Following a successful public trial, national roll out of the scheme began in October 2003 with the aim that by 2005 a majority of plastic card transactions should be Chip and PIN. The Chip and PIN programme announced in January that it reached all its 2004 targets for the roll out with customer research demonstrating that 71 per cent. of cardholders expect their next transaction to be Chip and PIN and 45 per cent. now using it for all or most of their card payments.

It is currently too early to assess the effects of Chip and PIN in preventing credit card fraud. The impact of Chip and PIN on card fraud is expected to be seen early in 2005 and hence will first be reflected in the APACS mid-year card fraud figures to June 2005, which will be available in the summer.

Mr. David Stewart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of current efforts to reduce internet based 'card-not-present' credit card fraud. [222134]

Ms Blears [holding answer 16 March 2005]: The Government works with the police and industry to tackle fraud and other online crime through a number of initiatives. A key factor in dealing with online fraud is prevention and education and the Government takes an active role in educating computer users about the risks of fraud committed through the internet. The Home Office website provides advice on avoiding internet fraud and the Home Office has also created, and maintains the 'e-tailing mini site', which forms part of the crime reduction website. The mini site provides information to help both businesses and consumers protect themselves specifically when using the internet.

The Home Office is represented on an industry-led Steering Group which aims to tackle 'Card Not Present' (CNP) fraud (which includes fraud over the internet). We support practical measures being introduced by the industry to increase levels of security for internet transactions. These include Address Verification Services (AVS) and Card Security Code (CSC), which inform merchants' decisions on whether to proceed with an order. AVS/CSC can provide immediate results, with APACS reporting that some merchants have reduced their fraud levels by up to 80 per cent. Card schemes MasterCard and Visa have also introduced the 3D Secure system, known as MasterCard Secure Code or Verified by Visa, which requires password verification for internet transactions. The work of the CNP Steering Group has also led to the production of a manual (Spot and Stop Card Fraud Retailer Pack) which aims to educate merchants on the dangers of CNP fraud and the steps which can be taken to prevent it.

Government are also involved in the development of Project Endurance, an initiative which will launch a computer and internet security public awareness campaign this year. The project is an alliance of public and private sector, which brings together a number of UK Government departments and law enforcement organisations with a number of high-profile private sector companies. This campaign is to be targeted at micro businesses and consumers, primarily aimed at helping these users gain confidence in using the internet, and protect themselves and their computer while online.

The Association for Payment Clearing Services (a banking industry body) considers that the recently announced increase in card not present fraud shows growth only in proportion to the increasing number of businesses now offering non face-to-face transactions, in particular over the internet.

Deaths Abroad

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to establish a system of discretionary rather than mandatory inquests for violent or suspicious deaths abroad; and if he will make a statement. [224108]

Paul Goggins: At present coroners in England and Wales are required to hold inquests into deaths which occur overseas only if the body is repatriated, the death is reported to them, and the death would have been subject to an inquest if it had occurred in England and Wales.

The Government commissioned an independent report—"Death Certification and Investigation in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, the report of a Fundamental Review" [Cm 5831] which was presented to Parliament in 2003. It included recommendations on coroners' responsibilities for deaths abroad (pages 136–139) and proposed that public inquests should be at the discretion of coroners, but with an expectation that they would take place in particular circumstances.

Drawing on the recommendations of the review, and taking full account of the Third Report of the Shipman Inquiry which was also published [Cm 5854] in 2003, we outlined our intention to proceed with coroner and death certification reform in a position paper presented to Parliament in March 2004 [Cm 6159]. We are concluding detailed work currently and will put forward firm plans, including the handling of coroners' investigations into deaths abroad, as soon as we can.

Departmental Policies (Newcastle-under-Lyme)

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much has been spent on tackling drugs misuse in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997. [223238]

Caroline Flint: A breakdown of financial allocations to local constituencies is not available in the form requested, as funding is allocated to Drug Action Teams (DATs). In this case, the figures given are those for Staffordshire DAT, which covers Tamworth, Staffordshire Moorlands, Burton, Cannock Chase, Lichfield, Newcastle-under-Lyme, South Staffordshire and Stone.

Direct annual funding nationally to tackle drug misuse amounted to £1,244 million in 2003–04, rising to £1,344 million in 2004–05. Staffordshire DAT has seen a significant increase in direct funding for tackling drugs, in particular for drug treatment services and the throughcare and aftercare elements of the Drug Interventions Programme. In 2003–04 the allocation for Staffordshire DAT amounted to £4.38 million, rising to £5.16 million in 2004–05.

Domestic Violence

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps he is taking to ensure that the recommendations of the joint Crown Prosecution Service and Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary inquiry, Violence in the Home, are being implemented in all police areas. [207496]

Ms Blears: Under the leadership of the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO), comprehensive guidance on investigating domestic violence has been produced by the National Centre for Policing Excellence. This guidance was launched at the ACPO domestic violence conference in November 2004 and is currently being implemented by all police forces with the assistance of the National Centre for Policing Excellence.

The guidance has incorporated all of the relevant recommendations from the HMCPSI/HMIC report. ACPO has agreed with the Home Office and CPS a common definition of domestic violence. This is the definition used by the ACPO guidance on investigating domestic violence.

The new guidance is also supplemented by the Centrex modular training package on domestic violence. This training package was subjected to an annual update and has been recently re-released to all police forces in England and Wales. The update includes the incorporation of information from the HMCPSI/HMIC Thematic report and the ACPO guidance on investigating domestic violence.

Drug-related Crime

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been arrested for crimes connected with (a) cocaine and (b) heroin use in each constituency in each year since 1997. [224333]

Caroline Flint: Data on crimes related to the drugs specified are not currently collated at constituency level. The Home Office collates data at police force level on arrests for property crimes, but do not record whether they are related to an offender's drug habit. However, data on drug offenders are collated at police force level.

Data on the numbers of people arrested for cocaine and heroin offences in the United Kingdom are available in the "Drug Seizure and Offender Statistics, United Kingdom" Home Office statistical bulletin 2001 and 2002, and the Drug Offenders finding, for England and Wales 2003. The area tables accompanying these publications provide a break down at police force level.

Copies are available in the Library of the House and on the RDS website at: www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs04/hosb0804.pdf%5D

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were arrested for crimes connected with (a) cannabis, (b) cocaine, (c) ecstasy and (d) heroin use in each constituency in each year since 1997. [223733]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Data on crimes related to the drugs specified are not currently collated at constituency level. Drugs

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate his Department has made of how much (a) heroin, (b) cocaine and (c) cannabis was sold in (a) cash value and (b) weight terms in each year since 1975. [223708]

Caroline Flint: The information requested is not centrally available.

Emergency Calls

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average response time for police to 999 calls was in (a) Hartlepool and (b) England and Wales in each year since 1997. [218509]

Ms Blears: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Constabulary (HMCIC) publishes statistics of the percentage of 999 calls answered within target time. The latest available statistics relate to 2002–03 and 2003–04 and are published in Table 5 of HMCIC's Annual Report. The publication is available via the Home Office website at:

http://www.official-documents.co.uk/document/deps/hc/hc171/171.pdf

The equivalent figures for earlier years are available from previous annual reports, copies of which should be in the Library. These statistics are only available at police force area level and figures are not available for Hartlepool.

Equip for Service

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether a comprehensive risk assessment has been carried out by the Metropolitan Police Service on the outsourcing of the Equip for Service facility at Northolt. [219337]

Ms Blears [holding answer 1 March 2005]: Decisions relating to the use of resources are a matter for the Commissioner and the Police Authority.

The Commissioner of police of the Metropolis informs me that the Metropolitan Police Service conducted a comprehensive risk assessment on the outsourcing of the Equip for Service function in early 2004. From the assessment he is confident that all the risks are manageable.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what impact outsourcing the Equip for Service facility at Northolt will have on each London borough and their ability to deliver the national crime reduction strategy. [219338]

Ms Blears [holding answer 1 March 2005]: Decisions relating to the use of resources are a matter for the Commissioner and the Police Authority.

The Commissioner of police of the Metropolis informs me that the outsourcing will not affect the Service capacity to police each London borough or to deliver the national crime reduction strategy.

Essex Police

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans there are to amalgamate divisional police commands in Essex. [222493]

Ms Blears: The operational control and direction of police resources is vested in the local chief constable. Inevitably this includes where and how resources are deployed and the supporting structures for service delivery. This is not a matter over which Ministers, quite rightly, have any direct influence and I am not therefore in a position to be able to answer this question.

Ex-prisoners

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list the ex-prisoner groups which have received funding from his Department in the 2004–05 financial year; and how much funding each has received. [223277]

Paul Goggins: There is no record of any funding being provided to ex-offender groups, we do however try to include ex-offender groups in all relevant information, discussion groups, conferences and other related events. There may be instances where individual prison governors or probation areas provide funding for specific service provision, but we do not hold this information centrally.

Gun/Knife Crime

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on levels of (a) gun crime and (b) knife crime since 1995. [222649]

Caroline Flint: Excluding air weapons, in 1995, there were 5,866 recorded firearms offences. In 2003–04, the total number of recorded offences was 10,338. This figure includes incidents in which a firearm is fired, used as a blunt instrument against a person, or used in a threat, and includes handguns, shotguns and rifles, as well as imitations, and other firearms (e.g. stun guns, CS gas). However, it is important to remember that these figures may be affected by changes in reporting and recording and, in particular, figures for some offences may have been inflated by the introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard in April 2002. In 1995, 70 homicides were committed using a firearm; in 2003–04, the total was 68 homicides.

Figures for knife crime are not collected separately from statistics for offences of violence against the person. However, in 1995, there were 243 homicides using a sharp instrument (including knives, broken bottles, etc). In 2003–04, there were 237 homicides using a sharp instrument.

We are fully committed to taking action to reduce levels of gun and knife crime. Our strategy on both fronts includes working with police, other statutory agencies, the voluntary sector, and also with the community, who have a major role to play in dealing with these issues.

We have tightened firearms legislation by banning the sale, manufacture and import of guns that use self-contained gas cartridge systems (e.g. Brococks) and have made it an arrestable offence to carry an imitation or air gun in public without lawful authority or reasonable excuse. We have also introduced a mandatory minimum sentence of five years for anyone convicted of unlawful possession of an illegal firearm. We are conducting a comprehensive review of the firearms legislation, which includes a careful look at whether there are areas of the legislation which need to be strengthened.

We have provided £2.25 million from recycled criminal assets in 2004–05 to support gun crime work in England and Wales, including £250,000 for the second round of the Connected Fund, which supports small community groups involved in a wide variety of local projects.

On knife crime, we recently announced a package of proposals, including:

- raising the minimum age for purchasing a knife to 18. This would bring the sale of knives into line with the sale of fireworks and alcohol;
- adding new categories of knife now being used in crime to the list of banned offensive weapons;
- providing a power to require specified licensed premises to search for an offensive weapon on entry;
- giving head teachers a new power to search pupils for knives;
- pulling together best practice from initiatives and schemes focusing on knife crime;
- developing local crime reduction and enforcement strategies on dealing with the carrying of knives.

Indonesian Rainforest Timber

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether Indonesian rainforest timber has been used in (a) the new Home Office building at 2 Marsham street, (b) the contents of the building and (c) construction of the building; and if he will make a statement. [205333]

Mr. Browne: No Indonesian rainforest timber has been procured for the new Home Office headquarters building at 2 Marsham street.

In respect of Indonesian rainforest timber used in the construction process, I would refer the right hon. Member to the Report on the Procurement of Timber for the Re-development of 2 Marsham street of June 2003 which has been placed in the Library.

Infectious Diseases (UK Entrants)

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what criteria the Government have set to determine whether to test an individual for tuberculosis. [217746]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It is long standing policy that people subject to immigration control who are seeking to enter the UK for more than six months from countries which are high risk for tuberculosis (i.e. have an annual incidence rate of over 40 cases of tuberculosis per 100,000 population) and port asylum claimants should be checked for tuberculosis.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost to public funds has been of testing people entering the UK for tuberculosis in each year since 1997. [217747]

Mr. Charles Clarke: The immigration service does not have any details regarding the cost of providing this service.

The department of health advises that where tuberculosis (TB) checks are carried out at ports of entry in the UK, the costs are met from health budgets. The Department of health does not collect centrally the cost to local NHS bodies of providing medical inspectors.

Inquests (Teesside)

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average time between death and inquest in the jurisdiction of the coroner for Teesside was in 2004; and what the average time between death and inquest was in other coroners' jurisdictions in (a) the North East and (b) England and Wales in that year. [212092]

Paul Goggins: Figures for 2004 are not yet available.

Figures for 2003 show that the coroner for Teesside had an average time of 35.6 weeks for completed inquests. The 2003 figure for the remainder of the coroners in the North East region was an average time of 24.8 weeks and for the whole of England and Wales the average time for completed inquests was 19.5 weeks.

International Terrorism

Mr. Lilley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the security services have advised the Government that powers to imprison suspected terrorists without normal trial would be helpful in tackling international terrorism. [222781]

Ms Blears [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The then Home Secretary my right hon. Friend the Member for Sheffield, Brightside (Mr. Blunkett) took account of advice from the Security Service and police, after the attacks of 11 September 2001, on the measures necessary to defend the UK and its interests against similar terrorist attacks. This resulted in the Anti-terrorism Crime and Security Act 2001—including the Part 4 provisions relating to the detention of foreign nationals who could not be deported.

The Government have accepted the Lords' judgment of 16 December 2004 that the Part 4 powers of the Anti-terrorism Crime and Security Act are discriminatory and therefore disproportionate. Accordingly, it decided that detention in such circumstances was no longer appropriate. The measures contained in the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005 are the result of consultation with the police, and Security Service about the best way to deal with the problems posed by suspected terrorists who cannot be prosecuted.

Members' Security

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans his Department has to increase levels of security provided for (a) Ministers and (b) hon. Members. [216059]

Mr. Charles Clarke: We do not comment on the security levels of individuals. The security of individuals is continually reviewed to ensure it is in line with the threat.

Mental Health Services (Trafford Police)

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 24 February 2005, Official Report, column 777W, what decisions were reached between Trafford police division and the local primary health care trust at their meeting on 22 February; and what timetable was set for the provision of a place of safety as defined by the Mental Health Bill. [212391]

Ms Blears [holding answer 3 March 2005]: The question relates to operational issues for the Greater Manchester police, which are matters for the chief officer. Therefore, I have asked the chief officer to respond directly to the hon. Member. I have also asked the chief officer to forward a copy of the response to my Department and I will arrange for a copy of the correspondence to be placed in the Library.

National Offender Management Service

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when regional offender managers will (a) assume their roles on a full-time basis and (b) cease to operate in their current posts within the prison and probation services. [201715]

Paul Goggins: All 10 Regional Offender Managers are now in post. In addition, the Regional Offender Manager for the East of England will retain his current role in the Office of Contracted Prisons until April 2007.

Neighbourhood Watch

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to provide financial support to the National Neighbourhood Watch Association; and if he will make a statement on his Department's assessment of the association's work. [223743]

Ms Blears: The Home Office has not made a formal assessment of the National Neighbourhood Watch Association's (NNWA) work. The NNWA does, however, play a role as a voice for many volunteers within the Neighbourhood Watch movement. The NNWA is a registered charity which is independent of Government and as such is responsible for assessing its own capabilities and strategy.

I understand that the NNWA has recently managed to secure core funding from a private sector sponsor which should secure the organisation's financial position. The Government did, however, grant the NNWA £25,000 during March 2005 to cover the organisation's essential running costs pending the start of this new sponsorship arrangement. We have no plans to provide further funding to the NNWA.

The main support to local Neighbourhood Watch schemes is in the form of partnership working from the police, Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships, and the community safety departments of local authorities. We have asked police services to ensure these arrangements are robust. We have also provided a website to encourage the sharing of good practice, www.neighbourhoodwatch.uk.com and we are in the process of setting up a telephone advice line. In addition the Government have made sure that public liability insurance cover is available for all Neighbourhood Watch groups in England and Wales, including those groups which are not affiliated to the NNWA.

Home Office support for local groups includes the printing and distribution of Neighbourhood Watch publications worth £100,000 pa. Additionally a new quarterly newsletter, called 'Community link' has been published to help spread good practice and new ideas among grassroots Neighbourhood Watch volunteers.

Organised Crime

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent research he has conducted to develop a model for assessing different forms of organised crime; and if he will make a statement. [223878]

Caroline Flint: Officials have been working on measures to estimate the economic and social harms caused by organised crime, and the turnover of organised crime groups. It is intended to publish this work this summer

Overseas Bribery

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions his Department has received representations from police forces about lack of resources available for investigations into overseas bribery. [219305]

Ms Blears: We have received no formal representation of this kind from police forces. However, we are aware from discussions with them that some police forces have expressed some concerns about the potential cost of investigations into overseas bribery.

Police

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police constabularies have a race and diversity policy or strategy. [221865]

Ms Blears: All police forces have a Race Equality Scheme under the requirements of the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Government are planning to change the discipline system for police officers who have acted in a discriminatory way. [221866]

Ms Blears: We are considering changes to the police disciplinary system rising from the review of the police disciplinary arrangements conducted by William Taylor, the report from the Commission for Racial Equality on the Police Service in England and Wales and the review conducted by Sir William Morris entitled "The Case for Change: People in the Metropolitan Police Service". This consideration will address discriminatory behaviour and other misconduct issues.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what disciplinary procedure a police officer who breached the Association of Chief Police Officers' guidance on anonymity until the point of charge for individuals accused of abuse would face. [219314]

Ms Blears: Police officers have a duty of confidentiality and information should only be divulged to third parties lawfully and in the proper course of their duties. A breach of anonymity may constitute a breach of the Police Conduct Regulations 2004 and the force concerned would be obliged to investigate the matter. Where a complaint was received from a member of the public, the complaint would normally be referred to the Independent Police Complaints Commission, who would determine how the complaint should be handled and the nature of any subsequent investigation.

It would also be for the Chief Officer or, in cases involving Chief Officers, the relevant Police Authority to determine whether the nature of any suspected breach of anonymity was sufficient to warrant an officer's suspension. Disciplinary proceedings would only be initiated at the conclusion of the investigation and the point of charge, where appropriate.

Police Constables (Probation)

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the average annual cost of (a) employing, (b) training and (c) developing a probationary police constable in the last year for which figures are available. [222670]

Ms Blears [holding answer 17 March 2005]: Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary have estimated that the average salary, training and development costs of a probationary police constable up to independent patrol (which is normally 31 weeks after joining a force) in 2003–04 were £27,048. This figure includes salary costs of £13,993 per probationary police constable for that period and training and development costs of £13,055.

Information about the associated costs for recruitment, supervision, accommodation, information technology etc. is not collated centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Police Detection Rates

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on trends in police detection rates. [220161]

Ms Blears: The Home Office reviews the performance of police forces on the basis of their sanction detection rate. The sanction detection rate is the percentage of crimes for which someone is charged, summonsed, receives a caution or other formal sanction.

The trend in police performance in sanction detections is now improving. Trends have, however, varied over the last two decades.

Between 1988 and 1996, there was a gradual decline in the sanction detection rate from 27 per cent. to 17.35 per cent. The rate then rose between 1996 and 1999 reaching 22 per cent. Since then, the rate has been affected by two changes which make comparisons more difficult to make: more stringent counting rules in relation to detections have taken place and a new National Crime Recording Standard was introduced inflating the number of offences against which the rate was calculated. The sanction detection rate fell after 1999 but then stabilised at around 19 per cent. between 2001–02 and 2003–04.

The Government have made clear their desire to raise performance in this area. It has set a goal of achieving a sanction detection rate of 25 per cent. by 2007–08. To achieve that improvement, a major drive has been under way to both raise rates and also to address unacceptable variations in detections performance between forces. This includes ensuring that forces prioritise and maximise investigative outcomes and that officers and other police staff have the best training and the right skills to improve the proportion of offences brought to justice.

Provisional data for 2004–05 indicate that improvements are now being achieved and the sanction detection rate has improved in each of the last 10 months.

Police Officers (Hours of Work)

Mr. David Marshall: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officer hours have been spent on road traffic duties in each of the last three years. [224259]

Caroline Flint: This information is not available.

Police Salaries

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average salary of (a) a newly trained police constable and (b) a community support officer is, broken down by police force. [210019]

Mr. Charles Clarke: Average salary information is not available.

The table shows the salary of a police constable on completion of initial training and the relevant regional allowance, and community support officers' salaries and allowances, as provided by forces for funding purposes for community support officers to be recruited January to March 2005.

The pay scales for police constables range from £19,803 for a newly recruited officer, rising to £31,092 for an officer with 11 year's service. Additionally, a constable who has served at the top of the pay scale for one year has access to a competence-related threshold payment of £1,032 per year.

There is no national pay scale for community support officers.

Police Stations/Cell Blocks

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list (a) all newly built police stations which have not been used and (b) all newly built police cell blocks which have not been used which are not in use due to staff resource constraints; giving the full construction cost of each. [218895]

Ms Blears: We do not keep central records of when newly built police buildings are completed or brought into use.

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the number of (a) newly built police stations and (b) newly built police cell blocks for which private finance initiative contracts were agreed and which do not meet the Home Office guidelines. [218896]

Ms Blears: As far as I am aware there are no newly built police stations or cell blocks for which private finance initiative (PFI) contracts were agreed and which do not meet the principles of the Home Office guidelines that were in operation at the time contracts were let.

Prevention of Terrorism Bill

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what provisions of the Prevention of Terrorism Bill will be subject to Sewel motions. [212318]

Mr. Charles Clarke: Terrorism is a reserved matter. A Sewel motion is not necessary in respect of any of the provisions of the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005.

Prisons

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment his Department has made of the likely effects of the programme of mothballing prison places; [218146]

(2) how many prison places have been mothballed at each (a) public and (b) privately operated prison establishment. [218150]

Paul Goggins: The National Offender Management Service (NOMS) has implemented a plan to reduce overcrowding levels in some establishments and take out of use some accommodation due for refurbishment slightly earlier than planned. Both these measures will improve prison conditions.

The prison population will be carefully monitored and the accommodation brought back into use should this be necessary.

Sexual Abuse (Historical Cases)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many and what percentage of prisoners interviewed by the police in relation to historical sex abuse cases were taken to (a) an external location and (b) a specially equipped suite for their interview in each of the last five years; [218790]

(2) how many and what percentage of prisoners interviewed by the police in relation to historical sex abuse cases were taken to (a) an external location and (b) a specially equipped suite for their interview in each of the last five years. [210004]

Ms Blears: This information is not available.

Special Constables (Cheshire)

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many special constables there were in Cheshire in (a) 1997 and (b) 2005. [224233]

Ms Blears: At 31 March 1997 there were 475 special constables in Cheshire. Figures for 2005 are not yet available.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce robbery in the 10 Street Crime Initiative areas by 14 per cent. from 1999–2000 levels by 2005 will be met. [219103]

Ms Blears: Performance against the Home Office targets is published in the Annual Report and the Autumn Performance Report available in the Library and on the Home Office website (www.homeoffice.gov.uk).

Terrorist Suspects (False Identity)

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will publish the information he has received on the use of false identities by terrorist suspects. [216004]

Mr. Charles Clarke: The Home Office receives information from a variety of sources on the use of false identities by terrorists and those suspected of terrorism. Due to the nature of the information much of it is classified and cannot be published.

Transport Staff (Assaults)

Mr. Yeo: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many violent attacks against (a) London Underground staff, (b) staff employed on the railways, (c) traffic police, (d) traffic wardens, (e) British Transport Police and (f) bus drivers there have been in each year since 1990. [220642]

Ms Blears: The only information which is collected centrally by the Home Office relates to assaults on traffic wardens in England and Wales and is only available for the last two financial years. In 2002–03, there were two recorded assaults resulting in serious injury and 63 recorded assaults resulting in minor or no injury. In 2003–04, there were 21 assaults resulting in minor or no injury.

The British Transport Police publish limited statistics on the number of officers and staff who are assaulted. The latest figures are contained in 'Statistical Bulletin 2003–04' which is available on their website at:

http://www.btp.police.uk/publications.htm

Vehicle Immobilisation (Licensing)

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what action he has taken in response to the Security Industry Authority's request to postpone the 20 March 2006 implementation date for vehicle immobilisation personnel licensing. [222343]

Ms Blears [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The original implementation date for vehicle immobilisers on private land to be licensed by the Security Industry Authority was 28 February 2005. Due to problems with a training provider confirming qualification details, this offence date has been deferred until 3 May 2005. This will to allow individuals sufficient time to comply with the regulations.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Africa

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will list the projects in Africa (a) initiated, (b) fully funded, (c) partly funded and (d) run by his Department aimed at the diversification of the economies of African countries, with particular reference to Malawi; and if he will make a statement. [224583]

Hilary Benn: It would incur a disproportionate cost to approach all country offices, to identify and list all projects in Africa directly or indirectly funded by DFID to support economic diversification.

DFID's general approach to promoting economic growth covers: creating and maintaining a conducive investment environment for all types of businesses—large and small, foreign and domestic, urban and rural; promoting trade and business linkages; providing broad access to assets and markets, especially for poor people and reducing insecurity and vulnerability, for instance through social protection schemes. Many DFID programmes in African countries incorporate projects which address one or more of these and therefore contribute to diversifying economic activity.

In the case of Malawi, the greatest impediment to economic diversification and growth in recent years has been macroeconomic instability and the very high interest rates resulting from the previous Government's poor economic management. This led to a collapse in investment. Economic management has improved markedly since the May 2004 elections. In recognition of this, DFID is providing poverty reduction budget support (£15 million in 2004–05) to the new Government to enable it to stabilise the economy and bring interest rates down while continuing to provide essential services. There has been encouraging progress since the elections and there are good prospects for a new International Monetary Fund programme during 2005.

In addition to budget support, DFID supported several specific growth-related projects in Malawi. These include the Financial Services Project, which is jointly funded, by DFID (£3 million) and the US Agency for International Development (US$2.1 million). It uses the Opportunity International Bank of Malawi to expand financial services to poor Malawians and small and medium-sized enterprises. Another financial services project is run by Concern Universal, and aims to develop methods of providing loans to poor Malawians on a fully sustainable basis. The project works only in rural Malawi, and seeks to support micro and small enterprises, and to provide new opportunities for trading and agro-processing businesses. DFID is also fully funding the reconstruction of the Rivirivi railway bridge, which was washed away by floods in 2003. This will facilitate the resumption of rail services between Lilongwe and Nacala port in Mozambique, providing a major boost to economic diversification.

Darfur

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will make a statement on the food situation in Darfur. [224345]

Hilary Benn: The food security situation in Darfur is precarious. Of immediate concern are the increasing signs of food shortages among the general population, expected after the failure of the 2004 harvest season.

In February 2005 the World Food Programme (WFP) distributed food for 1.6 million beneficiaries from a target of 2 million in Darfur (80 per cent.). The shortfall was due to security, access and logistics difficulties, though it is a significant improvement on the January distribution figures of 1.2 million from a 1.8 million target (66 per cent.).

Nutrition levels continue to be a concern across Darfur and the picture is mixed. According to UNICEF there is growing evidence that the nutritional situation in select parts of Darfur is improving. The agency stated that admissions to therapeutic feeding centres have stabilised and decreased in most locations, indicating a potential decrease in the global acute malnutrition rate. However, in South Darfur, feeding centres run by Action Contra la Faim and Medicines Sans Frontiers (MSF) in Kalma Camp are operating at maximum capacity and the WFP has advised its partners to continue blanket supplementary feeding to improve children's nutrition. Meanwhile, World Vision continues to report high admission rates in Mershing, Manawashi and Duma feeding centres. In North Darfur an MSF rapid health and nutrition assessment of 330 children in Dali camp indicated that 10.7 per cent. were moderately malnourished and 0.9 per cent. severely malnourished.

The UN is beginning to pre-position food stocks ready for the rainy season. Jan Pronk, the UN Secretary General's Special Representative to Sudan, has commented that although humanitarian access is still only 75 per cent., for the first time the humanitarian situation appears containable.

Guinea

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much (a) financial and (b) logistical aid his Department (i) has provided to Guinea in each year since 1997 and (ii) is planning to provide to Guinea in financial year 2005–06 with the specific aim of reforming, widening and strengthening the education system in Guinea. [224581]

Hilary Benn: The UK does not have a bilateral development programme with Guinea but the Department for International Development has provided the following assistance since 1997 (final figures for 2004–05 are not yet available):

Aid type	1997–98	1998–99	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Heavily indebted Poor Countries (HIPC) Debt Relief	—	—	—	—	12	14	15
Humanitarian Assistance	134	54	30	500	—	1,250	1,500
Small Grants Scheme and Joint Funding Scheme	6	20	91	69	32	61	70
Total	141	74	122	569	44	1,325	1,585

None of this support had the specific aim of reforming, widening and strengthening the education system.

The United Kingdom also provides substantial assistance through the European Union's aid programmes:

£ million

	Total EC assistance	Attributed UK share
1997	23.24	3.3
1998	30.07	4.5
1999	25.77	3.4
2000	10.29	2.3
2001	9.95	1.7
2002	28.10	3.4
2003	28.18	n/a

We have no plans to provide funding to the education sector in Guinea during 2005–06.

World Bank

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what discussions he had with the United States Administration on the proposed nomination by President Bush of Mr. Paul Wolfowitz for the post of President of the World Bank; and what the Government's policy on the nomination of Mr. Wolfowitz to this post is. [223578]

Hilary Benn: Following the nomination of Paul Wolfowitz for President of the World Bank I discussed with Mr. Wolfowitz the work the Bank is doing in reducing international poverty, and to hear his own views on the future of the Bank. I also attended a meeting organised by the Luxembourg EU Presidency at which Mr. Wolfowitz spoke. Subsequently, the UK, along with all other World Bank members, supported Mr. Wolfowitz's appointment at a meeting of the World Bank Board on 31 March. Following his appointment, the UK and other European Executive Directors issued a statement, a copy of which has been placed in the both Libraries of the House.

I look forward to working with Mr. Paul Wolfowitz in the fight against world poverty and to secure more and better aid, multilateral debt relief and a fairer world trade system.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Antrim Hospital

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to increase (a) ward and (b) bed numbers at Antrim hospital. [224094]

Angela Smith: In July 2004 a new 10-bed short stay ward for patients requiring observation or short-term treatment was opened at Antrim Area hospital.

In addition, under the Reform and Re-investment initiative, funding has been made available for the construction of an additional 24-bed ward that is expected to open towards the end of 2005.

Further expansion of Antrim Area hospital is being considered in the context of the implementation of "Developing Better Services", and the United Hospitals Trust and the Northern Health and Social Services Board are currently developing a detailed business case in this regard.

Asbestos (Schools)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how (a) the funding made available by the Department of Education in 2003–04 to enable Education and Library Boards to survey all schools and prepare for the introduction of the new asbestos regulations and (b) the funding which the Department of Education allocated in 2004–05 towards the removal, decontamination work or repair and remedial work for the same purpose where it is necessary was distributed. [212326]

Mr. Gardiner: The following table shows the distribution of recurrent funding to each Education and Library Board in 2003–04 to enable them to survey all schools and prepare for the introduction of the new asbestos regulations, and in 2004–05 towards the removal, decontamination work or repair/remedial work, where necessary.

Recurrent allocations

	2003–04	2004–05
BELB	894	760
WELB	884	760
NEELB	863	738
SEELB	800	686
SELB	971	822
Total	4,412	3,766

The apportionment of funding between individual Boards was allocated on the basis of a joint business case submitted by the Boards. The factors that determined the level of funding to each Board were the area of the estate, staffing costs and the number of schools.

Attention Deficit Disorder

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what resources have been allocated in the 2004–05 financial year to support research into attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder in Northern Ireland. [223990]

Angela Smith: The Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety has not allocated any specific resources in the 2004–05 financial year for research into attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder. However, grant support of £25,000 has been awarded to the Northern Ireland Attention Deficit Disorder Support Centre in each of the last three financial years.

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) what resources have been allocated to fund the Northern Ireland Attention Deficit and Hyperactivity Disorder Support Centre; [223991]

(2) if he will ensure that sufficient resources are in place to safeguard the future of the Northern Ireland Attention Deficit and Hyperactivity Disorder Support Centre. [223993]

Angela Smith: The Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety assisted the Northern Ireland Attention Deficit and Hyperactivity Disorder Support Centre through a three year project grant of £25,000 per annum to help develop a support centre. This funding will end on 31 March 2005. An application for further funding will be considered by the Department in the near future.

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what strategy he has in place to support sufferers of attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder and their families. [223992]

Angela Smith: Policy and services for children with attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder are currently being examined under the Review of Mental Health and Learning Disability (Northern Ireland). The Review will recommend what future service development will be required.

Civil Service Property

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many items of civil service property within his Department are unaccounted for, broken down by type. [205577]

Mr. Paul Murphy: None as all items of civil service property within the Northern Ireland Office are accounted for in the Resource Accounts on an annual basis.

Cognitive Behavioural Therapy

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) what the (a) average and (b) longest waiting time (i) for an initial assessment regarding and (ii) from assessment to commencing cognitive behavioural therapy was in each health board area for the latest period for which figures are available; [215361]

(2) what the current (a) average and (b) longest waiting time (i) for an initial assessment regarding and (ii) from assessment to commencing cognitive behavioural therapy is in each health board area. [212166]

Angela Smith: Information on cognitive behavioural therapy is not collected centrally and is not available by health board area.

Community and Voluntary Sector Grants

Mr. McGrady: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been spent in each of the last three years in Government grants to the community and voluntary sector in Northern Ireland. [217673]

Mr. Spellar: Information on grants to the voluntary and community sector by government departments across all regions of the UK is collated by the Research, Development and Statistics Directorate of the Home Office on an annual basis. In total £147,451,863 was provided during 2001–02. This information is reproduced and analysis provided in a published report, 'Central Government Funding of Voluntary and Community Organisations 1982–83 to 2001–02', available from the Communications Development Unit of the Home Office. This includes details of grants made by Northern Ireland Departments.

Details of grants made during 2002–03 will be published shortly and will show that a total of £167,947,995 was provided.

Currently the exercise to capture information for the period 2003–04 is under way and final figures will be available later in the year. At the moment indications are that in excess of £183 million was provided to the voluntary and community sector.

Correspondence

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when the Environment and Heritage Service will answer the letter of 10 December 2004 from the hon. Member for North Down in relation to the restoration of Rosebank House in Donaghadee. [215188]

Angela Smith: The Environment and Heritage Service (EHS) replied to the hon. Member for North Down's letter of 10 December 2004 on 7 February 2005. I understand that EHS acknowledged the hon. Lady's letter on 5 January.

Criminal Offences

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will list the criminal offences created in legislation sponsored by his Department in the (a) 2002–03 and (b) 2003–04 Session, broken down by Act. [206872]

Article 4(7) and (8); Article 5(14); Article 6 (15); Article 8 (3) of the Dangerous Wild Animals (NI) Order 2004 (2004 /1993 (N.I.16))

(a) Keeping a dangerous wild animal without a licence.

(b) Contravention of or failure to comply with any condition of a licence.

(c) Obstructing any person carrying out an inspection or exercising a power of seizure authorised by the Department.

(d) Transferring ownership of a dangerous wild animal to any person who is not the holder of a valid licence.

Department of Social Development

"Article 8 of the Licensing (Indoor Arenas) (NI) Order 2004 93004/1994 (N.I.17))—which amends the Licensing (NI) Order 1996 (1996/3158)(N.I22)) to include a new offence

Selling or making available for purchase intoxicating liquor in indoor arenas, except as specified.

Articles 8 and 10 of the Betting and Gaming (NI) Order 2004 (2004/310 (N.I.1)), insofar as they extend the offences provisions in Article 108 of the Betting, Gaming, Lotteries and Amusements (NI) Order 1985 (1985/1204 (N.I.11)) to licensed bookmakers.

Contravention, by licensed bookmakers, of provisions relating to the use of gaming machines".

Crosshill Quarry

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the source was of the asbestos which was recently discovered in soil and water tests at Crosshill Quarry, Crumlin, County Antrim. [221617]

Angela Smith: In the recent soil survey of the Crossbill Quarry site no asbestos fibres were detected in 38 out of 40 samples. Of the other two, only chrysotile (white asbestos) fibres were detected. These fibres are of a type used in insulation materials such as heating pipes, calorifers, hot water tanks and cavity walls.

The analysis of water samples collected by my Department's staff recently from, and in the vicinity of, the Crossbill Quarry site were analysed for the presence of asbestos by Brunel University, Uxbridge. The analysis determined that there were amphibole asbestos fibres present. Amphibole is the generic term used to describe five different types of asbestos fibres (excluding chrysotile) and would not be uncommon in landfill sites used for the disposal of builders' rubble. The levels of asbestos fibres in the water were considerably less than the limit set by the USA Environmental Protection Agency for drinking water.

However, while the fibre types have been identified in both the soil and water samples, it is not possible to be conclusive about the exact source of the asbestos in these samples.

Damage to Commercial Property

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to introduce measures to allow the owners of commercial property to claim compensation from the Northern Ireland Office in the case of damage caused by three or more people or by a proscribed organisation. [211901]

Mr. Paul Murphy: None, such claims are already covered by the Criminal Damages (Compensation) (NI) Order 1977.

Dentists

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what incentives he has considered to encourage dentists in the Province to work within the NHS. [215368]

Angela Smith: I refer the hon. Lady to the answer I gave on 1 February 2005, Official Report, column 874W.

Diabetes

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the (a) implementation of and (b) operational plans for emotional and psychological support for diabetes sufferers within each health board area. [223662]

Angela Smith: Each of the Health and Social Services Boards have recognised the need to increase the level of emotional and psychological support for diabetes sufferers in their local implementation plans and are taking steps to address gaps in service provision. While such support may be provided by various professionals, it is recognised that clinical psychologists have a key role. However, there is currently a limited availability of trained psychologists and the Regional Diabetes Steering Group will consider how this issue can be addressed.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the policies within each health board area for engaging with local diabetes services advisory groups; and what plans there are to enhance these relationships. [223663]

Angela Smith: Each of the Health and Social Services Boards has local diabetes advisory groups in place. The groups are multi-disciplinary, with representation from a range of health professionals who provide services for people with diabetes, representatives from voluntary and community groups, local service users and parents of children with diabetes.

All of these advisory groups are closely linked to the commissioning team that is responsible for the development of services for people with diabetes in each board. Continued engagement between the boards and their advisory groups will be an essential element in the process of improving the services available for diabetes sufferers in Northern Ireland.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on (a) implementation of and (b) operational plans for user participation for diabetes sufferers within each health board area. [223664]

Angela Smith: Each of the health and social services boards has local diabetes advisory groups in place. These groups are closely involved in the development of services for people with diabetes. Service users and the parents of children with diabetes are represented on all of the groups.

Eating Disorders

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when specialist eating disorders teams will be operational within each board area in the Province. [215372]

Angela Smith: I refer the hon. Lady to the reply I gave on 1 February 2005, Official Report, column 875W.

Enhanced Prescribing

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what (a) consultation and (b) equality impact assessment was conducted before the directive was issued to community pharmacies that enhanced prescribing would no longer be paid for from October 2004. [223675]

Angela Smith: The Pharmaceutical Contractors' Committee and the General Practice Committee of the BMA (NI) were consulted about the clarification, effective from 1 October 2004, of the rules in the NI Drug Tariff under which it is appropriate for pharmacists to be paid Multiple Dispensing fees.

As this was a clarification of existing policy, and not a change in policy, a formal equality impact assessment was not considered necessary. No action has been taken to limit instalment prescribing of medications to patients—that remains a clinical decision for the GP (or other qualified prescriber) based upon the patient's condition.

Fertility Treatment

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans there are to institute a tendering process for the provision of NHS fertility treatment within the private sector in the Province. [223672]

Angela Smith: The commissioning of specific health and social care services in Northern Ireland, including publicly funded fertility services, is a matter for the Health and Social Services Boards. In their capacity as commissioners, Boards may decide to test the provision of services against private sector providers, although they are not compelled to do so. It is only when a decision is made to test the market that procurement requirements apply and the tendering process is initiated.

In the case of fertility services boards have not decided to test the market, but to jointly commission publicly funded fertility treatments from the Regional Fertility Centre at the Royal Group of hospitals.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many (a) NHS and (b) private treatment cycles have been provided at the Regional Fertility Centre in each of the last three years. [223673]

Angela Smith: The Regional Fertility Centre provided the following information for each of the last three financial years as shown in the following tables.

Financial year	(a) Number of NHS cycles provided
2002–03	312
2003–04	562
2004–05[1]	482

Financial year	(b) Number of private cycles provided
2002–03	182
2003–04	553
2004–05[1]	454

[1] Data for 2004–2005 represents the period 1 April 2004 to 24 March 2005.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when he expects the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety to publish its response to the public consultation, From People to Parents, on fertility services in the Province. [223674]

Angela Smith: I hope to be in a position to announce proposals for the way forward in the near future.

Fishing

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what compensation has been offered to date to fishermen in Northern Ireland who have been required to tie up in accordance with recent restrictions imposed on days at sea. [220755]

Mr. Pearson: A second Transitional Aid Scheme was launched on 24 February 2005. A total of 16 vessels have submitted application forms for entry to the Scheme. These are currently being assessed and it is envisaged that Fisheries Division will be making payments for the first claim period during week commencing 14 March 2005.

Full-time Reserve

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assistance is being provided to former members of the full-time reserve for re-training and re-employment. [206118]

Mr. Pearson: Retired officers of the RUC/PSNI Reserve have full access to the services of the Police Rehabilitation and Retraining Trust. The trust is publicly funded and was established to assist officers (regular or reserve) in achieving a successful transition on leaving the police service. The services provided by the trust include personal and careers advice and guidance, psychological and physical therapies and services, education, training and employment support. Grant funding is also provided in support of appropriate training courses. Further details of trust services may be found on their website at www.prrt.org.

Grammar Schools

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the latest figures for enrolment at grammar schools in the Province are; and what they were in 2002–03. [213092]

Mr. Gardiner: I would refer the hon. Gentleman to the reply I gave to the hon. Lady, the Member for Strangford, on 25 January 2005, Official Report, column 304W.

Health Care Administration

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when he expects to announce plans for the restructuring of health care administration in the Province. [223671]

Angela Smith: The final consultation paper from the Review of Public Administration, which was launched on Tuesday 22 March 2005, included a chapter setting out firm proposals for new Health and Personal Social Services management structures. Decisions on these proposals will not be taken until the RPA consultation process is complete. The consultation period will end on the 30 September 2005.

Hepatitis C

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many individuals in the Province (a) have received and (b) are receiving Pegylated Interferon therapy to treat Hepatitis C. [212191]

Angela Smith: At 31 January 2005, there were 30 patients who have received Pegylated Interferon injections as part of a combination therapy for treating Hepatitis C. Of these, 24 are still currently receiving treatment at the Liver Clinic within the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Human Rights Commission

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what procedures will be followed in replacing the outgoing chief executive of the Human Rights Commission; and if he will make a statement. [221949]

Mr. Spellar: The chief executive of the Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission has not indicated an intention to leave the post.

Infection Control

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans there are to develop a strategy for infection control and prevention in the Province. [223676]

Angela Smith: The Department is currently developing a strategy for the prevention and control of health care associated infections (HCAI). A report is expected to issue for consultation in June 2005.

Legionnaire's

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what progress has been made with identifying the source of the recent outbreak of Legionnaire's disease in the North Down area; and if he will make a statement. [224224]

Mr. Gardiner: The Health and Safety Executive for Northern Ireland is satisfied that it has identified the source of the recent outbreak of Legionnaires' disease in the North Down area as being a cooling tower in a local manufacturing unit. Appropriate remedial action has been taken.

Lough Erne (Fish Stocks)

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what different species of fish the Department of Agriculture releases into Lough Erne; and what the average annual cost of stocking waterways in Fermanagh has been over the last five years. [223946]

Angela Smith: The Department of Culture, Arts and Leisure is responsible for inland fisheries matters. The Department of Agriculture does not have responsibility for this matter.

The Department stocks indigenous Lough Erne Brown Trout purchased from the Erne and Melvin Enhancement Company Hatchery directly into Lough Erne. Indigenous Lough Erne Brown Trout fry also from the Erne and Melvin Hatchery and Salmon ova, fry, pre-smolts and juvenile elvers from the Electricity Supply Board (ESB) Hatchery at Ballyshannon, Co. Donegal are stocked into the Lough Erne tributaries to help sustain and enhance fish stocks in Lough Erne and its tributaries.

There is no cost to the Department for the stocking from the ESB Hatchery at Ballyshannon as this is a compensatory measure for the impact of the hydroelectric dam located on the River Erne on migratory fish returning to the Erne system. The Department also stocks a number of Public Angling Estate 'nut and take' fisheries in Co. Fermanagh with Brown Trout and Rainbow Trout equating to a notional value in excess of £20,000 per annum.

The Brown Trout and fry purchased from the Erne and Melvin Hatchery, which commenced in 2002, equates to £41,650 per annum.

Methotrexate

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what precautions are taken in Northern Ireland against potential complications for patients on methotrexate. [223665]

Angela Smith: Methotrexate therapy is monitored routinely to minimise complications. In addition, shared care protocols are in place which support the management of patients treated with methotrexate across the primary and secondary care interface.

MRSA

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the total cost to the Health Service in Northern Ireland has been of MRSA infections in each of the last 10 years. [224159]

Angela Smith: The information requested is not available.

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many deaths in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years have been attributed to MRSA; and what guidelines are used in recording the numbers of deaths in which MRSA has been a factor. [224160]

Mr. Pearson: The numbers of deaths where Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) was mentioned on the death certificate in Northern Ireland, for the registration years 1999–2003, are given in the table as follows.

Number of deaths in Northern Ireland with MRSA mentioned on the death certificate by registration year 1999–2003

Registration year	Death certificate mentioned MRSA
1999	13
2000	14
2001	16
2002	25
2003	30
Total (1999–2003)	98

The International Classification of Diseases (ICD) is used to classify cause of death and the current version of ICD does not have a specific code for MRSA. The statistics reported in the table have been obtained by identifying all deaths with ICD codes likely to be linked with MRSA, and checking the relevant death certificates for mention of MRSA.

NHS Direct

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what progress has been made in relation to the extension of NHS Direct to Northern Ireland. [214381]

Angela Smith: In Northern Ireland each of the four Health and Social Services Boards currently operate their own daytime telephone advice line. Out-of-hours providers for which each Board is responsible deliver access to advice and services outside normal office hours. The Department is working with the four Boards to consider further development of these services on a regional basis.

NHS Recruitment

Rev. Martin Smyth: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many overseas personnel were recruited to the NHS in Northern Ireland (a) directly by the health service and (b) through recruitment agencies in each of the last three years; and what the recruitment costs were in each case. [222930]

Angela Smith: Information on the recruitment of overseas personnel to the health and personal social services is not held centrally. Health and social services trusts have supplied the following details of the number of overseas personnel recruited either directly by the trust or through recruitment agencies in each of the last three years.

	Recruited directly by trust	Recruited through agency	Recruitment method not known
2002	265	218	76
2003	352	253	78
2004	359	93	76
Total	976	564	230

Information on the costs involved in recruitment are not available.

NHS Walk-in Centres

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to introduce NHS walk-in centres in Northern Ireland. [214380]

Angela Smith: I refer the hon. Lady to my answer of 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1775W.

Parades

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what measures the chief constable of the Police Service of Northern Ireland has taken (a) to inform parade organisers that it is their responsibility to ensure the good behaviour of supporters and followers of parades and (b) to instruct his officers to have regard for the behaviour of supporters and followers, and to regard them as participants for the purposes of securing compliance with a determination of the Parades Commission. [213302]

Mr. Pearson: The information is as follows.

(a) PSNI provide a copy of the Parades Commission's code of conduct to parade organisers when they present the Parade Application Form 11/1 at a police station. The code of conduct sets out clearly that the onus is on organisers to ensure the good behaviour of supporters and followers. Police have a general order which contains guidelines on the planning process in the run up to a parade. In December 2002, an amendment was made to the general order which states that

> "police evidence to the commission will include evidence of efforts by the Police Service to work with parade organisers and/or representatives of the involved neighbourhoods in the planning process."

This has emphasised the work which police carry out in an area during the run up to a parade.

(b) PSNI take appropriate action to police Parades Commission's determinations. Where conditions have included the behaviour of supporters and followers the police take account of these.

Pre-school Children (Child Care)

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the average cost of pre-school childcare in Northern Ireland was in the last period for which figures are available; and what assistance is available to working families who require nursery support. [214769]

Angela Smith: Health and Social Services Trusts provide annual data on unit costs of services through their Trust financial returns and this includes information on day nurseries, playgroups, out of school hours clubs and holiday schemes for children. The mean average cost of day attendances at day-care services provided for under-18s was £92 per day in the 2003–04 financial year. It is not, however, possible to break down the unit cost information held by the Department into particular client groups and, for that reason, the average cost of pre-school childcare provision could only be obtained at disproportionate cost.

Assistance is also available through the working families tax credit, which can provide support for families on low or middle incomes who are responsible for one or more children.

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether child care providers in Northern Ireland are required to be registered; and what estimate he has made of the number of child care providers. [214770]

Angela Smith: Child care providers are required to be registered as defined in the Children NI Order 1995. The following table provides the number of child care providers.

	Providers	Places
Day nurseries	197	7,798
Childminders	4,224	21,164
Playgroups	607	14,648
Out of School Clubs	212	4,773
Holiday schemes	73	1,403
Total	5,313	49,786

Prisons (Medical Treatment)

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the average waiting time for surgery was in 2004 for prisoners in Her Majesty's prisons in Northern Ireland who (a) had been sentenced and (b) were being held on remand. [224208]

Angela Smith: The information is not available in the form requested.

Public Disorder (Ardoyne)

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been paid by his Department in compensation claims following public disorder at Ardoyne on 12 July in each year since 2001. [216412]

Mr. Spellar: I have asked the chief executive of the Compensation Agency to write to the hon. Gentleman.

Letter from Anne McCleary to Mr. Nigel Dodds, dated 21 February 2005:

> Claims for compensation following public disorder at Ardoyne on 12 July 2001–2004
> You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question about how much had been paid in compensation claims following public disorder at Ardoyne on 12 July in each year since 2001 (216412). I have been asked to reply as the issue falls within my responsibility as Chief Executive of the Compensation Agency.
> I can advise that the available information is as follows:

	Claims under the Criminal Damage (Compensation) (Northern Ireland) Order 1977	Claims under the Criminal Injuries (Compensation) (Northern Ireland) Order 1988
2001	406,271	256,256

> The 1988 Order was replaced, on 1 May 2002, by the Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme 2002. The location of incidents recorded under this scheme is not wholly reliable as, for record keeping purposes, the Agency holds claims by the applicant's home address. The applicant is asked for a general description of the incident location which is later confirmed by the police in their report on the incident. On this basis it is not possible to determine, without disproportionate costs, claims which may arise out of incidents in Ardoyne on 12 July during 2002–2004.
> I hope that this is helpful.

School Buildings

Mr. Donaldson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what new school buildings in the Lagan Valley constituency (a) have opened in each year since 1997 (b) are under construction and (c) have been approved for funding but are not yet under construction. [204017]

Mr. Gardiner: In the Lagan Valley constituency (a) eight new school buildings have opened since 1997, namely:

	Date
Bridge Integrated Primary School	April 1998
Moira Primary School	June 1998
Riverdale Primary School	March 2000
Balmoral High School	January 2002
Ballycarrickmaddy Primary School	February 2002
Ballymacward Primary School	September 2002
Christ The Redeemer Primary School	September 2003
Meadowbridge Primary School	September 2003

(b) One new school is currently under construction, namely:

Hillsborough / Newport Primary School

(c) Six schools have been approved for funding but are not yet under construction, namely:

Ballinderry Primary School

Ballymacrickett Primary School

Brookfield Special School, Moira

East Lisburn Primary Schools (amalgamation of four existing schools)

St. Colman's Primary School, Lambeg

Dromore Central Primary School

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether the contracts signed by his special advisers differ from the Model Contract for Special Advisers. [207229]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 17 January 2005, Official Report, column 753W.

Teaching

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment his Department has made of the level of unemployment among teaching graduates in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years. [224157]

Mr. Gardiner: The most recent Claimant Count figures indicate that in February 2005 there were 482 persons claiming unemployment related benefits who stated that were seeking work as Teachers. Figures are not currently available for previous years.

Tyrone Hospital

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the reason was for the closure of the Intensive Care Unit at Tyrone County hospital; and if he will make a statement. [224171]

Angela Smith: The decision to close temporarily the critical care unit at Tyrone County hospital during the weekend of 12 and 13 March was taken as a result of staff shortages. The unit was reopened for patients requiring high dependency care on Monday 14 March.

Sperrin Lakeland Trust is currently undertaking a risk assessment that will include consideration of arrangements for the longer-term provision of critical care services.

Victims' Organisations

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what funding he has provided for victims' organisations in each year since 1998. [210026]

Angela Smith: I refer the hon. Lady to the answer of 18 January 2005, Official Report, column 891W.

Waste Licensing

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on what date waste licensing powers will be transferred from local authorities to the Environment and Heritage Service. [221615]

Angela Smith: The Waste Management Licensing Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2003 came into force on 19 December 2003. The introduction of the regulations transferred responsibility for waste regulation from the district councils to the Department of the Environment (specifically the Environment and Heritage Service). The Waste and Contaminated Land (1997) Commencement No.7 Order (Northern Ireland) 2003 came into operation on 27 November 2003. This Order repealed the waste licensing powers of the district councils.

Women's Centres

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the role of women's centres in Northern Ireland. [223353]

Mr. Spellar: The range of services provided by women's organisations is extensive and impacts primarily on disadvantaged communities. These services can be broadly broken down into three areas:

i. Core activities—community development and support to women on a range of matters.

ii. Childcare—early years provision day care.

iii. Education and training—often supported directly by child care provision, and aimed at building skills and confidence among women who have been out of education and/or the labour market for a significant time.

Short-term funding of £1.1 million has been made available to a number of women's organisations that are facing financial difficulties to enable them to continue to provide key services over the next six months period. This will allow them to continue to provide valuable services on which many people in their communities depend while alternative longer-term funding from a variety of Government Departments and agencies is considered.

HEALTH

Abortion

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many abortions were carried out in the UK in 2003–04; and how many of those were carried out between 22 and 24 weeks of pregnancy. [222982]

Miss Melanie Johnson: In 2003, there were 181,582 abortions performed in England and Wales, on residents of England and Wales, of which 1,229 (0.7 per cent.) were carried out between 22 and 24 weeks gestation.

Addictions (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what health services are provided for people addicted to (a) illegal drugs, (b) alcohol and (c) tobacco in York; and how much was spent on each of these services in (i) 1996–97 and (ii) 2004–05. [224633]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Agenda for Change

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how Agenda for Change affects interpreters working in the health service; and if he will make a statement. [224475]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Interpretation services in the national health service are provided in a variety of ways, for example, through the independent/voluntary sector, or through NHS Direct's national contract with an interpreting service provider.

Some NHS organisations do however employ their own interpreters, and in these cases, they will have the same access to Agenda for Change terms and conditions as other directly employed staff.

Alcohol-related Emergencies

Mr. Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many alcohol-related emergency cases there were in hospitals in the Tyne and Wear Strategic Health Authority in each of the last four years. [224543]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is shown in the table.

Alcohol-related emergency admissions to hospitals in the Northumberland Tyne and Wear Strategic Health Authority and predecessor bodies/national health service trusts

	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
South Tyneside Healthcare NHS Trust	535	513	479	517
City Hospitals Sunderland NHS Trust	1,093	1,329	1,504	1,683
Northgate and Prudhoe NHS Trust	—	3	5	1

Priority Healthcare Wearside NHS Trust	152	91	—	—
South of Tyne and Wearside Mental Health NHS Trust	—	—	158	195

Notes:

1. Count of finished admission episodes (alcohol related[1]), method of admission—emergency.
2. SNA of treatment (in 2002–03 and 2003–04)—Northumberland, Tyne and Wear.
3. HA of treatment (in 2000–01 and 2001–02)—Gateshead and South Tyneside, Newcastle and North Tyneside, Northumberland, Sunderland. NHS hospitals in England 2003–04.
4. The Newcastle North Tyneside and Northumbria Mental Health NHS Trust was formed on 1 April 2001 following the merger of the Newcastle City Health NHS Trust and the Northumberland Mental Health NHS Trust.
5. The South of Tyne and Wearside Mental Health NHS Trust was formed on 1 April 2002 following the closure of Priority Healthcare Wearside NHS Trust.
6. A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
7. The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002–03) diagnosis fields in the hospital episode statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.
8. As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 13 (six prior to 2002–03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care.
9. [1] ICD-10 codes = "alcohol related" as advised by NHS Information Authority clinical coding service. Counts include any of the records where the following listed codes are recorded in the primary or secondary field:

Primary diagnosis:

F10—Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol.
T51—Toxic effect of alcohol.
R78.0 Finding of alcohol in blood.

Secondary diagnosis:

F10—Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol.
T51—Toxic effect of alcohol.
X45—Alcohol poisoning and exposure to alcohol.
X65—Intentional self-poisoning by and exposure to alcohol.
Y90—Evidence of alcohol involvement determined by alcohol level.
Y91—Evidence of alcohol involvement determined by level of intoxication.
R78.0 Finding of alcohol in blood.

10. Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

Arthritis

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will estimate for the most recent year available the (a) value of national production lost and (b) number of working days lost as a result of (i) inflammatory arthritis, (ii) psoriatic arthritis and (iii) moderate to severe osteoarthritis of hands, knees and hips. [223185]

Dr. Ladyman: This information is not centrally available.

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the proportion of sufferers from (a) psoriatic arthritis and (b) osteoarthritis who are of working age. [224527]

Dr. Ladyman: We have no estimates for the number of sufferers of psoriatic arthritis and osteoarthritis who are of working age.

Bed Occupancy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2005, Official Report, column 269W, on bed occupancy, when he last received representations from healthcare professionals on the optimal level of bed occupancy; and what views were expressed. [224319]

Mr. Hutton: The Department is not aware of any representations being made by healthcare professionals on the optimum level of bed occupancy in recent years. Carrying out a detailed search to establish whether such representations were received could be done only at a disproportionate cost.

Breast Cancer (Wimbledon)

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what percentage of women in Wimbledon with suspected breast cancer saw a specialist within two weeks of referral in each of the last five years. [224248]

Dr. Ladyman: The table shows how many and what percentage of women with suspected breast cancer saw a specialist within two weeks, following urgent general practitioner referral received within 24 hours, in each of the last four years by south west London national health service trusts. Since June 2004, the data source is the cancer waiting times database. Prior to this, the data source was the Department's quarterly QMCW Korner return.

Cancer Services

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent on cancer services in (a) Leicester South and (b) England in each year since 1997. [224283]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested is not held centrally. The complex nature of the delivery of cancer services means that we are unable to accurately monitor expenditure. It is for primary care trusts in partnership with strategic health authorities and other local stakeholders to determine how best to use their funds locally to meet national priorities for cancer services.

Care Homes (Medication)

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Commission for Social Care Inspection will publish its report on the use of medication in care homes following up on the report of the National Care Standards Commission. [224537]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The Chair of the Commission for Social Care Inspection has advised that a report on the use of medication in care homes is due for publication in December 2005.

Children's National Service Framework

Mr. Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how he plans to support primary care trusts in conducting regular audits and reviews of local children's health services. [223849]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department has set out a framework for the national health service for continuous improvement in the overall quality of care people receive, including children, in "Standards for Better Health". Underpinning this is clinical governance, including clinical audit, which provides healthcare organisations, including primary care trusts, with a systematic means of ensuring compliance with their statutory duties. The Healthcare Commission has recently completed an extensive public consultation on a new system for assessing and performance rating NHS trusts in 2005–06 against these standards.

The national service framework for children, young people and maternity services requires each health economy to develop a managed local children's clinical network to review and meet the needs of the local population.

As set out in "National Standards, Local Action", strategic health authorities (SHAs) are responsible for developing healthcare improvement plans in their local areas and making sure that local health services, including children's services, commissioned by primary care trusts are of a high standard and are performing well.

The "Better Metrics" project offers primary care trusts a range of clinical measurements of performance for local target setting, which is available on the website of the office of the SHAs at www.osha.nhs.uk

Clean Hospitals Summit

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Department will be represented at the forthcoming Clean Hospitals Summit of the Patients Association. [224041]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department will be represented at the conference by, among others, chief executive Sir Nigel Crisp and chief nursing officer, Christine Beasley. The Department is an active partner in the summit.

Commission for Social Care Inspection

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) budget and (b) expenditure of the Commission for Social Care Inspection was in each of the last two years. [223548]

Dr. Ladyman: The Commission for Social Care Inspections became operational on 1 April 2004. The Commission for Social Care Inspection's budget for 2004–05 was £147.2 million. Subject to audited accounts, it is currently estimated that the budget will be spent in full.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what changes in inspection fees the Commission for Social Care Inspection has made since it was established. [223549]

Dr. Ladyman: The Commission for Social Care Inspection charges registration fees and annual fees, which are set by central Government. Since the commission became operational on 1 April 2004, its fees have not changed. An increase across the board of 20 per cent. will come into effect on 1 April 2005.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list the responsibilities of the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) which are not due to be merged into the Healthcare Commission in the proposals announced with the Budget; what estimate he has made of the likely change in (a) costs and (b) jobs arising from the merger; what the duties of staff employed by the CSCI are; and which duties are likely to be merged into the Healthcare Commission. [223550]

Dr. Ladyman: Subject to further review, we expect the duties of both commissions to remain in place after the merger takes effect. Those duties are as set out in the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003. The merger will allow a reduction in costs through more efficient administrative arrangements. The detailed staffing and financial implications will be considered as part of the process of planning and implementation.

Congenital Defects

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will commission research into possible clusters of congenital defects around the former British Steel ironworks at Corby. [222273]

Miss Melanie Johnson: This is a matter for the Director of Public Health at the Leicestershire, Northamptonshire and Rutland Strategic Health Authority.

Correspondence

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he will reply to the letter regarding Mrs. Faye Daniel sent to his Department on 30 April 2004 by the hon. Member for Brent, East, reference: DC/Daniel/30/04/04. [224691]

Dr. Ladyman: Officials have no record of a letter referring to Mrs. Faye Daniels, or correspondence under the reference DC/Daniel/30/04/04, arriving in the Department.

Crohn's Disease

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what action the Government have taken to combat Crohn's disease in terms of (a) treatment, (b) support for sufferers and (c) research into (i) the causes of and (ii) a possible cure for the condition. [224161]

Dr. Ladyman: The national service framework (NSF) for long-term conditions was published on 10 March. While the NSF principally focuses on services for people with neurological conditions, brain and spinal injury, it will help ensure that all people with a long-term condition are supported to live as full and independent life as possible.

Responsibility for the treatment and support for patients with Crohn's disease in England rests with primary care trusts (PCTs), which are responsible for deciding which health services the local population requires, and ensuring that these services are provided.

In May 2002, the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) issued guidance on the clinical and cost effectiveness of the drug Infliximab in the treatment of severe Crohn's disease. The national health service is statutory obliged to provide funding for treatments and drugs recommended by NICE within three months of publication of its guidance.

The Department's national research programme expenditure on projects related to Crohn's disease in the period from 1994 to 2004 was £234,000.

The cause of Crohn's disease has not yet been identified. There is no known cure for Crohn's disease at present, but treatment can control the disease in most cases.

Dementia

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions his Department has held with representatives of elderly patients suffering from dementia regarding the provision of services; and if he will make a statement on the availability of resources to assist the long-term care of those suffering from dementia. [223925]

Dr. Ladyman: The Department and its Ministers meet regularly with organisations representing the interests of those with dementia. My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State met with the Alzheimer's Society on 22 March 2005 to discuss with them the draft guidance on the use of Alzheimer's drugs, issued on 1 March 2005 for consultation by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE).

For the period 2003–04 to 2007–08, expenditure on the national health service in England will increase on average by 7.2 per cent. a year over and above inflation. We are also making available an additional £1 billion over the three years 2003–04 to 2005–06 for social services that will benefit carers and the training of support staff. As the majority users of these services, older people, including those with dementia, will particularly benefit.

Dentistry

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what financial assistance has been offered to those primary care trusts who have received Polish dentists to help cover the costs of relocation packages, the eight-week training programme and any necessary additional training. [223970]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 March 2005]: Primary care trusts are required to provide financial support, as part of the Department's central recruitment initiative to dentists from Poland, to cover the cost of relocation to England. The eight-week training programme for Polish dentists is covered in the cost of the contract with Methods, and is therefore met by the Department. £20,000 was made available by the Department to each post graduate dental deanery to provide an induction programme for Polish and other dentists following their arrival in England.

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 1976W, on dentistry, what specific expertise Methods Consulting has in recruiting dentists from overseas countries, with particular reference to Poland. [223972]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Methods Consulting are working with Paragona AB, who manage the recruitment activity in Poland. Paragona AB have extensive experience of recruitment of healthcare professionals from Poland.

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with which countries his Department has discussed recruiting dentists from; and what the value is of each contract let to Method Consulting for the recruitment of overseas dentists. [223973]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Talks have progressed on recruiting dentists from Greece, Portugal, Germany, Spain, India and Poland. The value of the contract let to Methods Consulting for the recruitment of overseas dentists was £4.1 million.

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many Polish dentists (a) have registered and (b) are waiting to register with the General Dental Council to practise as a result of primary care trusts' recruitment initiatives; and how many have commenced practising in England. [223974]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Since accession to the European Union in May, a total of 224 dentists from Poland had registered with the General Dental Council (GDC) to the end of February 2005. Information is not held about the number of these who may have responded to primary care trusts' local recruitment.

As a result of the Department's central recruitment initiative in Poland, 69 Polish dentists have registered with the GDC and none are currently waiting to register. 28 dentists have started practising in January. The remaining 41 dentists are commencing practise between 14 March and 4 April.

Mr. Best: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to improve access to NHS dentistry in Leeds, North-West. [222880]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Leeds North West Primary Care Trust (PCT) has received £96,000 capital funding, which is being utilised through the PCTs dental incentive scheme, to ensure that the commitment of local dentists to the national health service is maintained. This funding will also support general dental practitioners in ensuring patient safety and improving practice premises.

A further £42,000 revenue funding has been received by the Leeds North West PCT, which will provide three extra NHS dental sessions a week. In addition, the PCT is currently implementing an access scheme to provide urgent and routine treatment sessions for non-registered NHS patients in the area.

By April 2005, Leeds North West PCT will have six general dental practices working under personal dental services (PDS) arrangements. These practices have successfully secured an additional £221,000 to increase the work force, benefiting an additional 1,355 new patients and enabling the re-registration of approximately 2,500 NHS patients.

Leeds North West PCT is currently being supported through the West Yorkshire work force confederation to participate in the tranche four of the international dental recruitment campaign co-ordinated by the Department.

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentists have been recruited via his Department's International Recruitment Scheme since the beginning of 2004; how many are working in the south-west; how long each has been at work and where; and whether each (a) recruit from an EU member state and (b) partner of such a recruit is eligible for state benefits, with particular reference to maternity benefits. [223841]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 24 March 2005]: 69 dentists have been recruited from Poland via the Department's international recruitment scheme. 17 of these have been working in Devon or Cornwall since January 2005. They are located in Camborne, Liskeard, Paignton, Exeter (all two each) and Falmouth, Cullompton, Exmouth, Seaton, St. Budeaux, South Brent, Constantine, Plymouth, Torquay (all one each).

Dentists are eligible for maternity, paternity and adoptive leave payments as part of the general dentists service (GDS) system of remuneration. This includes dentists from European Union member states if they satisfy the conditions of maternity pay in the GDS.

There are two maternity benefits in the United Kingdom: statutory maternity pay (SMP) from a woman's employer or maternity allowance from the state. A woman from a country that is a member of the EU may receive statutory maternity pay from her employer if she satisfies the qualifying conditions. Further details are available at:

http://www.dwp.gov.uk/publications/dwp/2003/gl28_dec.pdf

and at:

http://www.dwp.gov.uk/publications/dwp/2004/bc1_oct04.pdf

If she is not eligible for SMP, she may be eligible for maternity allowance if she has worked in the United Kingdom for at least a week earning 30 a week, and is able to use her work or insurance record in another EU state to help her qualify.

Departmental Policies

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Ribble Valley and Fulwood constituency, the effects on the constituency of changes to his Department's policies since 1997. [222100]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 15 March 2005]: The Government have put in place a programme of national health service investment and reform since 1997 to improve service delivery in all parts of the United Kingdom. There is significant evidence that these policies have yielded considerable benefits for the Ribble Valley and Fulwood constituency.

For example:

At the end of December 2004, the total number of people waiting more than nine months for inpatient treatment within Hyndburn and Ribble Valley primary care trust (PCT) and Preston PCT has fallen to zero, from 412 in June 2002.

At the end of December 2004, the total number of patients waiting over 13 weeks for outpatient treatment within Hyndburn and Ribble Valley PCT and Preston PCT has fallen to 368, from 1,175 in June 2002.

In June 2003, at Lancashire teaching hospitals NHS trust, 92.5 per cent., of patients spent less than four hours in Accident and Emergency (A&E) from arrival to admission, transfer or discharge. Figures for September 2004 show an improvement to 97.6 per cent.

Between September 2002 and June 2004, the number of consultants at Lancashire teaching hospitals NHS trust has increased from 167 to 170. Between September 2002 and September 2003, the number of nurses has increased from 1,915 to 1,928.

Between September 2001 and June 2004, the number of general practitioners (GPs) within Hyndbum and Ribble Valley PCT and Preston PCT has increased from 152 to 165.

Figures for December 2004 show that all patients within Hyndbum and Ribble Valley PCT and Preston PCT are able to be offered an appointment with a GP within two working days and a primary care professional within one working day.

100 per cent, of urgent GP referrals to Lancashire teaching hospitals NHS trust, with suspected cancer, are seen by a specialist within two weeks of the referral.

In the Ribble Valley local authority area, the death rate from cancer per 100,000 population was 163 in 2003 compared to 197 in 1997. For Preston, the rate in 2003 was 181, compared to 190 in 1997.

In the Ribble Valley local authority area, the death rate from coronary heart disease per 100,000 population was 131 in 2003 compared to 164 in 1997. For Preston, the rate in 2003 was 142, compared to 176 in 1997.

A new multi-million pound flagship education centre has been opened at the Royal Preston hospital.

A new £700,000 dermatology and diabetes centre opened in April 2003 at Chorley and South Ribble hospital.

The latest phase of modernisation of Burnley General hospital will include 170 in-patient medical beds, an acute rehabilitation suite and a 15 station renal satellite dialysis unit.

The £110 million private finance initiative development project at Queens Park hospital in Blackburn is scheduled for completion in summer 2006. It involves the rationalisation of services from two sites on to one. The benefits of this include the provision of an integrated children's unit, as well as A&E and medical beds on the same site, thus eliminating patient transfers between the two sites.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to Wimbledon constituency, the effects of changes to departmental policy since 1997 on Wimbledon constituency. [224296]

Dr. Ladyman: The Government have put in place a programme of national health service investment and reform since 1997 to improve service delivery in all parts of the United Kingdom. There is significant evidence that these policies have yielded considerable benefits for the Wimbledon constituency. For example:

Currently, within Sutton and Merton Primary Care Trust (PCT), no one is waiting more than nine months for inpatient treatment. This is down from 603 in June 2002.

At the end of December 2004, the number of patients waiting over 13 weeks for outpatient treatment within Sutton and Merton PCT was 265; from 586 in June 2002. No one was waiting over 17 weeks for first outpatient appointment.

100 per cent. of people are getting access to their general practitioner within two working days in the Sutton and Merton PCT area. This is an improvement on 82.4 per cent. in June 2002 for people wanting an appointment with their GP.

In June 2003, at Epsom and St. Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust, 85.4 per cent. of patients spent less than four hours in accident and emergency from arrival to admission, transfer, or discharge. Figures for December 2004 show an improvement to 95.3 per cent.

In the South West London Strategic Health Authority (SHA) area, death rates from cancer per 100,000 population have fallen to 172.7 in 2003; from 197.9 in 1997.

In the South West London SHA area, death rates from coronary heart disease per 100,000 population have fallen to 101.9 in 2003; from 130.6 in 1997.

In the borough of Merton, death rates from cancer per 100,000 population have fallen to 170.8 in 2003; from 197.5 in 1997.

In the borough of Merton, death rates from coronary heart disease per 100,000 population have fallen to 99.7 in 2003; from 129.7 in 1997.

Between September 1999 and September 2004, the number of consultants at Epsom and St. Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust has increased from 157 to 200.

Latest figures, as at September 2004, show that there are 64 more GPs in the Sutton and Merton PCT area now than there were in September 2001.

Latest figures, for September 2004, show that there are currently 165 dentists in the Sutton and Merton PCT area.

Over the period 2003 to 2006, Sutton and Merton PCT received an overall increase in allocation of £87.5 million and for 2006 to 2008, an overall increase of £72.1 million.

Better healthcare closer to home is the strategy from the health and social care organisations in Merton, Sutton and Mid Surrey to modernise and improve upon local health service.

Since 2002, the trust has appointed 13 modern matrons, resulting in huge improvements in all aspects of care across the trust.

A replacement computed tomography scanner was delivered to Epsom General Hospital in January 2002.

Diabetes

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his estimate is of the reported incidence of diabetes in Camden and Islington in each year since 1997. [224529]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 4 April 2005]: I regret that this information is not available in the form requested.

Direct Payments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what publicity he has funded to encourage the uptake of direct payments; and what funding was made available in each case. [224275]

Dr. Ladyman: We have produced a range of user-friendly information including, "A guide to receiving direct payments from your local council", which will also be available in Braille and audio formats. In association with the Council for Disabled Children, we have also produced "A Parents' Guide to Direct Payments" for parents with disabled children.

We have produced an easy guide to direct payments to encourage people with learning disabilities to consider the option of direct payments.

We have also produced a video targeted at people from black and ethnic minority communities who want to access direct payments. a video targeting older people is also being produced by Age Concern.

Local councils should supplement this with local appropriate information.

We also provide funding to the National Centre for Independent Living, which provides information and advice about direct payments and independent living to individuals, local councils and voluntary organisations.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total value of direct payments made by local authorities to individuals has been in each year since 1997, broken down by local authority. [224276]

Dr. Ladyman: Data on expenditure by local authorities on direct payments for 1997–98 is not available centrally. Data showing gross expenditure on direct payments, as reported by local authorities in England for the period 1998–99 to 2003–04, has been placed in the Library.

Drugs

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many residential drug rehabilitation places are available in Portsmouth and South East Hampshire. [221167]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information is not held centrally.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have used NHS services to treat (a) addiction to and (b) the adverse effects of (i) heroin, (ii) crack cocaine, (iii) cocaine, (iv) ecstasy, (v) cannabis, (vi) alcohol, (vii) solvents and (viii) prescription drugs in each of the last five years. [222640]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Data on numbers in treatment by drug misuse is not available. The National Treatment Agency for Substance Misuse will publish information in the spring on numbers in treatment by drug misuse in England for 2003–04, from the national drug treatment monitoring system. Data on drug treatment may include non-national health service providers.

Data on numbers in treatment for alcohol misuse is not available.

Food Labelling

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many prosecutions have been initiated in each of the last five years for labelling of food content which was deliberately misleading; and what percentage of those prosecutions related to the salt content. [223843]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Information is not held centrally on the number of prosecutions for labelling of food offences which were deliberately misleading, or which related to salt content.

In line with the requirements of the European Union's Official Control Directive (OCD) 89/397, the data on prosecutions collected from local authorities by the Food Standards Agency (FSA) is reported under seven generic headings, one of which is "labelling and presentation". In accordance with the relevant European Union guidance, each type of enforcement action is only recorded once per premises per year.

The FSA currently holds information for the five years covering the period 1999 to 2003. The numbers of premises subject to prosecutions initiated in the United Kingdom under the heading of "labelling and presentation" during the years 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003 are shown in the table.

	Number of establishments subject to prosecution	Percentage of all prosecutions initiated
1999	284	26
2000	224	30
2001	150	23
2002	161	20
2003	193	22

General Practitioner Surgeries (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many general practitioner surgeries in York have been (a) newly built and (b) modernised since 1997. [224632]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Health Promotion

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 7 December 2004, Official

Report, column 504W, on Health Promotion, where the first wave of pilots to promote health and wellbeing through the workplace will be situated; when the pilots will commence; and what funding he is providing to the pilots. [224323]

Miss Melanie Johnson: "Workplace Health", which is aimed at improving health and well-being in the workplace, is a two-year, £1.4 million programme managed by the British Heart Foundation and funded by Sport England, the Big Lottery Fund and the Department with a workplace pilot based in each of the nine regions in England.

Each pilot is being delivered by a regional partnership with representation from primary care trusts, local government, business forums and industry. The first and second waves of pilots will commence in summer 2005.

Health White Paper

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 6 December 2004, Official Report, column 355W, on Health White Paper, what the timeframe is for developing the National Health Competency Framework; whether all Staff will be covered by the Framework; and if he will make a statement. [224321]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The "Skills for Health" (SfH) strategic plan 2004–09 sets out plans to achieve in excess of 95 per cent. coverage of the United Kingdom health sector work force in terms of competence frameworks, including national occupational standards.

The Department has a service level agreement in place with SfH to support the continuing development and maintenance of competences in the health sector.

HIV

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many new cases of HIV were diagnosed in the UK in each year since 2001; what percentage of new cases were African migrants coming to the UK from (a) former British colonies and (b) elsewhere; and what estimate he has made of the number of African people living in the UK who have undiagnosed HIV. [223842]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Information about new HIV diagnoses and HIV prevalence estimates is contained in the Health Protection Agency's (HPA) report "Focus on prevention: HIV and other sexually transmitted infections in the United Kingdom in 2003—an update: November 2004 and AIDS/HIV quarterly surveillance table: cumulative UK data to end December 2004". These documents are available on the HPA's website at:

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hiv_and_sti/publications/annual2004/annual2004.htm

and at:

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hiv_andsti/hiv/epidemiology/files/quarterly.pdf

Hospital-acquired Infection

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department is taking to communicate the results of the Regional Review Panel in relation to hospital-acquired infection; [216929]

(2) what steps he is taking to communicate level 1 and 2 recommendations of the Rapid Review Panel to NHS trusts. [217865]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Recommendations from the rapid review panel have been widely publicised. The most recent reports were announced in the Medical Director's Bulletin. Future reports will also be announced via the Chief Executive's Bulletin.

Interpreters

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many interpreters are employed in the NHS; what their roles are; and if he will make a statement. [224474]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Interpreters will have a variety of roles within the national health service. It is for primary care trusts in partnership with strategic health authorities and other local stakeholders to plan, develop and improve services for local people.

IVF

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many IVF embryos were destroyed between 1991 and 2004; [222719]

(2) how many IVF embryos are held in freezing facilities. [222720]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) has advised me that between 1991 and 2004, 814,537 embryos were allowed to perish.

The HFEA has also advised me that information provided to it by licensed centres indicates that the total number of embryos held in storage as at 31 March 2004 was 117,619. This is the most recent date for which information is available.

These figures are derived from data on the HFEA register, which is currently being audited to improve the accuracy of the information available. The data may, therefore, be subject to future amendment following the completion of the modernisation programme in March 2006.

Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether (a) the NHS and (b) healthcare professionals are statutorily obliged to follow guidance issued by the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency. [224660]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Decisions on whether to prescribe medicines, including decisions to prescribe outside the licensed indications, are for individual clinicians, subject to any local national health service arrangements or protocols. Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) guidance on the use of medicines should also be taken into account

Where a NHS body or a healthcare professional is manufacturing, supplying, prescribing or administering a medicine or a medical device, it must comply with the relevant legislation governing that activity, such as the Medicines Act 1968 and the Medical Devices Regulations 2002. The MHRA issues guidance as to the application and interpretation of such legislation, which should by considered by any person or body subject to its provisions.

Mental Health

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which primary care trusts spent less than the national average on mental health in 2003–04. [217579]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Estimates of primary care trust (PCT) expenditure on mental health are provided by the programme budgeting returns. The list shows PCTs with below average spend, where the average is defined in terms of spend per 100,000 unified weighted population, which takes account of population age and need.

PCTs with spend less than average calculated on the basis of spend per 100,000 unified weighted population

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which specialist mental health helplines outside NHS Direct receive funding from his Department; and what the (a) remit, (b) types of mental health conditions handled, (c) geographical coverage, (d) opening hours and (e) the average length of calls were of each in the last period for which figures are available. [222663]

Ms Rosie Winterton: In December 1997, the Department launched the CALM (Campaign Against Living Miserably) telephone helpline in Manchester in response to the high rate of suicide and depression among young men aged 15 to 35 years old. The Department provides core funding for CALM, with local funding provided by local health and social care agencies.

The CALM initiative is aimed at raising awareness of depression amongst 15 to 35-year-old men and encouraging them to seek help. As part of this work, CALM provides a specialist national freephone mental health helpline for young men with feelings of depression that offers confidential information, advice, referrals and telephone counselling from specially trained professional advisers. While the campaign is targeted at young men, all callers will receive the same basic service, regardless of gender, age, culture or sexual orientation.

CALM's services are focused on Manchester, Merseyside and Bedfordshire and callers to the helpline from these areas will receive, in addition to the help and support already mentioned for all callers, information about local services.

CALM's helpline is available from 5 pm to 3 am seven days a week, 365 days a year. When the service is closed, callers receive a message that provides details of opening hours and the telephone number for the Samaritans, should the caller wish to speak with someone urgently.

The CALM helpline receives an average of 8,000 'interactive' calls every year, often long and in-depth. The average call time is 18 minutes. The helpline also receives many thousands of silent calls where the caller was not willing to talk.

Ministerial Duties

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what official duties were carried out by the Minister of State, the hon. Member for Doncaster Central (Ms Winterton) on Thursday 17 March; how many officials accompanied her; for what purposes; and what the total cost of travel was. [223535]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 23 March 2005]: On Thursday 17 March, I attended Mind's annual conference in Harrogate, opened York hospitals national health service trust's renal satellite unit at Harrogate general hospital, visited Kippax North junior and infant school in Kippax to see the impact of the Government's healthy schools programme and visited Undercliffe surgery in Batley. All the duties were carried out in an official capacity.

As is usual on official visits, I was accompanied to all the engagements by an official from my ministerial private office and by one of the Department's press officers. A senior official from the Department's mental health team attended Mind's conference.

The total cost of travel, including for those officials accompanying me, was £898.40.

Mrs. A. Murphy

Mr. O'Hara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what representations he has received about Mrs. A. Murphy of Huyton, a constituent of the hon. Member for Knowsley South. [224060]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department has not received any representations about Mrs. A. Murphy of Huyton.

MRSA

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of MRSA have been identified in hospitals within Greater London, broken down by national health service trust, in each year since March 2003. [221946]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Information on reported methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections for each national health service trust in London is shown in the tables. Full year figures for April 2004 to March 2005 are not yet available. However, there was a 20 per cent., reduction across London in the first six months of 2004–05—April to September 2004—compared with the same period in 2003.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Health Protection Agency's survey of data collection methods for the mandatory MRSA surveillance scheme is complete; and what assessment has been made of the consistency in data collection methods across NHS trusts. [222778]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The user study by the Health Protection Agency of the methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bacteraemia mandatory surveillance scheme is expected to be received by the Department shortly.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many cases of MRSA have been reported involving kidney patients receiving treatment through intravenous tubes in each of the last three years; [223536]

(2) what measures have been taken to prevent MRSA infections being contracted during dialysis treatment. [223537]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 23 March 2005]: Figures on the incidence of methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) in kidney patients dialysed using central venous catheters are not available.

All national health service trusts need to take steps to control MRSA and other healthcare associated infections and general guidance on infection control is set out in "Winning Ways: Working together to reduce healthcare associated infection in England".

Specific advice on infection control in dialysis units has been issued by the Renal Association in "Treatment of adults and children with renal failure—standards and audit measures".

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information he has collated on the incidence of community-acquired MRSA; and what action he is taking to prevent its spread. [223904]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Community-acquired methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (CA-MRSA) usually refers to cases of MRSA isolated from previously healthy people without any obvious risk factors such as admission to hospital. The Health Protection Agency's (HPA) staphylococcal reference laboratory has confirmed 100 cases over the last three years—an extremely small proportion of the isolates they receive (less than 0.005 per cent.). The Specialist Advisory Committee on Antimicrobial Resistance (SACAR) and the HPA are monitoring reports of CA-MRSA and recommend continued vigilance, but that there is no immediate cause for concern. They will be carrying out a small survey to establish the prevalence of these infections.

CA-MRSA is controlled by good hygiene and infection control and guidance for the national health service is available in "Infection Control: Prevention of healthcare associated infection in primary and community care" published by the National Institute for Clinical Excellence in 2003.

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on the reasons for changing the name of the antibiotic 'methicillin' to 'meticillin'; and whether the collation of statistics on deaths from MRSA includes cases where MRSA is described as 'meticillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus'. [224139]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The name of the antibiotic known as methicillin has been changed to meticillin. This is in accordance with the International Pharmacopoeia guidelines. The change in nomenclature does not affect statistics on deaths from meticillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) as data collected by the Office for National Statistics includes references to both meticillin and methicillin.

Neo-natal Care

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to include the performance of neo-natal care in key indicators of hospital standards. [221998]

Dr. Ladyman: The independent Healthcare Commission is responsible for developing and producing the national health service performance ratings. The Commission is currently developing a new assessment methodology, which will include assessments against the national standards for the NHS published in "Standards for Better Health". Its proposals will be published in the spring.

NHS Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2005, Official Report, column 278W, on NHS finances, if he will give examples of the exceptional circumstances which have previously permitted unplanned support to be given to NHS and primary care trusts. [224318]

Mr. Hutton: The Department introduced restrictions in the use of unplanned financial support in the national health service from 2003–04. The policy is that unplanned financial support should only be used where the extent of financial problems is unmanageable and a failure to act would lead to an undue detrimental impact on the quality of patient care.

NHS Trusts

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) total and (b) individual current recurrent deficit for (i) NHS hospital trusts and (ii) NHS primary care trusts is. [223555]

Mr. Hutton: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for South Cambridgeshire (Mr. Lansley) on Tuesday 21 December 2004, Official Report, column 1688W.

Nurses (North-east)

Mr. Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) trainee nurses are employed by each NHS Trust in the North East region and (b) student nurses on NHS contracts and receiving bursaries from the NHS are studying at each higher education institution in the North East region; what the value of NHS bursaries was in (i) 2004–05 and (ii) 1997; and whether such bursaries (A) are taxable and (B) were taxable in 1997. [221970]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 15 March 2005]: Student nurses are not technically employed by national health service trusts whilst undertaking pre-registration nurse training courses, even though they continue to be paid a salary, as they have supernumerary status during their training period. There were 307 health care assistants seconded to nurse training by Northumberland, Tyne and Wear strategic health authority on behalf of their local trusts in 2003–04. (Source: Q4 2003–04MPET NMET Quarterly Monitoring).

Information is not held centrally on which higher education institution each student attends.

Total student bursary awards in Northern England Education and Training Consortium were £183,452 in the 1997–98 academic year and £2,463,424 in the 2004–05 academic year. The figures are not directly comparable because the NHS Student Grants Unit (SGU) did not take on the responsibility for the assessment and payment of NHS Bursaries to nursing degree students until the 1998–99 academic year and only assessed and paid bursaries to Allied Health Profession students in the 1997–98 academic year. Similarly, Diploma level nursing and midwifery students were not paid their bursaries by SGU until the 1999–2000 academic year, with fifth year undergraduate medical and dental students, who commenced their first year from 1 September 1998 onwards, being incorporated into the NHS Bursary Scheme from the 2002–03 academic year.

NHS student bursaries are not taxable and were not taxable in 1997.

Obesity

Jane Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if the National Institute for Clinical Excellence will assess the efficacy of low carbohydrate diets as part of its obesity guidance; and if he will make a statement. [223722]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The focus of the National Institute for Clinical Excellence's work is broad and does not include investigations into any particular weight loss strategy. Where there is good evidence of effectiveness, dietary advice including the role of low-fat, low-carbohydrate and very low-energy diets will be considered.

Patients Forums

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many members of patients' forums have resigned since 1 December 2003; and what percentage turnover in membership this represents. [224268]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Since 1 December 2003, 7,614 members have been recruited to patients' forums, of whom 1,609, or 21 per cent., have resigned. Current membership is 4,809, which is the highest since forum establishment.

Practice-based Commissioning

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to encourage uptake of practice-based commissioning; and if he will make a statement. [224286]

Mr. Hutton: The Department has issued two sets of guidance clarifying how practice-based commissioning will operate. Furthermore, external stakeholders have been involved in producing practical booklets aimed at helping practices and primary care trusts with local implementation. A communications strategy has also been developed which highlights the benefits that practice-based commissioning can bring to both patients and those who work in the national health service. Officials are also considering what more can be done to encourage uptake.

Premium Rate Phone Lines

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's policy is on the cost for patients' friends and relatives of calling patients in hospital through premium rate lines operable through bedside telephones; if he will publish guidance given to NHS trusts on this issue; and if he will make a statement. [222181]

Mr. Hutton: Patients in national health service hospitals have requested personal use of a telephone to remain in contact with family and friends. This is provided through the patient power system and over 75,000 beds in NHS trusts have this service.

There are four companies licensed to provide these services and they are responsible for all aspects of installation, managing and running the service.

Contracts are entered into by individual trusts, which will set out in the contract an agreed schedule of charges, including the cost of incoming calls to patients.

Three suppliers, covering 69,000 beds, include a message notifying callers at the outset of the call what the cost will be. The fourth, which provides a service to the remaining 6,000 beds, will shortly be including a similar message at all its sites.

Bedside televisions and telephones are an additional service to patients. It is still possible for friends and relatives to contact a hospital through its main switchboard and then be transferred to a nurses' station to enquire about their relative's health.

NHS Estates commissioned the British Market Research Bureau to carry out a survey to conduct research into patient and staff satisfaction with the bedside communication and entertainment systems. Over 300 patients and nearly 100 staff were interviewed at six NHS hospitals between October and November 2004.

88 per cent. of patients said that they were satisfied with the services.

95 per cent. of patients chose to pay for services offered.

Patients said the most important reason for using the system was to make phone calls without having to ask a member of staff for help or go to a public pay phone.

The patient bedside entertainment system provides a vital direct link with the outside world for NHS patients. The results of the recent survey confirm that the service is useful in improving the patient's stay in hospital.

Psoriasis

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will make a statement on levels of psoriasis in the population; [224450]

(2) what improvements he is making in (a) treatments and (b) services for patients suffering from psoriasis; [224451]

(3) what estimate he has made of the number of general practitioner consultations for psoriasis that took place in the last year for which figures are available; [224463]

(4) if he will estimate the number of working days lost in the population as a result of psoriasis in each year. [224471]

Dr. Ladyman: Data on the incidence of psoriasis is not available centrally. However, the Psoriasis Association estimates that the condition affects approximately two per cent, of the United Kingdom population.

Information on the number of general practitioner consultations for psoriasis is not collected centrally, nor are figures covering the number of working days lost as a result of the condition.

In England, primary care trusts (PCTs) are responsible for deciding which health services the local population requires and ensuring that these services are provided. We have asked the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) to establish the clinical and cost effectiveness of efalizumab and etanercept within their licensed indications for the treatment of psoriasis and to produce guidance for the national health service in England and Wales. We expect NICE to publish guidance in October 2005. PCTs are obliged to provide appropriate funding where treatments have been recommended by NICE.

Psychiatric Treatment

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in Leicester South have had psychiatric treatment since 1997. [223651]

Dr. Ladyman: The information requested is not available in the format requested.

SANE

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with the charity SANE following withdrawal of funding for 2004–05 concerning the effects of this withdrawal on the organisation. [221991]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department and SANE have conducted a number of discussions regarding funding for SANELINE. The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two year contract for the SANELINE service. The contract came to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

SANE is eligible to apply for Government funding streams aimed at the voluntary and community sector.

The chair of the Mental Health Helplines Partnership (MHHP), of which SANE was until recently a member, has written to SANE offering the MHHP's support. The Department has indicated to the chair of the MHHP that it would offer advice and support to the MHHP in this matter.

Scanning (Waiting Times)

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many out-patients diagnosed as 'routine' waited for an ultrascan for longer than (a) two weeks, (b) one month, (c) three months, (d) six months and (e) nine months in each NHS trust in England in the last year for which figures are available; [224580]

(2) how many out-patients diagnosed as routine are waiting for an (a) ultrascan and (b) ultrasound scan, broken down by NHS trust in England; [224584]

(3) how many out-patients diagnosed as urgent are waiting for an ultra sound scan, broken down by NHS trust in England. [224594]

Mr. Hutton: This information is not collected centrally.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what discussions took place between his Department and the County Durham and Tees Valley strategic health authority about reducing waiting times for scans in County Durham; [224514]

(2) what discussions took place between his Department and (a) the Chester-le-Street and Durham primary care trust and (b) Derwentside primary care trust concerning the reduction of waiting times for scans in County Durham. [224515]

Miss Melanie Johnson: As part of the recent capacity planning exercise, the Department met with all strategic health authorities (SHAs) to discuss their plans for delivering the 2005–06 to 2007–08 public service agreements. It is for SHAs to discuss and agree these plans with their local primary care trusts. We expect these plans to be formally agreed with the Department in May.

Schizophrenia

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how the Home Office and his Department work together in developing public information publicising the risks of developing schizophrenia from cannabis use aimed at (a) early age users, (b) carers, (c) chronic users and (d) professionals. [224595]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department and the Home Office work closely together in publicising the health risks of all illegal drugs, including cannabis.

Both Departments, supported by the Department for Education and Skills, fund and manage the FRANK campaign, which informs young people and their parents, carers and families about the effects and risks of taking illicit drugs. The risks associated with cannabis use, including mental health illness, are documented. A FRANK information pack for practitioners, "Communicating the health risks of cannabis use", was developed and approved by both Departments and published in 2004. Included is material that focuses specifically on young non-users, light users and those contemplating use. It also includes materials aimed at heavy chronic users. They draw attention to the important mental health risks of cannabis, including the risk that use can trigger serious mental health problems and that there is concern that people who use cannabis a lot when they are young may be vulnerable to mental health problems later in life. These will continue to be updated in the light of emerging evidence. Materials aimed specifically at cannabis users with mental health problems, their carers and the professionals who work with them are currently in development by the Home Office and the Department following consultation with key stakeholders.

Stroke Care

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent on improving care facilities for stroke patients in (a) Leicester and (b) England in each year since 1997. [224250]

Dr. Ladyman: This information is not held centrally. The complex nature of the delivery of stroke services means that we are unable to monitor expenditure. It is for primary care trusts, in partnership with strategic health authorities and other local stakeholders, to determine how best to use their funds locally to meet national priorities for stroke services.

Tuberculosis

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made in implementing stopping tuberculosis in England. [224285]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Work has started to implement some key areas of the tuberculosis action plan, including:

Publication of new media material to raise awareness among professions.

Launch of a new mobile X-ray unit in London on World TB Day (24 March 2005) to enhance case finding for difficult to reach groups.

Funding to the Health Protection Agency to help the top 10 TB areas implement local actions in line with the aims of the TB action plan.

Review of the BCG immunisation programme by the BCG subgroup of the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation.

Work with London TB groups to enhance service delivery and improve treatment completion rates.

The effectiveness of these initiatives and projects and the impact on the prevalence of disease will be monitored. However, data on TB is compiled retrospectively and we will not have robust information for another two years.

Future work will address other areas of the plan.

University Hospital, North Durham

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) at what capacity the existing NHS scanner at the University Hospital North Durham was working in each month since April 2004; [224214]

(2) what the capital costs were of providing the equipment to undertake CT and MRI scans at the University Hospital, North Durham; [224518]

(3) what the running costs of the equipment used for CT and MRI scans at the University Hospital, North Durham were in each year since purchase of the equipment. [224519]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answers 4 April 2005]: While information on the capital costs of trusts is held centrally, it cannot be analysed individual assets.

The average cost of a computerised tomography (CT) scanner is around £450,600 to £500,000, excluding value added tax (VAT). A magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scanner is around £700,000 to £750,000, excluding VAT.

These costs are only guides and would vary depending on equipment supplier and configuration. They only cover the scanners themselves and do not include any peripheral equipment needed to provide the service.

Information on the running costs and current capacity of equipment is not held centrally.

Waiting Times (North-west)

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his assessment is of the change in patient waiting times since 1997 in (a) Liverpool, (b) Merseyside and (c) the north-west. [223981]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested is shown in the tables.

Social Care (Direct Payments)

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research he has commissioned on the attitude of staff employed in the social care profession towards direct payments. [224267]

Dr. Ladyman: We have not commissioned or conducted a study on the attitude of staff employed in the social care profession towards direct payments.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Planning

Andy Burnham: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs pursuant to the answer of 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 793–94W, on planning, what the (a) location and (b) name of each of the contested planning developments is; how much was spent on mounting and defending the challenge in each case; what the final outcome of each case was; and what the effect on the timescale of each project was. [224499]

Mr. Lammy: The Legal Services Commission (LSC) were only able to identify six cases in the answer of 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 793–94W. This does not include possible judicial reviews because the LSC does not record figures for judicial review by way of type of application.

Different Departments record their information in different ways, therefore the Government have been unable to match the records for all of these six cases without incurring disproportionate costs. However, the following information has been obtained from the LSC, the Planning Inspectorate and the Treasury Solicitors:

	Location	Contested development	Legal aid costs (£)	Defence costs (£)	Outcome of case
2001–02	Stroud, Gloucestershire	Shutway Quarry	4,745.11	Unable to link costs of case	This information is not currently available
2001–02	Hounslow, Middlesex	Private dwelling—extension	2,751.01	4,429.60 plus VAT. Plus 10,500 in costs to claimant	Appeal refused
2002–03	Wexham, Slough	Greenbelt land	The defence met the full costs	Unable to link costs of case	Appeal allowed
2003–04	Otterton, Devon	The location of a mobile phone mast	3,152.12 (legal aid only covered preparation costs to trial)	3,360. (Unsuccessful claimant ordered to pay costs)	Appeal refused
2003–04	Middlewich Cheshire	The disposal of hazardous waste in rock salt mines	Costs are yet to be finalised	Costs are yet to be finalised	Appeal refused
2004–05	Exeter	Private dwelling—extension	Costs are yet to be determined	Unable to link costs of case	Outcome is currently unknown

It is not possible to predict what the effects on the time scale of each project was. However, I can give the following dates from the cases that we have been able to cross-reference:

Hounslow, Middlesex: The original planning decision was made on 23 January 2001 and the redetermination decision was issued on 16 December 2004.

Otterton, Devon: The decision allowing the appeal was issued on 14 August 2003 and was upheld by the court on 1 March 2004.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs (1) what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to increase the number of crimes for which an offender is brought to justice to 1.2 million by 2005–06 will be met; [219137]

(2) what recent progress has been made towards the public service agreement target to reduce the proportion of ineffective trials. [219140]

Mr. Lammy: Progress against these targets is set out in the Department for Constitutional Affairs' autumn performance report (Cm 6391) which was presented to Parliament in December 2004.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to increase the number of crimes for which an offender is brought to justice to 1.25 million by 2007–08 will be met. [219138]

Mr. Lammy: Plans to deliver this public service agreement target, which was announced as part of the 2004 spending review and came into effect on 1 April 2005, are currently being developed. Progress will be covered in the departmental report 2005 and the autumn performance report 2005 both of which will be laid before Parliament later this year.

Training Budget

John Mann: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs, what the total education and training budget of the Department is for 2005–06. [218036]

Substantive answer from David Lammy to John Mann:

PQ 05/476—DCA Education & Training Budget

You tabled a Parliamentary question, ref 218036, to my Department last session. You asked what the total education and training budget of the Department is for 2005–6.

For DCA staff training the total allocation is £4.4m.

The major business customers for training (e.g. the new Her Majesty's Courts Service) are in the process of agreeing their Business Plans that inform their staff education and training needs. Therefore not all of this expenditure can be precisely broken down at present. The areas that can be are:

£650,000—Leadership and Management programmes—developing the DCA's senior managers leadership skills;

£600,000—Professional Skills for Government—cross-governmental qualifications in Corporate/Specialist, Policy and Operational skills;

£400,000—IT and Business skills—supporting operational staff by maximising their use of IT and their knowledge of the DCA's business to deliver effective services to the public;

£300,000—Continuing Professional Development for Lawyers;

£300,000—Diversity Awareness—ensuring the staff in the Department understand the diverse needs of the society they serve—their customers and their colleagues;

£100,00—First Aid training—ensuring legal obligations are fulfilled for qualified first-aiders to provide support and possibly life-saving assistance to colleagues and the DCA's customers.

As an Investor In People (IiP) employer the DCA provides active support to the continuing education and development of all staff. At the March 2004 IiP assessment, the DCA was praised on its approach to leadership and diversity—recognised as important cornerstones for delivering high quality services.

I have placed a copy of this letter in the libraries of both Houses.

PRIME MINISTER

Iraq War

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Prime Minister pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2005, Official Report, column 301W, on Iraq, whether it was on his instructions that the Attorney-General went to Washington in relation to the legal situation relating to war against Iraq on 21 and 22 July 2003 to have talks with the US Defense Department General Counsel and the Australian Justice Minister. [224703]

The Prime Minister: The Attorney-General's visit to Washington in July 2003 did not relate to the military action in Iraq. As the Attorney-General made clear in a statement issued on 22 July 2003, he had discussions with senior representatives of the US Administration about the British detainees in Guantanamo Bay with a view to ensuring that the detainees, if prosecuted, were guaranteed fair trials in accordance with international standards and to make clear the Government's opposition to the death penalty.

Glenda Jackson: To ask the Prime Minister when he was first informed that Professor Christopher Greenwood QC had been retained by the Government to assist in relation to legal issues arising from the Iraq conflict. [224332]

The Prime Minister: Counsel are routinely retained by the Government on the advice of the lead Department(s).

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Solicitor-General (1) on how many occasions Professor Christopher Greenwood was paid by the Attorney-General's office for legal opinions on the legality of military action against Iraq; and how much was paid in each case; [224701]

(2) what guidance Professor Christopher Greenwood was given about appearances in the print and broadcasting media in relation to opinions about the legality of the Iraq war which he provided to the Prime Minister. [224702]

The Solicitor-General: As I said in my reply to the hon. Member for Blaenau Gwent (Llew Smith) of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1639W, and the hon. Member for Ceredigion (Mr. Thomas) of 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1224W, Professor Christopher Greenwood QC was not instructed to advise on whether the war in Iraq would be lawful.

Published Article

Glenda Jackson: To ask the Prime Minister whether the article to which he referred in his reply to the hon. Member for Nottingham, South of 22 October 2003, Official Report, column 636, was that of Professor Christopher Greenwood, QC, published in The Times, on 22 October 2003. [224055]

The Prime Minister: Yes.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Environmental Crime

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Solicitor-General pursuant to her answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1638–39W, on environmental crime, for what reasons the Crown Prosecution Service does not generally prosecute in cases of environmental crime. [223518]

The Solicitor-General: The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) does not generally prosecute in cases of environmental crime because, within England and Wales, the Environment Agency and local authorities generally do so instead.

The Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 requires the CPS to take on the prosecution of criminal proceedings instituted by a police force. Police forces do not generally investigate allegations of environmental crime, as successive governments have given powers to agencies other than the police and CPS to enforce environmental legislation.

TREASURY

Child Tax Credit

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the value of the family element of the child tax credit would have been in 2005–06 if it had been uprated (a) with earnings, (b) with prices and (c) at the same rate as the child element since the introduction of the child tax credit. [224678]

John Healey [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The value of the family element in 2005–06, had it been uprated as described in the question since its introduction in 2003–04, would be as follows:

(a) £590

(b) £585

(c) £640.

Correspondence

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he will provide a response to the hon. Member for Bassetlaw regarding the tax credits of Graeme Edward Aitkins of Sunnyside, Worksop. [224878]

John Healey: There is no record of any correspondence received from the hon. Member about his constituent. The Inland Revenue wrote directly to the hon. Member's constituent on 30 March 2005.

Lyons Review

Mr. Donohoe: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will list the areas in Scotland which he expects to gain public sector jobs under the Lyons review, as indicated in his Budget statement. [224737]

Mr. Boateng: Of the workforce relocations referred to by the Chancellor in Budget 2005, 90 jobs are going to East Kilbride and 120 to Glasgow and Dundee. It will be for Departments to decide the destination of further relocations.

Sir Ronald Cohen

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he last met Sir Ronald Cohen to discuss official Government business. [214025]

Mr. Gordon Brown: Treasury Ministers and officials have meetings with a wide range of individuals and organisations as part of the process of policy development and analysis. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's usual practice to provide details of all such meetings. Treasury meetings are conducted in accordance with the Ministerial Code and the Civil Service Code, as appropriate.

Stamp Duty

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to review the percentage of shared ownership house purchase price that is eligible for stamp duty. [224877]

Mr. Timms: The Government keep all taxes under review.

WALES

Sports Broadcasting

9. Kevin Brennan: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport in the context of BBC -charter renewal on the role of the broadcasting of sport in promoting Wales. [224377]

Mr. Hain: The renewal of the charter presents an opportunity to preserve the BBC as a strong independent broadcaster.

It plays an important part in the national life of Wales—not least in its excellent coverage of sport.

Aerospace Industry

10. Mark Tami: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has had with Cabinet and National Assembly for Wales colleagues on future investment in the aerospace industry in Wales. [224378]

Mr. Hain: I have regular discussions with Cabinet colleagues and the First Minister on a number of issues, including the very successful aerospace sector in Wales.

Railways

11. Mrs. Betty Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Transport on the possible future use of Meridian trains on the Holyhead to Euston rail route. [224379]

Mr. Touhig: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with ministerial colleagues about matters affecting transport in Wales. I understand that the Strategic Rail Authority has written to stakeholders, including hon. Members representing north Wales constituencies, to consult them about future service levels, particularly beyond 2008, when the physical infrastructure works on the West Coast Main Line will be complete. Various options for improving the frequency of services, and types of rolling stock are being considered.

Inward Investment

12. Mr. Walter: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with the First Secretary of the National Assembly for Wales Government regarding inward investment into Wales. [224381]

Mr. Hain: I have regular discussions with the First Minister on a variety of subjects, including the promotion of Wales as a business location. Wales is in a strong position to take advantage of increasing global trade, and benefit rapidly from new ideas, management techniques and production methods.

Antisocial Behaviour

13. Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales if he will meet the First Secretary to discuss strategies to combat antisocial behaviour in (a) Wales and (b) Aberavon. [224382]

Mr. Touhig: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with Assembly colleagues on matters affecting Wales.

Police forces and partner organisations in Wales are increasingly using the wide range of powers, which we have put in place, to tackle antisocial behaviour.

14. Huw Irranca-Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales if he will meet the First Secretary to discuss strategies to combat antisocial behaviour in (a) Wales and (b) Ogmore. [224383]

Mr. Touhig: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with Assembly colleagues on matters affecting Wales.

Police forces and partner organisations in Wales are increasingly using the wide range of powers, which we have put in place, to tackle antisocial behaviour.

Coal Health Claims Monitoring Group

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales pursuant to the oral answer of 2 March 2005, Official Report, column 1150, on Coal Health Claims Monitoring

Group, if he will break down the payments made to ex-miners by (a) respiratory disease and (b) vibration white finger compensation schemes. [224202]

Mr. Touhig: Figures available at the time of my oral reply showed that a total of over £344 million had been paid out in Wales for respiratory claims and over £122 million for vibration white finger (VWF). This brought the total paid out in Wales since the start to over £467 million.

Since my reply, these figures have increased, with over £347 million paid out for respiratory disease and over £123 million for VWF.

This is an increase of £3 million, bringing us to a combined total of over £470 million paid out in Wales for both schemes so far.

Dee Estuary

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales when a decision will be made regarding the Port of Mostyn's application to dredge the Dee Estuary. [223029]

Mr. Touhig: Decisions on the Port of Mostyn's proposals are matters for the National Assembly for Wales, the Environment Agency and the Department for Transport.

The regulators are considering a range of complex issues, including environmental factors. It is not possible to say when a decision will be reached.

Medical Staff

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has had with the National Assembly for Wales on joint initiatives to increase the numbers of medical staff in Wales. [219379]

Mr. Hain: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Newark (Patrick Mercer) earlier today, at Oral Questions to the Secretary of State for Wales.

Wildlife Management (Dee Estuary)

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has held with the First Secretary of the National Assembly for Wales Government regarding the management of wildlife on the Dee Estuary. [224380]

Mr. Touhig: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with Assembly Ministers. The Dee Estuary is a candidate 'Special Area for Conservation' under European Habitat Regulations. It includes two nature reserves and seven Sites of Special Scientific Interest. It supports a large bird population over the winter, and has a number of rare plants and animals, including 12 internationally important bird species.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Correspondence

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when she will reply to the letter of 18 November 2004 from the hon. Member for West Chelmsford, concerning Mr. East of Essex County Cricket Club. [224477]

Mr. Caborn [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The original letter from the hon. Member for West Chelmsford was not received in the Department. My office has however obtained a copy of the letter and I replied to the hon. Member on 5 April.

Sport England

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of Sport England's Exchequer grant in aid was spent on (a) staff costs, excluding those for national centres, (b) administrative costs, (c) publicity promotions and communications, (d) grants to national governing bodies, (e) grants to Sportscoach UK, (f) sports science and sports medicine, (g) national centres, (h) grants to other national sports bodies, excluding national governing bodies and (i) regional support, in each year from 2002–03 to 2005–06. [224522]

Mr. Caborn: The following table provides the percentage of Sport England's grant in aid spent on the costs listed (a) to (i).

Percentage

		2002–03	2003–04	2004–05	2005–06 (projected)
(a)	Staff costs	21.18	8.79	8.05	9.60
(b)	Administrative costs	15.05	3.77	4.61	4.40
(c)	Publicity promotions and communications	1.61	1.84	1.11	0.90
(d)	Grants to national governing bodies (including P.E., school sport and club links and community club development programme)	12.03	9.90	30.79	38.50
(e)	Grants to Sportscoach UK	1.76	1.48	4.35	6.00
(f)	Sports science and medicine	0.47	0.16	0.00	0.00
(g)	National centres	27.42	26.24	19.18	14.40
(h)	Grants to other national bodies (including the Central Council for Physical Recreation and Equity)	12.45	11.88	11.05	11.05
(i)	Regional support	1.26	1.18	1.26	2.60

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Commission on Sustainable Development

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which Minister from his Department will be attending the Commission on Sustainable Development in New York in April. [214552]

Hilary Benn: The Department will provide expert and senior policy support to the representatives of the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, who lead on this issue.

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he intends to reply to the letter dated 10 January from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mr. O. Brobdan, sent again on 22 February. [224864]

Hilary Benn: DFID has no record of a letter dated 10 January, from the right hon. Member on behalf of Mr. O. Brobdan. A reply to the letter of 22 February was issued on 5 April.

SCOTLAND

Asylum Seekers (Grants)

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland if he will list the payments and grants made by the Government to each local authority in Scotland to reimburse the costs of supporting asylum seekers in each year from 1996–97 to the establishment of the Scottish Executive. [217878]

Mrs. McGuire: Immediately prior to 1 April 1999, the budget for support of asylum seekers was split between the then Department of Social Security and the Department of Health. The Department of Social Security was responsible for supporting applicants who made their application at a port of entry until such times as an initial decision was recorded on the claim for asylum. The Department of Health picked up the costs of supporting those claiming asylum after entry and also appellants (including those who made their original application on arrival).

The budget for adult and family asylum seekers transferred to the Home Office on 1 April 1999. The budget for unaccompanied asylum seeking children transferred to the Home Office on 1 April 2000.

For information on the costs to the Government in relation to asylum seekers prior to 1999–2000, I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 9 May 2000, Official Report, column 331W by the then Home Secretary. The figures contained in the answer are global, and cover the entire of the UK. They cannot be broken down further into areas.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223438]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W by my hon. Friend, the Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland (1) if he will list the occasions between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004 when special advisers attended meetings with external representatives at which Ministers were not present; [210549]

(2) if he will list the speeches his special advisers made in an official capacity between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004, broken down by date. [210561]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the answers given on 10 February 2005, Official Report, column 1648W to questions 203460 and 203493.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Council Tax

John Mann: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what criteria he has set for class R exemptions from council tax for narrow boat resident owners. [224870]

Mr. Raynsford: A mooring occupied by a boat which is somebody's sole or main residence is deemed to be a "dwelling" for council tax purposes and will therefore attract a council tax liability in the same way as other domestic types of property. Under class R of the Council Tax (Exempt Dwellings) Order 1992 (as amended) a dwelling consisting of a mooring which is not occupied by a boat is exempt from council tax.

National House Building Council

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what arrangements he has in place to monitor the building control and inspection procedures of the National House Building Council; and if he will make a statement. [224911]

Phil Hope: As approved inspectors, the National House Building Council has to satisfy the Construction Industry Council's requirements to continue to practice as a building control body. They are also obliged to apply 12 standards specified in our "Building Control Performance Standards" handbook.

Roadside Advertising

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what recent discussions he has held with Cheshire county council on the removal of unlawfully placed roadside advertising. [224724]

Keith Hill: No recent discussions have been held with Cheshire county council on this subject.

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what discussions he has held with other Departments on the potential for distraction caused by temporary wheeled billboards placed next to motorways. [224725]

Keith Hill: Officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister have had regular contact with the Department for Transport and the Highways Agency on the road safety aspects of siting advertisements alongside motorways.

Social Housing

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much central funding has been invested in (a) social and (b) council housing in (i) the Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside, (iii) the North East and (iv) England in each year since 1997. [224722]

Keith Hill: Details of the capital allocations made for housing investment in South Tyneside, the north-east region and England as whole since 1997–98 are tabled as follows. Information is not readily available for the Jarrow constituency.

Thames Gateway

Llew Smith: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will take steps to ensure that a new heat grid and combined heat and power plants are installed as part of his sustainable communities plan for the Thames Gateway. [224715]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's Companion Guide for Planning Policy Statement 22 (planning for renewable energy) highlights the benefits of using renewable-powered CHP schemes in developments.

In addition, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister announced that, from April 2006, all publicly funded new homes in the Thames Gateway will subscribe to the Code for Sustainable Buildings, which will bring new buildings up to world-class environmental standards. The Code will set out clearly specified performance based criteria for energy efficiency, rather than stipulating particular methods. Flagship projects using the code will be demonstrated in the Thames Gateway by both the public and private sectors before being rolled out nationally.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION

Corporate Plan

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission when the Electoral Commission's Corporate Plan for 2005–06 to 2009–10 was approved by the Speaker's Committee. [224972]

Mr. Viggers: The Electoral Commission's Corporate Plan for 2005–06 to 2009–10 was approved by the Speaker's Committee at its meeting on 2 February. The plan was laid before the House by the Speaker, on behalf of the Speaker's Committee, on 24 March as House of Commons Paper No. 347. Copies are available in the Vote Office.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Construction Industry

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will estimate the number of workers in the building industry (a) directly employed by agencies and (b) subcontracted to building firms. [219953]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Dr. John Pugh, dated 6 April 2005:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about employment in the building industry. (219953)

Information is available from the Labour Force Survey about people working in temporary employment in the building industry who give their reason for not being in a permanent job as being an "agency worker". During the three months ending November 2004, an estimated 11,000 people were classified in this category.

Further information relating to workers in the building industry who were directly employed by agencies or subcontracted to building firms, is not available.

These estimates from the Labour Force Survey are, as with any statistical sample survey, subject to sampling variability.

Correspondence

Sir Teddy Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will reply to the letters from the hon. Member for Rochford and Southend, East dated 5 January 2005 and 25 July 2004 regarding a constituent, Mr. Christopher Yeomans. [216586]

Mr. Sutcliffe: A response to the 25 July 2004 letter (which covers the letter of 5 January 2005) will be sent out in the first week in April. It appears that due to an administrative error this was not responded to earlier.

Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will reply to the letters from the hon. Member for Argyll and Bute, dated 22 November 2004 and 31 January 2005, concerning a constituent who had lodged a claim against British Coal and her Department. [224739]

Nigel Griffiths: I have answered the hon. Member's letter today. I apologise for the delay.

Economic Partnership Agreements

Mr. Wills: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what representations she has made to the European Commission on ACP countries retaining national and regional autonomy in Economic Partnership Agreements with the EU. [221269]

Mr. Alexander: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer given on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 575W.

EU Directives

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many EU (a) regulations and (b) directives covering matters within the responsibility of her Department have been repealed since 1 April 2004. [224570]

Nigel Griffiths: The European Commission publishes information on the repeal of EU regulations and directives in its simplification progress reports. Its last report was published in June 2004. The next report will cover the period since 1 April 2004.

EU Regional Funding

Iain Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what action the Government are taking to secure the best outcome for regions in the UK from negotiations regarding the European Convergence (Objective 1) Programme post 2006; [224497]

(2) what action the Government will take to support regions which risk losing eligibility for European convergence funding in the post 2006 programme because of the effect of enlargement upon allocation of Extra Regio. [224498]

Mr. Alexander: The Government set out their approach to the negotiations on the future of the EU structural and cohesion funds in their consultation document, "A new Regional Policy for the United Kingdom", of March 2003 and in my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry's two written statements to Parliament of 17 September and 11 December 2003.

Exporters

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has had with representatives of (a) the textile industry, (b) clothing manufacturers and exporters, (c) the Scottish Executive and (d) Scottish Enterprise regarding small and medium-sized enterprises participating in exhibitions and missions in export markets under the support for exhibitions and seminars abroad scheme; and if she will make a statement. [217959]

Mr. Alexander: The textile and clothing industries have made representations to my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry and other Ministers about changes to the support for exhibitions and seminars abroad scheme from 2006–07. UK Trade and Investment has consulted industry and Scottish Development International on the detail of these changes, which aim to focus assistance on the small and medium-sized enterprises who can benefit most, namely new-to-export companies.

Independent Generators

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what grants are available to individuals who want to provide their own electricity independent from the national grid. [217515]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The DTI provides capital grants to individuals to encourage the uptake of small scale renewable technologies to generate electricity through the Clear Skies programme and the Major PV Demonstration programme. Grants are also provided by the Scottish Executive through the Scottish Community and Householder Renewables Initiative.

Regional Development Agencies

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many staff in each regional development agency work on supporting exporters in the (a) civil aerospace, (b) agriculture, horticulture and fisheries, (c) airports, (d) automotive, (e) biotechnology and pharmaceuticals, (f) business and consumer services, (g) chemicals, (h) clothing, footwear and fashions, (i) communications, (j) construction, (k) creative and media, (l) education and training, (m) electronics and IT hardware, (n) environment, (o) financial services, (p) fire, police and security, (q) food and drink, (r) giftware, jewellery and tableware, (s) healthcare and medical, (t) household goods, furniture and furnishings, (u) leisure and tourism, (v) marine, (w) mechanical engineering and process engineering, (x) metallurgical process plant, (y) metals and minerals, (z) mining, (aa) oil and gas, (bb) ports and logistics, (cc) power, (dd) railways, (ee) software and computer services business-to-business, (ff) sports and leisure infrastructure, (gg) textiles, interior textiles and carpets and (hh) water sectors. [203950]

Mr. Alexander: Support for exporters in England is the responsibility of UK Trade and Investment, which has agreed with the Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) to operate as their international trade arm. Through this relationship, UKTI funds a network of over 270 International Trade Advisers (ITAs) who provide support and advice on international trade to businesses within each region. The delivery of UKTI trade services for each region is in line with the Regional International Trade Strategy (RITS), which is closely linked to the Regional Economic Strategy, and drawn together by UKTI and the RDA, in consultation with business representatives, to reflect regional priorities. Therefore, the number of ITAs working in a particular sector will depend on the varying regional sector priorities as reflected in each RITS.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the responsibilities of each of the regional development agencies are with regard to inward investment. [224080]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) alongside the development agencies of the devolved Administrations and UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) comprise the UK's inward investment network. UKTI leads and guides the network. It funds the RDAs to enable them to provide a tailored service to potential inward investors in co-operation with UKTI, to attract inward investment to the UK and to maintain and expand that investment.

Regulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many regulations have been repealed by her Department since 1 October 2004. [224621]

Nigel Griffiths: Since 1 April 2004, DTI regulatory reforms which have reduced burdens on business include:

Repeal of the Trading Stamps Act by Regulatory Reform order, expected to produce annual administrative cost savings of £0.5–£1.5 million.

Modernisation of the Competition regime completed in 2004; this will reduce compliance costs for business, generating annual savings to business of up to £1.5 million.

Administrative simplification to reduce burdens on directory publishers, saving business £1 million per year: through the Directory Publishing—reducing and simplifying regulations (Amends Unsolicited Goods and Services Act).

Wireless Telegraphy (Register) Regulations 2004; together with the Communications Act 2003 these will generate £5.4 million savings per annum to business.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Adult Disadvantages

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will recalculate the figures placed in the Library following the answer to the hon. Member for Arundel and South Downs (Mr. Flight) of 26 May 2004, Official Report, column 1715W, on adult disadvantages, to include retirement on 31 December 2004. [224659]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is not currently available. The calculations referred to are based on figures published by UBS Global Asset Management. Figures for 2004 are expected to be published in June.

Asylum Seekers

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will list the payments and grants made by his Department and its predecessors to each local authority in (a) England, (b) Wales, (c) Scotland and (d) Northern Ireland to reimburse the costs of supporting asylum seekers in each year from 1996–97 until the transfer of responsibility to the Home Office. [217876]

Mr. Pond: No payments or grants were made to local authorities specifically in respect of asylum seekers, including those subsidies for housing benefit or council tax benefit. Although asylum seekers may have been eligible for housing benefit and/or council tax benefit, estimates of the proportion of subsidy payments which relate to asylum seekers for each local authority are unavailable.

Carers Allowance (Milton Keynes)

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in Milton Keynes are in receipt of carers allowance. [224129]

Maria Eagle: The administration of carers allowance is a matter for the chief executive of the disability and carers service, Mr. Terry Moran. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Vivien Hopkins to Dr. Phyllis Starkey, dated 6 April 2005:

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many people in Milton Keynes are in receipt of carers' allowance. The Minister for Disabled People, Maria Eagle MP, promised you a substantive reply from the Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service.

The information available for Milton Keynes, as at 30th November 2004 and broken down by constituency, is as follows.

	In Payment	Entitlement
Milton Keynes South West	670	1,050
Milton Keynes North East	525	780

Note:
Figures taken from a 100 per cent. sample at 30 November 2004.
Figures are rounded to the nearest 5.
Entitlement includes people in payment, as well as those with underlying entitlement but not actually receiving payment because of the overlapping benefit rules.

Information Directorate.

I hope this is helpful.

Dementia Sufferers

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) financial and (b) other support is available for the carers and family members of people suffering from dementia. [224197]

Maria Eagle: Carers have access to the full range of social security benefits depending on their individual circumstances. Carers of severely disabled people in receipt of attendance allowance or the middle/highest rate of disability living allowance care component may be entitled to carer's allowance.

The Carers and Disabled Children Act 2000 gives carers a right to an assessment of their needs, and gives local councils a mandatory duty to support carers by providing services such as short breaks. The Carer's Grant funds provision of such services and breaks, and will be worth £185 million in 2005–06.

The Carers (Equal Opportunities) Act 2004 which comes into force on 1 April 2005 places a duty on councils to inform carers, in certain circumstances, of their right to an assessment of their needs:

provides that when assessing a carer's needs, councils must take into account whether the carer works or wishes to work, undertakes or wishes to undertake education, training or leisure activities; and facilitates co-operation between authorities in relation to the provision of services relevant to carers.

Disabled People

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to encourage (a) independent living and (b) independent advocacy for disabled people. [224561]

Maria Eagle: The Department for Work and Pensions is responsible for financing the Independent Living Funds which currently benefits some 16,400 severely disabled people and also acts as sponsor for the Motability scheme which helps finance personal transport for some 378,000 disabled people.

In addition, independent living is one of the key areas addressed in the recent Prime Minister's Strategy Unit report "Improving the life chances of disabled people" a copy of which is available in the Library. The report sets out a vision that by 2025 disabled people will have the full opportunities and choices necessary to enable them to improve their quality of life. Among the proposals are a range of measures including new individual budgets, together with better advice and advocacy support. This is a cross-Government report, and this Department will be coordinating the overall implementation action.

Financial Assistance Scheme

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his estimate is of the average core annual pension entitlement of the 15,000 occupational pension scheme members who will be covered by the Financial Assistance Scheme's provisions for those within three years of retirement age. [212305]

Malcolm Wicks: We shall not have full information on members' entitlements under their schemes until their schemes are close to completing wind up.

As announced in my ministerial written statement of 4 April 2005, Official Report, columns 126–28WS, we are also in the process of consulting on the details of how "core pension entitlement" will be determined for the purposes of the FAS. The detailed definition will be subject to the outcome of the consultation and until it is finalised we are unable to estimate the average entitlement for these scheme members.

Health and Safety at Work

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) if he will bring forward legislative proposals to make company directors legally responsible for health and safety breaches within their companies; [224211]

(2) what assessment he has made of the effects on the number of convictions for breaches of health and safety legislation of the absence of legally binding duties for health and safety on company directors; [224212]

Mr. Pond: The Government believe that there is already an appropriate balance of legislative and non-legislative responsibilities on directors in relation to health and safety and have no immediate plans to legislate.

However, we have asked the Health and Safety Executive to assess the effectiveness of the current measures in place concerning director responsibilities for health and safety, to review all the available evidence and to report its findings together with recommendations by December 2005. The issues raised by my hon. Friend will be considered as part of that assessment.

Once this review has been completed, the Government will be in a position to reconsider the issue of further legislation.

Income Support

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the most common reasons are that people of working age claim income support; and how many claimants there were in each category for the last year for which figures are available. [224671]

Mr. Pond: The information is not available in the format requested. The available information is in the following table.

Income support claimants of working age in Great Britain by client group: February 2004 to November 2004

Number

	All working age	Aged 60 or over	Disabled	Lone parent	Others
February 2004	2,199,500	11,700	1,118,000	820,500	249,200
May 2004	2,170,800	11,000	1,116,100	809,800	234,000
August 2004	2,169,100	10,800	1,120,500	804,000	233,800
November 2004	2,147,900	10,900	1,124,400	781,700	230,800
Four quarter average	2,171,800	11,100	1,119,700	804,000	237,000

Notes:
1. Caseload figures have been rounded to the nearest.
2. Working age refers to men aged 16 to 64 and women aged 16 to 59.
3. 'Aged 60 or over' are cases where the claimant and/or partner is 60 or over.
4. Disabled category refers to claimants aged under 60 with a disability premium and not in receipt of a pensioner premium.
5. Lone parents are claimants aged under 60 with dependants and not in receipt of a disability premium or pensioner premium.
6. Others are those who do not fall into any of the other three categories.

Pensioners

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many households will be eligible for winter fuel payments in 2005–06 but will not be eligible for the special £200 payment in respect of council tax. [224673]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 4 April 2005]: We forecast that 8.4 million households will be eligible for a winter fuel payment in 2005–06, of these it is estimated that 3.5 million will not be eligible for the £200 council tax payment. This comprises:

1.7 million households where no one in the household is aged 65 or over.

1.8 million households where the eldest occupant is aged 65 or over and eligible for full council tax rebate because they are in receipt of the guarantee element of pension credit. Of these, 1.5 million households where the eldest occupant is aged 70 or over will however be eligible for the £50 payment for living expenses announced in the Pre-Budget Report.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the average (a) council tax benefit and (b) housing benefit payment to pensioners was in the last period for which figures are available. [224672]

Mr. Pond: The average council tax benefit payment to claimants over 60 is £11.90 a week.

The average housing benefit payment to those claimants over 60 is £48.98 a week.

Notes:

1. The figures are based on a one per cent. sample and subject to a degree of sampling variation.
2. Council tax benefit data excludes any second adult rebate cases.
3. Housing benefit data excludes extended payments.
4. The figures are rounded to the nearest penny.
5. The figures refer to cases where the claimant and/or partner are aged 60 or over.

Statutory Maternity Pay

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what percentage of pregnant women in York qualified for statutory maternity pay in (a) 1997 and (b) the latest year for which figures are available. [224644]

Maria Eagle: The information is not available.

Work-focused Interviews

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the average length of time taken for a work-focused interview was in 2004; [222627]

(2) how many work-focused interviews have been conducted since the new deal programme was introduced in 1998; and in how many cases participation in the new deal ended with such an interview. [222628]

Jane Kennedy: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from Lesley Strathie to Paul Holmes, dated 6 April 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked David Anderson, Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, to reply to your questions asking what the average length of time taken for a Work Focused Interview was in 2004, how many Work Focused Interviews have been conducted since the first New Deal programme was introduced in 1998 and in how many cases participation in the New Deal ended with such an interview. I am replying on behalf of Mr Anderson as one of the Directors of the Jobcentre Plus Board.

Up to 60 minutes is allowed for a Work Focused Interview (WFI) although actual timings will vary. Evidence shows that in practice 40 minutes is sufficient to complete an initial WFI, with the balance of 20 minutes available if required, for supporting activity such as referral to jobs, the New Deal or other appropriate provision.

Customers making a claim for Jobseeker's Allowance are required to attend WFIs, at the start and at set intervals throughout their claim, as a condition of their claim.

WFIs for lone parents were introduced in October 2000 for lone parents making new or repeat claims to Income Support in three pathfinder areas and were then introduced nationally on 30 April 2001.

WFIs for customers claiming Income Support, Incapacity Benefit, Severe Disablement Allowance, Carer's Allowance or any Bereavement Benefit were introduced as part of the rollout of Jobcentre Plus integrated offices from October 2001. WFI conditionality requires customers making a claim for these benefits to attend a WFI at the start of their claim and at set intervals throughout their claim and, as such, are not part of any mandatory or voluntary New Deal although referral to such a programme may be the outcome of a WFI. Currently WFI conditionality for these benefits operates in around 50 per cent. of Jobcentre Plus offices but we expect rollout to be complete by the summer of 2006.

The available information is that, since 2001, there have been 3,209,000 WFIs that have been conducted at the outset of a claim.

CABINET OFFICE

Government Policy Co-ordination

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will list the areas in which he has co-ordinated Government policy; when he set himself the task of so doing in each case; what his objectives were; what the outcomes were; and which Government Departments were involved. [224740]

Mr. Milburn: I was appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster by the Prime Minister in September 2004.

I have a cross-Government role in the co-ordination of Government policy. I am also responsible for the work of the Strategy Unit and the Policy Directorate.

As a result I have been involved in a wide range of policy issues including those covered by the Cabinet Committees of which I am a member.

Detailed information about the development of Government policy is not routinely disclosed.

Sikhs (Public Appointments)

Rob Marris: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office (1) what steps he has taken in the last four years to increase the number of applications received from members of the British Sikh community for public appointments to (a) local and (b) national decision-making bodies; [224494]

(2) what assessment he has made of progress since June 2001 in increasing the number of public appointments to (a) local and (b) national decision-making bodies of members of the British Sikh community; and what estimate he has made of the number of such appointments since that date. [224496]

Mr. Miliband: The Government remain committed to encouraging applications for public appointments from all sections of society. Data are not collected centrally on applications and appointments from more specific groups, but the Cabinet Office does monitor progress on the Government's broader targets to ensure that the make-up of the boards of public bodies is representative in terms of gender, ethnicity and disabled people. The latest report, "Delivering Diversity in Public Appointments 2004", published on 16 December 2004 shows that the proportion of public appointments held by people from a minority ethnic background was 7.7 per cent. in 2004, up from 7.4 per cent. in 2002. The report also sets out targets set by individual Departments and action plans to achieve those targets.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

Afghanistan

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment has been made of the voting system in place for the forthcoming parliamentary elections in Afghanistan. [224487]

Mr. Rammell: The choice of voting system for the Afghan parliamentary elections scheduled for 18 September is single non-transferable vote. The Government of Afghanistan concluded that this was the only system the Afghan people would immediately recognise as democratic. The challenge now is to ensure that elections are as well-organised and transparent as possible. The UK and other international partners are offering support to the Government of Afghanistan to ensure the success of the elections.

Anti-semitic Incitement

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made regarding anti-Semitic incitement to the governments of (a) Iran, (b) Syria and (c) Egypt. [223710]

Mr. Rammell: We remain deeply concerned at continuing anti-Israel and anti-Semitic rhetoric from senior figures in the Iranian regime. Senior UK officials discussed this most recently with representatives of Iran's Supreme National Security Council on 2 February. We have also pressed the Iranian authorities on many occasions to address international concerns about Iran's links to groups undermining the Middle East Peace Process through violence.

We have raised the issue of anti-Semitism with the Egyptian and Syrian authorities in the past, but have not had occasion to do so recently.

China

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department took to consult business organisations regarding the lifting of the arms embargo on China. [224341]

Mr. MacShane: Ministers and officials from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office have had frequent contacts with individual companies and representative business organisations regarding the future of the EU arms embargo on China. These discussions are continuing.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many UK nationals are under sentence of death in China; and what steps the Government are taking to assist in these cases. [224623]

Mr. Mullin: In February 2003, two British nationals (Overseas) were sentenced to death in China. We have not been granted consular access to these British nationals, nor have we received any information about them from the Chinese authorities.

In March 2003, my noble Friend Baroness Amos, the then Minister responsible for consular matters, wrote to the Vice Minister of the Chinese Ministry for Foreign Affairs (MFA) and requested that the sentences be commuted to terms of imprisonment. We did not receive a response. In February 2005, the British Embassy in Beijing wrote to the MFA requesting an update on these two cases. We are awaiting a response.

We are resolutely opposed to the death penalty in all circumstances. We will continue our enquiries about these British nationals and will make representations on their behalf at every appropriate opportunity.

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he will reply to the letter from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton dated (a) 19 January with regard to Mr. Fernando, (b) 17 February with regard to Mr. Rashid, (c) 14 February with regard to U. Ilyias and (d) 23 February with regard to Anthony Leroy Thompson. [224359]

Mr. Mullin: My right hon. Friend wrote to my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary with regard to Mr. Fernando on 18 January and my hon. Friend the Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (Douglas Alexander) replied on 27 January.

The letter from my right hon. Friend with regard to a Mr. Rashid is dated 14 February and I replied on 24 February.

There is no record of a letter dated 14 February from my right hon. Friend to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office with regard to U Ilyias. The last correspondence on this was the Foreign Secretary's reply of 13 January.

The Foreign Secretary replied to my right hon. Friend's letter of 23 February with regard to Anthony Leroy Thompson on 31 March.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he will reply to the letter dated 20 January from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton, with regard to Hina Khalid. [224362]

Mr. Mullin: A reply was sent to my right hon. Friend on 1 April. I apologise for the delay.

Democratic Republic of the Congo

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the impact on the (a) security and (b) humanitarian situation in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and Rwandan Joint Border Verification Mechanism established in the Pretoria peace accord of September 2002; and if he will make a statement. [224577]

Mr. Mullin: The Joint Verification Mechanism (JVM) between the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) and Rwanda did not become operational until December 2004. It has been a useful confidence-building measure, and combined with the strengthened mandate and more robust approach of the UN peacekeeping mission in the DRC, is helping to maintain pressure on the Forces Démocratiques de Libération du Rwanda, who declared in Rome on 31 March that they would disarm. We call on them to do so.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what (a) financial and (b) logistical assistance the UK has offered (i) directly, (ii) through the EU and (iii) through the UN Organisation Mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo to (A) the government of the Democratic Republic of Congo and (B) the government of Rwanda for the activation and implementation of the Joint Border Verification Mechanism between Rwanda and the Democratic Republic of the Congo; and if he will make a statement. [224578]

Mr. Mullin: We worked closely with the UN and the Governments of the Democratic Republic of Congo and Rwanda, exerting political pressure to ensure that this important confidence-building measure was established, and continue to provide political support, encouraging both sides to use the Joint Verification Mechanism (JVM) to investigate allegations.

The United Nations peacekeeping mission (MONUC) provides logistical and secretariat support to the JVM. The UK's financial contribution to MONUC was an estimated £36 million in financial year 2004–05.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimates he has made of the number of armed forces active in Eastern Congo that are not under the command of either the Government of Congo or the UN. [224627]

Mr. Mullin: Recent United Nations estimates suggest that there are around 15,000 militiamen in Ituri and around 20,000 Rwandan Hutu (Forces Democratiques de Liberation de Rwanda) rebels in the Kivu provinces. There is also a smaller number of other foreign armed fighters in eastern Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC).

Central government control of troops nominally under its command is tenuous in eastern DRC. Some groups, although officially part of the DRC armed forces, operate independently of the army command structure.

European Constitution

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) from whom he sought legal advice regarding the incorporation of the Charter of Fundamental Rights within the EU constitutional treaty; [224269]

(2) from whom he sought legal advice on changes to the qualified majority voting rules of the EU set out in the constitution for Europe. [224271]

Mr. MacShane: There is a strong public interest in ensuring that a Government Department, in the process of formulating policy, is able to act free from external pressure in deciding whether it seeks legal advice, at what stage, and from whom. Accordingly, it is not the Government's practice to indicate on which issues, or from whom, legal advice has been sought.

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what procedures he expects would be followed if (a) France, (b) the Netherlands and (c) the UK were to fail to ratify the constitutional treaty; [224274]

(2) what his policy will be should (a) France and (b) the Netherlands fail to ratify the constitution for Europe following its referendum. [224312]

Mr. MacShane: Under the terms of the EU constitutional treaty, it is the separate obligation of each of the 25 signatories of the constitutional treaty to seek ratification of the treaty by the appropriate domestic arrangements of each member state. In the event of a member state being unable to ratify the treaty, and in line with declaration 30 of the treaty, the matter would be referred to the European Council.

European Court of Justice

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will list those items of legislation introduced since 1997 in response to a ruling against the Government at the European Court of Justice. [216451]

Substantive answer from Mr. Denis MacShane to John Hayes:

You recently tabled a Parliamentary Question asking the Foreign Secretary to list those items of legislation introduced since 1997 in response to a ruling against the Government in the European Court of Justice, I answered as Minister for Europe and informed you that I would write with further details when they were available. I am pleased to be able to do so now.

Legislation introduced as a result of rulings in the European Court of Justice is relevant to all Government Departments, not just the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. The information below has been collated from information received from all Departments, with the exception of HM Treasury, the Department for Transport and the Wales Office, who were unable to provide the information from their records.

Table of secondary legislation since 1997

Hezbollah

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the motion of the European Parliament in favour of outlawing Hezbollah as a terrorist organisation. [224130]

Mr. Rammell: The UK has already proscribed the terrorist wing of Hezbollah (the External Security Organisation). We keep the status of Hezbollah under constant review, and liaise closely with our European and US colleagues. The list of proscribed organisations in the UK is also kept under constant review, in light of changing circumstances.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the risk posed by Hezbollah to the establishment of stable Palestinian government in the Palestinian Territories. [224131]

Mr. Rammell: Terrorist attacks by Hezbollah and Palestinian Rejectionist Groups risk disrupting relations between the Palestinian Authority and Israel and cause many innocent casualties. These groups must cease terrorist attacks.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the risk posed by Hezbollah to the establishment of stable Palestinian Government in the Palestinian Territories. [224223]

Mr. Rammell: Terrorist attacks by Hezbollah and Palestinian rejectionist groups risk disrupting relations between the Palestinian Authority and Israel and cause many innocent casualties. These groups must cease terrorist attacks.

Intelligence Operations

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what additional resources he plans to commit to support the delivery of the changes in the operation of British secret intelligence set out in Review of Intelligence on Weapons of Mass Destruction: Implementation of its Conclusions, Cm6492, published on 23 March. [224235]

Mr. Straw: As set out in Cm6492, the Government have instigated a range of improvements to the handling and processing of secret intelligence material. The assessments staff in the Cabinet Office will increase in size by approximately one third. Increased resources have been made available to the Security and Intelligence Services to improve scrutiny and validation of sources. We are developing a new IT system which will improve dissemination of intelligence material and we will be appointing a professional head of intelligence analysis in the Cabinet Office tasked with ensuring the quality and coverage of our analysis capability.

Iran

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of people executed in Iran (a) since May 1999 and (b) between January 1995 and May 1999. [224186]

Mr. Rammell: We are unable to assess reliably the number of executions taking place in Iran. Respected international human rights NGOs have published estimates in the region of 100 cases a year.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made since November 2003 in improving human rights in Iran as a result of the EU-Iran human rights dialogue. [224295]

Mr. Rammell: An evaluation of the EU-Iran human rights dialogue by the EU presidency in October 2004 found that there had been little overall progress in the human rights situation in Iran since the start of the dialogue and recommended ways that the dialogue process could be made more effective. The EU is encouraging Iran to renew its commitment to the process and has proposed substantive improvements. The EU has made clear that its relations with Iran can only move forward if Iran takes action to address the EU's concerns, including in the area of human rights.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his latest estimate is of the number of (a) people sentenced to death in Iran and (b) executions carried out in the last 12 months. [224298]

Mr. Rammell: We are unable to assess reliably the numbers of people sentenced to death and executed in Iran during the past 12 months. Amnesty International has reported that 108 people were executed in Iran in 2003. The number sentenced to death is likely to be substantially higher.

We have serious concerns about the use of the death penalty in Iran, which we have made clear to the Iranian authorities on many occasions.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his assessment is of the production of enriched uranium by the government of Iran; whether he has assessed Iran as being in breach of the non-proliferation treaty as a result of such production; and if he will make a statement on UK relations with Iran. [224589]

Mr. MacShane: The International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) has reported extensively on Iran's past nuclear activities, including on some enrichment of uranium to low levels. Iran agreed to suspend all its enrichment-related activities under the so-called "Paris Agreement" of 15 November 2004. This suspension has been verified by the IAEA.

Iran's past enrichment activities were not declared to the IAEA at the time, as Iran was obliged to do under its Comprehensive Safeguards Agreement with the IAEA, pursuant to its obligations under the nuclear con-proliferation treaty.

Our policy towards Iran is one of constructive, but critical, engagement. We maintain a robust dialogue on issues of concern, such as Iran's nuclear programme; human rights record; approach to the fight against terrorism; and attitude to the middle east peace process.

Iraq

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether consent was sought from the originator of the information upon which the UK based its claim that Iraq sought to procure uranium from Africa, to pass it to the Butler Review; and whether consent was sought to pass the information to (a) the US Central Intelligence Agency, (b) the International Atomic Energy Agency and (c) the Intelligence and Security Committee. [216364]

Mr. Straw: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave her on 17 November 2004, Official Report, column 1552W.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what material breaches of obligations under United Nations Security Council resolution 1441 (2002) were perpetrated by the then Government of Iraq between 8 November 2002 and 17 March 2003. [224556]

Mr. Rammell: United Nations Security Council resolution 1441 determined that Iraq had been and remained in material breach of resolution 687 because it had failed to cooperate with United Nations inspectors and the International Atomic Energy Agency and had not fully complied with its obligations to disarm under that resolution. The Security Council gave Iraq "a final opportunity to comply with its disarmament obligations" and decided that if Iraq failed at any time to comply with and cooperate fully in the implementation of resolution 1441, that would constitute a further material breach. Iraq failed to comply and cooperate and as such was in material breach at the time of resolution 1441 and continued to be so in the period thereafter.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will post on his Department's website, and place in the Library, a record of the negotiations of United Nations Security Council resolution 1441 (2002) on Iraq. [224586]

Mr. Rammell: The vast majority of the negotiations on United Nations Security Council resolution 1441 were carried out in closed Security Council sessions, of which there are no publicly available minutes. Details of the public meetings that the Security Council held on Iraq/Kuwait at that time are available on the UN's website at: http://www.un.org/Depts/dhl/resguide/scact2002.htm

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (www.fco.gov.uk), the UK Mission to the United Nations in New York (www.ukun.org) and other British embassies and High Commissions have information on their websites on UN activities and issues.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of those of his Department's legal advisers who were employed in March 2003 provided the judgment that it would be (a) lawful and (b) not lawful to take military action against Iraq. [224466]

Mr. Straw: It is well known that the Attorney-General provided the Government with their legal advice on the use of force in Iraq. Where Foreign and Commonwealth Office legal advisers provide advice they do so in confidence.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether Mrs. Elizabeth Wilmshurst was consulted in advance of the decision to publish on 23 March her letter of resignation from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office civil service with a part retracted in respect of her stated judgment on the legality of military action against Iraq. [224468]

Mr. Straw: Ms Wilmshurst was informed in advance of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's intention to disclose most of her minute of 18 March 2003 in response to a number of requests under the Freedom of Information Act.

Middle East

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what (a) events and (b) meetings are planned concerning middle east reform during the UK presidency of the G8. [224123]

Mr. Rammell: We intend to take forward during the UK's G8 presidency implementation of the G8 Broader Middle East and North Africa initiative agreed last year at Sea Island. This will include meetings of G8 and regional Foreign, Finance and Education Ministers. We also intend to support civil society and business contributions to regional reform through their participation in ministerial meetings and through sponsorship of events that bring G8 and regional civil society groups together to address various aspects of reform.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Government of (a) Saudi Arabia, (b) Jordan, (c) Egypt, (d) Syria and (e) Lebanon regarding political reform in the middle east. [224126]

Mr. Rammell: We support the emerging momentum for change and modernisation that is developing in the middle east region. Both my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary and my right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Foreign and Commonwealth Office Minister for the middle east, have over the past year encouraged political reform in the middle east both on a bilateral basis with the countries identified by my hon. Friend and in the context of EU and G8 meetings with the region.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Israeli Government regarding the Israeli and Palestinian peace process. [224337]

Mr. Rammell: We hold regular discussions with Israeli Government representatives at all levels. My right hon. and Noble friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office visited Israel, 2–3 March, to brief the Israeli Government on the outcome of the London meeting. Baroness Symons met Vice Prime Minister Shimon Peres, Vice Prime Minister Ehud Olmert and Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Silvan Shalom. On 23 March, Baroness Symons met Israeli ambassador Zvi Heifetz in London, to discuss the issue of settlement expansion. I am meeting ambassador Heifetz on 6 April and will raise this again during that meeting.

Nepal

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has held with (a) the government and (b) civil society organisations in Nepal on restoring elected government; and if he will make a statement. [224614]

Mr. Alexander: We have had several discussions with the Government of Nepal following the King's takeover of power on 1 February, in which we have expressed our concerns about the dismissal of the elected government and urged them to make moves towards the restoration of representative democracy. I raised our concerns with the Nepalese ambassador immediately after the King's takeover. Our ambassador in Kathmandu raised these concerns with the King and, along with EU partners, with the foreign Minister.

Through the Global Conflict Prevention Pool and other programmes we continue to support and engage with civil society organisations in Nepal in our efforts towards restoring democracy. We remain in close contact with the Nepalese authorities, NGOs and international partners in our efforts to secure a peaceful, durable and democratic resolution to the conflict in Nepal.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many representations (a) he, (b) his Department and (c) representatives of the UK in Kathmandu have received concerning the detention of (i) Mr. Bishnu Nisthuri, General Secretary of the Federation of Nepalese Journalists, (ii) Mr. Narayan Adhikari, Rashtriya Samachar Samiti, Chitwan, (iii) Mr. Basanta Prajuli, Daily Gorkhapatra, Chitwan, (iv) Mr. D. R. Panta, Kantipur correspondent in Dadeldhura, (v) Mr. Khem Bhandari, editor, Anhiyan, Mahendranagar and (vi) Mr. Sujeev Bajracharya, editor, City Post Sandhyakalin, Kathmandu; what inquiries (A) his Department and (B) representatives of the UK in Kathmandu have made into the whereabouts of each; what discussions (1) he, (2) members of his Department and (3) representatives of the UK have had with members and representatives of the government of Nepal concerning (y) the detention of the journalists and (z) the government of Nepal's policy on freedom of the press; and if he will make a statement. [224654]

Mr. Alexander: We have received many representations about the situation in Nepal and the detention of journalists and others since the King's takeover of power on 1 February. However, we are not aware of having received any specific representations or letters concerning any of the above named individuals.

Since the King took power in Nepal many hundreds of political activists, have been detained as well as a number of students, journalists, human rights defenders and trade unionists. I have publicly raised our concerns about the Kings actions, and our Ambassador in Kathmandu has called on the King directly to release all political prisoners detained under the emergency regulations.

Through local inquiries, our Embassy in Kathmandu has established the following details about the individuals in question:

Bishnu Nisthuri—Detained on 4 February and released on 25 February

Narayan Adhikari—Detained on 13 February from Chitwanin and is still in detention

Basanta Parajuli—Detained on 1 February from Pokhara and is still in detention

D. R. Panta—detained on 15 February and is still in detention

Khem Bhandari—detained 1 February from Mahendranagar and is believed to be still detained

Sujeev Bajracharya—detained on 16 February and is believed to be still detained.

The UK remains committed to restoring the institutions of democracy, including freedom of the press, and is making efforts to support the media to function independently and without interference in Nepal.

Palestinian Authority

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his latest assessment is of progress made by the Palestinian Authority in reform of its security apparatus. [224222]

Mr. Rammell: Following the pledges made at Sharm el Sheikh on 8 February and the London Meeting on 1 March, the Palestinian leadership has made progress with security reform, but the situation remains fragile.

Both Israelis and Palestinians agree that security co-operation has improved sharply, with local and national commanders meeting frequently. The Israel Defence Forces credit the Palestinian Authority (PA) with closing a number of smuggling tunnels in Gaza, and for making real efforts against rocket attacks. The handover of West Bank cities, as agreed at Sharm el Sheikh, is progressing. Jericho was handed over to the PA on 16 March and Tulkarem on 21 March. On 17 March President Abbas reached an agreement with 12 Palestinian militant groups to extend the current period of calm until the end of 2005.

The PA still has a great deal to do. The agenda for security reform was set out in the conclusions of the London Meeting on 1 March. The United States is leading in the efforts to assist the PA in achieving its goals. General Ward (regional security co-ordinator) has established his office and is already working with Palestinian officials. We will continue to work to ensure that this reform programme is successful in the longer term.

Sierra Leone

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effects of fuel shortages in Sierra Leone on the security situation. [224483]

Mr. Mullin: The continued fuel shortage in Sierra Leone is worrying. On its own, we do not judge it to be a major security threat. But in the longer term we are concerned about its potential impact on the daily lives of ordinary Sierra Leoneans, many of whom are already severely disadvantaged.

Somalia (UN Peacekeepers)

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the implications of deploying (a) Ugandan and (b) Sudanese peacekeepers in Somalia. [224484]

Mr. Mullin: Although plans for the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD) sponsored Peace Support Operation have yet to be finalised, we are pleased that IGAD's proposals take account of Somali sensitivities over the involvement of neighbouring states. We await further information about the final decisions.

Sri Lanka

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance the Government have provided to the Government of Sri Lanka in relation to peace talks and negotiations with the Tamil Tigers. [224482]

Mr. Alexander: We are encouraged that the ceasefire between the Government of Sri Lanka and the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) remains in place three years after it was signed. But we are concerned that there have been no direct peace talks since April 2003. We fully support the work of Norway as facilitators of the peace process. We work closely with other international partners to encourage all parties to maintain the ceasefire and to return to the negotiating table as soon as possible. The British Government have not provided any assistance to the Government of Sri Lanka directly in relation to peace talks with the LTTE. We do support wider peace-building efforts in Sri Lanka, including through projects in areas such as access to justice and human security, and by working with other donors to encourage the development of an environment supportive of a sustainable peace process.

Sudan

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has discussed with (a) Government colleagues and (b) international counterparts providing UK police officers for civilian protection in Darfur. [224325]

Mr. Mullin: We support the African Union (AU) civilian police mission in Darfur. Around 200 police officers are currently deployed, with more expected soon. We have provided more than £14 million and loaned technical expertise to the AU mission. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's chief police advisor helped the AU in Addis Ababa to develop the plan for the policing mission. There are currently no plans to deploy UK police officers for civilian protection in Darfur and the AU has not requested any.

Syria/Lebanon

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to the Government of Syria regarding the presence of its intelligence apparatus in Lebanon. [224124]

Mr. Rammell: Through our embassy in Damascus we have made several representations to the Syrian Government regarding the need for a complete and early withdrawal of all Syrian troops and intelligence personnel from Lebanon. My right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, made the same points when she saw the Syrian ambassador on 7 March.

Terrorism

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will list the Governments which his Department assesses as (a) sponsoring and (b) having links with terrorist organisations, indicating in each case the (i) nature and (ii) effectiveness of representations made to end these activities. [224294]

Mr. MacShane: The British Government do not compile lists of state sponsors of terrorism.

We have serious concerns about the approach of the Iranian and the Syrian Governments to terrorism. We have pressed both countries to co-operate fully with international efforts to combat terrorism and not to support groups trying to undermine peace in the middle east by violent means.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised these concerns with the Syrian Foreign Minister in October 2004, and with the Secretary General of Iran's Supreme National Security Council, Hassan Rouhani, in December 2004. Most latterly, my right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, reiterated our concerns to the Syrian ambassador on 7 March. Senior officials have also raised it with their Syrian and Iranian interlocutors.

Ukraine

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance has been offered to the Government of Ukraine as part of his Department's counter-proliferation strategy and cooperative threat reduction programme (a) to secure the existing Ukraine military rocket programme and (b) to assess whether cruise missiles missing from the Ukraine missile inventory can be recovered. [224188]

Mr. MacShane: We are in close contact with the Ukrainian authorities on a range of counter-proliferation matters including in relation to missiles. We shall continue as part of this process to evaluate whether the UK could provide relevant assistance to Ukraine in the context of cooperative threat reduction.

UN Security Council

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the merits of India being granted permanent membership of the UN Security Council. [224485]

Mr. Rammell: The UK has long supported the expansion of the UN Security Council in both permanent and non-permanent seats. We want it to become more inclusive of the international community it represents. Indian membership of the Security Council will help achieve this goal.

We therefore support India's bid and have done so with cross party support. It is the obvious candidate for membership from its regional grouping, considering its contribution to UN assessed budgets, participation in peace operations, voluntary contributions to UN activities in security and development, and general support for the UN's objectives and mandates.

Vienna Convention

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the Government have made to the United States regarding its decision to withdraw from the Optional Protocol to the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations; and if he will make a statement. [224622]

Mr. Alexander: The UK Government have not made representations to the United States following its decision to withdraw from the Optional Protocol to the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations. We note that the US Government has stated that it will continue to fulfil its obligations under the Convention and that it remains committed to its principles and provisions. Consular relations between the UK and the United States are principally governed by the 1951 UK-US Bilateral Consular Convention.

War Criminals

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the impact the lawsuit brought in the federal court of Alexandria (VA) against Mohamed Ali Samatar and Yusuf Abdi Ali in November 2004 (a) has had and (b) will have on the prosecution of alleged war criminals resident in the US; and if he will make a statement. [224653]

Mr. Alexander: This is a private matter for those involved. The UK strongly believes there should be no impunity for the most serious international crimes, including war crimes.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Antisocial Behaviour Orders (North Yorkshire)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many antisocial behaviour orders were issued in North Yorkshire in 2003–04; how many were breached; and how many of those breached were prosecuted in courts. [224560]

Ms Blears: The number of antisocial behaviour orders (ASBOs) issued in North Yorkshire, at all courts, as notified to the Home Office, from 1 April 2003 to 31 March 2004 is seven.

ASBO breach data are currently available up to 31 December 2003 only. Six ASBOs were issued in North Yorkshire from 1 April 2003 to 31 December 2003. Of these, one person breached their ASBO during the period.

Askham Grange Prison

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) for what reason one of the mother and baby units at HMP Askham Grange is to be closed; and if he will make a statement; [220610]

(2) how many mothers with babies have been moved to establishments (a) closer to and (b) further from, their homes following the closure of the Mother and Baby Unit at HMP Askham Grange; and if he will make a statement; [220611]

(3) what financial savings will be made from the mothballing or closure of the Mother and Baby Unit at HMP Askham Grange; and if he will make a statement; [220612]

(4) how many mothers have been refused places on mother and baby units due to lack of availability of places in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement; [220613]

(5) how many places are available in each mother and baby unit within prison establishments; and what the occupancy levels of each are. [220614]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 8 March 2005]: The demand for mother and baby places at Askham Grange has declined over the last 12 months. A decision was therefore made to reduce the number of mother and baby places available at that establishment. The change was carried out through natural reductions without the need to relocate mothers and babies. The decision was taken in order to match supply more closely to demand and provide more flexible use of existing accommodation. It was not taken to achieve savings and no estimate has been made of any reduction in mother and baby unit costs.

The decision to reduce capacity at Askham Grange was taken as part of a wider review of all mother and baby places. No women have been refused admission because of lack of capacity in the units. The new capacities and occupancy figures at 14 March 2005 are set out in the following table.

Prison	Places	Occupancy at 14 March 2005
Askham Grange, north Yorkshire	10	7
Holloway, London	13	13
New Hall, west Yorkshire	9	6
Styal, Cheshire	12	9
Eastwood Park, Gloucestershire	12	8
Bronzefield, London	12	7
Peterborough (unit opening April 2005)	12	0

Asylum and Immigration

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for indefinite leave to remain in the UK are being considered by his Department; and how many of these have been outstanding for (a) one month or less, (b) one month to three months, (c) three months to one year and (d) more than one year. [224534]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 4 April 2005]: As of 29 March 2005, there were 19,679 indefinite leave to remain cases outstanding for consideration by the immigration and nationality directorate general group in Croydon, Sheffield and the public inquiry offices. Of these, 3,066 have been outstanding for less than 30 days; 5,324 cases outstanding from one month up to three months; 10,264 cases outstanding from three months up to one year; and 1,025 cases outstanding for one year or more.

Child Pornography

Brian White: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many requests the UK Government have made to non-EU countries requesting that child pornography websites be removed from the internet; and on what legal basis. [203677]

Paul Goggins: No such requests have been made by the Home Office. Where investigation by a UK law enforcement agency identifies a child abuse image being hosted in another jurisdiction, it will seek to notify the appropriate authority in that country of its presence so that they can seek its removal and take further appropriate action. A similar process is also undertaken by the Internet Watch Foundation (IWF). The IWF was formed in 1996 following an agreement between the Government, police and the internet service provider industry that a partnership approach was needed to tackle the distribution of child abuse images online. The IWF operate the only authorised hotline in the UK for the public to report their inadvertent exposure to illegal content on the internet. The hotline provides internet users with a means of reporting potentially illegal content that are located on websites that specifically contain images of child abuse (hosted anywhere in the world), criminally obscene content (hosted in the UK) or criminally racist content (hosted in the UK). As a result of these arrangements less than one per cent. of potentially illegal content is apparently hosted in the UK. Figures for the number of instances on which such requests have been made to other jurisdictions by UK law enforcement are not collated. The legal basis for removing such sites will be dependent on the legislation in place in the particular country in question.

More generally, the Government continues to talk with our international partners about further measures which can be taken to combat the abuse of children and remove such images wherever they are hosted. The G8 countries have adopted a strategy on protecting children from sexual exploitation on the internet. As part of this strategy the UK is leading the development of an international child image database, housed at Interpol which aims to act as a global repository of images of child abuse contributing to the identification of victims and offenders and analysis of images.

The UK also leads in promoting co-operation among law enforcement agencies through the creation, by the National Crime Squad in 2003, of the Virtual Global Taskforce (VGT). This is an international alliance of law enforcement agencies delivering innovative crime prevention and crime reduction initiatives to deter and prevent individuals from committing child abuse on-line offences. The VGT is engaged in a number of initiatives which compliment and support the work of existing law enforcement agencies. These include Operation Pin, a website purporting to host child abuse images but which in fact directs those searching for child abuse images to a law enforcement page. The VGT have also developed an international website (www.virtualglobaltaskforce.com) which was launched on 26 January 2005. This acts as a gateway to a wide range of information on how to use the internet safely and links to a range of support agencies around the world that advise and support parents, children and victims of abuse.

Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he will reply to the letter dated 2 February from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mrs. Waheeda Ahmed. [221909]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I wrote to my right hon. Friend on 1 April 2005.

Drugs

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of inmates in prisons in

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

England and Wales were serving sentences for drug-related convictions in each year since 1975; and what the cost was of accommodating the inmates. [223702]

Paul Goggins: The population in prison establishments in England and Wales under an immediate custodial sentence for drug offences as a percentage of the total population under an immediate custodial sentence, in each year since 1976, is provided in the table. Information is not available for 1975.

The Prison Service does not collect data relating to the costs of keeping prisoners in custody by offence type, nor does it retain information readily to hand on costs as far back as 1975. However the overall cost per prisoner for 2003–04 was £25,718 in public sector prisons and £25,377 in contracted out prisons.

These figures exclude headquarters overheads, including the cost of capital on all Prison Service land and buildings plus the cost of depreciation on buildings.

Information for Scotland and Northern Ireland would be a matter for my colleagues at the Scottish Executive and Northern Ireland Office.

HMP/YOI Parc

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make an assessment of the way in which the transitional support scheme is working at HMP and YOI Parc. [224181]

Paul Goggins: An assessment has been undertaken of the effectiveness of the transitional support scheme in Wales. A report is expected at the end of May 2005.

Home Detention Curfew

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many crimes have been committed by prisoners released under the Home Detention Curfew in each of the last five years. [221494]

Paul Goggins: The table sets out the number of cautions, convictions and pending prosecutions for offences committed while offenders were subject to the Home Detention Curfew (HDC) scheme over the past five calendar years, as notified to the Home Office by 14 March 2005. The table also gives the numbers of prisoners placed on to the scheme for each of the five years.

It is always a matter of concern when any prisoner who is placed on Home Detention Curfew commits an offence. However, HDC has been successful in providing prisoners with a smoother and more effective re-integration back into the community. The scheme helps prisoners resume employment or training at an earlier stage and so support themselves and their families.

Since the scheme began in January 1999, over 100,000 people have been released on HOC and 85 per cent. of those have successfully completed the curfew period without any problems at all.

	Number of prisoners placed on scheme[1]	Number of offences	Number of offenders
2000	15,514	371	231
2001	13,646	418	218
2002	20,452	699	395
2003	21,223	2,132	1,193
2004	19,340	947	556

[1] These statistics are based on information recorded on the central Prison Service IT system. Further update and amendments may be made to records on this system in future resulting in revised figures. Figures include those sentenced to three months to less than 12 months.

Kidnapping

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many kidnappings there have been in (a) the Metropolitan, (b) Thames Valley and (c) Surrey police authority area in each of the last three years. [223166]

Ms Blears: The available information relates to recorded offences of kidnapping and is given in the table.

Police force	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Metropolitan	1,094	1,144	1,012
Thames Valley	68	82	64
Surrey	24	31	48

Murders (Essex)

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been murdered in each year since 1997 in (a) Southend and (b) Essex. [222478]

Ms Blears: Police statistics for the number of homicides include murders, manslaughters and infanticides that come to the attention of the police. Deaths that are not initially believed to be suspicious but are later re-categorised are counted in the year in which they have been recorded as homicide. This is not necessarily the year in which the incident took place.

The following table shows available information relating to the Southend Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership for 2001–02 to 2003–04 and homicide figures recorded by Essex police from 1997 to 2003–04.

	Number of homicides
	Southend	Essex
1997	—	16
1998–99	—	14
1999–2000	—	20
2000–01	—	15
2001–02	5	24
2002–03	6	22
2003–04	2	12

National Asylum Support Service

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the unit cost incurred by the National Asylum Support Service in supporting a single adult was in each of the past five years for which figures are available; and what the unit cost for each local authority was in the same period. [223493]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The information is not available in the precise format requested. The approximate costs incurred by the National Asylum Support Service (NASS) to support a single adult asylum in each of the last five years are shown in the table.

Table 1 shows the costs for a single adult asylum seeker provided with financial assistance support only.

Table 1: Single adult asylum seekers supported by NASS (subsistence only)

Costs (£)

	Age 18–24	Age 25 and over
2000–01	28.95	36.54
2001–02	28.95	36.54
2002–03	29.89	37.77
2003–04	30.28	38.26
2004–05	30.84	38.96

Table 2 shows the costs for a single asylum seeker provided with both accommodation and financial support directly by NASS and those supported by local authorities under the interim scheme. The ranges represent the differing costs between local authorities under the interim scheme and the varying cost of accommodation for those supported directly by NASS.

Table 2

Costs (£)

	Single adult asylum seekers supported under the interim scheme	Single adult asylum seekers supported by NASS
2000–01	140.00	115.95–230.69
2001–02	140.00–160.00	117.43–212.79
2002–03	52.26–280.89	119.87–217.12
2003–04	54.05–290.48	121.27–223.39
2004–05	55.32–297.33	113.09–228.84

Notes:

1. Excluded from these costs is the small number of cases supported under the disbenefited arrangements and also those supported under section 4.
2. Costs include VAT where appropriate.

Operation Paladin Child

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what action he is taking to address the issues raised by Operation Paladin Child. [224342]

Mr. Browne [holding answer 5 April 2005]: Since publication of the report we have made significant progress. In particular the Immigration and Nationality Directorate's (IND) Children's Taskforce is tackling a number of the recommendations. These include:

The provision of guidance to staff on identifying and dealing with children in need.

Developing processes for working with other agencies on child protection issues

The provision of specialist training for IND staff

Identifying ways to improve information received from abroad

Child Protection Officers are now based at Heathrow airport and both Child Protection Officers and Social Service staff are based at the Croydon Asylum Screening Unit to ensure a more joined up approach. The UK Immigration Service with the Department for Transport (DfT) is also setting up a voluntary code of practice to be followed by airlines when carrying children who are either unaccompanied or travelling with an adult who is not a family member.

Paedophiles

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what representations he has received concerning the possible arrival in the UK of paedophiles from overseas who have not been convicted of any offences under UK jurisdiction; and what measures he is able to take to protect the public in such cases. [224201]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Where the Foreign and Commonwealth Office receives information that an individual with a conviction for a serious sexual offence will be travelling to the UK then the National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS) will be informed. NCIS may also receive information directly from the foreign authorities through Interpol. Where it is judged to be appropriate, NCIS will then liaise both with appropriate police forces and ports of entry in order to arrange a meeting with the offender on his arrival.

The notification order, introduced by the Sexual Offences Act 2003, is a civil preventative order designed to ensure that offenders who receive convictions or cautions for sexual offences overseas can be made to sign on the sex offenders register while they are in the UK. Application for such an order is made by the police to a magistrates court. If an offender fails to comply with the registration requirements then he commits a criminal offence with a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment.

The 2003 Act also provides for sexual offences prevention orders (SOPO). SOPOs are made on application from the police to a magistrates court and impose prohibitions on a sexual or violent offender who poses a risk of serious sexual harm. They also require the offender to sign on the sex offenders register. When making a SOPO courts set such prohibitions as they consider necessary. For example, an offender could be prohibited from being alone with children under 16 and/or from being within a certain distance of a school, a playground and/or a swimming baths etc. If an offender breaches a SOPO then he commits a criminal offence with a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment.

Police

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers there were in Nottinghamshire constabulary in (a) 2000 and (b) the latest year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [223204]

Ms Blears: As at 31 March 2000, there were 2,204 full-time equivalent officers in Nottinghamshire. On 30 September 2004 the force had 2,526 officers—a record number. This represents an increase of 14.6 per cent. or an additional 322 officers.

Roger Casale: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the percentage change in the number of full-time police officers in Wimbledon has been since 1997. [224241]

Ms Blears: The information requested is not available. Statistics on the number of full-time equivalent officers are only available for London boroughs and only from 2003 onwards.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1694W, on police vehicles, how many collisions on public roads in Essex in which police vehicles were involved were the fault of the police vehicle in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [222424]

Ms Blears: Information is not collected centrally on the causes of collisions involving police vehicles on public roads.

Prevention of Terrorism Act

Mr. Dobson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the (a) police and (b) security services first requested that British citizens should be subject to control orders on the lines of those included in the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005. [222358]

Ms Blears [holding answer 17 March 2005]: In February 2004 the Government published a discussion paper ("Reconciling Security and Liberty in an Open Society") responding to the Newton report which recommended, among other things, that an alternative—capable of general application to British citizens as well as foreign nationals—be found to the part 4 powers of the Anti Terrorism Crime and Security Act 2001 (ATCS).

Consideration of an alternative was given further impetus by the Lords' ruling in December 2004 that section 23 of the ATCS Act was incompatible with articles 5 and 14 of the convention on the grounds that the provisions were discriminatory and therefore disproportionate.

The control order provisions contained in the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005 were developed in consultation with the security service and police, who have confirmed that measures which could be more specifically tailored to the threat posed by particular individuals, irrespective of nationality, would be a valuable tool in countering terrorist related activity.

Prisons

Mr. Bacon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his Department's policy is on sourcing pork, bacon and ham bearing the British Pig Executive's Quality Standard Mark in prisons; and if he will make a statement. [223243]

Paul Goggins: The Prison Service procures food using contracts awarded in accordance with European Union procurement regulations and on a best value for money basis, which takes account of product quality, cost and availability. The EU regulations are designed to support fair and open competition allowing UK suppliers to compete for business with other EU members.

The Prison Service is working with the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on the sustainable food procurement initiative, which is part of the Government's strategy for sustainable farming and food. This is intended to encourage the public sector to procure food in a manner that promotes sustainable development and does not discriminate against local and UK suppliers.

All products supplied to the Prison Service must comply with current and subsequent relevant UK and EU legislation, regulations and directives. Suppliers are required to provide products that are sourced in compliance with EU regulations and from assured providers under animal welfare conditions that are compatible with the UK animal welfare regulations.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications have been made in each of the last three years by inmates to the board of visitors of prisons and young offender institutions; and what the most common reasons for such applications were. [224185]

Paul Goggins: This information is not held centrally.

Ms Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many compassionate licences HMP Dovegate has issued since it opened; and what the average number for non-private prisons is for the same period. [224144]

Paul Goggins: Since Her Majesty's Prison Dovegate opened in July 2001, two prisoners have been granted release on compassionate licence.

The average number of releases on compassionate licence for all public sector prisons over the same period was 314. This covers prisons of all security categories, including open prisons.

Her Majesty's Prison Dovegate is a Category B training prison. The average number of releases on compassionate licence for Category B establishments in the public sector is eight.

Probation Service

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which functions of the probation service in England and Wales will be the subject of (a) contestability and (b) private tendering during (i) 2005–06 and (ii) 2006–07. [204008]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 15 December 2004]: I am currently considering how best to introduce contestability within the probation service in England and Wales and will make an announcement in due course.

Contestability opens up competition to all sectors—public, private and voluntary and community. Private tendering will continue to be used by the probation service where appropriate, including for example technical and IT services, but the norm under contestability will be for all sectors to be invited to bid for the delivery of services for offenders.

Sentencing Policy

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment his Department has made of the public's attitude to prison and its alternatives; [213357]

(2) if he will institute a major public education campaign about community penalties; [213349]

(3) if his Department will establish a media marketing campaign to promote alternatives to prison; [213348]

(4) how his Department promotes alternatives to prison; and if he will make a statement on the value of those alternatives. [213347]

Paul Goggins: The Home Office conducts an assessment of public attitudes to prison and its alternatives through its own research, including the British Crime Survey, as well as through the consideration of other research and representations.

While prison is the right place for serious and dangerous offenders, community sentences can be an effective alternative to short-term imprisonment for less serious offenders.

We have made community sentences both tough and demanding while providing the opportunity for offenders to pay something back directly to the community.

There is a national visibility scheme in place to identify community work done by offenders. The 'Clean-Up Week' campaign, launched on 14 March, involved thousands of people in deciding which local projects should be undertaken by offenders. These included cleaning up prominent eyesores and enhancing the local environment as part of their community sentence.

Publicity about the new sentences introduced this month under the Criminal Justice Act 2003 provides an opportunity for further information to be given to the public about the range of sentences available to the court and the need to target them effectively so as to reduce reoffending, protect the public and increase public confidence in the criminal justice system.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether departmental special advisers have attended meetings with external (a) bodies and (b) individuals, in their official capacity and without Ministers, since May 1997. [203452]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I refer the hon. Member to the answer provided on 13 December 2004, Official Report, column 791W, by my right hon. Friend the Member for Neath (Mr. Hain).

Special Constables

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the special constabulary force strength of each constabulary was in each of the last 30 years; what plans he has to increase special constabulary force strength; and if he will make a statement. [220549]

Ms Blears: Figures on the strength of the Special Constabulary have been collected by the Home Office since 1995. They are given in the table.

Research suggests that the main reason for the fall in numbers is external commitments, with ineffective management and deployment also contributing. A number of specials leave to join as regular officers so there is no overall loss to the policing family. The Government are working with stakeholders (particularly the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO)) on range of measures to improve Specials' recruitment, management and deployment, including the implementation of Home Office/ACPO Good Practice Guidance designed to help forces attract and hold on to Specials, ensuring their time and skills are properly valued and used to best effect.

A survey of forces recently conducted by ACPO reveals that at 31 January 2005 the number of specials had increased to 12,100 with a further 2,500 applications in the system.

TRANSPORT

Air Passengers (Heathrow)

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many passengers arriving at Heathrow airport by air between (a) 04.00 and 05.59 and (b) 06.00 and 06.29 hours were transfer and transit passengers in the last period for which figures are available. [224706]

Charlotte Atkins: The number of transit passengers arriving at Heathrow airport between 04.00–05.59 and 06.00–06.29 hours in 2004 were 434 and 3,292 respectively. In total, there were 67,343,000 passengers at Heathrow airport in 2004. Overall around 35 per cent. of passengers at Heathrow are transfer passengers. No reliable data are available on the time of arrival and departure of transfer passengers.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many passengers arrived at Heathrow by air between 04.00 and 06.59 hours in the last period for which figures are available. [224707]

Charlotte Atkins: 5,718,000 passengers arrived at Heathrow by air between 04.00 and 06.59 hours in 2004, compared with 67,343,000 terminal and transit passengers overall in 2004.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many passengers departed from Heathrow by air between 07.00 and 07.59 hours in the last period for which figures are available; and how many were transfer and transit passengers. [224708]

Charlotte Atkins: 1,370,000 passengers departed from Heathrow by air between 07.00 and 07.59 hours in 2004. Of these, 207 were transit passengers, resulting from a single diverted flight. There were 67,343,000 passengers at Heathrow airport in 2004. No reliable data are available on the time of arrival and departure of transfer flights, but overall 35 per cent. of passengers at Heathrow airport in 2004 were transfer passengers.

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many passengers (a) departed from and (b) arrived at Heathrow by air between 06.00 and 06.59 hours in the last period for which figures are available; and how many were transfer and transit passengers. [224709]

Charlotte Atkins: 965,000 passengers departed from Heathrow by air between 06.00 and 06.59 hours in 2004 and 2,556,000 passengers arrived. During this period, 34,000 transit passengers arrived and no transit passengers departed. There were 67,343,000 passengers at Heathrow airport overall in 2004. 35 per cent. of all passengers at Heathrow in 2004 were transfer passengers. No reliable data are available on the time of arrival and departure of passengers on transfer flights.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many civil servants in his Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223919]

Mr. McNulty: DfT are working on the implementation of the original proposals made on Lyons relocation. These relate to civil service posts not individual civil servants. The proposals have now been developed further. Our current position is that 61 posts have been identified with 25 going to Derby, 23 to Hastings, three to Swansea and the rest to other locations outside London and the South East.

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many regulations have been repealed by his Department since 1 October 2004. [224619]

Mr. McNulty: Since 1 October 2004 six general statutory instruments for which the Department for Transport has responsibility have been repealed in their entirety. In addition, it is likely that numerous instruments have been partially repealed but details could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Dishforth-Barton Road Upgrade

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the date is for the commencement of the works to upgrade the Dishforth-Barton road to motorway status; and what the estimated duration of the works is. [224862]

Mr. Jamieson: The A1 Dishforth to Barton Improvement is scheduled to start construction in April 2008, subject to the completion of statutory procedures and the availability of funds. Construction works are programmed for a period of three years.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what funding has been proposed for the upgrading of the A1 between Dishforth and Barton to motorway status; and from which budget the costs of the work will be met. [224863]

Mr. Jamieson: The scheme is included within the Targeted Programme of Improvements with an approved budget of £325 million.

EU Measures (Repeals)

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many EU (a) regulations and (b) directives covering matters within the responsibility of his Department have been repealed since 1 April 2004. [224571]

Mr. McNulty: The Department does not hold central records of the number of EU legislation that has been repealed. The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost. The Commission publishes figures for European legislation repealed or expired in its annual general reports on the activities of the European Union, the latest figures published are for 2003.

Helicopter Movements (Sutton)

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many helicopter movements there were in the airspace above the London Borough of Sutton in each year since 2001. [224760]

Mr. McNulty: This information is held by National Air Traffic Services Ltd. (NATS) and I have asked the Chief Executive to write to the hon. Member.

Roadside Advertising

Mr. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 346W, on roadside advertising, (1) if he will make a statement on the methodology used to evaluate whether roadside advertisements are a cause of road accidents; [224800]

(2) whether (a) car drivers, (b) bus drivers and (c) drivers of heavy goods vehicles were consulted as part of the research into whether roadside advertisements contributed to road accidents; [224801]

(3) if he will commission a full study into the potential for distraction by temporary wheeled billboards placed next to motorways. [224802]

Mr. Jamieson: Studies have been carried out into the effect of the presence of roadside advertisements and other potential distractions to road accidents. It is, however, difficult to derive a direct causal relationship because accidents are often the result of several factors. Studies have also monitored the duration of drivers' eye movements from the road to roadside distractions, including signs, which provides an indicator of accident potential. I am not aware of any specific consultation with drivers that has been undertaken as part of the research. I do not propose to commission a study on the potential for distraction of temporary wheeled billboards placed next to motorways. It is for local planning authorities to use their enforcement powers to remove unlawfully displayed advertisements.

DEFENCE

Airfield Closures

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans his Department has to close airfields; what assessment he has made of the impact of reductions in the number of airfields on Air Training Corps gliding activities; and if he will make a statement. [218236]

Mr. Caplin: We have announced that the airfield at RAF Coltishall will close in 2006 and the airfield at RAF Lyneham will close when the Hercules aircraft based there transfer to RAF Brize Norton. There is no Air Training Corps gliding activity at either of the above airfields.

Additionally, RAF Sealand is scheduled to close in 2006. The relocation of 631 Voluntary Gliding School is under consideration and full account will be taken of the impact on Air Training Corps gliding activity.

Armed Forces Housing

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the implications applying the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's Decent Homes Standard to the homes of members of the armed forces; and if he will make a statement. [214549]

Mr. Caplin: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 21 February 2005, Official Report, column 112W.

Army Complaints Procedure

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what procedural time limits apply for the issue of a decision by the Army Board in respect of a complaint under Army redress procedures relating to (a) sexual harassment, (b) racial harassment, (c) parental leave directive, (d) pay and (e) religion. [218233]

Mr. Caplin: There are no absolute time limits on the processing of redress of complaints by the Army Board.

Black Watch

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) when he will write to the hon. Member for Perth with the information on (a) fines and (b) pay levels for soldiers of 1st Battalion Black Watch, as indicated in the answer of 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1809W; [207599]

(2) when he will write to the hon. Member for Perth with information on (a) fines and (b) pay levels for soldiers of 1st Battalion Black Watch, as indicated in the answer of 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1809W. [214811]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 7 February 2005]: I replied to the hon. Member on 30 January and 28 February 2005, copies of the letters are available in the Library of the House.

DARA, Fixed Wing St. Athan

Mr. John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether DARA, Fixed Wing St. Athan, have confirmed their intention to participate in the competitive tender process to become a manpower service provider to BAE Systems for the (a) Tornado CMU and (b) Harrier Jump programmes. [221708]

Mr. Ingram: DARA will not participate in the tender process to become a manpower service provider to BAE Systems for either the Tornado CMU or Harrier Jump programmes.

Departmental Employees

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average number of civilian employees, including civil servants employed by his Department, has been in each year since 1998. [224117]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested is in the following table:

Ministry of Defence—Average strength 1998 to 2004

			Full time equivalent
	Total civil servants	Locally engaged civilians	Total
1998	110,560	14,960	125,510
1999	108,280	14,770	123,050
2000	106,450	14,740	121,190
2001[1]	100,040	13,290	113,330
2002	95,260	14,120	109,370
2003	92,970	13,840	106,820
2004	93,220	15,430	108,650

[1] In 2001 the QinetiQ portion of the Defence Evaluation and Research Agency (8,000) was established as a private company.

Note:
Figures calculated using a 13-month average.

Departmental Spending (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2001–02, (b) 2000–01, (c) 1999–2000, (d) 1998–99 and (e) 1997–98 the Defence Analytical Services Agency spent in Scotland in (i) monetary terms and (ii) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [217964]

Mr. Caplin: Both civilian and service personnel data by agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk.

Departmental Staff

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many of the staff employed by his Department have a declared disability. [205718]

Mr. Caplin: The Cabinet Office collects and publishes annually statistical information on the civil service by Department. These include data on the number of staff who have a declared disability.

The latest information at April 2004 is available in the Library and on the civil service website at the following address:

http://www.civilservice.gov.uk/management_information/statistical_information/statistics/publications/xls/disability_apr04_4nov04.xls

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of departmental staff are based in London. [208059]

Mr. Caplin: As at February 2005 the Ministry of Defence currently has 6,140 full-time equivalent staff based within the London Government Office Region, representing 5.7 per cent. of the total departmental strength of 107,980.

Disabled People (Armed Forces)

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people in the armed forces had a registered disability in each year since 1997. [224281]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Details of personnel who are classified as disabled under the terms of the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 are not held centrally. The armed forces are exempt from the employment provisions of the Act.

First World War Medals

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department has decided to dispose of the First World War medal index cards; and if he will make a statement. [223557]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence, together with The National Archives, has been actively seeking a suitable institution prepared to take these cards. So far, a firm offer of a home for just a small part of the collection has been made. No decision on the retention or destruction of the cards will be taken until all such avenues have been explored.

Mr. Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what representations he has received on the retention of First World War medal index cards; and if he will make a statement. [224454]

Mr. Caplin: Approximately 100 members of the public have made representations directly or via their MPs about the future of the index cards. In addition, a number of organisations have made formal and informal approaches about the possibility of taking them.

The Ministry of Defence, together with The National Archives, has been actively seeking a suitable institution prepared to take these cards. So far, a firm offer of a home for just a small part of the collection has been made. No decision on the retention or destruction of the cards will be taken until all such avenues have been explored.

Gulf War Veterans

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the percentage of children born to Gulf War veterans who suffer from (a) deformities and (b) disabilities. [223889]

Mr. Caplin: I refer my right hon. Friend to the Written Ministerial Statement I made to the House on 24 March 2004, Official Report, column 51–52WS, following the publication of a paper in the International Journal of Epidemiology.

Hearing Loss (Armed Forces)

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many applications for war disablement pensions on grounds of deafness were made in each year since 1996; and how many were awarded. [223987]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Applications for war disablement pensions on grounds of deafness received for the following years are as follows:

	Number
1997–98	4,965
1998–99	3,380
1999–2000	2,370
2000–01	1,975
2001–02	1,650
2002–03	1,605
2003–04	1,445

Cases awarded:

	Number
1997–98	825
1998–99	330
1999–2000	330
2000–01	225
2001–02	185
2002–03	165
2003–04	160

Data prior to April 1997 are not available.

Iraq (Military Conduct)

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the guidelines on pre-trial prisoners and all others under detention without sentence contained in chapter 11 of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office report, "A Human Rights Approach to Prison Management" was made available to Major Dan Taylor, Camp Commander for Camp Bread Basket near Basra, prior to the detention of local looters. [210965]

Mr. Ingram: No. Camp Bread Basket was not a prison facility.

Lance Corporal Ian Blaymire

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the transcript will be available of the court martial proceedings against Lance Corporal Ian Blaymire; and if he will place a copy in the Library. [201571]

Mr. Ingram: The Office of the Judge Advocate General, a part of the Department for Constitutional Affairs, is the custodian of all court martial papers. It is understood that they have no plans to place a copy of the transcript of this court martial in the Library of the House.

Medical Services (Cyprus)

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer to the hon. Member for New Forest, West of 13 December 2004, Official Report, column 908W, on medical services (Cyprus), when he plans to write to the hon. Member and place a copy of his letter in the Library. [213121]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 1 February 2005]: I replied to the hon. Member on 30 January 2005 and placed a copy of the letter in the Library of the House.

Ministerial Stationery

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much has been spent on official ministerial (a) business cards, (b) headed paper and (c) compliment slips in each year since 1997. [214941]

Mr. Caplin: I presume the hon. Member is referring to items used by departmental Ministers and have therefore excluded items used solely by private office staff for their personal professional communications. The Ministry of Defence does not provide ministerial compliments slips. The cost of ministerial business cards and headed paper in each financial year since 2000–01 is shown in the following table. Figures for the previous years are not held.

Cost (£)

	Business cards	Headed paper[1]
2000–01	70.72	593.83

[1] The figures provided for ministerial headed paper include continuation sheets which are used for ministerial correspondence. In addition, there are one or two occasions where envelopes and prompt cards have been included as the information is inseparable.

Service Redress Procedures

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many complaints have been made under service redress procedures with respect to Queen's Regulation paragraph (a) 9.398, (b) 9.403 9, (c) 9.404, (d) 9.405, (e) 9.411, (f) 9.412, (g) 9.413 and (h) 9.414 since 1997; and how many of these complaints were (i) successful and (ii) partially successful. [201491]

Mr. Caplin: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) on how many occasions between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004 departmental special advisers travelled (a) domestically and (b) abroad in an official capacity; what places were visited; and how much each visit cost; [202261]

(2) when he will reply to the question tabled by the hon. Member for Chichester on 1 December 2004, ref 202261; [210492]

(3) on how many occasions between 31 March 2002 and 31 March 2003 his special advisers travelled abroad in an official capacity; what places were visited; and how much each visit cost. [207187]

Mr. Hoon: Ministry of Defence special advisers travelled abroad on official business between 31 March 2002 and 31 March 2003 on 13 occasions, at an average cost of £983 per trip, visiting Brussels, Paris, Warsaw, Crete, Germany, Prague, Turkey, Italy, Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar and the United States.

Between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004, Ministry of Defence special advisers travelled abroad on official business on 10 occasions, at an average cost of £1,051 per trip, visiting Denmark, Germany, the UAE, Singapore, Malaysia, Malta, Cyprus, Italy, Iraq, Oman, Brussels and France.

Details of domestic travel by special advisers is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

All travel by special advisers is undertaken in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Ministerial Code and the Civil Service Management Code.

Staff Numbers

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what the average number of (a) military and (b) civilian full-time equivalent staff employed by the (i) Personnel Director, (ii) Pay and Personnel Agency, (iii) Defence Vetting Agency, (iv) Defence Export Services Organisation, (v) Finance Director, (vi) Defence Analytical Services Agency, (vii) Defence Bills Agency, (viii) Chief Constable Ministry Of Defence Police and (ix) Chief Scientific Adviser management groups was in financial year 2003–04; [205471]

(2) what the average number of (a) military and (b) civilian full-time equivalent staff employed by the (i) Deputy Chief of Defence Logistics, (ii) Defence Clothing and Textiles Agency, (iii) Defence Supply Chain HQ, (iv) Defence Storage and Distribution Agency, (v) British Forces Post Office and (vi) Warship Support Agency management groups was in financial year 2003–04. [205475]

Mr. Caplin: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 10 January 2005, Official Report, columns 79–80W.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Colleges for the Future Programme

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what discussion she has had with the Association of Colleges on its Colleges for the Future programme. [223894]

Dr. Howells: The Secretary of State has had no discussions with the Association of Colleges on its Colleges for the Future programme.

FE Funding Gap

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the funding gap between school sixth forms and further education colleges in South-East Cambridgeshire; and if she will take steps to close the gap. [224327]

Dr. Howells: The Department does not have information on what the funding gap is between school sixth forms and further education colleges in Cambridgeshire specifically.

However, we have brought up funding levels for Further Education (FE) as we said we would, without penalising schools. The Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) funding rates per course in FE have been rising faster than school sixth forms and the gap has narrowed.

Our policy has been to raise the level of funding for colleges, as and when we are able to secure the resources to do so.

Higher Education

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many students attend a higher education establishment; and what estimate she has made of the number of students who will attend higher education establishments in each year to 2009–10. [223895]

Dr. Howells: The latest published projections of student numbers in English institutions are set out in Annex M of the Department Annual Report (DAR) 2004, and are reproduced in the following table.

The planned number of student places is set during spending reviews in the light of the Government's target of increasing participation in higher education towards 50 per cent. of those aged 17–30 by the end of the decade. Planned student numbers for 2005–06 to 2007–08 were set as part of Spending Review 2004, and figures for academic year 2005/06 will be published in the Departmental Annual Report 2005.

Ian Lucas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will include the North East Wales Institute in Wrexham in the list of higher education institutions recognised by the Chinese authorities as awarding degrees to Chinese students. [224114]

Dr. Howells: On the basis of information provided by the UK National Recognition Information Centre, the North East Wales Institute of Higher Education in Wrexham is already included in the list of 'Recognised Bodies' as a member of the University of Wales. The information was provided to the Chinese authorities on 27 August 2004 through the Chinese Embassy in London.

Medical Schools

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills pursuant to the answer of 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 690–92W, on medical schools, how many of the undergraduates (a) were aged under 21 years at the time of admission, (b) had three Cs or less at A level and (c) had three Ds at A level. [224231]

Dr. Howells: The tables provide information on the numbers of undergraduate entrants to pre-clinical medicine courses within the UK, who were (a) aged under 21 years at the time of admission (a subset of the table provided in my previous answer), (b) had three Cs or less at A level and (c) had three Ds at A level.

Non-vocational Adult Education

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on (a) provision and (b) funding of non-vocational adult education in 2005–06. [224732]

Dr. Howells: As reiterated in our White Paper, 'Skills: Getting on in business, getting on at work', published on the 22 March, we remain strongly committed to ensuring the availability of a wide range of learning opportunities for adults, including for personal and community development.

The DfES and the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) will agree each year an overall indicative budget for the funds that should be used to support education and training programmes which do not lead to qualifications. Nationally, this will be based on the broad proportion of LSC funds currently spent on this type of learning. But within it, the range of provision needs to keep evolving so that it best meets changing learner and community needs.

We will therefore continue to provide significant non-vocational provision to meet the needs of a wide range of learners. However it is learning providers and local LSCs who are best placed to assess the learning needs of their communities and to prioritise funding accordingly.

School Meals

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will list the meetings attended by (a) Ministers and (b) officials in her Department with Mr. Jamie Oliver during the last two years on the subject of school dinners. [223980]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Officials have had various contacts with Jamie Oliver's production team since January 2004. Ministers had the following contact with Jamie Oliver to discuss his TV programme and his views on school meals and also to discuss the Department's work improving children's health and diet:

telephone conversation 2 September 2004;

meeting 13 December 2004;

meeting 4 February 2005.

In addition, departmental records show that officials met with Jamie Oliver to discuss school meals issues on:

2 February 2005;

4 February 2005 with Minister.

Student Loans/Support

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills why the annual student loan repayment threshold is being increased from £10,000 to £15,000 from 1 April for graduates who commenced their studies on or after 1 September 1998. [224769]

Dr. Howells: The Government's 2003 White Paper "The future of higher education" set out our proposal to raise the repayment threshold for income contingent student loans from £10,000 to £15,000 a year, as part of new arrangements for student support. The change, which takes effect from 6 April 2005, will reduce annual repayments for borrowers earning £15,000 per annum or more by £450 a year; and those with earnings under the new threshold will not be required to make repayments.

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what effect the change to the student loan repayment threshold from 1 April will have on the national student loan repayment book. [224770]

Dr. Howells: The impact of raising the repayment threshold for income contingent student loans from £10,000 to £15,000 per annum, which takes effect from 6 April 2005, was set out in chapter 7 of "The future of higher education and the Higher Education Bill 2004: Regulatory Impact Assessment". This is available in the House of Commons Library.

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much support will be available to students in the form of fee remission and university bursaries in the case of joint family incomes of (a) less than £15,970, (b) between £15,970 and £22,270, (b) between £22,270 and £33,533 and (d) more than £33,533 for each English university in (i) 2005–06 and (ii) 2006–07; and what these figures are net of tuition fees. [224077]

Dr. Howells: The thresholds for the HE grant and tuition fee grant for 2005–06, for English and Welsh domiciled students, are as follows.

Students where there is a contribution from a parent or spouse/partner

Household income	Fee grant (£)	HE grant
£15,580 or less	1,175	1,000
£15,581 to £21,565	1,175	partial
£21,566 to £32,744	partial	none
£32,745 or more	none	none

Independent students with no spouse or partner

Household income	Fee grant (£)	HE grant
£10,250 or less	1,175	1,000
£10,251 to15,580	partial	1,000
£15,581 to 20,984	partial	partial
£20,985 to 21,565	none	partial
£21,566 or more	none	none

In 2006–07 there will be no fee remission grant for new English domiciled students; fee support will be in the form of non-means-tested loans rather than grants. Students with household income below about £33,000 will also be eligible for a new non-repayable grant of up to £2,700 a year. The exact thresholds and tapers for this grant will be confirmed in the summer but the indicative thresholds for the grant are as follows.

Household income	Grant entitlement
£16,000 or less	full £2,700
£16,001 to £33,000	Partial
£33,001 or more	none

In addition, individual universities may offer support; and details of the level of bursary support available to students eligible for full state support were provided in answer to Peter Bradley's question (No.223409) on 22 March 2005. Further details of the bursaries offered by individual institutions are available in their access agreements, visible on the OFFA website; in all, such support is calculated at around £300 million.

Teacher Training (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much was spent on training teachers at (a) University of York and (b) University College of York St. John in (i) 1997–98 and (ii) 2003–04; and how many trainee teachers completed their studies at each institution in each year. [224650]

Dr. Howells: The latest available figures, provided by the Teacher Training Agency (TTA), are in the following table.

HEI	Funding[1] (£)	Students completing (with QTS)[2]
Academic year 1997/98
University of York	424,177	122 (105)
College of Ripon and York St. John	1,971,178	267 (244)
Academic year 2003/04
University of York	562,783	136 (118)
York St. John College	3,038,672	357 (335)

[1] The funding figures are on mainstream funding only.
[2] Figures for 2003/04 are provisional.

Woodcraft Folk

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will meet representatives of the Woodcraft Folk to discuss the movement's future programme and request for continued grant funding. [223449]

Margaret Hodge: I met the Woodcraft Folk on 4 April.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Bovine Artificial Insemination

David Maclean: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1925–26W, on bovine artificial insemination, what the reasons are for the difference in the costs of official testing of bull semen in Northern Ireland and in Great Britain. [224591]

Mr. Bradshaw: As stated in the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1925–26W in Northern Ireland, bulls are sampled by private veterinary practitioners with financial arrangements agreed between the bull owner and the veterinary practice concerned. As this cost is arranged between the bull owner and the veterinary practice concerned; it was not included in the costs given in the earlier answer. We understand that private vets typically charge £80 to £100 per bull. In Great Britain, Defra veterinarians carry out the sampling and the charge is amalgamated into a single fee.

CAP Payments

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many complaints she has received concerning the decision to publish information on former details of Common Agricultural Policy payments under the Freedom of Information legislation. [224054]

Alun Michael: At close of business on 29 March the Rural Payments Agency's Access to Information Unit had received approximately 2,500 representations concerning the decision to publish information on Common Agricultural Policy payments. The great majority of these were opposed to publication. The Government takes the view that it is in the public interest and consistent with the principles on Freedom of Information, for the information to be in the public domain.

Carbon Emissions

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps she is taking to ensure compliance with the Government's commitment to reduce carbon emissions by 20 per cent. [224743]

Mr. Morley: The Spending Review 2004 reconfirmed Defra's public service agreement (PSA) target to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to 12.5 per cent. below 1990 levels in line with our Kyoto commitment and to move towards a 20 per cent. reduction in carbon dioxide emissions below 1990 levels by 2010. The PSA target is shared jointly with the Department of Trade and Industry and the Department for Transport.

The UK Climate Change Programme published in 2000 sets out the Government's approach to tackling climate change. It contains policies and measures intended to achieve the emissions reductions necessary to deliver the UK's commitment under the Kyoto Protocol and move towards the national goal of a 20 per cent. reduction in carbon dioxide emissions. Progress towards the Kyoto Protocol commitment and our national goal are discussed by Ministers regularly, in particular through the Sustainable Energy Policy Network (SEPN), whose Ministerial Group, which is jointly chaired by the Secretary of State for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, oversees the delivery of the Energy White Paper commitments and the current review of the UK Climate Change Programme. The review of the UK Climate Change Programme provides an opportunity for the Government to look carefully at whether to introduce new policies and measures, and/or strengthen existing ones, to put us back on track towards the national goal.

Countryside and Rights of Way Act (Yorkshire)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what parts of (a) York and (b) North Yorkshire have been opened to the public by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000. [224642]

Alun Michael: The Countryside Agency, in England, is required by Part I of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 (the Act) to prepare, in turn, draft, provisional and conclusive maps of open country (mountain, moor, heath and down) and registered common land to which the public will have a new right of open access on foot. In order to map such land, the Countryside Agency divided England into eight mapping areas. These mapping areas are based on national park and local authority boundaries rather than traditional county boundaries. The Countryside Agency is mapping sequentially around the eight areas and the new right of access is being introduced in each area once the mapping exercise has been completed. We are on track to introduce the new right across England by the end of this year.

The county of North Yorkshire has land included in four different mapping areas: Lower North West; Upper North West; North East; and East (which includes the City of York). To date, the new right of access has commenced in one of these areas, the Lower North West, and, as a result, the new right of access currently applies to 4,884 hectares of land in North Yorkshire. Maps showing where the right of access applies in England are displayed on the Countryside Agency's website: www.countrysideaccess.gov.uk.

Information on the amount of access land opened to the public in the rest of North Yorkshire (including the City of York) will become available once all the conclusive maps are available, later this year.

Dairy Farming (Lancashire)

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much milk was produced in (a) Lancashire and (b) Chorley in each of the last three years; and how much was (i) sold as milk and (ii) processed for cheese in each case. [223794]

Alun Michael: Precise estimates of milk production in Lancashire and Chorley are not readily available. The milk production figures given in the table provide broad estimates based on multiplying the average UK milk yield per cow by the number of cows in the specified region. The cow numbers for 2004 are not yet available.

Milk utilisation figures are only available at national level. Therefore the proportion of milk produced in Lancashire and Chorley sold as liquid milk and processed for cheese is not available.

Estimated milk production

Region	Number of dairy cows	Average yield per cow (UK) litres	Estimated milk production m/ litres
2003	—	6,634	—
Lancashire CC[1]	77,145	—	512
Chorley	4,429	—	29
2002	—	6,494	—
Lancashire CC[1]	78,498	—	521
Chorley	4,628	—	31
2001	—	6,346	—
Lancashire CC[1]	83,402	—	553
Chorley	4,748	—	31

[1] The figures for Lancashire CC includes Chorley, but excludes Blackburn with Darwen and Blackpool.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for her Department is for 2011–12. [223439]

Alun Michael: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary to the Treasury on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Departmental Policies (Pendle)

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to Pendle constituency, the effects on Pendle of her Department's policies and activities since 2 May 1997. [215009]

Alun Michael: Since its establishment in 2001 Defra has put in place a comprehensive programme of action on issues including sustainable development, climate change and energy, sustainable consumption and production, natural resource protection, sustainable rural communities, and a sustainable farming and food sector. A summary of our achievements to date can be found at http://defra/corporate/achievements.htm. I am confident that the Pendle constituency will have benefited from these. Through our national strategy for waste we are committed to delivering a step change to more sustainable waste management, including tough national targets to recycle or compost 17 per cent. of household waste by 2003–04 and 25 per cent. by 2005–06.

Since 2001, Defra has established a number of funding mechanisms to help local authorities achieve their targets. As a result of allocations from these funds the residents of Pendle should reap the benefits over the next few years. Since 2001 a total of £723,436 has been awarded to the borough to expand kerbside recycling schemes.

In March 2005 we announced that Lancashire is to be as one of eight rural pathfinders in England. The pathfinder initiative is a key part of the Government's Rural Strategy and reflects the Government's commitment to devolve decision-making and resources to the local level. The Lancashire rural pathfinder will ensure greater co-ordination of rural delivery programmes testing new and innovative methods to bring about improvements in the delivery of services to rural communities and businesses.

Defra provides comprehensive statistical information. The following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp

Environmental Standards

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what measures are being taken to ensure that high environmental standards do not conflict with industrial competitiveness. [222384]

Mr. Morley: Contrary to some views, there is no need for high environmental standards to conflict with industrial competitiveness or economic success. In many cases, high environmental standards can bring both the benefits of a good environment and direct economic benefits to sectors of industry. Well designed environmental regulation can be a stimulus to innovation and industrial efficiency.

Defra's aim is sustainable development, which means a better quality of life for everyone. We understand that quality of life is dependent on a strong, fair society, economic prosperity and the quality of people's current and future environment.

In all the policy making that we undertake, we therefore attempt to properly balance the effects of our policies on each of the social, economic and environment areas and to maximise the net benefit—so that each of our policies take the country closer to sustainable development. Ensuring the UK has industries that can trade competitively in international markets is a key part of maintaining economic prosperity in the UK.

Policy proposals pass through an option appraisal,—the regulatory impact assessment—looking at the net costs and benefits of each option proposed. This includes the benefits and costs which do not have a market value (for example, ecosystems) and will include the impacts on competitiveness. In many cases, the benefits of policy in one area—for example an improvement of people's environmental quality—are traded off against smaller costs in others, for example costs to consumers to particular service. That is very different to an impact on the UK's competitiveness.

The Government take the issue of impacts on competitiveness very seriously. Nevertheless, it is not easy to predict the impact of any policy on competitiveness of the UK as a whole—the dynamic effects of any stimulus rely on complex interactions. To appraise impacts on competitiveness—rather than just the static impacts on any industry which are already appraised—the Government are developing a methodology for use in cost-benefit analysis. Defra is fully committed to using this methodology to take better account of any impacts, good or bad, or our policy on competitiveness.

Defra therefore is serious about setting goals with net benefits for the UK and achieving those goals in the most efficient way, maximising benefits and reducing costs.

Most environmental legislation comes from Brussels. We are influential in shaping that policy to meet our broad sustainable development goals. Pushing the better regulation agenda—to increase the efficiency of policy, set appropriately balanced goals and reduce unnecessary burden on business—is one of our five priorities for our presidency of the Council during 2005. We are already seeing success in the use of better impact assessments and simplification of existing measures.

Further, my Department is leading the way in Whitehall in reducing the administrative burden of regulation, something that may impact on the UK's competitiveness. We have committed to reducing the information and form filling burden on those industries we regulate by 25 per cent. of the next five years.

The impacts of policy on industrial sectors depend significantly on the regulation and inspection of firms and individuals by the agencies and bodies responsible for that task. My Department continues to work with its sponsored delivery bodies to cut unnecessary administrative burden, a process which will lead, amongst other things, to a consolidation of functions over the next four years.

These are only some of the steps that my department will be taking to meet the joint goals of economic prosperity and high environmental standards.

Fisheries

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much EU aid was paid to the fishing industries of (a) Spain, (b) France and (c) Denmark in each of the last eight years for which figures are available. [218128]

Mr. Bradshaw: The current EU fisheries grants scheme covers the period 2000–2006. The EU aid planned in that period for those countries was (a) Spain £1,076.4 million (b) .France £145.9 million and (c) Denmark £127.7 million. The comparable figure for the UK is £136.4 million. We do not know what has been spent to date in other member states. However since 1 January 2005 there has been a level playing field in that no member state has been able to give aid for the construction of new vessels and only for modernisation if vessel capacity is not altered. In addition to the grants scheme various other sources of help for those fishing industry will exist in those member states as it does in the UK.

Hazardous Waste

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how much contaminated soil has been disposed of to landfill since the coming into force of regulations implementing the EU Waste Framework Directive; and what the figure was in the equivalent period prior to the coming into force of those regulations; [224558]

(2) how many movements by lorry of hazardous waste there have been since the coming into force of regulations implementing the EU Waste Framework Directive. [224559]

Mr. Morley: I have referred these questions to the Environment Agency. The Agency will take some time to collate the information requested and my noble Friend, The Baroness Young, will write to the hon. Lady directly when they have done so.

Radioactive Sources

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans she has to change the policy on management of high activity radioactive (a) sealed sources and (b) orphan sources. [224716]

Mr. Morley: The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and the devolved administrations published a consultation paper on 18 March. This set out proposals for implementing Council Directive 2003/122/Euratom on the control of high-activity sealed sources and orphan sources. The consultation paper included draft regulations to amend existing legislation in this area. Copies of the consultation paper have been placed in the Library.

Raptors

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans she has to examine methods of control of peregrine hawks and sparrow hawks, with particular reference to their impact on other bird species. [224806]

Mr. Bradshaw: We have no plans to examine methods of control of birds of prey. We are aware of increasing concerns from grouse moor owners, racing pigeon fanciers over the impact of rising raptor populations on bird numbers, including songbirds. A Raptor Working Group was set up in 1995, jointly chaired by the DETR and the Joint Nature Conservation Committee. The recommendations from the Raptor Working Group's final report, published in 2000, provides the basis for and inform efforts to find an effective and acceptable solution to the problems caused by birds of prey.

Work is now being taken forward by the country conservation agencies, and other organisations. In addition, English Nature has signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Moorland Association on addressing the issue of raptor predation in the uplands.

A paper on progress in implementing the recommendations of the Raptor Working Group Report was presented to the Joint Nature Conservation Committee, and noted by them, in September 2003. The paper is publicly available on their website at: http://www.incc.gov.uk/management/committee/papers03–09/incc03N06.pdf. Copies of the Raptor Working Group report are available from the Library of the House.

Birds of prey are usually the top predators in their food chains. As with other predatory species, populations of birds of prey are normally heavily influenced by their prey populations rather than the other way around. The available evidence suggests that recovering populations of birds of prey are not responsible for recent declines in some songbirds and that other factors related to habitat change and the intensification of farming are mainly to blame.

Recycling Targets

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much in fines the UK has paid to the EU for failing to meet recycling targets in each year since 2001. [224761]

Mr. Morley: The UK has not paid any money to the EU for fines in 2001 or in subsequent years.

The UK narrowly failed to meet the packaging directive's recovery target in 2001, but did meet the recycling target and material-specific recycling targets for all materials. In each year since 2001, the UK has continued to meet the required targets.

Sewers and Drains

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what (a) consultation and (b) research has been done to assess the effects of proposed changes of ownership of private sewers and lateral drains on the sector, with particular reference to companies working in drain services. [224859]

Mr. Morley: The Department published the Review of Existing Private Sewers and Drains in England and Wales consultation paper in 2003. A range of organisations was consulted, representing many different stakeholder groups. The consultation paper was also publicised in the trade press.

Key stakeholders, including the drain repair industry, were invited to a private sewers seminar in January this year. This included a workshop looking at the potential impacts on small businesses.

The Department has also undertaken further research to identify the potential impacts any transfer may have on drain repair companies. This involved contacting over 130 companies. A small firms impact test and competition assessment will be included in the updated regulatory impact assessment. This will accompany the decision paper intended for publication in the summer.

Water Supplies

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment she has made of the likelihood of water shortages in 2005. [224061]

Mr. Morley: The Environment Agency is the statutory body with a duty to manage water resources in England and Wales and it advises the Secretary of State accordingly. The agency's current assessment is that even with average rainfall over the next six weeks there may still be some localised water supply problems in southern England this summer. Below average rainfall is likely to result in more serious problems for water companies in the South and this may extend towards the South-West and into the Midlands and East Anglia. Water companies may need to activate the measures in their drought plans, such as hosepipe bans, if the rainfall deficit does not diminish.

Sue Doughty: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions she has had with water companies on the adequacy of future supplies; and if she will make a statement. [224062]

Mr. Morley: The Environment Agency is the statutory body which has a duty to secure the proper and efficient use of water resources in England and Wales and it advises the Secretary of State accordingly. Each water company in England and Wales produces a water resources plan setting out how it proposes to maintain the supply and demand balance of water for the next 25 years. The plans are assessed by the Environment Agency and reviewed annually.

The plans were updated as part of the recent periodic review of water company prices. The agency reported to Ministers, in July 2004, on these plans in "Maintaining Water Supply", which is available on its website.

The agency concluded that all water companies should be able to meet their customers' needs in the short term, although some companies need to work quickly to address security of supply issues. It believes that greater attention to demand management measures could offset the need, identified by some companies, for new or enlarged reservoirs that are expensive and potentially damaging to the environment.

NORTHERN IRELAND

A2

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when consultants will be appointed by his Department to make recommendations on the upgrading of the A2, Carrickfergus Belfast Road at Jordanstown and Green Island. [224481]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Roads Service (Dr. Malcolm McKibbin) has been asked to write to the hon. Gentleman in response to this question.

Letter from Dr. Malcolm McKibbin to Mr. Beggs, dated 6 April 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question asking when consultants will be appointed to make recommendations on the upgrading of the A2, Carrickfergus Belfast Road at Jordanstown and Green Island. [224418]. I have been asked to reply as this issue falls within my responsibility as Chief Executive of Roads Service.

I can advise you that consultants Scott Wilson/Ferguson McIlveen were appointed on 18 March this year.

Since appointment the consultants have been mobilising their resources and reviewing existing information and I do not as yet have a detailed programme for their work.

However, this scheme is included in the Roads Service Preparation Pool, which is a list of road improvement schemes that are to be developed and taken through the Statutory Procedures with the expectation of progressing to construction within the next five years, subject to the availability of the necessary funds at that time.

I hope this information is helpful.

Aircraft Charters

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much money his Department has spent on chartering aircraft in each of the past five years. [213720]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs) has spent the following on chartering aircraft in each of the past five years:

1999–2000	657,323
2000–01	729,369
2001–02	622,972
2002–03	599,105
2003–04	546,372

Andersonstown News Group

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much money the Andersonstown News Group has received from (a) the Northern Ireland Office, (b) departments, agencies and non-departmental public bodies within the Northern Ireland Civil Service and (c) Invest Northern Ireland since May 1997; how many applications remain to be determined; and if he will make a statement. [208674]

Mr. Gardiner: The information requested is as follows:

(a) The Northern Ireland Office has not provided funding to the ANG.

(b) and (c) I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given on 11 February 2005, Official Report, column 1016W. Details of funding provided to ANG for the period 1 April 1999 to 31 December 2004 are included in that response (information prior to 1 April 1999 is not readily available). Funding for ANG is listed under the company names of Andersonstown News and Preas an Phobail Ltd.

There are no current ANG applications for funding remaining to be determined. However, DCAL, via Foras na Gaeilge, has agreed to provide funding of £21,250 in respect of the six months ending June 2005.

Departmental Budget/Expenditure

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223437]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much the Department spent on lawyers in each year since 1997; how many (a) actions, (b) settlements and (c) court cases there were in each year; and what the costs were of each settlement. [206455]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The information requested by the hon. Member is not readily available and to do so would be at disproportionate cost.

Electoral Register

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will list by constituency the numbers of eligible voters who failed to re-register in the 2004 annual canvass. [215158]

Mr. Spellar: The following table lists by constituency the number of eligible electors who failed to re-register following the annual canvass and so did not appear on the register published on 1 December 2004.

Constituency	Total
Belfast East	4,028
Belfast North	5,440
Belfast South	4,986
Belfast West	5,509
East Antrim	4,240
East Londonderry	3,480
Fermanagh/South Tyrone	3,887
Foyle	6,270
Lagan Valley	4,198
Mid Ulster	3,464
North Antrim	3,667
North Down	4,023
Newry and Armagh	4,387
South Antrim	5,345
South Down	4,653
Strangford	4,325
Upper Bann	4,611
West Tyrone	4,420
Total	80,933

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the reasons why eligible voters failed to re-register in the 2004 annual canvass; and if he will make a statement. [215159]

Mr. Spellar: The Northern Ireland Office has not conducted detailed research in this area. However, I understand that the Electoral Commission will be continuing to monitor the levels of registration and the reasons regarding why eligible voters failed to register.

Electoral Registration Bill

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what representations he has received from (a) political parties, (b) the Electoral Commission and (c) the Northern Ireland Electoral Office about the Electoral Registration (Northern Ireland) Bill. [215254]

Mr. Spellar: The Government consulted with the Northern Ireland political parties last November. None of the parties opposed introducing the measures in the Bill. Both the Electoral Commission and the Chief Electoral Officer were consulted about the measures contained in the Bill.

Invest Northern Ireland

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much public money has been spent in each of the last three years on offering assistance to representatives of companies in Northern Ireland at the invitation of Invest Northern Ireland, broken down by constituency. [213972]

Mr. Gardiner: The following table provides information relating to offers made to clients by parliamentary constituency area during the three years up to end March 2004. Included is the total amount of planned investment to which these offers contributed. Invest NI's information is provided for the years 2002–03 and 2003–04. Information for 2001–02 is based on funding provided by two of Invest NI's legacy agencies—the Industrial Development Board and the Local Enterprise Development Unit.

An additional £21,211,335 was offered in 2002–03 that could not be allocated by area.

Lighthouse Fund

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what representations he has received from other Government Departments regarding the cessation of payments from the UK General Lighthouse Fund for the provision of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters. [224599]

Mr. Spellar: I am unaware of any representations on this matter.

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions he has had with the Irish Government regarding the cessation of payments from the UK General Lighthouse Fund for the provision of navigational aids in Irish territorial waters. [224600]

Mr. Jamieson: I have been asked to reply.

We recognise that the current funding arrangements set out in the 1985 Agreement are increasingly inappropriate for today's political and commercial context. Following discussions at official level between the two Governments, the Irish Government's Department of Communication, Marine and Natural Resources have now stated that they have no objection in principle to participating in a review of the Agreement. We are now developing proposals for their consideration as a matter of priority.

Milk Prices

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on milk prices in Northern Ireland. [223279]

Mr. Pearson: The average producer milk price in Northern Ireland was 18.26 pence per litre in 2004, which was an increase of 0.26 pence per litre (+ 1.5 per cent.) on the previous year. This compares with an average milk price for the UK as a whole of 18.56 pence per litre in 2004.

The milk price in Great Britain is slightly higher because around 50 per cent. of total milk production goes into the higher priced liquid market. In comparison, around 85 per cent. of milk produced in Northern Ireland is processed into commodities such as butter, cheese and milk powders.

Detailed information on milk prices and on the value of milk production is given in the 'Statistical Review of Northern Ireland Agriculture, 2004', which was published on 24 March 2005 and is available on the DARD website at www.dardni.gov.uk.

Patten Report

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many officers (a) were employed by the Special Branch of the Police Service of Northern Ireland immediately before the implementation of the Patten Report and (b) are serving in PSNI Special Branch. [223687]

Mr. Pearson: The information is as follows.

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

	Number
1 January 2001
E dept. (including HMSU)	855
Total	855
18 March 2005
C3 intelligence	433
C4 crime support	281
Total	714

Police

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many police officers were on duty during the weekends of (a) 1 and 2 January and (b) 7 and 8 January in (i) Garvagh, (ii) Kilrea, (iii) Coleraine, (iv) Portrush and (v) Portstewart police stations. [224209]

Mr. Pearson: The number of officers deployed on duty per shift during the weekends of (a) 1 and 2 January and (b) 7 and 8 January 2005 in Coleraine DCU was as follows:

	Coleraine DCU personnel		Tactical support group
	Early[1]	Night[2]	Early[1]	Night[2]
1 January 2005	23	37	24	0
2 January 2005	20	21	21	0
7 January 2005	30	26	0	0
8 January 2005	20	29	0	0

[1] Early shift 0700 to 1900 hours.

[2] Night shift 1900 to 0700 hours.

Notes:

1. Tactical Support Group are available to provide support anywhere in the District Command Unit.
2. Any shortfall in resource in one station will be supplemented by resources from another.

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when Police Service of Northern Ireland candidates processed under Campaign 8 will be informed of the outcome; how many candidates there were, broken down by (a) religion and (b) gender; and if he will make a statement. [222877]

Mr. Pearson: Applicants to a PSNI trainee constable competition have to pass through two stages, an initial selection test and an assessment centre, before progressing into a merit pool of suitably qualified candidates from which they are then appointed at an equal ratio of those determined to be from a Catholic background and those from a non-Catholic background.

Candidates are informed of the result of the assessment centre and whether or not they have been successful in entering the merit pool as the process rolls forward.

With regards to Campaign 8, I am advised PSNI will make contact with all on the merit list in July 2005. Of the 5,695 candidates applying for Campaign 8, 1,342 and 644 were male and female respectively from a Catholic background, and, 2,372 and 1,337 were male and female respectively from a non-Catholic background.

Pollution

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the public health implications of the untreated waste and sewage washed up at Orlock, County Down. [224257]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Water Service (Mrs. Katharine Bryan) has been asked to write to the hon. Lady in response to this question.

Letter from Mrs. Katharine Bryan to Lady Hermon, dated 6 April 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question about the public health implications of the untreated waste and sewage washed up at Orlock, County Down (224257). I have been asked to reply as Chief Executive of Water Service.

Water Service regrets the problems that have arisen due to the failure of the screening plant at Briggs Rock, Orlock. The Department of Health and Social Services and Public Safety, which is responsible for policy on public health matters, has advised that, while it is understood that the North Down borough council has assessed the situation at Orlock from a public health perspective, the Public Health Department of the Eastern Health and Social Services Board has been asked to liaise with North Down borough council to determine if there is any risk to public health from this situation, and if so, to ensure that appropriate steps are taken to deal with it.

DHSSPS will advise you of the outcome of these investigations.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when he expects the Environment and Heritage Service to complete its investigation into the unregulated waste management activity found at Geddis farm on the outskirts of Helen's Bay in County Down; and when he expects the Environment and Heritage Service to publish the findings of its investigation. [224626]

Angela Smith: The Environment and Heritage Service anticipates that investigations will be completed by June 2005, when the finding will be made available, unless legal action is instigated by the Department.

Queen's Flight

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on how many occasions the Department's Ministers used the Queen's Flight in each of the past five years. [213443]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Travel by Ministers makes clear that special flights may be authorised when a scheduled service is not available, or when it is essential to travel by air, but the requirements of official or parliamentary business or security considerations or urgency preclude the journey being made by a scheduled service. In respect of overseas travel by Ministers, since 1999 the Government have published an annual list of all visits overseas undertaken by Cabinet Ministers costing £500 or more during each financial year. The list published in 1999 covers the period 2 May 1997 to 31 March 1999. Where RAF/Private Charter aircraft are used this is shown in the list. The Government have also published on an annual basis the cost of all Ministers' visits overseas. Copies of the lists are available in the Libraries of the House. Information for 2004–05 will be published in due course.

School Meals

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has for additional funding to improve school meals in Northern Ireland. [224736]

Mr. Gardiner: I am committed to taking action that further improves the nutritional value of school meals here. I intend therefore to make additional funding available to improve school meals from September 2005. The arrangements for this will be finalised in light of evaluation of the outcomes of the Department's Nutritional Standards pilot scheme, involving 100 schools, which ended in March 2005.

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, what plans he has to allocate additional funds for school dinners in schools in the Province. [224818]

Mr. Gardiner: I am committed to taking action that further improves the nutritional value of the school meals here. I intend therefore to make additional funding available to improve school meals from September 2005. The arrangements for this will be finalised in light of evaluation of the outcomes of the Department's nutritional standards pilot scheme, involving 100 schools, which ended in March 2005.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) if he will list the occasions between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004 when special advisers attended meetings with external representatives at which ministers were not present; [210545]

(2) if he will list the speeches his special advisers made in an official capacity between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004, broken down by date. [210562]

Mr. Paul Murphy: All meetings held by special advisers and all speeches given by special advisers are conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers.

Staff Training

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the costs of departmental (a) staff training days and (b) staff development days held away from the Department were in each year since 1997. [213792]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The information requested by the hon. Member is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Stationery

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been spent on official ministerial (a) business cards, (b) headed paper and (c) compliment slips in each year since 1997. [214947]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The information is not held in the format requested by the hon. Member.

The Northern Ireland Office's (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs) expenditure on official ministerial (a) business cards, (b) headed paper and (c) compliment slips is recorded under general printing expenditure codes which cover a vast range of items. To provide this information would be at disproportionate cost.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much the Department spent on (a) stationery and (b) office supplies in each year since 1997. [213842]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The information is not held in the format requested by the hon. Member.

The figures provided in the table incorporate both the amounts spent on (a) stationery and (b) office supplies by the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs) in each year since 1997:

1997–98	354,367
1998–99	424,354
1999–2000	356,736
2000–01	336,629
2001–02	224,796
2002–03	323,852
2003–04	309,062

TK-ECC

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much of the grant assistance which was offered to TK-ECC in 1999 has been clawed back since its closure; and if he will contribute funds clawed back to the company's pension fund. [213549]

Mr. Gardiner: Under the terms of a Financial Assistance Agreement dated 4 June 1999, between TK-ECC Ltd. and the then Industrial Development Board (IDE), a total of £2,000,000 was made available to the company and £800,000 of this was drawn down. Following the closure of the company, Invest NI determined that £275,000 was recoverable under the terms of the Financial Assistance Agreement. This amount was repaid in full by the company on 4 October 2004. There is no provision that would allow funds recovered to be made available to the TK-ECC Ltd. Pension Fund.

HEALTH

A and E Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact of (a) NHS Direct, (b) the new general medical services contract and (c) the four-hour accident and emergency waiting time target on attendances at accident and emergency departments. [222807]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Our assessment is that the key factors contributing to the rise in reported attendances at accident and emergency departments since 2002–03 have been better reporting, increased availability and use of walk-in centres and minor injury units, which are classified as type two and three A and E departments, and increased public satisfaction with A and E services linked to improved performance against the four-hour target.

We have found no evidence that NHS Direct or the new general medical service (QMS) contract have contributed to the rise in attendances. The start of the current trend of increased attendances pre-dated the implementation of the GMS contact by around a year.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact of the four hour accident and emergency waiting time target on patient outcomes. [222809]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We have not undertaken a formal assessment, but the significantly increased number of accident and emergency patients now seen within four hours (96.8 per cent. in the third quarter of 2004–05, compared with 78 per cent. in the same quarter of 2002–03) can reasonably be expected to have improved patient outcomes. We have also received no evidence of any instances where the operation of the target has detracted from the quality of patient care.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many accidents occurred at his departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of his Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222568]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There were 83 accident book entries in 2000, 47 accident book entries in 2001, 83 accident book entries in 2002, 102 accident book entries in 2003 and 100 accident book entries in 2004. There are no accident figures held separately for members of the public.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he publishes data for the number of accidents at work involving employees of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [222582]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Accident figures have been published in the Department's annual reports since 2003.

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what arrangements for monitoring accidents at work involving members of staff of his Department are in place; and if he will make a statement. [222633]

Ms Rosie Winterton: All reported accidents and incidents are scrutinised initially by the Department's building services section, which also maintains reports, records and statistics.

Any serious event is notified to the building services, health and safety audit manager, who will initiate appropriate remedial action. The building services, health and safety audit manager will conduct necessary investigation and, where it applies, will report them under the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations.

Acute Beds

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many acute beds there are for each 100,000 of population in each strategic health authority. [224631]

Mr. Hutton: The information requested is shown in the table.

Strategic health authority	Acute beds per 100,000 population
Avon, Gloucestershire and Wiltshire	244
Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire	129
Birmingham and the Black Country	262

Alzheimer's Disease

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will publish his directions to the National Institute for Clinical Excellence on determining the cost effectiveness of treatments; and if he will make a statement on the application of those directions to the evaluation of treatments for Alzheimer's disease. [224526]

Ms Rosie Winterton: All directions made under article 3 of the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) Establishment and Constitution Order 1999 and regulation 9 of the Order are available in the Library. None relate to evaluation of treatments of Alzheimer's disease.

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will publish his Department's submission to the National Institute for Clinical Excellence review of treatment for Alzheimer's disease. [224731]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government's response to the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence consultation document, "Donepezil, Rivastigmine, Glanatamine and Memantine for the treatment of Alzheimer's Disease", was published on 22 March 2005 and is available in the Library and on Department's website at www.dh.gov.uk.

Cancelled Operations

Miss Kirkbride: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations were cancelled at the Worcestershire NHS Trust hospital (a) for medical reasons and (b) because of a lack of beds in each year between 1997 and 2005. [224821]

Dr. Ladyman: The information is not available in the format requested. The table shows cancelled operations for non clinical reasons at Worcestershire Acute Hospitals National Health Service Trust for the years 2001–02, 2002–03, 2003–04 and 2004–05[1].

	Org. ID	Name	Number of last minute cancellations for non clinical reasons
2004–05	RWP	Worcestershire Acute Hospitals NHS Trust	560
2003–04	RWP	Worcestershire Acute Hospitals NHS Trust	1,073
2002–03	RWP	Worcestershire Acute Hospitals NHS Trust	856
2001–02	RWP	Worcestershire Acute Hospitals NHS Trust	459

[1] For the three quarters only to December of the financial year.

Notes:

1. Data prior to 2001–02 were only collected at health authority level. There is no breakdown by trust.
2. A last minute cancellation is one that occurs on the day the patient was due to arrive, after they have arrived in hospital or on the day of their operation. This includes patients who have not actually arrived in hospital and have been telephoned at home prior to their arrival.
3. Non-clinical reasons for cancellations by the hospital include: ward beds unavailable; surgeon unavailable; emergency case needing theatre; theatre list over-ran; equipment failure; admin. error; anaesthetist unavailable; theatre staff unavailable; and critical care bed unavailable. These examples are based on information from the Modernisation Agency's theatres project and do not necessarily cover all non-clinical reason.

Chronic Disease Management

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to incorporate chronic kidney disease management in primary care services. [224718]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Part two of the national service framework for renal services was published in February 2005. It sets out new quality requirements for the identification and early management of people with, or at risk of, chronic kidney disease. It also identifies considerable scope for integrating care pathways for people with chronic kidney disease coronary heart disease and or diabetes, to reduce the impact of these interacting long-term conditions.

Clostridium Difficile

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to publish the results of the most recent quarterly collection of statistics on clostridium difficile. [224596]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The collection of data on clostridium difficile under the mandatory surveillance scheme started on 1 January 2004. The Health Protection Agency will be publishing annual data when a full year's data has been analysed later this year.

Cumulative data from the Health Protection Agency's voluntary reporting scheme on clostridium difficile are published regularly. Data for 2003 was published in February 2005 in the Communicable Disease Report (CDR) Weekly at: http://www.hpa.org.uk/cdr/archives/2005/cdr0705.pdf.

Dentistry

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent on helping dentists to set up NHS practices in each year since 1999. [223797]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Primary care trusts (PCTs) help dentists to set up national health service practices in a variety of ways. We do not hold records centrally of all their initiatives. In helping dentists, PCTs have been able to draw on the £59 million we made available in 2004–05, of which £35 million was for grants to improve facilities, £15 million for local access initiatives and £9 million for use by the NHS dentistry support team to target assistance to PCTs with some of the most pressing access problems. PCTs can also offer dentists a personal dental services contract to set up a new practice. Under the terms of these contracts, dentists have a guaranteed level of earnings provided that they meet the agreed service requirements.

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, column 1976W, on dentistry, whether Methods Consulting is under a contractual obligation to his Department to meet the target recruitment figure of 230 Polish dentists by October 2005; and what steps will be taken to meet any shortfall in the target figure. [223971]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Methods Consulting has been contracted by the Department to recruit up to 230 dentists from Poland by the end of October 2005 to work in the national health service. The Department and Methods Consulting expect this figure to be achieved and Methods Consulting is managing the process accordingly.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have received NHS dental treatment in Coventry, South in each year since 1997. [224086]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested is not available in the format requested. However, Coventry, South is served by Coventry primary care trust (PCT). The number of people in the PCT area that were registered with a national health service dentist for the years 1997 to 2004 are as shown in table 1.

Table 1

	Child	Adult	Total
1997	46,543	133,355	179,898
1998	42,479	108,322	150,801

Dental Practice Board.

The drop in registrations between 1997 and 2004 is mostly attributable to the reduction in the re-registration period for patients from two years to 15 months. The figures also exclude the five dentists in personal dental service (PDS) schemes with 2,948 patients listed with them. The figures also exclude patients treated in dental access centres (DACs) who are not registered. In 2004, there were some 375,000 episodes of treatment in the 48 DACs then in operation in England.

Table 2 shows the breakdown of patients seen and treatments completed at the Warwickshire DAC, which opened in December 2001—up to and including data as of 31 January 2005.

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentists in Gosport are accepting new NHS adult patients. [224881]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are 80 dentists practising in the Fareham and Gosport Primary Care Trust (PCT) area as at 31 December 2004. Latest information from the national health service's website shows that there are currently no dentists accepting new NHS adult patients.

The NHS dentistry support team has been working with Fareham and Gosport PCT to assist it in tackling problems of local dental access. The PCT agreed a dental action plan with the support team, in August 2004, which it is now implementing. The plan will create in excess of 20,000 new NHS patient places together with 25,000 access session appointments. The PCT has received additional recurrent funds from the support team of £310,000 to support the delivery of the plan.

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in the Romsey constituency have been registered with an NHS dentist in each of the past 10 years. [224729]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Table 1shows the number of people in the Romsey constituency registered with a national health service dentist in the last 10 years.

Table 1: NHS dentist registrations in Romsey, 1995 to 2004

	Number registered
1995	42,792
1996	37,587
1997	34,278
1998	30,965
1999	30,212
2000	28,790
2001	30,059
2002	28,663
2003	31,010
2004	28,727

Information has been provided by the dental practice board (DPB). The DPB defines areas based on dental practice postcodes within the current constituency boundaries. There are a small proportion of registrations nationally which could not be allocated to a constituency. The drop in registrations between 1997 and 2004 is mostly attributable to the reduction in the re-registration period for patients from two years to 15 months.

Unregistered patients in Romsey can obtain treatment from the Portsmouth and South East Hampshire dental access centre, which opened in 2001. Table 2shows the breakdown of patients seen and treatments completed at the Portsmouth and South East Hampshire dental access centre in each year since it opened.

Table 2: Number of patients seen and courses completed at Portsmouth and South East Hampshire dental access centre

	Number of patients seen	Number of courses completed
2001–02	1,120	1,287
2002–03	2,156	2,437
2003–04	2,456	3,041
1 April 2004 to 31 January 2005	1,849	2,233

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many regulations have been repealed by his Department since 1 October 2004. [224620]

Ms Rosie Winterton: 37 statutory instruments, including both regulations and orders, have been revoked from 1 October 2004 to date. In addition, there were 10 statutory instruments in which provisions were revoked but the whole of the instrument was not.

Dermatology

Mr. Bruce George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) indirect and direct funding and (b) other support he provided to dermatology research in each of the last five years. [223932]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The main agency through which the Government support medical and clinical research is the Medical Research Council (MRC). The MRC is an independent body funded by the Department of Trade and Industry via the Office of Science and Technology.

The Department funds research to support policy and to provide the evidence needed to underpin quality improvement and service development in the national health service.

Both the MRC and the Department are currently supporting skin research. Past expenditure on such research is shown in the table.

Expenditure on skin research 1999–2000 to 2003–04

	MRC	Department's national research programmes (£000)
1999–2000	0.342	301
2000–01	0.548	452
2001–02	1.17 million	300
2002–03	1.58 million	283
2003–04	1.8 million	613

Over 75 per cent. of the Department's total expenditure on health research is devolved to and managed by NHS organisations. Details of completed and ongoing projects, including a significant number concerned with dermatology, can be found on the national research register at www.dh.gov.uk/research.

Digital Hearing Aids

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the Government's policy is on supplying digital hearing aids to those who have been diagnosed to be in need of them; [220636]

(2) what the Government's timetable is for providing digital hearing aids to those diagnosed to be in need of them. [220708]

Dr. Ladyman [pursuant to the reply, 9 March 2005, Official Report, c.1907W]: I regret that my previous reply was incorrect. The final paragraph should read as follows:

"By 2008, no one will wait longer than 18 weeks from general practitioner referral to hospital treatment."

Domiciliary Care Workers

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will introduce a system of registration for paid domiciliary care workers. [224823]

Dr. Ladyman: The Secretary of State for Health is required by the Care Standards Act 2000 to consult the General Social Care Council (GSCC) before making any order to extend the register to social care workers, including domiciliary care workers. He did so in 2004, following which the GSCC undertook an open consultation in England last autumn and recommended the following order for the next groups for registration:

Outreach and domiciliary care workers, residential child care workers and those working in residential family centres, and social care.

Other residential care workers and those working in day services.

Staff working in adoption and fostering agencies and adult placement services.

Inspection and training staff in social care.

Ministers have accepted in principle the recommendations of the GSCC. Detailed plans for the implementation of these recommendations are being prepared and an announcement will be made in the coming months.

Dr. Wilmshurst (Royal Shrewsbury Hospital)

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information the Chief Medical Officer has received from Dr. Wilmshurst, consultant cardiologist at the Royal Shrewsbury Hospital; what action he has taken as a result; and if he will place copies of the correspondence in the Library. [224265]

Dr. Ladyman: This information cannot be released without compromising the privacy of a number of third parties. Release would contravene the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Drug Treatment (Appraisals)

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will review the National Institute for Clinical Excellence appraisals of drug treatments to ensure that all important health effects have been taken into account in each case. [224564]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The process by which the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) appraises drugs and their treatment is a matter for NICE itself. NICE consults periodically in its appraisal process. The latest consultation was in 2004, details can be found on the NICE'S website www.nice.org.uk.

NICE is an independent organisation, which has gained an international reputation for its work on clinical and cost effectiveness of treatment and healthcare. NICE'S methodologies have also been commended by the World Health Organisation.

Elderly People (Falls)

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his latest estimate is of the number of persons aged (a) over 65, (b) over 75 and (c) over 85 years of age resident in (i) residential care homes, (ii) nursing homes and (iii) their own homes and receiving domiciliary care; and what the (A) suicide rate, (B) number of reports to the police of missing persons, (C) number of admissions to hospital following falls and (D) number of deaths as a result of accident was in each group in the latest period for which figures are available. [224262]

Dr. Ladyman: The estimated numbers of people aged 65 and over, 75 and over and 85 and over reported to be living in residential and nursing care homes in England from the 2001 census are shown in Table 1. The table also shows the estimated number of people receiving domiciliary care provided or commissioned by councils with social service responsibilities in England at 31 March 2004.

The Office for National Statistics does not hold information on suicide rates in residential care homes, nursing homes and homes that receive domiciliary care.

Table 2 shows the number of finished admissions to national health service hospitals following a fall by age group in England in 2003–04. The breakdown specified is not available.

Table 3 shows the number of registered deaths from accidental injury, by place of occurrence in England in 2003. The breakdown specified is not available.

Information on missing persons is a matter for the Home Office.

Age	Admissions
65 and over	116,500
75 and over	92,800
85 and over	44,600

Notes:

1. Ungrossed data—figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data.

2. A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

Health Statistics (Shrewsbury and Atcham)

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many MRSA infections there were in the Royal Shrewsbury hospital in each year since 1997. [223179]

Dr. Ladyman: The information is not available in the format requested. The Royal Shrewsbury hospital was a separate acute trust until October 2003, when it merged with the Princess Royal hospital to form the Shrewsbury and Telford hospitals national health service trust. From October 2003 onward, data for the Royal Shrewsbury hospital alone is not available.

The mandatory surveillance system which collects data on methicillin resistant "Staphylococcus aureus" (MRSA) bloodstream infections commenced in April 2001 and gives data by NHS trust only and not hospital.

The table shows relevant data for the years 2001–02, 2002–03, 2003–04 and the first six months of the reporting year 2004–05.

Healthcare Commission

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many representations he has received from private and voluntary healthcare providers on fees for inspection by the Healthcare Commission; and if he will place copies in the Library. [224766]

Dr. Ladyman: On 8 February, increases in the regulatory fees payable to the Healthcare Commission were announced. The increases came into effect on 1 April and are in line with Government policy of moving to a position where the recurrent costs of providing regulation are fully recoverable from service providers.

Since the revised fees were announced, the Department has received a number of representations from private and voluntary healthcare providers. My noble Friend, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Health, met representatives of the independent healthcare forum on 16 March. Ministerial correspondence is not routinely placed in the Library.

Healthcare/Social Care Commissions

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to publish his plans for merging the Healthcare and Social Care Commissions. [224538]

Dr. Ladyman [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The decision to merge the Commission for Social Care Inspection with the Healthcare Commission was announced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer during his budget statement on 16 March 2005.

Further details of the planned merger will be confirmed following consultation with both Commissions, taking account of a proposed wider review of regulation in social care and health.

Klinefelter Syndrome

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy that those with Klinefelter syndrome should be exempt from prescription charges. [224913]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We have no plans to extend the existing list of medical conditions that give exemption from prescription charges. The list has been reviewed on a number of occasions but no clear cut case for extending it has emerged. There is no consensus on what additional conditions might be included in any revised list of medical exemptions, or how distinctions could be drawn between one condition and another.

McKinsy and Co

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been paid by Monitor to McKinsey and Co. since it was established. [223698]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: This is a matter for Monitor, the statutory name of which is the independent regulator of national health service foundation trusts. The Chairman will write to the hon. Member and a copy of his reply will be placed in the Library.

Medical Staff (Assaults)

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many assaults have there been on (a) doctors, (b) nurses, (c) midwives and (d) ambulance crews in each year since 1997; and what proportion of those assaults led to a prosecution in each year. [224113]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The information requested has not been collected centrally hitherto but a new national reporting system for physical assaults against national health service staff is being put in place and this will be fully operational by summer 2005.

Mental Health

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps have been taken to improve mental health services provided to the black and ethnic minority community. [224872]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government are committed to equality of access to mental health services, equality of experience of those services, and equality of outcome from services. On 11 January 2005, we published "Delivering Race Equality in Mental Health Care", combined with our response to the independent inquiry into the death of David Bennett. Together, they represent a comprehensive five-year action plan for tackling inequalities and discrimination in services for black and minority ethnic communities.

The action plan is based on three building blocks:

better, more responsive services—for example through training in cultural awareness for all mental health staff; better engagement of local services with black and minority ethnic communities, supported by the recruitment of 500 new community development workers; and better information about service use and experience, including a new annual national census of mental health patients. The first census took place on 31 March 2005.

Implementation of the action plan is being led by Professor Kamlesh Patel QBE, head of the centre for ethnicity and health at the university of central Lancashire and chair of the Mental Health Act Commission. To support implementation, sites within 17 strategic health authorities across England have been selected to help identify and spread best practice.

"Delivering Race Equality in Mental Health Care" is available on the Department's website.

The objectives of "Delivering Race Equality" are supported by the Department's wider equality and human rights programme and by a 27-point cross-Government action plan on mental health published by the social exclusion unit (SEU) in June 2004. The SEU plan recognises that people with mental health problems are among the most excluded in society; its implementation is being led by the National Institute for Mental Health in England, in collaboration over 20 Government Departments and other organisations at national level.

MRSA

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the results were of the mandatory MRSA bloodstream infection count for the quarter October to December 2004. [223856]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 4 April 2005]: From March 2005, data on methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections have been published by six monthly intervals. The information for October 2004 to March 2005 will be published once the data has been compiled by the Health Protection Agency.

National Electronic Library for Health

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the reasons are for the decision to terminate access to treatment notes on the national electronic library for health in May 2005; and if he will make a statement. [221863]

Mr. Hutton: The Consumers Association was funded for one year to supply an electronic version of treatment notes to the national health service, to complement the paper copies sold to NHS organisations. The contract for this service expired on 31 March 2005.

NHS Direct

Mr. Dobson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 436W, on NHS Direct, what the intended new status of NHS Direct is; and what assessment he has made of its likely impact on the (a) financing, (b) status of the staff and (c) accountability of NHS Direct. [223969]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: As part of the arms length body review, the Department is assessing the future status of NHS Direct, with a view to it becoming a new organisation from April 2006. Financing, the status of staffing and accountability will feature in the evaluation of the new organisation.

NHS Finances

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the level of NHS income from charges was in each year since 1990–91, broken down by income from (a) fees and charges from health authorities, (b) fees and charges from district health authorities, (c) road traffic accident income, (d) fees and charges from NHS trusts, (e) NHS Supplies Authority fees, (f) dental charges, (g) prescription charges, (h) nursing home inspection fees, (i) subsidised dried milk, (j) Medicines Control Agency: licences and inspections, (k) youth treatment service income, (l) NHS Pensions Agency fees, (m) Medical Devices Agency fees, (n) Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority: licences fees, (o) English National Board for Nursing registration fees and (p) other charges. [222805]

Mr. Hutton: National health service income figures from fees and charges are shown in the table. The table includes fees and charges to bodies outside the NHS, charges to private and overseas patients and charges to NHS patients.

The only charges to NHS patients are those for dental and prescription charges. The proportion of charges to NHS patients compared with the total fees and charges income has fallen from 54.4 per cent. in 1997–98 to 45.9 per cent. in 2003–04.

[13] In 2001–02 the Department has directed that no ETR fees should be charged and that ETR fees held in reserve should be utilised to fund the ENB's on-going students record function for the final year of its operation.
[14] From April 2002, the National Care Standards Commission (NCSC) regulated nursing homes; health authorities no longer collect the fee income.
[15] "Other" contains mainly charges for private patients and overseas visitors but also special health authority fees and charges.

Notes:
1. Information on fees and charges in (a) to (o) has been provided from the audited accounts of NHS bodies and specified NDPBs.

2. Information in (p) has been provided for NHS trusts, PCTs and special health authorities.
3. Information has not been provided for other non-departmental public bodies as accounts for the period are not readily available.
4. The presentation of fees and charges in accounts is not necessarily consistent between years and therefore direct comparisons may not be relevant.
5. The NHS and a number of listed bodies have been subject to reorganisations over the period under question, therefore figures may only be available for limited years.

NICE Representations

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what representations he has received from the National Institute for Clinical Excellence about the provision of (a) Reminyl, (b) Aricept, (c) Exelon and (d) Ebixa treatments by the NHS. [224824]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Ministers have not received any representations from the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) about these drugs. The Department has, along with other stakeholders, commented on NICE'S recent draft technology appraisal of these drugs. The Department's response was published on 22 March and is available on the Department website (www.dh.gov.uk) and in the Library.

Nurses (Hampshire)

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many nurses were employed in Hampshire in each of the past 10 years. [224730]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information requested is shown in the table.

NHS hospital and community health services: qualified nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff within Hampshire and Isle of Wight strategic health authority area for respective years

Operations

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many operations were contracted for in each of his Department's contracts with independent sector firms to provide NHS operations; how many operations have been completed under each contract; and how many operations have been paid for but were not completed within the contracted time scale. [223254]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 22 March 2005]: All wave 1 contracts with independent sector (IS) providers are for fixed terms (usually five years) and set numbers of procedures. IS providers are required to treat patients referred to them in order to be paid and it is the responsibility of the national health service to ensure that appropriate numbers of patients are referred to ensure that resources are not wasted and that patients receive treatment as quickly as possible. The number of patients treated under the schemes that are currently operational is shown in the tables

Premature Babies

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the survival rate of premature babies born at (a) 20, (b) 21, (c) 22, (d) 23 and (e) 24 weeks gestation was in the last year for which figures are available; and what proportion of surviving babies experienced long-term severe disability. [224726]

Dr. Ladyman: This data is not collected centrally.

A recent study of survival and disability in children born at 25 or fewer completed weeks of gestation confirms the association with mortality, and with morbidity and disability for survivors, which may persist into later life. It also notes that the greater introduction of antenatal treatment with corticosteroids and surfactants are important determinants of the increased survival of extremely preterm infants and observes that this may have some bearing on long-term outcomes. The study, entitled EPICure, is available on the following website: http://www.nottinaham.ac.uk/human-development/EPICure/.

Private Operations

Ms Munn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on whether patients who are being treated privately for a hospital operation may receive public funding to meet part of the cost. [224765]

Mr. Hutton: There is no statutory power under existing legislation, which would enable patients to receive public funding, in whole or in part, for private treatment in such circumstances.

Current legislation makes provision for a national health service which is delivered free of charge, except where there is a statutory basis for making a charge. Any other charge for a NHS service would be unlawful. We have no plans to introduce legislation to change this, and remain committed to a free NHS.

There is no statutory provision for charging United Kingdom residents for their hospital operations funded by the NHS, whether they are carried out by an NHS organisation or through the independent sector. Nor is there any statutory provision for such services to be part funded in this way by the NHS. If they are funded by the NHS they must be free of charge to the patient and funded in full.

Renal Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding he has made available for research into kidney disease in each year since 1997. [222830]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department funds research to support policy and to provide the evidence needed to underpin quality improvement and service development in the national health service through its national research programmes. Expenditure on research into kidney disease supported by these programmes is shown in the table.

	Amount (£000)
1997–98	0
1998–99	44
1999–2000	94
2000–01	102
2001–02	138
2002–03	224
2003–04	284

Over 75 per cent. of the Department's total expenditure on health research is devolved to and managed by NHS organisations. The NHS has reported spending from this funding in support of renal disease as follows:

	Amount1 (£ million)
2002–03	11.1
2003–04	10.6

[1] The figures represent the aggregate sum as reported by some 280 Individual research-active NHS organisations in the appropriate year.

This expenditure data was not collected centrally prior to 2002.

Sane

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment has been made of the impact on services provided by SANE of changes in central Government funding over the next three years. [216433]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Currently, the Department has made no formal assessment of the effectiveness of SANELINE service. The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two-year contract for the SANELINE service. The contract comes to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

The chair of the Mental Health Helplines Partnership (MHHP), of which SANE was until recently a member, has written to SANE offering the partnership's support. The Department has indicated to the chair of the MHHP that it would offer advice and support to the partnership in this matter.

SANE is eligible to apply for Government funding streams aimed at the voluntary and community sector.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the service provided by SANELINE. [221992]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Currently, the Department has made no formal assessment of the effectiveness of the SANELINE service. However, on previous occasions when SANE has said it would need to close the SANELINE service, the Department conducted discussions with other helpline mental health providers to support SANELINE callers, who would have been affected.

The Chair of the Mental Health Helplines Partnership (MHHP), of which SANE was until recently a member, has written to SANE offering the Partnership's support. The Department has indicated to the Chair of the MHHP that it would offer advice and support to the Partnership in this matter.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department decided to withhold payments on its contract with SANE to provide the SANELINE service in 2004–05; and for what reason the decision was taken. [221993]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department does not consider that it withheld payments from SANE in respect of the contract for the SANELINE service. The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two year contract for the SANELINE service. The contract came to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of whether his Department has fulfilled the undertakings and requirements of the compact on relations between government and the voluntary and community sector in its relations with SANE. [221994]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two year contract for the SANELINE service. The contract came to an end on 31 March, 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

The Department is fully committed to consolidating and developing partnership working with the voluntary and community sector and to supporting the COMPACT agreement.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department agreed a resolution on the partnership between the Department and SANE. [222686]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two-year contract for the SANELINE service. The contract comes to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what disagreements regarding grant funding remain outstanding between his Department and SANE. [222711]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the contract for the SANELINE service. The contract came to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department will pay the interest owed to SANE on its contract to provide the SANELINE service. [222664]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has paid SANE £2 million in respect of the contract for the SANELINE service. The contract comes to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons he is proposing not to renew funding for SANELINE. [222666]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department has paid SANE a total of £2 million in respect of the two-year contract for SANELINE service. The contract comes to an end on 31 March 2005. SANE is seeking additional unqualified payments because it alleges that some of the payments were delayed. The Department will continue to seek to resolve this matter with SANE. SANE is eligible to apply for Government funding streams aimed at the voluntary and community sector.

Sir Derek Wanless

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when (a) he, (b) other Ministers in his Department and (c) officials in his Department last met Sir Derek Wanless. [224038]

Ms Rosie Winterton: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Health, last met Sir Derek Wanless on 12 November 2003. My hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Public Health (Miss Melanie Johnson) met him on 12 December 2004. Officials have met Sir Derek on numerous occasions in the course of his work on public health and in relation to the "Choosing Health" White Paper.

Speech/Occupational Therapists

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) speech therapists and (b) occupational therapists have been employed by the NHS in Hampshire in each of the past 10 years. [224727]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information requested is shown in the table.

WALES

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223435]

Mr. Hain: Resource and capital departmental expenditure limit (DEL) budgets beyond 2007–08 will, as normal, be determined in future spending reviews.

Public Transport (Disabled Access)

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with the National Assembly for Wales Secretary for Transport on disabled access on Welsh public transport. [224100]

Mr. Touhig: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with Assembly Ministers on matters affecting Wales. Under the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 transport providers must take reasonable steps to remove physical barriers, to make their services accessible. As part of the Assembly's longer distance bus and coach strategy a number of long-distance routes now operate accessible buses, as do many local services: buses with poor accessibility are to be phased out by 2017, and rail vehicles by 2020.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

"Millennium Ecosystem Assessment"

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the implications for his Department of the study, "Millennium Ecosystem Assessment", published by the United Nations and the World Bank on 30 March; what plans he has to liaise with the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on the impact of the report on the implementation of climate change and sustainable development strategies; and if he will make a statement. [224695]

Hilary Benn: The Department for International Development (DFID) welcomes the launch of "Millennium Ecosystem Assessment" (MA). The report provides a useful and comprehensive overview of recent trends in ecosystem function. The detailed findings of the MA will further strengthen the evidence base for addressing the linkages between poverty and environment. This includes specific consideration of the role of ecosystems in supporting the livelihoods of the poor and the implications of changes in ecosystem function for achievement of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

DFID officials have reviewed the main findings of the MA Synthesis Report. They welcome the MA's detailed overview of the status of ecosystems and the consideration of change under different scenarios. DFID's interests primarily relate to policies and actions that respond to environmental challenges while bringing financial and livelihood benefits to the poor. The MA responses of particular interest to DFID include those on: strengthening the integration of environmental considerations in development co-operation; developing markets and economic based incentives for more sustainable ecosystem use; and the research and application of appropriate technologies. This will support development and improvement of tools to better integrate environmental considerations into development co-operation. DFID is already active in many of these areas, for example in taking forward our commitments to support developing countries to integrate environmental considerations into Poverty Reduction Strategies; and work on payment for ecosystem services.

DFID will encourage the agencies involved in commissioning the report, including the Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO) and the Secretariats of the Conventions (in particular the Convention on Biological Diversity and the Framework Convention on Climate Change), to use the MA's analyses and results to inform their policy and implementation work.

DFID maintains strong working relationships with the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, especially in the areas of climate change, biodiversity and sustainable development. DFID officials will continue to work closely with DEFRA on these issues, taking account of the relevant findings of the MA.

Aid Suspension

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development in relation to which countries the UK has suspended aid in the past four years; and what the reasons were in each case. [224693]

Hilary Benn: The only instance since 2001–02 where the UK has suspended its bilateral aid programme is in Zimbabwe. DFID, in line with most other donors, suspended traditional development assistance programmes in late 2001 because of the poor policies of the Government and their unwillingness to engage constructively with the international community on crucial issues of political and economic governance. Our assistance has been confined to humanitarian assistance and support for civil society and United Nations programmes to tackle HIV and AIDS.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223442]

Hilary Benn: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by the Financial Secretary to the Treasury on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Iraq

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many attacks there have been on British forces in Iraq in each month since April 2003. [210612]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 24 January 2005]: I have been asked to reply.

Tuberculosis

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will make a statement on the outcome of his Department's work with the World Health Organisation on the launch of the Global Tuberculosis Control Report. [224809]

Hilary Benn: The Global Tuberculosis Control Report was launched on 23 March by the Director General of the World Health Organisation at a press briefing in London co-hosted by DFID. The Report for 2005 says that global Tuberculosis (TB) prevalence has declined by more than 20 per cent. since 1990 and that incidence is now falling or stable in five of the six regions of the world. The exception is Africa, where TB is one of the most common illnesses among people with AIDS. TB incidence has tripled since 1990 in countries with high HIV prevalence and are still rising across the continent at a rate of 3–4 per cent. annually.

DFID supports bilateral TB programmes in some countries and sector support in others. On 23 March, DFID also pledged £5 million over the next three years to the Stop TB partnership, this will provide technical support to expand TB programmes in recipient countries. The UK will work through our presidencies of the G8, and the EU to secure the international commitment needed to scale up TB control. DFID has commenced a consultation on TB with NGOs, academic institutions and others with expertise on how the UK can best do this.

World Bank

Dr. Tonge: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will list the World Bank projects and programmes which his Department is co-financing relating to (a) privatisation, (b) public sector restructuring and (c) agricultural liberalisation in (i) Mozambique, (ii) Uganda, (iii) Ghana, (iv) Tanzania, (v) India, (vi) Jamaica and (vii) Kyrgyzstan. [224692]

Hilary Benn: DFID is currently co-financing with the World Bank the following projects/programmes in the areas of privatisation, public sector restructuring and agricultural liberalisation:

Country	Project/Programme title
Ghana	Land Administration Project
Ghana	Multi-Donor Budget Support Programme
Ghana	Support to Government of Ghana Private Sector Development Strategy and Trade Programme
India	Andhra Pradesh Economic and Public Sector Reform Project
Jamaica	No projects/programmes currently being co-financed
Kyrgyzstan	Rural Water Supply and Sanitation Project
Mozambique	Reform of the Public Service
Mozambique	Support to Reforms in Public Expenditure Management
Tanzania	Selective Accelerated Salary Enhancement Project
Tanzania	Integrated Support to the Public Service Reform Programme
Tanzania	Commission for Parastatal Sector Reform
Uganda	Decentralisation Support Programme

TRANSPORT

A3 (Hindhead)

Virginia Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the need for improvements to the A3 at Hindhead. [224954]

Mr. Jamieson: The Highways Agency gave a full assessment of the need for improvements to the A3 at Hindhead to the recent public inquiry into the published proposals for the scheme. The Inspector's Report is expected later this year.

Operation Stack

Mr. Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what assessment he has made of the economic effects on (a) the road haulage industry and (b) the Kent economy of the implementations of Operation Stack on the M20 between 17 March 2004 and 17 March 2005; [224455]

(2) what representations he has received on the effects of Operation Stack on the M20; and if he will make a statement. [224456]

Mr. Jamieson: No economic assessment of the effects of Operation Stack between 17 March 2004 and 17 March 2005 on either the road haulage industry or the Kent economy has been undertaken by the Department or the Highways Agency.

The Department and the Highways Agency have received a number of representations from local residents, the Road Haulage Association, the Freight Transport Association and hon. Members, expressing their concerns about the impact of Operation Stack on the M20 and the local road network.

The Highways Agency is currently considering what alternative arrangements might be possible, both in the short and longer term, to reduce the delay for travellers.

PRIME MINISTER

Ministerial Visits

David Burnside: To ask the Prime Minister what plans he has to visit the Province during the period between the dissolution of Parliament and the date of the next general election. [224817]

The Prime Minister: For security reasons, my future engagements are announced as and when appropriate.

UK Trade

Mr. Brady: To ask the Prime Minister what discussions he has had with the EU Trade Commissioner since his appointment relating to (a) trade policy and (b) UK domestic policy; what the dates were of each meeting and who was present at each. [224896]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave my hon. Friend the Member for Stroud (Mr. Drew) on 24 January 2005, Official Report, columns 93–94W.

Nagasaki

Llew Smith: To ask the Prime Minister when he received a letter from Sakve Shimohira on behalf of the Association for the Bereaved Families of the Atomic Bomb Dead in Nagasaki; and what response he has made. [221735].

The Prime Minister: [pursuant to his answer, 21 March, Offical Report, c. 569W]: I have received a letter in the form of a petition. I have asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to reply to the organisation via my hon. Friend the Member for Blaenau Gwent (Llew Smith).

TREASURY

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many civil servants in his Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223901]

Mr. Boateng: The Departments for which the Chancellor is responsible, including HM Treasury, HM Revenue and Customs and Office of National Statistics, have a target to relocate 5,050 posts out of London and the South East by 2010. HM Revenue and Customs will contribute over 80 per cent. towards this target.

In 2004–05, HM Revenue and Customs relocated 249 posts mainly to Cardiff, Bournemouth and Truro, and Office of National Statistics 12 posts to Newport.

Crown Estate

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much the Crown Estate has raised from rents levied on salmon farmers in (a) Orkney and (b) Shetland in each of the last 10 years. [224944]

Mr. Timms: The information is as follows:

£000

Financial year	Orkney rent	Shetland rent	Total
1996	46	435	481
1997	53	488	540
1998	33	280	313
1999	81	790	872
2000	112	725	837
2001	121	800	921
2002	138	748	886
2003	33	350	384
2004	67	586	653

Note:
Figures for the financial year ending 31 March 2005 are not yet available.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much the Crown Estate has raised from charges levied on marinas and piers in Orkney and Shetland in each of the last 10 years. [224945]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not available.

Customs and Excise (Droitwich Spa)

Mr. Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether payment of excess fares to staff currently employed at the Customs and Excise office in Droitwich Spa and who are transferred to other offices will be subject to income tax. [224520]

Dawn Primarolo: The excess fares allowance (EFA) is designed to assist with the additional travelling costs staff incur when they are transferred to another workplace at public expense. The allowance is taxable and staff are personally liable for the tax. The Department will not gross up the allowance for tax since EFA payments assist staff with their personal liability: that is, their journey to and from their place of work.

EU Regulations

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) pursuant to his oral statement of 16 March 2005, Official Report, column 262, that half of major new regulations are from the European Union, on what data this assessment was based; and if he will make a statement on the new guidelines for the implementation of EU law in the UK; [224994]

(2) what proportion of (a) regulations and (b) the cost of regulation was accounted for by legislation wholly or partly implementing EU legislation in the last 10 years, according to (i) regulatory impact assessments carried out by the UK Government and (ii) assessments carried out by institutions of the European Union. [224995]

Mr. Timms: The Cabinet Office's Regulatory Impact Unit, who monitor compliance with the Regulatory Impact Assessment Process, estimate that around half of all new legislation with a significant impact on business, charities and the voluntary sector emanates from the EU.

From the beginning of 2005, the European Commission is submitting all legislation in its work programme to an impact assessment. Furthermore, under the UK Presidency of the European Union, the European Commission will launch pilots in order to develop a common methodology for the measurement of the administrative burden associated with new and existing EU laws. These initiatives should allow such impacts to be more accurately measured in the future.

With regards to the new guidelines for implementation of EU law in the UK, I would refer the hon. Member to paragraph 3.25 in Budget 2005, a copy of which can be found in the House of Commons Library and on the HM Treasury website.

Financial Ombudsman Service

Mr. Stunell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will require pensions advisers to comply with compensation assessment findings by the Financial Ombudsman Service; and if he will make a statement. [224947]

Mr. Timms: Under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000, all authorised firms and persons are required to comply with the decisions of the Financial Ombudsman Service. Under the Act, if the complainant notifies the ombudsman that he accepts the determination, it is binding on the respondent and the complainant and is final.

Iraq

Annabelle Ewing: To ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he had a role in the (a) framing, (b) drafting and (c) drawing up of the answer given by the Attorney-General on 17 March 2003 on Iraq.[218596]

Mr. Timms: The Chancellor of the Exchequer had no role in framing, drafting or drawing up the answer.

MOD Land (Purchases)

Mr. Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy to buy the site of the Army Medal Office, Ordnance Survey Office and Customs and Excise Office from the Ministry of Defence. [224568]

Dawn Primarolo: HM Customs and Excise have a strategy to concentrate non-location specific work such as the majority of work carried out in the Droitwich into principal office sites. In the West Midlands these are located in Birmingham and Wolverhampton. The formation of HM Revenue and Customs requires savings to be made on accommodation costs, to achieve this Customs are seeking to maximise use of their existing accommodation at these principal offices.

Mortgages

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the current average outstanding balance on mortgages for homes in (a) the UK, (b) Yorkshire and (c) York; what the typical month's interest payable on each of those balances was at the latest date for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of what the interest on each balance would have been (i) in May 1997 and (ii) immediately after the pound fell out of the exchange rate mechanism in 1992. [224812]

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent estimate he has made of the average size of mortgages in (a) Bassetlaw and (b) the East Midlands. [225027]

Mr. Timms: An approximate estimate for the current UK average outstanding mortgage balance is £77,000, based on Bank of England and Council of Mortgage Lenders' data. No geographic breakdowns of the data are provided. The average mortgage interest rate, based on National Statistics data, was 5.2 per cent. in January 2005, 6.7 per cent. in May 1997 and 10.6 per cent. in September 1992.

National Insurance

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many telephone calls have been made by officials in his Department to persons concerning deficiencies in their national insurance contribution records in each of the past five calendar years; and what advice was tendered by officials to persons in this position. [224935]

Mr. Timms: Deficiency notices are issued to individuals with a gap in their national insurance contributions record. The notice gives them the opportunity to query their record or to pay voluntary contributions to make up the record. Individuals can ring a dedicated helpline for information to enable them to decide what to do. They will only receive a telephone call if they ask to be rung back. No records are kept of the calls made.

No. 11 Downing Street (Entertaining)

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will list the individuals who were entertained at 11 Downing street in 2004. [223764]

Mr. Timms: A wide range of individuals and organisations attend official functions at No. 11 Downing street. All such functions are held in accordance with the provisions of the Ministerial Code.

Patient Numbers (Southend)

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what discussions the Office for National Statistics has had with Southend primary care trust on the number of patients registered in Southend. [224918]

Mr. Timms: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician. I have asked him to reply.

Letter from Len Cook to Mr. David Amess, dated 7 April 2005:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning what discussions the Office for National Statistics (ONS) has had with Southend Primary Care Trust on the number of patients registered in Southend. (224918)

ONS has not had any discussions with Southend Primary Care Trust regarding the number of patients registered in Southend. ONS have had several meetings with representatives of Southend-on-Sea Borough Council since Southend-on-Sea was one of the areas that was selected for study as part of the 2004 Local Authority Studies. These studies were carried out to improve population estimates in the areas that proved hardest to count in the 2001 Census in England and Wales. The results of these studies showed that better estimates of the population could be made in 15 areas, however for the great majority of areas, including Southend-on-Sea, the previously published 2001 Census based population estimate remains the best estimate of the population.

As part of these studies ONS reviewed the evidence for all 376 Local Authorities to identify where population estimates may have been at risk. Patient registers were one of several administrative data sources that were used as part of the process to select areas for study.

Southend-on-Sea Borough Council have provided analysis to ONS which includes comparisons between the number of patients registered with a doctor in Southend-on-Sea and the population estimates. We would not expect these two data sources to be the same since patient registers are not designed to measure population.

Pensioner Households (Additional Payments)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 22 March 2005, Official Report, column 706W, on Northern Ireland, what the duration in Northern Ireland will be of the additional £200 payment to over-65 pensioner ratepayer households equivalent to that in Great Britain. [224175]

Mr. Timms: The one-off additional payment of £200 to be paid to council tax (or rate) paying households with someone aged 65 and over announced in Budget 2005 will be made alongside the 2005 winter fuel payments in Great Britain, i.e. before the end of December 2005.

Northern Ireland Ministers will be introducing similar arrangements to those being introduced in Great Britain. The details are matters for Northern Ireland Ministers.

Rateable Values (Stables)

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the system of assessing rateable values of properties with stables where the stables are used entirely for non-commercial gain. [224875]

Mr. Timms: No such assessment has been undertaken.

Tax Credit

John Mann: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects the tax credit case of Simone Farrell of Bircotes in Bassetlaw constituency to be resolved. [225025]

John Healey: I understand that the Tax Credit Office advised the hon. Member earlier today that they would be writing to his constituent about this matter very shortly.

Taxes and Benefits

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the average effect of taxes and benefits in (a) 1979, (b) 1997, (c) the current financial year and (d) five years' time on each decile of (i) individuals and (ii) household incomes for (A) pensions and (B) families with children. [225022]

John Healey: The detailed analysis requested cannot be undertaken in the time available before Parliament is Prorogued later today.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Burmese Teak

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what policy direction she has given to lottery distributors regarding the use of Burmese teak. [224767]

Estelle Morris: I have issued no such policy direction. The policy directions issued to the lottery distributors set out the framework for the wider aims of lottery funding, and do not specify detailed criteria.

The directions do include the need for the distributing bodies to further the objectives of sustainable development when awarding lottery grants. The lottery distributing bodies are strongly committed to sustainable development, including the procurement of timber from legal and sustainable sources.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will make a statement on the use of Burmese teak in the Lottery-funded restoration of HMS Warrior; and what assessment she has made of whether importing Burmese teak for such use is in line with Government policy regarding trade with Burma. [224768]

Estelle Morris: In December 2000, the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) awarded a grant of £725,000 to the Warrior Preservation Trust for the restoration of HMS Warrior, the Royal Navy's first ironclad and the most revolutionary warship of her age. The award was conditional upon the trust satisfying HLF that the teak came from a sustainable source.

The Heritage Lottery Fund agreed new guidance on timber procurement in January 2005. Under this guidance, all timber used on HLF-funded projects must be obtained from verifiable legal sources. The preference must always be for HLF grant recipients to use timber that can be shown to have been obtained from sustainably managed forests. The guidance has been developed with the assistance of the UK Government's 'Central Point of Expertise on Timber' (CPET). Although there is no ban on companies trading with Burma, the Government does not encourage trade and investment with that country; neither does it give financial support to promote trade missions there.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for her Department is for 2011–12. [223429]

Mr. Caborn: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Timms) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Drinks Industry

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will list meetings her Department has had with representatives of the drinks, licensing and public house industries in the last 12 months, broken down by (a) date and (b) attendees; and whether civil servants were present at the meetings to record what occurred. [209544]

Mr. Caborn: I regret that it has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Droitwich Spa Lido

Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if she will make a statement on proposals to list the Droitwich Spa Lido building. [224882]

Mr. Caborn: The most recent application to list this building has been assessed by English Heritage, the Secretary of State's statutory advisors on listing matters. English Heritage's advice has now been sent to the Department and officials are considering this advice prior to advising Ministers. This building was previously assessed in 2002 and the decision taken then was that the building was not of sufficient architectural merit to warrant being listed.

Film Piracy

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps she is taking to tackle film piracy. [224655]

Estelle Morris: Together with Lord Sainsbury, Minister for Science and Innovation at the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI), I chair the Creative Industries Forum on Intellectual Property. The forum has been exploring the issue of piracy as it affects all the creative industries. The forum's members include Government Departments and representatives from the creative industries sectors, including the UK Film Council, the Government's strategic agency for film. The threat of piracy to the film industry was outlined in the UK Film Council's report "Film Theft in the UK", published in December 2004 and these findings have been fed into the work of the forum.

We expect the forum to make final recommendations later this year. The Government will consider these and make a detailed response in due course.

Public Service Agreements

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent assessment she has made of whether the public service agreement target to halt the rise in obesity among children aged under 11 by 2010 will be met. [219971]

Mr. Caborn: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my hon. Friend the Minister for Public Health (Miss Johnson) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1101W.

CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS

Antisocial Behaviour

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs how long it took for a case for a breach of an antisocial behaviour order to appear before the courts in the last period for which figures are available; what the sentencing guidelines are in such cases; and what sentences have been imposed by the courts for breaches of such orders. [224898]

Mr. Lammy: Data is not collected on the time it takes for breach of an antisocial behaviour order (ASBO) to be brought before the court.

Breach of an ASBO carries a maximum penalty of six months imprisonment and/or a maximum £5,000 fine in the magistrates courts and a maximum five years imprisonment and/or a fine in the Crown court. The maximum sentence the Youth Court can impose is a 2-year detention and training order. Guidance on how to deal with a breach is set out in the "Magistrates' Courts Sentencing Guidelines" produced by the Magistrates' Association. These give a starting point guideline of custody based on a first time adult offender pleading not guilty. They also list examples of possible aggravating factors. When dealing with a child or young person, the court is required to have regard to his or her welfare.

Data on the sentences imposed by the courts for breach of ASBO is available for the period June 2000 to December 2003. It shows that 55 per cent. of defendants who breached their ASBO received a custodial sentence, 27 per cent. received a community penalty, 9 per cent. received a fine, 3 per cent. received a discharge and 6 per cent. received some other sentence.

Discipline Policy

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs if the Lord Chancellor will discipline or dismiss Mr. Philip Bassett for his use of foul and abusive language to BBC employees when present with the Lord Chancellor in an official capacity in BBC studios on the morning of 21 March. [224837]

Mr. Lammy: No and No. Following the interview in the BBC studios on 21 March Mr. Bassett sent a letter of explanation to the editor of the Today programme and apologised unreservedly. No further action is contemplated.

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs what his Department's policy is on the use of foul and abusive language by its employees when dealing with third parties. [224838]

Mr. Lammy: My Department conduct policy identifies offensive language as one example of inappropriate behaviour. Serious cases, or repeated incidences of minor misconduct, would result in formal action. Line managers are encouraged in the first instance to resolve issues of minor misconduct informally.

Judicial Officers

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time judicial officers were in post in each year since 1975, broken down by gender. [224775]

Mr. Lammy: Figures detailing the numbers in post across the full range of judicial offices for 1975–87 are not easily available in any complete form. It is important to note that the figures provided are not necessarily complete and reflect only those that are available or were collected.

The number of judicial officers that were in post between 1987–92 is detailed in tables A (full time) and B (part time). Gender breakdown for this period has not been given because it is not available. These figures include the Tribunal posts known about.

The numbers of judicial officers who were in post 1993–2004 are detailed in tables C (i) and (ii) for full time officers and D (i) and (ii) for part time officers) and are broken down by gender. The figures for the years 1993–98 do not include Tribunal offices as these are incomplete and unobtainable in this timescale or without disproportionate cost.

The figures for 1999–2004, include tribunal posts and come from the DCA's judicial database and reflect the information held regarding those posts, at the time of obtaining the statistics.

Between 1999–2004 there were a number of Tribunal officers in post who cannot be verified by the judicial database as full or part time. These figures are detailed in table E and are not included in tables C or D.

In post figures for the Lay Magistracy between 1988–2004 can be found at table F. Figures are not available for the years 1987 and 1989. Until 2001 the figures were compiled on a calendar year basis, after which they were compiled on a financial year basis. All figures include the Duchy of Lancaster.

Overseas Citizens

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Parliamentary Secretary, Department for Constitutional Affairs if he will estimate the proportions of eligible UK citizens resident overseas who have not registered to vote, broken down by (a) service personnel and (b) civilians. [224953]

Mr. Lammy: The information is not collected. British citizens resident overseas are entitled to apply to be included on the overseas electors' list. This is not compulsory, however, and electoral registration officers are not required to obtain or record the proportion of eligible British citizens previously resident in the electoral area for which they are responsible who do not register as overseas voters. It is not possible to identify separately those overseas electors who may also be service personnel. According to the Office for National Statistics the number of British citizens included on the overseas electors' list in December 2004 was 9,672.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Civilian Trials (Armed Forces)

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Solicitor-General if the Attorney-General will review the application of the double jeopardy rule as it relates to soldiers going to trial in the civilian courts having lost the opportunity of a court martial on the grounds that the commanding officer found there was no case to answer. [224461]

The Solicitor-General: The double jeopardy rule applies to soldiers in the same way as it does to defendants in the civilian courts. The Attorney-General will not review the application of the double jeopardy rule as it relates to soldiers going to trial in the civilian courts.

For the doctrine of autrefois convict/acquit to apply the defendant must stand for a second time "in jeopardy". "Jeopardy" means a real risk or danger of punishment following conviction. In cases transferred to the civilian system from the military the doctrine of autrefois convict/acquit will apply as in any other case.

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Solicitor-General pursuant to her oral answer of 24 March, in what circumstances it would be appropriate to bring to trial a serving soldier in the civilian courts. [224462]

The Solicitor-General: The vast majority of offences committed by Army personnel are dealt with by courts martial, following investigation by the military police. In some cases both in the UK and abroad there is concurrent jurisdiction. Often, the most appropriate jurisdiction is for the case to proceed in the military system. When considering the appropriate jurisdiction for trial the various considerations will be taken into account such as where the offence was allegedly committed in operational circumstances; whether there are other charges which can only be preferred under military law; witness availability; whether the alleged victim is military or civilian; whether the soldiers committed offences with civilians who are not subject to military law.

This is not an exhaustive nor cumulative list but an example of the type of considerations that will apply in deciding when it would be appropriate to bring to trial a serving soldier in the civilian courts.

Correspondence

David Winnick: To ask the Solicitor-General, when will she reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall, North of 24 January concerning a constituent, reference ULS/8/05 [224786]

The Solicitor-General: I have no record of receiving the hon. Member's letter dated 24 January. However, I will write to him to advise him of the outcome of the case about which I wrote to him on 24 January.

Crown Prosecution Service

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General what the cost of staffing the Crown Prosecution Service was in (a) Essex and (b) Southend in each year since 1997. [222488]

The Solicitor-General: The figures given in the following table include the staff in the trials unit preparing papers for prosecutions in the Crown court, as well as staff allocated to prosecutions in magistrates court, and staff engaged in administrative support and management.

Total staff payroll costs for Essex

1997–98	2,680,184
1998–99	2,866,935
1999–2000	3,005,097
2000–01	3,169,339
2001–02	3,818,204
2002–03	4,392,303
2003–04	4,912,280
2004 (To date)	4,924,402

Southend Criminal Justice Unit (CJU) restructured following the implementation of the Glidewell Project in 2000. This resulted in transfer of staff from Chelmsford's main office, to the co-located Criminal Justice Units shared with Essex Police, and is reflected in a discontinuity in payroll figures for periods before and after the date of re-structuring.

Total staff payroll costs for Southend CJU

1997–98	455,631
1998–99	487,379
1999–2000	482,907
2000–01	494,527
2001–02	439,249
2002–03	619,278
2003–04	656,845
2004 (To date)	524,390

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General what plans she has to make the activities of the Crown Prosecution Service more transparent when considering a prosecution. [219434]

The Solicitor-General: The Code for Crown Prosecutors, which sets out the guidance for prosecutors, is a publicly available document issued by the Director of Public Prosecutions. Detailed legal guidance that underpins the Code is available on the Crown Prosecution Service's website.

The Crown Prosecution Service now routinely explains to victims its decisions to discontinue or down grade the charges.

The Crown Prosecution Service explains its role to communities at both local and national levels and consults on the development of its prosecution policies, in particular in the areas of domestic violence, race crime, homophobic crime and the prosecution of rape offences.

HM Crown Prosecution Service Inspectorate inspects and reports on CPS Areas and thematic issues. The Crown Prosecution Service produces an Annual Report.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General (1) how many (a) domestic violence, (b) vehicle theft, (c) assault, (d) youth crime, (e) violence against the person, (f) violent crime and (g) sexual offence cases the Crown Prosecution Service has brought in (i) Essex and (ii) England and Wales in each year since 1997; and how many of these resulted in (A) conviction and (B) acquittal; [210456]

(2) how many cases have been referred to the Crown Prosecution Service relating to graffiti in (a) Essex and (b) England and Wales in each year since 1997; and how many resulted in (i) conviction and (ii) acquittal; [216356]

(3) how many prosecutions there have been in (a) Essex and (b) Southend for (i) possession of and (ii) dealing in each category of drug in each year since 1997; [219435]

(4) what criteria the Crown Prosecution Service uses in making decisions on whether or not to prosecute when a person is found dead under suspicious circumstances; [222477]

(5) how many objections have been lodged against lenient sentences in all categories of convictions in each year since 1997; and how many of those were successfully upheld in each year; [222474]

(6) pursuant to the answer of 8 February 2005, Official Report, column 1639W, on mobile phone offences, what the cost to public funds was of prosecutions since February 2004; and if she will make a statement; [222425]

(7) how many objections have been lodged against lenient sentences in all categories of convictions of police officers in each year since 1997; and how many of these in each year were successfully upheld. [222473]

The Solicitor-General: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Departmental Accounts

Tony Baldry: To ask the Solicitor-General whether she has issued written instructions to override her Department's accounting officer's objections since 1997. [221114]

The Solicitor-General: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Financial Secretary to the Treasury on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 79W.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Solicitor-General what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for the Law Officers' Department is for 2011–12. [223436]

The Solicitor-General: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Financial Secretary to the Treasury on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Legal Advice (Iraq)

Lynne Jones: To ask the Solicitor-General on how many occasions since 1997 law officers' advice had been presented to the Cabinet orally, prior to the Attorney-General's oral presentation to the Cabinet of his advice on the legality of the war in Iraq. [224712]

The Solicitor-General: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Lenient Sentences

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General, how many unduly lenient sentences for crimes committed by serving police officers have been referred to the Court of Appeal in (a) England, (b) Essex and (c) Southend in each of the last five years; and how many appeals have been upheld in each of those years. [224921]

The Solicitor-General: Records are kept by the Legal Secretariat to the Law Officers on the cases referred to Law Officers by prosecution agencies and those brought to the attention of Law Officers by direct correspondence. Records kept in the present form commenced in 2002.

Records are not organised by offenders' employment. Therefore, it is not possible to identify with certainty the number of references for the period when records commenced involving serving police officers.

Some data has been obtained by searching for references which contain the words "serving police officer". The following data was obtained:

2002—One case referred to the Court of Appeal which concerned a retired Metropolitan police officer. The sentence was unchanged.

2003—One case referred to the Court of Appeal which concerned a Kent police officer. The sentence was increased.

2004—Two cases were received by the Law Officers which involved police officers. The first concerned a retired Yorkshire constabulary officer. This was referred to the Court of Appeal which concluded the sentence was not unduly lenient. The second concerned a retired Metropolitan police officer. This was not referred to the Court of Appeal.

2005—One case has been received by the Law Officers which involved two serving police officers from the Surrey Constabulary. It was not referred to the Court of Appeal.

Ministerial Visits

Keith Vaz: To ask the Solicitor-General how many EU countries the Attorney-General has visited since his appointment. [220091]

The Solicitor-General: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

National Intelligence Database

Mr. Barnes: To ask the Solicitor-General what procedures (a) Government Departments and agencies and (b) local authorities with independent prosecuting authority for particular criminal offences use to forward details of convictions, cautions and intelligence on possible criminals to (i) the Criminal Records Bureau and (ii) the Police National Computer; what amendments to these procedures are proposed in relation to the National Intelligence Database; and if she will make a statement. [223002]

The Solicitor-General: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available for Prorogation.

Offences (Statutory Charging)

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General pursuant to her answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1637W, on Crown Prosecution Service (Essex Pilot), how many offences have been brought to justice through statutory charging in each of the areas where statutory charging is in operation. [222418]

The Solicitor-General: Between 17 May 2004 and 9 November 2004, statutory charging became operational in 14 police/CPS Areas. The number of cases which received early advice and charging decisions, and were finalised as convictions in each area since the area's implementation of statutory charging are as follows:

	Number
Avon and Somerset	2,721
Cleveland	1,881
Greater Manchester	4,194
Humberside	2,144
Kent	3,056
Lancashire	4,844
London	4,837
Merseyside	1,829
Northumbria	3,544
Nottinghamshire	2,721
South Yorkshire	2,671
Thames Valley	1,809
West Midlands	2,460
West Yorkshire	7,952
Total (all 14 areas)	46,663

Rape/Sexual Assault

Vera Baird: To ask the Solicitor-General what research the law officers have (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the reasons for the attrition rate in rape prosecutions. [215578]

The Solicitor-General: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Vera Baird: To ask the Solicitor-General what plans she has to ask the Crown Prosecution Service Inspectorate further to investigate the way in which rape is prosecuted in England and Wales. [215579]

The Solicitor-General: The Criminal Justice Chief Inspectors' Group intend to include a follow-up to the joint inspection of "Investigation and Prosecution of Cases Involving Allegations of Rape" (the report of which was published by HM Crown Prosecution Service Inspectorate and HM Inspectorate of Constabulary in April 2002) in its programme for 2005–06. Details of the programme have not been finalised, it is likely to be in the second half of the year.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Adult Education (Crosby)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what public funding has been spent on adult (a) literacy and (b) numeracy in Crosby in each of the last five years. [223885]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Adult Learning Inspectorate

Mr. Maples: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much has been spent in legal fees by the Adult Learning Inspectorate in contesting the unfair dismissal and sex discrimination cases brought by Mrs Lesley Virr; and who authorised this expenditure. [224744]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Maples: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much the Adult Learning Inspectorate spent on legal fees in the 12 months to 31 March. [224747]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Child Care (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many child care places have been created in York since 1997. [224648]

Margaret Hodge: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Child Protection

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what action she is taking to address the issues raised by Operation Paladin Child. [224343]

Margaret Hodge: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the proposed replacement of child protection measures with the integrated children's system. [224344]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 5 April 2005]: The Integrated Children's System (ICS) has been designed to enable social services and partner agencies to achieve better outcomes for children in need.

In the longer term, as the ICS becomes widely used, its supporting IT system will enable child protection and other children's services staff to identify children on the system who have been the subject of enquiries into whether they are at risk of suffering, or have suffered, significant harm; have been the subject of a child protection conference; or who are the subject of a child protection plan.

Once the system is developed and operating, there will no longer be a need for local authorities to maintain a Child Protection Register separate from or additional to the Integrated Children's System. No date has yet been identified for this change to be completed.

Children at Risk

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what measures are in place to monitor the effectiveness of procedures aimed at protecting children at risk when they move between England and Wales. [224951]

Margaret Hodge: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many civil servants in her Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223900]

Derek Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Community Family Trusts

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills when she expects to make an announcement concerning community family trusts grant programmes. [224836]

Margaret Hodge: We have not completed our consideration of applications under the Strengthening Families grant programme. Applications from organisations meeting the criteria for Strategic, ongoing MARS and FSG commitments (which include Family Matters York, Poole Community Family Trust, Somerset Family Partnerships and Totnes Community Family Trust) or Infrastructure/Change Up awards have been decided.

However, other applications, including others from the Community Family Trusts will be decided later in the summer.

Deaf Students

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what research she has commissioned on academic achievements of deaf and hard of hearing pupils in (a) mainstream schools and (b) special schools and units. [224925]

Margaret Hodge: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what research she has commissioned on the effects of matching teaching methods to the degree of deafness on the academic achievements of deaf and hard of hearing pupils. [224926]

Margaret Hodge: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for her Department is for 2011–12. [223444]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170 W.

Education Funding

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the capital funding was for (a) sixth form colleges and (b) further education colleges in (i) the London borough of Southwark, (ii) Greater London and (iii) England in each of the last five years. [224746]

Dr. Howells: The Department allocates funds for education and training in the post-16 learning and skills sector to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC), including capital investment. Consequently the Department does not collect or hold the information requested.

Mark Haysom, the Learning and Skills Council's chief executive will write to the hon. Member with details of what the capital funding was for (a) sixth form colleges and (b) further education colleges in (i) the London borough of Southwark, (ii) Greater London and (ii) England in each of the last five years. A copy of the letter will be placed in the House Library.

Energy Consumption

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will list the private finance initiative contracts which (a) her Department and (b) local education authorities advertised in 2004, indicating in each case whether the output specification included (a) clauses specifically relating to energy consumption and energy efficiency, (b) a requirement for relevant equipment being purchased to be on the Government's energy technology list, (c) a requirement to use whole life costing to assess energy costs for any new building or major refurbishments and (d) a requirement that new buildings or major refurbishments would be constructed to a specific energy standard; and what standard was specified in each case. [221884]

Mr. Stephen Twigg [holding answer 15 March 2005]: The Department for Education and Skills itself is not a party to any private finance initiative (PFI) contracts and therefore does not advertise such contracts. PFI projects for the provision of schools are delivered through contracts between local authorities and private sector contractors and these contracts are advertised in the "Official Journal of the European Union".

The Department does not hold details of the exact energy requirements in the output specification linked to each contract. However, the Department's policy is to support the efficient use of energy in schools buildings and it expects schools PFI projects to follow departmental guidance on energy efficiency. Most output specifications quote the Department's own standard (Building Bulletin 87 "Guidelines for Environmental Design in Schools", 2nd Edition Version 1 (May 2003), which is downloadable from www.teach ernet.gov.uk/energy.) This standard complies with Part L2 ("Conservation of Fuel and Power") of the Building Regulations.

There are a total of 109 schools PFI projects either signed or in negotiation in 88 different local authorities. Details of these projects and the local authorities involved can be found at www.teachernet.gov.uk/pfi.

Ethnic Minority Students

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what the proportion of black and ethnic minority students is in (a) sixth form colleges and (b) further education colleges in (i) the London borough of Southwark, (ii) Greater London and (iii) England. [224745]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Mike Gapes: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what powers she has to require universities to tackle discrimination against minority groups on campus. [224831]

Dr. Howells: Universities are independent bodies which have their own procedures for dealing with incidents of discrimination against minority groups. Ministers have no powers to intervene in such matters. Universities are bound by equality and diversity legislation and it is the responsibility of their governing bodies to ensure that non-discriminatory practices are followed. The Race Relations (Amendment) Act specifically requires institutions to promote equality of opportunity, promote good relations between people of different races and eliminate unlawful racial discrimination.

FE Colleges

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what instructions or guidelines are issued to Ofsted inspectors regarding the assessment of learning resources services in further education colleges. [224835]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The current common inspection framework for post-16 providers, which sets out the principles applicable to the inspections of further education colleges, states that inspectors should evaluate the adequacy, suitability and use of specialist equipment, learning resources and accommodation. In making these judgements, inspectors should consider the extent to which, among other things, learners have access to learning resources that are appropriate for effective independent study, resources are used to best effect in promoting learning, and the extent to which learning resources and accommodation allow all learners to participate fully. Fuller details are set out in the "Handbook for Inspecting Colleges", which is produced and disseminated by Ofsted and the Adult Learning Inspectorate.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what training is given to Ofsted inspectors on the operation of learning resources services in further education colleges. [224845]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Under the current inspection arrangements, Ofsted and the Adult Learning Inspectorate train all inspectors on how to cover all of the key questions in the common inspection framework for post-16 providers, which sets out the principles applicable to the inspection of further education colleges. This includes training in how to evaluate the quality and effectiveness of learning resources. Inspectors judge to what extent learning resources are fit for purpose. Under the revised common inspection framework, operating from September 2005, similar training will be provided by the two inspectorates.

Higher Education Funding (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much funding per (a) undergraduate and (b) postgraduate student the Government have provided to (i) the University of York and (ii) University College of York St. John in each year since 1996–97. [224651]

Dr. Howells: The information requested can be found in the following tables, however it is not possible to provide a comparable time series as the changes in the funding models vary from year to year. Information prior to 1998–99 is not available on a similar basis to the later years and has therefore been shown in separate tables.

Jewish Students

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what recent reports she has received of incidents of intimidation of Jewish students at the School of Oriental and African Studies; and if she will make a statement. [224839]

Dr. Howells: The Secretary of State is aware of recent press reports of tensions at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS) but she has not received any reports of individual incidents of intimidation against Jewish students there.

Higher education institutions are independent bodies which have their own procedures for dealing with incidents of racial discrimination and intolerance. They are bound by equality and diversity legislation and it is the responsibility of their governing bodies to ensure that non-discriminatory practices are followed. The Race Relations (Amendment) Act specifically requires institutions to promote equality of opportunity, promote good relations between people of different races and eliminate unlawful racial discrimination.

While we deplore any incidents of racial intolerance in higher education institutions it is the responsibility of individual governing bodies to take appropriate action if such incidents occur.

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what representations she has received regarding intimidation experienced by Jewish students at the School of Oriental and African Studies; and if she will make a statement. [224928]

Dr. Howells: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Litter

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what action she is taking to promote anti-litter campaigns in schools. [224979]

Derek Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Migrant Intakes

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what additional support her Department provides to schools with a recent large migrant intake. [223880]

Margaret Hodge: Local education authorities receive funding for all pupils on the school roll in their area through the Education Formula Spending Share. The formula also takes account of the number of pupils with English as an additional language. In 2004–05 the Ethnic Minority Achievement Grant, a matched funded grant which is part of the Standards Fund, has provided a total of £162 million of ring-fenced funding to schools, aimed at raising the attainment of under-achieving minority ethnic pupils and those whose first language is other than English. For 2005–06, this total will be £168.6 million.

In addition, in 2003 my Department conducted the "Aiming High: Raising the Achievement of Minority Ethnic Pupils" consultation. This has been followed by a wide range of initiatives aimed at addressing the specific needs of certain groups of pupils, including those whose first language is other than English. Part of this initiative is the Primary National Strategy English as an Additional Language (EAL) Pilot which involves the provision of EAL consultants in 21 local education authority areas, each working with 10 schools. The role of these consultants is to develop an intensive professional development programme for mainstream school staff. This will enable the development of improved skills and confidence among mainstream teachers and allow for the production of teaching and learning materials and the dissemination of good practice.

My Department has also worked with the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) and Ofsted to promote a common national approach to assessment of the acquisition of English language fluency based on the National Curriculum in English levels. This approach states that particular care needs to be taken to assess the needs of newly arrived pupils and the importance of using pupils' first languages as part of the assessment process. Finally, my Department provided funding to the QCA to develop guidance to help teachers respond to the needs of newly arrived pupils. This guidance "Pathways to Learning for New Arrivals" was launched in December 2004 and provides all school staff with access to information on all aspects of integrating newly arrived pupils, including good practice case studies, to ensure that these pupils get full access to the National Curriculum. This guidance can be found on the QCA website—www.qca.org.uk

Pre-school Education

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many free (a) nursery and (b) pre-school places were available for (i) three and (ii) four-year-olds in Crosby in each of the last seven years. [223883]

Margaret Hodge: All four-year-olds in England have been entitled to a free part-time early education place since September 1998. All three-year-olds in England have been entitled to a free part-time early education place since April 2004.

The available information on the numbers of free part-time early education places taken up by three and four-year-olds in Sefton Local Education Authority area and parliamentary constituencies within Sefton local education authority area since 1998 is shown in the tables.

The latest figures on early education places for three and four-year-olds in England were published in Statistical First Release 39/2004 "Provision for children under five years of age in England—January 2004 (final)", which is available on the Department's website www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/.

Changes in pupil figures may arise from changes to the underlying population in the local education authority area and other factors. However, my Department doesn't publish population figures for individual age cohorts at sub-national level because of the unreliability of the underlying population estimates. The Office for National Statistics publish sub-national population estimates in five-year age bands.

Private Children's Homes

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many private children's homes have been registered in each of the last five years. [210207]

Margaret Hodge [pursuant to the reply, 27 January 2005, Official Report, c. 506W]: It has come to my attention that the information provided by the Commission for Social Care Inspection for this answer was incorrect due to a clerical error. I am advised by the commission that the number of private children's homes registered in 2002/03, 2003/04 and 2004/05 (up to 19 January 2005) was 169, 276 and 187 respectively.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many private children's homes have been de-registered (a) due to voluntary closure and (b) under direction from her inspectors in each of the last five years. [210208]

Margaret Hodge [pursuant to the reply, 27 January 2005, Official Report, c. 506W]: It has come to my attention that some of the information provided by the Commission for Social Care Inspection for this answer was incorrect due to a clerical error. I am advised by the commission that the number of private children's homes de- registered in 2002/03 was 87.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many private children's homes have been registered to operate in each of the last eight years; and how many have closed during that time. [222069]

Margaret Hodge: Information provided by the Commission for Social Care Inspection, who took over the role of the National Care Standards Commission from 1 April 2004, on the number of registered and de-registered private children's homes for the last three years is shown in the following table.

Information is not available prior to 1 April 2002, the date when the National Care Standards Commission was created.

[2] De-registrations occur for a number of reasons, including:
voluntary closure of a home enforced closure resulting from regulatory action change of ownership change in the category of service provided.

School Discipline

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what advice she gives to teachers regarding the extent to which teachers can raise their voice when disciplining a pupil; and if she will make a statement. [224658]

Derek Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

School Funding

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much public funding has been spent on repairing schools in Coventry in each year since 1997. [224793]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

School Kitchens

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many school kitchens have been (a) closed and (b) converted to other uses since May 1997, and whether the new resources announced on 30 March for improving school meals includes funding available to re-open closed kitchens. [224713]

Derek Twigg: Information on the closure or conversion of school kitchens should be held locally; and we do not collect it centrally. The £280 million announced on 30 March is revenue funding to transform the quality of school meals in England and set up the new School Food Trust. We have already announced substantial capital investment most of which can be used to improve kitchen and dining facilities of English schools.

School Meals

Dr. Richard Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills whether the £280 million pledged by the Government to improve school meals is new money in addition to funds already allocated to local education authorities. [224899]

Derek Twigg: The money to improve school meals has come from the Department's reserve. It is therefore new money over and above existing allocations to local education authorities.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what plans she has to assist schools which do not provide hot dinners to do so; and if she will make a statement. [224907]

Derek Twigg: On 30 March, the Secretary of State announced that schools would receive additional funding to help them transform the quality of school meals. Over the next three years, all maintained schools in England will receive a share of the 220m set aside to help local education authorities and schools strengthen their support for healthy eating and to provide better quality food.

An expert panel has been convened to recommend revisions to current minimum school lunch nutritional standards. The panel has been asked to strongly consider the use of nutrient-based standards, whether any individual foodstuffs should be banned and the benefits of hot school lunches.

In addition, DfES officials are considering the work that would need to be done to reintroduce hot meals into all schools. This is a complex issue and we will need to work with schools, local education authorities and others to ensure that an appropriate long-term strategy is developed.

School Uniforms (Vouchers)

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what action the Department is proposing in connection with the use of clothing vouchers for social security recipient purchasers of school uniforms. [224901]

Derek Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Students

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what measures she takes to ensure that students are treated without discrimination; and if she will make a statement. [224952]

Dr. Howells: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what representations she has received concerning (a) the compliance of student unions at UK universities with Race Relations Amendment Act 2000 and (b) direct intervention by university authorities in the affairs of student unions. [224929]

Dr. Howells: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Sure Start

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills what Sure Start activities are undertaken in Crosby constituency. [218866]

Margaret Hodge: The Sure Start local programme in Seaforth and Bootle was approved in 2001 to provide services to 700 children under four and their families in the wards of Church and Linacre. The Neighbourhood Nursery attached to this local programme, is located in the Linacre ward and opened in June 2004 delivering 62 additional child care places to families living in the area.

The local programme delivers a range of services for families and parents within the area, including

Outreach and home visiting; support for families and parents;

Play, learn and child care facilities

Primary and community health care.

The combined expertise within the team members covers all aspect of health, education, parenting skills, practical and emotional support and social care from ante-natal stage to nursery education.

Seaforth and Bootle local programme has established a mobile toy library and the early years workers provide practical support around early learning and play.

The proportion of parents expressing no concerns about the extent of their children's language development increased from 77 per cent. in 2001–02 to 79 per cent. in 2003–04.

The community midwife provides breast feeding support sessions at birth, six weeks and 17 weeks. The rate of take up of these sessions has gone up from 34.4 per cent. in 2002–03 to 37.9 per cent. in 2003–04 at birth; 8 per cent. to 13.9 per cent. at six weeks and 4 per cent. to 8.6 per cent. at 17 weeks.

The number of women supported by post-natal depression group increased from 13 in 2002–03 to 30 women in 2003–04.

The programme funding for the current and future years is as follows:

	Programme name: Seaforth and Bootle (£)
Capital
Approved	825,211
Revenue
2004–05	770,140
2005–06	789,393
2006–07	789,393

Sefton council have been allocated capital of £1,954,031 and revenue of £250,000 for 2004–05 and £323,432 for 2005–06, and are planning to open seven Children's centre by March 2006.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many parents and children in York have been supported by the Sure Start programme in Clifton and Westfield. [224649]

Margaret Hodge: The York Sure Start local programme serves 355 families with a total of 598 children under the age of four. 679 parents are currently registered with the programme and an average of 166 children are seen every month, 16 per cent. of whom are accessing services for the first time.

To date the programme has had access to £1,075,000 in capital funding and £1,383,860 in revenue funding and can expect a further £1,171,420 in revenue funding over the next two years (2005–06 to 2006–07). Services delivered include outreach visiting, high quality play experiences for children and parents, breast feeding and smoking reduction support, family learning and employment opportunities, and access to child care and early education. The programme is also working in partnership with the local authority's early years team and The Gatsby Foundation to explore ways of ensuring that children are supported in their development of speech and language.

Two new integrated children's centres are currently being developed at Hob Moor school and Clifton Green school. These will further extend Sure Start services to families with children under five living in the programme's catchment area. The local authority has also received £1,330,718 of revenue and £1,689,450 of capital funding to create eight further children's centres between 2006 and 2008.

Teachers (Life Expectancy)

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on her Department's estimate of the life expectancy of teachers. [224851]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: An individuals total life expectancy is defined as their current age plus their life expectancy from the current age. For a group of individuals of the same age, total life expectancy increases with age attained because those dying at earlier ages are excluded from the group. Thus, an individual's life expectancy at birth is very different to their total life expectancy at later ages.

As part of the demographic assumptions associated with the periodic valuations of the Teachers' Pension Scheme, the Government Actuary takes into account the life expectancy of teachers following their retirement. In the latest valuation report at 31 March 2001 the assumed life expectancy of teachers in normal health at age 60 was 26 years for men and 29 years for women. At age 65, assumed life expectancy would be about five years less than at age 60. The Government Actuary will be taking account of any subsequent improvements in life expectancy as part of the current valuation of the scheme.

Teachers' Pensions

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills if she will make a statement on the treatment of additional voluntary contributions within the proposed changes to teachers' pensions. [224852]

Mr. Stephen Twigg: We are committed to the continued provision of arrangements within the Teachers' Pension Scheme (TPS) that would enable teachers to pay additional contributions for a higher level of pension benefits. We are looking at how the TPS could provide new opportunities for paying additional contributions that are flexible, appropriate for a public service pension scheme and provide teachers with increased choice and options. We are also considering what increased flexibilities could be introduced into the existing in-house additional voluntary contribution (AVC) arrangements to take advantage of the new tax regime from April 2006.

Truancy

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how many pupils played truant in England in each year since 1997 (a) in total and (b) broken down by local education authority; and if she will make a statement. [220278]

Derek Twigg: It has not proved possible to respond in the time available before Prorogation.

Woodcraft Folk

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills how much financial assistance her Department provided to the Woodcraft Folk in each of the last 10 financial years for which figures are available; if she will make in 2005–06 a grant to the Woodcraft Folk equivalent to that made in 2004–05; and if she will make a statement. [223450]

Margaret Hodge: The Woodcraft Folk have received the following funding since 1997, the earliest date for which figures are available:

	Amount (£)
1997–98	39,100
1998–99	33,000
1999–2000	38,000
2000–01	38,000

2002–03	52,281
2003–04	52,281
2004–05	52,281

Source:
NVYO Grant Scheme

The Woodcraft Folk submitted a bid for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation Grant scheme due to run from 2005 to 2008. This scheme was run as an open competition. Participation on previous schemes was not one of the criteria used to determine funding. The bid was assessed against criteria made explicit in both the application and guidance notes for the scheme.

The key reasons the Woodcraft Folk's bid was unsuccessful was that, in comparison with other bids, it did not provide the level of detail to enable the Department to determine either how the proposed activities would deliver the outcomes specified or how the outcomes specifically linked with the "Every Child Matters" agenda.

It is important to emphasise that even though the Woodcraft Folk's bid for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation grant scheme was unsuccessful, this is no reflection on the work it does to promote the well-being of children and young people and their participation in society.

The scheme was open to all national voluntary sector organisations engaged in youth work and who met specific criteria and not just those on the existing scheme. We received 160 bids from a variety of national voluntary organisations which totalled over £44 million for the length of the scheme. As the grant scheme was allocated £21 million over three years we were unable to fund everyone who applied. We assessed all of the bids and awarded grants to those organisations which clearly demonstrated the outcomes and quality the scheme required to an agreed standard.

I met the Woodcraft Folk on the 4 April to discuss their work. As a result of that meeting we agreed to second a member of DfES staff to the Woodcraft Folk for 12 months. We hope that that member of staff will be able to support the central organisation by helping it to look for new ways of diversifying the funding streams that it receives so that it secures long-term funding.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Education and Skills for what reasons the Department rejected the grant application from the Woodcraft Folk. [224528]

Margaret Hodge: The criteria by which all decisions about funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation (NVYO) grant scheme were made were explicit in both the application forms and guidance notes, to assist organisations through the application process.

The guidance notes clearly stated that applications should make a strong contribution to the achievement of the outcomes for young people set out in "Every Child Matters".

Paragraph 13.2 of the application guidance states clearly that the Department would look for bids that:

were clearly focused on the outcomes identified in the guidance

were for activities in line with those identified in the grant criteria identified clear and robust outcome indicators that were relevant to the outcomes the bid proposes to deliver clearly explained the national significance of the activity being proposed were realistic and deliverable

The Woodcraft Folk's bid for funding was unsuccessful because, when compared with other applications, it did not provide the level of detail to enable the Department to determine how the proposed activities would deliver the outcomes that were specified in the criteria. It was also not sufficiently clear, in comparison with other bids, how Woodcraft Folk's outcomes specifically linked with the "Every Child Matters" agenda.

It is important to emphasise that even though the Woodcraft Folk's bid for funding under the National Voluntary Youth Organisation grant scheme was unsuccessful, this is no reflection on the work it does to promote the well-being of children and young people and their participation in society.

The scheme was open to all national voluntary sector organisations engaged in youth work and who met specific criteria and not just those on the existing scheme. We received 160 bids from a variety of national voluntary organisations which totalled over £44 million for the length of the scheme. As the grant scheme had been allocated £21 million for the three years we were unable to fund everyone who applied. We assessed all of the bids and awarded grants to those organisations which clearly demonstrated the outcomes and quality the scheme required to an agreed standard.

I met the Woodcraft Folk on the 4 April to discuss their work. As a result of that meeting we agreed to second a member of DfES staff to the Woodcraft Folk for 12 months. We hope that that member of staff will be able to support the central organisation by helping it to look for new ways of diversifying the funding streams that it receives so that it secures long-term funding.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many civil servants in his Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223897]

Yvette Cooper: The information requested is as follows.

(a) 103 posts have already been relocated to the areas set out as follows:

Location	Number of posts moved
Government Office for the north-east	4
Government Office for the north-west	18
Government Office for Yorkshire and Humberside	8
Government Office for the West Midlands	5
Government Office for the East Midlands	18
Government Office for the East	18
Government Office for the south-east	4
Government Office for the south-west	7
Government Office for London	8
Hastings	2
Hemel Hempstead	4
Glossop	7
Total number of posts moved	103

(b) The Office of Deputy Prime Minister is expected to relocate 240 posts by 2010.

Communities Plan

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how much of the Communities Plan budget has been allocated to (a) the Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside and (c) the north east. [224723]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister does not hold separate expenditure data on (a) the Jarrow constituency.

Expenditure and planned spending on programmes within the Communities Plan for (b) South Tyneside and (c) the north east are set out in the following table. The figures for 2006–07 and 2007–08 exclude programmes for which spending plans have still to be finalised.

Council Tax

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the average council tax charge was in (a) City of York,

(b) Yorkshire and the Humber and (c) England in (i) 2002–03 and (ii) each year since 2002–03; and what he expects the charge to be in 2005–06. [224814]

Mr. Raynsford: The information requested is the following table.

Average area Band D council taxes (two adults)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what the average council tax bill was in (a) Labour, (b) Liberal Democrat and (c) Conservative-led local authorities in Yorkshire and the Humber in 2004–05. [224815]

Mr. Raynsford: The average council tax bill by individual local authority in Yorkshire and the Humber in 2004–05 is in the following table. Definitive information on political control is not held centrally:

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of the likely impact of council tax revaluation on average council tax bills in real terms in (a) City of York, (b) Yorkshire and the Humber and (c) England; and if he will make a statement. [224816]

Mr. Raynsford: The distribution of dwellings to bands after revaluation will depend on property values as at 1 April 2005 and on decisions yet to be taken on the number and values of council tax bands. The report of the independent inquiry into local government funding by Sir Michael Lyons will inform the Government's decisions on council tax bands. This report is due to be submitted by the end of this year to my right hon. Friends the Deputy Prime Minister and the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Government have already made clear that the revaluation should not lead to a change in the overall council tax yield and consequently most council tax payers are unlikely to face an increase (or decrease) in their council tax bill as a result of revaluation. There will be a transitional relief scheme to help taxpayers whose properties move to a higher band. Council tax benefit will continue to be available to help those on low incomes with their council tax payments.

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will make it his policy to exempt members of HM armed forces from council tax for periods when they are posted on duties overseas. [224910]

Mr. Raynsford: Officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister are currently exploring with Officials in the Ministry of Defence whether there is a case for a council tax exemption or discount for service personnel serving abroad.

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many EU (a) regulations and (b) directives covering matters within the responsibility of his Department have been repealed since 1 April 2004. [224573]

Yvette Cooper: The information requested is not held centrally in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, but by the management units responsible for the policy areas concerned. It could be assembled only at disproportionate cost.

Fire Control

Mr. Todd: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will publish the risk assessment conducted on the proposal to regionalise emergency fire control; and what steps he is taking to ensure that those engaged in providing services (a) contribute to the design of new systems and (b) maintain services during transition. [224927]

Mr. Raynsford: The Mott MacDonald report "The Future of Fire Service Control Rooms and Communications in England and Wales" which was published in 2000 with an update in 2003, undertook a cost/benefit risk analysis of the options for the provision of fire and rescue service control rooms and communications. The original report is available at:

http://www.odpm.gov.uk/stellent/groups/odpm_fire/documents/page/odpm_fire_601055.pdf

The 2003 update is available at:

http://www.odpm.gov.uk/stellent/groups/odpm_fire/documents/page/odpm_fire_026180.pdf

There are a number of control room and other fire and rescue service personnel seconded to the national project team, and a member of the Chief Fire Officers' Association is employed to work on the project full time. These have had, and will continue to have, significant input into the design of the accommodation, the specification for the control room systems and the development of processes and staffing models. We also have a wide programme of engagement with members of the service through regular national seminars, control staff workshops and other workstream-focussed working groups, which brings significant expertise to the project and ensures that the service has a voice to influence and guide progress.

Maintenance of adequate staffing levels in control rooms during the transition period is the responsibility of individual fire and rescue authorities. The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has provided guidance to authorities on methods of retention.

Gap Funding Agreements

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) how much has been allocated by his Department for gap funding agreements; [224797]

(2) how his Department will evaluate the performance of registered social landlords in connection with provision of staged gap funding. [224798]

(3) how many gap funding agreements have been signed between his Department and registered social landlords. [224799]

Keith Hill: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has made £182 million available over the 2004 Spending Review period for gap funding agreements. One gap funding agreement has been signed to date between Shoreline Housing Partnership and the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister. The agreement sets out a range of conditions to which the registered social landlord must adhere and requires that specific performance milestones are met to demonstrate eligibility for gap funding payments.

Housing (South-East)

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) what assessment he has made of the environmental impact of the Government's proposed new housing for the South-East; [224781]

(2) what assessment he has made of the impact on (a) road and (b) rail infrastructure of the new housing he proposes for the South-East; [224782]

(3) what proportion of the proposed new houses for the South-East he expects to be built on brownfield sites; [224783]

(4) what his estimate is of the cost of additional public facilities of all kinds to serve the people living in the additional houses he proposes for the South-East. [224784]

Keith Hill: These are all matters for the South East England Regional Assembly as part of their preparation of the draft South East Plan, upon which they are currently carrying out a public consultation.

Housing Market (Liverpool)

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of housing market renewal in Liverpool. [224840]

Keith Hill: New Heartlands, the market renewal pathfinder for Merseyside is making good progress. It is on target for full spend and achievement of target outputs in 2004–05. But the programme is still in its early stages and it is too soon to assess in detail the impact of the programme on the Merseyside housing market.

New Heartlands has an allocation of £34 million grant in 2005–06 and has been invited to update its strategy and make the case for future funding, including £65 million to £110 million for the two-year period from April 2006.

Litter

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister what assessment he has made of the effects of the Best Value Performance Indicator on litter and detritus on local authorities' performance in this area. [224973]

Mr. Raynsford: The Best Value Performance Indicator on litter and detritus (BV199) was introduced in April 2003. Data has been submitted by local authorities for 2003–04, and audited data for 2004–05 will not be received until at least August 2005. With only one year's performance data so far, it is too early to assess the effect on local authorities' performance.

Ministerial Visits

Mr. Amess: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister how many official visits (a) he, (b) the Minister of State (Local and Regional Government), (c) the Minister of State (Regeneration and Regional Development) and (d) the Minister of State (Minister for Housing and Planning) have made since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [223452]

Yvette Cooper: The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister was established in May 2002. Since then we estimate that Ministers have undertaken the following number of official visits (including speaking engagements):

Minister	Number of official visits
My right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister	179
The Minister of State for local and regional government and fire	119
The Minister of State for regeneration and regional development	217
The Minister of State for housing and planning	[1]99

[1] Since June 2003 only. Figures for predecessor not held centrally.

National House Building Council

Bob Russell: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister if he will arrange for an independent inquiry to be held into the building control and inspection procedures of the National House Building Council (NHBC); and if he will invite members of the public dissatisfied with the performance of the NHBC to give evidence. [224914]

Phil Hope: There is no evidence to suggest that there is a general problem with the building control inspection regime currently employed by the National House Building Council (NHBC). Consequently the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister has no plans to call an independent inquiry. However, officials in the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister will continue to work closely with NHBC to resolve the isolated cases involving claims from new home buyers.

Traveller Sites

Mr. Baron: To ask the Deputy Prime Minister (1) how many decisions by him on a refusal by a local authority to give planning permission for a Traveller site were outstanding in each parliamentary constituency in the last year for which figures are available; and what percentage of decisions on Traveller sites made by the local authority this represented in each case; [223137]

(2) what percentage of planning permission applications for Traveller sites which were refused by local authorities in each of the last five years were awaiting a decision from him at each year end; [223139]

(3) how many and what percentage of Traveller sites applications which had been refused planning permission by local authorities were awaiting a decision from him in (a) the last year for which figures are available and (b) each of the preceding four years. [223140]

Yvette Cooper: There is an ongoing flow of planning appeals resulting from Local Planning Authorities' refusal of an application for planning permission involving Traveller sites. Both the Planning Inspectorate and the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister seek to ensure that these are determined in a timely manner. Information on the number of planning appeals decided and the number that were in the process of being determined at the end of each of the last four financial years, broken down by local authority, has been made available in the Library of the House. This information includes planning appeals determined by Planning Inspectors on behalf of the First Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister and those recovered for determination by the First Secretary of State, my right hon. Friend the Deputy Prime Minister. It is not possible to present the information by parliamentary constituency. We do not collect information centrally on the total number of decisions made by Local Planning Authorities.

MINISTER FOR WOMEN

Working Time Directive

11. Miss McIntosh: To ask the Minister for Women what assessment she has made of the impact of the Working Time Directive on women. [224758]

Jacqui Smith: All workers, including 12.2 million working women, benefit from rights under the Working Time Directive. This provides, among other things, that workers cannot be forced to work more than 48-hours a week on average; are entitled to paid annual leave; and rights to daily and weekly rest breaks.

Equal Pay

12. Hugh Bayley: To ask the Minister for Women what the Government's policy is on reducing the gap between the average income of single men and single women aged over 65. [224759]

Jacqui Smith: We have introduced a number of measures to support today's female pensioners in retirement such as pension credit and winter fuel allowances. As a result, 1.9 million pensioners have been lifted out of abject poverty since 1997, two-thirds of them women.

We will produce a report on the pension position of women later this year, which will address all the issues currently faced by women in building up their retirement income.

Equal Opportunities (Research)

13. Mr. Luff: To ask the Minister for Women what academic research she has commissioned on barriers to equality of opportunity for women. [224795]

Ms Hewitt: I have commissioned various research projects which explore barriers of equality of opportunity for women in work and training. These examine:

young people's perceptions of jobs and training;

the ways in which women re-enter the labour market after periods of inactivity;

the skills profile of women returners, particularly whether skills are a barrier to them returning to the labour market.

Freedom of Information

John Mann: To ask the Minister for Women what categories of information are available under Freedom of Information legislation that have not been provided in written parliamentary answers by her office in the last three years. [207819]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Women's Employment

Vera Baird: To ask the Minister for Women what assessment she has made of the way in which women from (a) ethnic minority groups and (b) faith groups have been affected by Government policy aimed at increasing labour market participation of (i) women and (ii) mothers. [220853]

Ms Hewitt: The Women and Work Commission, which was launched in September 2004, to examine the pay and opportunities gap, has taken evidence from minority ethnic women as part of its information gathering exercise and will report to the Prime Minister by September 2005.

The Government are committed to supporting women who want to return to work after having children. The DTI is conducting research into the way women re-enter the labour market after taking time out to bring up their children.

We have commissioned, and published in January 2004, research which examined the child care preferences of different groups of mothers and the impact that the accessibility, affordability and quality of child care has on their employment decisions. These findings were discussed at my regular bi-annual meetings with Muslim women.

The regional development agencies in London, the East Midlands and the South East are developing pilot programmes to support women considering returning to work, through offering careers advice, access to training, confidence building, work placements and child care. The results of these pilot schemes will help us to inform the development further support for women, wanting to return to work.

All this work includes an assessment of the particular position of women from different minority and faith communities.

Vera Baird: To ask the Minister for Women what research her Department has commissioned on (a) entry to and (b) progression of black and ethnic minority women in the workplace. [220854]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Vera Baird: To ask the Minister for Women what assessment she has made of the role of Government Departments and agencies in delivering a targeted system of support to black and ethnic minority women in the workplace. [220856]

Ms Hewitt: Although no formal assessment has been made of the role of Government Departments and agencies in delivering a targeted system of support to black and ethnic minority women in the workplace, the Government are committed to developing policies and services delivery to meet the needs of all groups, including black and ethnic minority women.

Indeed, the proposal to introduce a public sector duty to promote gender equality combined with the existing public sector duty on race will enable us to improve our knowledge. This will be strengthened by the introduction of a the Commission for Equality and Human Rights which will be able to look at the impact on individuals of more than one form of discrimination.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY

India

8. Mr. Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on bilateral trade relations with India. [224794]

Mr. Alexander: Our bilateral trade relationship with India has never been better. In 2004, bilateral trade in goods was worth around £4.6 billion, an increase of over 3 per cent. compared to 2003. Total bilateral trade in goods and services is expected to reach over £6 billion. The UK is India's 3rd largest trade partner, while India is our second largest export market in the developing world, and our 15th largest export market worldwide.

This is good news, but there is still plenty of room for improvement. The joint Economic and Trade Committee, launched in January by my right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry and India's Commerce Minister, will help us identify opportunities for even greater growth in our trade and investment relationship.

Manufacturing

9. Mr. Page: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the ratio was of officials employed in her Department to people employed in manufacturing in the UK in (a) 1998 and (b) 2004. [224820]

Nigel Griffiths: The DTI headcount as a proportion of those employed in the manufacturing sector was 0.14 per cent. in 1998 and 0.2 per cent. in 2004. But the DTI's remit covers the whole economy, and as a proportion of total employment the DTI's share remains broadly unchanged at 0.02 per cent. This is despite taking on additional responsibilities and meeting increased demand for our services.

Accidents

Jon Trickett: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many accidents occurred at her departmental premises in each of the last five years involving (a) members of her Department's staff and (b) members of the public. [222573]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Airports (Car Parking)

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will invite the Competition Commission to investigate the level of car parking charges in force at airports in the UK. [224152]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 4 April 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Alvis plc

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what action is being taken to prosecute Alvis plc. for the £16.5 million payment made to Siti Hardiyanti ("Futut") Rukmana in order to secure the contract from the Indonesian Government to supply Scorpion armoured fighting vehicles; and if she will make a full statement. [220538]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Anti-bribery/Corruption

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment her Department has made of the impact on business opportunities of possible business uncertainty over Export Credits Guarantee Department anti-bribery guidelines. [223891]

Mr. Alexander: ECGD's anti-bribery and corruption procedures introduced in December 2004 remain in force while public consultation on them, which is currently under way and will run until 18 June 2005, is conducted. The December 2004 procedures were put in place having taken account of concerns about the workability of those previously introduced in May 2004 expressed by ECGD's principal customers and their banks.

Copies of the consultation document are available on ECGD's website www.ecgd.gov.uk

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list (a) the companies, (b) the projects and (c) the countries involved in the seven transactions supported by the Export Credits Guarantee Department under its May 2004 anti-corruption procedures. [219355]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 3 March 2004]: The Export Credits Guarantee Department (ECGD) supported 10 transactions in respect of five companies under its May 2004 anti-corruption procedures. In my evidence to the Trade and Industry Committee on 23 February 2005 I referred to the seven such companies based on factually incorrect briefing. I wrote to the Committee chair to correct the evidence on 11 March 2005. Of these transactions, nine relate to insurance provided by ECGD. It is ECGD's policy not to disclose details of insurance it provides, or the fact of having provided insurance, where it considers the disclosure of such information might increase the likelihood of default by the bodies whose payment obligations ECGD is insuring. This is because, the commercial interests of ECGD and the U.K economy would be prejudiced by a default. Pursuant to that policy the nine insurance cases referred to have not been publicised.

ECGD supported one non-insurance case in the relevant period for Alderley Systems Ltd. in respect of the supply of product loading meters for ships to Iran.

Arms Sales (China)

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the effects of the UK position on lifting the EU embargo on arms sales to China on (a) the UK balance of trade with the USA and (b) the UK arms industry. [209743]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Bankruptcies (London)

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many (a) personal and (b) company bankruptcies in (i) Greater London and (ii) each London borough there were in each of the last three years for which figures are available; what assessment she has made of recent trends; and if she will make a statement. [212377]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not-proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Beer

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has had since 2002 with (a) the Campaign for Real Ale and (b) other stakeholders on beer drinkers receiving a full pint on licensed premises; and what steps are being taken to encourage a consensus among stakeholders. [224810]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Laxton: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when her Department expects to announce the outcome of its consultations on the full pint of beer. [224811]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Broadband

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the cost to public funds of extending broadband to every home in the UK. [221563]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Government's approach to ensure they meet their target of having the most extensive and competitive broadband market in the G7 by 2005, has focused on stimulating competition in the marketplace, in preference to subsidising individual companies to roll out broadband services.

In November 2003 my hon. Friend the Member for East Ham, the then Minister for E-Commerce called on all stakeholders to bring broadband availability to all communities in Britain by the end of 2005. BT's 2004 announcement to upgrade their telephone exchanges means that by this summer, over 99 per cent. of all homes and businesses in the UK will be able to receive broadband on their network alone.

To ensure that as many people and businesses as possible are able to access broadband services, the Government provided £30 million through the UK Broadband Fund to stimulate supply and demand in rural areas. This funding was distributed through the Regional Development Agencies and devolved administrations and helped to develop innovative broadband related schemes to meet local requirements. In addition to this amount, RDA's and devolved administrations have contributed in excess of £200 million in promoting coverage and take-up of broadband.

Burma

John Barrett: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on the discussions which she has had with representatives of British holiday companies regarding the promotion of tours in Burma; and if she will make a statement. [202839]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Business Prosecutions

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many prosecutions of (a) small and medium-sized enterprises and (b) large businesses were brought in 2003–04 for breaches of regulations sponsored by her Department; how much in total was imposed in fines in each case; and how many visits were made in 2003–04 by officials from her Department or agencies for which her Department is responsible to verify regulatory compliance in each case. [217178]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Businesses

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses went into receivership in each of the past 17 years, broken down by region. [219892]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 4 March 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses have registered for VAT in Tamworth in each year since 1997. [221926]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Carbon Monoxide

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will introduce a levy on gas supply companies to be used for publicity and research on preventing carbon monoxide poisoning. [224690]

Mr. Pond: I have been asked to reply.

We have no proposals for introducing a statutory levy. The Health and Safety Executive is working with the major gas supply companies on voluntary funding for a gas safety publicity strategy that includes the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning. Agreement has been reached with the Energy Retail Association (representing the six largest suppliers) and the first campaigns commenced winter 2004–05.

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will instruct gas emergency services to carry and use equipment to test for and detect carbon monoxide. [224697]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

There are legal duties under gas safety legislation that require gas emergency service providers to attend and make safe appliances that are suspected of spilling combustion products such as carbon monoxide. It is for the service providers to determine the equipment they need to carry out this duty.

Cash Machines

John Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what discussions her Department has had with (a) the LINK network, (b) high street banks and (c) cash machine operators on charges for use of cash machines; [213193]

(2) what action her Department has taken to ensure (a) transparency and (b) fairness in charges for ATM withdrawals. [213194]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Charter of Fundamental Rights

Mr. Graham Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the applicability of the Charter of Fundamental Rights to the provision of services of general interest. [203150]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 7 December 2004]: No detailed assessment has been made of the applicability of the Charter of Fundamental Rights to the provision of services of general interest. The Charter would only be applicable to member state action if the member state were implementing union law. The proposed constitutional treaty makes plain that the Charter does not extend the field of application of union law, create new powers or tasks for the union or modify existing powers or tasks.

Chile

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list all contacts that have taken place between officials of her Department and General Augustus Pinochet concerning arms contracts since 1990. [207696]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many civil servants in her Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223909]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Coal Industry Pension Schemes

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what payments have been made to the guarantor of the Miners' Pension Scheme and the British Coal Staff Superannuation Scheme for each of the last 10 years, broken down by (a) surplus payments and (b) payments from the investment reserves; and how much is due to be paid to the guarantor in April in each case. [217655]

Nigel Griffiths: The figures are published in the annual report and accounts of both the Mineworkers Pension Scheme (MPS) and the British Coal Staff Superannuation Scheme (BCSSS), copies of which are available from the trustee company.

Since the Guaranteed funds have been in deficit recently it has been necessary to make transfers into those funds of £355 million in September 2003 in the case of the MPS and £220 million in the case of the BCSSS in March 204. This reflects the agreement of the Government to guarantee the pension payments, should the funds be in deficit.

Construction Skills

Mr. Clapham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what payments have been made by the Construction Industry Training Board on behalf of the Construction Skills Scheme to companies who participated in the Construction Skills Certification Scheme (CSCS) between 2001 and 2004; how many companies participated in the scheme; how many new entrants were encouraged to join the CSCS as a result; and how many new jobs were created by the initiative. [218936]

David Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall, North of 10 March concerning a constituent. [224787]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: I have made inquiries and it appears the letter for my hon. Friend has been mislaid by officials.

I am grateful to my hon. Friend for providing a copy of the letter which I will reply to within days.

Data Protection Fraud

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she expects the Office of Fair Trading to report on its investigation into the financial activities of bogus data protection agencies. [220597]

Mr. Sutcliffe: This is a matter for the Office of Fair Trading (OFT).

The OFT can take action under the Control of Misleading Advertisements Regulations 1988, to prevent the continued publication of misleading advertising. However, under the Regulations, the OFT is not empowered to investigate the financial activities of businesses or individuals. It can only take action to protect consumers and traders from the effects of advertisements that mislead or make unacceptable comparisons.

I understand that you are already aware that the OFT has taken enforcement action under the Regulations against several businesses and individuals concerned with the publication of misleading mailings offering data protection notification services. Due to strict disclosure restrictions under Part 9 of the Enterprise Act 2002, the OFT is unable to comment on the details of any ongoing investigations. However, the OFT does publicise on its website and in the press any undertakings that it has obtained or court action it has taken under the Regulations when such action is completed.

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee on Restrictive Practices and Dominant Positions met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217898]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Advisory Committee on Restrictive Practices and Dominant Positions is the body through which the European Commission carries out its duty to consult member states on decisions under, and amendments to, EC competition law which it proposes to adopt.

Between 1 July 2003 and 31 December 2004, the Advisory Committee met 32 times in Brussels to discuss proposed Commission antitrust decisions: in all, 29 draft decisions were discussed. The Office of Fair Trading represented the UK at all meetings, usually accompanied by a representative of a UK sectoral regulator if there was a sectoral interest. The decisions discussed included one against Microsoft for abuse of its dominant position and 12 cartel cases, including those involving copper plumbing tubes, sorbate food preservatives and carbon and graphite products.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee on Concentrations between Undertakings met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [217902]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Advisory Committee on Protection Against Dumped Imports met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [217912]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee (i) on Fees, Implementation Rules and the Procedure of the Boards of Appeal of the Office of Harmonisation in the Internal Market (Trademarks and Designs), (ii) for the Implementation of the Multiannual Community Programme to Stimulate the Establishment of the Information Society in Europe and (iii) on Electronic Signatures met; when and where these meetings took place; which UK Government expert was present; and if she will make a statement. [218432]

Mr. Alexander: The Committee on Fees, Implementation Rules and the Procedure of the Boards of Appeal Council Working Group on Intellectual Property met eight times during the period of Irish and Dutch presidency only. The dates of the meetings were: 2 February, 19 February, 18 March, 27 May, 25 June, 10 September, 13 October and 11 November 2004. All the meetings took place in Brussels and were attended by officials from the Patent Office. Details of the regulations discussed at these meetings can be viewed on the Patent Office website at www.patent.gov.uk.

The Committee for the Implementation of the Multiannual Community Programme to Stimulate the Establishment of the Information Society in Europe met three times during the period of Irish and Dutch presidency only. The dates of the meetings were: 27 February, 26 March and 5 July 2004. All the meetings took place in Brussels and an Official from the UK's permanent representation attended the meetings on 26 March and 5 July, but there was no representation at 27 February 2004 meeting.

The Committee on Electronic Signatures did not meet during the course of the three presidencies.

EU Constitution

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of whether the EU constitution will increase the powers of the EU over trade policy. [203149]

EU Legislation

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what support her Department will give to the development of a working partnership between developers, investors and the commercial sector to encourage their compliance with EU legislation. [217206]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 23 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

European Data Regulation

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on the nature of information (a) exchanged, (b) stored and (c) passed on to non-EU countries in connection with Regulation (EC) No 2006/2004 as identified in OJ L364 volume 47 of 9 December 2004; what right of access individuals will have to data on themselves; which agencies are expected to seek access to such data; and what the purpose is of this legislation. [215244]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

European Development Money

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if he will place in the Library a list of UK recipients of European Development Money funds since 1997, indicating in each case what (a) sums were received and (b) projects were supported. [207152]

Mr. Alexander: European money in respect of economic development is provided to UK recipients under European Structural Fund programmes which are supported by the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), the European Social Fund (ESF) and two smaller funds for agriculture (EAGGF) and fisheries (FIFG).

The programmes are all multi-annual and some are multi-fund, and individual programmes are identified by objective. The table sets out allocations by region and objective for the last three years of the 1994–99 programming period and the first five years of the 2000–06 period.

There are many thousands of individual projects supported by the funds, and details of expenditure on individual schemes could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Ex-directory Numbers

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps she is planning to take to stop companies publishing ex-directory telephone numbers on the internet. [224900]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Ex-directory customers' numbers are not given out to third parties by BT, nor are they printed in phone books. However, being ex-directory does not mean a customer will never see their telephone number on a website. For example, telemarketing companies use databases to contact people. These are generally compiled by customers unwittingly completing coupons for special offers, magazine and catalogue tear off slips and other promotional questionnaires and flyers but forgetting to fill in the non-disclosure box (if available).

If it was proved that a telecoms company made public an ex-directory telephone number, the telecoms company would be in breach of the Data Protection Act and the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) would take appropriate action.

Export Credits Guarantee Department

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps her Department took to consult business organisations regarding the introduction of new Export Credits Guarantee Department forms. [224340]

Mr. Alexander: ECGD held discussions with trade associations representing the views of exporters who use ECGD's services, led by the CBI, regarding the most recent changes to Export Credits Guarantee Department forms, implemented on 1 December 2004.

Exporters

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the effects on exporters of the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad Scheme; and if she will make a statement. [217958]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many companies based in (a) Scotland and (b) the rest of the UK have received assistance under the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad Scheme in each year since 1997; and what the average payment was. [217960]

Jacqui Smith: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

External Suppliers

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many tenders were let by her Department to external suppliers in the financial year 2003–04; and what the value was. [209093]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Fast Patrol Vessel Defender

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to the answer of 13 January 2005, Official Report, columns 628–29W, on the Fast Patrol Vessel Defender, to whom the vessel was sold; when the vessel was sold; for what amount the vessel was sold; and if she will place a copy of the marine surveyor's assessment in the Library. [211098]

Jacqui Smith: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

BEST COPY AVAILBLE

Fireworks

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has held with the RSPCA on ways of restricting the (a) sale and (b) use of noisy fireworks; and if she will make a statement. [223025]

Mr. Sutcliffe: In developing the Fireworks Regulations 2004, which, among other things, places restrictions on the sale and use of noisy fireworks, officials met with animal welfare representatives, including the RSPCA. All animal welfare organisations were also consulted formally on the proposed measures during the summer of 2004.

More recently, officials have met with the RSPCA to discuss the current noise levels of fireworks (as set out in the 2004 Regulations) and possible ways to achieve further reductions in sound levels.

Freedom of Information

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many inquiries have been made by members of the general public to her Department for information under Freedom of Information legislation since 1 January; and how many of these inquiries were responded to within 20 days. [213773]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what categories of information are available under Freedom of Information legislation that have not been provided in written parliamentary answers by her Department in the last three years. [207779]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what applications were made to her Department during January under the Freedom of Information Act 2000; what the cost was of discovery and distribution of the information requested; how many requests were answered within the statutory 20 days; and what reasons were given to those whose requests were rejected. [214236]

Ms Hewitt: My Department received 147 applications under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 in January. No information is held centrally on the cost of dealing with these applications. 91 or 62 per cent. of the applications were answered within the statutory 20 days. 45 or 30 per cent. of the applications were refused in full or in part on the grounds of relevant exemptions provided for by the Act.

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her policy is in respect of the publication (a) on the departmental website and (b) by placing copies in the Library of (i) all or (ii) a selection of the information disclosed in response to Freedom of Information requests since January. [215219]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Future for Nuclear Group

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she established the Future for Nuclear group in her Department; what resources have been allocated to the group; which (a) officials and (b) contributors from outside her Department have participated in the group; in what format she expects the group to report; and when. [224714]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: No such group has been formed.

Growth Areas (Funding)

Phil Sawford: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what funding her Department has earmarked for growth areas to ensure that they have the resources required to meet the demands of a growing population. [218331]

Jacqui Smith: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Handling Fees

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much has been paid to the Union of Democratic Miners in handling fees for coal health claims. [224774]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act

Brian Cotter: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the results of the consultation on draft regulations to allow the NHS to re-coup costs under the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003; and what recent discussions she has had with the Department of Health about the effect that these proposals will have on (a) small businesses and (b) the cost of employers' liability insurance. [210305]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Higher Education (York)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much was allocated to higher education institutions in the City of York by research councils in 2003–04; and how much she estimates will be allocated in 2004–05. [222290]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Inspection and Enforcement Costs

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the annual cost of inspection and enforcement activities carried out by (a) her

Department and (b) regulatory bodies and agencies sponsored by her Department was in (i) 1996–97 and (ii) 2003–04. [217779]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Maternity Leave/Pay

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to the answer of 20 December 2004, Official Report, column 1380W, on maternity leave, if she will estimate the average length of time taken in paid maternity leave by those receiving (a) statutory maternity pay and (b) maternity allowance in (i) the latest year for which figures are available and (ii) each of the previous five years. [207786]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will estimate the change in average length of time taken in paid maternity leave by those receiving (a) statutory maternity pay and (b) maternity allowance since the changes implemented in April 2003; and if she will make a statement. [207787]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the annual (a) administrative and (b) policy cost of extending maternity pay to (i) nine and (ii) 12 months for (A) small and medium-sized enterprises and (B) large businesses. [217780]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Medical Instruments

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list companies in the UK making medical instruments, broken down by percentage of market share. [209505]

Jacqui Smith: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Migrant Workers

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will estimate the percentage of the migrant worker force who are employed by (a) employment agencies and (b) gangmasters. [219952]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Military Exports

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what end-use monitoring agreements relating to the export of military products have been signed since December 2002 with (a) Angola, (b) Cameroon, (c) Eritrea, (d) Ethiopia, (e) Ghana; (f) Kenya, (g) Mozambique, (h) Sierra Leone, (i) Sudan, (j) Tanzania, (k) Uganda, (l) Zambia, (m) Bolivia (n) Guyana and (o) Republic of Yemen; and what end-use monitoring mechanisms are in place in each case. [218894]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 10 March 2004]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Ministerial Engagements

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list the ministerial engagements (a) out of London and (b) in London that she has cancelled since 1 January 2004. [209213]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

National Minimum Wage

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what penalties have been imposed on companies found paying their employees below the minimum wage. [215882]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Lorna Fitzsimons: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many people have benefited from the minimum wage in Rochdale. [217375]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many workers in Edinburgh, North and Leith have benefited from the national minimum wage. [222907]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

New Businesses

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many new businesses have been established in Coventry since 1997. [223386]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 24 March 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many new businesses have been created in the Huddersfield constituency since 1997; and how much support in (a) loans and (b) grants the Government have given to such businesses during that time. [216920]

Jacqui Smith: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Newcastle-under-Lyme

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much Newcastle-under-Lyme has received in European Objective 2 funding since 1997; and which projects have benefited from such funding. [223258]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The total amount of grants offered to projects in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997 is £5,790,229.

26 objective 2 projects have been funded in Newcastle-under-Lyme since 1997, including Crackley Community and Training Centre and High Carr Business Park;

Newspaper Registration Scheme

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions took place with the devolved Administrations prior to the ending of the newspaper registration scheme. [222845]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I am not aware of any discussions that took place between the Department and the devolved Administrations about the withdrawal of the newspaper registration service. The decision was an operational and commercial matter for Royal Mail.

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the cost of the newspaper registration scheme was to the Royal Mail in each year since 2000; and what percentage of Royal Mail turnover in each year those figures represented. [222846]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The cost of the newspaper registration service and its cost as a percentage of turnover are commercial matters for Royal Mail. My officials have asked Royal Mail to issue a direct reply to the hon. Member.

Mr. Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what consultations took place between the Royal Mail and her Department on the abolition of the newspaper registration scheme; and what representations she made as a result. [222847]

Mr. Sutcliffe: No consultations took place between Royal Mail and the Department about the withdrawal of the newspaper registration service. This was an operational and commercial matter for Royal Mail.

NIREX

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, if she will make a statement on the future structure of Nirex. [224847]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Government have honoured their commitment, given in a statement by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on 21 July 2004, to establish a new Company Limited by Guarantee (CLG) to hold the shares of Nirex and oversee its business operations. These new arrangements took effect on 1 April 2005 with the CLG being jointly owned by DTI and Defra.

This CLG will, effectively, provide a means of placing Nirex assets and intellectual property into trust, whilst enabling it to continue with its important work that includes setting standards for the conditioning and packaging of radioactive waste, until the Government can take their decision on policy for the long-term management of the UK's higher activity radioactive waste, and the means of its delivery, in light of recommendations from the independent Committee on Radioactive Waste Management (CoRWM).

These new arrangements achieve both of the Government's previously stated objectives, to make Nirex independent of industry and bring the company under greater Government control.

Nuclear Power/Security

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps are being taken in her Department to prepare for the construction of additional nuclear power generating capacity; and what discussions she has had with (a) Sir David King and (b) Mr. Geoffrey Norris on the subject. [224741]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 6 April 2005]: The Department's policy on nuclear power remains as set out in the 2003 Energy White Paper, Cm 5761.

I have had discussions with both Sir David King and Geoffrey Norris on many aspects of energy policy in the last year.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the future costs of ensuring the secure status of (a) nuclear installations to the end of their decommissioning and (b) nuclear materials until they are no longer useable in a malevolent fashion; and what measures have been put in place to ensure such future security. [217486]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many potential threats as defined by the Nuclear Industries Security Regulations 2003 have occurred at each licensed nuclear installation since 1 January 2004. [217495]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Nuclear Waste

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her policy is on the import of spent nuclear fuel into the UK for disposal. [224023]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It is not Government policy to import spent nuclear fuel into the UK for disposal.

Since 1976, all new contracts entered into by BNFL for reprocessing spent nuclear fuel from overseas have contained options for BNFL to return the waste, along with the uranium and plutonium for recycling.

Any new proposals will be subject to public consultation and will require the approval of the Secretary of State. In the event that such a proposal was received, the Government would assess that case on its merits, including under the terms of the Bergen declaration, considering the implications of increasing the current volume of fuel to be reprocessed through BNFL's Thermal Oxide Reprocessing Plant (THORP).

Decisions would be taken in the best interests of the UK as a whole, in light of advice from the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority (NDA).

Office of Civil Nuclear Security

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry who is responsible for the work of the Office of Civil Nuclear Security in Wales; and whether the Office has field inspectors based solely in Wales. [223104]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry is responsible for nuclear security in the UK, and this is carried out on her behalf by the Director of Civil Nuclear Security. Office for Civil Nuclear Security inspectors are allocated responsibility for sites according to the security need: there are none dedicated solely to Wales.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list the projects being undertaken by her Department in respect of which information cannot be given in answer to parliamentary questions as a result of commercial confidentiality. [216638]

Ms Hewitt: A decision not to release information relating to any project as a result of commercial confidentiality is made on the basis of the specific request made in each parliamentary question.

An assessment of commercial confidentiality may apply to a specific element within a project as well as to an entire project. It is, therefore, not possible to provide the information requested.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will answer the question, reference 202791, tabled for answer on 6 December 2004. [219729]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when she will reply to question reference 210278, tabled for answer on 20 January. [221162]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Patent Office

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry whether the Patent Office is undertaking a consultation with business about the new intellectual property system she proposes that Office develops; and whether the resulting system development will be put out to tender. [224119]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The Government have stressed the importance of an intellectual property system which continues to promote innovation. We remain committed to consulting fully with all interested parties, including business, on all developments to that system.

Photovoltaic Cells/Energy

Mr. McWalter: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the case for continuing funding to companies who are developing photovoltaic cells; and if she will make a statement on the contribution which the photovoltaic industry can make to reduction in carbon emissions. [221637]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 21 March 2005]: DTI provides research funding to companies developing photovoltaic (PV) cells through the DTI Technology Programme. The overall research budget for emerging energy technologies is £20 million per annum.

Funding for installation of the technology is through the PV Major Demonstration Programme and grants go to householders and public organisations, not direct to the companies installing the technology.

The Renewables Innovation Review, published by DTI and The Carbon Trust in February 2004, recommended continued support for research and development into next generation PV technologies. The report stated that PV was not expected to be fully economic compared to retail price until post 2020; however next generation solutions could bring this forward.

The Renewables Innovation Review estimated that the potential contribution of PV towards reducing carbon emissions was 3 Mt by 2050 (total contribution from renewable energy aspiration of 20 Mt).

Alan Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry for what reasons the Government plans to phase out grant support for photovoltaic energy systems; and what further plans the Government have to (a) promote and (b) support PV development. [220937]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Government have no plans to phase out support for photovoltaics. The current capital grant programme, the major PV demonstration programme, is due to end in March 2006 and the Department will continue its support for PV through a "low carbon buildings" programme.

The Renewable Innovation Review February 2004, recommended this more holistic approach to energy use in buildings incorporating both energy efficiency and renewable energy technologies. The low carbon buildings programme is currently under development and there will be formal consultation on this later this year. The programme is expected to begin operating in 2006–07.

Post Office Closures

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what representations were received by (a) her Department, (b) Postwatch and (c) the Royal Mail from the hon. Member for South Dorset in (i) 2003 and (ii) 2004 regarding the proposed closure of seven sub-post offices in Weymouth. [222598]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Under the public consultation arrangements for sub-post office closure proposals as part of the urban reinvention programme, Members of Parliament and other interested parties were invited to make any representations concerning such proposals to Post Office Ltd. and Postwatch. The Department does not have details of representations about proposed urban reinvention programme proposals for South Dorset made to Post Office Ltd. or Postwatch, but I understand that, in the light of representations received, the proposed closure of Southhill sub-post office was permanently withdrawn from the programme.

Post Offices

Mr. Watts: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on future ownership of the Post Office. [224755]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will make a statement on provision of post office services in Amington ward in Tamworth. [220790]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Provision of post office services is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). My officials have asked POL to issue a direct reply to the hon. Member.

Mr. Paul Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many post offices there were in Shrewsbury and Atcham in each year since 1997. [223151]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Government do not hold this information. This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). My officials have asked POL to issue a direct reply to the hon. Member.

Professional Fees

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much had been paid for professional fees in respect of coal health claims to the top 20 highest paid solicitor practices at the latest date for which figures are available. [224772]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much has been paid for solicitors to date for professional fees in respect of coal health claims. [224773]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Project Costs

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the 10 largest (a) research and development and (b) construction projects sponsored by her Department since 1997 that are yet to recoup outlay are; what the total cost to date is of each project; what the annual maintenance cost is of each; and what the estimated time is before outlay will be recovered. [211383]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Regional Bodies

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government have established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of her Department. [220431]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Regional Development Agencies

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how much in EU grants was distributed through regional development agencies in each of the last three years; and what the total amount distributed to (a) North Yorkshire and (b) South Yorkshire was in each year. [224557]

Mr. Alexander: According to the published accounts of the regional development agencies (RDAs), EU grants or funding received by the RDAs amounted to £25.9 million in 2002–3 and £112.5 million in 2003–04. Figures are not yet available for 2004–05.

The amount distributed by Yorkshire Forward to North Yorkshire was £1.3 million in 2002–03 and £0.8 million 2003–04. As an objective one region with a large urban demographic eligible for regeneration funding, South Yorkshire received £3.5 million in 2002–03 and £17.3 million in 2003–04.

Renewables

Richard Ottaway: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to the answer of 18 March 2005, Official Report, column 482W, on renewables, what the reasons are for the difference between the figure given in the answer and the target figure quoted on the departmental website. [224118]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The two figures differ in respect of coverage. The figure quoted on the Department's website relates to generation from all types of renewable plant and includes renewable sources that are not eligible for the Renewables Obligation (i.e. large hydroelectric plant and incineration of mixed wastes). The figure given in answer to the hon. Member's previous question on this subject, on 18 March 2005, Official Report, column 482W, concerns electricity supplied to final consumers (which is inevitably less than that generated) and was confined to sources eligible for the Renewables Obligation.

All estimates are regularly revised in the light of updated energy projections and the latest information on progress of major renewable projects.

Research and Development

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the (a) resource allocation and (b) competition deadlines for the Grants for Research and Development are for each region in 2005–06. [217806]

Ms Hewitt: It has not-proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Sellafield

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will list the occasions on which sections of uranium nuclear reactor fuel rods have been discovered outside the area where special nuclear materials are required to be held, with particular reference to Pelham House, Calderbridge. [221679]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: On 24 March 2000 the Environment Agency were notified of the discovery of a radioactive rod at Mormet Alloys in Tamworth. The Environment Agency reported that there was no indication of any hazard to members of the public and that no radioactive contamination had been found at the site. This rod would appear to have been one of two produced in the early 1960s by UKAEA Springfields (now BNFL) for engineering testing purposes. The rod was provided on loan to CA Parsons Ltd in Newcastle. This company was involved with construction consortia involved in the building of nuclear power stations. Because of the destruction of advice and delivery notes under the 30 year rule and the loss of the Parsons files it is impossible to establish if the rod was ever returned to Springfields by Parsons. The rod had been extensively damaged including the removal of both ends which would have had stamped identification numbers.

The rod was taken to Winfrith (and subsequently NNC at Risley) for analysis and then to Springfields for storage.

I understand from BNFL, British Energy and UKAEA that their current records show no other occasions on which sections of uranium nuclear reactor fuels rods have been discovered outside the areas where special nuclear materials are required to be held.

Skills Training Agency

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will assess progress made since 13 March 1989 in safeguarding pension arrangements for Skills Training Agency staff who transferred into the private sector. [217131]

Ms Hewitt [holding answer 21 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Small Businesses

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry from which regulations the Small Business Service has pressed for an exemption for small businesses since 2000; and on which occasions an exemption was awarded. [217782]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses in York have been helped by the Small Business Service since 1997. [224646]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, what representations she has received from (a) industry and (b) trade associations in the past three months on her proposal to reduce support for small firms attending trade fairs and missions abroad. [224778]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what representations she has received from small and medium-sized enterprises following changes to the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad scheme; and what response her Department will make to those representations. [223332]

Mr. Alexander: About 150 companies, mainly small and medium-sized enterprises, have made representations about the impact of proposed changes to the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad scheme (SESA). These proposals seek to integrate SESA assistance more fully with other support services from UK Trade and Investment and focus more resources on new-to-export companies in line with the SR 2004 settlement. UK Trade and Investment has carried out extensive consultations with accredited trade organisations, many of whom represent SMEs, and the issues raised will be taken into account in the re-design of support.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what guidance has been issued by her Department to advise small and medium-sized businesses on (a) protecting the security of staff and property and (b) contingency plans in the event of a terrorist attack. [217804]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Solar Heating

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will continue the funding of grants for the installation of domestic solar water heating systems. [224827]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Solar Photovoltaics

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the effect of her Department's Solar Photovoltaics Major Demonstration Programme on private sector investment in the UK solar photovoltaic industry. [220502]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 14 March 2005]: The Major PV Demonstration Programme is due to be assessed in 2005. This assessment will consider how well the programme has addressed its objectives to:

raise awareness of PV in the U.K;

generate investment in the PV industry;

assure quality installations of PV;
generate growth and competition;
reduce product/install costs over time;
establish a sustainable PV market in U.K.

In this context, the assessment will consider the impact of the programme on the number of jobs created.

Alan Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry pursuant to the answer of 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1713W, on solar photovoltaics, how many projects were included in the 2004 Photovoltaic Demonstration Programme; and what plans she has (a) to promote and (b) to extend the programme. [221738]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Unfortunately due to a double counting error the figure given in reply to PQ No 220204 was incorrect.

The number of installations in calendar year 2004 is as follows:

	Projects	kWp installed
For Stream 1	236	513.936
For Stream 2	39	883.877
Total installed		1,397

The current capital grants programme is due to end in March 2006 and the Department will continue its support for PV through a "low carbon buildings" programme. The renewable innovation review, February 2004, recommended this more holistic approach to energy use in buildings incorporating both energy efficiency and renewable energy technologies. The low carbon buildings programme is currently under development and there will be formal consultation shortly. The programme is expected to begin operating in 2006–07.

Mr. Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what her Department's estimate of the number of full-time equivalent jobs in the UK solar PV sector is in the last year for which information is available; and if she will make a statement. [220904]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It is estimated that the number of full-time equivalent jobs in the UK solar PV sector in 2003 was 337. This is based on data collected by the International Agency—Photovoltaics Power Systems Programme and reported in the 2003 National Survey Report. In addition the Survey records 66 jobs in solar PV research and development (non industry based).

Special Representative for International Trade and Investment

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the appointment process was for the Special Representative for International Trade and Investment; and what the (a) role and (b) responsibilities of the Special Representative were. [224566]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The Duke of York was appointed to the role in support of British Trade International (BTI) (which in 2003 became UK Trade and Investment), by Her Majesty The Queen, after consultation with The Cabinet Office, BTI and The Foreign and Commonwealth Office. He was given the title "UK Special Representative for International Trade and Investment". His Royal Highness formally assumed this voluntary and unpaid position on 1 October 2001.

The roles and responsibilities of the UK's Special Representative for Trade and Investment are set out in the 2004 UK Trade and Investment Departmental Report available in the Libraries of the House.

Statutory Audit Requirements (Yorkshire)

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many businesses in (a) York and (b) Yorkshire were exempt from the statutory audit requirement in 1997; and how many are exempt from that requirement. [224645]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Stem Cell Research

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what financial commitment her Department plans to make to stem cell research in (a) 2005, (b) 2006, (c) 2007 and (d) 2008. [220508]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Support and Exhibitions

Mr. Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what (a) criteria she has used and (b) research she has commissioned in order to assess the effects on the economy of reforms made by her Department to the Support for Exhibitions and Seminars Abroad scheme. [220559]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 7 March 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what the value of sales of surplus assets from her Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220974]

Ms Hewitt: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Telecom Billing Services

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what recent representations she has received about Telecom Billing Services Ltd. and their premium rate service. [224871]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department received four letters from MPs in the course of 2004 about Telecoms Billing Services Ltd. (TBS). The constituents had been billed by TBS for a service they had not used.

Television Sets (Recycling)

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what estimate she has made of the cost to local authorities of recycling television sets. [223827]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Town Centres (Businesses)

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what financial incentives the Government (a) have in place and (b) are planning to support (i) small and (ii) specialised businesses to remain open in town centres. [205288]

Nigel Griffiths: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Trade Agreements

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what discussions she has had with the US Administration about its policy on countries entering into international environmental agreements as a condition of bilateral trade agreements. [213226]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Trade Balance

Mr. Liddell-Grainger: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what recent assessment she has made of trends in the UK's balance of trade figures. [217364]

Mr. Alexander: The latest official figures from the 2005 Budget report for the UK's total balance of trade in goods and services for 2004 show a deficit representing 3.3 per cent. of GDP. The Treasury forecasts this to fall to between 3 per cent. to 3.1 per cent. of GDP by 2007.

Trade Development Schemes

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what research her Department has undertaken into the impact of reducing the role of trade associations and chambers of commerce in delivering UK Trade and Investment's trade development schemes. [224790]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Gentleman in the time available before Prorogation.

Trading Relationships (Food)

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many representations her Department has received in each of the last three years for which figures are available in respect of the nature of trading relationships from primary producers to supermarkets through the food supply chain. [208807]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 17 January 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Trading Standards

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many successful prosecutions there have been by trading standards officers in each of the last five years under the Property Misdescriptions Act 1991; and if she will make a statement. [220545]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Trident

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what calculation his Department has made of the (a) physical, (b) environmental and (c) health impacts of the detonation of a single trident nuclear warhead on an urban area. [224987]

Mr. Hoon: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

UK Gas Market

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will urge the European Commission to undertake an investigation into the operation of the UK wholesale gas market; and if she will make a statement. [202791]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

UK Trade and Investment

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry when UK Trade and Investment will begin to limit its support to new exporters. [224789]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

UK-Israel Trade Relations

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of bilateral trade relations between the UK and Israel (a) between 1997 and 2001 and (b) since 2001. [223868]

Mr. Alexander: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for Finchley and Golders Green (Dr. Vis) on 22 March 2005, Official Report, columns 674–75W.

Under-age Drinking

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry (1) what statistics trading standards officers are required to compile on the sale of alcohol to under-age individuals; [209243]

(2) what guidance the Government have issued to local authority trading standards officers on measures they should take towards reducing under-age drinking. [209244]

Mr. Sutcliffe: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Underprivileged People Overseas

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what steps the Government takes to ensure that overseas operations by companies registered in the UK do not harm underprivileged people overseas; and what form of redress such people may seek if they believe that they have been harmed by such activities. [223709]

Mr. Alexander: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Union of Democratic Mineworkers

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry if she will suspend her Department's handling agreement with the Union of Democratic Mineworkers subsidiary company Vendside while concerns raised about financial irregularities are investigated. [223380]

Nigel Griffiths [holding answer 22 March 2005]: No. Suspending the agreement with Vendside who have handled 59,000 claims would freeze payments to all the sick miners and their widows currently using Vendside. To date I am not aware that the hon. Member has been able to substantiate his claims of financial irregularity.

Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Directive

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry what assessment she has made of the impact of the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Directive on the disposal of waste goods. [223828]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Wind Power

Mr. Yeo: To ask the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry how many megawatts of installed capacity of wind power have been (a) applied for and (b) approved in each of the last five years in (i) England, (ii) Scotland and (iii) Wales. [221696]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The DTI is responsible for considering applications for consent under section 36 of the Electricity Act for wind farm projects of more than 50MW onshore and more than 1MW offshore in England and Wales. The DTI is also responsible for applications under the Transport and Work Act (TWA) for offshore wind farm projects in England only: the NAW has responsibility for TWA projects in Welsh waters.

Smaller wind farm projects, less than 50MW, are dealt with by the relevant local planning authority, which should hold the details of these.

For Scotland, the Scottish Executive is responsible for the consenting function for wind farm projects over 50MW.

The figures within the table are based on the information obtained by the DTI for all wind farm projects both large (under section 36) and smaller (outside section 36).

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Beef Exports

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what steps she is taking to (a) promote British beef to countries which refuse to permit its importation and (b) secure the lifting of the ban on the import of British beef; and if she will raise the matter at the World Trade Organisation; [224962]

(2) what her policy is on the export of British beef to countries which have not stated whether they will allow British beef to be imported; [224963]

(3) what action she has taken to secure a change of policy in countries which refuse to permit the importation of British beef. [224964]

Mr. Bradshaw: Where countries ban British beef or have not stated whether they allow imports, we make use of bilateral contacts at all levels as they arise to press the case for our exports. The European Commission has also played an active role in tackling bans on EU beef in general. However, while the over-30 months (OTM) rule remains in place and while we can export only beef produced under the date based export scheme, the UK will remain a major importer of beef. When the OTM rule is replaced by BSE testing and EU export restrictions are lifted, we will agree a targeted lobbying strategy with industry focussed on countries that provide significant export opportunities. This will include working with the European Commission on third country issues. The Commission would pursue with WTO as appropriate.

Abandoned Vehicles

Mike Gapes: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, how many abandoned vehicles were recovered in (a) 2000–01, (b) 2001–02, (c) 2002–03 and (d) 2003–04, broken down by region. [225030]

Alun Michael: Revised estimates for the numbers of abandoned vehicles removed and destroyed between 2000–01 and 2003–04 are listed in the table.

Burnley

Mr. Pike: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to the Burnley constituency, the effects on Burnley of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [214693]

Alun Michael: Defra publishes a wide range of statistical information relating to its policies and actions and the following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp. In addition the Office of National Statistics also publishes further information that you can access from its website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk

Since its establishment in 2001 Defra has put in place a comprehensive programme of action on issues including sustainable development, climate change and energy, sustainable consumption and production, natural resource protection, sustainable rural communities, and a sustainable farming and food sector. I am confident that the Burnley constituency will have benefited from these but it is not possible to systematically quantify those benefits to a constituency level. The difficulties of such geographical analyses are set out by the Office of National Statistics at the following address: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/geography/default.asp.

Through our national strategy for waste we are committed to delivering a step change to more sustainable waste management, including tough national targets to recycle or compost 17 per cent. of household waste by 2003–04 and 25 per cent. by 2005–06. Since 2001, Defra has established a number of funding mechanisms to help local authorities achieve their targets. As a result of allocations from these funds the residents of Burnley should reap the benefits over the next few years. Since 2001 a total of £1,131,245 has been awarded to the borough to expand kerbside recycling schemes.

In March 2005 I announced that Lancashire has been selected as the rural pathfinder in the North West—one of eight rural pathfinders in different regions of England. The pathfinder initiative is a key part of Rural Strategy and reflects the Government's commitment to devolve decision-making and resources to the local level. The Lancashire rural pathfinder will ensure greater co-ordination of rural delivery programmes testing new and innovative methods to bring about improvements in the delivery of services to rural communities and businesses.

In terms of specific payments we have been able to isolate expenditure under the common agricultural policy and a list of payments by constituency is available in the Library of the House following the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Knowsley North and Sefton East (Mr. Howarth) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, columns 1149–50W. It is noted in these figures that payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of farming activity.

Common Agricultural Policy

Payments to farm-based schemes in the Burnley constituency for the 2004 European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004 amount to £780,824.36.

The schemes included are the Arable Area Payment, Beef Special Premium, Suckler Cow Premium, Extensification Premium, Slaughter Premium, Sheep Annual Premium, Over Thirty Months Slaughter, England Rural Development Programme and Structural Funds (which are monies made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe).

CAP Payments

Mr. Wills: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if the Government will press for the introduction of a ceiling on Common Agricultural Policy payments to individuals. [224710]

Alun Michael: The Government are committed to further reform of the Common Agricultural Policy but does not intend to press for a ceiling on individual payments since this could actually slow the process of reform. Only cutting CAP payments to the EU's largest farms would penalise those which would tend to be better able to compete in a less subsidy dependent market. The measure could, therefore, have the counter-intuitive effect of disproportionately supporting those EU farm businesses most likely to resist further reform. A ceiling on CAP payments would also penalise the UK in relation to most other EU member states, as UK farms tend to be larger than the EU average.

Cattle Birth Notifications

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress officials in her Department have made since 11 December 2004 on reviewing arrangements for enforcing the deadline for birth notifications of cattle. [224959]

Mr. Bradshaw: Discussions between Defra, Scottish Executive and Welsh Assembly officials are continuing. Unfortunately legal issues have proved more difficult to resolve than was initially hoped. Officials are currently considering whether an administrative solution can be found. If this is not possible legislative changes will be necessary. Industry representatives continue to be involved in informal discussions.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many civil servants in her Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223899]

Alun Michael: The information is as follows.

(a) In financial year 2004–05, Defra relocated 124 members of staff from London and the south east. This figure can be broken down as follows:

50 to Workington,

31 to York

20 to Worcester,

13 to Carlisle and

10 to a variety of sites in the Rural Development Service.

(b) Defra's overall target is to relocate at least 390 members of staff from the south east by the end of financial year 2007–08. This will be achieved through a number of major change programmes. Most of these relocations are expected to be to York and Worcester.

Common Agricultural Policy

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions she has had with the EU Agriculture Commissioner on the degree of control over agricultural policy available to the Governments of member states. [224662]

Alun Michael: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State, has had discussions with the EU Agriculture Commissioner formally and informally on a number of occasions since the Commissioner took office in November. In particular, they have discussed the proposal for a new Rural Development Regulation, and the possibilities within it for greater simplification and flexibility for member states.

Contaminated Land

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much funding her Department has allocated to the Environment Agency for the development and delivery of training to local authority staff working on land affected by contamination in each year since Part IIA of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 was brought into effect; how much has been allocated to the Environment Agency for this purpose in 2005–06; what output her Department agreed with the Agency; and what has been delivered to date. [224097]

Mr. Morley: From the grant-in-aid from my Department for its activities the Environment Agency spent £150,000 and £108,000 in 2003–04 and 2004–05 respectively to develop and deliver training events with places for local authority staff, with supporting materials, in connection with Part IIA (contaminated land). Specific costs for earlier years are not readily available but are of similar order of magnitude to 2003–04. The Agency has not currently allocated any sums for such training in 2005–06.

Training events in 2004–05 covered "Model Procedures" (Contaminated Land Report 11, published in October 2004), "Site investigation for the regulation of contaminated land" (nine events), "Part IIA Documentation" (four events), and "Evaluating Human Health Risk Assessments" (one event).

Correspondence

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when she will provide a response to the hon. Member for Bassetlaw regarding odour emissions from Mission mushroom farm. [224902]

Alun Michael: My noble Friend, the Lord Whitty, replied to my hon. Friend on 31 January 2005 and wrote again with an update on the 10 March 2005. Officials are now re-drafting the relevant statutory guidance for mushroom substrate manufacturing prior to a wider consultation.

Countryside Stewardship

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many Countryside Stewardship payments for 2004–05 have been paid. [224331]

Alun Michael: The scheme year for Countryside Stewardship runs from 1 October to 30 September. Annual management payments are made in arrears for the previous scheme year. Therefore claims for the 2004–05 year are not due for payment until October 2005.

Claims for Capital Items under CSS (one-off items of work such as hedge and wall restoration) may be submitted at any time during the scheme year in which they are scheduled. In the 2004–05 scheme year, 1,187 claims have been received for Capital Items of which 947 have been paid.

Dairy Farming

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, what mechanism is used for the distribution of dairy premium and additional dairy payment to dairy farmers in England. [225028]

Alun Michael: Dairy premium and the additional payment were introduced by the EU as direct payments to dairy farmers. In 2004 milk producers qualified for the dairy premium based upon the quota available on their holdings as at 31 March 2004. The UK was granted the sum of 53.4 million Euros to be distributed to producers on the basis of objective criteria and in such a way as to ensure equal treatment between producers. The UK decided to pay the additional payment as a top up to the dairy premium.

In 2004 producers were required to apply for dairy premium and additional payment by completing an integrated administration and control system application form. Claims for England, Northern Ireland and Wales were processed by the Rural Payments Agency.

For 2005, producers will claim dairy premium and additional payment through their single payment scheme claim form. Eligibility will be similar to 2004. Producers will not be receiving separate payments this year as both elements will be included in the single payment.

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, what proportion of dairy premium and additional dairy payment will be distributed to non-dairy farmers in England. [225029]

Alun Michael: No payment will be distributed to non-dairy farmers in England as dairy premium and the additional payment are only paid to milk producers who held quota that was available on the holding at the end of the quota year. A producer is defined in the EU regulations as a farmer with a holding located within the geographic territory of a member state, who produces and markets milk or who is preparing to do so in the very near future

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many dairy farmers there were in (a) Lancashire and (b) Chorley in the last year for which figures are available. [223793]

Alun Michael: The following figures show the number of holdings in Lancashire and Chorley where dairy is the predominant activity and the total number of farmers, partners, directors and spouses on these holdings. All figures are for 2003.

	Dairy holdings	Farmers, partners, directors and spouses working on dairy holdings
(a) Lancashire
Lancashire county	875	1,970
Blackpool unitary	0	0
Blackburn and Darwen unitary	28	54
(b) Chorley	58	124

Departmental Land Purchases

David Maclean: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what acreage of land formerly owned by Solway Light Aviation at Great Orton Airfield has been acquired by her Department; and what acreage of arable and other land at Kirkbride has been conveyed to Solway Light Aviation by her Department. [224629]

Alun Michael: The Department conveyed Kirkbride Airfield to Solway Light Aviation in exchange for their interest in the airfield at Great Orton which was acquired by the Department in 2001. The total site area at Great Orton is 83 hectares (approximately 205 acres). We do not hold details of the site area for Kirkbride Airfield.

Departmental Policies

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical evidence relating as closely as possible to the Coventry, South constituency, the effects in Coventry South of changes to her Department's policies since 1997. [219691]

Alun Michael: Defra publishes a wide range of statistical information relating to its policies and actions and the following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp. As a result of allocations from these funds the residents of Coventry South should reap the benefits over the next few years. The main source of funding for Coventry city council's waste management services, as for all local authorities, is through the Environmental, Protective and Cultural Services (EPCS) block of annual Government grant. It is for the local authority to decide what proportion of the block is invested in waste management, including recycling, services. Coventry city council has also been allocated the following additional funding and support:

£1,450,000 through the National Waste Minimisation and Recycling Fund over the period 2002–03 to 2003–04 for kerbside collection of green waste and paper;

£84,026 from Defra to relieve spending pressures on waste in 2004–05; and £240,478 through the Waste Performance and Efficiency Grant in 2005–06.

In terms of specific payments we have been able to isolate expenditure under the common agricultural policy and a list of payments by constituency is available in the Library of the House following the answer I gave to the hon. Mr. Gordon Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as closely as possible to the constituency, the effect of her Department's actions and policies on Blackpool, South constituency since (a) 1997 and (b) 2001. Defra has, since its establishment in 2001, set up a number of funding mechanisms to help local authorities achieve their targets.

It is not possible to be specific as to how successful the Blackpool, South constituency has been in obtaining some of the available funding. However, as a result of allocations from these funds, the residents of the borough of Blackpool should, over the next few years, reap the benefits. Since 2001 a total of £1,106,836 has been awarded to the borough to expand kerbside recycling schemes.

Defra has overall policy responsibility for flood and coastal erosion risk in England and funds most of the activities of the Environment Agency (EA) in this area. Defra also provides grant aid on a project-by-project basis to the other flood and coastal defence operating authorities (local authorities and internal drainage boards) to support their investment in improvement works.

Improvement projects funded by Defra, including those of the EA, must meet specified economic, technical and environmental criteria and achieve an appropriate "priority score" to be eligible for funding. Defra does not build defences, nor direct the authorities on what specific projects to carry out. The works programme to manage risk is driven by the operating authorities.

Details of Defra grant aid paid to Blackpool borough council for coast protection works carried out under the Coast Protection Act from 1997 to date are:

1997	3,246,295
1998	5,333,593

Payments to farm based schemes in the Chorley constituency for the 2004 European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004 amount to £1,207,777.07.

The schemes included are the Arable Area Payment, Beef Special Premium, Suckler Cow Premium, Extensification Premium, Slaughter Premium, Sheep Annual Premium, Over Thirty Months Slaughter, England Rural Development Programme and Structural Funds (which are monies made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe).

Mr. Chris Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to West Dorset constituency, the effects on West Dorset of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [215978]

Alun Michael: Defra publishes a wide range of statistical information relating to its policies and actions and the following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp. In addition the Office of National Statistics also publishes further information that you can access from its website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk

Since its establishment in 2001 Defra has put in place a comprehensive programme of action on issues including sustainable development, climate change and energy, sustainable consumption and production, natural resource protection, sustainable rural communities, and a sustainable farming and food sector. I am confident that the West Dorset constituency will have benefited from these but it is not possible to systematically quantify those benefits to a constituency level. The difficulties of such geographical analyses are set out by the Office of National Statistics at the following address: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/geography/default.asp.

The following information may help provide a "word picture" of the way Defra's work benefits West Dorset.

The Environment Agency has been active on the ground in West Dorset dealing with water quality problems. This work has been part of the "Cycleau Project", a European Interreg IIIB funded project that aims to:

Find innovative ways of managing and improving the water environment.

Share knowledge and experience of water management.

Involve local communities in the management of local rivers.

More details are on the website. www.cycleau.com

In West Dorset most of the activity has been in the River Char catchment area (upstream of Charmouth). The Environment Agency is the lead partner with FWAG delivering advice and grant aid. The main concern has been to ensure that the beach at Charmouth meets its Bathing Water standards with failures in the past resulting from diffuse farm pollution. There are about 35 farms in the Char catchment and so far about 20 farmers have been involved in the project. Funding is £70,000 over three years, up to 2006

West Dorset forms part of the Dorset Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) and as such is supported by Defra (through the Countryside Agency) for core funding. Core funding since 2002 has been £574,200 that is further enhanced by contributions from all the district authorities and the county council.

Defra has supported Leader+ through the Dorset Chalk and Cheese programme, and awarded £1,217,456 EU and £591,558 Defra funding, to run a six year community based programme (2000–06), in parts of rural West Dorset.

The Voluntary and Community Sector in Dorset has benefited from joint funding with the Home Office through the Capacity Building and Infrastructure Strategy Programme. The rural preparatory programme to June 2004 awarded £20,000 to Churches Together in Dorset (CTD), Dorset Community Action (DCA) and Dorset Race Equality Council and sought primarily to:

Build a broader consortium of rural partners, and develop Vision" for closer collaboration in the longer term.

Develop a "Countywide Investment Plan" for Voluntary Sector Infrastructure

The Change Up programme that follows on from this will see Defra and the Home Office supporting a Dorset Consortia to continue with this work and West Dorset is sure to benefit.

The England Rural Development Programme has supported a number of grants in West Dorset for Vocational Training Schemes, for example training farm staff and on organic skills. Processing and Marketing grants of £105,577 were given to support farms and food processing plants. The Rural Enterprise Scheme gave grants of £466,671 to support rural businesses including a livery stable, equatic centre and food processing plant.

In terms of specific payments we have been able to isolate expenditure under the Common Agricultural Policy and a list of payments by constituency is available in the Library of the House following the answer I gave to the hon Member for Knowsley North and Sefton East, (Mr. Howarth) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, columns 1149–1150W. It is noted in these figures that payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of farming activity:

Mrs. Lawrence: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to Preseli, Pembrokeshire constituency, the effects on Preseli, Pembrokeshire of her Department's policies and actions since it was established. [211322]

Alun Michael: Most policy areas for which Defra has responsibility are devolved and fall to the National Assembly for Wales in respect of Welsh constituencies. Statistics for Welsh constituencies are also generally a matter for the Assembly.

Mr. Sedgemore: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to South-East Cambridgeshire constituency, the effects on South-East Cambridgeshire of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [216020]

The following information may help provide a "word picture" of the way Defra's work benefits South East Cambridgeshire. Through our national strategy for waste we are committed to delivering a step change to more sustainable waste management, including tough national targets to recycle or compost 17 per cent. of household waste by 2003–04, and 25 per cent. by 2005–06. The county of Cambridgeshire continues to make a substantial contribution to achieving national recycling targets. The county's recycling performance in 2003–04, the most recent year for which data are available, was 29 per cent., against the national average for that year of 16.9 per cent.

The Government are committed to increasing the amount of electricity supplied by renewable sources in the UK to 10 per cent. by 2010. Between 1990 and 1998, the percentage of electricity generated from renewable sources in Cambridgeshire increased from zero, or very little, to around 0.9 per cent. In the last four years, this figure has increased to around 6 per cent. This dramatic increase is mainly attributable to the opening of a straw burning power station in Sutton near Ely in late 2001.

An area of the East of England, which covers a large part of the South East Cambridgeshire constituency, is one of the eight rural delivery pathfinders announced by the Minister of State, Alun Michael, at Ely on 14 March. The pathfinder initiative is a key part of the Government's Rural Strategy and reflects the Government's commitment to devolve decision-making and resources to the local level. The Fens rural pathfinder will ensure greater co-ordination of rural delivery programmes by testing new and innovative methods to bring about improvements in the delivery of services to rural communities and businesses. Partners in pathfinder areas are currently worked on their detailed proposals of actions they will undertake, but a summary can be obtained via the following web address: www. idea-knowledge, gov.uk/idk/core/page. do?pageId =335795

Common Agricultural Policy

Payments to farm based schemes in the Witney constituency for the 2004 European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004 amount to £13,661,576.34.

The schemes included are the Arable Area Payment, Beef Special Premium, Suckler Cow Premium, Extensification Premium, Slaughter Premium, Sheep Annual Premium, Over Thirty Months Slaughter, England Rural Development Programme and Structural Funds (which are monies made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe).

Other benefits

The following information may also help provide a "word picture" of the way Defra's work benefits Witney through a selection of activities which have taken place in Oxfordshire.

Applications for the England Rural Development Programme (ERDP) have been received from within the County of Oxfordshire. As at 2004 Oxfordshire had 594 agri-environment schemes which is the highest number of any other county in the region. Grant paid under the Farm Woodland Premium Scheme and Farm Woodland Scheme since 2000 is £1.2 million and £112,000 has been under the Habitat Scheme since 2001. £565,000 has been paid under the Project Based Schemes since 2001.

Clinics for the promotion of good quality applications under the ERDP are held regularly by the Defra Rural Development Service in Reading and Guildford.

West Oxfordshire is one of five areas in the South East region that has funding under the LEADER + programme, with European Union support, for experimental development of rural projects and community initiatives. Over 20 projects have, or are being funded, through the programme in Oxfordshire with further projects due to start this year. Projects aim to improve quality of life and particularly target younger and older people, women, rural business and workers affected by rural restructuring.

The Countryside Agency is supporting a number of projects in the area. The Vital Villages Programme began in 2001 and provides financial support for rural transport projects, projects to enhance and establish key rural services and to assist parishes with producing a parish plan. Funding for this programme in West Oxfordshire exceeds £1 million.

Defra has worked to implement the vision of the Rural White Paper to support vibrant rural communities through the proactive work of Oxfordshire rural community council which delivers support and services on the ground to rural communities. In the three years from 2001–04 over £800,000 has been invested in supporting rural transport, rural retail services, the provision of affordable homes in rural communities, community development work and work with socially excluded groups in rural areas across Oxfordshire. The money channelled by Defra through the RCC for this work, has also been instrumental at a local level, in levering other sources of finance to support rural communities.

Defra is funding a pilot study which aims to increase the local food content (fresh, seasonal ingredients) of school meals. Several schools are involved across the pilot area covering Buckinghamshire, Berkshire and Oxfordshire. The findings are due this April.

The South East Rural Affairs Forum was set up following recommendations in the Rural White Paper. The forum held a conference involving stakeholders across the region on 7 September 2004 and was attended by several stakeholders from Oxfordshire.

Deregulation

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many EU (a) regulations and (b) directives covering matters within the responsibility of her Department have been repealed since 1 April 2004. [224572]

Alun Michael: The European Commission publishes information on the repeal of EU regulations and directives in its simplification progress reports. Its last report was published in June 2004 and is available at http://europa.eu.int/comm/governance/docs/comm_doc_trav_en.pdf. The next report will cover the period since 1 April 2004.

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many regulations have been repealed by her Department since 1 October 2004. [224618]

Alun Michael: We have the information from 1 April 2004 and the Department has repealed the following 42 pieces of domestic legislation:

The Diseases of Animals (Fees for the Testing of Disinfectants) Order 1991 (SI 1991/1168)

Integrated Administration and Control System Regulations 1993 (SI 1993/1317)

Integrated Administration and Control System (Amendment) Regulations 1994 (SI 1994/1134)

Suckler Cow Premium Regulations 2001 (SI 2001/1370)

Beef Special Premium Regulations 2001 (SI 2001/2503)

The Slaughter Premium (Amendment) Regulations 2001 (SI 2001/3906)

Farm Plastic Collections

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what farm plastic collections are made in (a) Stroud and (b) Gloucestershire; and if she will make a statement. [224805]

Mr. Morley: We understand that there are currently no farm plastic collections being made in either Stroud or Gloucestershire.

There was at one time a scheme operating in Gloucestershire, connected to the Somerset Farming and Wildlife Advisory Group, but I understand that this has now closed down.

Farmers (Bureaucracy)

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will take steps to merge agencies and non-departmental public bodies for which her Department is responsible in order to reduce the administrative burden for farmers who have to supply the same information to different bodies. [224958]

Alun Michael: Action that is being taken to reduce the administrative burden on farmers includes the following:

1. We are already implementing the commitments in the Rural Strategy 2004 to modernise the delivery of rural services. Subject to parliamentary approval, we will bring together three existing bodies, English Nature, parts of the Countryside Agency and Defra's Rural Development Service, into a single body, Natural England, to be responsible for conserving, managing and enhancing the natural environment.

2. Our IT Strategy, and its constituent customer information programme, is developing a single data repository for farmers, in partnership with the Rural Payments Agency. Phase One of this work is currently underway, and will be completed in July 2005, when we will have a better idea of the costs and timescales for full delivery.

3. We are developing the Defra Whole Farm Approach programme. This will:

Save time on form filling and stop repeated requests for the same information.

Cut down bureaucracy and provide a mechanism for registering for exemptions and licenses.

Enable farmers to provide us with the evidence of good practice that will reduce their risk of being selected for inspection.

Provide instant access to up to date help and guidance.

The programme is being developed with a range of partners including the Environment Agency, Food Standards Agency, Health and Safety Executive and National Farmers Union. They are all playing a vital role in the development of the Approach, and together we aim to create a single set of essential core data on farms and farming activity, and by sharing that data significantly reduce the burdens of regulation and enforcement activities.

Farms

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps she is taking to reduce the burden of administration on farm assured farms. [224698]

Alun Michael: Assurance schemes are private initiatives and membership is voluntary. Decisions on assurance standards and inspection regimes are a matter for scheme owners. However, the Department has facilitated discussions between key stakeholders with a view to the rationalisation of assurance schemes in line with the recommendations of the Policy Commission on the future of farming and food. As a result of those discussions the six main sectoral assurance schemes in England have either merged or entered into binding agreements with Assured Food Standards, the private organisation that was set up to administer the Red Tractor logo. This has provided scope for further rationalisation of assurance standards and inspections.

The Department is also committed to further improving farm regulation and in November 2005 we will publish a Strategy for the Regulation of Agriculture. In order to develop this Strategy, we are gathering evidence directly from farmers and their regulators on the impact and performance of farm regulation. This evidence will inform us about how to improve the performance of existing and planned regulation and achieve more effective controls that are delivered more efficiently and with less bureaucracy.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many visits on average she expects officials will make to farms in relation to the single farm payment. [224699]

Alun Michael: The average number of visits to farms in relation to the single payment scheme will depend on the total number of applications made. Visits will be undertaken to at least 5 per cent. of the applicants each year. If there are for example 125,000 applicants in 2005, this would produce 6,250 visits.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what arrangements will be put in place for interim payments to be made where there is a delay in the payment of the single farm payment. [224700]

Alun Michael: The Rural Payments Agency has announced that it expects to begin payments under the single payment scheme in February 2006, well before the deadline of 30 June 2006 set in EU legislation. The Government are considering what action can be taken to improve on this position or to help in other ways.

Fisheries

Ms Atherton: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many cetaceans have been reported stranded during the 2004–05 season of the pair trawl sea bass fishery. [219865]

Mr. Bradshaw: The pair trawling sea bass fishery season usually starts in November and continues until April and fishing for sea bass takes place in the south-west Approaches. From 1 November 2004 to 4 March 2005, a total of 90 cetaceans have been reported as stranded on the south coast (Cornwall, Devon and Dorset,). These comprised 47 common dolphins, 31 harbour porpoises, one bottlenose dolphin, two long-finned pilot whales and nine unidentified cetaceans.

All strandings found in the south-west cannot be solely attributed to the pair trawling sea bass fishery. These figures include stranded dead cetaceans, live strandings and carcasses seen floating at sea. Only 12 of the 90 cetaceans that were stranded were definitely confirmed as bycatch. The data were obtained under the Defra-funded Cetacean and Turtle Strandings Scheme, carried out by the Natural History Museum in partnership with the Institute of Zoology and Scottish Agricultural College.

Fly-tipping

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps her Department is taking to combat fly-tipping. [224977]

Alun Michael: The Department is taking forward a wide ranging strategy for combating fly-tipping, in close liaison with the Environment Agency and local authorities. Some new powers for these enforcement agencies were included in the Anti-social Behaviour Act 2003. Many more provisions have been included in the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill which has now completed its passage through Parliament. These include raising the penalties for the main offence of illegal waste disposal; new powers to stop, search and instantly seize vehicles that are being used for fly-tipping; additional sentencing powers for the courts including a power to award forfeiture of vehicles used to commit an offence; and powers for the enforcing authorities to issue fixed penalty notices for some offences. We will work closely with the enforcement authorities on implementation of all the measures in the Bill.

100 per cent. of local authorities are now registered on the Flycapture database, which for the first time is producing national data on the nature and scale of fly-tipping across the country. We are funding the Environment Agency through the Flycapture Enforcement project to provide training for local authority enforcement officers and lawyers on how to enhance their skills. Through the BREW programme, we are providing additional funding for the agency to assist businesses in complying with the legal requirements on the disposal of waste. The Department has also just let a research project that will look in depth at the reasons why people fly-tip and will develop good practice guidance for local authorities on further measures they can take to help reduce the problem.

Food Imports (African Products)

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on the impact of imports of African food products into western markets on farmers in the UK. [224680]

Alun Michael: In 2003, 4.9 per cent. of the total value of food, feed and drink imports into the European Union were from Africa. For the same year, 6.3 per cent. of the total value of food, feed and drink imports into the United Kingdom were from Africa. Of all of the imported food, feed and drink indigenous to the UK, 3.8 per cent. were from Africa, the corresponding figure for imported non- indigenous food, feed and drink from Africa was 10.3 per cent.

Gangmaster Licensing

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance her Department has issued to assist legitimate labour providers in complying with gangmasters licensing regulations. [224490]

Alun Michael: The Government are working to ensure that labour provider businesses have robust business systems in place in advance of the introduction of licensing later this year. Regulation of the industry is intended to end exploitation and drive out illegal activity. In parallel to developing the licensing system, we are working to help legitimate labour providers to be successful and robust businesses. To facilitate this process we are working closely with the Ethical Trading Initiative Temporary Labour Working Group to promote the Code of Practice which the group launched in November 2004. Labour providers are being invited to arrange for their businesses to be audited against the code. Those that do will be offered a pre audit business consultancy session to assess their business and offer advice on problem areas. This process has the full backing of the supermarkets, the Association of Labour Providers, the Transport and General Workers Union and the National Farmers Union. To help reduce the cost to labour providers, the Government will be meeting a proportion of the cost of the consultancy advice and audit activities on a first come first served basis. The Chairman of the Gangmasters Licensing Authority has also indicated, that the cost of a licence audit will be reduced where a labour provider has previously been audited against the Temporary Labour Working Group Code by an auditor meeting the competencies set by the Gangmasters Licensing Authority.

In the longer term the Gangmasters Licensing Authority will be responsible for developing regulations setting out the conditions labour providers will be required to comply with under the new gangmaster licensing arrangements. Regulations establishing the Gangmasters Licensing Authority are in place and the authority started work on 1 April. The authority will be consulting on licence conditions over the next few weeks and hopes to have regulations in place establishing the detailed licensing arrangements by the autumn. It is anticipated that the authority will develop best practice guidance for labour providers alongside the regulations.

GM Crops

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what action her Department is taking in connection with the failure of the US Administration to notify the UK before March of the import into the UK since 2001 of GM maize containing an antibiotic resistant marker of a type that the EU had been advised to phase out; and what steps her Department is taking to prevent a recurrence of such an event with reference to (a) regulatory controls in the US and (b) the implementation of controls in the EU. [224888]

Mr. Morley: This relates to the incident in the USA where some batches of Syngenta's GM maize seed intended to be Bt11 actually contained an unapproved GM maize event known as Bt10. We were informed of this incident on 22 March and issued a press release on 23 March. Our understanding is that between 2001–04 approximately 15,000 hectares of Bt10 was grown in the USA and most of the resulting grain was used in the USA. Only 18 per cent. of US corn is exported and the levels of maize exported from the US to the EU are very small indeed. The European Commission has been informed that an estimated 1,000 tonnes of Bt10 food and feed products may have entered the European Union (as distinct from the UK) since 2001. We have no evidence at this stage of any import of Bt10 into the UK.

We are unaware of the original source of the figure of 170,000 tonnes which you quote. There is no evidence that 170,000 tonnes of Bt10 maize has been imported into the UK; and indeed this figure is an order of magnitude higher than the total annual maize imports into the UK from the US, which are in a range of 4,000 to 14,000 tonnes annually.

Following Syngenta's disclosure on 22 March, Defra and the Food Standards Agency have been working with the European Commission and the US authorities to gain information on whether or not any contaminated maize has been imported into the UK. We continue to monitor the situation closely.

We have written to maize importers to remind them of the need to check imports of maize and other crops for the presence of GMOs which have not been authorised in the European Union. It is for EU and UK importers to satisfy themselves that imported maize grain and derived products are approved for use and if material is GM that it is appropriately labelled. Our GM Inspectorate and local authority inspectors oversee this process.

We understand that the US authorities consider that Bt10 does not present any concerns for human or animal health. Bt10 maize does contain an antibiotic resistance marker gene (which is not present in Bt11). Although the antibiotic resistance marker is in the process of being phased out, the European Food Safety Authority has concluded that this antibiotic resistance marker gene would have minimal, if any, impact on human health if present in GM plants.

I should stress that we take incidents of this kind seriously. We do monitor the supply chain records of GM imports and take immediate action if evidence or information indicates the presence of any unauthorized GM product. Our priority is to protect the consumer and environment and ensure there is informed consumer choice.

Green Lanes

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will ensure that the new Government policy and guidance on the vehicular use of green lanes outlined in "Making the Best Byways' is open to public consultation for a 12-week period. [224876]

Alun Michael: Formal public consultation is more commonly carried out on policy or legislative proposals. "Making the Best of Byways" is intended as practical guidance. The draft revision was put together with the help of an advisory group including representatives from the Ramblers Association, Sustrans, the British Horse Society, English Nature, the Countryside Agency and the Countryside Council for Wales. The draft revision was also circulated for comment to a range of interest groups.

Hazardous Waste

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many UK hazardous waste landfills are licensed to receive contaminated soils. [224569]

Mr. Morley: There are nine authorised commercial hazardous landfill sites in England and Wales. Eight of these are authorised under Pollution Prevention and Control permits and the ninth is authorised under a Waste Management Licence.

All of these landfill sites are currently operational and able to receive hazardous contaminated soils.

Huddersfield

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, with statistical information relating as directly as possible to the Huddersfield constituency, the effects on Huddersfield of her Department's policies and actions since 2 May 1997. [216869]

Alun Michael: Defra publishes a wide range of statistical information relating to its policies and actions and the following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp. In addition, the Office of National Statistics also publishes further information that you can access from its website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk.

Since its establishment in 2001 Defra has put in place a comprehensive programme of action on issues including sustainable development, climate change and .energy, sustainable consumption and production, natural resource protection, sustainable rural communities, and a sustainable farming and food sector. I am confident that the Huddersfield constituency will have benefited from these but it is not possible to systematically quantify those benefits to a constituency level. The difficulties of such geographical analyses are set out by the Office of National Statistics at the following address: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/geography/default.asp.

Waste: Through our national strategy for waste we are committed to delivering a step change to more sustainable waste management, including tough national targets to recycle or compost 17 per cent. of household waste by 2003–04, and 25 per cent. by 2005–06. To help local authorities achieve their own targets Defra's Waste Minimisation Fund was set up in 2002. As a result of successful bids for money from this fund by Kirklees metropolitan council a total of almost £1.2 million was used for projects which have seen extra green wheeled bins being provided to 140,000 households across Kirklees, including Huddersfield itself. This, together with a waste reduction and reuse awareness raising campaign, also funded by Defra, has enabled Kirklees to double its recycling and composting rate from 7 per cent. in 1998–99 to reach its statutory target of 14 per cent. in 2003–04.

River Water Quality has improved along the Kirklees rivers, including the Rivers Colne and Holme in Huddersfield over recent years. While 75 per cent. of the rivers' lengths within the Kirklees area were already considered to be of fair or better chemical quality in 1997, by 2003 this had risen to 95 per cent. The improvements in the biological quality of the rivers has been even more rapid with the percentage of river length of fair quality or better rising from 4.0 per cent. in 1995 to 75 per cent. in 2003. These improvements reflect Defra's policy to improve river water quality, which is one of the headline indicators of sustainable development and to raise compliance with the EC water framework directive.

Flood Defences: With grant support from Defra the Environment Agency has undertaken maintenance and improvement of flood defences around the Huddersfield area and has invested £30 million in new defences in the past 10–15 years across Kirklees as a whole. The Environment Agency also now offers a flood warning service for residents and businesses at high and medium risk of flooding through Huddersfield.

Rural Environment: The most important environment scheme delivered by Defra's Rural Development Service in the Huddersfield area constituency is the Countryside Stewardship Scheme (CSS). It aims are to help to conserve and improve the rural environment. There are three CSS agreements in the constituency; the total area of land on these three holdings is 123.42ha, of which 22.12ha is under agreement. In terms of specific payments we have been able to isolate expenditure under the common agricultural policy and a list of payments by constituency is available in the Library of the House following the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Knowsley North and Sefton East (Mr. Howarth) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, columns 1149–50W. It is noted in these figures that payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of farming activity.

Common Agricultural Policy

Payments to farm-based schemes in the Huddersfield constituency for the 2004 European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004 amount to £146,410.85.

The schemes included are the Arable Area Payment, Beef Special Premium, Suckler Cow Premium, Extensification Premium, Slaughter Premium, Sheep Annual Premium, Over Thirty Months Slaughter, England Rural Development Programme and Structural Funds (which are monies made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe).

Litter

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many litter abatement orders have been served. [224975]

Alun Michael: We cannot provide comprehensive figures since there is no requirement for the service of litter abatement orders to be reported to Defra, but we are aware that at least one abatement order has been served.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps an individual can take to encourage local authorities to fulfil their responsibilities in relation to litter and detritus. [224976]

Alun Michael: Under section 91 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990, an individual can complain to a magistrates court if aggrieved by the defacement, by litter or refuse, of land that a local authority has a duty to keep clear under section 89 of that Act. If the magistrates are satisfied that the land in question is defaced, they can issue a litter abatement order requiring the local authority to clear the land of litter and refuse within a time specified in the order. It is an offence to fail to comply with a litter abatement order.

An individual can also complain to a local authority using its standard complaint procedures. Many local authorities have set up call centres or hotlines to which their residents can report local environmental quality issues. If the local authority does not have a complaints procedure, or the individual is not satisfied with the action the council takes, he or she can complain to the Local Government Ombudsman who investigates maladministration by local authorities.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions she has had with her Department's agencies on measures to tackle litter in the countryside. [224978]

Alun Michael: The appropriate agencies were consulted about the measures in the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Bill, but there have been no discussions with them specifically on litter, which is primarily the responsibility of local authorities. The Department sponsors ENCAMS to promote campaigning on environmental issues, including campaigns to combat litter and ENCAMS works closely with local government on such issues. The Department has increased support for ENCAMS in parallel to providing additional tools to local authorities to enable them to increase their effectiveness in tackling local environmental issues including litter.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions she has had with companies that use large quantities of food wrapping paper on (a) mechanisms to persuade customers not to cause litter and (b) using biodegradable materials to reduce litter. [224980]

Mr. Morley: On 22 November 2004 the Government launched its Voluntary Code of Practice for "Food on the Go'—the aim of which is to reduce the amount of food related waste that becomes litter in the local environment. This followed over two years of extensive research into the problem and detailed consultation with both businesses that sell food for immediate consumption, and the industry bodies that represent them.

The voluntary code sets out a series of recommendations for joint action between businesses and local authorities. These include measures to minimise packaging by using biodegradable materials in its production, asking customers if they require a bag, and displaying anti littering messaging on packaging. This is complemented by recommendations on the implementation of education and community engagement initiatives, and the local authority's enforcement regime.

Livestock Burial

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what action she is taking against those farmers who continue to engage in on-farm burial of livestock. [224808]

Mr. Bradshaw: The scheme is voluntary and farmers may dispose of their fallen stock outside of the scheme providing the method used meets with the requirements of the "Animal By-Products Regulation" (Regulation (EC) No. 1774/2002).

Where on-farm burial continues we would expect local enforcement agencies to investigate and, where necessary, take appropriate action against the person or persons responsible.

Lobsters

Mr. Beith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when the Department's proposed prohibition on the landing of berried hen lobsters is planned to come into force; whether she is still considering representations on this issue; and what assessment she has made of whether the scheme is needed in areas where the landing of v-notched or multilateral lobsters is prohibited. [223977]

Mr. Bradshaw: I announced my intention to ban the landing, carriage and storage of berried lobsters last year. A technical consultation will take place shortly with interested parties.

I know that there is support for the continuation of local v-notch schemes (where mature female lobsters are given protection through a notch being cut in the shell, and it being illegal to land such a lobster), either in conjunction with, or instead of this ban. We are currently preparing draft legislation for consultation with a view to ensuring that this ban will not preclude the continuation of local v-notch schemes.

Milk Quota

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether she expects that the UK will be able to fulfil its milk quota for the last financial year; and if she will make a statement. [224804]

Alun Michael: Although the quota year ended on 31 March, the Rural Payments Agency will not know the final position on milk supply against quota until July. This is because there has been the usual end-of-year quota transfer activity and all of these transfers have to be processed. Once this has been done, milk purchasers and direct sellers have to provide details of production. Temporary conversions of quota (from wholesale to direct sale and vice versa) have to be processed, and finally any spare quota will be reallocated to producers who have been affected by herd restrictions (such as those producers who have herds affected by TB).

Once all of these processes have been completed the Rural Payments Agency will issue a statement on whether production has met quota and whether a levy is due.

Ministerial Engagements

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if the Minister for Nature Conservation and Fisheries will list his official engagements up to the Easter recess. [215858]

Margaret Beckett [holding answer 10 February 2005]: The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs is to place on its website at regular intervals lists of the official public engagements undertaken by all Defra Ministers. Details of future engagements are not normally released for security reasons.

NIREX

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how the operations of Nirex will be (a) overseen and (b) funded under the new management arrangements. [224848]

Mr. Morley: Since 1 April 2005, the shares of United Kingdom Nirex Limited (Nirex) have been held by a new company limited by guarantee (CLG), jointly owned by the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and the Department of Trade and Industry. The CLG board will oversee the operations of Nirex in accordance with a business plan agreed with the company each year. Day-to-day management of Nirex, in accordance with the business plan, will be the responsibility of the Nirex board. Under the new arrangements over 90 per cent. of the funding for Nirex work will be provided under a contract with the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority (NDA), with the remainder coming from the continuing memorandum of understanding with the Ministry of Defence, and individual contracts with waste producers for advice on its conditioning and packaging.

North Durham

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will set out, including statistical information relating as directly as possible to the constituency, the effect on North Durham constituency of her Department's policies since June 2001. [214470]

Alun Michael: Defra publishes a wide range of statistical information relating to its policies and actions and the following web address will take you directly to the service: http://statistics.defra.gov.uk/esg/default.asp. In addition, the Office of National Statistics also publishes further information that you can access from its website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk

Since its establishment in 2001 Defra has put in place a comprehensive programme of action on issues including sustainable development, climate change and energy, sustainable consumption and production, natural resource protection, sustainable rural communities, and a sustainable farming and food sector. I am confident that the North Durham constituency will have benefited from these but it is not possible to systematically quantify those benefits to a constituency level. The difficulties of such geographical analyses are set out by the Office of National Statistics at the following address: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/geography/default.asp.

The following information may help provide a "word picture" of the way Defra's work benefits North Durham.

Through our national strategy for waste we are committed to delivering a step change to more sustainable waste management, including tough national targets to recycle or compost 17 per cent. of household waste by 2003–04, and 25 per cent. by 2005–06. The districts of Chester le Street and Derwentside continue to make a contribution to achieving these national recycling targets and have exceeded regional targets set at 10 per cent. for 2003–04. The districts' recycling performance in 2003–04, the most recent year for which data is available, were 12 per cent. and 14 per cent. respectively, an improvement for each council of 5 per cent.

The policy initiatives flowing from the Rural White Paper had a major impact on people in rural and urban fringe locations. North Durham constituents will have benefited from a living, working and vibrant countryside surrounding the towns of Stanley and Chester le Street. The Rural Strategy published in July 2004, builds on the success of the White Paper and aims to give the people of North Durham a greater say in the delivery of services.

The Modernising Rural Delivery pathfinder initiative is a key part of the Government's Rural Strategy and is designed to test and share, at a local authority level, good practice on the Government's commitment to devolve decision-making and resources to the local level. In October, I announced seven rural pathfinders in England, and I announced the final pathfinder in the West Durham area more recently. The North East pathfinder will ensure greater co-ordination of rural delivery programmes testing new and innovative methods to bring about improvements in the delivery of services to rural communities and businesses. Whilst not directly located in the pathfinder area, I expect that the lessons learned will be shared across the constituency, the North East Region and nationally.

West County Durham is an area steeped in a rich social, industrial and natural heritage. I am pleased that the Department is involved in the "Mineral Valleys Project", which covers an area of 89,000 hectares, aims to use environment-led regeneration to help local communities celebrate their heritage whilst enhancing the environment around them. The Mineral Valleys Partnership that includes 50 businesses, statutory, community and voluntary organisations, led by English Nature and supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund, has been successful in putting a £5.2 million programme together to make this vision a reality. This exciting project has resulted in a number of positive environmental outcomes for the constituency including the Saving Stanley Burn and Woods Project, an Otter Holt at Chester le Street and the creation of wetland at Chester Moor.

In terms of specific payments we have been able to isolate expenditure under the common agricultural policy and a list of payments by constituency is available in the Library of the House following the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Knowsley North and Sefton East (Mr. Howarth) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, columns 1149–50W. It is noted in these figures that payments to customers are reported on the basis of requested business address which may differ from the location of farming activity.

Common Agricultural Policy

Payments to farm-based schemes in the North Durham constituency for the 2004 European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF) accounting year which ran from 16 October 2003 to 15 October 2004 amount to £1,031,592.59.

The schemes included are the Arable Area Payment, Beef Special Premium, Suckler Cow Premium, Extensification Premium, Slaughter Premium, Sheep Annual Premium, Over Thirty Months Slaughter, England Rural Development Programme and Structural Funds (which are monies made available by EAGGF to contribute to the economic development of disadvantaged regions within Europe).

Pet Markets

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the scientific basis is of her decision to permit within the terms of the proposed Animal Welfare Bill the reintroduction of the pet markets prohibited under the 1983 amendments to the Pet Animals Act 1951. [224832]

Mr. Bradshaw: The scope of the prohibition on pet markets and similar events in public places under the Pet Animals Act 1951 (as amended 1983) is in our view in need of clarification. That is one of the aims of the proposed secondary regulation under the Animal Welfare Bill. We will be conducting a public consultation on the proposed regulation in due course.

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when she expects to make a decision on whether to make available the relevant background information derived from consultations relating to her decision to legalise the selling of pet animals, birds and reptiles in markets and other public places in response to requests made under the Freedom of Information Act 2000. [224833]

Mr. Bradshaw: We have received a number of requests on the issue of pet fairs under the Freedom of Information Act (FOI) and the Environmental Information Regulations (EIRs). Defra endeavours to answer all these enquiries within the statutory 20 working day time limit. Where cases are more complex the enquirer is informed that the time limit is being extended for an additional 20 working days. In rare circumstances raising particularly complex issues, some responses may be delayed beyond this, although Defra will respond as quickly as possible. A response to one particularly complex case under the Freedom of Information Act has just been released. We regret that the complexity of this case led to a delay in responding.

Sewers and Drains

Andy King: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will require that all sewers and drains are laid by suitably qualified persons. [224849]

Mr. Morley: A protocol for the construction of new sewers was established in 2002. Its aim is to put into practice a common approach for the design and construction for new development, to enable wider adoption of sewers in England and Wales.

A review of the effectiveness of the protocol was recently undertaken on the Department's behalf. Its findings indicate that developers are not always adhering to the protocol. The Government are now considering the results of this review and its possible implications for the current arrangements for the construction of sewers.

I understand that Energy and Utility Skills Ltd., the Sector Skills Council whose purpose is to identify the skill needs of employers and provide effective training solutions in the electricity, gas, waste management and water industries, offers a 13 week ambition energy programme. This has been designed for operators who are involved in the maintenance of the sewerage infrastructure.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on the Government's proposals to transfer ownership of private sewers and lateral drains from property owners to local water companies. [224858]

Mr. Morley: The Government published a response to their consultation—Review of Existing Private Sewers and Drains in England and Wales—in October 2004. 81 per cent. of respondents favoured a change of ownership, and of these, 90 per cent. held the view that sewerage undertakers should take over responsibility. The Government acknowledged the strength of support for this solution and undertook to look into it in more depth.

My Department also recently held a seminar with stakeholders to look at sustainable options for a potential transfer. Further information on the seminar is available on the Department's website at:

http://defraweb/environment/water/industry/sewers/existing/index.htm

The Government intend to publish a decision paper this summer, but do not rule out the need to consult further on the scope and form of a potential transfer.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research her Department has conducted into the state of the sewers that it will be transferring to water companies; and what representations from water companies have been received on the proposed changes. [224860]

Mr. Morley: Defra's consultants, WS Atkins, conducted an extensive research project looking at the extent and condition of private sewers in England and Wales prior to the publication of the consultation paper in 2003. UKWIR, the water industry research body, also undertook their own research. I must emphasise that a final decision on whether private sewers should be transferred to water companies has not yet been made. A number of issues and practicalities need to be resolved including the scope of any transfer and the form it might take.

The Department chairs a Steering Group, of which Water UK are members, which is currently considering sustainable options for the way forward on private sewers.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment her Department has made of whether average household water bills will increase to take account of the costs to water companies consequent on obtaining ownership of sewers and lateral drains. [224861]

Mr. Morley: The Department acknowledges the importance of cost implications for customers. Defra is working with Ofwat in order to further examine the potential impacts on customers bills, and some modelling work is currently under way.

Funding of any possible transfer is an important issue that needs to be considered very carefully. Phasing or a gradual approach is among the approaches to implementation of options that might be considered in order to mitigate the impact of any increases.

Single Farm Payment

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many cases of incorrect maps being used for the purposes of the single farm payment have occurred; and if she will make a statement. [224803]

Alun Michael: There have been no cases of the wrong maps being used for the purposes of the single payment scheme (SPS). Where the Rural Payments Agency (RPA) has sent maps to potential claimants or they have advised RPA of changes and problems have arisen, RPA is resolving them with the farmers before any processing is done for SPS.

SSSIs

Joan Ruddock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for how many sites of special scientific interest (SSSI) in England conservation objectives have been prepared in accordance with the requirements set out in guidance issued by the Joint Nature Conservation Committee in 2003 on Common Standards Monitoring for SSSIs; and when she expects conservation objectives to be completed for all SSSIs in England. [224076]

Mr. Bradshaw: There are a total of 4,117 sites of special scientific interest (SSSIs) in England and conservation objectives have been completed by English Nature for 1,436 of these sites. English Nature's corporate target is for conservation objectives to be in place on all remaining SSSIs by March 2009 and a structured programme is in place to achieve this.

Supermarkets

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions she has had with the Department for Trade and Industry on the recent Office of Fair Trading findings on supermarkets. [224807]

Alun Michael: Officials from the Department discussed the Office of Fair Trading's paper on the audit of the supermarket Code of Practice and related competition issues with colleagues in the Department of Trade and Industry at the time of its publication.

The paper gives the Office of Fair Trading's preliminary views on the audit and on wider concerns that have been raised about competition in the grocery market and invites comments and evidence on both. We encourage all those who have views on these issues to respond to this invitation.

The paper also welcomes the National Farmers Union's proposal for a voluntary Buyer's Charter that would cover all key aspects of trading relationships between suppliers and their customers throughout the food chain. We support this initiative and have encouraged all sections of the food chain, whether they be retailers, processors or manufacturers, to work positively with the National Farmers Union to develop the proposal.

Traffic Regulation Orders

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on the expected issue date for advice on the pre-emptive use of traffic regulation orders, as set out in paragraph 12 of the document "Use of mechanically propelled vehicles on rights of way: The Government's framework for action". [224763]

Alun Michael: Advice and practical examples on the use of pre-emptive traffic regulation orders for local authorities will be included in both the revision to the departmental publication "Making the Best of Byways" and new enforcement guidance. These publications will be available shortly and copies will be placed in the Library of the House.

Travel Costs

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the total travel costs to her Department have been for (a) Ministers, (b) special advisers and (c) officials for each year since 1997. [203774]

Margaret Beckett: In respect of overseas travel by Ministers, since 1999 the Government have published an annual list of all visits overseas undertaken by Cabinet Ministers costing £500 or more during each financial year. The Government have also published on an annual basis the cost of all Ministers' visits overseas. Copies of the lists are available in the Libraries of the House.

The Department has published rules for official travel in its staff handbook and ministerial travel is governed by the Ministerial Code and Travel by Ministers, copies of which are available in the Libraries of the House.

It is not possible to break-down travel costs further in the way requested without incurring disproportionate cost.

Waste

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions she has had with local authorities concerning Schedule 2 of the Statutory Controlled Waste Regulations 1992; and what guidance she has issued to local authorities on that schedule. [224897]

Mr. Morley: Guidance was issued (Circular 14/92)[1] at the time of the publication of the Controlled Waste Regulations 1992. Defra has more recently (October 2004)[2] issued further guidance to local authorities on the management of asbestos waste from domestic property, a waste type specified within Schedule 2 of the Controlled Waste Regulations 1992.

I am not aware that my right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State, has held any discussions with local authorities concerning Schedule 2.

[1] Circular 14/92 (Department of the Environment) The Environmental Protection Act 1990—Parts II and IV The Controlled Waste Regulations 1992.

[2] Correspondence to the chief executive of all waste collection authorities, waste disposal authorities and joint waste disposal authorities in England on the management of asbestos waste from domestic property also available on the Defra website at http://defraweb/environment/waste/localauth/pdf/asbestos-domestic.pdf

Waste Management Licensing Regulations

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if she will make a statement on the timetable for alteration of paragraph 7 of Schedule 3 to the Waste Management Licensing Regulations 1994. [224854]

Mr. Morley: The Waste Management Licensing (England & Wales) (Amendment and Related Provisions) Regulations 2005 (SI number 883) were laid before Parliament on the 23 March 2005. These regulations will come into force on 1 July 2005. Amendments to paragraph 7 of Schedule 3 to the Waste Management Licensing Regulations 1994 are included in these regulations.

Waste Recycling

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what proportion of waste collected in City of York has been recycled in each year since 1996–97; what financial assistance has been provided by the Government to York for recycling in that period; and what policies the Government has adopted to encourage local authorities to increase recycling rates. [224641]

Mr. Morley: The proportion[1] of household waste sent for recycling or composting for City of York in each year since 1996–67 is presented in the following table:

	Percentage of household waste sent for recycling or composting for City of York
1996–97	4
1998–99	6
1999–2000	10
2000–01	9
2001–02	10
2002–03	12
2003–04	[1]15

[1] MWMS Data for 2003–04 are not yet available. Best Value Performance Indicator data (for the percentage of household waste sent for recycling or composting) are usually a good indicator for Defra's MWMS and are included here.

Source:
Defra's Municipal Waste Management Survey (MWMS)

The City of York was allocated £350,000 in 2004–05 from Defra's Waste Minimisation and Recycling Fund for the relocation and upgrading of a Recycling and Reuse Centre and £145,789.54 in 2005–06 from Defra's Waste Performance and Efficiency Grant. This supplements Revenue Support Grants through the Environmental, Protective and Cultural Services block.

To increase recycling, the Government has set each local authority in England Statutory Performance Standards for recycling and composting of household waste for 2003–04 and 2005–06 and requires waste collection authorities, subject to certain exemptions, to provide a kerbside collection service of at least two recyclable materials by 2010.

The new Landfill Tax escalator and the Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme, both introduced on 1 April 2005 will also encourage local authorities to divert biodegradable municipal waste from landfill.

The UK Packaging Regulations requiring producers to recover and recycle rising target levels of packaging waste each year will also increasingly encourage recycling of household packaging waste.

Government is currently reviewing the existing local authority recycling and composting targets including consideration of the potential for further targets to be set in future.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Diabetes (Public Service Recruits)

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what measures have been put in place by the Police Service of Northern Ireland to medically assess people with diabetes who apply to join the service. [220532]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I regret that it has not been possible to answer this question before Prorogation. However, I will respond to the hon. Gentleman in writing. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Births (Londonderry)

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many children living in East Londonderry constituency have been born since 1 September 2002. [215786]

Mr. Pearson: The numbers of births registered between 1 September 2002 and 31 December 2004 to mothers resident in East Londonderry parliamentary constituency are given in the table.

Number of births registered for East Londonderry parliamentary constituency by registration period, September 2002-December 2004

Registration period	Births
1 September to 31 December 2002	345
1 January to 31 December 2003	1,089
1 January to 31 December 2004 (Provisional)	1,095
Total	2,529

These figures do not take into account population migration or deaths of young children. Detailed 2004 population estimates for the East Londonderry parliamentary constituency will be published later in the year.

Business Support

Mr. McGrady: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been spent in each of the last four years in Government grants to support business in Northern Ireland. [217672]

Mr. Gardiner: The hon. Gentleman will receive a response to this question as soon as possible. However, I apologise that it has not been possible to provide this information before Prorogation. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

CAP Payments

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will list the 100 largest payments made through the common agricultural policy to farms or enterprises in Northern Ireland for 2003–04, broken down by (a) recipients and (b) amounts received. [224668]

Mr. Pearson: It has not been possible to provide the information requested by the hon. Gentleman before Prorogation.

Child Care

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what funds have been added to the Northern Ireland budget as a result of the Chancellor's commitments to early years and child care funding. [224656]

Mr. Pearson: In accordance with the Treasury's Statement of Funding Policy, additional allocations to Northern Ireland are determined via the application of the Barnett formula to overall changes in planned total spending by UK departments.

Civil Servants

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many civil servants from his Department have (a) faced disciplinary proceedings as a result of allegations of theft, (b) been charged with theft and (c) been dismissed following theft allegations in each year since 1997. [206395]

Mr. Pearson: The information requested is set out in the following table.

The information in the table relates only to the Northern Ireland Office and not the 11 departments of the Northern Ireland Administration.

Construction Industry

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the effect on the number of apprentices entering the construction industry of the costs to businesses of premiums for insuring trainees. [224960]

Mr. Gardiner: It has not been possible to provide the information requested by the hon. Gentleman before Prorogation.

Decommissioning Commission

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will list the annual (a) salaries paid to and (b) allowances claimed by members of the Decommissioning Commission in each year since its formation. [219078]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I apologise for not being in a position to answer this question before Prorogation. However, I will respond to the hon. Lady in writing. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Cross-Border Implementation Bodies

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the budget was for the Cross-Border Implementation Bodies for each of the last 10 years; what percentage change has taken place in these budgets in each year; and what proportion of the budget of each was contributed by the Government in each year. [224601]

Mr. Pearson: The North/South Implementation Bodies were established on 2 December 1999 and details of the relevant budgets, annual percentage changes and the Northern Ireland share of the budgets for each year since then are provided in the following table.

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will list the equipment leasing arrangements entered into by his Department in each of the last two years; and what the cost is to public funds in each case. [202512]

Mr. Paul Murphy: This information is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost of travel within the UK for the Department was in each year since 1997; and how much of this was spent on (a) hire cars, (b) helicopter hire, (c) hotel accommodation and (d) subsistence. [206472]

Mr. Spellar: Information is only available from 2001–02. Costs of (a) , (b) , (c) and (d) cannot be disaggregated from the overall totals.

Overall costs of travel to the Northern Ireland Office (excluding it's Agencies and NDPBs) are as follows.

2003–04	3,264,162.87
2002–03	3,335,550.55
2001–02	2,465,438.08

Overall costs of overnight subsistence, which includes hotel accommodation are as follows.

2003–04	456,727.54
2002–03	441,383.02
2001–02	330,087.03

This information relates to the Northern Ireland Office and does not include the 11 departments of the Northern Ireland administration.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many overseas trips, and at what total cost, have been made by his Department in each year since 1997; and what the costs of (a) flights, (b) internal travel, (c) hotel accommodation and (d) subsistence were of each trip. [206658]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Information is not held in the format requested.

Information relating to overseas travel by Ministers is published on an annual basis. Information for the period 2 May 1997 to 31 March 2004 is available in the Library of the House. Information for the financial year 2004–05 will be published as soon as possible at the end of the current financial year.

All official travel complied with the requirements of the Ministerial Code, Travel by Ministers and the Civil Service Management Code, copies of which are available in the Libraries of the House.

Fixed Penalty Fines

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, how many fixed penalty fines for driving offences have been issued in the last three years in the Province; and what revenue was raised from such fines in each year. [225017]

Mr. Paul Murphy: It has not been possible to answer the hon. Gentleman's question before Prorogation.

Human Rights Commission

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans there are to increase funding for the Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission. [220356]

Mr. Spellar: The baseline funding for the Commission is currently £1.3 million and will rise to £1.35 in the next financial year.

Jordanstown Swimming Pool

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will make a statement on the closure of the University of Ulster's Jordanstown swimming pool. [224961]

Mr. Gardiner: The University of Ulster is an independent, autonomous institution responsible for its own policies, practices and estates management. The decision to close the pool was taken for operational reasons, based on considerations of health and safety and economic viability.

The University of Ulster is currently conducting a consultation process, in line with the recommendation of the University's Visitor, Sir Ronald Weatherup, with the representatives of the former users of the pools, those affected by the closure decision such as Newtownabbey borough council and North Eastern Education and Library Board and other interested parties.

Long-term Care (Benefits)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether the entitlement to full state pension and other relevant benefits of patients receiving long-term care in hospitals announced in the Budget extends to patients in Northern Ireland. [224970]

Mr. Spellar: I can confirm that the reduction in pensions and certain other benefits, which applies where a person has been in hospital for more than 52 weeks, will also be abolished in Northern Ireland.

Ministerial Duties

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many full days each Northern Ireland Minister was on duty in the Province during each of the last 12 months. [220440]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The number of days that each Northern Ireland Minister was on duty in Northern Ireland in each of the last 12 months was as follows:

	Paul Murphy	John Spellar	Ian Pearson	Angela Smith	Barry Gardiner
March	10	13	15	16	—

Newry and Mourne (Regeneration)

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much money was spent by each Government Department in the Newry and Mourne district council area on (a) urban regeneration and (b) economic development in each of the last five years. [224065]

Mr. Gardiner: The right hon. Gentleman will receive a response to this question as soon as possible. However, I apologise that it has not been possible to collate this information before Prorogation. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Nutts Corner

David Burnside: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has for the improvement of the racing and customer facilities at Nutts Corner racing circuit. [224093]

Angela Smith: Plans for improving the racing and customer facilities at Nutts Corner racing circuit is a matter for the owners of the facility, Antrim borough council. However, the Sports Council for Northern Ireland and the Northern Ireland Tourist Board can provide advice and assistance to Antrim borough council in planning for the improvement of racing and customer facilities at Nutts Corner racing circuit should it be required.

Pensioner Households (Additional Payments)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 22 March 2005, Official Report, column 706W, on Northern Ireland, whether persons in Northern Ireland whose 65th birthday falls on 6 October will qualify for the additional £200 payment to over 65 pensioner ratepayer households equivalent to that in Great Britain. [224176]

Mr. Spellar: As the qualifying week for the £200 payment is 19 to 25 September 2005, a person whose 65th birthday falls on 6 October will not qualify for the payment.

Pensions

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions he has had with (a) the Irish Government and (b) ICI on pension arrangements for former employees of Richardson's Fertilisers Belfast (Irish Fertiliser Industries); and if he will make a statement. [224500]

Mr. Gardiner: The hon. Gentleman will receive a response to this question as soon as possible. However, I apologise that it has not been possible to collate this information before Prorogation. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Police Service

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether the Police Service of Northern Ireland has adopted the colour vision requirements arising from his Department's review of the medical assessment process for police recruits. [216839]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I apologise for not being in a position to answer this question before Prorogation. However, I will respond to the hon. Lady in writing. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the average Police Service of Northern Ireland response time to emergency calls was in (a) North Down District Command Unit (DCU) area and (b) each other DCU in Northern Ireland in each of the past 12 months. [212325]

Mr. Pearson: The Police Service of Northern Ireland does not currently record the response times to emergency calls, however these form part of the forthcoming policing plan for 2005–06.

Polling Stations (Disabled Access)

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many designated polling stations in each constituency in the Province have purpose-built wheelchair access; and if he will make a statement. [216342]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I apologise for not being in a position to answer this question before prorogation. However I will write to the hon. Lady. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Postage

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been spent on postage by the Department in each year since 1997. [215015]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs) has spent the following on postage since 1997:

1997–98	99,438
1998–99	88,299
1999–2000	118,961
2000–01	84,132
2001–02	144,506
2002–03	260,606
2003–04	265,356

Roads

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether improvements to (a) the A24 road between Belfast and Carryduff and (b) the A7 road between Carryduff and Saintfield are planned over the next two years. [222122]

Mr. Spellar: The Chief Executive of Roads Service (Dr. Malcolm McKibbin) has been asked to write to the hon. Gentleman in response to this question.

Letter from Dr. Malcolm McKibbin to Mr. David Trimble, dated 6 April 2005:

You recently asked the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland a Parliamentary Question, whether improvements to (a) the A24 road between Belfast and Carryduff and (b) the A7 road between Carryduff and Saintfield are planned over the next two years (222122). I have been asked to reply as this issue falls within my responsibility as Chief Executive of Roads Service.

Our Eastern Division is undertaking a programme of assessment of strategic routes to identify what improvements may be needed in the context of each overall route. The A24 and A7 will form part of this assessment programme however, apart from ongoing routine and structural maintenance, currently Roads Service has no specific planned improvements to these roads over the next two years.

A potential scheme to provide an overtaking lane on the A7 between Carryduff and Saintfield at Glassdrumman, has been identified and will be progressed subject to the availability of funds.

You may be aware that Roads Service has already completed a number of schemes on the Carryduff to Downpatrick route, which have provided increased carriageway and verge width, improved forward sight distances and designated overtaking opportunities.

In conclusion, I can assure you that we remain committed to the further improvement and upgrading of the roads infrastructure in this are and along this route in particular.

I hope this information is helpful.

RUC Reserve

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many members of the Part-Time RUC Reserve resigned as a result of intimidation or other terrorist activity during the Troubles. [216842]

Mr. Pearson: Information held on the PSNI Human Resources system indicates that nine members of the Part-Time Reserve left the service giving the reason as "Threatened". However, this figure cannot be regarded as definitive as specific reasons for leaving are not always provided.

Sinn Fein/IRA

Mr. Beggs: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much of the fine imposed by the Government on Sinn Fein/IRA in April 2004 has been paid since the first report of the Independent Monitoring Commission. [208991]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Following the first report by the Independent Monitoring Commission, I directed that Sinn Fein should not receive the financial assistance payable to Northern Ireland political parties for 12 months from 29 April. No such payments have been made to Sinn Fein, In the light of the IMC's report on the Northern bank robbery, I have directed that Sinn Fein will not receive financial assistance for a further 12 months, from 29 April 2005.

Source of Leak

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, what progress has been made in identifying the source of the leak within the Police Service Northern Ireland or the Police Ombudsman's office to the Press Association in December 2004 in relation to the case communicated to him on 31 January. 225041

Mr. Paul Murphy: It has not been possible to answer the hon. Lady's question before Prorogation.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many complaints were made by departmental civil servants regarding the conduct of special advisers between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004. [203473]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the former Minister for the Cabinet Office on 8 December 2004, Official Report, column 578W.

Teachers

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost of teachers progressing to point 2 of the Upper Pay Spine has been over the past three years. [223751]

Mr. Gardiner: Eligible teachers have been able to progress to UPS 2 with effect from 1 September 2003 following agreement between the teacher unions and employers to a Performance Review and Staff Development Scheme (PRSD) and implementation plan in November 2004. All applications received for UPS 2 progression have now been paid but there remains a possibility that a relatively small number of teachers have still to make an application. It is therefore not possible to provide a final total cost of teachers progressing to point 2 of the Upper Pay Scale but it is expected to be in the region of £21 million to £22 million.

Mr. Dodds: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many students graduated in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years with teaching qualifications. [224156]

Mr. Gardiner: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1307W.

Textile Industry

Mr. Trimble: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what support the Government is making available to assist the (a) Saville Row textile company and (b) Northern Ireland textile industry; and what discussions have taken place regarding these matters. [210921]

Mr. Gardiner: The right hon. Gentleman will receive a response to this question as soon as possible. However, I apologise that it has not been possible to provide this information before Prorogation. A copy of the letter will be placed in the Library.

Unallocated Spending

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his latest estimate is of unallocated departmental spending in (a) 2005–06, (b) 2006–07, and (c) 2007–08; and if he will make a statement. [213254]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Northern Ireland Office's estimate of unallocated departmental spending (Departmental Unallocated Provision [DUP]) in each of the years 2005–06 to 2007–08 is as follows:

	Unallocated departmental spending (£000)
2005–06	41,502

As a result of the outcome of the Spending Review 2004, the Department has decided, in agreement with HM Treasury, to hold no unallocated provision in the years 2006–07 and 2007–08 in order to maximise funding available to its directorates, agencies and NDPBs.

Waste Disposal

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what alternatives to landfill for waste disposal are available in Northern Ireland. [224869]

Angela Smith: In the Northern Ireland Waste Management Strategy, the waste management hierarchy gives top priority to prevention and second priority to recovery—with a preference for re-use and material recovery insofar as they are the best environmental options. Disposal of waste is very much a last option.

Landfill is the only disposal option currently available in Northern Ireland. However, the recent "Best Practicable Environmental Option" exercise to identify waste management solutions for Northern Ireland highlighted the need for thermal treatment by 2013. In addition, a range of other physical treatment options to recover and reuse material have been identified as an alternative to disposal.

District councils continue to work towards increased recycling, and the Department of the Environment supports them in their roll-out of separate kerbside collections of recyclable and compostable material, thereby reducing the quantity of waste going for disposal.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much waste was disposed of to landfill in Northern Ireland in the latest period for which figures are available. [224873]

Angela Smith: In 2002, 251,600 tonnes (40 per cent. of the total) of commercial and industrial waste were sent to landfill. A survey of commercial and industrial waste arisings in 2004 is planned for this year.

In 2004, 871,000 tonnes (83 per cent. of the total) of municipal waste were sent to landfill. The total amount of municipal waste sent to landfill in 2004 has decreased by 3.4 per cent. from 2003.

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of whether Northern Ireland will reach its recycling targets under the Landfill Directive. [224880]

Angela Smith: The Landfill Directive sets targets for the reduction in the landfilling of Biodegradable Municipal Waste and performance against these targets is assessed through an annual performance report submitted to the Department of the Environment by each of the three regional Waste Management Groups.

Good progress is being made and this has been reinforced by the Landfill Allowance Scheme (Northern Ireland) Regulations 2004 which will set yearly landfill limits for each district council to ensure that Northern Ireland meets these targets.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Attendance Allowance

Mr. Keith Bradley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether people resident in residential care homes are eligible to claim attendance allowance. [224813]

Maria Eagle: Local authorities are responsible for providing financial help with the costs of staying in a care home, including the cost of personal care. Attendance allowance is not payable to residents who receive any local authority help with their care home costs, but it can be paid to those who meet all their care home costs themselves, or receive only free nursing care.

Benefit Payment Methods

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will make a statement on payment mechanisms for state benefits. [224354]

Mr. Pond: Direct payment into an account is now the normal way that we pay benefits and pensions, over 96 per cent. of customer accounts are now paid this way.

Direct payment increases choice, reduces fraud and assures a safe, convenient, more modern and efficient way of paying benefits. It increases financial inclusion, and allows people to make savings on many of their bills by paying by direct debit. It also reduces waste in social security administrative costs and protects vulnerable customers.

The small number of customers that cannot be paid this way will be paid by cheque, which can be cashed at the post office or paid into an account.

Benefits

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what action he proposes to take regarding benefits and direct payments being claimed by carers on behalf of claimants with particular reference to issues raised with the hon. Member for Gravesham (Mr. Pond) on BBC Radio 4 on 12 March; [222466]

(2) what representations he has received concerning difficulties faced by authorised third parties in cashing giro cheques at post offices on behalf of claimants; what discussions he has had with (a) the Post Office and (b) Alliance and Leicester on the issues; and if he will make a statement. [222465]

Mr. Pond: Cheque payments are designed for the small number of people who we cannot pay directly into an account. We settled on this solution following extensive consultation with customer representative groups. The cheque provides the facility for a third party (including a carer) to cash cheques under £450 on the customer's behalf at a Post Office and this facility has worked successfully for many years.

We need to strike a balance between a customer's right to access their benefit or pension and the need to prevent the cheque being cashed by an unauthorised person without the customer's knowledge. For this reason the Post Office requires the third party presenting the cheque for encashment to produce evidence of both their own and the customer's identity.

There is currently a wide range of forms of identification, which are acceptable to the Post Office to enable a carer or other person to cash a cheque on a customer's behalf. These are listed on the reverse of the cheque. In addition other forms of identification may be accepted at the discretion of the postmaster.

Officials have obtained a report from Post Office Ltd. about the circumstances of the case raised with me on BBC Radio 4 on 12 March 2004. Neither the Department nor Post Office Ltd. have seen any evidence to suggest that there are widespread difficulties being faced by authorised third parties cashing cheques on behalf of customers. However, we will continue to monitor the situation closely and make improvements to the process if necessary.

Bereavement Benefits

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many claims for bereavement benefits there were in each of the last five years; how many were submitted by individuals in receipt of incapacity benefit; and how many were successful in each case. [221456]

Mr. Pond [holding answer 23 March 2005]: Bereavement Benefit was introduced in April 2001. Information on the number of claims is not available. The available information on the number of recipients is in the table.

Bereavement Benefit recipients in Great Britain

Number

	2002	2003	2004
All bereavement benefit recipients in Great Britain	36,300	43,600	45,300
Widowed parents allowance recipients in Great Britain	13,400	20,100	25,300
Bereavement allowance recipients in Great Britain	22,900	23,500	20,000
Bereavement Benefit recipients also receiving IB/SDA	2,000	1,800	1,200

Notes:

1. Bereavement benefit data is taken as at March each year. Incapacity benefits data is taken as at February each year.
2. Numbers are rounded to the nearest hundred. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
3. Incapacity benefit (IB) and severe disability allowance (SDA) figures include all IB, SDA and credits-only cases. The figures include those cases where IB/SDA entitlement is extinguished by the overlapping benefit rules.

Child-related Benefits (Separated Parents)

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what assessment he has made of the implications for the Department for Work and Pensions of the ruling by the Court of Appeal that a separated father on jobseeker's allowance with a shared residence order for his children is entitled to claim child-related benefits, even though the mother is also in receipt of those benefits; [224666]

(2) if he will place in the Library a copy of the advice that he has received on the Court of Appeal's ruling in the case of Hockenjos v. Secretary of State for Social Security. [224667]

Mr. Pond: The Department has lodged a petition of appeal with the House of Lords in this case. We are therefore unable to comment further at this time.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many civil servants in his Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223902]

Maria Eagle: As announced in Spending Review 2004 as part of the Independent Review of Public Sector Relocation, the Department put forward proposals to relocate some 4,000 posts from London and the South East.

By March 2005 the Department had relocated 2,344 posts from London and the South East. Posts have relocated to East Midlands, North East, North West, Yorkshire and the Humber regions, and to Scotland and Wales. Plans are in place to relocate the remaining posts by 2008.

Correspondence

David Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the hon. Member for Walsall, North will receive a reply to his letter of 9 March concerning a constituent. [224788]

Maria Eagle: A reply was sent to the hon. Member on 5 April.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223443]

Maria Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Timms) on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Disabled People

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to help disabled people find employment. [224541]

Maria Eagle: There are a number of programmes, such as Access to Work, Work Preparation and Workstep designed to help disabled people return to work. Jobcentre Plus also offers interviews with a personal adviser to all disabled people making new or repeat claims to qualifying benefits to ensure they are aware of the help and opportunities available to them.

Access to Work is a specialist disability programme, which provides practical advice and support to help disabled people enter or stay in paid employment.

Work Preparation is an individually tailored, work-focused programme that enables disabled people to address barriers associated with their disability and prepare for working with the confidence necessary to achieve and sustain their job goal.

Workstep provides support in jobs for disabled people who have more complex barriers to finding and keeping work but who, with the right support, can work effectively and develop in their job. Longer-term support continues to be available for those who need it and is a major element of the programme.

Disabled people may also receive help through the new deal programme. New deal for disabled people is a voluntary programme which gives customers on qualifying disability or health-related benefits in England, Scotland and Wales access to a network of job brokers. Job brokers work with customers to help them compete in the labour market and support them in finding and keeping a job.

Disabled people may also receive help through other new deal programmes such as the new deal for young people, new deal 25-plus, new deal 50-plus, and new deal for lone parents.

Invalidity Benefits

Mr. Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assumptions have been made in the Government's medium-term forecasts in his Department's benefit expenditure tables with regard to the number of invalidity benefit claimants returning to work through the (a) the new deal for disabled people and (b) pathways to work in relation to (i) the number of recipients of invalidity benefit, severe disablement allowance and income support and (ii) expenditure from 2003–04 to 2007–08 on invalidity benefit, severe disablement allowance and income support for sick and disabled people. [223381]

Maria Eagle [holding answer 22 March 2005]: Future impacts of the new deal for disabled people and the pathways to work pilots are implicitly included in the forecasts of incapacity benefit (which replaced invalidity benefit in 1995), severe disablement allowance and income support recipients and expenditure included in the Department's benefit expenditure tables, which were published at the pre-Budget report.

It is assumed that the impact of these policies, as far as they have affected the past flows on and off of benefit, will continue largely as observed in the past. As it is difficult to isolate the past impact of these policies separately from other factors which might have affected flows on and off of benefit, it is not possible to make explicit assumptions about their specific impact on the forecasts.

The further roll-out of pathways to work in the future is not factored into the forecasts as it will not have affected recent trends.

Revised expenditure forecasts, underpinning the Budget report, will be published during April.

Jobcentre Plus

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what minimum notice period Jobcentre Plus gives when cancelling contracts with employment and training providers; [223863]

(2) when the decision to review the timetable for letting Jobcentre Plus contracts for employment and training programmes in 2005 was taken; and what the reasons are for reviewing the timetable; [223867]

(3) what criteria Jobcentre Plus will use in making decisions on whether to extend contracts for employment and training, following the decision to review the 2005 timetable; [223869]

(4) what assessment has been made of the (a) time and (b) cost implications for (i) Jobcentre Plus officials and (ii) providers of the decision to review the timetable for letting Jobcentre Plus contracts for employment and training programmes in 2005; [223870]

(5) how many Jobcentre Plus contracts for 2005 (a) have been extended to October 2005 and (b) have been cancelled since the decision to review the timetable for letting was made, broken down by value. [223871]

Jane Kennedy: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, David Anderson. He will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from David Anderson to Mr. Paul Holmes, dated 7 April 2005:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions concerning Jobcentre Plus contracts with employment and training providers and the decision to review the 2005 timetable. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Our normal practice, wherever possible, is to commence discussions with providers three months before a contract is due to end. We do not cancel contracts during their lifespan except in extreme circumstances, such as a provider becoming insolvent or committing a serious breach of its contractual obligations.

The need to review the timetable for letting new Jobcentre Plus Contracts was identified in December 2004. That review was prompted by the Department's recently published 5 year strategy which places an increased priority on helping those who are out of work because of sickness or disability and lone parents. With fewer people unemployed and a greater emphasis on providing support to disabled people through the New Deal for Disabled People and the Pathways to Work pilots, we needed to review our contracting strategy to ensure the provision we procure focuses support on those who need the most help.

In the light of that review, the decision was taken to cease current procurement competitions. However, we were not in a position to finalise our strategy for letting new contracts until shortly before 25 February 2005, when Jobcentre Plus Field Directors and others had been informed of the changes to our timetable and the criteria for extending current contracts i.e. satisfactory performance, a clear business need or a mandatory requirement for the provision had been established.

To deliver the DWP and Jobcentre Plus efficiency challenges and modernisation agendas it is vital that we obtain best value for money. We have now identified what provision needs to be in place to support our business objectives, and are now in the process of developing a timetable for the implementation of an overall contracting strategy designed to achieve better value for money in terms of process and required outcomes.

With regard to the time and cost implications for those involved with Jobcentre Plus contracts for employment and training programmes, this information is not available and could only be obtained at disproportionate cost.

We are currently informing providers whether their current contracts are being extended or not. When this process has been completed I will write to you again with the answer to your question about this.

I hope this is helpful.

Jobseekers Allowance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will list the main reasons for claimants leaving jobseeker's allowance; and how many people there were in each category of departure in the last period for which figures are available. [224974]

Malcolm Wicks: The available information is in the table.

Destinations of leavers from the jobseekers allowance claimant count: between 9 December 2004 and 12 January 2005

	Number of people
Found work	57,400
Works on average 16+ hours per week	2,100
Gone abroad	5,300

National Insurance

Ms Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 604W, on contracting out rebate rates, if he will publish the advice received from actuaries consulted during the consultation process. [224277]

Malcolm Wicks: A number of actuaries provided advice on the Government Actuary's reports as part of the consultation processes. We cannot publish copies of this advice until we obtain their consent.

Pension Credit

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the effect on the number of pensioners who will be in receipt of pension credit in 2009–10 of (a) a continuation of current uprating policy, (b) linking the basic state pension and the savings credit threshold to earnings and (c) linking the basic state pension to earnings and the savings credit threshold to prices from 2006–07 onwards. [223979]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The number of pensioner benefit units estimated to be in receipt of pension credit if the current uprating rules are continued until the financial year 2009–10 is 3,350,000. Under option (b) where the basic state pension is uprated in line with earnings from 2006–07 onwards and the savings credit threshold is increased in line with prices as now, 150,000 fewer benefit units would be in receipt of pension credit by 2009–10. Under option (c) where the savings credit threshold is increased in line with the increase in the basic state pension from 2006–07 about 250,000 fewer benefit units would be in receipt by 2009–10.

Notes:

1. The figures are rounded to the nearest 50,000 to account for the large potential margin for error in the estimate.

2. Overall pensioner incomes are assumed to rise in line with average earnings.

3. The projection of the recipient population under continuation of current policy is derived from the Public Service Agreement target for recipients at the end of 2007–08, and the change in eligibility implied purely by assumed changes in incomes, entitlements and population between then and 2009–10.

4. The projections do not prejudge future operational and policy decisions.

Pension Expenditure

Mr. Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department spent on (a) male and (b) female recipients of (i) the basic state pension, (ii) additional pension, (iii) guarantee credit and (iv) savings credit in the last year for which figures are available, broken down by constituency. [223486]

Malcolm Wicks: The information has been placed in the Library.

Pensioners

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what representations he has received about the exempting of equity release capital in calculating pensioner entitlements. [224874]

Malcolm Wicks: There have been no formal representations regarding the exempting of equity release capital in calculating pensioner entitlements.

Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will extend the £200 refund to council tax paying pensioner households to include households comprising a single female pensioner under the age of 65 years. [224777]

Malcolm Wicks: We have no plans to extend the £200 refund to council tax paying pensioner households to include households comprising of a single female pensioner under the age of 65 years.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in receipt of (a) housing benefit, (b) council tax benefit, (c) pension credit and (d) other means-tested benefits incur a marginal deduction rate of (i) 85 to 89 per cent., (ii) 90 to 94 per cent., (iii) 95 to 99 per cent. and (iv) 100 per cent. and over. [218693]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is not available in the format requested. There were 760,000 pensioner households (939,000 individuals) receiving the guarantee element of pension credit only at August 2004. Private pension income is brought fully into account in these cases, although they are not subject to separate benefit withdrawal of CTB/HB. There were an estimated additional 390,000 pensioner households (510,000 individuals) with incomes above guarantee element levels, but receiving both tapered housing benefit (HB) and tapered council tax benefit CTB). These households would be subject to marginal deduction rates (MDRs) of less than 100 per cent., though they would often exceed 85 pence in the pound.

All recipients of the minimum income guarantee (MIG) were subject to MDRs of 100 per cent. These people are now entitled to pension credit and most of them—of the order of 61 per cent. of those in private households—are also benefiting from the savings element of pension credit. This majority no longer face MDRs of 100 percent.

Notes:

1. The figures are subject to a degree of sampling variation.

2. Pension credit and HB/CTB are awarded to benefit units, which may be a single person or a couple.

3. Pension credit figures are rounded to the nearest thousand. Due to the estimation procedure to produce the figures for HB/CTB and the collection procedures in Scotland, HB/CTB figures are rounded to the nearest ten thousand.

4. CTB cases exclude any second adult rebate cases.

5. HB cases exclude extended payment cases.

The figures refer to cases where the claimant and/or partner is aged 60 or over.

Sources:

Post Office Ltd. Computer System

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many times the Post Office Ltd. computer system for administering pension payments has failed; how many pensioners were affected; and what emergency measures were implemented to pay their pensions. [214158]

Malcolm Wicks: The Information is not available in the form requested.

Since April 2003, when the Post Office card account system was introduced, there have been a small number of incidents that have briefly affected payments to the Department's customers. These incidents have caused some inconvenience to customers and delay in withdrawing benefit from accounts. It is not possible to say how many customers were temporarily unable to collect their pensions at the Post Office as a result. Those customers who were still unable to manage until the systems were restored, later in the day, could contact the appropriate DWP office to arrange an emergency payment.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which (a) non-departmental public bodies and (b) executive agencies within the remit of his Department have regional offices based on the Government Offices for the Regions' regional structure; and when the regional offices were established in each case. [219882]

Maria Eagle: The Department and its constituent businesses operate on a national rather than a regional basis, although some of them have a regional aspect to their administrative operations.

In April 2002, Jobcentre Plus, an executive agency of the Department, set up nine regional offices in England to align with the Government Offices for the Regions' regional structure.

None of the non-departmental public bodies that the Department is responsible for have regional offices based on the Government Offices for the Regions' regional structure.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government have established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of his Department. [219907]

Maria Eagle: The Department and its constituent businesses operate on a national rather than a regional basis, although some of them have a regional aspect to their administrative operations.

In April 2002, Jobcentre Plus, an executive agency of the Department, set up nine regional offices in England to align with the Government offices for the regions' regional structure.

The Appeals Service, an executive agency launched on 3 April 2000 to succeed the Independent Tribunal Service, has a regional structure for the administration of appeals, in line with the judicial regional structure.

When the Pension Service, also an executive agency of the Department, was established in April 2002, the operational organisation was based around Government office regions. However, during early 2004 the regional management tier was removed and support services repositioned at national and local levels.

The other executive agencies and other bodies established since May 1997 for which the Department is responsible have a number of offices based in regions but are not regional organisations.

Sickness Absence

Mr. Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what initiatives his Department is taking to reduce the numbers of sick days taken by staff in the Department. [216635]

Maria Eagle: The DWP is committed to reducing its sickness absence levels. To help achieve this, a Managing Attendance policy was introduced in February 2003. This sets out the roles and responsibilities of managers and staff for achieving good attendance.

The Department's approach to managing attendance was reviewed by the National Audit Office in 2004. The recommendations made have contributed to a departmental action plan.

The Department has also produced a delivery plan in response to the recommendations of a Ministerial Task Force looking into sickness absence in the civil service and wider public sector. The task force was formed to ensure that the public sector contributes to the target of an overall reduction of 30 per cent. in the number of days lost to sickness absence by 2010.

A Well-being at Work policy was launched on 6 September 2004 on a DWP-wide basis. The aim of the policy is to tackle workplace stress in order to help reduce absence levels caused by stress.

The Department has also introduced pilots involving the early use of occupational health nurses to help managers and staff manage sickness absence.

Training Courses

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what financial penalties were paid in each financial year since 1997–98 to training providers by the Department for training courses prepared for its staff which were subsequently cancelled at the Department's request. [200406]

Maria Eagle: DWP was formed in June 2001 from the former Department of Social Security and parts of the former Department for Education and Employment, including the Employment Service.

The information requested is not collected centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Vaccine Damage

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 24 March 2005,

Official Report, column 1042W, on vaccine damage, how much each of the payments to victims of vaccine damage was; and if he will make a statement. [224696]

Maria Eagle: £10,000 was originally paid to each of the 75 victims of vaccine damage under the extra statutory scheme that preceded the 1979 Vaccine Damage Payment Act. In June 2000 it was decided that top-up payments would be made to past recipients of vaccine damage payments to bring the value of their payment up to the equivalent of what it would have been if they had originally received £100,000 ie £78,000 in real terms. Subsequently a payment of £68,000 was made to all the 75 claimants, bringing the total amount of each payment to £78,000.

Workforce (50 Years Plus)

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in, and what percentage of, the workforce were aged 50 years or above in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; what the percentage change was between those years; what his Department's policy is on numbers of workers aged 50 years or above; whether he plans changes to this policy; and if he will make a statement. [222921]

Malcolm Wicks: The information on the number and percentage of the workforce aged 50 and over is in the table.

Number of people aged 50 and over in employment and change on previous year

	Year to November 2003	Year to November 2004	Percentage change[1]
Population aged 50 and over	18,969,000	19,127,000	+0.8
Population aged 50 and over as a percentage of population aged 16 and over	41.8	41.9	+0.1
People aged 50 and over in employment	6,977,000	7,120,000	+2.0
People aged 50 and over in employment as a percentage of people aged 16 and over in employment	25.7	26.0	+0.3

[1] Figures are percentage changes in the numbers, and percentage point changes in the percentages.

Labour Force Survey, average of four quarters to end November.

In announcing the Department's five year strategy in February this year, we signalled our long term aspiration to move towards an 80 per cent. overall employment rate, and envisage 1 million more older workers in the labour force, including many who will choose to work beyond state pension age.

We have set targets to increase the employment rate of people aged 50 to state pension age, and reduce the gap between their employment rate and the overall employment rate. From April 2005 there will be an additional target to increase the employment rate of people aged 50 to 69 by 2008.

We want to increase the choices available for older workers to remain in, or rejoin, the labour market to allow them to continue contributing their skills and experience in the workplace and save towards retirement income. To support this we are changing tax and pension rules, increasing state pension deferral rates and options and introducing age discrimination legislation covering employment that will introduce a default retirement age of 65.

In May we will be launching a national guidance campaign to raise employers awareness of, and ability to adopt, flexible employment and retirement opportunities in order to increase the recruitment, retention and training of older workers.

HEALTH

"Choosing Health"

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the timetable is for the National Institute for Clinical Excellence's work programme to support the aims of the public health White Paper, "Choosing Health", as described in paragraph 28, page 41, of the Choosing Activity physical activity action plan published on 9 March. [222824]

Miss Melanie Johnson: A number of guidance topics were referred to the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) on 5 April 2005, including topics in support of public health interventions and programmes pursuant to the aims of "Choosing health—Making healthier choices easier". This referral included six public health guidance topics:

An assessment of four commonly used methods to increase physical activity: brief interventions in primary care, pedometers, exercise referral schemes and community based exercise programmes for walking and cycling.

An assessment of interventions (including screening) to reduce the transmission of Chlamydia and other sexually transmitted infections and to reduce the rate of under 18 conceptions, especially among vulnerable and at risk groups.

An assessment of brief interventions and referral for smoking cessation in primary care (including pharmacy and dental services as well as general practitioner's surgeries) and other settings with particular reference to pregnant smokers and disadvantaged groups and the tailoring and targeting of interventions.

Guidance on the optimal provision of smoking cessation services including the provision of nicotine replacement therapy, for primary care, pharmacies, local authorities and workplaces with particular reference to manual groups, pregnant smokers and hard to reach communities.

Guidance for midwives, health visitors, pharmacists and other primary care services to improve the nutrition of pregnant and breastfeeding mothers and children in low income households.

The most appropriate means of generic and specific interventions to support attitude and behaviour change at population and community levels.

NICE has already been commissioned to produce guidelines on the management and prevention of obesity.

Abortion (Essex)

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many abortions have been performed in the Romford and Havering constituencies in each year since 1997. [219371]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Data is not available in the format requested.

The National Statistician has been asked to provide the Department and the new health and social care information centre with guidelines for interpreting the national statistics code of practice and associated protocols in the handling of health statistics across the health community which balance data confidentiality risks with the public interest in the use of the figures.

Alliance Medical

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what indicators are being used to determine whether the scanning services provided by Alliance Medical are good value for money; [224215]

(2) what policies for reducing waiting times for scans were considered other than entering into a contract with a private sector provider; and what assessment was made of the relative costs of the alternatives. [224510]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The additional capacity provided by the independent sector is complementary to our policy of expanding capacity within the national health service itself. By 2008, there will be an increase of 2.75 million extra scans and diagnostic procedures, of which one million scans per year will be purchased from the independent sector, all delivered free at the point of need. The remaining 1.75 million will be delivered by the NHS.

The contract was negotiated at a rate estimated against equivalent NHS cost. The estimate found it to be less than half of the NHS cost, which demonstrates the value for money achieved.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will list the individuals who were involved in the negotiation of the contract for Alliance Medical to provide scanning services to the NHS; [224216]

(2) how many meetings have taken place between his Department's officials and Alliance Medical personnel to discuss the provision of scanning services to the NHS by Alliance Medical; [224508]

(3) if he will list the individuals who were present at the meeting which took place between his Department and Alliance Medical to discuss the provision of scanning services; and on what dates the meetings were held. [224513]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The national implementation team of the Department's commercial directorate carried out the tendering process and contract negotiations.

Departmental officials and representatives had a number of talks with Alliance Medical as part of the procurement process. The Department continues to have regular contact with the company. However, given the number and variety of these contacts, it is not possible to provide a total number of meetings, nor would it be appropriate to name individual officials.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what factors were taken into consideration when determining whether Alliance Medical should provide scanning services in the NHS; [224219]

(2) if he will list contracts that have been awarded to Alliance Medical to provide services for the NHS. [224221]

Mr. Hutton [holding answers 4 April 2005]: The contract was negotiated based on clinical capacity, ability to deliver service, and value for money.

This is the only contract of its kind which procured by the Department from Alliance Medical. Information on contracts with individual trusts, which are not negotiated centrally, is not available.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the technical specifications are of the scanning equipment used by Alliance Medical in the mobile scanner unit under the contract held with the NHS; [224338]

(2) what the technical specifications are of the scanning equipment used at University Hospital North Durham. [224339]

Mr. Hutton: All 12 of Alliance Medical's mobile units use the latest 1.5T Siemens scanners, capable of all standard scanning sequences (including single shot fast spin echo 2D/3D fast/turbo spin echo). The Department does not hold technical specifications for equipment being used by the University Hospital North Durham.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the complaints procedure is for patients dissatisfied with services provided by Alliance Medical; [224507]

(2) what his policy is on where legal liability lies in the event of a medical negligence case arising from a procedure undertaken by Alliance Medical. [224509]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Patients who receive scans through this contract remain national health service patients throughout. All patients are therefore covered by the central negligence scheme for trusts and, in the event of any negligence claim, have the same rights as if the event occurred within the NHS.

The responsibility for handling complaints rests with the appropriate NHS primary care trust or acute trust that referred the patient. Such complaints are handled through the NHS complaints process.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what procurement process was undertaken by his Department before entering into the contract with Alliance Medical for the provision of CT and MRI scans. [224511]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Standard Government procurement processes were followed in which advertisements were placed and companies were invited to send in expressions of interest. Following a robust negotiation process, Alliance Medical was selected as the company that offered value for money and capacity to deliver services.

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment was made by his Department of Alliance Medical's employment policy, with particular reference to the recognition of trade unions, prior to entering into a contract to provide CT and MRI scans for the NHS. [224512]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Alliance Medical are required to comply with all employment laws governing their staff and to ensure that all radiologists are registered with the General Medical

Council and are on the appropriate specialist register to ensure that they are of the same standard as radiologists working within the national health service.

Care Home Staff

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many care homes have complied to date with the Government's requirement for 50 per cent. of support staff to have obtained NVQ Level 2 by the end of April; what mechanisms are in place to monitor compliance; and what the sanctions for non-compliance will be. [224733]

Dr. Ladyman: Standard 28.1 of the National Minimum Standards for Care Homes for Older People and standard 32.6 for Care Homes for Adults 18 to 65 sets the expectation that by 2005 a minimum of 50 per cent. of care staff in care homes should be trained to National Vocational Qualification Level 2. It is for the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI), in regulating care homes, to monitor care homes performance against the standards. The CSCI must take the standards into account when assessing a care homes compliance with the Care Homes Regulations 2001.

Chronic Disease Management

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to develop a co-ordinated approach to chronic disease management in patients with (a) diabetes, (b) heart disease and (c) kidney disease. [224719]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The NHS Improvement Plan set out the Government's priority to improve care for people with long-term conditions by moving from reactive care towards a systematic, patient centred approach. The national service framework (NSF) for long-term conditions was launched on 10 March 2005 and aims to support people with long-term conditions to live as full and independent a life as possible.

The Department has set up a vascular programmes board that will oversee delivery of the targets for cardiovascular disease (coronary heart disease, stroke and other circulatory diseases), diabetes, chronic kidney disease, health improvement and prevention, and hypertension. The work of the board will assist in the process of taking a more co-ordinated approach to chronic disease management in patients with diabetes, heart disease and kidney disease.

The diabetes NSF was published in December 2001. The NSF sets out a 10-year programme of change where all people with diabetes requiring multi-agency support will receive integrated health and social care. The recently published report, "Improving Diabetes Services—the NSF Two Years On", provides information about how services are changing to provide an integrated approach for people with diabetes.

The coronary heart disease (CHD) NSF, published in March 2000, set out a strategy to modernise CHD services over 10 years. Heart failure was identified as an area where there was significant scope to help people with heart failure live longer and achieve a better quality of life.

Part two of the NSF for renal services was published in February 2005. It sets out new quality requirements for the identification and early management of people with, or at risk of, chronic kidney disease. It also identifies considerable scope for integrating care pathways for people with chronic kidney disease, coronary heart disease and/or diabetes, to reduce the impact of these interacting long-term conditions.

Civil Servants (Relocation)

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many civil servants in his Department have (a) been relocated and (b) been agreed for relocation in the last 12 months; and to which areas of the United Kingdom. [223917]

Ms Rosie Winterton: 12 civil servants from the Department have been relocated in the last 12 months:

	Number
Leeds	2
London	7
Cambridge	1
Southampton	1
Durham	1

In response to the Lyons Review, the Department has committed to relocating 1,110 posts, mainly from its arm's length bodies, by 2010. So far, around 500 posts have been confirmed for relocation. At least 300 of these posts are likely to relocate to Leeds.

CMP Practitioners Conference

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the NHS spent on the CMP Practitioners Conference at Turnberry on 10 and 11 March. [224735]

Mr. Hutton: The National health service did not incur any of the costs for the pathways condition management programme conference at Turnberry on 10 and 11 March 2005. The cost of this important development event for the incapacity benefit reform programme was wholly borne by the Department.

Counter-Fraud and Security Management Service

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 123W, on counter-fraud and security management service, how many cases investigated by the national health service counter fraud and management service since September 1998 resulted in (a) not guilty verdicts, (b) successful criminal prosecutions, (c) disciplinary sanctions and (d) a civil recovery. [224320]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The breakdown of outcomes in cases investigated by the national health service counter fraud and security management service (CFSMS) between September 1998 and February 2005 is as follows:

11 cases were found not guilty (unsuccessful criminal prosecutions).

297 cases resulted in successful criminal prosecutions.

329 cases resulted in disciplinary sanctions or civil recoveries.

The total received in recoveries for England and Wales is £18.4 million but overall, the CFSMS has saved £670 million between 1999 and 2005 by counter fraud work in the NHS.

Dentistry

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2005, Official Report, columns 680–81W, on dentistry, how many dental practices were on the nhs.uk.database on the latest date for which figures are available, including those not registering new patients; how many were registering new patients; how many were not registering new patients but providing occasional NHS treatment to non-registered patients; and how many were not registering new patients or providing occasional NHS treatment to non-registered patients. [221758]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 15 March 2005]: This information is available on the following website: www.nhs.uk/webservices/pages/webservices/dentalreport.asp.

Digital Hearing Aids

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 24 March 2005, Official Report, column 1051W, on digital hearing aids, what mechanisms are in place to monitor the 18-week target from referral to patients receiving their digital hearing aids. [224738]

Mr. Hutton: We are expecting activity and waiting times information for pure tone audiometry to be collected for the first time as part of local delivery plans. Strategic health authorities and primary care trusts are currently developing their plans and these will be agreed with the Department shortly.

Disability Buggies

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discretion general practitioners have to charge patients for issuing forms for use of a disability buggy; and if he will make a statement. [224776]

Mr. Hutton: General practitioners (GPs) are required to issue specified medical certificates free of charge, for example, to support claims for social security benefits. However, GPs also provide a variety of other services which successive governments have regarded as private matters between the patient and the doctor providing the service. In these cases, the doctor has discretion to charge for these non-national health service services if he or she wishes.

Food Standards Directive

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Food Standards Agency will accept the derogation granted by the Italian Government to 121 nutrient sources under the provisions of the Food Standards Directive as valid in the United Kingdom; and whether it will permit the continued use of the nutrient sources after 1 August on the basis of the derogations granted in Italy. [222940]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 21 March 2005]: The United Kingdom will grant a derogation in accordance with the food supplements directive 2002/46/EC for the continued use of sources of the vitamins and minerals listed in the Directive, where dossiers have been either been submitted to the UK or to another member state, pending a positive opinion from the European Food Safety Authority. The Food Standards Agency is pressing the European Commission for a view on the Italian derogations.

Food Supplements Directive

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will table amendments to the Food Supplements Directive in the Council of Ministers to allow the sale on domestic national markets of products which lie outside the technical restrictions on sale. [223822]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Food Supplements Directive was agreed in 2002. The European Commission would need to bring forward new proposals in order for amendments to be made to the Directive.

Health Care Worker Screening

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recommendations on healthcare worker screening were made by the ad hoc risk assessment group commissioned by his Department in December 2002; and which of these recommendations have been implemented. [223755]

Mr. Hutton: The recommendations of the ad hoc risk assessment group commissioned in December 2002 will be placed in the Library shortly.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he will publish his Department's consultation on screening healthcare workers. [223756]

Mr. Hutton: Consultation on screening healthcare workers was published in 2002.

Health Direct

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 7 December 2004, Official Report, column 503W, on Health Direct, when he expects to announce the (a) set-up and (b) running costs of Health Direct; and if he will make a statement. [224324]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Health Direct will be set up starting from 2007. A scoping study will be undertaken during 2005 to establish the customer requirements and service definition for the Health Direct service. Set up and running costs for the service will be established during the subsequent procurement phase, which we expect to complete by the end of 2006.

Health Expenditure

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of health expenditure relating to (a) nicotine, (b) alcohol and (c) illegal drug use in each of the last five years. [223705]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Smoking costs the national health service between £1.4 billion and £1.7 billion a year in England, as set out in the White Paper, Choosing Health[1].

[1] Buck D et al—University of York Centre for Health Economics. Cost effectiveness of smoking cessation interventions: Health Education Authority 1997.

The interim analytical report prepared by the strategy unit to support the production of the alcohol harm reduction strategy for England estimated the cost annually to the health service due to alcohol related harm as between £1.4 and £1.7 billion.

The Home Office research study 249, "The economic and social costs of class A drug misuse in England and Wales, 2000", estimated that:

Young recreational users cost the NHS about £2 million.

The total healthcare costs for older regular users were also about £2 million.

Problem drug users are estimated to cost the NHS between £283 million and £509 million per year, in addition to the specific addiction treatment they are receiving.

Health White Paper

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 7 December 2004, Official Report, column 504W, on Health White Paper, what estimate he has made of the cost of implementing the Healthy Start programme (a) in total and (b) broken down by (i) costs of the campaign aimed at families, (ii) costs of the communications and training programme for health professionals and (iii) other costs. [224322]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Healthy Start will replace the existing welfare food scheme and will be phased in from summer 2005. We expect that Healthy Start expenditure should continue at a similar level to the welfare food scheme. The budget is demand-led and current expenditure is approximately £140 million per annum.

A draft regulatory impact assessment (RIA), which includes breakdowns of the expected costs of Healthy Start, was published in the Healthy Start consultation on draft regulations that was launched on 1 February 2005. This RIA will be revised in light of the responses to the consultation and before Parliament is invited to approve the regulations. The consultation ends on 26 April.

A communications strategy and health professional training activities for Healthy Start are currently in development and will link in with communications and training to be provided as part of the actions set out in the "Choosing a Better Diet: a food and health action plan".

Hospital Acquired Infections

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the national audit of deaths caused by hospital acquired infections announced by the Chief Medical Officer in December 2003 is operational; and if he will make a statement. [218119]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Department of Health asked the Office for National Statistics and the Health Protection Agency (HPA) to undertake jointly a confidential, qualitative study on a proportion of deaths which may be associated with healthcare associated infection.

This study requires the collection and analysis of detailed information that is not collected routinely. This study will develop new methodologies enabling detailed analyses of case reports.

Preliminary work has been carried out and it is for the HPA and Office for National Statistics to take matters forward.

Hospital-Acquired Infections

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the rate of surgical site infection was in each quarter since October 1997, broken down by category of surgical procedure. [222810]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Cumulative data from the Health Protection Agency's (HPA) voluntary reporting scheme for surgical site infection are published annually. The following table covers the period October 1997 to December 2003.

Rate of surgical site infection (SSI) by category of surgical procedure: October 1997 to December 2003

Surgical procedure	Rate of SSI	95 per cent. confidence limit lower–upper
Abdominal hysterectomy	2.0	1.8–2.3
Bile duct, liver, or pancreatic surgery	11.3	7.1–17.1
Cholecystectomy	4.1	1.3–9.5
Coronary artery bypass graft	4.3	4.0–4.6
Gastric surgery	9.9	7.0–13.7
Total hip replacement	2.2	2.1–2.4
Hip hemiarthroplasty	4.9	4.6–5.3
Knee prosthesis	1.4	1.3–1.5
Large bowel surgery	9.3	8.8–9.9
Limb amputation	14.9	13.3–16.8
Open reduction of fracture	3.8	3.3–4.3
Small bowel surgery	10.1	8.5–11.9
Vascular surgery	6.7	6.1–7.4

HPA Communicable Disease Report (CDR) Weekly 2004, volume 14, 21, 20 May

The mandatory reporting scheme for orthopaedic surgical site infections was introduced in April 2004 and the first year's data will be published later this year.

Influenza Pandemic Plan

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the target rate for the update of immunisation against infection in the event of an influenza pandemic will be, assuming that an effective vaccine has been obtained. [220983]

Miss Melanie Johnson: If supplies of pandemic influenza vaccine are limited, its use would be prioritised as outlined in the pandemic influenza contingency plan. However, if sufficient supplies were available, it would be offered to all eligible individuals.

Joint Committee on Vaccinations and Immunisations

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether guidance issued by the Joint Committee on vaccinations and immunisations is mandatory for (a) primary care trusts and (b) hospital trusts. [224661]

Miss Melanie Johnson: It is a matter for clinical governance on how Joint Committee on vaccinations and immunisations recommendations are implemented.

Klinefelter Syndrome

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on treatment for those who have Klinefelter syndrome; and if he will make a statement. [224912]

Dr. Ladyman: Sufferers from Klinefelter's syndrome can have diverse and variable health and social care needs. These needs are best addressed on an individual basis by local health and social care bodies.

Meat Hygiene Service

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make a statement on his plans for the Meat Hygiene Service. [222970]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The Meat Hygiene Service (MHS) carries out important and valuable work in licensed meat establishments to protect public health, animal health and animal welfare. I have been advised by the Food Standards Agency (FSA) that the MHS is facing a number of significant changes. These include enforcement arrangements for new European Union food hygiene regulations, which come into force in January 2006; plans to allow beef from cattle over 30 months old back on to the market once robust arrangements for bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) testing are in place; and addressing recommendations made in the report of the independent inquiry into BSE testing failures. The MHS is working closely with the Food Standards Agency and the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs towards the effective implementation of these changes.

Mental Health

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding his Department has allocated to telephone support lines for people with mental illness in each of the last five years. [224657]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Over the last five years, the Department has allocated a total of £6,837,986 to telephone support lines for people with mental health problems. Details of which are broken down by year in the following table.

	Allocation (£)
2000–01	889,980
2001–02	894,000
2002–03	1,092,006
2003–04	2,051,000
2004–05	1,911,000

Mobile Scanner

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment was made of the North Durham area in order to find sites suitable for a mobile scanner. [224220]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 4 April 2005]: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave him on 18 March 2005, Official Report, column 523W.

MRI Scans

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the Answer of 9 March 2005, Official Report, column 1910W, on MRI scans, if he will set out for each month for which he has records the information on (a) number of scans, (b) number of rejections, (c) timeliness, (d) quality and (e) customer satisfaction. [222373]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The number of scans performed by Alliance Medical Limited (AML) and customer satisfaction rates for each month is shown in the table.

In relation to information concerning rejections, timeliness and quality, I refer the hon. Member to my reply of 9 March.

Month	Number of patients scanned	Patient satisfaction (good or excellent) (percentage)
August	2,097	n/a
September	2,884	90
October	4,201	91
November	5,999	96
December	4,564	96
January	5,252	93
February	4,456	n/a

Notes:
1. Data provided by Alliance Medical, but not validated by the Department.
2. The contract began roll-out in August 2004 and has been fully operational since December 2004.
3. AML first surveyed patients in September 2005. Data for February 2005 is not yet available.

NHS Absences

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many working days have been lost due to (a) sickness and (b) absenteeism in the NHS in each of the past 10 years. [224742]

Mr. Hutton: National data on sickness absence levels in the national health service has only been collected since 1999 and is collected as a percentage rate, rather than the number of working days lost. Data for the period 1999–2003 is shown in the table. National data on other types of absence in the NHS is not collected centrally, but may be available from individual NHS employing organisations.

	Percentage
1999	4.9
2000	4.7
2001	4.8
2002	4.6
2003	4.7

NHS Beds

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS beds there were in each year since 1997. [223482]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 23 March 2005]: The information requested is available in the Library.

NHS Charges

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what charges have been introduced for NHS services since 1975. [223739]

Mr. Hutton: Regulations governing charging of overseas visitors for national health service hospital treatment were first introduced in 1982. These were subsequently replaced by the NHS (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Regulations 1989, which remain the basis of the charging arrangements today, although they have been amended from time to time, most recently in April 2004.

Charging for dental examinations was introduced on 1 April 1989.

NHS Contracts

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) when his Department adopted the policy of not disclosing the total value of contracts held between the NHS and providers; [224217]

(2) if he will list the companies which tendered for the contract won by Alliance Medical to provide scanning services to the NHS. [224218]

Mr. Hutton: It has always been the Department's policy to decide whether to disclose the value of contracts on a case by case basis.

Information on specific companies that tendered for the contract is commercially sensitive. Releasing the names of companies which were not successful could be considered commercially damaging to the interests of the firms concerned. For this reason, 27 expressions of interest were received and six bidders were invited to negotiate for the contract.

NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how the NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency's operating costs are funded. [224720]

Mr. Hutton: The NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency is an executive agency of the Department and receives its funding from the Department.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether hospital trusts are required to use the NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency to source any of their supplies. [224721]

Mr. Hutton: The NHS Purchasing and Supply Agency assists around 400 national health service trusts and health bodies with their purchasing and manages some 3000 national purchasing contracts, which are available to NHS bodies. Use of these contracts by local bodies is voluntary but extensive because of the savings they provide.

NHS Staff

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many qualified (a) nurses, (b) midwives and (c) health visitors have (i) entered and (ii) completed return to practice schemes in the NHS in England since March 2004. [224842]

Mr. Hutton: The Department no longer collects this information.

NHS Telephone Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ban premium rate charges for (a) incoming calls made to and (b) outgoing calls made from bedside phones in NHS hospitals; and if he will make a statement. [223778]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Bedside television (TV) and telephone services are now available in most major acute hospitals and provide an additional service to patients, relatives and friends to enable them to remain in direct contact when people are in hospital. It is still possible for friends and relatives to contact a hospital through its main switchboard and then be transferred to a nurse station to enquire about their relatives' health.

Charges for the use of services through bedside telephones are agreed between the national health service trust and the company supplying the service. The trust does not make any profit from these services.

Contracts are entered into by individual trusts who will set out an agreed schedule of charges, including the cost of incoming charges to patients.

Three suppliers, covering 69,000 beds, include a message notifying callers at the outset of the call what the charge will be. The fourth, which provides a service to the remaining 6,000 beds, will shortly be including a similar message at all their sites. In addition, the Patient Power suppliers set out the charges for all their services in leaflets, which are made widely available. A higher incoming call rate helps subsidise concessionary rates provided by the suppliers, which include free TV for children and discounted rates for long stay patients.

NHS Estates commissioned British Market Research Bureau to carry out a survey to conduct research into patient and staff satisfaction with the bedside communication and entertainment systems where 88 per cent. of patients said that they were satisfied with the services, 95 per cent. of patients chose to pay for services offered and patients said the most important reason for using the system was to make phone calls without having to ask a member of staff for help or go to a public pay phone.

The patient bedside entertainment system provides a vital direct link with family and friends for NHS patients. The results of the recent survey confirm that the service is useful in improving the patients' stay in hospital.

NHS Trusts

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the Answer of 4 March 2005, Official Report, column 1469W on hospitals, in which year of the rolling breakeven period each of the NHS trusts listed was at the end of 2003–04; which of the NHS trusts were given an exception to have a five year rolling breakeven period; and what the 2003–04 turnover for each NHS trust was. [223577]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 24 March 2005] The information requested will be placed in Library shortly.

Exceptionally, strategic health authorities (SHAs) have the authority to extend the period of breakeven recovery from three years to either a four or five year period. Such extension requires the express agreement of the relevant SHA in the knowledge of the national health service trust's particular circumstances. Exceptional circumstances may arise where the four/five year period is consistent with the terms of, and targets included in, a financial recovery plan approved by the relevant SHA, or there are other exceptional circumstances, defined and approved in writing by the relevant SHA.

Nurses

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total expenditure in the NHS in England sourced (a) from NHS banks, (b) from nursing agencies and (c) by NHS professionals was in each financial year since 1997–98 on temporary qualified nursing staff. [224843]

Mr. Hutton: The Department does not collect information from trusts according to the categories identified. Information is collected from trusts on their total spend on non-national health service nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff. For figures since 1997–98, I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam (Mr. Burstow) on 16 December 2004, Official Report, column 1329W. The figure provided for 2003–04 has now been audited and is correct.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the expenditure by West Yorkshire Metropolitan Ambulance Service NHS Trust was in each of the financial years since 2001–02 on employing (a) qualified nursing staff and (b) qualified temporary nursing staff. [224844]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The table shows expenditure by the West Yorkshire Metropolitan Ambulance Service National Health Service Trust (WYMAS) on NHS qualified nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff and non NHS nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff, for the years 2001–02 to 2003–04.

	Qualified NHS nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff	Non-NHS nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff
2001–02	13,599,638	12,460,320
2002–03	22,972,181	38,150,587
2003–04	26,596,911	21,660,434

Notes:

1. The Department collects expenditure information on NHS and non-NHS staff by NHS trusts. Non-NHS staff expenditure figures include all agency staff and any other staff not directly employed by the trusts.
2. WYMAS was a lead organisation for NHS Professionals. The non-NHS figures shown in the table relate to expenditure on NHS professionals. These figures have not been used in previous parliamentary responses (to avoid double counting) due to the fact that other NHS trusts included the expenditure in their financial returns when reporting NHS professionals that they employed via WYMAS.

Occupational Code Definitions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the definitions of NHS occupational codes found under the NHS work force statistics for (a) all non-clinical jobs, (b) all clinical jobs, (c) managers and (d) senior managers are the same in 2003–04 as in each year since 1997–98. [223044]

Mr. Hutton: Since 1997, the national health service has undergone a radical reorganisation aimed at ensuring services are managed closer to patients, in particular through Shifting the Balance of Power and the creation of primary care trusts. In addition, the NHS has introduced a range of new clinical and non-clinical roles aimed at better meeting patients needs and the skills of staff. These include, for example, nurse consultants, and will in future include community matrons.

The occupation codes used in NHS work force statistics have been amended to reflect these changes. All such changes are includes in the occupation codes manuals and Data Set Change Notices, which are available at: www.nhsia.nhs.uk/dscn/pages/default.asp.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list the NHS occupational codes and their definitions for all (a) non-clinical and (b) clinical jobs, broken down by (i) strategic health authority and (ii) NHS hospital trust in (A) 2003–04 and (B) 2002–03. [223045]

Mr. Hutton: The information requested will be placed in the Library shortly.

Out-of-hours Services (Northumberland)

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he received a copy of the Review of Out-of-Hours Services in Northumberland, undertaken by Northumberland Care Trust and Northumbria Healthcare NHS Trust; what further reviews of out-of-hours services are being undertaken; and if he will make a statement on the operation of the out-of-hours service under the new general medical services contract. [224311]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The review of urgent care services across Northumberland was carried out by Northumberland Care Trust and Northumbria Healthcare National Health Service Trust. The outcome was shared with Northumberland, Tyne and Wear strategic health authority (SHA), which will continue to work with the local NHS to ensure that the action plan is fully implemented. The findings of the review have already been discussed publicly at the board meetings of Northumberland Care Trust and Northumbria Healthcare NHS Trust. They have also been shared with the overview and scrutiny committee in Northumberland and with the right hon. Member for Berwick-upon-Tweed (Mr Beith).

In addition, the Northumberland, Tyne and Wear SHA is also carrying out a formal assessment of adherence to the new out-of-hours quality requirements across the region. That process is still ongoing.

The Department is not currently undertaking any reviews of out-of-hours services. It would also not be appropriate for the Department to be involved with a review such as the one undertaken by Northumberland Care Trust and Northumbria Healthcare NHS Trust. Responsibility for local health services lies with the local NHS.

The new general medical services contract supports the development of an integrated system of high-quality out-of-hours care. It provides primary care trusts with an opportunity to address service fragmentation and introduce an integrated network of urgent care provision—bringing together primary, secondary and social care, to offer patients an integrated, responsive and locally appropriate service—delivered to nationally set quality requirements—which addresses all their urgent care needs.

Overseas Nurses

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans his Department has to propose (a) bilateral agreements and (b) memoranda of understanding with countries other than India, Spain, Philippines and Indonesia on recruitment of nurses. [224841]

Mr. Hutton: We have no plans to propose further bilateral agreements and memorandum of understanding but are happy to discuss other countries' proposals.

Passive Smoking

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to inform the public of the effects of inhaling secondhand tobacco smoke; and what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of these steps. [224288]

Miss Melanie Johnson: We are continuing to act to inform and educate the public about the harmful effects of exposure to secondhand smoke. The hard-hitting television campaign depicting the dangers of smoking around babies and children has received advertising industry awards for effectiveness.

Details of the effectiveness of Government campaigns on the dangers of smoking are in the British Market Research Bureau tobacco education tracking study. A report of this evidence is to be published every six months on the Department's website.

PFI Projects

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total value is of private finance initiative projects granted approval by his Department since 1997. [223571]

Mr. Hutton: The total value for the private finance initiative projects given the go-ahead since 1997 is £17.1 billion. This is made of 78 major capital schemes approved since May 1997 with capital values ranging from £22 million to £1.2 billion, totalling £16.2 billion, and 44 non-prioritised schemes.

Pharmaceutical Companies

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations he has received in relation to conduct of research involving pharmaceutical companies; and if he will make a statement. [224266]

Miss Melanie Johnson: In the context of the United Kingdom Clinical Research Collaboration, pharmaceutical industry representatives and others have drawn attention to inconsistent local administrative requirements of national health service organisations that can delay clinical research. The UK Clinical Research Collaboration includes a work stream on regulatory and governance issues through which the Department is working with its partners to promote processes which operate more efficiently while continuing to providing effective protection for patients.

Representatives of the pharmaceutical industry also recently submitted evidence to an ad hoc group reviewing the operation of the NHS Research Ethics Committee system.

Under the Freedom of Information Act, the Department has received a request for information about clinical trials conducted in the NHS for pharmaceutical companies.

Regulatory Impact Assessments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list regulatory impact assessments which have included health impact assessments. [224278]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Since November 2004, the Department and the Food Standards Agency have published the following regulatory impact assessments, which include a consideration of the impact on health:

Department of Health:

"Choosing Health" White Paper: overarching partial regulatory impact assessment and annexes

Action on food advertising and promotion to children.

Action reducing salt, fat and sugar intakes in England.

Action on second-hand smoke.

Action on sales of tobacco to under-16s.

Supporting national health service frontline staff in health improvement.

"Safer Management of Controlled Drugs": the Government's response to the fourth Shipman inquiry.

Medicines (Marketing Authorisations and Miscellaneous Amendments) Regulations 2004.

The Medicines (Pharmacies) (Applications for Registration and Fees) Amendment Regulations 2004.

National service framework (NSF) for renal services, part two: chronic kidney disease, acute renal failure and end-of-life care.

European Blood Safety: Blood Safety and Quality Regulations 2005 to implement European directives 2002/98/EC and 2004/33/EC.

The Opticians Act 1989 (Amendment) Order 2005.

The Water Fluoridation (Consultation) Regulations 2005.

NSF for long-term conditions.

The National Health Service (General Ophthalmic Services Supplementary List) and (General Ophthalmic Services Amendment and Consequential Amendment) Regulations 2005.

The Medicines for Human Use (Prescribing) Order 2005 (Extension of Supplementary prescribing to Chiropodists, Physiotherapists and Radiographers).

The Medicines for Human Use (Prescribing) Order 2005 (Extended Formulary Nurse Prescribing: Amendments to the Prescription only Medicines (Human Use) Order 1997).

The Medicines for Human Use (Prescribing) Order 2005.

NHS (Pharmaceutical Services) Regulations 2005:

Introduction of new community pharmacy contractual framework.

Implementation of the Government response to the Office of Fair Trading (OFT) report on community pharmacy services.

Introduction of "Fitness to Practice" requirements for community pharmacy contractors and pharmacists providing NHS pharmaceutical services.

Food Standards Agency:

The Contaminants in Food (England) Regulations 2004: Maximum levels for dioxins in foodstuffs.

The Contaminants in Food (England) Regulations 2004: Maximum levels aflatoxins in maize.

The Contaminants in Food (England) Regulations 2004: Maximum levels for patulin in foodstuffs.

The Contaminants in Food (England) Regulations 2004: Maximum levels for tin in canned foodstuffs.

The Plastic Materials and Articles in Contact with Food (Amendment) (England) Regulations 2004.

The General Food Regulations 2004.

The Sweeteners in Food (Amendment) (England) Regulations 2004.

The Food with Added Phytosterols or Phytostanols (Labelling) (England) Regulations.

The Plastic Materials and Articles in Contact with Food (Amendment) (England) Regulations 2005–04–05.

The TSE (Transmissible Spongiform Encephalopathies) (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2005–04–05.

The Contaminants in Food (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2005 (Maximum levels for nitrate in foods for infants and young children).

The Contaminants in Food (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2005 (Maximum levels aflatoxins or ochratoxin A in foods for infants and young children).

The Smoke Flavourings (England) Regulations 2005–04–05.

The Materials and Articles in Contact with Food (England) Regulations 2005.

Student Grant Applications

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what evaluation has been made of the performance of the unit processing student grant applications for postgraduate courses in terms of (a) accuracy of information given, (b) quality and speed of responses to telephone calls and (c) quality and speed of responses to written communications. [221597]

Mr. Hutton: The students grant unit (SGU) is now part of the NHS Pensions Agency. It is for the agency to manage and account for the performance of the SGU. The chief executive of the agency informs me that he is aware of the criticisms made of the SGU in the recent past and has highlighted these as key performance indicators for the future. I have asked my officials to raise the SGU's performance at their regular review meetings with the agency.

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Public Service Agreement target to increase year on year the proportion of drug users successfully sustaining or completing treatment programmes has been met thus far. [219241]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The proportion of drug users successfully sustaining or completing treatment programmes fell from 59 per cent. In 2001–02[1] to 57 per cent. In 2002–03[1], rising to 72 per cent. in 2003–04[2].

[1] Figures for 2001–02 and 2002–03 are provisional.

[2] In 2003–04, the methodology used for counting the numbers in drug treatment in England was revised to reflect numbers in treatment more accurately.

Note:

The definition of structured drug treatment has also tightened with the implementation of Models of care for the treatment of adult drug misusers, which was published in 2002.

Tattoos

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he takes to ensure that the contents of inks used by tattooists do not contain chemicals at a level which is prejudicial to public health. [222402]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The European Commission division responsible for Consumer Affairs, Health and Consumer Protection (DG SANCO) has been collecting information on the safety of tattoos and body piercing and related practices via its Joint Research Centre (Institute for Health and Consumer Protection, Physical and Chemical Exposure Unit) to establish whether there is a need for specific EU legislation in this area. The Department supports the Council of Europe Resolution advising that tattoo pigments used should comply with the Cosmetics Directive, that is that only permitted colours are used, even though they are not legally covered by that Directive.

The supply of pigments that could cause harm to consumers would be against the law under General Product Safety Regulations 1994.

Tea Tree Oil

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he has identified potential risks to human health from the use of products containing tea tree oil; and if he will make a statement on EU proposals to stop the sale of such products. [224138]

Miss Melanie Johnson [holding answer 4 April 2005]: The major risk identified from the use of consumer products containing tea tree oil comes from the sensitising potential of concentrated (greater than 2 per cent.) solutions, particularly if the product has been exposed to oxygen, sunlight or higher temperatures. However, the European Scientific Committee on consumer products has advised that the data available are currently insufficient to assess the potential risk of a range of toxic effects.

The Committee requested that a complete package of data be provided in order for them to give an opinion on the potential risks. The conclusions will then be used to amend the cosmetics directive in order to make any restrictions on the use of tea tree oil in cosmetic products legally enforceable. In the meantime, industry has advised that tea tree oil should only be used in cosmetic products at concentrations at or below 1 per cent., and should be formulated and packaged in a way to minimise degradation.

15 medicinal products containing tea tree oil, licensed under medicines legislation, are available in the United Kingdom. There may be other medicines that contain tea tree oil, which currently reach the market as unlicensed herbal remedies. These will potentially qualify to be registered under Directive 2004/24/EC when it is implemented on 30 October this year. To qualify for registration, products will have to demonstrate that they comply with the required evidence of traditional usage and that they meet the required standards of safety and quality.

As with all medicines, the safety of medicinal products containing tea tree oil is closely monitored by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency. There are no safety concerns specific to the medicinal use of tea tree oil but all effective treatments may cause unwanted side effects in some patients, which may be the result of individual sensitivity to the medicine concerned.

University Hospital, North Durham

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average cost of a scan undertaken by the University Hospital North Durham was in 2004–05. [224213]

Miss Melanie Johnson: Information on the average costs of scans at individual trusts is not held centrally.

The national average cost of an magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scan in direct access, where a general practitioner refers a patient directly to a trust for treatment, for the 2003–04 financial year was £309.63.

Vulnerable Adults

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what measures are in place to monitor the effectiveness of procedures that ensure that all appropriate information about vulnerable adults, including information relating to risk, is made known when these adults move from English to Welsh counties. [224948]

Dr. Ladyman: Councils locally determine the procedures that ensure information about vulnerable adults, including information relating to risk, is appropriately managed. It is for councils to decide how information, identified through a needs assessment, is to be collected, stored and shared, with due regard to the requirements of the Data Protection Act 1998. The effectiveness of these measures is not monitored centrally.

Waiting Times (Leeds)

Mr. Truswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting times for (a) inpatient and (b) outpatient treatment in hospitals in Leeds were in (i) 1993, (ii) 1995, (iii) 1997 and (iv) the latest year for which figures are available, broken down by specialty. [223761]

Miss Melanie Johnson: The information requested has been placed in the Library.

CABINET OFFICE

Sikh Community

Rob Marris: To ask the Minister for the Cabinet Office what guidance the Cabinet Office has issued to Government Departments on separately (a) recognising and (b) monitoring service provision to British Sikhs in relation to race relations legislation. [224495]

Fiona Mactaggart: I have been asked to reply.

It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

DEFENCE

Agency Budgets

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2001–02, (b) 2000–01, (c) 1999–2000, (d) 1998–99 and (e) 1997–98 the (i) Warship Support Agency, (ii) Veterans Agency and (iii) UK Hydrographic Office spent in Scotland in (A) monetary terms and (B) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [218260]

Mr. Caplin: Both civilian and Service personnel data by agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at http://www.dasa.mod.uk

The number of Service personnel employed by agency and location is not collated centrally, although the UK Hydrographic Office have confirmed from locally held records that no Service personnel have been employed in Scotland.

A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MOD agency, for the agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, is available on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, http://www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House.

Information relating to the total personnel costs of each of these agencies is available from their respective Annual Report and Accounts, copies of which are available in the Library of the House.

In the case of the Veterans Agency, the relevant publications relate to the War Pensions Agency, which was transferred to the MOD in April 2002 and subsequently took the name Veterans Agency.

Before 1 April 2001, the Warship Support Agency was split between two organisations, the Ships Support Agency and the Naval Bases and Supply Agency.

More detailed analysis of personnel costs by region could be supplied only at disproportionate costs, as the information is not held centrally.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2001–02, (b) 2000–01, (c) 1999–2000, (d) 1998–99 and (e) 1997–98 the (i) Queen Victoria School, (ii) Pay and Personnel Agency and (iii) Naval Recruiting and Training Agency spent in Scotland in (A) monetary terms and (B) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in these years; and if he will make a statement. [218315]

Mr. Caplin: Total staff costs are published in the agencies' annual report and accounts for the relevant financial years, copies of which are available in the House and from the following agency websites at http://www.qvs.org.uk/and http://www.ppa.mod.uk/.

Agency personnel costs on a regional basis are not recorded centrally or by the agency. However, the Queen Victoria school is based solely in Scotland, whereas the pay and personnel agency has confirmed from locally held records that it has attracted no staff costs in Scotland since its formation in 1996.

Both civilian and Service personnel data by agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at http://www.dasa.mod.uk

The number of Service personnel employed by agency and location is not collated centrally. In the case of the pay and personnel agency, locally held records confirm that no Service personnel have been employed in Scotland since the agency formation in 1996.

A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MOD agency, for the agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, is available on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, http://www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House.

Charge Cards

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what use is made of charge cards by officials in procuring defence equipment in excess of a value of £5,000. [225036]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Advertising Contracts

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many advertising contracts, and to what value, were signed by his Department in the periods (a) 1 September 2004 to 1 March 2005 and (b) 1 September 2003 to 1 March 2004, broken down by (i) television, (ii) radio, (iii) press, (iv) direct mail and (v) other advertising. [219383]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 2 March 2005]: Data on advertising contracts is not recorded by the categories requested and can be identified only from the UK Standard Industrial Classification Code 2003 allocated to the contract. The SIC code is used to record activities and products and is published and approved for use by the Office of National Statistics. Therefore, contracts and their values identified by Advertising SIC Codes for the periods in question are as follows.

Annual Report and Accounts 2003–04

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the outcome of the appeal referred to in Note 13 (ii) of his Department's Annual Report and Accounts 2003–04. [209337]

Mr. Ingram: The appeals process is still continuing, and may not be concluded for about three years.

Armed Forces Compensation Scheme

Mrs. Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the new Armed Forces Compensation Scheme for injuries and deaths occurring after 6 April provides an exemption to the five-year limit for claims for deafness; and if he will make a statement. [224796]

Mr. Ingram: The general time limit for claiming injury benefits under the Armed Forces Compensation Scheme is five years from the date on which the injury occurs or, in the case of an illness, five years from the date the claimant first sought medical advice in relation to that illness. The time limit does not apply in certain circumstances to conditions that have late onset—for example a cancer which is caused by an occupational exposure occurring more than five years before the onset of the disease. Hearing loss due to a service cause—for example a blast injury—has onset in close time proximity to the cause and so does not fall within the late onset provision.

Arms Exports (India)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the benefit to the UK (a) economy and (b) labour market of India's proposed purchase of 125 fighter jets; and if he will make a statement. [216256]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Army Costs

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost of a fully equipped infantry regiment was in the last year for which figures are available; how this cost would change if it were deployed to (a) combat and (b) non-combat roles overseas; and if he will make a statement. [223738]

Mr. Ingram: Such information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Army Discipline

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many soldiers who made complaints under Army redress procedures since 1997 subsequently committed suicide. [201840]

Mr. Ingram: Our records indicate that since 1997 one soldier whose death was recorded by a coroner as suicide is known to have submitted a redress of complaint. There is no evidence to suggest that the redress, which was withdrawn, and the soldier's death were linked.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what have been the total (a) damages awarded against the Department and (b) Department's legal costs since 1997 with respect to cases in the British courts which relate to a decision of the Army Board under the redress system. [201842]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many complaints that have been considered under Army redress procedures have resulted in legal action before the (a) employment tribunal, (b) High Court and (c) European Court of Human Rights since 1997. [201844]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence does not hold complete records dating back to 1997. During the period January 1999 and December 2004, our records indicate that there have been 33 Army redress of complaint cases which were the subject of an employment tribunal, and two cases which were the subject of a judicial review in the courts.

We are not aware of any redress of complaints considered under Army procedures between January 1999 and December 2004 being subject to legal action in the European Court of Human Rights.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many decisions of the Army board on complaints under the redress system have been overturned by a court of law since 1997; for what reasons these decisions were overturned; and if he will make a statement. [201845]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence does not hold complete records dating back to 1997. Since 1999, our records indicate that no redress of complaint decisions taken by the Army board have been overturned in a UK court of law.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many complaints have been considered by the Army board from soldiers who are serving, or who have served, at (a) Deepcut barracks and (b) ITC Catterick since 1997; and how many of those complaints related to issues of bullying or harassment; [201846]

(2) how many of the 197 complaints considered by the Army board between 1999 and 2003 related to issues of bullying or harassment; [201831]

(3) how many of the 63 complaints under Army redress procedures upheld or partially upheld between 1997 and 2003 related to issues of bullying or harassment; and how many (a) officers, (b) non-commissioned officers and (c) private soldiers were disciplined as a result. [201832]

Mr. Caplin: These questions relate to information I gave to the hon. Member in a written answer on 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1806W. It has subsequently been found that there was an error in the statistics given in that answer relating to the number of redress cases considered by the Army board.

Officials have urgently been examining those records. I wrote to the hon. Member on 6 April and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) officers, (b) non-commissioned officers and (c) private soldiers have been disciplined following the outcome of (i) an Army board decision, (ii) a divisional level decision and (iii) a unit level decision since 1997. [217452]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 5 April 2005, Official Report, column 1373W.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many of the complaints under Army redress procedures upheld or partially upheld between 1997 and 2003 related to issues of bullying or harassment; and how many (a) officers, (b) non-commissioned officers and (c) private soldiers were disciplined as a result. [217457]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many complaints have been considered by the Army Board from soldiers who are serving, or who have served, at (a) Deepcut Barracks and (b) ITC Catterick since 1997; and how many of those complaints related to issues of bullying or harassment. [217458]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the conformity of the practice of administrative discharge through manning controls with (a) European Union legislation, (b) the European Convention on Human Rights and (c) the Employment Rights Act 1966. [217459]

Mr. Caplin: European Union employment legislation is reflected in the Employment Rights Act 1996, from which the armed forces are exempt. The European Convention on Human Rights contains no provision relating to the right to work. Notwithstanding the provision of law, the armed forces are governed in large measure by the "royal prerogative" which allows for the discharge of personnel through manning control measures.

Atomic Weapons Establishment

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what proportion of the current book value of the Atomic Weapons Establishment (AWE) was purchased from (a) foreign companies and (b) US companies; and what proportion of planned new expenditure at AWE sites is expected to be paid to (i) foreign companies and (ii) US companies. [211313]

Mr. Ingram: Historic site valuation records for the Atomic Weapons Establishment (AWE) are not held in a form that allows the provision of the valuation information requested. As regards future expenditure, allocations for which have yet to be finalised, the sub-contractors chosen by the AWE management and operation contractor, AWE plc, will depend on the outcome of commercial negotiations and activities conducted by that company. Projections relating to the likely nationality of such sub-contractors are not available and would in any case be speculative.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what expenditure the Atomic Weapons Establishment has been authorised to make in the United States in each year since 1997. [224554]

Mr. Hoon: As the appointed Management and Operation (M and O) contractor at the Atomic Weapons Establishment, AWE plc is not required to seek authorisation to make individual commitments in the United States within the scope of the M and O contract that fall outwith the Government-to-Government arrangements managed on behalf of the United Kingdom by Ministry of Defence officials.

Baha Mousa

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what insurgency material was seized in the raid that led to the apprehending of Baha Mousa. [207151]

Mr. Hoon: This case may be the subject of possible prosecution. I am therefore withholding this information for reasons of law enforcement and to avoid prejudicing any future legal action.

Beef Supply Contracts

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the monetary value of beef supply contracts for his Department has been in each year since 1997, broken down by contracts with (a) Scottish suppliers, (b) suppliers in the rest of the United Kingdom and (c) suppliers outside the United Kingdom. [209143]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Belgrano Files

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what circumstances have led to the proposed publication of the Government files on the sinking of the Belgrano in 1982. [224946]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Biometric Recognition Technology

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what use his Department is making of biometric facial recognition technology; and if he will make a statement. [207690]

Mr. Ingram: The MOD is currently aware of commercial technologies and is willing to exploit them as required for defence needs.

British Forces Post Office

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many people worked for the British Forces Post Office on (a) 1 January and (b) 1 January 2004; how many were employed in Scotland in each case; and what the personnel costs of the agency (i) are in 2004–05 and (ii) will be in 2005–06. [215429]

(2) how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2001–02, (b) 2000–01, (c) 1999–2000, (d) 1998–99 and (e) 1997–98 the British Forces Post Office spent in Scotland in (i) monetary terms and (ii) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [217965]

Mr. Caplin: The information is as follows:

Staff employed by British Forces Post Office

Number

	Agency totals		Employed in Scotland
	January 2004	January 2005	January 2004	January 2005
Civilian personnel	360	330	10	10
Service personnel	210	200	0	0

Notes:
1. This table uses the revised definition of civilian personnel (see www.dasa.mod.uk for details).
2. The figures shown are full-time equivalents.
3. All figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
4. Details of civilian personnel in Defence Agencies and MoD owned trading funds by UK country can be found in UKDS 2004 Table 2.36, available in the House of Commons Library

Both civilian and service personnel data by Agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk

The number of service personnel employed by Agency and location is not collated centrally. However, locally held records indicate that no service personnel have been employed in Scotland. A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MoD Agency, for the Agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, has also been published on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House.

The civilian workforce numbers have been collated from centrally held records and may be different to locally produced numbers. However, all numbers in the table are produced using the agreed standard definition of civilian workforce, in full-time equivalent terms (part-time staff are counted only in proportion to the number of hours worked compared to the normal full-time hours) and are rounded to the nearest 10 to preserve confidentiality.

Data on projected personnel costs for 2004–05 and 2005–06 are not currently available.

Bugaled Breizh Trawler

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, columns 410–12W, on the Bugaled Breizh trawler, whether HMS Turbulent was due to participate in ASWEX 04 prior to suffering damage on 16th January 2004. [224883]

Mr. Ingram: Yes.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, columns 410–12W, on the Bugaled Breizh trawler, how long HMS Turbulent remained in Devonport after 16 January 2004. [224884]

Mr. Ingram: HMS Turbulent remained in Devonport until 19 January 2004, when she sailed for Gibraltar.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, columns 410–12W, on the Bugaled Breizh Trawler, what the itinerary was of the two Dauphin helicopters from FOST flying in the vicinity at the time of the sinking of the Bugaled Breizh on 15 January 2004. [224885]

Mr. Ingram: The two Dauphin helicopters operating from FOST on 15 January 2004 were transporting personnel from Plymouth Airport to HMS Cumberland and HMS Edinburgh.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, columns 410–12W, on the Bugaled Breizh trawler, which UK and French submarines participated in joint exercises in the vicinity at the time of the sinking of the Bugaled Breizh on 15 January 2004; and what their itinerary was. [224886]

Mr. Ingram: HMS Torbay was participating in a UK-led Anti-Submarine Warfare exercise on 15 January 2004. She was a little over 100 nautical miles west of the Bugaled Breizh's reported position at the time of her sinking. FS Rubis was under French Operational Control in French exercise areas south of Ushant on the 15 January 2004 en route to participating in ASWEX 04.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2004, Official Report, columns 410–12W, on the Bugaled Breizh trawler, which French and Dutch vessels were in Devonport on 15 January 2004. [224887]

Mr. Ingram: HNLMS Willem Van Der Zaan was alongside in the naval base throughout the day.

The following French and Dutch vessels were under way in the harbour on 15 January 2004:

FS Primauguet

HNLMS Karel Doorman

HNLMS Van Nes

Chinook

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the airworthiness review of the Chinook HC2 helicopter was conducted; and if he will place a copy of the review in the Library. [206979]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place copies of the 14 annexes and nine enclosures listed on Page 52 of the Chinook HC1 Airworthiness Review Report in the Library. [206982]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when each of the source software codes necessary for testing the airworthiness of the HC2 and HC2a Chinook helicopters were provided by the manufacturers in the USA to his Department. [223781]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 24 March 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the complete RAF Board of Inquiry into the crash of a RAF Chinook HC1 helicopter ZA672 on 6 May 1988. [218779]

Mr. Ingram: I will place a copy of the Board of Inquiry into the crash of Chinook ZA672 in the Library. This has been redacted in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the legal advice provided to the reviewing officers in relation to the crash of RAF Chinook ZD576. [218776]

Mr. Ingram: I am withholding the document requested as it is subject to legal professional privilege.

Conferences

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many conferences were (a) attended by officials from his Department, (b) cancelled by and (c) facilitated by his Department in each year since 1997; and what the (i) cost to the Department and (ii) location was in each case. [205754]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Correspondence

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects to reply to the question tabled by the hon. Member for Carmarthen East and Dinefwr for answer on 21 February concerning the British Deputy Senior Judge Advocate in Iraq; and what the reason is for the delay in answering. [224891]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Cost Recovery (DFID)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the costs recovered by his Department from the Department for International Development in the most recent year for which figures are available. [214419]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 9 February 2005]: Costs recovered by the Ministry of Defence from the Department for International Development (DfID) for the 12 month period from 1 April 2004 to 31 March 2005 are set out as follows:

Payroll services to DfID including: payroll and sickness incident reporting quarterly telephone line rental	20,786
Relocation, travel and subsistence costs associated with secondment of MOD personnel to DfID and DfID-led overseas visits	77,877
Cost of conveying DfID personnel in military aircraft	8,869
Total	107,532

Databases

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the fields of the (a) Force Structure database, (b) Procurement Plans database and (c) Defence Bills Authority databases. [199833]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Dean May

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the recommendations made by the judge following the conviction of Staff Sergeant Dean May for manslaughter at Winchester Crown court in July 2002; and what measures were taken to act upon these recommendations. [220494]

Mr. Ingram: Although the Judge made a number of comments in his summing up of the case against Staff Sergeant Dean May he did not make any recommendations for further action. However, a number of measures were taken by the Ministry of Defence as a result of this incident.

Following the court case, a Board of Inquiry investigated the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Pierre Bolangi. While the Board noted that actions to prevent a recurrence had already been taken locally and within the chain of command, it made a number of wider recommendations related to the policy and conduct of income generation activity. The Board also recommended revised procedures for dealing with the media and families after such an incident. The Defence Wider Markets Policy Group was tasked to look at the wider issues raised by the Board of Inquiry report on income generation. This led to the publication of a further guidance note clarifying the framework for conducting income generation activities and the constraints that govern them.

Deaths in Service

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many deaths in combat of (a) Iraqis and (b) British Forces occurred (i) during formal hostilities in Iraq and (ii) since the conclusion of formal hostilities in Iraq; and if he will make a statement. [224549]

Mr. Hoon: Hostilities in Iraq concluded on 1 May 2003. Prior to that, 27 UK service personnel were killed in action. Since then, 22 UK service personnel have been killed in action. This does not include 10 UK service personnel missing believed killed following the C130 crash on 30 January 2005. The cause of that crash is still being investigated.

There are no wholly reliable and comprehensive figures for Iraqis killed during or since military operations began in March 2003. The Iraqi Minister of Health's most recently released figures, based on records from some 180 hospitals, show that between 5 April 2004, when figures began to be collated, and 1 March 2005,6,265 Iraqis were killed. The Ministry of Health points out that this figure includes all Iraqis, including civilians, Iraqi Security Forces and insurgents, killed as a result of violence.

The Ministry of Defence does not produce estimates of Iraqi military or civilian casualties. This is because UK military reporting is limited to the UK area of operations. But even within the UK area of operations reporting is limited to what troops see on the ground. So military reporting is incomplete and cannot provide the basis of Iraqi civilian or military casualty estimates.

Defence Employment (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people work for the MOD Police; how many are employed in Scotland; what the figures were in each case in January 2004; what the personnel costs of the Agency are in 2004–05; and what they were in 2003–04. [212156]

Mr. Caplin [pursuant to the reply, 7 February 2005, Official Report, c. 1253]: I have to correct that information.

The current Agency was formed in April 2004 by merging the Ministry of Defence Police and the Ministry of Defence Guard Service. The personnel in the Ministry of Defence Guard Service were dispersed across the Department and their number and personnel costs are not available prior to the merger. The full overall budget for the Agency in 2004–05 is £158.6 million.

The number of people working in the Agency is shown in the following table:

Ministry of Defence Police and Guarding Agency

	Full-time equivalents (FTE) as at 1 January
	2004		2005
	Total	Scotland	Total	Scotland
Ministry of Defence Police and Guarding Agency (police officers, MGS officers and civilian support staff).	—	—	7,230	1,310
Ministry of Defence Police (police officers)	3,680	840	—	—

Defence Expenditure (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year from 1997–98 to 2001–02 the Service Children's Education Unit spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each year; and if he will make a statement. [215909]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Defence Science

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what measures his Department has in place to encourage the retention of scientists (a) within DSTL and (b) engaged in research in other parts of the Department. [219028]

Mr. Ingram: We recognise the value of scientific staff to the Department and have in place a number of measures to retain their expertise and experience. The Ministry of Defence (MOD) has strong head of profession leadership through the Defence Engineering and Science Group (DESG). The group supports technical staff by coordinating training, development, career progression and Chartership. In general, the Department is on a par with the best of major employers of specialists in terms of retention rates.

The Defence Science and Technology Laboratory (DSTL), with a turnover of £340 million, is the biggest employer of research scientists in the MOD. DSTL provides considerable training and development opportunities—technical training programmes are offered to develop and refresh technical knowledge and there is a Chartership Scheme accredited to eight professional institutions which is open to all staff.

DSTL staff are also allowed time off to undertake further study such as MSc or PhD qualifications with relevant tuition fees paid. There are links with five universities for research purposes and staff are encouraged to spend time in other laboratories to ensure that knowledge remains current. Secondments are available to other areas of the Department and Government, UK industry and international laboratories. There is an internal symposium held annually to encourage networking and debate on topical research areas. There is a Scheme for Technical Education and Professional Support to encourage networking, conferences and events for junior staff and a Fellowship Scheme which gives recognition to senior staff who are acknowledged as national or international experts in their field.

Similar benefits are available for scientists engaged in research in other parts of the Department, including the Hydrographic Office, the Meteorological Office and central MOD.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence, what plans he has to increase DSTL funding for research projects. [219029]

Mr. Ingram: The main role of DSTL is to provide core defence science and technology, that can only be performed within government. The MOD's Chief Scientific Adviser funds the majority of research at DSTL. There are currently no plans to significantly increase the funding for research in real terms at DSTL. However, MOD expenditure is reviewed biannually.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what is the ratio of DSTL research spending, excluding spending contracted out to third parties, to DSTL spending on other activities in the last period for which figures are available. [219030]

Mr. Ingram: The figures for the first 11 months of the financial year 2004-05 for the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory indicate that the ratio of the amount spent on scientific activities, including research but excluding that contracted out to third parties, to the amount spent on other activities was 4.2 to 1. The term "other activities" has been interpreted as costs of non-scientific functional support.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence through what methods DSTL scientists acquire hands-on research expertise in the (a) science and technology projects and (b) equipment procurement areas of the technical projects upon which they are required to advise. [219031]

Mr. Ingram: The Defence Science and Technology Laboratory, DSTL, has a range of approaches to ensure that its scientists and engineers acquire and retain the knowledge and expertise required to discharge its roles within the Ministry of Defence (MOD). Hands-on practical research expertise is only one element, and DSTL is tasked to undertake part of the MOD's Research Building Block itself in a range of systems areas and a sub-set of sensitive defence technologies. In addition, DSTL undertakes the knowledge integration role for the Research customers which requires it to work closely with the other organisations in industry and academia engaged in hands-on research.

DSTL encourages its staff to undertake research based MSc and PhD activities as well as having a commitment to their continuous professional development through membership of the appropriate professional institutes. To strengthen engagement in underlying technical areas where DSTL has limited hands-on work of its own, it has set up Co-operative Research Centres with academia to facilitate the exchange of staff and resources between DSTL and partner Universities. This allows DSTL staff to work within the partner University alongside external researchers who are engaged in MOD funded work, for example through the Joint Grant Scheme. DSTL has also entered into arrangements with industry to encourage staff secondment and established opportunities for staff interchange with other national and international laboratories.

DSTL staff are also involved in oversight of the MOD Defence Technology Centres which are formal collaborative arrangements between industry and academic experts in particular technologies.

These kinds of arrangement enable DSTL scientists to develop and extend their knowledge networks and improve the quality and context of its advice.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average salary of DSTL research scientists is. [219032]

Mr. Ingram: The average salary of a research scientist working at the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory is currently £32,933.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of the Government's science and technology projects and equipment procurement spending in each of the last five years occurred without advice from (a) DSTL and (b) other technical sources. [219033]

Mr. Ingram: All significant spending on Ministry of Defence science and technology projects and equipment procurement spending involves advice from a variety of appropriate technical sources, which include DSTL, QinetiQ, industry and academia. Such advice is synthesised by MOD technical experts.

I am unable to comment on other Government Departments' science and technology projects and equipment procurement spending.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what technical sources the Department used for impartial advice on the Government's (a) science and technology projects and (b) equipment procurement spending in addition to DSTL in each of the last five years. [219034]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence (MOD) has its own staff within the Department in addition to Dstl to provide advice on both science and technology projects and equipment procurement. These resources have been available since before the formation of DSTL. MOD does use QinetiQ, industry and academia where appropriate and when impartiality can be assured. In these cases, the majority of final synthesis of technical advice is performed by MOD's own resources.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) science, (b) technology projects and (c) equipment procurement budgets were for 2001–04; and what the value was of projects that overspent or overran by more than 10 per cent. [219035]

Mr. Ingram: The budgets for MOD (a) research, (b) development and (c) equipment procurement are published in UK Defence Statistics 2004 (Tables 1.1,1.7 and 1.15). The research budget is generally applied to exploring speculative subjects and it is not amenable to the type of analysis requested. The chief scientific adviser supervises this work and the majority of the programme is contracted at ascertained costs. In the last few years this programme has been delivered substantially on budget.

The performance of the equipment programme is reported within the MOD's Annual Report and Accounts 2003–04 (sections 121–123 procurement performance) and further, more detailed, analysis is contained within the Report by Comptroller and Auditor General on MOD Major Project Report.

The latest versions of the relevant publications are in the Library of the House.

Defence Service Agencies (Scotland)

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people work for the (a) Defence Bills Agency and (b) Defence Dental Agency; how many in each agency are employed in Scotland; and what the personnel costs of the agency (i) are in 2004–05 and (ii) were in 2003–04. [213082]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people worked for the Veterans Agency (a) in 2003–04 and (b) on the latest date for which figures are available; how many were employed in Scotland in each case; and what the personnel costs of the agency (i) were in 2003–04 and (ii) are expected to be in 2004–05. [215947]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people work for the Defence Medical Education and Training Agency; how many are employed in Scotland; what the equivalent figures were in 2004; what the personnel costs of the agency are; and what they were in 2004. [214250]

Mr. Caplin: The average number of people employed by DMETA during the financial year 2003–04 was 2,270, less than five of whom were employed in Scotland. The Agency's personnel costs in the financial year 2003–04 were £95.74 million. Personnel numbers and associated costs for the current financial year will be subject to the outcome of routine audit by the National Audit Office and will form part of the Agency's Annual Report and Accounts which will be published and placed in the Library of the House later this year.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Meteorological Office spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215435]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Medical Supplies Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215436]

Mr. Ingram: MSA staff costs for each year from 1997–98 to date, along with what was spent in Scotland in monetary terms and as a percentage of the total staff costs with the number of personnel employed in Scotland is shown in the following table:

Financial year	MSA total staff costs (£ million)	MDC Greenock staff costs (£ million)	MDC Greenock staff costs (percentage)	Number of staff employed MDC Greenock[1]
1997–98	5.170	n/a	n/a	10
1998–99	5.574	n/a	n/a	10
1999–2000	6.332	n/a	n/a	10

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Defence Vetting Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215448]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Defence Transport and Movements Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215449]

Mr. Ingram: The Defence Transport and Movements Agency (DTMA) formed in April 1999. None of its personnel was employed in Scotland during financial years 1999–2000 to 2003–04. During the current financial year 2004–05 around 20 personnel have been employed in Scotland, amounting to an estimated cost of £690,000, which is about 4.5 per cent. of the total personnel budget for DTMA.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Defence Storage and Distribution Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215450]

Mr. Ingram: The Defence Storage and Distribution Agency (DSDA) was formed in 1999 and merged with Defence Munitions on 1 April 2003. Prior to the merger the agency only had a small number of employees located in Scotland at the Defence Regional Distribution Centre in Stirling. As a result of the merger DSDA inherited sites at Beith, Crombie and Glen Douglas, details of expenditure on personnel in Scotland, as a percentage of total personnel expenditure and numbers employed in Scotland for each of the respective years are as follows:

Financial year	Expenditure on personnel in Scotland (£)	Percentage of total personnel expenditure	Number employed in Scotland
1999–2000	437,841	1	40
2000–01	391,767	1	40
2001–02	417,966	1	30
2002–03	449,766	1	20
2003–04	18,527,495	16	800

Note:
Figures for the last financial year are not yet available.

The expenditure refers to DSDA employees only while the numbers employed in Scotland, provided by the Defence Analytical Services Agency (DASA) include other Ministry of Defence employees working at DSDA sites.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215452]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Army Base and Repair Organisation spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215454]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for each financial year since 1997–98 the Defence Medical Education and Training Agency spent in Scotland (a) in monetary terms and (b) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland in each case; and if he will make a statement. [215458]

Mr. Caplin: The Defence Medical Education and Training Agency (DMETA) was established on 1 April 2003, so no figures are available for financial years prior to 2003–04. In the financial year 2003–04 DMETA spent £80,000 on personnel in Scotland, which was 0.08 per cent. of the agency's total personnel budget.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2001–02, (b) 2000–01, (c) 1999–2000, (d) 1998–99 and (e) 1997–98 the Army Training and Recruiting Agency spent in Scotland in (i) monetary terms and (ii) as a percentage of the total personnel budget for that year; how many personnel were employed in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [217966]

Mr. Caplin: Both civilian and service personnel data by agency are collated annually at 1 April and presented in Table 2.6 of UK Defence Statistics, a copy of which is held in the Library of the House. Further information on personnel figures is available on the DASA website at www.dasa.mod.uk.

The number of service personnel employed by agency and location is not collated centrally. However, locally held records indicate that in 1997 there were 130 personnel employed in Scotland, and 140 personnel from 1998 to 2002. These figures exclude any personnel employed in armed forces careers offices and Army career information offices in Scotland, for which no data are available.

A table showing numbers of civilian personnel by MoD agency, for the agency as a total and those employed in Scotland specifically, for the period 1 April 1997 to 1 January 2005, is available on the Defence Analytical Services Agency website, www.dasa.mod.uk, and is also lodged in the Library of the House.

The following table shows the personnel budget data available, showing the amount spent in Scotland in monetary terms, and as a percentage of the total personnel expenditure. Unfortunately, figures for 1997–98 are not readily available.

Departmental Accounts

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether Ministers in his Department have issued written instructions to override his Department's accounting officer's objections since 1997. [221107]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Financial Secretary (Mr. Timms) on 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 80W.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223441]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my right hon. Friend, the Financial Secretary (Mr. Timms), on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 1170W.

Departmental Costs

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the total cost to his Department was for accountancy services in each of the last two years. [200796]

Mr. Caplin: Ministry of Defence expenditure on External Assistance (EA), of which accountancy services are a part, is contained in the MOD's annual return of expenditure on external assistance. Copies have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses for the years 1995–96 to 2003–04. This includes expenditure broken down by top level budget holders and trading funds. However, expenditure on accountancy services is not recorded as a specific category of EA and could only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his estimate is of the cost of building refurbishment carried out by his Department in each of the last two years. [200801]

Mr. Caplin: "Refurbishment" is not a term which the Ministry of Defence uses in gathering or recording financial information about the estate, as it can be regarded as capital or maintenance expenditure depending on the circumstances. Work on buildings, which might be categorised as "refurbishment", can range from minor modifications and maintenance to the complete restoration of buildings, and the replacement of machinery such as lifts. Historic information is not currently held centrally or on a consistent basis and it would be impossible to answer the question without disproportionate cost and effort.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost was of (a) in-house canteen and (b) other catering services provided by his Department in each of the last two years. [200803]

Mr. Caplin: The cost of in-house canteen services is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The cost of other (contracted out) catering services was £89.5 million in 2002–03 and £98.6 million in 2003–04.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his estimate is of the cost of (a) ministerial cars and drivers and (b) taxis for his Department in each of the last two years. [200804]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much has been spent on congestion (a) charges and (b) penalty charge notices by the Department since the commencement of the congestion charging scheme. [213819]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much has been spent on entertainment by his Department in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) food, (b) alcohol, (c) staff and (d) accommodation. [204350]

Mr. Ingram: Information on expenditure on "hospitality and entertainment" for financial years 1990–2000 to 2003–04 (inclusive) has been published in our annual resource accounts. For earlier financial years, expenditure has been:

	Cost (£ million)
1997–98	5
1998–99	5.6

These figures reflect expenditure incurred by the MOD and by establishments and formations of the armed forces at home and abroad. I regret that a breakdown of the total figure by subcategory is not held and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Expenditure on official entertainment is subject to strict departmental rules and compliance with the principles of propriety set out in government accounting.

Departmental Events

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the (a) conferences, (b) seminars, (c) workshops, (d) exhibitions and (e) press conferences which have been sponsored by his Department and which took place on non-departmental premises in each of the last two years giving the (i) title, (ii) purpose, (iii) date and (iv) cost of each. [200805]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how much has been spent by his Department on lighting in each year since 1997; [205873]

(2) how many items of electrical equipment were used by his Department in the last year for which figures are available, broken down by (a) cost and (b) number of each type of item. [205730]

Mr. Ingram: The costs of lighting equipment are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The energy costs of lighting are subsumed in the appropriate utility heading; I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave him on 25 January 2005. A copy of the letter was placed in the Library of the House.

Departmental Finances

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value was of receipts from (a) royalties, (b) compensation and insurance receipts and (c) sales of licences that were (i) appropriated in aid of his Department and (ii) surrendered to the Consolidated Fund in each financial year since 1997–98. [217992]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Disabled People (Access)

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether all Government buildings in his Department within the Greater London area are fully accessible to disabled people; and if he will make a statement. [203609]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Dr. Wouter Basson

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) who authorised the visit of Dr. Wouter Basson of South Africa to Porton Down in 1985; for what purpose; and if he will make a statement. [215519]

(2) which UK Government (a) officials and (b) scientists are recorded as having met Dr. Wouter Basson of South Africa between 1975 and the collapse of the apartheid regime in South Africa; and if he will make a statement. [215585].

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Equal Pay (Northern Ireland)

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will investigate whether there are salary disparities between staff at the same grades within the civilian security staff employed by his Department in Northern Ireland. [215809]

Mr. Ingram: Civilian security staff in Northern Ireland, in common with most MOD civilian staff, are paid in accordance with pay scales for staff at their appropriate levels, rather than be paid a single rate for the job. Consequently, staff at the same level may receive different salaries dependent upon where they are on the pay scale. Following the negotiation and introduction of a multi-year pay deal in 2002, some civilian security staff were overtaken by others joining the Department later. The trades unions raised this with the Department and pay parity has since been restored for those affected.

EU Directives

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the European Union directives and regulations relating to his Department that have been implemented in each of the last two years, specifying (a) the title and purpose of each, (b) the cost to public funds of each and (c) the cost to businesses of each. [200811]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Euratom Regulation

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which installations and bases operated by or on behalf of his Department are subject to Euratom regulation; and which nuclear materials are subject to such regulation at each such establishment. [224046]

Mr. Ingram: The UK position is that defence related installations and bases are not subject to Euratom regulation. Nuclear materials required for defence purposes are outside the safeguards provisions in Chapter 7 of the Euratom treaty. However, as announced in the Strategic Defence Review (Supporting Essay 5, paragraph 26), materials no longer required for defence purposes have been placed under Euratom safeguards. These are held on non-MOD sites.

Eurocorps

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 27 January 2005, Official Report, columns 539–40W, on Eurocorps, if he will place a copy of the register listing the reports submitted in the Library. [215337]

Mr. Hoon: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

European Constitution

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the effect of the coming into force of the European Constitution on the operation of his Department, with reference to (a) changes in legislative competence, (b) the extension of qualified majority voting, (c) the increased legislative role of the European Parliament, (d) the cost of implementation of regulations, (e) the requirements of adherence to the Charter of Fundamental Rights and (f) the quantity of legislation originating in the EU institutions. [200171]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

External Suppliers

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many tenders were let by his Department to external suppliers in the financial year 2003–04; and what the value was. [209101]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Fallujah

Glenda Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will ask the US Administration to furnish him with information on the (a) numbers and (b) type of aerial attacks upon Fallujah between 1 and 15 November. [200110]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

First World War Medals

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he plans to destroy any of the records of medals issued to First World War personnel. [224834]

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his policy is on the preservation of military index cards relating to British servicemen in the First World War. [224965]

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what arrangements he will put in place to ensure that (a) all medal index cards are fully scanned when they are put on microfiche and (b) families have the option of receiving the originals if they express a desire to do so. [224967]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence, together with The National Archives, has been actively seeking to identify a suitable institution prepared to take these cards. So far, a home for just a small part of the collection has been found. No decision on the retention or destruction of the cards will be taken until all such avenues have been explored.

Freedom of Information

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what categories of information are available under Freedom of Information legislation that have not been provided in written parliamentary answers by his Department in the last three years. [207826]

Mr. Caplin: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer given by my hon. Friend, the Under-Secretary of State for Constitutional Affairs (Mr. Leslie) on 24 January 2005, Official Report, column 140W.

Gaelic Language

Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's policy is on the use of the Gaelic language; and what plans his Department has to prepare and implement a Gaelic language scheme. [217093]

Mr. Ingram: Action to support the Gaelic language is primarily the responsibility of Scottish Ministers.

The Ministry of Defence attaches great importance to the promotion and protection of the Gaelic language in line with the United Kingdom's obligations under the European Charter for Regional and Minority Languages.

The Gaelic Language (Scotland) Bill currently before the Scottish Parliament does not extend statutory obligations on UK public bodies in Scotland in relation to the preparation or implementation of Gaelic language plans. However, UK Departments and public bodies which operate in Scotland may—like comparable Scottish public bodies—have a role to play in facilitating the use of the language.

The Ministry of Defence has been working closely with colleagues in the Scotland Office and the Scottish Executive on the role we can play, voluntarily, in securing the status of Gaelic.

Gibraltar

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has had with (a) the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, (b) the Governor of Gibraltar and (c) the Government of Gibraltar on the future of the RAF runway at Gibraltar. [218622]

Mr. Ingram: None, although the future of the airport in Gibraltar is being discussed within the Trilateral Forum, in which the Governments of the United Kingdom, Spain and Gibraltar are represented.

Mr. Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the basis is for the analogue parity agreement in pay and conditions between the Ministry of Defence Police and the Gibraltar Services Police. [223349]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 24 March 2005]: Following negotiations in 1979 between the Ministry of Defence and Gibraltar Service Police Staff Association agreement was reached re-affirming their commitment to the analogue principle enunciated by Sir Jack Scamp in his report dated 1975. The Gibraltar Services Police (GSP) analogue is the Ministry of Defence Police in the United Kingdom. Any pay conditions applicable to Ministry of Defence Police are automatically applied to GSP.

Gliding

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the value of gliding training and practice to the armed forces. [224923]

Mr. Ingram: Gliding training and practice is challenging outdoor training for service personnel in specific adventurous activities, involving controlled exposure to risk, to develop leadership, teamwork, physical fitness, moral and physical courage, among other personal attributes and skills vital to operational capability.

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which gliding clubs are supported by his Department in the Portsmouth/Gosport area; and whether this support is projected to continue. [224924]

Mr. Ingram: There is one Naval Gliding Club in the Portsmouth area, but this is not supported by public funds. However, the Royal Naval Gliding and Soaring Association (RNGSA) do have access to bursary funding, which is available to encourage young persons into flying and eventually careers in the Royal Navy.

Gulf War Syndrome

Ms Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many claims in respect of Gulf War related illness have been (a) rejected and (b) accepted by the Veterans Agency, Blackpool; and how many claims have been allowed the right of appeal. [218710]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Gulf War Veterans

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Gulf War veterans are in prison; for what reason each was imprisoned; and what treatment has been provided to them. [223886]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence does not monitor the number of ex-Service personnel (including veterans of the 1990–91 Gulf Conflict) in HM Prisons, as prison records do not contain data of the type which permits the identification of ex-Service personnel.

Harrier Aircraft

Mr. John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value was of the contracted task raised against the Harrier Post Design Services Contract. [220838]

Mr. Ingram: There are a large number of contracts in place to provide logistic support to the Harrier GR7 and Sea Harrier aircraft and many of these will include provision for Post Design Services (PDS). To separately identify individual contracted PDS tasks would be very time consuming and at disproportionate cost.

Mr. John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the expected in-service date of the Harrier GR9 jet is. [211035]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Hearing Loss

Mrs. Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of whether an additive relationship exists between noise-induced hearing loss and age-related hearing loss; and if he will make a statement. [224846]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence's clinical practice in this area is based on publicly available knowledge that an additive relationship does exist between noise-induced hearing loss and age-related hearing loss. This is based on information in the following references:

King P. F., Coles R. R. A., Lutman M. E., Robinson D. W. (1992) Assessment of Hearing Disability, Whurr Publishers, London

Coles R. R. A., Lutman M. E., Buffin J. T. (2000) Guidelines on the diagnosis of noise-induced hearing loss for medicolegal purposes. Clin. Otolaryngol. 25, 264–273

Copies of these will be placed in the Library of the House.

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed forces are recorded as having sustained noise-induced hearing loss on service in Iraq since March 2003. [223986]

Mr. Caplin: [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Information on specific injuries sustained on Operation Telic is not held centrally, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Helicopters

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place copies in the Library of all (a) reports, (b) memoranda, (c) audits and (d) other evaluations that were produced (i) by Boscombe Down and (ii) on behalf of Boscombe Down during flight trials of the Chinook Mark 2 helicopter, including those covering the engine-control software before 3 June 1994. [218162]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library copies of all (a) reports, (b) documents and (c) memoranda produced by, or on behalf of, Boscombe Down in 1988, concerning software in the Chinook HC2 helicopter. [218191]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 2 March 2005, Official Report, column 1231W, to my hon. Friend the Member for Mid-Sussex (Mr. Soames), on helicopters, whether he expects the Chinook Mark 3 helicopter, including the six aircraft delivered to the UK during 2001–02, to enter service before the planned phasing out of the Mark 2 and Mark 2a Chinooks in 2015 and 2025. [223194]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Heroes Return Programme

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many grants have been made under the Heroes Return scheme to (a) organisations and (b) individuals in Banff and Buchan; and if he will give details of the amounts of the grants. [222018]

Mr. Ingram: To date eight awards to individuals in Banff and Buchan have been made totalling £7,685.00. No organisations have made applications.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people from Chorley have participated in the Heroes Return programme. [221041]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence has been advised by the Big Lottery Fund that to date a total of 61 people (27 veterans, 12 spouses, four widows and 18 carers) from Chorley have participated in overseas commemorative visits funded by the "Heroes Return" programme.

HRH Prince Andrew

Mr. Lyons: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence on how many occasions HRH Prince Andrew has used the Department's vehicles, vessels and planes for private use in (a) 2003 and (b) 2004; and at what cost. [200125]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Illegal Drug Crops

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the cost of military intervention to eradicate the cultivation of illegal drug crops internationally was in each of the last 20 years, broken down by country. [224562]

Mr. Ingram: The United Kingdom has not conducted military intervention operations in any country over the past 10 years to eradicate illegal drug crop cultivation.

Inglis Barracks

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has had with (a) Barnet council and (b) the Mayor of London concerning the future of the site at Inglis Barracks, Mill Hill when it is no longer required by his Department; and if he will make a statement. [211271]

Mr. Ingram: Discussions with the London borough of Barnet as to the future use of the site and the council's intention to establish a Development Framework Agreement for Mill Hill East are in progress. As part of this process, officers from the London borough of Barnet visited the barracks on 10 March 2005, together with representatives from the Greater London authority, Transport for London and English Partnerships.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when his Department will start to market the site at Inglis Barracks, Mill Hill; and if he will make a statement. [211272]

Mr. Ingram: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply given by my hon. Friend, the Under-Secretary of State for Defence (Mr. Caplin) on 24 January 2005, Official Report, column 51W. Decisions about marketing have yet to be made.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to preserve the historic officers' mess building at Inglis Barracks, when British Forces Post Office vacate the premises; and if he will make a statement. [211273]

Mr. Caplin: The future of the Officers' Mess building at Inglis Barracks, once the British Forces Post Office vacates the site, is being considered in conjunction with the local planning authority (and other bodies, including English Partnerships) as part of discussions to formulate a development framework for the site and its surrounds.

The Mill Hill Preservation Society has expressed an interest in purchasing the Inglis Barracks Officers' Mess and the immediate environs for the benefit of the people of Mill Hill.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to ensure a continuation of light industrial use of (a) all and (b) part of the Inglis Barracks, Mill Hill site when it is no longer required by his Department; and if he will make a statement. [211275]

Mr. Caplin: Future uses for the Inglis Barracks site will be identified in the planning framework agreement for the site and adjoining land. This is being commissioned by the planning authority, the London borough of Barnet.

Interrogation/Counter-Resistance Policy

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence for what reason and in what capacity Colonel Chris Terrington saw a version of the CJTF-7 Interrogation and Counter-Resistance Policy document in December 2003. [224892]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) whether the UK officer acting as Deputy Senior Judge Advocate in Iraq advised his superiors in the UK chain of command that interrogation techniques included in the CJTF-7 Interrogation and Counter-Resistance Policy document were (a) inhumane under UK case law and (b) constituted a potential breach of the Geneva Conventions in the view of the Government; [224893]

(2) whether the UK officer acting as Deputy Senior Judge Advocate in Iraq advised the United States authorities that some of the interrogation techniques included in the CJTF-7 Interrogation and Counter-Resistance Policy document were (a) inhumane under UK case law and (b) constituted a potential breach of the Geneva Conventions in the view of the Government. [224894]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the letter to the hon. Member for Carmarthen East and Dinefwr of 31 January 2004 from the Minister of State in his Department (1) what general comments were made by the British Deputy Staff Judge Advocate on the draft of the interrogation and counter-resistance policy document; [217286]

(2) which sections and which drafts of the interrogation and counter-resistance policy were seen by the British Deputy Staff Judge in the Office of Colonel Marc Warren; [217287]

(3) whether the British Deputy Senior Judge Advocate submitted regular reports to his British superiors; [217288]

(4) whether the British Deputy Senior Judge Advocate saw the 12 October update of the interrogation and counter-resistance policy document. [217292]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Iraq

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will ask his United States counterpart to investigate claims made by former US Marine Jimmy Massey that US Coalition Forces in Iraq shot dead unarmed Iraqi civilians at roadblocks in Iraq. [205022]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether private security firms and personnel are employed in the (a) management and (b) running of prisons and detention centres under the control of the UK in Iraq. [208650]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to hold an independent investigation into deaths that have occurred in British custody in Iraq. [209940]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 20 January 2005]: All deaths of Iraqis in British custody in Iraq have been or continue to be subject to rigorous Service police investigation. Where there is a case to answer, individuals will be called to account before an independent court, either military or civilian.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many investigations have been held into deaths and injuries allegedly caused by UK forces in Iraq; and what the status of each investigation is. [209941]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 21 January 2005]: I refer the hon. Member to my answer given on 3 March 2005 Official Report, column 1341W.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many representations have been made to UK military authorities in Iraq by prisoners of war of (a) Iraqi and (b) other nationality in accordance with their rights under article 78 of the third Geneva convention. [211082]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps his Department took to secure the United Nations World Food Programme sites on the outskirts of Basra; what assessment he has made of what was looted from the programme at the site; and if he will make a statement. [211390]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his reply of 18 November 2004, Official Report, column 1830W, on Iraq, when he will write to the hon. Member for Birmingham, Selly Oak. [215336]

Mr. Ingram: I wrote to my hon. Friend on 30 March 2005.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many persons arrested in Iraq by UK forces have been transferred to the custody of the United States. [215477]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether British service personnel have made allegations of mistreatment of detainees by US service personnel at Camp Bucca in Um-Qasr. [215480]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 10 February 2005]: We are not aware of any such claims. Throughout the period that UK detainees were at US Camp Bucca (10 April—15 December 2003) there were two teams of UK service personnel, a UK PW Registration Unit and a Prisoner Monitoring Team. The monitoring team regularly inspected prisoner conditions and monitored family visits and the release of UK prisoners. They did not report any incidents of deliberate detainee mistreatment at the Camp.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what reports (a) Ministers, (b) officials and (c) armed services personnel have received on alleged kidnappings by members of the Badr Brigade in South-East Iraq. [216366]

Mr. Ingram: There have been numerous reports relating to the activities of the Badr Corps that have been seen by the Ministry of Defence.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) whether the British Deputy in the Office of the Senior Judge Advocate in Iraq asked Major George O'Kane to investigate allegations of abuse at Abu Ghraib; [218301]

(2) whether the British Deputy in the Office of the Senior Judge Advocate in Iraq received a copy of the International Committee of the Red Cross working paper based on a visit to Abu Ghraib in October 2003. [218302]

Mr. Ingram [holding answers 25 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his letter to the hon. Member for Carmarthen East and Dinefwr of 31 January, what the remit was of the British Deputy in the Office of the Judge Advocate in the areas of (a) detainees and (b) operational law. [218303]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 25 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent estimate his Department has made of the number of (a) combatant and (b) non-combatant deaths during the conflict in Iraq; and how this number was calculated. [222936]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 21 March 2005]: A total of 76 UK Service personnel have died while serving on Operation Telic, 49 of whom were killed in action. A further 10 are missing believed killed in the C130 crash on 30 January, the cause of the crash is under investigation.

The United Kingdom armed forces do not have the information that would enable a reliable estimate of the total number of combatant or non-combatant Iraqi casualties arising from the conflict to be made. This is because UK military reporting is limited to UK area of operations. But even within the UK area of operations reporting is limited to what troops observe directly or learn from reliable sources.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether any detainees originally captured by UK forces have been detained in Camp Cropper. [223046]

Mr. Ingram: Two high value detainees initially taken into custody by the UK were held at Camp Cropper. Their cases have now been transferred to the Iraq special tribunal, and as such they are no longer being detained under UK authority.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether (a) Ministers and (b) officials of his Department played a part in the preparation of the Iraqi casualty figures released on 29 October 2004 by the interim Iraqi health minister; and if he will place in the Library a copy of the original Iraqi statement. [224002]

Mr. Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

The Iraqi casualty figures were collated and prepared by the Iraqi Ministry of Health. I have placed a copy of the statement in the Library of the House.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if his Department will offer assistance to the Iraqi Government for testing Iraqi citizens who have been exposed to depleted uranium ammunition deployed by the UK in Iraq. [224762]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence (MOD) will provide appropriate advice to the Iraqi Government on testing for Iraqi citizens if requested.

Mr. Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many British troops are under investigation with regard to activities in Iraq but have not yet been charged. [210576]

Mr. Ingram: As at 4 April 2005, 46 members of the armed forces have been reported in relation to incidents where non-UK third parties have allegedly been killed or injured. The bringing of charges against 23 of these is under consideration by prosecuting authorities.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what advice was given to armed service personnel on appropriate material with which to hood prisoners in Iraq prior to the prohibition of this practice. [210890]

Mr. Ingram: The hooding of detainees for the purposes of arrest or transit was used by UK troops when there was a strong military reason to do so, during the early stages of Operation Telic. Sacking material was used to hood the detainees.

The practice of hooding was discontinued when there was no longer a military justification for continuing to do so.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his latest estimate is of the number of (a) UK forces killed, (b) UK forces seriously injured, (c) Iraqi forces killed, (d) Iraqi forces severely injured, (e) Iraqi civilians killed and (f) Iraqi civilians severely injured in Iraq since March 2003. [221419]

Mr. Ingram: 76 UK Service personnel have been killed in Iraq since March 2003 and 10 are missing believed killed. As at 28 February 2005, 2,937 personnel have been medically evacuated, the majority of these are due to illness. The MOD statistics held centrally on personnel medically evacuated since the beginning of Operation TELIC are not broken down into seriously or non-seriously injured or into combat and non-combat injuries prior to August 2004. Between August 2004 and 28 February 2005, 82 Service personnel have been injured in action in Iraq.

There are no wholly reliable and comprehensive figures for Iraqis killed during or since military operations began in March 2003. The Iraqi Minister of Health's most recently released figures, based on records from some 180 hospitals, show that between 5 April 2004, when figures began to be collated, and 1 March 2005, 6,265 Iraqis were killed. The Ministry of Health points out that this figure includes all Iraqis, including civilians, Iraqi Security Forces and insurgents, killed as a result of violence.

The Ministry of Defence does not produce estimates of Iraqi military or civilian casualties. This is because UK military reporting is limited to the UK area of operations. But even within the UK area of operations reporting is limited to what troops see on the ground. Military reporting is therefore incomplete and cannot provide the basis of Iraqi civilian or military casualty estimates.

IT Projects

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list his Department's IT projects in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) amount spent, (b) purpose, (c) cost of over-run and (d) time of over-run. [205785]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

IVF Treatment

Mr. Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence for what reasons IVF treatment is not available to service personnel or their spouses in Germany through (a) his Department, (b) the British Forces Germany Health Service and (c) primary care trusts while they are posted overseas. [223720]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 5 April 2005]: A number of options are available to service personnel and their dependants requiring IVF treatment while posted to Germany:

Although the British Forces Germany Health Service (BFG HS) is not funded for the provision of full IVF and equivalent treatment, it does fund the investigation of infertility and the provision of drug treatments following IVF. This takes place in our primary care facilities or our regional contracted German hospitals. It will also fund correction of any anatomical abnormality that may be causing infertility. In addition Artificial Insemination by Husband (AIH) is available at one of our contracted German hospitals.

A patient can seek private treatment in Germany bearing the full cost themselves. In unusual cases, presenting strong medical/social reasons for IVF treatment, BFG HS may pay for treatment.

If a patient has embarked on investigation or treatment in the UK on a NHS programme and is then posted to Germany, they receive full administrative support, including the provision of transport by air trooper. The MOD also takes a sympathetic view with regard to the posting of personnel while they are undertaking a course of treatment in the UK by deferring the posting if it is the individual's wish and if it is possible to do so.

For patients wishing to return to the UK to begin treatment for IVF, the BFG HS makes use of the excellent facilities offered by a charity based service which is provided at Hammersmith Hospital in London at no cost to the patient or the MOD. In these cases BFG HS authorises transport by air trooper. In other instances where personnel wish to be posted back to the UK and this is supported by their posting authority, they can be referred to their local Primary Care Trust (PCT) in the UK for the duration of the treatment.

The Department is currently re-formulating its policy on IVF treatment to ensure it is consistent with the standards contained in the current National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE) guidelines.

Joint Service Publications

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a list of his Department's extant Joint Service Publications. [213582]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Joint Strike Fighter Programme

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the Joint Strike Fighter programme. [218136]

Mr. Ingram: The Joint Strike Fighter will replace the Harrier GR7 and GR9. The UK is the only Level One partner with the US on the programme. There are seven other nations at lower levels within the System Design and Development (SDD) Phase under an International MOU signed in 2001. The weight difficulties which emerged last year with the STOVL variant have been satisfactorily resolved.

Lancashire Regiment

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on how the new name of the Queen's Lancashire Regiment, King's Own Borderers Regiment and King's Regiment was arrived at. [214542]

Mr. Ingram: The process of restructuring the infantry has been worked through by the Army who consulted widely. Colonels of individual regiments were directly involved in the consultation process through the Colonels Commandants of the Divisions of Infantry. As part of this process those infantry divisions affected by the changes were asked to suggest options for new regimental titles. Of the options put forward by the King's Division, the proposed title of the "King's, Lancashire and Border Regiment", was felt by the Executive Committee of the Army Board to best reflect the antecedent regiments from which it will be drawn.

Leasing

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the equipment leasing arrangements entered into by his Department in each of the last two years; and what the cost is to public funds in each case. [200810]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Lockheed F-22

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what representations the Department has received from the United States on purchasing the Lockheed F-22. [218137]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

MARS Project

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the progress of the MARS project. [216102]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 21 March 2005, Official Report, column 572W, to the hon. Member for Blaby (Mr. Robathan).

Medals

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) campaign and (b) war medals have been issued in each of the last five years; and how many of each were made of (i) silver and (ii) cupro nickel. [204989]

Mr. Caplin: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 10 January 2005, Official Report, column 76W.

Military Abuse (Investigation)

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the terms of reference are of the general investigation into abuse announced by General Sir Mike Jackson on Friday 25 February. [212344]

Mr. Hoon [holding answer 3 March 2005]: The review announced by the chief of the general staff (CGS) will be wide- ranging and will involve extensive consultation both within and beyond the Army and the Ministry of Defence. Presently the review is looking at three main strands: doctrine (particularly the preparation of personnel for all tasks and scenarios they may face); secondly, officer and non-commissioned officer training and performance; and the disciplinary system. Its scope will be widened if new issues arise from any further cases which may come to trial. It will also examine issues surrounding recent and current investigations into individual training.

The Terms of Reference for the review are as follows:

1. You are to consider what measures need to be taken in order to safeguard and improve the Army's operational effectiveness in the light of:

(a) Allegations of abuse in Iraq[1].

(b) Criticism in the House of Commons Defence Committee and Adult Learning Inspectorate reports on the training organisation, and other relevant reports into Deepcut.

2. You are to consider issues of both substance and perception, in the short and long term.

3. You are to take your direction from assistant chief of general staff, and are to make recommendations as required, reporting formally in three and six months time, through assistant chief of the general staff to chief of the general staff.

4. You are to consult as necessary with:

(a) MOD—Director general media and communications, deputy chief defence staff (personnel) and Iraq secretariat.

(b) HQ's adjutant general and LAND (including appropriate legal staffs).

(c) Permanent joint headquarters.

(d) Royal Navy and RAF.

(e) Chief of the general staffs briefing team, the continuous attitude survey, other sources of internal and external data.

5. Where necessary you are authorised to communicate with the media under normal media rules.

[1] This will require, among other things, detailed scrutiny of issues arising from Iraq related abuse trials.

Military Bodies (Funding)

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the grant in aid for the (a) Royal Navy Sports Board, (b) Army Sports Board, (c) Royal Air Force Sports Board, (d) Association of Royal Navy/Royal Marine Families and (e) Army Families Federation was for financial years 1997–98 to 2003–04. [221978]

Mr. Ingram: The grants in aid were as follows:

£000

	1997–98	1998–99	1999–2000	2000–01	2001–02	2002–03	2003–04
Royal Navy Sports Board	62	84	108	149	25	96	258
Army Sports Board	315	259	263	264	316	306	317
Royal Air Force Sports Board	104	15	42	70	139	99	122

Ministerial Visits

Mr. Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the official engagements that he has undertaken in the UK in the last three months on which he has been accompanied by the local hon. Member; and what the costs were of each visit. [219655]

Mr. Hoon: In the last three months I have undertaken the following official engagements at which the local hon. Member was present:

25 January

Visit to the Royal Monmouthshire Royal Engineers (Militia)

Huw Edwards MP

Cost-Nil

8 February

Repatriation Ceremony at RAF Lyneham

James Gray MP

The cost of the RAF BAe 146 aircraft which was used to transport all the senior MOD officers and officials who attended the ceremony, including the Secretary of State, was £1,835.

24 February

Visit to RAF Cosford and the Defence Storage and Distribution Agency

Peter Bradley MP

It was necessary to use a Royal Navy Jetstream aircraft to transport the Secretary of State plus officials, at a cost of £1,153, as road or rail travel did not allow time to complete morning engagements in London, as well as to undertake this programme.

28 February

FSTA preferred bidder announcement at AirTanker, Broughton and visit to Raytheon, Broughton

Mark Tami MP

Cost—Nil

Navigational Aids

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's expenditure on naval navigational aids was in each of the last 10 years for (a) Northern Ireland, (b) England and Wales, (c) Scotland and (d) each military port in the UK. [224604]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Caithness, Sutherland and Easter Ross (John Thurso) on 17 November 2004, Official Report, column 1536W.

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what research he has conducted into the provision of naval navigational aids for (a) military ports and (b) other Ministry of Defence maritime installations in the UK. [224605]

Mr. Ingram: None.

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what representations he has received from (a) other Government Departments and (b) Trinity House regarding the provision of naval navigational aids by providers other than his Department; [224606]

(2) what consultations he has had with (a) public and (b) private sector bodies regarding the provision of navigational aids for military ports by other providers within the UK; [224607]

(3) if he will make a statement on the result of the assessment phase undertaken for the long term public-private partnership/private finance initiative acquisition programme for the future provision of marine services. [224608]

Mr. Ingram: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Caithness, Sutherland and Easter Ross (John Thurso) on 16 November 2004, Official Report, column 1288W. Since then, the two UK registered bidders have each submitted two proposals; one for the complete scope of work and one incorporating, as a partner, the MOD's royal maritime auxiliary service who, together with Serco Denholm, are responsible for the current services through a Government owned-contractor operated arrangement. On current plans, a preferred bidder will be announced by the end of the year.

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence, what recent assessment he has made of the value for money of the present arrangements for provision of navigational aids at naval installations. [224934]

Mr. Ingram: I refer to hon. Member to the answers I gave today on OD arrangements for the provision of navigational aids were last tested in 2001, following the submission of a proposal from another Government Department. The scope of the present arrangements has been included in the Statement of Requirement for the PPP/PFI acquisition programme competition that is currently being carried out for the future provision of marine services and will form the benchmark against which the value for money of the four proposals will be assessed.

Newspapers/Periodicals

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the (a) newspapers and (b) periodicals taken by his Department in each year since 1997; and how much the Department spent on each in each year. [207644]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Nuclear Weapons

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to alter the alert status of British nuclear weapons. [224982]

Mr. Hoon: None.

Oil for Food Programme

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions took place between the military authorities in the UK and their counterparts in (a) Russia, (b) France and (c) China before the military action in Iraq of 2003 concerning the interruption of the Oil for Food programme. [220758]

Mr. Hoon: We have been unable to locate any records that indicate discussions concerning the interruption of the Oil for Food programme took place between the military authorities in the UK and their counterparts in Russia, France and China before the military action in Iraq of 2003.

Overseas Deployments

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether British service personnel have been deployed or seconded to (a) Guantanamo Bay, (b) Guam and (c) Diego Garcia since 1994. [206226]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the projects being undertaken by his Department in respect of which information cannot be given in answer to parliamentary questions as a result of commercial confidentiality. [216533]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will answer the questions, reference (a) 204944 and (b) 204945 tabled for answer on 13 December 2004. [219726]

Mr. Ingram: In respect of parliamentary question 204945 my hon. Friend, the Under-Secretary of State for Defence (Mr. Caplin) replied to the hon. Member on 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1144W, and on 3 March 2005, Official Report, column 1342W, in respect of parliamentary question 204944.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will reply to question reference (a) 217452 tabled on 18 February and (b) (i) 201842, (ii) 201845 and (iii) 201832 tabled on 30 November 2004 by the hon. Member for Hereford. [222339]

Mr. Caplin: I replied to the hon. Member today.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will answer questions reference (a) 219028, (b) 219029, (c) 219030, (d) 219031, (e) 219032, (f) 219033 and (g) 219034 tabled on 24 February. [224473]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 4 April 2005]: I replied to the hon. Member today.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects to reply to the question tabled by the hon. Member for the Isle of Wight for answer on 21 March 2005, reference 222937. [224971]

Mr. Caplin: I am answering the hon. Member's question today.

Porton Down

Matthew Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many war pensions have been awarded since 1 January 2002 to service personnel who took part in experiments at the chemical defence establishment, Porton Down; and which of these are attributable to the experiments. [205184]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what (a) production and (b) testing on animals of botulinum toxin takes place at (i) Porton Down and (ii) other Departmental establishments. [216463]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what investigation there has been as to what manuals, documents, other materials, and information Dr. Wouter Basson of South Africa was given during and subsequent to his visit to Porton Down in 1985; and if he will make a statement. [217707]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which employees of Porton Down visited South Africa in the period from 1975 until the collapse of the apartheid regime; for what purpose; and if he will make a statement. [217708]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what records his Department has retained relating to pre-1975 visits to South Africa by employees of Porton Down. [217709]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Post Traumatic Stress Disorder

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what arrangements have been made for soldiers in Perth constituency suffering from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder following their tour of duty in Iraq. [224116]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Information on arrangements for personnel suffering from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), further to their tour of duty in Iraq, cannot be broken down into specific geographical areas.

In-patient treatment for service personnel returning from Iraq and suffering from PTSD is provided through the MOD's contract with the Priory Group for the provision of all in-patient mental health care services for the MOD across the UK.

Prisoners of War

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether (a) detainees, (b) security internees and (c) enemy prisoners of war in Iraq transferred by British forces to the United States military have been subject to any form of sensory deprivation. [218259]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many reports he has received from the (a) UK Prisoner of War Registration Unit and (b) Prisoner Monitoring Team at Camp Bucca. [223311]

Mr. Ingram: None. The UK Prisoner of War Registration Unit and the Prisoner Monitoring Team, both at Camp Bucca when it held prisoners for whom the U.K responsibility, reported to Multi-National Division (South East).

Private Contractors

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions have taken place with private contractors on replacing work currently undertaken by departmental staff. [217599]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 24 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Procurement

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many procurement contracts were entered into by his Department in each year since 1981 in which (a) Northrop Grumman Corp and (b) a subsidiary of Northrop Grumman Corp was designated as (i) the prime contractor and (ii) subcontractor; and if he will make a statement. [224516]

Mr. Ingram: A list of the number of contracts entered into by the Department in each year since 1981 in which (a) Northrop Grumman Corp or (b) a subsidiary of Northrop Grumman Corp acted as (i) the prime contractor or (ii) subcontractor cannot be given in full as departmental records are only available from 1991 onwards. In addition, information relating to subcontracts is not held centrally by the Department and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. However, the company has provided information on numbers of subcontracts relating to UK subsidiaries, although this covers a limited period from 2000 onwards.

According to departmental records the number of contracts entered into by the Department in each year since 1991 in which (a) Northrop Grumman Corp or (b) a subsidiary of Northrop Grumman Corp acted as the prime contractor is listed in the following table.

	Number of contracts
1991 (Part year)	1
1992	3
1993	1
1994	3
1995	8
1996	5
1997	7
1998	9
1999	10
2000	9
2001	5
2002	7
2003	13
2004	12
2005 (Part year)	0

The company has confirmed that since 2000, approximately 17 subcontracts were entered into in which (a) Northrop Grumman Corp or (b) a subsidiary of Northrop Grumman Corp (registered within the UK) acted as subcontractor to other primes.

Puma Aircraft

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library copies of the Airworthiness Review Report into the Puma aircraft. [220171]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the right hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

QinetiQ

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the potential for conflicts of interest where QinetiQ is competing for departmental contracts; and if he will make a statement. [216692]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what role QinetiQ plays in (a) testing and (b) evaluating the effectiveness of military training programmes. [216693]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Queen's Lancashire Regiment

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the Queen's Lancashire Regiment were issued with the aide memoire on the law of armed conflict; and on what dates. [215478]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) representations, (b) letters and (c) petitions opposing the merger of the Queen's Lancashire Regiment were received by his Department; how many signatures there were in each case; whether that information was presented to the Army Board; and how many board members voted on each side in the decision on the merger. [224969]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

RAF Defensive Aid Suites

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the technology of the in-service Defensive Aid Suite. [217414]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

RAF Leeming

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) military and (b) civilian personnel are employed at RAF Leeming. [222512]

Mr. Ingram: There are approximately 1,570 Service and 280 civilian posts at RAF Leeming.

Recruitment

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list by nation and region of the UK selection figures for each of the services for the most recent year for which figures are available. [214414]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 2 February 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government have established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of his Department. [220192]

Mr. Caplin: The Ministry of Defence has not established any regional bodies, institutions, taskforces, panels, offices or organisations since 1997. This reflects the nature of the Department's work.

Religious Counsellors

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what the limits are of confidentiality offered by the Padre or religious counsellor in an Army barracks setting; what (a) guidelines and (b) advice are available to newly appointed officers regarding the limits of such confidentiality; and what provisions are made for periodic advice on the subject to be given to such appointees through the chain of command; [217674]

(2) on how many occasions in the past five years complaints have been made concerning the Padre or religious counsellor in (a) Catterick, (b) Deepcut,

(c) Bullingdon barracks and (d) HMS Lympstone; what disciplinary action was taken in each case; and what the outcome was of that action; [217675]

(3) if he will place in the Library the advice and directions regarding confidentiality and complaints concerning bullying that have been given through the chain of command to the Padre or religious counsellors at Catterick barracks. [217676]

Mr. Caplin: All welfare work, including that conducted by Chaplains or religious counsellors, is conducted within the Army code of confidentiality, information about which is widely available throughout the Army.

The core element of the code of confidentiality is the legal and professional obligation not to disclose "private information" about another without consent. There are however exceptional circumstances when information can be disclosed, and in some circumstances must be done so without an individual's consent. These are:

Where there is a risk of harm to the individual or others

In order to prevent a serious criminal act

If there is a serious contravention of military law

If there is, or likely to be, a serious breach of national security

If the soldier is no longer able to carry out his/her duty (and not disclosing would have a detrimental effect on operational effectiveness)

There have been no formal complaints in the last five years against Chaplains at any of the establishments listed.

Research

Mrs. Anne Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and what percentage of opportunities for research and consulting disseminated by his Department resulted in (a) research reports and (b) physical deliverables in (i) 2001–02, (ii) 2002–03 and (iii) 2003–04. [202180]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Resource Account Codes

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library his Department's resource account codes for financial years 2001–02 to 2003–04. [221979]

Mr. Ingram: Yes.

Resource Budgeting

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether additional civil servants were employed to deal with resource budgeting in the Department. [218134]

Mr. Caplin: Some 2,400, mainly finance and information technology, staff were engaged in the implementation of resource accounting and budgeting in the MOD over the period 1996 to 2001. It is not, however, possible to distinguish accurately between those posts which were additional and those which had been redeployed from legacy processes and systems.

Royal Anglian Regiment

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether it is his intention to post the (a) 1st and (b) 2nd Battalion of the Royal Anglian Regiment for tours of duty in Iraq in the next 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [224909]

Mr. Ingram: The 1st Battalion The Royal Anglian Regiment will be deploying to Iraq in the forthcoming weeks to undertake a six month tour. There are no current plans to send the 2nd Battalion The Royal Anglian Regiment to Iraq in the next 12 months.

Royal Army Dental Corps

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the (a) manning levels and (b) activities of the Royal Army Dental Corps. [211421]

Mr. Ingram: Manning levels for the Royal Army Dental Corps (RADC) as at 1 February 2005 are shown in the following table against the establishment.

	Establishment	Strength
Officers	180	170
Soldiers	270	240
Total	450	410

Note:
Figures rounded to the nearest 10.

The principal activities of the RADC are: force preparation, (ensuring that the Army is dentally fit for operational task); support to deployed forces on operations, including support to the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force as appropriate; and the provision of an NHS equivalent service to forces dependants based overseas. The RADC operates in all base locations worldwide and all operational theatres.

Royal Irish Regiment

Mr. Peter Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer of 14 December 2004, Official Report, column 1010W, on the Royal Irish Regiment, if he will provide the information available on the average working hours for the junior rank operational soldiers of the Royal Irish Regiment. [211473]

Mr. Ingram: Information on the average working hours specifically for junior rank operational soldiers of the Royal Irish Regiment could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

DASA carry out a continuous sample survey of working patterns which provides an estimate of the average working hours per person, per week, for each service, but the Royal Irish Regiment (Home Service) are not included and the sample is insufficient to report on average working hours at the level of detail requested.

The results of the 2003–04 survey gave an estimate of an average of 47.1 "hours worked" per week for all regular trained junior ranks in the Army.

"Hours worked" includes time spent carrying out normal work, secondary duties, compulsory fitness training, organised sports and representational activities but excludes meal and tea breaks and time spent on call.

Royal Navy

Mr. Nicholas Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he last assessed the needs of the Royal Navy for fleet auxiliary support; what the present (a) provision and (b) demand are assessed to be; and what forecast his Department has made of future demand. [210691]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to my right hon. Friend in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will define what is meant by (a) normal support and (b) reduced support for Royal Navy ships. [221396]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 14 March 2005]: Normal support is the best possible support to FLEET units within the Defence Logistics Organisation's current ability.

Under reduced support, health and safety demands will be met and certain operational capabilities will also be fully maintained.

Sea King Helicopters

Mr. Viggers: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the implications for Royal Naval Aircraft Yard Fleetlands of the Government's proposals for the servicing of Sea King helicopters. [225031]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Sergeant Paul Connolly

Mr. McNamara: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the outcome of the investigation into the death of Sergeant Paul Connolly at Shaibah logistic base on 26 December 2004 was; on what date a Board of Inquiry was opened; where and on what date the funeral was; and whether there will be an inquest. [215700]

Mr. Ingram: The Service police investigation into the death of Sergeant Paul Connolly has not yet concluded. A Service Board Inquiry to examine the circumstances surrounding his death was convened on 28 January 2005.

The funeral arrangements are a matter for Sergeant Connolly's next of kin. The decision to hold an inquest is a matter for HM Coroner.

Space Technology

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what financial contribution his (a) Department and (b) non-departmental public bodies made to civil space technology in 2004–05; and what financial provision has been made for the period 2005–06 to 2009–10. [200545]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Sudan 1

Mr. Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether (a) the Food Standards Agency, (b) the Health Protection Agency, (c) the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, (d) the British Retail Consortium and (e) the Institute of Grocery Distribution Emergency Planning Liaison Group have had discussions with DSTL Porton Down in connection with contamination of the food chain by Sudan 1 dye; and if he will make a statement. [218625]

Mr. Ingram: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Surface Combatants

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1995–6W, on surface combatants, if he will list the members of the Surface Ships Support Study. [223563]

Mr. Ingram: In order to comply with our obligations to protect the identity of individuals, we will not be releasing the names of the members of the Surface Ship Support Study. This is consistent with the principles of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Sustainable Timber

Mr. Breed: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list the refurbishment projects in his Department that (a) are in progress and (b) will start in the next six months; what action is being taken to ensure that these will procure timber from legal and sustainable sources; and whether guidance will be issued to contractors on each of these projects to ensure that the timber used on site during refurbishment also comes from legal and sustainable sources. [200576]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Swan Hunter

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 3 February 2005, Official Report, column 1017W, on Swan Hunter, what the technical difficulties were; what the costs associated with each one were; whether there were technical difficulties relating to inaccuracies in measurements; and if he will make a statement. [220432]

Mr. Ingram: Swan Hunter's design for the LSD(A) vessels was based upon the modification of the Enforcer Class concept design by the Dutch Royal Schelde shipyard, which was itself based upon the proven HNLMS Rotterdam. The company's successful bid for the design and construction of the first two ships was to adapt this existing concept design to meet the Statement of Requirement specified in the MOD's Invitation To Tender. The company subsequently encountered difficulties in adapting the design to the UK specification as the concept itself and the modifications needed were shown not to be as mature as they had previously believed. This underestimation of the degree of design work needed resulted in additional work that had not been costed in the company's bid. In September 2003 when the full scale of the additional work became clear the company announced that it would be unable to complete the contract without an adjustment to the original price. The £84 million contract amendment agreed in December 2004 reflected the additional cost to the company needed to complete the programme and was awarded only after full consideration of the options, from which the MOD assessed that the contract amendment offered the optimum value for money solution in the delivery of the LSD(A) capability. In addition to the £84 million needed to address the Swan Hunter design difficulty, £3 million has been added since the start of the contract to address design changes as a consequence of Naval and statutory safety requirements that were not fully defined at the time of the original contract placement. The MOD is unaware of any significant difficulties relating to inaccuracies in measurements.

Taskforces

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on taskforces and similar bodies in each year since 1997. [204886]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 20 December 2004]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Tornado Crash

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the complete RAF Board of Inquiry into the crash of RAF Tornado F3 ZH558 on 1 September 1994. [219357]

Mr. Ingram: I believe the right hon. Member may be confusing two different accidents. Tornado F3 ZH558 crashed in Cyprus on 8 July 1994, and on 1 September 1994 a Tornado GR1A crashed in Scotland.

My hon. Friend the Under-Secretary of State for Defence replied to the right hon. Member on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1671W, about the crash which occurred on 8 July 1994, and on 8 March 2004, Official Report, column 1674W, about the crash which occurred on 1 September 1994.

Training Courses

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) cost to the Department, (b) title and (c) location was of each training course organised by his Department for its staff in each financial year since 1997–98. [200387]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what financial penalties were paid in each financial year since 1997–98 to training providers by the Department for training courses prepared for its staff which were subsequently cancelled at the Department's request. [200407]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Trident

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence in which countries the arming, fusing and firing system components of Trident nuclear warheads are manufactured; and if he will make a statement. [214243]

Mr. Hoon: I am withholding the information requested as it relates to national security.

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) in which countries the (a) neutron generators and (b) the gas reservoirs of Trident nuclear warheads are manufactured; and if he will make a statement; [214244]

(2) in which countries the gas reservoirs for Trident nuclear warheads are filled with tritium; and if he will make a statement. [214245]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him on 8 July 2004, Official Report, columns 829–30W, by my right hon. Friend the Minister of State for the Armed Forces (Mr. Ingram).

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether nuclear material related to the Trident nuclear system is transported through Glasgow; and through which Scottish (a) constituencies and (b) local authorities nuclear material related to the Trident nuclear system has passed in each of the last five years. [218337]

Mr. Hoon: It is not Ministry of Defence policy to comment upon the timings or routes used during the transportation of nuclear material related to the Trident nuclear system as this would prejudice national security. However, I can confirm that nuclear material related to the Trident system may be transported through those areas as detailed in the publicly available Local Authority and Emergency Service Information (LAESI) Document.

UK Military Lawyers

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will list UK military lawyers who have been based in Iraq since the start of recent military operations; and what the role and function has been of each. [210353]

Mr. Ingram [holding answer 24 January 2005]: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Veterans Agency

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much of its personnel budget for financial years (a) 2002–03 and (b) 2003–04 the Veterans Agency spent in Scotland (i) in monetary terms and (ii) as a percentage of the total personnel budget; and if he will make a statement. [214252]

Mr. Caplin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Veterans Lapel Badge

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence for what reasons veterans of Suez and other conflicts since the Second World War are ineligible to receive the Veterans Lapel Badge inscribed with the words HM Armed Forces Veterans; and if he will take steps to include this group of former servicemen and women amongst those eligible for this badge. [222937]

Mr. Caplin [holding answer 21 March 2005]: All veterans who served in the First or Second World Wars, and widow(er)s whose spouse served during those wars and died as a result of service in the armed forces and who are accordingly in receipt of a war widow(er)'s pension are currently entitled to receive a Veterans Badge. Also, with effect from 1 February 2005 servicemen and women who now leave the Service, subject to certain conditions, are also entitled.

When the demand from World War veterans has been satisfied, we plan to extend eligibility to other veterans as resources allow. It is envisaged that this will be done on a chronological basis, dealing first with veterans of the inter-war years and those who served in the 1940s after the end of the Second World War. Veterans who served in the 1950s, which includes those who served in Korea and Suez, will be included in the following tranche.

Vote Registration (Service Men)

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what action his Department has taken to increase the number of servicemen that are registered to vote. [220210]

Mr. Caplin: As I assured the hon. Member for Chichester during the Adjournment debate on 8 December last year, we have worked closely with the Electoral Commission to improve awareness in the service community of the options to register to vote.

The answers to the hon. Member for Mid-Sussex (Mr. Soames) on 21 December 2004, Official Report, column 1575W, and the hon. Members for North Wiltshire (Mr. Gray) and Southend, West (Mr. Amess) on 10 January 2005, Official Report, column 13, and 7 February 2005, Official Report, column 1169, respectively to questions during the Defence Debates, also explained that an internal information campaign began at the end of January.

A Joint Service Defence Council Instruction providing full information and practical help to service personnel on how to register and explaining the various voting options open to them was also published at the same time.

Welsh Language Scheme

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department's Welsh language scheme was approved by the Welsh Language Board; and on what date the scheme was implemented. [211329]

Mr. Ingram: The Ministry of Defence's Welsh language scheme was approved by the Welsh Language Board on 15 June 1999 and came into being on that date. Except where otherwise agreed with the Welsh Language Board, the commitments in the scheme were implemented from the date it was approved.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

China

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to the Chinese Government on the rights of religious minorities; and if he will make it his policy to exert pressure on China to increase religious freedom. [213231]

Mr. Rammell: We are concerned about religious freedom in China, including the treatment of religious minorities, and monitor the situation closely. During his most recent trip to China in January 2005 my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised progress on the ratification of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which contains provisions on freedom of conscience and religion. The case of house church leader, Pastor Zhang Rongliang, was also discussed.

We raise a number of concerns about religious freedom at our biannual UK/China Human Rights Dialogue, the last round of which was held in Beijing on 22 November 2004.

Constitution for Europe

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a copy of the proposed Constitution for Europe available in every public library in the United Kingdom. [224895]

Mr. MacShane: A copy of the commentary on the treaty establishing a constitution for Europe has been sent to all central libraries and European Public Information Centres in the UK. The commentary contains the full text of the treaty itself as well as an introduction and analysis of the text, line by line. The full text of the EU constitutional treaty and commentary are available free at www.europe.gov.uk.

Correspondence

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Totnes of 1 February 2005 about transporting a fishing boat hull mould from RAF St. Mawgan to Sri Lanka. [220885]

Mr. Alexander [holding answer 9 March 2005]: I regret the delay, however the hon. Member's letter was transferred to the Department for International Development. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development replied to the hon. Member on 4 April.

David Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when the hon. Member for Walsall, North will receive a reply to his letter of 26 January regarding a constituent, reference GV100/97610/MD. [224771]

Mr. Mullin: A reply to my hon. Friend was sent on 6 April. I apologise for the delay in responding.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he intends to answer the letters from the right hon. Member for Manchester Gorton, with regard to (a) Mr. Rashid, dated 14 February, (b) Mrs. Iqbal, dated 18 January, (c) Mrs. B. Reid, dated 23 February, (d) Mr. Fernando, dated 18 January and (e) Hira Khalid, dated 19 January. [224866]

Mr. Mullin: In regards to my right hon. Friend's correspondence concerning Mr. Rashid, Mr. Fernando and Mrs. B. Reid, I refer my right hon. Friend to the reply I gave him on 6 April 2005, Official Report, column 1486W.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary replied to my right hon. Friend's letter of 18 January concerning Mrs. Iqbal on 6 April.

I replied to my right hon. Friend's correspondence on Hira Khalid on 1 April.

Disaster Victim Identification

Sir Robert Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what procedures he has established for disaster victim identification following a major overseas incident. [224855]

Mr. Mullin: It has not proved possible to respond to the hon. Member in the time available before Prorogation.

Ethiopia

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Ethiopian Government in (a) 2004 and (b) 2005. [224829]

Mr. Mullin: We hold regular discussions with the Ethiopian Government. I have spoken with Ethiopian Prime Minister Meles on many occasions since the beginning of 2004, most recently on 24 February 2005. These discussions have focused on a range of issues, including: the Ethiopia-Eritrea Border Dispute, human rights, poverty reduction and the forthcoming Ethiopian parliamentary elections on 15 May.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the human rights situation in Ethiopia. [224830]

Mr. Mullin: We continue to have concerns about the human rights situation in Ethiopia. In the Memorandum of Understanding we signed with Ethiopia in January 2003, the Government of Ethiopia made a commitment to protect the full range of human rights of all Ethiopians, especially the poor. We are supporting the implementation of this commitment through our regular dialogue with the Ethiopian Government, as well as carefully monitoring their performance.

EU Constitution

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 23 March 2005, Official Report, column 891W, whether the Government have requested that (a) the European Parliament and (b) other institutions of the European Union do not intervene or fund activities in the referendum on the EU Constitution. [224993]

Mr. MacShane: The European Parliament (EP) and European Commission have a legitimate role in the provision of objective and factual information on the EU and its activities. This role must of course respect the constitutional and democratic processes of the member states. The Government have been in contact with the EP and the Commission about the provision of information on the EU Constitutional Treaty, including in relation to the referendum, and will continue to liaise with them on these issues.

European Funding

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will list projects for which the Department has provided joint funding with the European Commission and other institutions of the European Union during the past five financial years; and what funding is planned for such projects in this financial year [221375]

Mr. MacShane: [Pursuant to the reply on 4 April 2005, Official Report, c. 1089–90W]: My answer of 4 April to the hon. Member was incorrect. The correct answer should read as follows:

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has worked together with various European institutions on a number of projects in the last five years.

In October 2003, the FCO and European Commission jointly organised the "Europe United" football tournament as part of the plans to celebrate EU enlargement. In early 2004 the FCO produced with Commission support booklets explaining the benefits of EU enlargement that were sent to the nine English regions and the devolved administrations. On 24 April 2004, there was "Europe Day—Meet the Neighbours"—a jointly organised FCO-Commission project which celebrated EU enlargement.

The European Parliament funded jointly with the FCO a number of Wilton Park conferences: The European Union's Strategic Priorities (14–16 September 2000); Reforming the Governance of the European Union: Towards an ever closer EU? (22–24 October 2001); How Can Parliamentarians Best Re-Engage the Public? (9–12 June 2003); The Future of Europe: What kind of Institutional and Security arrangements do we want (September 2002). In addition, the European Parliament hired an Exhibition Space at the Europe Day.

The FCO and EU institutions also jointly fund a number of development projects outside the UK.

No jointly-funded projects are currently planned for this year, with the exception of FCO development projects.

Guatemala

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what assessment he has made of the human rights situation in Guatemala since the election of President Oscar Berger; [224889]

(2) what representations have been made to the government of Guatemala regarding the 1996 Peace Accords concerning human rights and commitments made to the international community at the 2003 Consultative Group meeting. [224890]

Mr. Rammell: When I visited Guatemala in January 2004 I stressed the importance of human rights issues with the new Vice President and other members of the government. We and our EU partners continue to encourage the Guatemalan government to implement in full the 1996 Peace Accords. Our Embassy follows the human rights situation closely and enjoys close relations with human rights organisations in Guatemala. We are presently supporting projects that are seeking to bring to justice the perpetrators of human rights abuses as well as promoting reconciliation.

Although Guatemala's civil war ended in 1996, serious questions about respect for human rights in Guatemala remain. However, we have noted the positive efforts President Berger has made since his inauguration on 14 January 2004 to tackle human rights problems in Guatemala. His first public act was to declare his commitment to the 1996 Guatemalan Peace Accords and on 25 February 2004 he announced the establishment of a new national commission to oversee their implementation. These include undertakings to compensate the surviving family members of massacres that took place during the conflict. President Berger has also appointed a respected human rights campaigner, Frank la Rue, to his Cabinet as the Head of the Presidential Commission on Human Rights.

Iain Hook

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what information he has provided to the BBC about the shooting of Iain Hook by the Israeli Defence Force in Jenin. [224904]

Mr. Mullin: This was a high-profile case and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office Press Office may well have handled requests for information from the BBC. The Press Office does not, however, keep records of all contact with the media and we cannot therefore confirm what information was provided to the BBC.

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Israeli government about the shooting of Iain Hook in Jenin. [224905]

Mr. Mullin: Representations were made to the Israeli Government at the highest level about the shooting of Iain Hook. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary spoke to the Israeli Foreign Minister on 22 November 2002 and my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister raised it with Israeli Prime Minister Sharon on 29 November 2002.

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what contribution he has made to United Nations inquiries into the shooting of Iain Hook in Jenin. [224906]

Mr. Mullin: The United Nations conducted their own independent investigation into the death of Iain Hook. We liaised with all appropriate authorities on behalf of the Hook family, including the United Nations and the Israeli Government, in trying to secure a satisfactory resolution to the case.

Illegal Drugs

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the total value was of UK aid to supplier countries donated with the specific intention of eradicating the cultivation of illegal drugs in each of the last 20 years; and to which countries such aid was given. [223706]

Mr. Rammell: The total value of UK aid to Afghanistan on eradication in financial year 2004–05 was £2,695,008. Various options for eradication aid are being worked up for 2006 and a decision will be taken in June 2005.

In 1994 the UK supplied two helicopters for use by the Pakistani anti-narcotics force (ANF) to assist with opium poppy eradication and other operational counter narcotics activity in Pakistan. Figures are not immediately available for the cost of the purchase of the helicopters. Since 1994, we have supported the ANF to the sum of approximately £1.4 million to help service and maintain the aircraft for use for the same purposes.

Iran

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations the Government have made to the Iranian Government on human rights. [224915]

Mr. Rammell: Promoting human rights is an important element of UK and EU policy towards Iran. We press the Iranian authorities frequently on general issues and on individual cases of particular concern. In recent months, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary, my right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, and I have all discussed human rights with the Iranian ambassador in London. I did so on 7 February. With our support, EU representatives called on the Iranian Ministry of Foreign Affairs on 24 November and 21 December 2004 to discuss specific cases. Recent representations have focused on the sentencing of juvenile offenders, the rights of religious minorities and freedom of expression.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what occasions and for what purpose he has visited Iran in the last two years; whom he met on each occasion; and what matters were discussed. [224920]

Mr. Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has visited Iran twice in the last two years. In June 2003, he met President Khatami; the Foreign Minister, Dr Kharrazi; and the Secretary General of the Supreme National Security Council, Dr Rouhani. The subjects discussed included UK/Iran bilateral issues, Iran's nuclear programme, terrorism and Iraq. In October 2003, my right hon. Friend visited Iran with his French and German colleagues to discuss Iran's nuclear programme. He again met President Khatami, Dr Kharrazi and Dr Rouhani.

Iraq (Legal Advice)

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what requests he has received from the parliamentary ombudsman to release details of when Ministers first sought advice on the legality of military action to invade Iraq; what response was made; and if he will make a statement. [224001]

Mr. Rammell: We have received a report from the ombudsman dated 11 February 2005, recommending that we release the date on which the Government first sought legal advice about the legality of military action against Iraq to the noble Lord, Lord Lester of Herne Hill QC. However, we have declined to comply with this recommendation on the grounds that the release of this information would harm the frankness and candour of internal discussion.

Israel

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2005, Official Report, column 459W, on Israel, whether Minister Paz-Pines gave an indication of what the level of a certain age is above which he expects Palestinians to be allowed to be reunited with their families when the citizenship and entrance to Israel law is reviewed on 31 May. [224711]

Mr. Rammell: Minister Paz-Pines did not give an indication of the age above which he expects Palestinians to be allowed to be reunited with their families when the citizenship and entrance to Israel law is reviewed on 31 May.

Kenya

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what measures he is taking to restitute to the Kenyan Government funds invested in the UK by the Khmer Moi regime. [224052]

Mr. Mullin: We do not comment on individual requests for mutual legal assistance, but I understand that we are currently considering four cases regarding Kenya. We take seriously all allegations of corruption and misuse of public funds and will be very happy to assist with any further requests we receive from the Kenyan Government.

Legal Assistance

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what provision his Department makes for assistance to UK citizens encountering long delays in legal actions in other EU countries. [224853]

Mr. Mullin: Under international law we cannot interfere in on-going legal proceedings in another country. Our own proceedings are similarly protected.

However, where there are unreasonable delays in criminal proceedings overseas in a case involving a UK national, we may consider, on a case by case basis, whether it would be appropriate to raise the issue with the state concerned. We would take into account any relevant information from the individual's lawyer before doing so.

Maajid Nawaz

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations the Government have made to the Egyptian authorities concerning the detention of Maajid Nawaz and others in prison in Cairo. [224919]

Mr. Mullin: My right hon. and noble Friend the Baroness Symons of Vernham Dean, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, last raised the cases of Majid Nawaz, Ian Nisbet, and Reza Pankhurst with the Egyptian Foreign Minister on 9 March. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office remains in touch with all the men's families and will inform them immediately of any developments.

Mrs. Inna Isaacs

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects an independent adjudicator to hear the appeal of Mrs. Inna Isaacs from Brixham, Devon; and if he will make a statement on the time taken to set a date for the hearing. [224705]

Mr. Mullin: I regret that I cannot provide this information, as it is not our practice to disclose details of individual entry clearance cases in a public forum. I have, however, written to the hon. Member.

Non-proliferation Treaty Review Conference

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will attend the forthcoming Non-Proliferation Treaty Review Conference. [221359]

Mr. MacShane [holding answer 21 March 2005]: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary will not be present at the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty Review Conference in May, but he has asked John Freeman (the UK Permanent Representative to the Conference on Disarmament) to head the UK delegation.

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of whether there is a need to strengthen the nuclear non-proliferation treaty to ensure that signatory states are not able to exploit the treaty by obtaining nuclear technology under the guise of a peaceful civilian nuclear energy programme. [223321]

Mr. MacShane: The United Kingdom supports the efforts being made by a number of bodies to consider how to ensure that nuclear technology acquired under Article IV of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty (NPT) cannot be diverted to weapons programmes, either while a state is still party to the treaty, or following withdrawal from it. We hope to continue this discussion at the upcoming NPT review conference in May, and are working towards an outcome which strengthens the non-proliferation regime to deal better with these challenges.

Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what response he (a) has made and (b) plans to make to the request by his Indian counterpart on 28 March that the nuclear weapons states party to the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty agree to irreversible and verifiable cuts in their nuclear arsenals as a condition of India signing the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty. [224694]

Mr. MacShane: The Government, including Ministers, have frequent contact with their Indian counterparts and are familiar with India's views on nuclear proliferation matters, including Natwar Singh's speech at the Conference on "Emerging Nuclear Proliferation Challenges" held in Delhi on 28 March. The Government were not represented at this conference and is not intending to make a response to Mr. Singh's speech. Mr. Singh's speech gives no indication that India is willing to become a State Party to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty which, by the terms of the treaty, they can only do as a non-nuclear weapon state.

Services Directive

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the proposed EU Directive on Services. [224992]

Mr. MacShane: The European Council of 22–23 March 2005 underlined that a fully operational internal market in services is vital to promoting growth and employment, and to strengthening competitiveness.

The services sector in Europe contains vast untapped potential—services account for over two-thirds of EU GDP, but for only 20 per cent. of intra-EU trade. Independent analysis from Copenhagen Economics predicts that the draft Services Directive could create 600,000 jobs.

As my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister made clear in his Statement to the House on the European Council on 24 March 2005, Official Report, columns 1013–1015, the services directive will be at the heart of the next phase of the Lisbon programme. Negotiations are still at an early stage—we will work closely with the EU institutions and with our European partners to address genuine concerns and to build a broad consensus as anticipated in the council conclusions.

Sudan

Mr. Dawson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the post of UK Special Envoy to Sudan. [224326]

Mr. Mullin: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary announced on 12 February 2002 the creation of the position of UK special representative for Sudan, to support the peace process in Sudan, and in particular the negotiations on the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA). The CPA was signed on 9 January this year, following intense work by the special representative with both sides to that conflict.

The present special representative will leave his post at the end of April. The UK remains committed to peace throughout Sudan, and we will ensure the strong continuation of our engagement in implementation of the CPA, and maintain and strengthen our engagement in the resolution of the conflict in Darfur. We are currently reviewing the position of UK special representative.

Tariq Aziz

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what access Tariq Aziz has had to his lawyers Emile Ludot and Mathieu Faupin in the last 12 months. [224981]

Mr. Rammell: Tariq Aziz has a named counsel of record registered with the Iraq Special Tribunal (IST). This counsel of record is an Iraqi national and qualified member of the Iraqi bar. He is free to see his client providing one of them makes an official request for access. M. Emile Ludot and M. Mathieu Faupin are not registered as co-counsel with the IST. Nor have requests to visit Mr. Aziz, who they claim is their client, been received from them by the IST. It has not proved possible to obtain official confirmation of the number of occasions Mr. Aziz has seen his registered lawyer since he was detained in the time available before Prorogation. However, it is believed that two visits have taken place, one meeting being in private and one meeting at the initial hearing before the investigative judge.

Terrorism

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will list the sources of information on terrorist violence that were used for each organisation proscribed under the Terrorism Act 2000. [224297]

Mr. Charles Clarke: I have been asked to reply.

It is not the policy of the UK Government to discuss intelligence matters.

However, all information supplied on proscribed organisations will be evaluated very carefully, and decisions to proscribe or deproscribe are taken after careful consideration of all relevant aspects.

Uganda

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether his Department has made representations to the Ugandan authorities regarding the statement by the Defence Minister Amama Mbabazi in Pyongyang that North Korea deserves to defend itself by any means, including nuclear weapons. [218268]

Mr. Mullin: We have made no representations to the Ugandan authorities on this matter.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the ability of the forum for democratic change to operate freely in Uganda. [218270]

Mr. Mullin: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Boston and Skegness (Mr. Simmonds) on 8 March 2005, Official Report, column 1796W.

Mr. Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has made representations to the Ugandan authorities regarding the visit by the Ugandan Defence Minister

Amama Mbabazi to Pyongyang and his statement that North Korea deserves to defend itself by any means, including nuclear weapons. [218289]

Mr. Mullin: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock) today (UIN 218268).

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what action his Department has taken to counter the Lord's Resistance Army campaign in Northern Uganda. [224950]

Mr. Mullin: We have received a large number of representations from non-governmental organisations and concerned individuals regarding efforts to combat the Lord's Resistance Army campaign and end the conflict in Northern Uganda. We are working closely with other members of the international community to this end.

The British Government believe that the northern Uganda problem cannot be resolved solely through military action. Since late 2004, the UK, along with a number of other countries and international organisations, has been backing a local initiative to end the conflict through mediation. This is led by a former Government Minister for Northern Uganda, Betty Bigombe. The process is continuing.

[1] New member
[2] Member whose appointment runs only to 31 December 2005

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how members of the Advisory Committee on the Misuse of Drugs are appointed. [224167]

Caroline Flint: The Advisory Council on the Misuse of Drugs (ACMD) is a statutory and non-executive non-departmental public body, established by the Misuse of Drugs Act (MDA) 1971.

Members of the ACMD, of whom there should be not less than 20, are appointed by the Secretary of State for a term of three years and in accordance with the guidance issued by the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments. Nominations come from a wide range of sources including relevant professional bodies, Public Appointments Unit of the Cabinet Office and self-nomination. Under the terms of the MDA 1971 the ACMD is required to include representatives of the practices of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine and pharmacy, the pharmaceutical industry, and chemistry (other than pharmaceutical chemistry); and members who have a wide and relevant experience of social problems connected with the misuse of drugs.

Professor Sir Michael Rawlins was first appointed to the chair of the ACMD in October 1998 for a period of four years. His tenure was extended to a second term, which is due to expire in December 2005. Sir Michael is an effective and respected chairman. He is a Professor of Clinical Pharmacology at the University of Newcastle and chair of the National Institute for Clinical Excellence (NICE).

Membership currently stands at 36, including the Chair. The ACMD has recently undergone a membership appointments process and the current term of office for members began on 1 January 2005. It will expire on 31 December 2007.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will increase the number of scientific specialists on the Advisory Committee on the Misuse of Drugs. [224168]

Caroline Flint: The Home Secretary may only appoint additional members to the Advisory Committee on the Misuse of Drugs (ACMD—as a Non-Departmental Public Body) subject to the normal membership recruitment process, approved and monitored by the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments.

I am content that the range of professions, and levels of expertise on the ACMD is suitable.

Where the ACMD requires additional information, or would value further opinions, it has the authority to, and frequently does, invite expert witnesses to present to its meetings, and contribute to its understanding of an issue. If it feels that such input would be valuable in the longer term, it may co-opt additional members to its sub-committees or working groups.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make provision for independent testing of the validity of the review process used by the Advisory Committee on the Misuse of Drugs. [224169]

Caroline Flint: The Advisory Council on the Misuse of Drugs (ACMD) is an independent body whose members are experts or leading practitioners in their field.

We have no intention to make provision for independent testing of the validity of the review process of the ACMD because we believe in the integrity of the council and its individual members, and are confident that the advice we receive from them is of the highest quality.

Airsoft BB Guns

Tony Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will take steps to ban the use of airsoft BB guns. [225024]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Alcohol-related Crime

Ross Cranston: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to his answer of 10 January 2005, Official Report, column 266W, on alcohol-related crime, if he will break down the number of defendants by region; what assessment he has made of the reasons for the increase in the number of defendants selling intoxicating liquor to persons under 18 between 2002 and 2003; and if he will make a statement. [210739]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Antisocial Behaviour

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what measures his Department is introducing to divert youngsters from antisocial behaviour. [212322]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Anti-Semitism

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what action his Department has taken since publication of the Community Security Trust Anti-Semitic Incidents Report 2004 to combat anti-Semitism. [223022]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Linda Perham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of levels of anti-Semitism. [223998]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Antisocial Behaviour

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on (a) the effectiveness of his Department's policies to combat antisocial behaviour in Lancashire and (b) the Report telephone helpline. [216058]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects to respond to the petition that was presented to him on his recent visit to Thirsk regarding local concerns over antisocial behaviour. [222697]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of the anti-social behaviour orders that have been breached were given to people under 18 years of age. [223055]

Ms Blears [holding answer 21 March 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Anti-terrorism Legislation

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were detained under anti-terrorism legislation in each year since 1975; how many were (a) UK and (a) non-UK citizens; how many of those detained were subsequently charged with (i) terrorist and (ii) other criminal offences; and how many were deported. [224857]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how frequently the Secretary of State or responsible Ministers have personally reviewed the certification of individuals detained under the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001; and on what date the case of "C" was last considered by the Secretary of State. [215036]

Mr. Charles Clarke: The individual cases of those certified under the Anti-Terrorism Crime and Security Act 2001, Part 4 powers were kept under regular review and I was kept fully informed of any developments in the individual cases.

My last consideration of "C's" case was on 31 January, when following a meeting with the Security Service, I decided that his certificate should be revoked.

In the case of "C" I revoked the certificate because there was a change in circumstance that related to his specific case. At the time of his certification under the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001 (ATCSA) in December 2001, he was a leading UK member of the proscribed Egyptian terrorist group, the Egyptian Islamic Jihad (EIJ). Prior to his detention, "C" was active on behalf of the EIJ in Egypt, Ireland and the UK. "C" had an extensive network of associates among international terrorists in the UK and overseas. His contacts included prominent international terrorists from a range of organisations. However, although a number of "C's" associates remain at liberty, many have now been detained and/or their extremist activities have been disrupted. This has lessened the potential for "C" to re-engage in his previous activities to a degree that I believed it was no longer appropriate to maintain the certificate.

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what date he, or officials in his Department, started to review the case of prisoner "C", then being held in Woodhill Prison; what new information led him to decide to release prisoner "C"; and on what dates reviews of the cases of other prisoners being detained under anti-terrorist legislation in Belmarsh Prison, began. [215037]

Mr. Charles Clarke: The individual cases of those certified under the Anti-terrorism Crime and Security Act 2001, Part 4 powers were kept under regular review and I was kept fully informed of any developments in the individual cases.

My last consideration of "C's" case was on 31 January, when following a meeting with the Security Service, I decided that his certificate should be revoked.

In the case of "C" I revoked the certificate because there was a change in circumstances that related to his specific case.

Assaults on Police Officers

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers in each police force in England and Wales were assaulted in each of the last five years. [208272]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Asylum and Immigration

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum seekers whose applications for asylum in the UK had failed were convicted of a criminal offence in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) offence and (b) country of origin. [223716]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 4 April 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals residing illegally in the UK have been charged with criminal offences in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) category of offence and (b) country of origin. [223717]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 4 April 2005]: This information is not recorded centrally.

Alistair Burt: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on the finding by the Prisons Ombudsman that an official in the Immigration and Nationality Directorate considered that reasoned debate on the target of 30,000 removals of failed asylum seekers in 2001–02 was forbidden. [206168]

Mr. Browne: In 1996, the Government of the day introduced a new civil service code which set out the framework in which civil servants work.

Staff may raise matters of concern if they feel they are being asked to act or abstain from acting which raises a fundamental issue of conscience. This should be raised with a senior officer. There is also provision for staff to raise matters of conscience within the Home Office with a nominated officer who is outside their usual management line.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum seekers have been refused benefit payments and housing support from the National Asylum Support Service in (a) Leicester and (b) Leicester, South in each year since 2002. [224828]

Mr. Browne: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Badgers

Mark Tami: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the (a) maximum, (b) minimum and (c) average sentences given to individuals convicted of offences involving the baiting and mistreatment of badgers was in each of the last five years. [211880]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mark Tami: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals were convicted of offences involving the baiting or mistreatment of badgers in each of the last five years. [211881]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Births (Public Funds)

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the number of babies born to mothers without recourse to public funds in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [224535]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Border Guard Dogs

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many dogs are used for the purposes of securing the UK's borders. [221862]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

BREAM

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which Building Research Establishment Environmental Assessment Method (BREAM) certificate will be awarded to the new Home Office buildings in 2 Marsham Street; and what the assessment of the new building was against each indicator of the BREAM ranking. [205340]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Burial and Cemeteries Working Group

Alistair Burt: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects to (a) publish the responses and (b) respond to the consultation on the burial and cemeteries working group; and if he will make a statement. [214484]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Cannabis

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the impact reclassification of cannabis has had on (a) England and Wales and (b) the Ribble Valley. [221982]

Caroline Flint: Government figures on prevalence of cannabis use available for any period since reclassification come primarily from the British Crime Survey (BCS). The BCS for 2003–04 shows cannabis use for 16 to 59-year-olds who have taken the drug in the last 12 months to be at 10.8 per cent. The figure for 2002–03 was 10.9 per cent. In addition, the BCS figures show cannabis use declining steadily among 16 to 24-year-olds between 1998–2004 from 28.2 per cent. to 24.8 per cent.

Cannabis was reclassified on 29 January 2004 to a Class C drug under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971. Smoking, drinking and drug use among young people in England in 2004 contains the preliminary key findings of a survey of secondary schoolchildren aged 11 to 15. The figures show a decline in cannabis use in the last year from 13 per cent. in 2001 to 2003 to 11 per cent. for 2004.

There are no centrally held figures on the impact of cannabis reclassification in the Ribble Valley.

Caravans

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what directions he has given to police forces regarding the checking of (a) transponders on suspected stolen caravans and (b) the Caravan Registration and Identification Scheme Vehicle Identification Number. [223225]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many caravans were stolen in (a) 2004, (b) 2003 and (c) 2002; and how many were subsequently recovered. [223228]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Change up Programme

Mrs. Lait: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for projects the Department has received under the ChangeUp Programme; what the total value is of the projects so submitted; how many projects have been approved; how much and what percentage of the budget for the programme has been committed; and how much money has been disbursed. [219022]

Fiona Mactaggart: ChangeUp is a capacity building framework for the voluntary and community sector, launched in June 2004 after extensive consultation with the sector. It is underpinned by an £80 million initial investment programme by Government available until March 2006.

The £80 million initial investment by Government have now been enhanced by an additional £70 million for the financial years 2006–07 and 2007–08.

Initial activity has been slow due to the need to put in place sustainable sector led decision making mechanisms. Good progress is now being made on the delivery of the ChangeUp investment plan.

Local and Regional Spend

£52.4million (65 per cent. of the total investment) has been allocated to local and regional activity to support voluntary and community sector infrastructure and capacity building. This money has been committed to the Government Offices for distribution.

National Spend

£1.25million of national spend was committed through an early spend programme. This was heavily oversubscribed with 506 applications submitted in open bidding. Twenty two projects were successful with an additional five projects also commissioned. £1 million has been disbursed.

£24million of the main spend programme was allocated to national activity. £4.9 million of this money has been committed for/seven projects and £0.8 million has been disbursed.

Overall Programme

£57.4 million (72 per cent. of the £80 million investment has been committed. The 2003–04 spend was £2.2 million and the 2004–05 spend to date is £6.9 million making a total spend of £9.1 million at the end of January 2005.

Community Support Officers

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) whether grant funding of community support officers will continue; and whether the costs of community support officers will be met from the police precept; [221142]

(2) what assessment he has made of the role targeted grant funding through the neighbourhood policy fund plays in recruiting and retaining police community support officers in North Yorkshire. [221143]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of the 20,000 community support officers the Government proposes to recruit by 2008 are to be posted in Leicester; and if he will make a statement. [224663]

Ms Blears It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Community-based Sentences

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many community-based sentences have been breached in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) type of sentence and (b) offence committed. [217730]

Paul Goggins: I have arranged for the available information, for the years 1997 to 2003, to be placed in the House Library.

Statistics for 2004 will be published in the latter part of this year.

Consultants

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much expenditure his Department has incurred in each year since 2002 on employing external consultants to deal with the press and public relations of his Department; and if he will make a statement. [199905]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the total expenditure by his Department on external consultants was in (a) 1996–97 and (b) 2003–04, and what the estimated cost of external consultants will be in (i) 2004–05, (ii) 2005–06, (iii) 2006–07 and (iv) 2007–08. [211560]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Control Orders

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether individuals subject to control orders will be entitled to receive compensation for loss of livelihood. [216835]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether accommodation will be provided for homeless individuals issued with a control order. [216837]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Lilley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list the security agencies which advised the Government that control orders were necessary to control international terrorism, broken down by date on which the advice was given. [223345]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 22 March 2005]: I have had regular discussions with the Security Authorities and the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police on a range of security issues, including proposals for the revision of counter terrorism legislation in the light of the House of Lords judgment on 16 December.

Convention on Regional and National Minorities

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to prepare a report for the Council of Europe concerning (a) all aspects of the items raised and (b) the collective view of all other relevant Government Departments in respect of its framework convention on regional and national minorities. [213124]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 1 February 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Coroners

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average time between death and inquest in the jurisdiction of the Coroner for Cleveland was in 2004; and what the average time between death and inquest was in other coroners' jurisdictions in (a) the north east and (b) England and Wales in that year. [207491]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 10 January 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Coroners' Courts

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether he plans to hold a review of the (a) operation and (b) scope of coroners' courts; and if he will make a statement. [223926]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 4 April 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Credit/Debit Cards

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment he has made of the impact of the changeover from signature to chip and PIN credit and debit cards and its effect on consumers; what discussions his Department has had with the banking and credit card industries on this matter; and if he will make a statement; [223873]

(2) what assessment he has made of the effects on the (a) banking and (b) retail industries of the changeover from signature to chip and pin debit and credit cards. [223874]

Ms Blears [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Chip and PIN is a major finance and retail industry anti fraud initiative. The introduction of chip and PIN has been managed by the chip and PIN Programme Management Organisation, and actively supported by Government.

Following a successful public trial, national roll out of the scheme began in October 2003 with the aim that by 2005 a majority of plastic card transactions should be chip and PIN. The chip and PIN programme announced earlier this year that it reached all its 2004 targets for the roll out with customer research demonstrating that 71 per cent. of cardholders expect their next transaction to be chip and PIN and 45 per cent. now using it for all or most of their card payments.[1]

I last met with representatives from the programme in November 2003 and Home Office officials maintain regular contact with the finance and retail industry.

It is currently too early to assess the effects of chip and PIN in preventing credit card fraud. The impact of chip and PIN on card fraud is expected to be seen early in 2005 and hence will first be reflected in the APACS mid-year card fraud figures to June 2005, which will be available in the summer.

Departmental Budget

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the planned (a) capital and (b) resource budget for his Department is for 2011–12. [223431]

Fiona Mactaggart: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 4 April 2005, Official Report, column 117W by the Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

Departmental Costs

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost has been of criminal damage to his Department's buildings in each of the last two years. [200758]

Fiona Mactaggart: Central records are not generally held. The estimated damage caused by the disturbance earlier this year at Harmondsworth removal centre is approximately £2.5 million. This is expected to be covered by the operator's insurance.

Following indiscipline incidents causing damage the opportunity was taken to carry out upgrades to parts of Lincoln prison (£2.6 million in 2002–03) and Wetherby prison (£2.3 million mostly in 2004–05).

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list the equipment leasing arrangements entered into by his Department in each of the last two years; and what the cost is to public funds in each case. [200770]

Fiona Mactaggart: Information held by the Home Office on equipment leasing arrangements entered into by the Department in each of the last two years is as follows:

n/a denotes not available

Stationery figures include bulk paper purchased to print HMPS headed paper stationery, compliments slips, information booklets and leaflets used within HMPS internal industries, purchased from James McNaughton Ltd.

Office Supplies includes all printer and copier paper and office supplies purchased by all Home Office departments using the Guilbert/Office Depot contract. From 2002, the figures include spend on computer consumables.

Departmental Expenditure

Mr. George Osborne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much the Department spent on lawyers in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) number of actions, (b) number of settlements, (c) number of court cases and (d) the costs of each settlement. [206451]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Deportation

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were subject to deportation orders in each year since 1997, broken down by country of origin. [223718]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Information on the total number of deportation orders made between 1997 and 2000 is shown in table 1. From 2001 this information is not available. Deportations are a specific subset of removals alongside persons subject to administrative removal or removal due to illegal entry action.

Table 1: Deportation orders made

	Deportation orders made[1]
1997	1,220
1998	1,020
1999	660
2000	760

[1] Data rounded to the nearest 5.

A breakdown of those subject to deportation orders by country of origin is also not available; however table 2 shows a broad-nationality breakdown of persons removed as a result of deportation action from 1997 to 1999. Data from 2000 onwards are unavailable due to data quality issues.

Table 2: Persons removed from the United Kingdom as a result of deportation action[1,2] by nationality, 1997–99

United Kingdom

	1997	1998[3]	1999[3]
Europe (including EEA)	350	355	355
Americas	290	295	335
Africa	510	420	290
Indian Sub-continent	240	185	130
Other Asia	130	90	80
Oceania	20	10	10
Other nationalities	*	5	5
All nationalities	1,550	1,360	1,210

[1] Figures for years prior to 1999 exclude persons known to have departed "voluntarily" after enforcement action had been initiated against them.
[2] Figures rounded to the nearest 5, where * = 5 or fewer.
[3] Nationality breakdowns are estimates.

Information on the number of people deported from the UK in 2004 will be available from August on the Home Office's Research Development and Statistics website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of people subject to deportation orders in each year since 1997 were successfully deported by the authorities. [223719]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 4 April 2005]: Information on the proportion of people subject to deportation orders who were successfully deported is not available, as persons who received deportation orders in a period are not necessarily deported in the same period. Data on the number of persons removed from the United Kingdom as a result of deportation action are shown in table 1.

Deportations are a specific subset of removals alongside persons subject to administrative removal or removal due to illegal entry action.

Table 1: Persons removed from the United Kingdom as a result of deportation action, 1997 to 2003

United Kingdom

	1997	1998	1999[1]	2000[1]	2001[2]	2002[2]	2003[3]

Principal asylum applicants[6]	460	350	140	145	85	100	—
Of whom:
Non-asylum cases	1,620	1,380	1,075	1,140	365	315	—

[1] Deportation figures may be under-recorded in 1999 and 2000.
[2] Figures for 2001 and 2002 have been estimated.

[3] Data were not of sufficient quality for publication in 2003, however it is estimated that 480 persons were removed as a result of deportation action in this year. Due to poor data quality this is not an official statistic.
[4] Figures rounded to the nearest 5.
[5] Including persons known to have departed "voluntarily" after enforcement action had been initiated against them.
[6] Persons who had sought asylum at some stage. Excludes dependents of asylum seekers.

Information on the number of people deported from the UK in 2004 will be available from August on the Home Office's Research Development and Statistics web site at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html

Dip Sampling Process

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what further safeguards have been built into the dip sampling process since 2003; [207330]

(2) how compliance with the "The Investigation of Historic/Institutional Child Abuse: The SIO handbook" is assessed; [207510]

(3) what role the Inter-agency Strategic Management Group has in historic sex abuse operations; [207454]

(4) if he will make a statement on the use of the Gudjonsson Suggestibility Scales in historic sex abuse investigations; [207509]

(5) what discussions his Department has had with the Association of Chief Police Officers regarding the documentation and written recording of police interviews with complainants and other significant witnesses in historical sex abuse cases; and what the outcome was of those discussions; [207518]

(6) what research he has conducted into (a) SCAN and (b) other techniques for assessing the validity of statements for use in historical sex abuse cases; [207519]

(7) if he will make a statement on the advice provided by the Association of Chief Police Officers Investigative Interviewing Group to police forces on statement validity analysis techniques for use in historical sex abuse investigations; [207520]

(8) what changes have been made to the guidelines for investigations into historical sex abuse, to take account of the establishment of the National Centre for Policing Excellence. [210001]

Ms Blears: The Government's Response to the Home Affairs Committee's Report published in April 2003 indicated that the Senior Investigations Handbook already included guidance that the Senior Investigating Officer in any individual case should always record, as a matter of routine, justification for using the dip sampling or investigation method for making initial approaches to former residents of care homes. This serves as a guide and is not mandatory therefore neither the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) nor Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) would make a routine assessment as to compliance therein.

The Association of Chief Police Officers has established a multi-agency working group to review the SIO Handbook which was produced in 2002, the group includes officials form the Home Office. That review group has cognisance of all recommendations made by the Committee and in particular on-going concerns raised by my hon. Friend and will ensure amendments in line with police investigative policy. This will include adding further safeguards to the initial approach for evidence as considered by the group similarly for recordkeeping. I understand that the Chair of that group has now invited my hon. Friend to present her concerns to the group in person.

It is not clear to which Inter-agency strategic management group my hon. Friend refers.

The Home Department is not aware of the Gudjohnsson, SCAN or any other statement validity assessment tools for use in cases involving historical child abuse. The work of the ACPO SIO Manual review group is still in progress: it has not issued any guidance on the use of such tools in investigating complex cases of historical child abuse.

Detention Centres

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many places there were in each detention centre in each year since 1997; and what occupation rates were in each centre. [218808]

Disability and Race Discrimination

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what representations he has received concerning non-compliance with the disability and race discrimination legislation; [214266]

(2) what incentives there are for local authorities to enforce the disability and race discrimination legislation. [214267]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Disaster Victim Identification

Sir Robert Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what procedures he has established for disaster victim identification in the event of a major incident in the UK. [224856]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Domestic Violence

Vera Baird: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will ask the joint Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) and Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary team which produced the report Violence in the Home to re-inspect the police and CPS teams which were criticised to ensure that they have implemented the recommendations. [207497]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many incidents of domestic violence have been reported to the Metropolitan police in each of the last three years. [209254]

Ms Blears: The number of domestic violence incidents reported to the Metropolitan Police Service in each of the last three years are set out in the table:

	Number of reported domestic violence incidents
2001–02	90,974
2002–03	104,000
2003–04	106,879

The rise in figures from 2001–02 to 2002–03 is attributable to the introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard in April 2002. This system changed the way in which police record crime with the aim of promoting greater consistency between force recording. This had the effect of increasing the amount of crime recorded.

Drink Driving

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the number of occasions on which drivers drove while above the legal alcohol limit in (a) 1979, (b) 1997 and (c) the most recent year for which figures are available. [225023]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Drinking Banning Orders

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how the proposed drinking banning orders will be used and enforced. [216756]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Driving Offences

Mr. Wilshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what date (a) he and (b) each Minister in his Department first saw a copy of the published version of the Review of Road Traffic Offences involving Bad Driving. [215180]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 8 February 2005]: Copies of the final version of the consultation paper were delivered to the Department at 8 am on Thursday 3 February and distributed to Ministers thereafter.

Mr. Wilshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what date copy for the document on Road Traffic Offences involving Bad Driving was delivered to the printers; and on what date finished copies of the document were received from the printers. [215185]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 8 February 2005]: The final version of the consultation report on the Review of Road Traffic Offences involving Bad Driving was sent to the printers on Tuesday 1 February. Finished copies of the paper were received by the Department at 8 am on Thursday 3 February.

Drugs

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) men and (b) women have been charged with drug offences in magistrates courts within the Greater London area in each of the last three years. [209927]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the levels of drug-related crime in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK were in each year since 1997. [222558]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps his Department is taking to reduce the number of reported drug overdose deaths. [206977]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment his Department has made of the consequences of prolonged cannabis use. [220683]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what research has been conducted on the dangers of crystal meth. [220684]

Caroline Flint: I refer my hon. Friend to my reply of 14 March 2005, Official Report, column 42W.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of inmates in prisons in England and Wales were serving sentences for drug-related convictions in each year since 1975; and what the cost was of accommodating the inmates. [223702]

Paul Goggins: The population in prison establishments in England and Wales under an immediate custodial sentence for drug offences as a percentage of the total population under an immediate custodial sentence, in each year since 1976, is provided in the table. Information is not available for 1975.

The Prison Service does not collect data relating to the costs of keeping prisoners in custody by offence type, nor does it retain information readily to hand on costs as far back as 1975. However the overall cost per prisoner for 2003–04 was £25,718 in public sector prisons and £25,377 in contracted out prisons.

These figures exclude headquarters overheads, including the cost of capital on all Prison Service land and buildings plus the cost of depreciation on buildings.

Information for Scotland and Northern Ireland would be a matter for my colleagues at the Scottish Executive and Northern Ireland Office.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate has been made of the cost of provision of x-ray scanning and ultrasound equipment to be used on persons arrested under suspicion of possessing Class A substances, as set out in the Drugs Bill. [211233]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the most recent estimate his Department has made of the cost of the illegal drugs trade to the UK economy in a year. [223700]

Caroline Flint: Estimates of the costs of the illegal drugs trade are not available. However, a recent study published by the Home Office provides estimates of the total economic and social costs of Class A drug use in England and Wales and puts these in the range of £10.1 to £17.4 billion for the year 2000. Total economic costs, or reactive expenditure, is estimated to fall within a range of £2.9 billion to £5.3 billion in 2000.

Note:

The full report "The Economic and Social Costs of Class A Drug Use in England and Wales, 2000" is available in the Library or from the RDS website at the following address: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs/hors249.pdf

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many drug-related offences occurred in England and Wales in each of the past 10 years; and how many of these crimes were classified as (a) trafficking or dealing and (b) possession. [223701]

Ms Blears: There are no figures available specifically on drug-related crime. The available information relates to recorded offences of trafficking and possession in England and Wales and is published in Table 2.04 of "Crime in England and Wales 2003/04", Home Office Statistical Bulletin 10/04. A copy of this publication is available in the Library and it is also on the Home Office website at: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/crimeew0304.html.

Information for Scotland and Northern Ireland are matters for the respective Secretaries of State.

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate his Department has made of the number of people regularly using (a) heroin, (b) cocaine, (c) cannabis and (d) alcohol in England and Wales in each of the last 10 years; and how many of the regular users of each of these are regarded as addicts. [223704]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how levels of cannabis use have changed since the declassification of the drug to class C; and if he will make a statement. [220923]

Caroline Flint: Government figures on prevalence of cannabis use available for any period since reclassification come primarily from the British Crime Survey (BCS). The BCS for 2003–04 shows cannabis use for 16 to 59-year-olds who have taken the drug in the last 12 months to be at 10.8 per cent. The figure for 2002–03 was 10.9 per cent. In addition, the BCS figures show cannabis use declining steadily amongst 16 to 24-year-olds between 1998–2004 from 28.2 per cent. to 24.8 per cent.

Cannabis was reclassified on 29 January 2004 to a class C drug under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971. Smoking, drinking and drug use among young people in England in 2004 contains the preliminary key findings of a survey of secondary schoolchildren aged 11 to 15. The figures show a decline in cannabis use in the last year from 13 per cent. in 2001 to 2003 to 11 per cent. for 2004.

eBay

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether his Department sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website, in each year since 2000–01. [220955]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 9 March 2005]: The Home Office has not sold any surplus stock on the eBay auction website since 2000–01.

All disposals of surplus stock in the Department should be undertaken by procurement staff and subject to procedures consistent with obtaining best value for money. Surplus stock should be sold as soon as possible and obtain the best possible prices where appropriate by public auction or tender.

Electronic Tagging

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many probationers were electronically tagged in (a) Southend, (b) Essex and (c) England and Wales in each year since tagging commenced; and if he will make a statement. [221466]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Emergency Works (Scotland) Act

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will discuss with Ministers in the Scottish Executive the effectiveness of the Emergency Works (Scotland) Act 2005 with a view to assessing the merits of introducing similar legislation in England and Wales. [224111]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 4 April 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Engagements

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list his official engagements over the last six months; who was present at each meeting; what the (a) date and (b) location was of each meeting; what issues were discussed; and what plans he has to establish a public register of such information. [202395]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Dalyell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list his official engagements between 1.40 pm and 8 pm on Wednesday 23 February. [218678]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

EU Committees

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many times during the (a) Italian, (b) Irish and (c) Dutch presidency of the EU the Committee for the implementation of the community action programme on preventive measures to fight violence against children, young persons and women (Daphne) met; when and where these meetings took place; what UK Government expert was present; and if he will make a statement. [214777]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

European Arrest Warrant

Ms Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests have been made in the UK under the European arrest warrant. [224145]

Caroline Flint: The framework decision on European arrest warrant came into force in the UK on 1 January 2004. From its coming into force until the 31 March 2005, there have been 67 arrests in the UK under the European arrest warrant.

European Communities Projects

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on the projects that have operated in the UK since 1997 under the communities funding line judicial co-operation between national judges, as re-advertised in Official Journal C13 volume 48 of 19 January. [222419]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

European Public Bodies

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on the activity of Eurojust in the UK in the last 12 months; and if he will list its publications and newsletters published over that period. [215215]

Caroline Flint: Eurojust is the EU judicial cooperation unit located in the Hague, which facilitates coordination of investigations and prosecutions of serious cross border crime cases in the EU. The Government welcome both the success that Eurojust has had in meeting these core objectives and its significant role in the fight against organised crime.

Eurojust comprises a college of 25 national members, (one from each member state). The national members elected their president who is the UK national member. In 2004 there was a significant increase in the involvement of the UK authorities with Eurojust. The UK team at Eurojust received 42 cases from UK authorities requesting assistance. The UK team received 68 files from other member states requesting assistance from UK authorities. Cases involved a range of offences including drug trafficking, illegal immigrant smuggling, money laundering and murder.

The UK team has regular meetings in the United Kingdom with colleagues from Government Departments, investigating and prosecuting authorities. Casework co-ordination and co-operation meetings take place regularly at Eurojust's premises. Eurojust also provided oral evidence for the 2004 House of Lords inquiry into the work of Eurojust. A number of publications related to Eurojust are deposited in the United Kingdom Parliament including the 2003 Annual Report and the European Court of Auditors report on the Eurojust accounts for 2003. Eurojust publications, information and materials are available on the Eurojust website www.eurojust.eu.int .

Faith Communities

Mr. Connarty: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what grants the Department has made to organisations linked to faith communities in each of the last three years; and for what purposes. [224187]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Firearm Offences

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many recorded firearm offences there were (a) in Leicester and (b) in England and Wales in each year since 1997. [222787]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 21 March 2005]: Information for Leicester is not collected centrally. The available statistics for England and Wales are published in Table 2.03 of "Crime in England and Wales 2003–04: Supplementary Volume 1: Homicide and Gun Crime", Home Office Statistical Bulletin 02/05. A copy of this publication is available in the Library and also on the Home Office website at: http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/hosbpubs1.html.

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many injuries have been caused by (a) air rifles and (b) handguns in (i) Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside, (ii) the North East and (iv) England and Wales in each year since 1997. [223366]

Caroline Flint: The available information is given in the tables.

Data collected centrally for recorded crime involving firearms in England and Wales is only available at police force level. Information for the Jarrow constituency and South Tyneside is therefore included in data for Northumbria police.

Data for offences involving air rifles are incorporated within the figures for offences invoiving air weapons.

Firearms offences were published on a calendar year basis up to 1997, and on a financial year basis thereafter.
There was a change in the counting rules for recorded crime on 1 April 1998 and the National Crime Recording Standard was introduced nationally on 1 April 2002. Figures for some crime categories may have been inflated by these changes.

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been killed by a handgun in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) England and Wales in each year since 1997. [223367]

Caroline Flint: The available information is given in the table.

Graffiti

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps his Department is taking to ensure that perpetrators of graffiti receive appropriate punishments; and how many people in Southend were prosecuted for graffiti in each of the last five years. [224682]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Guantanamo Bay Detainees

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what basis the Royal Prerogative was used in the decision to refuse Martin Mubanga and Feroz Abbasi British passports. [217978]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Gun Control

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will take steps to restrict the availability of ammunition for guns to ensure that it is only used for permitted uses. [224136]

Caroline Flint: It is an offence for a person to possess, purchase or acquire any ammunition to which section 1 of the Firearms Act 1968 applies without holding a firearm certificate in force at the time, or otherwise than as authorised by such a certificate or in quantities in excess of those so authorised. It is also an offence for a person to fail to comply with the conditions subject to which the certificate is held.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the Government's policy is on gun control; and if he will make a statement. [224143]

Caroline Flint: We are determined to have a regulatory framework controlling the possession of firearms which is robust, preventing guns getting into the wrong hands and allowing legitimate shooters to pursue their sport without danger to public safety. We already have some of the toughest gun controls in the world and we are currently considering the large number of responses we received to the consultation paper we issued last year to ensure that the framework remains appropriate for modern circumstances.

Gun Crime

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) gun crimes and (b) arrests relating to gun crime there were in (i) England and (ii) each police force area in each year since 1997. [223729]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 24 March 2005]: The number of gun crimes recorded by police in England and Wales is shown in the table. The introduction of the National Crime Recording Standard nationally in April 2002 means that data for years before and after this date are not directly comparable. Information for Scotland and Northern Ireland are matters for the respective Secretaries of State.

Statistics on the number of arrests relating to gun crime in England and Wales are not collected centrally.

High Risk Offenders

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to increase the percentage of very high and high risk offenders resident in (a) probation hostels and (b) voluntary sector hostels in England and Wales. [199977]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

HMP Belmarsh

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many prisoners are detained under his instructions at HMP Belmarsh; for how long each has been detained; and when he expects each to be released. [221450]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

HMP/YOI Parc

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on his response to the findings and concerns expressed in the Annual Report for March 2003 to February 2004 of the Independent Monitoring Group for HMP and YOI Parc published in August 2004. [224200]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Immigration and Nationality Directorate

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many referrals of

(a) immigration, (b) asylum and (c) naturalisation cases to the immigration and nationality directorate by hon. Members there have been in each year since 2001, broken down by constituency. [205113]

Mr. Browne: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he next plans to visit the Immigration and Nationality Directorate in Croydon. [220280]

Mr. Browne: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Initiatives (Funding)

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what budget has been allocated to the Home Office Marketing and Strategic Communications Unit in each of the last two years; and how many staff have been employed by the Unit in each year. [201894]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Internet Controls

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what powers his Department has to limit the availability of anti-Semitic information on the internet. [220086]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 7 March 2005]: There are a number of incitement offences in law which provide protection against anti-Semitic material. In particular, this includes the incitement to racial hatred offence in the Public Order Act 1986 which makes it an offence to use threatening, abusive or insulting words or behaviour with intention or likelihood that hatred would be stirred up on the grounds of colour, race, nationality or ethnic or national origins.

The legal position is that what is illegal off-line is illegal on-line, so provided that the elements of the offence are made out a prosecution for incitement to racial hatred could be taken for words or behaviour published on the internet.

Interpretation Services

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department, in which languages interpretation services are offered by (a) qualified interpreters and (b) non-qualified interpreters on behalf of the Immigration and Nationality Directorate at East Midlands Airport. [224998]

Mr. Browne: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Justice and Home Affairs Council

Mr. Hood: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the outcome was of the Justice and Home Affairs Council held on 24 February 2004; what the Government's stance was on the issues discussed, including its voting record; and if he will make a statement. [219451]

Caroline Flint: I represented the United Kingdom at the Justice and Home Affairs Council in Brussels on 24 February 2005. Caroline Flint attended with me, along with Cathy Jamieson (Justice Minister) of the Scottish Executive.

A list of "A" points adopted at the Council has been placed in the Library (Document 6588/05).

The proposal for a council framework decision on combating racism and xenophobia was discussed. I intervened to say that there was no need for the decision specifically to include reference to racist symbols, as their use to incite racially motivated hatred and violence was already covered in the draft Framework Decision. The matter has been referred back to the Working Group, to be discussed again at the April JHA Council.

On the proposal for a Council framework decision on the European Evidence Warrant for obtaining objects, documents and data for use in proceedings in criminal matters, the presidency sought agreement to the broad principles to be followed under the EEW in relation to dual criminality. In particular it was proposed that they should be similar to those pertaining to previous mutual recognition measures. This would include using a list of offences to which dual criminality would not apply based on the list in the European Evidence Warrant; excluding the idea of a "sunset clause", which would eventually have abolished dual criminality for all requests; and included a seriousness threshold of three years for offences. Cathy Jamieson noted the UK's support for the presidency approach and its opposition to an additional proposal to define more clearly some of the offences on the list, stating that this was inconsistent with the principle of mutual recognition and that it would create obstacles to co-operation.

Over lunch I discussed with other Ministers of the Interior the appointment of a Director for Europol. I intervened to say that the UK's position had always been that the best candidate should be selected through a fair and transparent selection process. We therefore supported the recommendation of the Europol Management Board that the German candidate, Herr Ratzel was the best candidate. The Council agreed to his selection and I noted that, for this and similar posts, it was essential that the best candidate was selected on merit, rather than nationality and that selection of individuals and sites of agencies should be considered separately. I said that, during the UK presidency, I would initiate discussion in the Council to agree an approach these issues in future.

There was a policy debate on the follow up to the Commission reports on the member states' transposition of instruments adopted on the basis of title VI of the TEU. Caroline Flint stressed that it was not enough simply to look at how measures had been transposed at a national level but to look at whether they were making a positive impact for citizens in practice.

The presidency also agreed to take forward consideration of the reports on the European Arrest Warrant and Joint Investigation Teams by the end of June in light of the discussion.

The Presidency asked member states to agree that CEPOL be given community financing and should apply ED staff regulations. The UK was able to support this approach as the firststage in establishing CEPOL and the presidency confirmed that the Working Group take work forward on that basis.

On the Commission Green Paper on Economic Migration a first exchange of views took place. Member states responded positively and the issue will be on the agenda again at the April JHA Council.

The Mixed Committee took place in the afternoon and Caroline Flint represented the UK. The Council agreed the proposal (as in document 6483/05 VISA 43) as regards the reciprocity mechanism. Council conclusions were agreed in principle on the inclusion of biometric data in visas and residence permits. Experts will be asked to continue to examine the technical issues and return to the Council in April.

The proposal for a regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council concerning the Visa Information System (VIS) and the exchange of data between member states on short stay visas was tabled and draft Council Conclusions were circulated which received broad agreement. These will be passed to COREPER to be finalised.

Under AOB the Commission presented its proposal for a regulation on local border traffic.

Also tabled was a memorial report of the anniversary of the Madrid bombings presented by the Commission and dedicated to the victims of terrorism. The draft conclusions were adopted.

Opinion Polls

Mr. Denham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what issues his Department has conducted opinion polling in the last three years. [201710]

Fiona Mactaggart: The Home Office undertakes a wide range of research activities that support the development of information led policy, including surveys of public perception and focus groups of the public that consider Home Office issues and its related areas of responsibility.

The Department conducts or commissions such work only when it is justified by the specific needs of a particular policy or programme and when this is the most economical, efficient and effective way to achieve the purpose. Consulting and involving the public helps inform both policy formulation and the delivery of better quality public services.

Areas where opinion polls (as opposed to other forms of market and opinion research) have been conducted in the last three years are:

Antisocial behaviour
CCTV
Community engagement
Community penalties
Forensic science services
Identity/entitlement cards
Impact of graffiti
Passports
Race equality
Sentencing
Victims
Voluntary organisations
Youth justice

[223182]

Ms Blears: Most grant to police authorities in England and Wales was made available to be spent at the discretion of individual authorities and chief officers.

A range of specific grants have also been made available that have enabled us to target funds where they are particularly needed. The Crime Fighting Fund, for example, has enabled us to reach and maintain record police officer numbers of over 140,000 at the end of September 2004. Other major ring-fenced funds include:

Neighbourhood Policing Fund

Community Support Officer funding

Special Priority Payments

Airwave

Street Crime Initiative
Basic Command Unit Fund
Premises Improvement Fund
DNA Expansion Programme

In addition to these, some forces will have received non-ring fenced grants such as the Rural Policing Fund and smaller grants to help with exceptionally incurred costs or to pilot new initiatives.

A definitive list of all grants paid to police authorities in England and Wales since 1996–97 is not available and could only be obtained at disproportionate cost.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the aim is of the direct communication with victims initiative; and what effect he expects it will have on pre-trial procedures between prosecutors and witnesses. [218868]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Prevention of Terrorism (Control Orders)

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals are subject to control orders. [224132]

Ms Blears: 10 people are currently the subject of non-derogating control orders under the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff are employed to run the helpline for individuals subject to control orders; what its hours of operation are; how many calls have been received; and what budget has been allocated to the running of the helpline. [224133]

Mr. Charles Clarke: The control order contact number is manned by a dedicated team of three staff who administer the Control Orders. It is manned during office hours Monday-Friday. Running costs are being met from existing budgets. Separate arrangements exist for emergency out of hours contact. In relation to the number of telephone calls received, it is not departmental policy to comment on the detailed operation of Control Orders.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what mechanisms are in place to ensure that individuals subject to control orders comply with the conditions of the order. [224147]

Mr. Charles Clarke: There are a range of measures in place to monitor compliance with the obligation imposed. Any suspected breach of the obligations will be investigated by the police.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what arrangements are in place to inform local social services when a control order is imposed on an individual. [224148]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether he plans to provide financial assistance to cover household costs for individuals subject to control orders which prevent them from working; and if he will make a statement. [224227]

Ms Blears: The Government stated within the House of Lords Committee stages of this Act that nothing within this legislation will alter the entitlement for a person in this country to receive benefits.

Control Orders are designed to address the threat posed by an individual's terrorist related activity, not to prevent individuals from gaining access to everyday living expenses.

If a control order imposed restrictions on an individual's ability to work then appropriate arrangements would be made for that individual to receive the state benefits to which s/he is legally entitled.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what arrangements are in place to provide assistance to individuals subject to control orders preventing them from visiting shops; and if he will make a statement. [224228]

Ms Blears: As was made clear within parliamentary debates surrounding this Act arrangements are and will continue to be put in place to meet the specific requirements of individual control order cases.

When deciding on the obligations to be placed on the individual proper consideration is given to ensuring that the individual has access to essential services and facilities, while restricting that individuals ability to engage in terrorism related activity.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which contractors are providing electronic tagging services for the purposes of control orders. [224229]

Ms Blears: There are two contractors, Premier Monitoring and Group4Securicor, that have five year contracts to provide electronic tagging services. The tagging services for the existing control orders are provided by Premier Monitoring.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps will be taken to inform police and probation officers responsible for local multi-agency public protection arrangements when a control order is imposed on an individual in that area. [224230]

Ms Blears: A multi-agency approach has been adopted both before and after a control order is made. The police are fully involved in this process. Probation officers would be involved where appropriate, for example, if the subject of the order was on probation.

Prevention of Terrorism Bill

Mr. Simon Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will publish the legal advice he has received regarding derogation from Article 5 of the European Charter of Human Rights for provisions under the Prevention of Terrorism Bill. [218245]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 28 February 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Annabelle Ewing: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what role he expects the Scottish courts to play in the judicial oversight of the powers to be granted to him under the Prevention of Terrorism Bill. [218547]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 28 February 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Prison/Probation Services (Competition)

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Prisoners (Foreign Nationals)

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many foreign nationals living in the United Kingdom have been sentenced to prison for criminal offences and been recommended for deportation in each of the last five years; and how many have been deported on the completion of their prison sentence. [207236]

Mr. Browne: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Prisons

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the reasons were for the release of prisoner C from Woodhill prison. [216658]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many prison places have been (a) opened and (b) closed (i) temporarily and (ii) permanently in each year since 1997, broken down by prison. [221175]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the total cost of holding the detainees in HMP Belmarsh has been to date. [222537]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The cost of keeping a Category "A" prisoner at a high security prison such as HMP Belmarsh is approximately £40,000 per annum. Taking account of time served on criminal charges, etc. we estimate that detention has cost approximately £1,300,000.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the costs of keeping the Belmarsh detainees under supervision following release on conditional bail. [222538]

Mr. Charles Clarke [holding answer 17 March 2005]: The Home Office has prepared a Regulatory Impact Assessment in relation to the Prevention of Terrorism Act. Paragraphs 42 to 51 set out the estimated public sector costs. The regulatory Impact Assessment can be found at: www.homeoffice.gov.uk/inside/legis/rias/rias.html#2005

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list for each prison and young offenders institution (a) the latest figure for the average number of hours per week of purposeful activity and (b) the percentage each of those figures is of the target set. [224182]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Win Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been achieved in each prison and young offender institution in inmates gaining nationally recognised qualifications in the last three years. [224183]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Probation Boards

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to make the employees of probation boards in England and Wales civil servants. [208717]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Probation Hostels

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many places were occupied in (a) probation hostels and (b) voluntary sector hostels in England and Wales where the offender was known to the multi-agency public protection panel on the latest date for which figures are available. [199978]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of places in hostels run by (a) the probation service and (b) the voluntary sector were allocated to sex offenders in England and Wales on the latest date for which figures are available. [199979]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many places are available in probation hostels in England and Wales; and how many were occupied by high risk offenders on the latest date for which figures are available. [201436]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to target probation hostel resources at very high risk and high risk offenders. [201437]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Probation Service

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has to accelerate the introduction of the purchaser/provider model for the Probation Service within the National Offender Management Service structure. [204007]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 15 December 2004]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of whether the purchaser/provider model proposed for the probation service will aid the ability of the probation service effectively to carry out its functions of protecting the public and reducing offending behaviour. [209632]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Prosecution Policy (Taunton)

Mr. Flook: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions he has had with the Director of Public Prosecutions with reference to the Three Strikes and You're Out policy recently introduced by police and the Crown Prosecution Service in Taunton. [208230]

Paul Goggins [holding answer 13 January 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Queen's Jubilee Medal

Tom Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Queen's Jubilee medals have been awarded (a) in total and (b) to each of the services. [206202]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Race (Young People)

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent research his Department has commissioned into young people's awareness of and attitude towards race. [224779]

Fiona Mactaggart [holding answer 6 April 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Race Relations (Amendment) Act

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police authorities have (a) complied with their statutory duties under the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000, (b) published a race equality scheme and action plan and (c) carried out race impact assessments. [216545]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many local authorities have (a) complied with their statutory duties under the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000, (b) published a race equality scheme and action plan and (c) carried out race impact assessments. [216547]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Reconvictions

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Prison and Probation Services achieved the 2004 target to reduce the rate of reconvictions of all offenders punished by imprisonment or by community supervision by 5 per cent. [224822]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Recorded Crime

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of recorded crimes resulted in a conviction in each year since 1997, broken down by recorded offence. [205330]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Regional Offices

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which (a) non-departmental public bodies and (b) executive agencies within the remit of his Department have regional offices based on the Government Offices for the Regions' regional structure; and when the regional offices were established in each case. [219879]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government have established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of his Department; [219948]

(2) which regional (a) bodies, (b) institutions, (c) taskforces, (d) panels, (e) offices and (f) organisations the Government has established since May 1997 which are the responsibility of his Department. [220188]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Rehabilitation

Mrs. Helen Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when he expects the results of the research on rehabilitation regimes to be published; and if he will make a statement. [201677]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Released Offenders

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of literacy and numeracy rates among offenders released from prison. [224825]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of the percentage of offenders who (a) get a job and (b) live in stable accommodation when they are released from prison. [224826]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

River Police

Mr. Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of (a) the relative effectiveness of policing the non-tidal Thames by each of the forces having such responsibility and (b) the percentage of the total forces resources devoted to such policing by each of the relevant police authorities. [206883]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Roadside Drug Testing

Mr. Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans he has for roadside drug testing; and what assessment he has made of the (a) value and (b) effectiveness of such tests. [221704]

Caroline Flint: We have already given the police a power to conduct compulsory roadside tests for impairment, which may be due to a drug, and for the presence of drugs.

Impairment tests are conducted in accordance with a Code of Practice issued on 20 December 2004. They involve a trained officer observing a suspect in the performance of specified tasks and making other observations about his physical state. They are based on the voluntary field impairment tests and drug recognition techniques that have been in use for some time and are of proven effectiveness in indicating whether a person might be under the influence of a drug.

Tests for the presence of drugs have to be carried out by means of a device of a type approved by the Secretary of State. We are currently developing the detailed specification for such a device and the procedures by which candidate devices might be assessed in field and laboratory trials. It will then be for manufacturers to produce such devices and submit them for approval. We currently expect that suitable products will be on the market by the end of 2006.

A reliable indication of drug presence will, in the same way as a reliable indication of impairment, valuably inform the police decision whether a person might be committing the offence of driving or attempting to drive while unfit to drive through drugs.

Royal Prerogative

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many times the royal prerogative has been used since 1975; and under what circumstances. [217977]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Royal Wedding

Llew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of additional costs to be incurred in providing security at the wedding of HRH Prince of Wales due to its change of date. [224983]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Ryan McQuigg

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the UK security agencies will process the request submitted by the Scottish Parliament for a security pass for Mr Ryan McQuigg. [222017]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Security Industry

Mr. Meale: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) if he will instruct the Security Industry Authority to make licence application forms readily available to door supervisor candidates and via their approved training provider; [220792]

(2) if he will temporarily suspend the conditionality clause covering the exemption under sub-paragraph (4) (b) of section 4 of the Private Security Industry Act 2001, pending the establishment of the approved contractor scheme; [220793]

(3) whether an approved contractor scheme under the Private Security Industry Act 2001 has been established; [220794]

(4) whether it is his policy that a person whose application to the Security Industry Authority for a licence to work as a security doorperson has not yet been considered may work as a doorperson pending that consideration; [220795]

(5) if he will delay further implementation of the provisions of the Private Security Industry Act 2001 until existing applicants have completed their training and registration and have been licensed as security door staff. [220796]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what resources have been provided to ensure that the 20 March 2006 deadline for licensing all security personnel can be met. [222344]

Ms Blears [holding answer 17 March 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Security Warnings

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many security warnings have been issued by the Home Office since 1997. [203224]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Sentencing

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions he has had with the Sentencing Guidelines Council on the consistency of sentencing. [224922]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 6 April 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Serious Organised Crime Agency

Mr. Edward Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what representations he has received from (a) HM Customs and Excise and (b) the Inland Revenue in relation to the proposed establishment of the Serious Organised Crime Agency. [218360]

Caroline Flint: Close negotiations are continuing with Her Majesty's Customs and Excise as to the funds and posts to be transferred to the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) from that Department, and to ensure effective links between SOCA and the establishment of Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs on 1 April 2005.

Sex Offenders

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many sex offenders are absent without authorisation from prisons in England and Wales. [203515]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Sexual Abuse (Historical Cases)

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many and what percentage of complainants in historical sex abuse cases have been offered (a) counselling and (b) other support at an early stage of the investigation in each year since 2001. [219311]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment his Department has made of police compliance with guidelines for the interviewing of prisoners in historical sex abuse cases; [218789]

(2) whether the Department has conducted an audit of police compliance with guidelines for the interviewing of prisoners in historical sex abuse cases. [210005]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Sikhs

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will meet representatives from (a) the Sikh Federation (UK), (b) the National Council of Gurdwaras, (c) Young Sikhs and (d) the Sikh Secretariat to discuss developments since 2001 on the Sikh Agenda for the UK Government; and if he will make a statement. [224493]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether a Minister from his Department will attend the Sikh convention in 2005 [224536]

Fiona Mactaggart: No invitation has been received to attend the Sikh Convention 2005. All invitations received by Ministers are considered on an individual basis, alongside other diary commitments.

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his Department's policy is on the wearing of the Kirpan by Sikh employees. [221664]

Fiona Mactaggart: The Criminal Justice Act 1988 makes it an offence for a person to have a bladed or sharply pointed article—other than a small folding pocket knife—in a public place, without good reason, with the onus on the knife carrier to show they have a good reason for carrying it. However, the Act exempts Sikhs from criminal prosecution on the grounds that the kirpan is a religious article. Article 13 of the Treaty of Amsterdam 1999 and the Human Rights Act 1998 also protect the right of individuals to follow their chosen religion.

Home Office staff are permitted to wear the kirpan at work.

The Home Office will be drawing up a code of practice concerning the wearing of Kirpans by Sikh employees. This will recognise the Sikh's religious freedom to carry an article of faith and will take account of the Race Relations Act 1976 and the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000.

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the Prison Service's policy is on practising Sikh officers wearing the Kirpan; and if he will discuss the issue with RESPECT. [224336]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Somali Organisations

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what his estimate is of the expenditure by his Department on UK-based Somali organisations in each year since 1997; and what consultation is undertaken by his Department with representatives of the Somali community when deciding on allocations of such expenditure. [224587]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Special Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what role is fulfilled by the third special adviser in his Department. [210489]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list the occasions between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004 when special advisers attended meetings with external representatives at which ministers were not present. [210542]

Fiona Mactaggart: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will list the speeches his special advisers made in an official capacity between 31 March 2003 and 31 March 2004, broken down by date. [210564]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Surplus Assets Sales

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the value of sales of surplus assets from his Department was in each year since 2000–01. [220964]

Fiona Mactaggart: The value of sales of surplus assets for the Core Home Office for the period 2000–01 to 2003–04 are contained in the table.

Figures for 2004–05 are not yet available.

Asset category	2003–04	2002–03	2001–02	2000–01
Sale of vehicles	28,113	16,547	62,134	48,437
Sale of plant and machinery	0	0	0	1,336
Sale of land and property	1,077,492	1,250,313	0	125,439
Total annual sales	1,105,605.00	1,266,860.00	62,134.00	175,212.00

Targets

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent progress has been made towards achieving the Public Service Agreement target to reduce crime and the fear of crime. [219098]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to reduce crime by 15 per cent. and further in high crime areas, by 2007–08 will be met. [219099]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent progress has been made towards the public service agreement target for reducing the gap between the highest Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnership areas and the best comparable areas. [219100]

Caroline Flint: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to increase the number of crimes for which an offender is brought to justice to 1.2 million by 2005–06 will be met; [219107]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of whether the public service agreement target to increase the number of crimes for which an offender is brought to justice to 1.25 million by 2007–08 will be met. [219108]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Terrorism

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the level of terrorist threat to the United Kingdom since the bomb attacks in Madrid in March 2004. [216550]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment he has made of the merits of introducing a new offence of committing acts preparatory to terrorism. [216699]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he will make a statement on co-operation of EU states against terrorism. [218792]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made in restricting the fund-raising activities of Islamist terror organisations

Mr. Charles Clarke: Al Qaeda continues to pose the greatest international terrorist threat. The UK supports UN sanctions against member and associates of al Qaeda and has supported the addition of 28 individuals and 11 entities to the UN Sanctions list since 1 March 2004. the sanctions require all 191 UN member states to freeze the assets of those listed.

More generally we have developed strong working relationships across the Government and between law enforcement agencies and the financial sector. These have enabled us to create a hostiles environment for terrorists and enabled intelligence building and counter terrorist investigations.

The role of the financial sector in this partnership has been crucial and we strongly welcome the support they have given to date and the active role they have taken in ongoing discussions on how to prevent terrorist supporters gaining access to UK financial products.

The UK is at the forefront of international activity in this area and has worked in close co-operation with partner to strengthen international standards, target countries where enforcement and legislation is week, and providing technical assistance and capacity building where necessary.

Multilateral efforts to counter terrorist financing have feature prominently on all international agendas in recent years. These efforts at both policy and operational have helped prevent terrorists from sourcing, moving and deploying their finances; and there is considerably more understanding of the nature of financial sources, flows, networks and destinations than there was at the time of the attacks in the USA in 2001.

Tetra

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate he has made of the total cost of the roll out of the Tetra police communications network; and what estimate he has made of the cost to each person liable for payment of the Sussex Police Authority precept, broken down by costs payable through (a) the precept and (b) general taxation. [220784]

Caroline Flint: The Airwave radiocommunications system network is being centrally funded by the Home Office under a PFI contract which will cost £2.3 billion at 1999 prices over the 22 years of the contract.

The costs of providing handsets and control centres are met by individual police forces. We do not have a breakdown of the costs to Sussex Police.

Precepts are a matter for local police authorities. For 2004–05 the Sussex Police Authority budget was met 29 per cent. from precept and 71 per cent. from grants.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what instructions have been issued to Sussex police regarding procedures for making complaints about the operation of the new Tetra system. [222031]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Torture-obtained Information

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2005, Official Report, column 1257W, on torture-obtained information, on how many occasions in the last year his Department has used information obtained by the use of torture in another country. [218761]

Mr. Charles Clarke: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Transphobic Crime

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what reasons underlie his Department's policy on the recording of transphobic crimes as a distinct category within hate crime reporting. [200583]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Travellers

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many full-time equivalent staff in his Department deal with issues relating to Travellers. [219878]

Fiona Mactaggart: We estimate that less than full-time equivalent deals with specific Gypsy and Traveller issues in the Home Office. This varies as work demands, and involves a number of people spending a proportion of their time.

Vehicle Licensing Checks

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many vehicles have been stopped using Automatic Number Plate Recognition technology on suspicion of being unlicensed in each of the last three months for which figures are available; and how many such vehicles were displaying a vehicle licence disc. [224506]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Violent Crime

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of violent crime recorded in Leicester was categorised as (a) violence against the person, (b) sexual offences and (c) robbery, in each year since 1999–2000. [221211]

Ms Blears [holding answer 14 March 2005]: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Gill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans his Department has to reduce the level of violent crime in (a) Leicester and (b) England and Wales. [222887]

Ms Blears: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the project to make it possible for victims of crime to track the progress of their case online was initiated; what stage the project has reached; whether it is on schedule; and what the latest estimate of the cost of this project is. [218855]

Paul Goggins: It has not been possible to provide an answer in the time available before Prorogation.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether a neighbourhood nursery was attached to the Sure Start local programme opened in June 2004 in Crosby. [219324]

Margaret Hodge: I have been asked to reply.

The Sure Start local programme in Seaforth and Bootle was approved in 2001 to provide services to 700 children under four and their families in the wards of Church and Linacre. The Neighbourhood Nursery attached to this local programme, is located in the Linacre ward and opened in June 2004 delivering 62 additional child care places to families living in the area.

The local programme delivers a range of services for families and parents within the area, including

Outreach and home visiting; support for families and parents;

Play, learn and child care facilities

Primary and community health care.

The combined expertise within the team members covers all aspect of health, education, parenting skills, practical and emotional support and social care from ante-natal stage to nursery education.

Seaforth and Bootle local programme has established a mobile toy library and the early years workers provide practical support around early learning and play.

The proportion of parents expressing no concerns about the extent of their children's language development increased from 77 per cent. in 2001–02 to 79 per cent. in 2003–04.

The community midwife provides breast feeding support sessions at birth, six weeks and 17 weeks. The rate of take up of these sessions has gone up from 34.4 per cent. in 2002–03 to 37.9 per cent. in 2003–04 at birth; 8 per cent. to 13.9 per cent. at six weeks and 4 per cent. to 8.6 per cent. at 17 weeks.

The number of women supported by post-natal depression group increased from 13 in 2002–03 to 30 women in 2003–04.
